Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Diane Sollberger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it 1/4 ly!

Diane Spenny — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Diane Spenny Changing reporting times to owners would crucially change the transparency of a company. We owners need to be regularly informed of business proceedings. After all, it is our money!

Diane Traiger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Diane Traiger Please keep the quarterly reporting requirements. It allows me to be a better investor. In addition, I can’t help but feel it levels the playing field a bit for the “little guy”

Diane Turk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Diane Turk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I oppose ending quarterly reporting. Reducing transparency benefits insiders and those who already have too much power over the stock market. It allows greater opportunities for fraud to happen and be hidden from investors. It is a disservice to small investors like me who depend upon the stock market for retirement income. This should not happen.

Diane Turpen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Diane Turpen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keeping reports quarterly will help keep accountability to corporations who try to lie about income. It helps strengthen the economic relationships in a fragmented world where people do not trust big corporations. This is important to strengthen world view and build the economy.

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Diane Van fossen reckley None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Diane Van fossen reckley I am opposed to changing the reporting frequency. We need more oversight not less

---

Diane Waldman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Diane Waldman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly Reporting

Sent from my iPhone

Dianna Shpritz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Dianna Shpritz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Transparency is paramount!

Dianne Huddle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Dianne Huddle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We currently have extreme fraud in reporting. Extending reporting requirements to six months allows for more cheating and hiding. We need more accountability and transparency NOT LESS. Dianne Huddle, Legal Administrator KEEP IT QUARTERLY

Dianne N — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Dianne N Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want to sea my quarterly reports

---

Dianne Schuman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Dianne Schuman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Regulations exist for a reason. The Panic of 1907 lasted over a year. The 1929 crash that resulted in the Great Depression were largely due to lack of regulation. Investors and the economy need quarterly reports.

---

dick chanda Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026 Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: dick chanda Please we need MORE NOT LESS reporting from all entities, private companies like this one...but also on government. Thanks.

Dick Cross — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Dick Cross Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Just another way to screw investors. What idiot dredged this fraudulent screen up again!!

Sent from my iPhone

Dick Gates — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Dick Gates Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is outrageous- do not do this to the American public!
Dr Richard Gates, Pastor

Dr. Richard Gates
3728 W. Abrams Dr.
New River, AZ. 85087
rgates1943@gmail.com
225.573.9149 Cell

---

didivolz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: didivolz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Haven't we gone backwards enough to know it just doesn't work any more? THAT is why it changed in the first place.. we gained knowledge and grew. Why do we keep moving backwards?!?!

Sent from my Galaxy

Diego Gonzalez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Diego Gonzalez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Are you outright mad? With the sums of money innundating business and society at this time, the potential for financial malfeasance is greater than any earlier time in history. And we have seen time and again what letting business regulate itself can and does often lead to.

The purpose of government is to regulate society and its functions. That is why it has existed among humans so far back as we can establish any trace. Government is necessary for prospering communities -- and states of all sizes and complexities. Let us not fall for the insanity that says removing regulatory powers of governance will lead to greater productivity and prosperity. It is simply not true.

Quarterly reporting of financial status and activity is neither onerous nor inefficient. It is a MINIMUM practical requirement to help ensure that competition among business entities is both fair and transparent. Reducing the reporting intervals reduces the number of reports overall and makes the resulting analysis subject to greater inaccuracy and increases chances of mischief for those so inclined.

The SEC was a response to a need. I needs to continue doing its job.

Diego Gonzalez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Diego Gonzalez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Are you outright mad? With the sums of money innundating business and society at this time, the potential for financial malfeasance is greater than any earlier time in history. And we have seen time and again what letting business regulate itself can and does often lead to.

The purpose of government is to regulate society and its functions. That is why it has existed among humans so far back as we can establish any trace. Government is necessary for prospering communities -- and states of all sizes and complexities. Let us not fall for the insanity that says removing regulatory powers of governance will lead to greater productivity and prosperity. It is simply not true.

Quarterly reporting of financial status and activity is neither onerous nor inefficient. It is a MINIMUM practical requirement to help ensure that competition among business entities is both fair and transparent.
Reducing the reporting intervals reduces the number of reports overall and makes the resulting analysis subject to greater inaccuracy and increases chances of mischief for those so inclined.

The SEC was a response to a need. I needs to continue doing its job.

Diego Gonzalez

Diego van Gogh The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Diego van Gogh As a partial owner of several publicly traded companies, I have no way of receiving daily up to date information. Hence, quarterly updates are an acceptable alternative. Reducing this to 2 times per year is dreadful. Especially is the AI era, there are cost saving possibilities for the company's leadership to remain giving quarterly updates, if not even monthly updates! Thank you.

Dierdre — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Dierdre Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dee Williams- Operating Engineer. Keeping quarterly reporting is the fare way to keeping investors in the know. So we can make mindful decisions about our investments

---

DIGITERRA DESIGN LLC COUNCIL OF LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURAL REGISTRATION BOARDS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: DIGITERRA DESIGN LLC I would like to continue receiving quarterly reports of companies we invest in. Less reporting equals less transparency. Thank you for the consideration of my opinion.

Dileep Idate — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dileep Idate I am retired. I manage my own retirement savings, which are invested in public companies. I meet the living expenses via capital gains and dividends. I check company updates every quarter to ensure that my savings are safe and invested correctly. The proposal to reduce the financial updates from these companies from 4/year to 2/year will increase the risk on my savings. Please do not do it. Thank you.

Dimitri Artzibushev, CCIM Motley Fool member — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dimitri Artzibushev, CCIM Keep the quarterly reporting, Reducing only hides results and will cause more severe investor reactions

---

Dinah Massie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Dinah Massie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need more transparency, not less, in financial matters. The SEC is our watchdog: Keep it that way.

Dinah Massie
8806 Vasco da Gama Trce
Houston, TX 77044

---

dinkmcqs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: dinkmcqs Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the quarterly reporting. I'm a small time investor, and i think it's important for the insight.
Thank you, Sean McHugh
San Diego, CA

Dion — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dion Changing to a semi-annual could cause information gaps, cover up sudden financial damage and won't get investors timely up to date information. Don't change to semi-annual!

---

dirk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: dirk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dirk Owen semi retired. Please keep your quarterly reporting as is. Open and honest facts matter!!! Thank you!

Dirk Owen
Applause Productions
Partyfest Tradeshow
214 652-4300 office
214 837-2271 cell
www.ApplauseProductions.com

Dirk Borowski Journalist — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dirk Borowski I am for Company reporting 4x a year and against semianual reporting. I own shares of Companies and blind flying ownership does not make the american market more attraktive.

Dirk Sutherland The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dirk Sutherland Thank you for the opportunity to comment on this proposed regulation to reduce public company reporting to twice a year from the current four times a year requirement. I'm against this proposal with concerns that less information will create higher risk and higher volatility in the market. As a partial owner of public companies that I have stock in, I want to know consistently what's happening what's not happening what could happen? That's why these quarterly reports are important to me as an investor. Please do not move forward with this proposal and keep the reporting requirements at four times per year. Again, thanks for the opportunity to comment. Kind regards, Dirk Sutherland.

Dirty Old Lady's League — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Dirty Old Lady's League Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I lived during the ENRON story. It was a horror for so many. Please keep the CEOs responsible, and signing the QUARTERLY REPORT.

Mary Dumas
Tewksbury Massachusetts

Sent from my iPhone

Dissez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Dissez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Scott Callow, retired.

California. I am writing to demand that Quarterly Reporting be maintained. As someone who has managed my retirement investments for decades, accurate and timely information has been critical to me for making decisions and weathering down times in the market. Transparency is also critical for limiting fraud. There is no reasonable reason to eliminating the current policy, with the exception of impoverishing the American Public.

Sent from my iPhone

Divy Jyoti Sharma — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Divy Jyoti Sharma Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 0lease keep Quarterly reporting we need to see how companies are performing to make informed decisions.

Regards,
Divy Jyoti Sharma

Divya Campbell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Divya Campbell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting keep consumers informed about their investments. Cutting them will make companies dishonest and make everyday Americans unable to make informed decisions about their investments over time.

Divya Campbell, Elder Caregiver

---

dixie small — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: dixie small Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yes they need to be quarterly reports to keep them honest!

Sent from my iPhone

Dixie Stephens — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Dixie Stephens Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The current policy works and protects all of us. KEEP reporting quarterly.

Dixie Stephens

Sent from my iPhone

DJ Phelps — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: DJ Phelps Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I prefer quarterly updates so I can stay on top of my investments. I also think there’s more chance that the “ average joe” will miss out on opportunities with semi-annual reporting.

Best Regards,
Danna Phelps

Dj Tsun — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Dj Tsun Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Need to keep it

Best

Tom A

4438022565 https://www.gigmasters.com/event-dj/dj-tsun

DK Wilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: DK Wilson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: it sounds like you're trying to cover up fraud by only reporting it bi-annually. Full transparency is what the American people want with everything that's going on in our country right now. So keep it accordingly!

DL Bickford — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: DL Bickford Consider for a moment that information is vital in all parts of our democracy! Investors big and small deserve timely and accurate information about the companies they follow. This principle reduces the chances of concealment of business corruption, that has lead to bankruptcies and bailouts. The more everyone knows and sees the stronger our entire economy!

---

dlw22221 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: dlw22221 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a firm believer for quarterly statements. The quarterly reporters kept the stock holders and public aware of the company’s progress, good and bad. They allow all the stake holders a glimpse of the company’s performances and opportunity to act accordingly. Please keep these quarterly reports requirements.

Dominic Woo

Doc Rivers — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Doc Rivers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am an investor and own several stocks in multi companies who are compliant using the quarterly reporting. This has allowed me to review my short term earnings vs long term goals and to either buy or sell with confidence.
However moving to a six month reporting is just bad for investors like me.
I don't wish to write a dissertation here.
My vote and opinion as a citizen investor is to stay quarterly reporting.

Rudy Rios
Rivers Process Service

Confidentiality Notice:
This e-mail, including all attachments, is for the sole use of the intended recipient(s) and may contain confidential and privileged information. Any unauthorized review, use, disclosure or distribution is prohibited. If you are not the intended recipient, please contact the sender and destroy all copies of this message.

Dodge White — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dodge White I believe changing from quarterly reporting to semi-annual reporting is not in the best interests of individual investors of any kind. As fast as the world moves these days and as easy as it now is to submit information to investors, which really are hands off owners of such companies, this is going in the wrong direction. If anything, it would make far greater sense to go the other direction and have companies report bi-monthly, or even monthly. I hope the SEC does what is best for the investors of public companies which is keeping those investors as well informed as possible regarding their holdings.

Dogfoodmatt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Dogfoodmatt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Me: Entrepreneur, retail operator, self-employed handyman, church going, Roman Catholic, 63 yr old Taxed To The Max, Proud U.S. Citizen, flabbergasted by the the way things are going and the stuff people are getting away with, also appalled and alarmed with the federal government activities & arresting US citizens, also embarrassed that the US federal government cannot stand or uphold their word to our immigrants. * right I wanna see their quarterly reports. Some of these dang people need to be paying their fair share in taxes. Close all these dang loopholes. Stop diminishing programs that help everyday Americans. My Lord, a large percentage of the military is food challenged. Or food insecure. What the hell is our government doing? They have big salaries they get paid insurance. They have all kinds of perks, they have heat and air-conditioning, paid days off. and they've done nothing for the American people. I say we cut their salaries. They allocate money to foreign nations while we scratch and starve. As we live in fear that we would have to or use our medical system. This is not the America I grew up in. This is not the American dream I was taught.

Doggidy Doo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Doggidy Doo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear Secretary [Last Name],

I am writing to express my concern regarding a potential conflict of interest in this matter. This issue should be decided by Congress and the public, rather than through a secretarial decision.

Licks and Wags,

Doggidy Doo Crew

Doggidy Doo has a dog for you!

Licks and Wags,

Doggidy Doo Crew

Doggidy Doo has a dog for you!

---

dolly southwell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: dolly southwell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 CEOs need to be accountable. If our companies become lies. We will be totally unhinged. Please keep us true to our word. I was a ceo of a small business. Different, but my truth was my success. Please keep quarterly reports coming

Sent from my iPhone

Dolores Sartor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Dolores Sartor Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Too much fraud could be perpratrated. We need more transparency not less. To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

Dominic Irto Private Investor, Motley Fool Community"" — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dominic Irto Imagine reading the paper or watching the news once a week, or once a month? Or receiving bank statements or brokerage statement semi-annually? In this day and age information is more important than ever. Circumstances can change dramatically in a day. Quarterly reporting should NOT be changed to semi-annual. For investors to prosper, using information from quarterly reports is more efficient than semi-annual. It also seems that transparency will be greatly diminished.

Dominick Maragni — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Dominick Maragni Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don’t try to fix something that’s Good for the middle class investors!

Sent from my iPhone

Dominick Maragni — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Your E-Mail Address Doesn’t Work From: Dominick Maragni Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026
Comment: What's your opinion on quarterly reporting?
Add your name, job title, and why this matters to you.
Personal details make your comment harder to ignore.

Don’t try to fix something that’s Good for the middle-class investors!

Get Outlook for iOS

Dominique Dancourt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Dominique Dancourt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Everyone has a right to be treated equally. If you don't it's the death of the market

---

DON ADAMS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: DON ADAMS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop this

Sent from my iPad

Don Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Don Anderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING

Sent from my iPhone

Don Baggett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Don Baggett Viewing stock ownership as ownership in a company I want to hear what the company is doing and how it is doing more than twice a year. Hearing information four times a year does not mean I have to act on it every time I hear it.

Don Brickey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Don Brickey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
To who it may concern.
i submit for the record of XTIA, SEQUENTIAL COLLAPSE AND REBIRTH AS A DRONE COMPANY ONLY BY SCRAPPING THE HYPED EVTOL ABANDONED , NOW OWNERS OF DRONE NERDS AND SHINNING EXAMPLE OF THE NESSECITY OF QUARTERLY REPORTING, RETAIL INVESTORS ARE ALREADY AT A TREMENDOUSE DISADVANTAGE TO THE CORP RAIDERS AND P.T. BARNUM CEOS LYING THROUGH THIER TEETH. DONT * THE RETAIL INVESTORS BY ALOWING LESS VISABILITY TO VALIDATE THE LYING CEO PARADE ON T.V. AND DURING QRTLY REPORTS THAT NEVER AD UP !

Don Chase — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Don Chase I like to know that companies I've invested in are reporting quarterly, as that tells me they're at least 4 times in a year remembering me and my investment. I'm nobody big, and I'm fine being lumped in a group of unanimous others, but if you drop the reporting requirement to 2/year I'm even further cut off from them and my investment. I like knowing what's going on.

Don Cherry FCPA and Retired Associate Professor of Accounting, Dalhousie University — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Don Cherry Fewer official reports, issued in accordance with established requirements and guidelines, will result in less reliable information being available for investors, with the vacuum being filled with more speculation and (often self-serving) comments by insiders and "analysts".

Don Duncan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Don Duncan Why is this SEC trying to take us back to days when only people with close affiliations to companies were able to obtain information. We as individuals need as up to date information as we can obtain to make informed decisions and how a company is performing is vital to making sound investment decisions. Not reporting timely and accurately leads us down the path of Enron with people’s financial futures at stake. Reporting at a minimum once a quarter should not be viewed as a burden. This information is generated in house and is being used internally daily, therefore as public companies it should be made public. In fact with the world and business environment changing as fast as it is one could very well argue for monthly reporting and with AI a good part of what is required for this reporting could very well be automated. This administration ran on transparency and all we are seeing are changes to coverup and hide information.

Don Isabell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Don Isabell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it the way it is now

---

Don Isabell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Don Isabell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is BS, make them stay accountable to remain honest. They're being paid well to do the job & they knew what it consisted of.

---

don jollota — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: don jollota Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 PLEASE KEEP REPORTING A QUARTERLY REQUIREMENT.

Lowering reporting frequency will save some costs at the expense of much higher RISK at detecting malfeasance.

There is no cost to KEEP IT QUARTERLY - so don't change it.
Thank you,
Donald Jollota

Don Klingensmith Jr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Don Klingensmith Jr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don Klingensmith, Jr Retired dairy farmer, factory worker, HVAC Tech, Heavy Equipment operator Construction, and Building & Fleet Manager. I was laid off for three years starting in 2008. Let’s NOT make the same mistake again!

Get Outlook for iOS

Don Kostyal None - personal investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Don Kostyal I wish to submit my objection to the proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. With the speed data information is processed today, cutting back on reporting only means less information and stale information.

---

don nace — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: don nace Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Once again big business, the rich and politicians are all planning on stealing more money from common people.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Don Nicholls — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Don Nicholls Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No, don't want this, bad for me and millions more.
Don
Retired Management

Don O. Richardson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Don O. Richardson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop the madness...continue quarter reporting

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Don Oswald — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Don Oswald Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting.
Don Oswald, retired and keeping tabs on my IRA.

Sent from my iPhone

Don Pinaud Accredited Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Don Pinaud The proposal to allow public companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two is a mistake that is unnecessary and motivated by foolish considerations at best and nefarious ones at worst. No one can argue with integrity that keeping the investing public less informed is better for public investing. As such the only possible argument in support of less reporting is that it saves money for the reporting companies. This is ironically absurd in a time where AI is exploding and in essentially no time at all the burden of reporting 4 times or 40 times a year will be almost nill. Of all times in history to attempt to justify reducing transparency of public companies, today is the most ridiculous, with all due respect. The reporting requirements should not be reduced. It’s completely unnecessary, it does a disservice to the public, and in the advent of upcoming AI any company that wants to report less frankly has a negative reason to do so. And if that’s the case, that’s all you need to know the reporting requirements should not be reduced. Owners of shares in public companies deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. To erode that requires strong justification of need. There is none. The rule should not be changed.

Don Porter Motley fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Don Porter Good day, It would be a serious mistake to reduce reporting from 4 times per year to 2 times per year. As investors more information makes us better investors. These companies represent our retirement income . This is a big deal. Thank you for your consideration KEEP IT LIKE IT IS NOW

Don Quest — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Don Quest Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it QUARTERLY!!!

---

don stacom — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: don stacom As a stockholder for the past 35 years, I deeply disagree with proposed rule S7-2026-15 and ask that you scuttle it. Despite arguments in its favor, the rule would weaken accountability, transparency, reporting discipline and investor access to information .... all factors that affect the viability of our markets. Lowering confidence for small investors is NOT in the best interests of the country or the market.

Don Valenzano Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Don Valenzano I believe there should be mandatory quarterly reporting and not reducing it to semi annual reporting!

Don't Look — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Don't Look Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need MORE transparency in our financial institutions, not less. Monthly disclosures would be better still. Keep politicians out of our pocket books

David Louis. Sent from my iPhone

DONA WARD — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: DONA WARD Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dona Ward says don’t mess with investments!

Sent from my iPhone

Donald Allen Private Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Donald Allen 2 reports a year is simply insufficient to draw reasonable and professional conclusions on a company's well being. In the age of AI it should be easier for companies to disclose on a quarterly basis

---

Donald Benoit Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Donald Benoit As a consumer and investor/owner primarily in the U.S. markets I believe less frequent business reporting to not be in the best interest of any investor but maybe especially the individual investor. Please consider carefully the effect on the investor of only requiring twice yearly company reports to the shareholders. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Donald Black — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donald Black Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don’t change the reporting requirements, keep them as they are.

Donald Ellis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donald Ellis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This rule would be fine if we c could trust companies to do the right thing, but history shows us we can not! Maybe if all C suite officers have to sign that the report is truthful with mandatory prison terms if it isn't, this would work.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

---

donald everette — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: donald everette Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't cut anything. They make to much anyway.

---

donald huckins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: donald huckins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There needs to be quarterly reporting,needs to be accountability. The elites and big corporations find enough loopholes as it is that cost the middle class and anyone making less than middle class wage earners. Is there even a middle class anymore? The government and big corporations should be ashamed of themselves!

Donald J Schmidt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Donald J Schmidt I prefer quarterly results as that gives a more current picture of the entity.

DONALD J WETZEL MOTLEY FOOL — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: DONALD J WETZEL FD RULE SHOULD STAY AS IS. BECAUSE THE INFORMATION CRITAL TO SUBSTANTIVE INVESTING BY ALL PEOPLE THAT RISK THERE SAVING IN THE STOCK MARKET.

Donald Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donald Martin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This Administration is ripping off the American people...

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Donald Munro The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Donald Munro We need more information, not less.

---

donald olivie retired dentist — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: donald olivie It is wrong to lengthen reporting periods.A investor could be really affected by not receiving timely reports on stocks that he or she holds

---

Donald P Bianchi II — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Donald P Bianchi II I do not support semi annual reporting as proposed. As an investor, I feel it is imperative to keep quarterly reporting as a standard. Technology is increasingly being used to eliminate workers, it can't be that difficult to harness it to create reports 4x a year. Change happens much too fast, I expect if a company wants me to invest my hard earned dollars, they can consider this a cost of doing business.

Donald Smith-Weiss — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donald Smith-Weiss Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting was instituted after terrible abuses were uncovered. Let's keep people and corporations as honest as possible by regular accounting.

Donald Smith-Weiss
Nashua, NH

Sent from my iPhone

Donald Srygley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Donald Srygley We need more transparency not less . please do not reduce the number of filings for public corporations. Thank you Don Srygley

---

Donald Stroup — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Donald Stroup Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think the guesstimate of loss, reporting twice a year is grossly underestimated. The market is like a yo-yo everyday. In my opinion highly manipulated. Imagine how a portfolio would look if you saw reports only twice a year. Monthly reports may be/seem excessive but, it would afford the common investor a better picture of how to handle investments. With all the "insider trading" by our government officials, I can see why they would want to cut reporting frequency. With the accounting staff of these large corporations, they know how their business is performing each day. How can it be fair to the investor for them to divulge their performance only twice per year? They have the data daily, report it at least quarterly. I realize this is likely a waste of my time, knowing that I'm reporting to an organization that can periodically vote to raise their own salary by whatever amount they see fit, while only "working" six months out of the year and still drawing pay when they shut the government down. While granting a COLA to Social Security of only 3% and take half of that away with an increase in Medicare.

Donald Stroup 84, retired, Olathe KS.

Don

Donald Ware — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Donald Ware Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm retired and have money invested in American companies. Before investing, I rely on current information about the companies I want to invest in. The SEC Proposal to do away with quarterly reports would leave me having to rely on "Web influencers" and fake news about companies. Insiders and large investors already have an enormous advantage over me and other retail investors. This proposal is just making things worse for the small investors.

Donald Watkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Rule S7-2026-15_Comment in Opposition From: Donald Watkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026
FORMAL OPPOSITION TO SEC RULE S7-2026-15

My name is Donald V. Watkins. I oppose SEC Rule S7-2026-15.

I was the lead criminal defense attorney for Mr. Richard M. Scrushy in the $2.7 billion HealthSouth accounting fraud case (2003 to 2005). In November 2003, Mr. Scrushy was indicted on 85 fraud-related felony counts relating to all 10-Qs and 10-Ks filed by HealthSouth from 1996 to 2003. Mr. Scrushy was the CEO of HealthSouth at the time.

Mr. Scrushy always maintained his innocence. Because Scrushy was personally unaware of the long-running and very sophisticated accounting fraud scheme perpetuated by 15 or so top and mid-level HealthSouth executives, he prevailed on all criminal charges against him.

Following Mr. Scrushy’s acquittal on June 28, 2005, federal prosecutors in Birmingham, Alabama dropped all criminal charges against former HealthSouth President and COO Jim Bennett in July 2005. Mr. Bennett was indicted in February 2005 on more than 30 counts, including conspiracy, fraud, money laundering, and insider trading. Mr. Bennett served as the company’s president and chief operating officer from 1995 to 2000.

Fourteen former HealthSouth executives pleaded guilty to charges related to the massive $2.7 billion accounting fraud scheme, while one vice president was subsequently convicted by a jury.

I am intimately familiar with the crimes committed by the following HealthSouth executives in furtherance of their accounting fraud scheme:
1. Hannibal Crumpler: Former vice president and division controller. He was the only executive convicted by a jury and was sentenced to eight years in federal prison.
2. William T. Owens: Former chief financial officer. He pleaded guilty and received a five-year prison sentence.
3. Weston Smith: Former chief financial officer (and whistleblower). He pleaded guilty and served 14 months in federal prison.
4. Aaron Beam: Former co-founder and chief financial officer. He pleaded guilty and served three months in prison.

5. Michael (Mike) Martin: Former chief financial officer. He pleaded guilty and received a sentence of one week in prison.
6. Malcolm (Tad) McVay: Former chief financial officer. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to probation.

Other executives and accounting personnel who pleaded guilty and cooperated with the government include:
• Rebecca Kay Morgan (Group vice president of accounting)
• Cathy Edwards (Vice president for asset management)
• Kenneth Livesay (Chief information officer)
• Angela Ayers (Vice president for finance and accounting)
• Virginia Valentine (Assistant vice president of finance)
• Jason Brown (Former Vice President of Finance)
• Thomas Carman (Former Vice President)
• Emery Harris (Former Vice President of Finance and Assistant Controller): Sentenced to five months in federal prison, followed by three years of supervised release (including five months of home detention), and ordered to pay a $106,500 forfeiture.
• Will Hicks (Former Vice President of Investments): Sentenced to three months of home detention, a $2,500 fine, and a $50,000 asset forfeiture.

Any rule that eliminates the four sworn quarterly filings of a public company's financial condition and authorizes semi-annual filings of this information will open the floodgates for the type of accounting fraud schemes that eluded detection by Richard Scrushy, by HealthSouth's board-level audit committee, by HealthSouth's "Big 4" external auditing firms, by HealthSouth's very sophisticated Wall Street bankers and institutional financing partners, by SEC regulators in Atlanta and Washington, by large pension funds and other institutional investors, and by individual investors for many years. In fact, it took a whistleblower/participant to alert SEC regulators to the undetected, long-running HealthSouth accounting fraud scheme.

The reduced number of sworn financial disclosures embodied in SEC Rule S7-2026-15 will make a bad situation worse. With the rise of paradigm-shifting AI capabilities for publicly traded companies, sophisticated accounting fraud schemes like the one at HealthSouth are much easier for bad corporate actors to perpetrate today than they were from 1996 to 2003. Rather than deterring the kind of accounting fraud scheme that occurred at HealthSouth, SEC Rule S7-2026-15 would have the operative effect of aiding and abetting it.

If you need more information about the adverse impact of SEC Rule S7-2026-15, please contact me at: dvw@donaldwatkins.com.

/s/Donald V. Watkins
Donald V. Watkins

West Sacramento, California 95691
www.donaldwatkins.com
205-223-2294

Doni — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: RE: S7-2026-15 From: Doni Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If that was not clear, I want the money Rick Howard phony "fiduciary" caused me to lose as a vengeful, dishonorable cheat. A mean human, who should pay for the criminally negligent 'advice' he gave me, that ripped $15,000.00 away from a frail, old woman, who worked hard 40 years and wanted nothing more than to travel the world, and see the beauty of our planet, without harming a soul. I am not a MAGAnut...I am an elderly woman with no children, and a heart that is now failing because I was blindsided by this Trump administration, and his servant Rick Howard. I'm deeply traumatized to be at the end of my life knowing there are people who could have done "kind" deeds, but chose to be vengeful, and gut the accounts of the old, and cost us our lives.

Doni

From: "Doni" <dmarquart@austin.rr.com>
To: <rule-comments@sec.gov>, <copy@keepitquarterly.org>
Sent: June 22, 2026 at 9:39 PM MDT
Subject: S7-2026-15
American's cannot trust the SEC as long as there is a dictator in office. I am suing my fiduciary who cost me $15,000 for closing my investment account, and transferring it to another. He lied to me. Clearly. I am suing him, but how will I get justice from a system that is built on lying and cheating, and taking our money, for yourselves?? I'm sick of being in the United States. The people in this country have allowed an angry, ugly, ignorant pustule on the buttcheek of humanity, become the "leader", and he's turned this country in to Chumpistan. It's disgusting, it's untenable, and I'm not going to be a part of it. When I go out, I'm taking a lot of you assholes with me if I'm capable. I'm old, and I know "that's your plan"...You will con the old folks out of their savings, and make off like bandits into the sunset, but I'm not going with out letting you ugly Americans know how deeply you've ruined my country. GIVE ME MY COUNTRY BACK.

Doni — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Doni Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 How am I supposed to sue my investment "fiduciary" (what a fooking joke) Rick Howard of Raymond James (in San Angelo, you've been warned. He gives BAD advice), when the SEC is just as corrupt, and morally bankrupt as HE is? America is truly gone, and we are being subjugated to a cheap mobster who's keeping everyone in line by hiding their predilection for pretty young girls under wraps...FOR NOW.

Doni — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Doni Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 American's cannot trust the SEC as long as there is a dictator in office. I am suing my fiduciary who cost me $15,000 for closing my investment account, and transferring it to another. He lied to me. Clearly. I am suing him, but how will I get justice from a system that is built on lying and cheating, and taking our money, for yourselves?? I'm sick of being in the United States. The people in this country have allowed an angry, ugly, ignorant pustule on the buttcheek of humanity, become the "leader", and he's turned this country in to Chumpistan. It's disgusting, it's untenable, and I'm not going to be a part of it. When I go out, I'm taking a lot of you assholes with me if I'm capable. I'm old, and I know "that's your plan"...You will con the old folks out of their savings, and make off like bandits into the sunset, but I'm not going with out letting you ugly Americans know how deeply you've ruined my country. GIVE ME MY COUNTRY BACK.

Doni Jones Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Doni Jones I am against allowing companies to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. A lot can happen in that 6 month time with these companies. Regular reporting help knowing changes that are being made positive or negative.

Donn McMahan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Donn McMahan Required reporting should be required on a quarterly basis, as currently. Less frequent reporting is inherently less transparent, and gives less confidence to investors.

Donn Rosenblum — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donn Rosenblum Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an investor, it is imperative that publicly traded companies be required to submit public reports at least quarterly to ensure that investors, or potential investors, will be able to make informed decisions based on current information. Reducing the reporting period to every six months will mean that investors will be in the dark.

Donna — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donna Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We have the right to know.

Donna — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donna Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We have the right to know. My name Donna Evans Howard Campbell. I worked in spinning. My husband worked sense he was 13 teen. We need to know what's going on with everything. We work and pay taxes. My husband was Ronald Allen Campbell. He has passed. He worked at Eden Yarns. His last job at Frontier spinning. Keep it Quarterly.
Donna Evans Howard Campbell. I changed my name back to Howard . Thank you.

Donna Allen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donna Allen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please let the people know how the business is doing. We are your customers. I hear that consumers drive a large part of the economy. So please keep us informed and strong to keep America great. Thank you.

Donna Allinger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donna Allinger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This should not be done. We need to know what is happening

Sent from my iPhone

Donna Atkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donna Atkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Donna Atkins, HS Teacher, Keep investment statements quarterly, please. It's imperative to manage money effectively unless it's quarterly. It also shows changes in interest best quarterly before there's more losses. Donna

Sent from my iPhone

---

donna bannonandhebert.com — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: donna bannonandhebert.com Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would anyone think that this is a good idea? It serves to protect rich investors and hurts small investors.

---

donna Brown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: donna Brown Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Donna Brown, I am a caregiver to my husband. We need to keep corporations honest and fair, and quarterly reporting is the norm because that is what makes people want to invest in US instead of international stocks.

Donna Cleveland — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donna Cleveland Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Not good for small investors !

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Donna Creech — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donna Creech Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Donna Creech Retired public involvement manager

As someone who has been involved over 30 years in keeping the public informed about various government, school, and hospital actions and activities, I believe strongly that transparency benefits everyone. To allow companies to sit on financial information that is vital to investors and the public for six months is too long. Too much can go wrong in six months in this fast paced world we live in. I object to extending this reporting to six months from three when so many markets and investors rely on this information.

Thank you for allowing me to register this objection.

Sent from my iPhone

---

donna dallmann — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: Quarterly reporting From: donna dallmann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We must keep quarterly reporting. We can no longer trust that companies will be honest.

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Donna Frazier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donna Frazier Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Mrs Frazier. I am retired and rely on my investments for income, I want to see company reporting to remain quarterly

Sent from my iPhone

Donna Frederick-Neznek — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Donna Frederick-Neznek Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly Reports Only!
I am a disabled retired teacher ,
I cannot afford to lose anything more!
This will devastate my pittance limited finances. Don't do this, please

---

Donna French — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Donna French Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly Reporting! Investors have the Right to Know how There Companies are doing! CEO's should be held accountable for Honest, Quarterly Financial Reporting!

Sent from my iPad

Donna Gentry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donna Gentry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly
D Gentry
President

Se

Donna Hamilton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Donna Hamilton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Good morning, my name is Donna Hamilton and as an American Citizen I am sick to death of the absolute lawlessness of the current administration and the fact that everyone there seems to have lost their ever loving minds! Unless the Trump Syndicate is successful at turning our country into a dictatorship - EVERYONE WHO PARTICIPATED IN THE CORRUPTION WILL FALL AND SPEND DECADES IN PRISON! I expect you people to do the job that you were hired to do to keep our laws tight and prevent more corruption from happening so DO YOUR *ED JOB and stop trying to make things easier for the criminals and harder for the rest of us. You should be looking to EXPAND THE LAWS that keep the greedy, arrogant, amoral and unethical as law-abiding as possible so get to it and STOP PROTECTING THE CRIMINALS!

Donna Irlbeck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donna Irlbeck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Donna Irlbeck. Retired Personal Banker
Keep reports quarterly. I need to know the status of my holdings that I rely on for all future spending/saving on a quarterly basis. Semi-annual reports are not sufficient - a lot can happen in 6 months! I want the ability to keep tracking my holdings.

Thank you!

Donna Jagielski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Donna Jagielski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly results please. Easier to follow, track, plan and I am pretty sure any FRAUD would be earlier caught. What prompted this?

Donna Jennings — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donna Jennings Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We want quarterly. We have saved and invested for over 40 years. We deserve quarterly reporting!

Get Outlook for iOS

Donna Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donna Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep Quarterly Reporting, so we can know how our investment is being impacted in the business. Sincerely, Donna Johnson

Sent from my iPhone

Donna Joss — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donna Joss Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Allowing a company to avoid responsibility for their actions for 6 months at a time gives them the freedom to deceive the very people who invest their money in the company, thereby making it profitable. I'm an 87 year old investor, I cannot afford to lose my hard earned money while big corporations profit. The SEC should protect people like me over big corporations who make millions.

Donna Joss

retired teacher

Donna Kirby — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donna Kirby Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Donna Kirby
Keep the quarterly reporting for transparency and less fraud. I am retired and depend on my investments for my income. I don't have a pension to fall back on and I am widowed and 82 years old.

Sent from my iPhone

Donna L Lewis, J.D. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Donna L Lewis, J.D. The dismantling of essential protections previously deemed essential is beyond disheartening. Knowing that Trump's SEC is currently considering removing an essential safeguard, one that retail investors in particular rely on in making critical decisions regarding investments, is distressing. What in terms of the public good is to be achieved by removing the current reporting requirements? Please elaborate, for I am not alone in finding absolutely no justification for that action. I suspect no such justification has been offered for the simple reason that none exists. As an investor I urge the SEC to leave the current reporting requirements in place.

Donna Larkin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donna Larkin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting by quarter. Corporations already have incentives to lie and cheat. Now, they will hide in the shadows until it's too late for the rest of us to know what's going. On.

Sincerely,

Donna Larkin
Educator

Donna Leet — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Donna Leet Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 From an investor's point of view, regular reporting creates a level playing field of information, fostering trust and providing the public and potential investors with the data needed to make informed decisions.
Why hide if everything is above board?

Donna Leet

Donna Lynn Wells — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donna Lynn Wells Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC,
No dark reporting - 6 months. Please keep QUARTERLY REPORTING.
Donna Wells
NC

Donna MacLeod — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donna MacLeod Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 PLEASE PLEASE remain Quartey

Sent from my iPhone

Donna Millard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Donna Millard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I do read my quarterly balance sheets and the report from my broker explaining the thinking/strategy behind the investments. No surprises +or- at the end of the year.

---

donna mize — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: donna mize Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm now retired, but worked for forty years. I'm concerned about my savings lasting for these last years. There's so much fraud happening these days. Please continue to require quarterly reporting. We need protection!

Sent from my iPhone

Donna Mosley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Donna Mosley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Accountability for 4 years . It should be every year. Just like t h e rule you put on the people

---

Donna Munden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donna Munden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To reduce transparency time just gives the people of America, including me, another reason to not trust in another institution in our world. It gives people who don't care about the monies another control over our lives and monies. No Way!!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Donna Polhamus — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Donna Polhamus Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 After Enron this law protected us. Please keep it.
Donna Polhamus

Dunedin. FL 34698

Donna Ray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Donna Ray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Donna Ray - retired.
We are living in a time when massive fraud is abundant. Keeping quarterly reports keeps people honest. It's obvious what happens when reports are every 6 months. That's why it went to quarterly. Please keep quarterly to keep reporting honest.

Sent from my iPhone

Donna Reeve — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Donna Reeve Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly reporting is minimum for keeping companies honest.
Keep sec reporting quarterly.

Donna Richardson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Donna Richardson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Of course, this corruption with no accountability must be stopped.

Sent from my iPhone

Donna S. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donna S. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please continue quarterly reporting to hold businesses accountable and transparent to all, including shareholders. This is important for the economy and investors. If reporting is less, folks will divest from the stock market and from supporting businesses-please keep quarterly reporting as a requirement. Donna Sherry, Dentist

---

Donna Smith CPA CBV — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Donna Smith Reporting only six months is not sufficient for investors to feel comfortable. Quarterly reporting allows good tracking of the company status and allows more informed decisions. Companies want to be public then they need to know they have a duty to update their investor regularly.

---

donna tolbert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: donna tolbert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think this would be a disaster for investors not to mention unfair to all investors. This does not keep the public informed or on even footing in their financial portfolios I asked you to reconsider.

Donna Townsend — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Donna Townsend Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep quartly reports. I want to know what is going on with my stuff !

Donna Townsend — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donna Townsend Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leave it alone. Change will not help the public but it will help companies to do things we don't want

Sent from my iPhone

Donna Watkins Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Donna Watkins Please continue the existing standard for quarterly company reporting.

Donna Yarter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Donna Yarter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Stop supporting the criminal in Chief at the White House. You are letting the fox lose in the hen house. Protect the people of American, just my 5 cents worth. People are watching what is happening in this Country.

---

donnadignity — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: donnadignity Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Longer gaps create an unfair advantage for corporate insiders, along with more current losses updates and additional fraud cover-up time.

Donna Freeberg
Cell: 612-325-4889
_____
Portfolio: http://www.candlewoodproductions.com/dfreeberg/

LinkedIn http://www.linkedin.com/in/dfreeberg
Twitter https://twitter.com/dfreeberg123
Facebook https://www.facebook.com/dfreeberg
Wordpress Blog http://dfreeberg.wordpress.com

DonnaZ @ Charter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: DonnaZ @ Charter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This total disrespect of the investors. Investors need to know what is happening footnotes carry invaluable information. Keep quarterly reports or you SEC have lost your credibility!

Sent from Donna's iPhone.
“Life is a play. It’s not the length, but its performance that counts.” Greek philosopher and dramatist Seneca

“Travel is fatal to prejudice, bigotry, and narrow-mindedness, and many of our people need it sorely on these accounts. Broad, wholesome, charitable views of men and things cannot be acquired by vegetating in one little corner of the earth all one's lifetime.” Mark Twain “Innocents Abroad, ”

Donnetta Policarpo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Donnetta Policarpo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please don't discontinue the quarterly reporting that keeps the proper checks and balances in place with transparency that in necessary.
Thank you,
Donetta

Donnia Watkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donnia Watkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Onnia Watkins, Retired. We need to keep some balance of wealth in this Country. And ONLY the Government can stop the catering to Business rather than citizens.

Donnie Howard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Donnie Howard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Accurate and timely information is the lifeblood of financial markets.
That is why we need to keep quarterly reporting. If we have a system that is working for the people whose savings are riding on the truth, why change it?
Maybe the stock market is being set up for inside traders to steal from everyone else.

---

donniell — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: donniell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting needs to be kept in place. Life and finances fluctuate, the ability to make decisions on a quarterly basis is extremely important.

Sent from my Galaxy

Dono B. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dono B. The owner should have the right to know the business they owned. We conduct a bi-monthly meeting with the management. Before we have a monthly meeting. I prefer a quarterly report.

Donovan Walker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Donovan Walker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly Reporting!

Sent from my iPad

DOREEN L — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: DOREEN L Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
SEC must make CEOs accountable and responsible for their actions.To maintain this on a consistent bases every quarter.

Dori Fontes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Dori Fontes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Where is the accountability SO many speak of? If you didn't do "GREEDY" WE WOULDN'T HAVE TO HAVE TO TELL YOU !!!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Doria Moricca — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Doria Moricca Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Crooks should not be rewatded!

Sent from my iPhone

Doris Hargrave — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Doris Hargrave Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep demanding quarterly re ports

Doris iHardeway — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Doris iHardeway Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Doris Ipsen, Retired, I depend on seeing activity and results of my investments as much or more than corporate or company insiders that control financial their own aspects. Removing my window removes transparency. I am an owner, not just a spectator.

Dorothy and Michel Marette — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Dorothy and Michel Marette Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are essential to acquiring the necessary information and maintain accountability.

Sent from Dorothy

Dorothy Davis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Dorothy Davis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We tried this before and it didn't work. I can guarantee it won't work any better now with the greedy politicians we have!

---

dorothy majewski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: dorothy majewski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 dorothy.majewsi@gmail.com. Show this relorts quartely

Sent from my iPad

---

dorothy majewski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: dorothy majewski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 dorothy.majewsi@gmail.com

Sent from my iPad

Dorothy Marchese — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Dorothy Marchese Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the

Securities and Exchange:
Quarterly reporting is an absolute must. Reducing the reports to two a year won't provide enough information for sound decision making regarding investments. It also allows for the opportunity of fraud to happen in real time without any eyes to assure accountability. We aren't stupid, and we expect transparency to assure this doesn't become an issue. Keep the quarterly reporting."

Dorothy Pieper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dorothy Pieper Although biannual reporting may appear efficient from a business perspective, it raises significant concerns for investors. Quarterly reporting promotes transparency and encourages companies to monitor performance closely, identify emerging issues, and address problems before they escalate. Investors deserve timely access to financial information so they can determine whether the companies they support are prospering or facing challenges and make informed decisions accordingly. Requiring investors to rely on management assurances while limiting financial updates to every six months would weaken accountability and reduce confidence in the reporting process.

---

dorothy samuels — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: dorothy samuels Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
You were created to PROTECT the small investors and not to bow to the BIG INVESTMENT firms. Remember ENRON!!!!!

Dorothy Shea — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Dorothy Shea Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please require corporations to issue quarterly reports, not semi annual reports. Too much can be hidden in a six month timeframe.

Thank you,
Dorothy Shea
Canton, MA

Dorothy Speer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Dorothy Speer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Removing the quarterly reviews is a reckless path to take. The signing needs to remain quarterly. The frequency is not enough to be an inconvenience for them. This action keeps them aware of actions taken in their name, it keeps honest people honest and puts a magnifying glass on those who try to perform outside acceptable practices.
Keep accountability the way it is, they should only be pushing for this if they have something to hide.

Dory Connolly — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Dory Connolly Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dory C., Retired, Please keep quarterly reporting! I rely on this information and income even more now than I did when I was working. I'm not a billionaire or millionaire. I'm relying on my invested money to supplement my Social Security because the Trump administration has significantly increased the cost of living which includes Healthcare, food and gas just to name a few. I must know what my budget is quarterly. Thanks for listening.

Dottie Erickson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Quarterly Reporting From: Dottie Erickson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is a reason for quarterly reports, to keep people honest and the investor informed! Quarterly reports are necessary!

Sincerely,

Dottie Erickson
Kernersville, NC

"There are only two ways to live your life: one is as though nothing is a miracle; the other is as though everything is a miracle." (Albert Einstein)

Dotty Rice — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Dotty Rice Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stay quarterly

---

Doug B. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Doug B. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is crucial. This is a clear money grab for the rich. Legal consequences are sure to follow.

Douglas A. Ballan, M.D.
Phone: (908) 279-3477

Doug Baker — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Doug Baker I am writing to inform you that I am opposed to company reporting biannually. I would like reporting to share holders quarterly. This allows better communication on a company's direction and outlook which favors and protects investors.

Doug Cook — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Doug Cook Stock Investors (Owners) deserve operational transparency from the corporations they chose to trust their dollars with. Reducing the reporting requirements to a bi-annual schedule sets a bad precedent. Regardless of the reporting period the SEC decides on, the frugal investor will move his investments that continue to support quarterly reporting.

Doug Dedeta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Doug Dedeta Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not change reporting requirements.

Doug Detrick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Doug Detrick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Re: New proposal to stop Quarterly Reporting.
Lower standards spawns more abuse. Take Banking. Lower loan requirements equals much lower quality of loans encouraging even fraud and abuse of the lower standard. Here is a good idea... let's lower Health standards for operating restaurants. What do you think happens?
No way this should happen. Fraud and abuse will absolutely increase. Our financial system becomes less stable and less investable.

---

doug dickens — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: doug dickens Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Douglas Dickens, retired, Mukilteo, Wa... We want more transparency, not less. The last thing I want is for there to be less in my retirement account. We've done this before and it didn't work, we don't need to go back, to move forward.

Get Outlook for Android

Doug Hutchins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Doug Hutchins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an active investor I rely on quarterly reports to determine whether or not to inverse or stay invested in stocks ai own. This proposal to reduce the flow of information to investors is nothing short of plain stupidity. It serve insiders, and does nothing for investors

Sent from my iPhone

Doug Latimer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Doug Latimer Sending less reports makes no since at all. I would hope to be more informed, but at least not less informed.

Doug Light — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Doug Light Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I strongly oppose reducing the quarterly reporting requirements for public companies. With the current state of Social Security funding, it's extremely important that retirees like myself can make timely adjustments to our investments for market conditions. Do not change the reporting requirements.

D. Light, Virginia

Doug Malcolm — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Doug Malcolm Leave this alone. Under no scenario would I want LESS information regarding the companies I'm invested in.

Doug McNiff Individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Doug McNiff Less information rarely creates better-informed owners or investors. Less transparency does not eliminate uncertainty; it increases it. With electronic communication, companies can easily report more often, not less. The SEC would improve transparency by increasing the frequency of reporting rather than decreasing the frequency.

Doug Moore Monae LLC — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Doug Moore It is not over-reach by government to require quarterly reporting from public companies. Choosing to be a public company inherently requires that management provide transparency and accountability to shareholders. This requires more reporting, not less. The argument that less reporting is good because it saves money is not valid. The money saved pales in comparison to the accountability lost with less reporting to shareholders. Management in well run companies depend on frequent, accurate reporting to make daily decisions in the business. If this is true, why would public companies argue for less reporting? Especially as A.I. will drastically reduce the cost of compiling reports.

Doug Peters — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Doug Peters Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Corporate CEOs must be accountable to earn their wage, just like anyone.

We don't need another future bailout...

Doug R. Morris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Doug R. Morris I oppose limits on reporting requirements. The frequent and detailed reporting of corporate financials allows stockholders and stakeholders to make decisions that impact their and their families lives. Keep information flowing.

Doug W — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Doug W A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. That's a mistake. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Taking the reports away just makes everyone less informed. *Less information rarely creates better-informed owners. *Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Thank You for time.

Douglas A. Hall CPA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas A. Hall The proposal to report less frequently is a bad idea. As an accounting professional, I believe that timely financial reporting is essential to the owners or shareholders of a business. Why leave shareholders guessing for six months?

Douglas A. Volz Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas A. Volz Please do not go to a six-month reporting cycle for U.S. businesses. We need more transparency, not less, which is why I prefer the existing quarterly reporting cycle for public companies.

Douglas Allen Wilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Allen Wilson Quarterly reporting is still needed for accurate information on the health of a company. It helps investors determine if a company is still being fiscally responsible.

Douglas Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Anderson Please keep requiring public companies to report quarterly reports instead of the proposed twice a year.

Douglas Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Anderson As an investor, I value receiving quarterly reports from the companies that I invest in. I prefer that companies not be allowed to move to semi-annual reporting.

Douglas Boyd — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Boyd Semiannual Reporting - comments on on S7-2026-15: Twice a year is NOT rigorous enough self reporting. Reporting needs to remain at 4 times a year or quarterly.

Douglas Brown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Douglas Brown Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are essential for protecting the rights of individual investors. Please do not change the rules that have been working to keep us safe for the past 50 years.

Sent from my iPad

Douglas C. Littlejohn The Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas C. Littlejohn It's already hard enough for the small retail investor to have current investment information compared to insiders and professionals. Please don't make it even harder. Doug Littlejohn

---

Douglas Flanagan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Douglas Flanagan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reports. No good will come of reports every six months. Signed as concerned citizen and tax payer. Douglas Flanagan

Sent from my iPhone

Douglas Flora — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Douglas Flora Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We absolutely need quarterly reporting!
Doug Flora
Retired investor

Sent from my iPhone

Douglas Frazier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Douglas Frazier Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To whom it may concern:

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposal regarding the reduction of quarterly reporting requirements by the SEC. As a former Chief Strategy Officer and retired business owner, I believe that maintaining, if not increasing, the frequency of formal disclosures is essential for informed investment decisions.

Reducing the frequency of reporting periods limits the information available to investors, creating a significant disadvantage. Given that current technology allows for daily data tracking, I advocate for formal corporate disclosures to be issued at least monthly, rather than decreasing the current quarterly standard.

I urge you to maintain the existing reporting schedule to ensure continued transparency and market efficiency.

Best regards,

Douglas Frazier
Columbus, Ohio

Douglas Holley none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Holley As an investor I am a part owner of the companies I invest in. I prefer quarterly reports over the proposed semiannual reports proposed by this action.

Douglas Hunt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Douglas Hunt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If this changes the companies lose ALL accountability. Keep the quarterly reporting, don't let big business hide their accountability

---

Douglas Jack — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Douglas Jack Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to see more frequent and accurate reporting. Keeping this quarterly pace of data is critical for the economy and for investors.

Please keep this quarterly requirement.

Douglas Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Douglas Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You need to keep this quarterly, so we don’t get left holding the bag !

Douglas Kreider None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Kreider I urge those in a position of regulation in government to improve fiscal transparency from companies who accept investment of any kind from the public.

Douglas Kronk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Douglas Kronk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a finance professional, I think this is a terrible idea. I am untrusted with managing my clients portfolios, and cutting the data available to me in half is a horrible idea. The volatility and chaos I believe that would result places far too great a risk on seniors especially who rely on their investments to fund their retirement years! This message seems wholly inconsistent with moves to open up more markets to retail investors in order to allow them to gain greater returns. If the SEC wants to open private markets to retail investors, then they should be fortifying public markets to reduce risk, not increase risk!

Sent from my iPhone

Douglas Margolis NA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Margolis Reducing the number of reports required by publicly traded companies is a bad idea. It reduces the information available to company owners and will lead to greater volatility in the markets. It hurts investors like me, reducing trust in U.S. markets too.

---

douglas mason — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: douglas mason Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If people lose their voice in the one and only free country tge world will spin and fall and zero chance at any recovery for our species to save itself from its own demise. You know exactly what I'm talking about. Douglas Mason seneca il. 61360

Douglas Meyerdirk private citizen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Meyerdirk Greetings, I have heard that the SEC is considering allowing companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I am writing to express my belief that this would be a grave mistake. Reducing the frequency of required public -company reports will hurt individual investors and will reduce their earnings. This is a proven fact borne out by history. This change could induce corporate boards to pursue risky practices or decisions due to the reduction in accountability to investors. Please do not make this policy change!

Douglas Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Miller I find it ridiculous that in today's world that less transparency would be viewed as a good thing. Quarterly reporting is routine and should remain so. Paring the reporting requirement back to semi-annually is just asking for trouble. Businesses, particularly in our current political environment seems to be looking for ways to avoid not only transparency but accountability. This proposal would help them escape both until it's too late. The rules aren't there to overburden business with unnecessary reporting requirements. They exist because businesses are exceptionally good at acting in their own self-interest to the detriment on their Boards, their shareholders, society and the business itself. Markets hate uncertainty, and so do I. The current administration is already flouting the law and acting with total disregard for transparency. The rules exist for a reason, let's stop trying to pretend they don't.

---

douglas molt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: douglas molt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The Quarterly reports were put in specifically to cut down on the cheating and conniving. Now you're telling me that cheating and conniving is what keeps our economy functioning? Shame on you, you slimy asswipes (vulgarities offered as a tribute to the current president).
D.W Molt

Douglas Newport Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Newport Please keep company records reporting at every quarter.

Douglas Place Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Place I support quarterly, rather than semi annual reporting by public companies. Quarterly reporting provides more up to date information when selecting which investment to make

---

Douglas Pruitt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Pruitt Cutting the information available to the individual investor by 50% is completely unacceptable. When decisions or circumstances change the thesis for an investment (good or bad) delaying that information results in greater uncertainty. This can result in worse returns as the company drifts further from your expectations over the longer reporting term. It does not improve the company’s ability to predict the future (they know 3 months into the future better than 6 months into the future). It does reduce there expenses associated with filing but that should be a minor factor for most companies as automation/AI get better at performing the actions. I would also expect that the cost of producing the reports is small compared to other operational metrics vital to investment decisions.

Douglas R McClelland President Plains Commodity Co. (Ret) — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas R McClelland It cost nazy, s&p and dow for 4 reports. Who cares, they have all the money and provide transparency. 2 reports let's them mess with the accounting for longer terms.

Douglas Randolph Manager — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Randolph Investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Please allow companies to maintain the current number of public-company reports at four times a year. Reducing the number of reports is a mistake. AI can absorb the cost of leaving things alone. Thank you for your attention.

Douglas Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Retain quarterly reporting. When a company fails we need accurate quarterly accounting to provide up to date information. As an investor reporting quarterly financial information is for our protection!

Douglas Twedt The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Twedt The proposal to cut business reports in half is not the way to go. Investors need as much timely information as possible. Please reconsider.

Douglas Willett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Douglas Willett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Comm

Finra regulation oppresses retail investors . favors Broker houses .
Finra favors arbitrators to low ball unequitable arbitration settlements to seniors.
I received $24, 000 pittance of what was due me from my nflx acct . Edward Jones gross negligence and blatant lack of fiduciary duties .
Total disregard for my profile (my ocd history) demands for $$ protection and multiplying my fam $$$
Edward Jones beguilement in lack of fiduciary duties Bryon Olsen , Fairfield iowa refused me aapl / dis / brkA B
Negligence . mismanaged and breached our agreements on Stop Losses @$300 for nflx .. Failure to communicate when nflx reached $280 / sh . .failure to allow me to close out nflx @ $300 / sh
Open trend reversal : sell short
$300- 72 or 58
Eward Jones Bryon Olsen refused to meet me when Starz walked out of nflx meeting
He reused my calls to short nflx @
$ 240
Nitwit B Olsen refused to learn short sell / buy to cover -trades
* Edward Jones .refused to conduct acats from Scottrade and TD Ameritrade!!!
, Failed to obtain Letters of Account verification from TD Ameritrade
And Scot trade !!!
Hence I never incurred a margin call @ $72 / sh .
It was violation of my rights.
Ed Jones broker conned me via beguiling crisis from SPIG banking scandal . refused my buying more shares nflx nor aapl nor Msft nor dis nor other unicorns mag 7. Blue chips.
Refused me connections to St Louis Headquarters for access to chief equities analyst in handling and avoiding "pseudo margin calls" .
Refused to allow me discussion time and calls to figure my solutions .
Refused me access to his office Director

: culprit Dan Portman . Ladue Mo
Now w Waddle and Reid
Used SPIG hoax as deception I should sacrifice my shares of nflx lifetime wealth creation for my family $$$ security and future comforts
Via long term play on nflx . broker lied and swindled me out of his hidden unprinted commissions . mismanaged Exxon buy .and nflx sell Quarterly transparency will continue t to allow Brokers like Etrade et al to beguile clients.
E Trade severed my Lenovo desktop yes .rendered my desktop kaput !! then unethically liquidated my Nvda shares bc my buy -in price dropped from $388 to. $383 for 4 hours . 4:hours .
I was refused / denied margin dept and denied coaching advisor !!! I suffered unwarranted superfluous loses and I was coerced to miss out on profits .which would have propelled me into se -sufficiency

---

douglas.kathleen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: douglas.kathleen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kathleen Douglas, care giver, Windsor, Vermont I worked over 40 years and paid into the government all those years. I am now supporting my daughter and special needs grandchildren and my investments keep a roof over our heads. Please do not do this to us.
Thank you,
Kathleen

Sent from my Galaxy

Dr David BURROUGHS MD — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dr David BURROUGHS MD Democracy and transparency go hand in hand. If our public corporations do not remain transparent financially, then our nation is in danger. Look to countries where things are opaque and see the results.

Dr Stuart Harbron — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dr Stuart Harbron Under this proposal, I as an owner would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses I own part of. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater too. This does not encourage me to stay invested.

Dr. Brian Gordon, Psy.D N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dr. Brian Gordon, Psy.D Greetings, I am a retired military psychologist. As an active retail investor and options trader I rely on the veracity of these quarterly reports and need to trust that company executives are fulfilling their legal obligations. The proposed rule will significantly reduce these protections. Sadly, not all company executives of publicly held corporations are quick to discuss/disclose problems that they are legally obligated to make. Seven months ago the CEO of CoreWeave made a delayed disclosure during a post-earnings call. That delayed disclosure cost me over $4,000.00. I know it is small change to some, but it was significant to me. With this proposed rule, he could have waited six months. Retail investors are already at a disadvantage due to ever advancing technology that we do not have access to. This proposal is marketed with a disregard for the importance of timely accurate communication and real accountability with possible criminal sanctions. I am disappointed the Trump administration is pushing this. I strongly encourage the SEC to drop this proposal and seek to protect the small investors. Thank you for your consideration. Sincerely, Brian Gordon, email is bgordon54@gmail.com

---

Dr. Joe zyoungR e t Retired Instructor, Economics — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dr. Joe zyoungR e t Maintain quarterly reports to avoid more insider trading in this corrupt administration. Don't relax the rules.

Dr. John Kazilionis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dr. John Kazilionis Passage of the semiannual Reporting Rule would decrease the amount of information received by investors regarding every public company's performance and is counter intuitive with respect to protecting the NEEDS AND RIGHTS of investors. To allow companies to place a veil over their performance effectively shreds the very concept of 'transparency and investor protection' that was recognized by the SEC when it mandated regular reporting in 1934. To the discard the quarterly reporting requirement by public companies would infringe upon the ability of investors to make decisions that are in their best interest. The public does not deserve to have a Government Agency that was created to protect investors by taking a step backwards and increasing the risk of misconduct by a company's hierarchy via discontinuation of an Act it passed to protect investors. We need more transparency in this country, not less. It would make such companies less "public."

Dr. Lou Lloyd-Zannini Professor of Educational Leadership, Texas A&M University-Victoria — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dr. Lou Lloyd-Zannini In an age of increasing transparency, the proposed reduction in public reporting goes contrary to the need for investors to know on a regular basis the status of the companies they are invested in, and is likely to produce more volitility in the marketplace, and to lessen investor confidence. As one who owns a very small home business (as well as serving at the university), I am expected to report to my partner (my wife of 41 years) on the progress and fiscal status, as well as projected and actual earnings of the business. Our business is "small change," but we need to stay on top of our investment in it. Why would I not expect the same consistency of reporting from a major corporation in which I'm invested to the tune of tens or hundreds of thousands for dollars? This regulation change is NOT a good idea, is NOT going to serve investors well, and is NOT doing anything to promote transparency of operatioms. Therefore, I respectfully request that the proposal to reduce mandatory reporting from quarterly to semi-annually be rejected. Investors need to know. This proposed regulation will run contrary to that need to know. Sincerely, Dr. Lou Lloyd-Zannini Victoria, TX 77904

Dr. Markus Draeger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dr. Markus Draeger Dear Sirs, in a time when financial institutions create “innovative” but often intransparent investment vehicles, I believe it is important to stick with the greatest possible transparency for direct investment in company stocks. Stock holders who own parts of a business deserve this. As a member of the Motley Fool community for many years, I oppose the planned changes and specifically the introduction of semi-yearly reporting. Regards, Markus Draeger

---

Dr. Randolph W. Ek — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Dr. Randolph W. Ek Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly is a fair length of time to report!!!

Your Life is PERFECT!
PAY ATTENTION!!!

Love,
Dr. Randolph Ek

Cell : (623) 680-6238
Email : randolph.ek@gmail.com

Dr. Russell A. Spiegel CEO Ruzztone Music — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dr. Russell A. Spiegel At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But this short term thinking comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Dr. Sandy Douglass — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Dr. Sandy Douglass Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a bad decision! I dissapprove!

Sent from my iPhone

Dr. Shrikesh Sachdev The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dr. Shrikesh Sachdev To whom it may concern: The proposal to REDUCE the number of public company reports from four times a year to just two is a BIG mistake! Companies should be held MORE, NOT LESS, responsible for the decisions they make in a purely transparent manner, since it is the shareholders who ultimately finance the company and whose profits or losses depend on the company's business decisions.

DR. TIMOTHY JAMES STANDRING n/a — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: DR. TIMOTHY JAMES STANDRING PLEASE KEEP THE QUARTERLY REPORT REQUIREMENT AND DISREGARD THE ATTEMPT TO REDUCE IT TO TWO REPORTS PER ANNUM.

Dr. Tom Stone Retired dentist, Motley Fool member — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dr. Tom Stone As an investor I would like to be as "informed as can be" by the companies and entities that I am invested in. Reports submitted twice a year is not satisfactory compared to quarterly reports. In this case, more is better.

Dr. Ty C.M. Hoffman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dr. Ty C.M. Hoffman I own parts of each of the companies whose shares I have purchased with an expectation of transparency. I deserve and demand that transparency.

Dragonfly Beads — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Dragonfly Beads Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The rules exist for a reason. Frankly, us "poors" are tired, exhausted really, from the banking community lobbying and legislating themselves into wealth and no oversight. I'd love for them to never be bailed out again.

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Drena Bowerman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Drena Bowerman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is just one more step into the abyss of corruption. One more big way for the Goliaths to rig the system for the rest of us. One more gate knocked down. The government has enabled the Wild West of industry to take over “the town”. There are virtually no sheriffs anymore. If this passes it may be the last straw please put a stop to this juggernaut.

Sent from my iPhone

Drew Halperin Polen Capital — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Drew Halperin Keep public reporting to quarterly. Transparency matters!

Drew J Fanelli Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Drew J Fanelli Request full transparency with 4 a year not 2!

Drew Karsten The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Drew Karsten We need more reports not less!!!

Drew Petzold — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Drew Petzold Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Drew Petzold, Data Analyst. This needs to keep the current transparency. Hiding this makes Wall St. look shady and only helps the ultra-rich. The rest of us are entitled to know what is going on.

Drew S — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Drew S Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Reporting as always

Drew Sitelis

Dru Sampson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Dru Sampson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a 76-year old woman with a law degree who never practiced but learned enough in law school to make me ask why change a law that is doing exactly what it was meant to do - catch those who cheat; and, in doing so, hurt those who have put their trust in the CEO being honest? If it ain’t broke . As the saying goes! CEOs are not above the law. They have huge responsibilities and salaries to match; they should be held accountable as well. If they are not, no one is!

I am not a business scholar but this seems like common sense to me. The world could use more common sense right now. My mama used to say “if you are trying to decide IF it is the right thing to do, it probably isn't." I believe that advice applies in this situation.

Dru Sampson, Lawrence, KS

Sent from my iPhone

---

dsamato — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: dsamato Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY ! Transparency is ALWAYS best. Protect our assets ! D Amato CEO of the household

---

Duane Carpenter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Duane Carpenter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Considering the effect that money has, and still is having on politics and everyday life, absolutely keep it Quarterly!

Duane Karren Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Duane Karren I am writing to urge you to drop the idea of requiring public companies to only report twice a year. I am a retired CPA and now a part time investor. I feel that only receiving updates two times per year would leave me shy on the data I need to make informed buy-sell decisions on a timely basis and could compound losses on a failing company or a changed outlook.

Dustin Kreidler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Dustin Kreidler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Maybe consider go to monthly reporting. The ONLY reason we make them report out is for transparency, and even quarterly gives them months to get away with crap. Going to semi-Annually is the kind of move that lets the public know the SEC itself is broken, captured by the very billionaires it was designed to protect the people from. Remember us? The other 334,998,800 Americans who aren't billionaires? Yeah. THAT'S your job. Remember?

Dwayne Diamond — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dwayne Diamond Reducing the requirements for company reports hurts the consumer. We need more transparency, not less. This is simply a way for companies to hide their downfalls for longer periods of time. Please do not proceed with this.

Dwayne Shakespeare — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Dwayne Shakespeare Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting must stay to ensure more transparency for investors and the community impacted by business.

Dwayne Shakespeare

267-701-1991
Sent from my iPhone

---

dwight scruggs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: dwight scruggs Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly

Get Outlook for iOS

Dwight Southerland Adjunt professor of Entrepreneurship, University of Central Arkansas; Advisor to the Secretary of State , State of Arkansas; Member Motley Fool Investors Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dwight Southerland I am seeing more and more a tendancy in our economy and culture the argument for less and less governmental oversight for all our activities, especially in areas of how we as Americans should have the freedom to live as we wish. This is heralded in many areas of choices that ultimately give support to choices that affect the lives of others directly and indirectly without consent to those affected. By restricting the oversight that forces companies to be regularly transparent about activities that affect the investors, the potential for engaging in and concealing activities that could be and should be transparent to the investors is encouraged and made possible. I seriously object to the change in the current requirement for quarterly financial reporting.

---

dyan rhea — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: dyan rhea Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to do more to be oritected against fraud, not bake it easier!
This is wrong

Sent from Gmail Mobile

Dylan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Dylan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports it's foundational to our economy

---

Dylan Warnecke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Dylan Warnecke Regular quarterly filings are the best way for retail investors to stay up to date on Wall Street and prevent fraud in the markets. Big banks and funds pay thousands of dollars for data packets that help them maintain an edge between filings that the rest of the country doesn't have the budget for doing. Reducing filing requirements to semiannually means that discrepancy grows even larger. Additionally quarterly filings put pressure on companies to be more transparent in their finances, enabling fraud and abuse to be spotted sooner than later.

Dyllen Owens — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Dyllen Owens Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dyllen Owens, VP of Engineering, Texas, maximum transparency is a requirement to ensure that both parties are held accountable. I must pay for those shares and they must tell me regularly how those shares are effectively utilized against commits externally.

Sent from my iPhone

E J — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: E J Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Really? Eliminate quarterly reporting? WHO are you serving? I hope this is not allowing a bully to dictate common sense and ethics in the world's largest financial markets. The SEC has an obligation to INVESTORS not Government cries for vanity.
Please do your job well. Have no fear and stand up to bullies.
Sincerely,
an investor who cares about the markets

E Neilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: E Neilson I do not support reducing the reporting requirements. I am entitled to regularly critique the financial positions of the companies that benefit from my contributions as a stock holder. Reducing the required reporting to twice yearly does not provide adequate ability to make timely adjustments to my ownership should a company’s financial standing warrant.

E. FRANK ROUSE — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: E. FRANK ROUSE Rather then reduce information to stockholders, require the reports to be understandable, informative, and limited to certain questions instead of a bunch of double talk.

E. Larkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: E. Larkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 E. Larkins, Program Auditor and transparency matters, please don't enable (possible) corruption by changing quarterly reporting. Many of us invest and rely on navigating markets, puts the average Joe like myself at a disadvantage.

E. M. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: E. M. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an educator, citizen, and mental health professional I feel strongly we need quarterly reporting to ensure transparency, fairness, and an informed public.

Earl Hoyt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Earl Hoyt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026

Earl Hoyt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Earl Hoyt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The public interest has been well served by the quarterly reporting requirement. Reducing it to only twice per year serves no one other than potential offenders. The burden of the quarterly filing far outweighs the potential for abuse. The current climate of investment fraud clearly warrants safeguards such as quarterly reporting. Please keep it in place rather than caving to the demands of the most corrupt presidency in the history of the United States.

Earl E. Hoyt, III
716 Scott Street
Stroudsburg, PA 1830
ehoyt3@ptd.net

Earl Sevin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Earl Sevin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Earl Sevin (Retired) My financial security is very important to me! KEEP IT QUARTERLY!

Earnest Thompson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Earnest Thompson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY...

---

earnhard1_2000 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: earnhard1_2000 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No fraud or abuse would not be detected for 6 months ? NO WAY , would I invest my money unless accountability first !!

Sent from my Galaxy

Easton Hampton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Easton Hampton I can't see anything positive coming from this. Investors will be less informed and the market will be more volatile.

Ebony Potts — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ebony Potts Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would such a change be in the best interest of the public. This change only serves companies and makes it easier to be fraudulent. Consumer/public protections should be at the forefront, not providing a mechanism to allow companies to be unethical and hide it.

Thank you for your time

Dr. Ebony Potts

---

ed — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: ed Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Big business ALREADY has too much leverage over us, and this proposal gives them even more!
Ed Simpson, Chief Executive Officer of All Matters Great and Small.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Ed Ahern — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ed Ahern Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need regular guidance, not when you feel like it.

Ed Bedard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ed Bedard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need transparency. Do not revert back to the old ways of deception.

Sent from my iPhone

ED J ROSS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: ED J ROSS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is way to much fraud today to relax any reporting rules

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Ed Lanham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ed Lanham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need more USFUL regulation on business practices, not less. We need to cull old and outdated regulations and enact more transparency regulations for the stockholders and investors, especially in this age of AI programs.

Sent from my iPad

Ed Love — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ed Love Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a bad idea. Investors need more, not less, information. The cost savings benefit the financial institutions but the cost is to the investors. Not good.

Ed Love
Sent from my iPhone

Ed Meek Ed Meek — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ed Meek Do NOT decrease the frequency of reports required from publicly held companies.

Ed Meurer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ed Meurer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Terrible idea! What happened to transparency in stock dealings!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Ed Michels retired IT — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ed Michels I am for continued quarterly reporting, and against semi-annual reporting. (I am a multi-million dollar investor directly managing my own investments.)

Ed Mosher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ed Mosher With the economic scene as it is: the more transparency the better. The quarterly reporting keeps a level playing field for all participants.

Ed Murphy Retired professor of business embry riddle aeronautical university — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ed Murphy We need to have businesses and corporations stay with quarterly reports not semi annual reports. As investors we need information quarterly to help us make investor decisions.

Ed Reid — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ed Reid We need to keep quarterly reports in order to tack the companies we invest in and own a part of. It is absolutely necessary as an investment tool.

Ed Salmon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ed Salmon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly matters for us retired folks who luve on our investments.

Ed Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Ed Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To All Whom This May Concern:
Keep Quarterly Reporting for All Corporations on the Stock Exchange !
You Are Responsible as the Watchdog for US Investors and should not be complacent nor complicit with any other influence up to and including Presidential Collusion of Tampering with Our System !

Ed Smyth — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ed Smyth Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Cut the crap. This is a mistake and it's been proven time and time again that delaying is the same as hiding. Just go through the case files from the past three decades and you can see the problems with this.

Ed Tolliver — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Ed Tolliver Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The employees of this country are being led by CEOs that broke the social contract which created 1950s and 1960 prosperity and optimism. We need more personal accountability in this corrupt Trump economy, not less. I truly hope the MAGA lackies in government keep doing a horrible job until mid-terms, then I hope the MAGA faithful wake up from the cult nightmare that America has become after the electorate overwhelmly votes MAGA into the history books as a huge lie

Respectfully,

+Ed
KCMO

Ed Wargo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ed Wargo As a an investor who is retired and a veteran, reducing timely information by half is simply not in my, or any investor's best interests.

---

ed younkin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: ed younkin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are crucial in keeping public companies transparent!!!!!!

Ed Younkin
480-254-4652
edyounkin@gmail.com

Ed Zamora — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ed Zamora This shouldn't be reduced. Most companies have tracking and reporting internally m day to day, week to week, etc. and the cost savings is just the update call itself.

Ed Zoretic — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ed Zoretic Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep them in place. We need accountability!

---

edcz123 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment: KEEP IT QUARTERLY! From: edcz123 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY!
CEOs Must Be Held Accountable For Lying And Risking The Wellbeing Of Hundreds, If Not Thousands, Of People.

Eddie Albert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Eddie Albert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There are ZERO circumstances where reduced transparency in SEC reporting is a GOOD thing for the public. The SEC's ONLY reason to exist is to protect the public and insure fairness for investors and companies alike. At a time when public confidence in ANY governing agency in the US is at an all time low, the SEC should strive to counter that trend with TRUTH and TRANSPARENCY.

Eddie Benefield — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Eddie Benefield Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly Transparency is good for all involved.

EDDIE HALL — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: EDDIE HALL Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This would allow so many back room deals to be made. What in the world are you thinking of? Creating the Next GREAT DEPRESSION

Sent from my iPhone

Eddie Langford — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Eddie Langford Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are a small , small price to pay to keep the American people safe from fraud and abuse. And I fell that honest people would not have a problem at all with showing the public there honesty by filing these reports. My name is Eddie Langford, sole proprietor of a construction business.

Sent from my iPhone

Eddie Otto — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Eddie Otto Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want quarterly statements to continue because it reflects what's happening to the business on a timely basis. Ed Otto, Retired.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Eddie Owen None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eddie Owen Please continue quarter reports. Twice a year leaves too much area for improper behavior to occur.

Eddie Rivera — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Eddie Rivera Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reports

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Eddie Rose — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Eddie Rose Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please do not change the current requirements. This would hurt the individual investors.
Eddie Rose
Retired
Decatur, Alabama

Eden C Brownlee The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eden C Brownlee Do not reduce the reporting to biannually, were are investors and need required reporting to be regular and consistent for transparency and to be able to make decisions on our investments properly. If anything we should have MORE transparency in to what's going on - not less. Especially with how AI is making this much easier, i have automated ongoing dashboards and reports for my own company that show me exactly how things are travelling month in month out and its no effort, i would expect at least quarterly for my investments.

Eden Kim — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Eden Kim Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Maintain quarterly reports. Do not change something that has been vital to the growth of our economy.

Edgar Morrison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: quarterly reporting From: Edgar Morrison Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

I am writing to strongly urge the Commission to maintain the current requirement for publicly traded companies to report their financial results on a quarterly basis. Proposals to shift to a semi-annual or less frequent reporting model risk severely undermining the core mission of the SEC: protecting investors, maintaining fair, orderly, and efficient markets, and facilitating capital formation.

The current quarterly reporting framework is a cornerstone of the U.S. capital markets and provides several critical protections:

Ensuring Market Transparency and Reducing Asymmetry: Quarterly disclosure ensures that retail and institutional investors alike have access to timely, standardized financial data. Reducing reporting frequency would widen the information gap between corporate insiders and everyday investors, creating a fertile ground for market rumors, heightened volatility, and potential insider trading during long periods of informational silence.

Aiding Accurate Valuation and Capital Allocation: In today’s fast-paced, technology-driven economic landscape, a company's financial health can change drastically in a matter of weeks. Semi-annual reporting would force investors to make critical capital allocation decisions based on stale, six-month-old data, severely hindering the market’s price-discovery mechanism.

Corporate Accountability and Oversight: Regular quarterly checks keep corporate management disciplined and accountable to their shareholders. More frequent reporting ensures that operational missteps, shifting macro conditions, or strategic pivots are disclosed and addressed promptly, preventing small operational issues from compounding into catastrophic, long-term corporate failures.

While critics often argue that quarterly reporting fosters corporate "short-termism," there is little empirical evidence that moving to semi-annual reporting fundamentally alters management’s long-term strategic vision. Instead, it merely reduces the visibility that shareholders have into how that vision is being executed. Furthermore, the administrative burden of quarterly reporting is a necessary and justified cost of accessing public capital markets and maintaining public trust.

The transparency of the U.S. disclosure system is precisely what makes our capital markets the most robust, trusted, and liquid in the world. Diluting this framework would degrade market integrity and harm investor confidence at a time when transparency is more critical than ever.

For these reasons, I strongly advocate for the preservation of the mandatory quarterly reporting framework.

Thank you for your time, consideration, and continued dedication to protecting market participants.

Sincerely,

[Ed Morrison]

[Construction Estimator]

[484-889-1475]
edgartmorrison@gmail.com

Edi Peterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Edi Peterson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not allow the end of quarterly reports! Managing our assets as we approach retirement (if lucky) is hard enough. Your proposal would benifts corporations and not the public. Please put public interests before conglomerates. It's the only ethical thing to do!!

Edith Dickinson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Edith Dickinson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it QUARTERLY!!

Sent from my iPhone

Edith Matthews — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Edith Matthews Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep accountability . These guys get away with robbing investors on to many front. Please reporting protects the honest investors. Keep Americans protected and seeing a name swearing to honesty 4 times out of year. Thank. Keep them honest!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Edith Matthews — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Edith Matthews Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep those crooks reporting quarterly!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Edith Weeks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Edith Weeks Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I rely on investment income for my retirement. Do not do away with quarterly reporting. Keep companies honest.

Edith Weeks
Retiree

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Edmund Gilmore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Edmund Gilmore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Edmund Gilmore : Sr project Manager: Seattle, WA. This has been tried before and only benefits a few inside individuals. Keep transparency, keep quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Edmund Lee investor in many companies — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edmund Lee Reducing reporting to twice a year from four times a year is a DISSERVICE TO INVESTORS!!!! (Trump does this for EMPHASIS). I hope it works. KEEP IT FOUR TIMES A YEAR.

Edmund LeRoy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Edmund LeRoy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do what's best for the American people. Always. Quarterly is best.

~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

Edmund LeRoy
201 W 9th North St, Unit 147
Summerville, SC 29483
(843) 539-6501
eleroy44@gmail.com

Sent from my iPhone

Edoardo Baldi The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edoardo Baldi Less public access to companies information will not gave to anyone an advance. If we are arrived to this status of things, is for a reason, never forget to be reasonable.
~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

Eduardo Acosta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Eduardo Acosta Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Responsible accounting practices is what sets US companies apart from the world!!!! Keep the quarterly reports!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Edwad Carter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Edwad Carter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep it quietly very important!!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Edward Behan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Edward Behan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is definitely NOT the time to cut back on timely and accurate reporting. There is far too much "easing of the rules" for corporations in general and CEOs in particular.

I am retired, but I have worked across a range of fields in many different work environments. Rules to keep us honest have to be maintained and honored at all levels.

Edward Behan
Fort Collins, Colorado

---

edward bradley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: edward bradley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In the age of computer systems the is no excuse for longer unsupervised reporting periods. Keep them quarterly.

Edward C Domaingue — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward C Domaingue Quarterly reporting provides ALL investors with the timely information they both need and deserve in making informed decisions. Any effort to reduce the reporting requirements MAY aid the corporations and their management, but only at the expense of the real owners, the shareholders. This will not make corporations more profitable; it will make investing even riskier at a time when too many dangerous risks already are self evident.

Edward Carney Member of The Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward Carney I am writing as an individual investor and a member of the Motley Fool community to oppose the proposal to reduce public company reporting from quarterly to semiannual reporting. At its heart, investing is ownership. When investors purchase shares of a company, they become owners of that business. Owners deserve regular, transparent communication from management regarding the performance, risks, opportunities, and strategic direction of the companies they own. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners and undermines a fundamental principle of our capital markets: informed ownership. Supporters of this proposal argue that reducing the frequency of reporting could lower compliance costs and reduce pressure on companies to focus on short-term results. While those goals may sound appealing, they do not justify providing investors with less information. In an era of artificial intelligence, automation, and increasingly efficient disclosure systems, the argument that quarterly reporting creates an excessive burden is far less compelling than it may have been decades ago. More importantly, short-termism is not caused by the existence of information. It is caused by how market participants choose to react to information. Eliminating reports does not make investors more patient, management teams more strategic, or markets more rational. It simply leaves owners less informed. What is not debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed investors. Imagine owning a private business and receiving updates from management only twice a year. The business would continue operating every day. Products would still be launched. Customers would be won and lost. Investments would be made. Strategies would succeed or fail. Yet as an owner, you would know far less about what was happening within the enterprise. That is effectively what this proposal would create for public company shareholders. Reducing transparency does not eliminate uncertainty—it increases it. Fewer official disclosures create larger information gaps, making it more difficult for investors to evaluate management performance, assess risks, and make informed capital allocation decisions. When information is eventually released, investors are more likely to encounter larger surprises, leading to sharper market reactions and potentially greater volatility. Quarterly reporting has long served as an important mechanism for accountability, transparency, and investor confidence. The SEC's mission includes protecting investors and maintaining fair, orderly, and efficient markets. Providing investors with less timely information is difficult to reconcile with those objectives. For these reasons, I respectfully urge the Commission to reject the proposed move to semiannual reporting and preserve the quarterly reporting framework that has helped support transparency and investor protection in U.S. capital markets for decades.

Edward Danneberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward Danneberg I beleive reporting should be done more often, not less. We as investors want information and transparency on a regular short term basis.

Edward Davis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Edward Davis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It would damage the publics confidence in the system. We already know there are many who take advantage inside knowledge that's not being addressed. We need to go in the opposite direction. My opinion is this is a bad idea.

Edward Fowlkes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Edward Fowlkes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is not needed, to be even thought or even written up shows just how crooked you are. So much can go wrong in that time but all you care about is the few and not the many.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Edward Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward Johnson Less transparency could create more uncertainties amongst shareholders resulting in poor choices . I would like to see the SEC continue with quarterly reporting , regards , E Johnson .

Edward L. Taris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward L. Taris Don't reduce number of reports

---

Edward Lorain Retired: Worked as Director of Research at two Money Managers. Started at Morgan Stanley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward Lorain In my professional experience I have had several occasions to detect fraud occurring at companies (Enron and General Electric). Having higher frequency information helped in questioning management about business trends. In both of the companies I mentioned above, my "Ah-hah" moments happened when the CEOs made statements on quarterly conference calls that I knew were untrue. Even as an institutional investor, I found that the CEOs are insulated from the owner's (investor's) queries except at quarterly conference calls. To have less information increases risks to the owners of public companies. More risk means a higher cost of capital (lower valuations). Over time, countries with less frequent filings have higher cost of capital.

---

edward mccauley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: edward mccauley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want quarterly reporting. Without it, insiders hold all the cards.

Edward McCauley

Edward MIkol Physician — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward MIkol We need to keep reporting as currently required. Markets are fluid and can change rather quickly. I prefer to get info more often. Cutting it back will not allow my investing decisions to be as fluid.

Edward Moncrief — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Edward Moncrief Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't encourage fraud. Hold firm on guard rails. Edward Moncrief, Author

---

Edward Murphy — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Edward Murphy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: do not get rid of or rescind rule 611. It is the only way I can ensure that I buy or sell at the price I want to buy or sell at

---

Edward P Brennan Retired CFP — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward P Brennan Reducing corporate reporting requirements from quarterly to only semi annual will do a great disservice to individual investors and the financial professionals they rely upon. Potential significant corporate changes could well be hidden in the silence periods.

Edward Ponikvar — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward Ponikvar I feel the proposal to reduce reporting from four times per year to two times per year is a mistake. Less information is never a good thing when investing, and a lack of transparency will hurt small investors like myself. It would, in my opinion, also hurt the overall market; smaller investors would likely be reluctant to invest. It would also create an unlevel playing field, as those in the company would have access to information that the public would not, giving them an unfair advantage. Please reconsider this change.

Edward R. Bisker Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward R. Bisker This proposal is bad for all investors. Stockholders are owners of the company they hold shares in. They have an inherent right to know how the company is performing. Quarterly reports allow the company owners to make informed decisions about whether to buy, hold, or sell their holdings as they see fit in a timely fashion. To change to a biannual performance reporting instead a a quarterly, the investors would diminish the information flow investors receive about the companies they own. In the age of artificial intelligence and financial reports, the cost of reporting company performance to the owners of the companies is becoming moot. There is no benefit of this change in reporting, but there are many negatives for stockholders.

Edward Riefler Stockholder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward Riefler I am a day trader and interested in keeping quarterly reports

---

Edward Ryan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward Ryan Please do not change the reporting rules. Less information is never good for investors and can lead to large losses.

Edward S. Caro — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Edward S. Caro Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I’m an investor and we need to keep it to quarterly reporting. I have agree that six months is a long time for bad things to happen that we can’t see as investors.

Sent from my iPad

Edward Sargent Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward Sargent I am an individual investor and totally against anything that harms my rights to know!

Edward Sichler N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edward Sichler Investors have been able through quarterly reporting to see and better understand the workings of the companies which they have become investors in and how current results both quarterly and YTD measure against planned/forecasted targets. Reducing from 4 times per year to only twice reduces investors ability to see how their investments are performing and what the near term (next few quarters and full year targets have changed, both positive and negative) forecast is and why it has changed and what the companies they have invested in are doing to recover or improve beyond original full year results. There is reduction in costs to the companies by moving to twice a year reporting but investor visibility is greatly reduced and that is illogical given the current process has been in for 26 years (RegFD) and companies have integrated processes to prepare and submit quarterly reporting and related important communication so reducing from 4 to 2 reports per year does not have a significant cost impact. Further given all of the issues related to AI in the corporate world it does not make sense to reduce but rather to ensure impacts of AI are clearly reported and future forecasts should be quarterly given the rather quick impacts we have already witnessed in 2026.

EDWARD TIBBS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: EDWARD TIBBS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly reporting is important info for retail investors. This would allow insiders to cheat even more than they do now! Transparency is vital to a fair stock market.

EDWIN RAHN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: EDWIN RAHN Investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners.

Edwin Williamson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Edwin Williamson I am aware that the Securities and Exchange Commission is considering a rule proposal that, if promulgated, would give public companies the option to issue its investor reports on a semi-annual basis, rather than the current quarterly requirement. I very much oppose this concept in that it would limit communication with shareholders to only two times per year. This idea runs counter to the idea of greater transparency and accountability to shareholders. As a retired senior lawyer in a publicly traded company for nearly twenty-five years, I appreciate the time, effort and expense associated with quarterly financial reporting, but I also know that most public companies have fine tuned and streamlined this effort over the years. It is manageable and a commitment companies make when they elect to go public. Shareholders finance the activities of public companies. In return, we deserve to hear from them at least four times a year.

Efraim Shalom Frishman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Efraim Shalom Frishman I don't think Semiannual reporting is a good idea. That makes investors less confidant in companies.

Eileen Courtney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Eileen Courtney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Question: How does this strengthen investor's confidence in the SEC to regulate our investment system? Lack of transparency even for 6months in markets that move at quickly accelerating levels leaves most people at a disadvantage. How does this serve anyone but insiders and fraudsters?
Eileen Courtney

Eileen Devlin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Eileen Devlin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I rely on quarterly information. I want to see quarterly reporting .

EILEEN GUSS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: EILEEN GUSS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You must keep quarterly recordings

Eileen
Sent from my iPhone

Eileen Hunter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Eileen Hunter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It's needs to remain quarterly to protect investors big and small. Too much can happen in 6 months. You owe it to the people who could lose everything they've worked and scrimped for. Eileen Hunter retired

Eileen
Life is not about waiting for the storm to pass. It's about dancing in the rain.

Eileen Kelly Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eileen Kelly Hello, I am an individual investor. The stocks I own are a piece of a business. My investment in that company deserves regular, transparent communication about that company. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. The argument that fewer reports would reduce costs is weak in the age of AI. Taking the reports away makes everyone less informed. Individual investors are vital to the health of Wall Street and our economy. Please allow us to stay informed. Sincerely, Eileen Kelly

---

Eileen Matarese — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Eileen Matarese Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I have worked hard for my money since I was 15. If you do go to Semi-Annual Reporting, it will make my monthly budget much harder. I'm at a stage in my life where I no longer get raises or for that matter a paycheck.
I depend on Quarterly Reporting to make sure my little nest egg is there if I need it for major expenses.
So, SEC, please keep Quarterly Reporting.
Eileen Matarese, Retired, Delaware

Eileen Murray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Eileen Murray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why not monthly? They already have the records. All they have to do is sign them. Don’t make it easier to evade accountability. Your goal should be to make it harder.

Sent from my iPhone

Eileen Spina — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Eileen Spina Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: I demand to receive quarterly reports on my stocks.

Eileen Stewart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eileen Stewart Please keep reporting at 4 times per year. Investors need to know what is going on with the companies they are invested in. Very important to keep reporting at 4 times per year.

Eileen Woodard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Eileen Woodard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Accountability please! What are you afraid of? JUST DO IT 💪

Elaine Baker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Elaine Baker I am concerned about the proposed reduction in reporting requirements for publicly held companies from quarterly to semiannually. Retirees such as myself, and our financial advisors, rely on those reports to manage our assets. I respectfully submit that the reporting requirement frequency remain as current.

Elaine Good — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Elaine Good Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the reporting quarterly for more accountability and transparency.

Elaine Jaureguizar — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Elaine Jaureguizar I love this idea! Instead of quarterly reporting, semi-annual reports would free up the companies to focus on results (products, services, etc.) instead of trying to micromanage every quarter. Being more long-range focused would be great. Besides, I really HATE having to watch EPS and Revenue results every 3 months. I get done with one quarter and have to start over again. It would be nice to have a breather on my side, too.

Elaine Lore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Elaine Lore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not do away with quarterly reporting. The CEO's need to certify and issue these reports. I await mine each quarter. Stop letting big businesses get away with not being responsible for their actions.
Elaine H. Lore, New Jersey resident

Elaine Napp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Elaine Napp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports. No insider trading by anyone. Stop fraud. Protect the investments of average Americans. Isn’t that your job-why you exist in the first place.

Elaine Nepsha — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Elaine Nepsha Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
One could only understand the concern if a senior if they have struggled as well to work hard to secure their future. I may not gave an enormous investment portfolio, however I want to know its' status at a moments notice. Why change something that has always worked for the masses.

Elaine Perry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Elaine Perry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting favors the consumer as they can make adjustments to help with corrections of their investments. We are retired losses are very difficult to overcome.

Sent from my iPad

Elaine Stockdale — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Elaine Stockdale Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Submit quarterly. Elaine Stockdale,81, retired, have small investment and not wanting to risk loss in saving/ investments.

Sent from my iPhone

Elan Jackson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Elan Jackson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting has been the standard for transparency and helping people make more informed choices. E. T. Jackson, admin.

ET Jackson

Eldred Fuchs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Eldred Fuchs Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want my quarterly report!

Sent from my iPhone

Eleanor Rice — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Eleanor Rice Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Dear Sir,
I am requesting that you do not change the present system of quarterly reporting for publicly traded companies. This raises the opportunity for fraud.
This affects me personally as my retirement fund is made up of stock options. I must know how my money is being handled.
Thank-you for your consideration of this very important issue. I will be following your decision with great interest.

Eleanor Rice — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Eleanor Rice Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTS! MOST people who have investments don't need any more help stealing money or hiding in. The very idea of considering this change reeks of collusion and conspiracy.

Elena Eastwood The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Elena Eastwood At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. In the age of AI, taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. Please keep reporting four times a year to keep transparency for decision making processes.

Elena Melnedez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Elena Melnedez A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that’s a mistake! At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Please reject the proposed changes to reduce quarterly reports for publicly owned and traded companies.

Elena Wahl — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Keep quarterly reports From: Elena Wahl Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear SEC staff,

My name is Elena Wahl, and I teach music at a public elementary school. I depend on my investments to fund my retirement. We need to keep reporting quarterly so that we can make good investment decisions, and not lose our hard-earned retirement income.

Sincerely,
Elena Wahl
Lebanon, Ohio

Eli Gibson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Eli Gibson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
As a layperson, I believe investors should have a right to know as much as possible about the financials of the companies they are investing in. The less transparency there is, the more blatantly corporate executives will be able to pull the rug with even less of a chance for any consequences. That's why this rule is dumb, and will only make things worse for everybody except, of course, the corrupt people at the top and those who would personally profit off of it.
Not only that, but it would also likely lead to outcomes that affect people's retirements, given that laypeople would not know as much about making consistently good trades as professionals would. Quarterly reports, except in which there is false information, are critical to helping both casual investors and institutional ones better understand what it is they are getting into.

Eli Horowitz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eli Horowitz This feels an awul lot like an invitation for powerful people to play stupid games with corporate money. We already live in a society where companies lack accountability and executives and owners treat their organizations like personal playthings that serve no greater social purpose. Stop trying to give them even more leeway to screw around.

---

elin richardson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: elin richardson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Bad policy for average people

---

elin richardson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: elin richardson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Who is listening and what can be done

---

Elinore Moore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Elinore Moore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
My retirement funds rely on regular,valid, timely reporting
With the speed of the current financial game, 6 months is a lifetime for blackout period & is absurd
So much time without scrutiny is not necessary or prudent
With all the technology advancements more rather than than less reporting & transperency would be easy to produce if there is political will to produce reports regularly

---

Elisabeth C Gallegos — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Elisabeth C Gallegos Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Accountability protects hardworking individuals. Do not cut corners but continue upholding laws to protect investors. Do the right thing.

Elisabeth

Elisabeth Lindemuth — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Elisabeth Lindemuth Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is extremely important for total transparency.

Elisabeth Lindemuth
Retired
Sent from my iPhone

Elise — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Elise Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yes to quarterly reporting! It’s important to keep information available for better decision making and less cheating.

No to a change of only twice a year! More opportunity for fraud.

Thanks for your attention …

Elise DeMichael
Retired Educator

Sent from my iPhone

Elise Breyette — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Elise Breyette Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Twice a year is not enough to be notified about my investments. It is hard enough to keep up quarterly. Investors will not be informed and have time to respond before significant changes are made. It will only result in more lawsuits. These rules were put in place for a reason. Leave them alone! If anything they should be strengthend.

Elise Holloway — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Elise Holloway Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reports as I like to keep up with changes!

Sent from my iPhone

Elissa Nolan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Elissa Nolan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: I urge you to not end the quarterly reporting requirement for public companies. As retirees, my husband and I need to know how our modest investments are doing on a regular basis. Please continue to assure that public companies are held accountable and that we all, even small investors, have equal access to vital information by retaining the quarterly reporting requirement.
Thank you.

Elizabeth Adado — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Adado Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Hello, we as working citizens need transparency. We work to build a life and future to support ourselves and family, our present and future. Please don't pass this.

Elizabeth Allbright — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Allbright Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting, while a hassle for the people doing the work to produce the report, is a very important check and balance in the company’s internal management. We need to keep quarterly reporting in place, and it must be done properly, by those with strong accounting skills, asking the hard questions of superiors.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth Allbright

---

elizabeth allison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: elizabeth allison Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The fascist attempt to reduce the (required by current law) quarterly SEC reporting to semi annual, is being added to the growing list of reasons why I will never vote for another Republican. The party no longer supports law and order…no longer has oversight into billionaires and corporations that want to enrich themselves off of our citizens.

Elizabeth Allison

Sent from my iPhone

Elizabeth Arias - Hernandez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Elizabeth Arias - Hernandez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello. My name is Elizabeth Arias-Hernandez, I am a Portfolio Manager in Collections. Quarterly Reporting helps me monitor fluctuations in the market to make changes that better suits my future funds healthy growth. Without Quarterly reporting, fraud would be rampant. Keep Quarterly reports for transparency and ethical practices for all.

Get Outlook for Android

Elizabeth Baer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Baer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Be open and honest. Ruling over a country run like Russia will not play out well in the long run no matter what Trump thinks. Just ask the oligarchs that have backed Putin for so long.

Elizabeth Barris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Barris Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The plan to allow for only every 6 month reporting is extremely shady to say the least. We hope you do not actually try and go through with that. Thank you.

Elizabeth Beene — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Elizabeth Beene Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please stop. You've already grifted enough from.the average American. What? You're not rich enough? This sounds so illegal and just plain wrong. Stop. Stop Grifting Americans.

Elizabeth Beene, RN, BSN, MSN, Retired graywolf112756@gmail.com

---

Elizabeth Buell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Buell I vehemently protest this proposed change. Companies are responsible to their shareholders. Saving themselves money, especially during a time of increasing AI , at the expense of informing shareholders is pure negligence, in my opinion.

Elizabeth Chandler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Chandler I respectfully urge the SEC not to adopt the proposed rule that would permit public companies to report financial results on a semiannual basis rather than the current quarterly reporting schedule. Transparency is the cornerstone of well-functioning public capital markets. Investors, analysts, employees, and the public rely on timely and consistent disclosure to make informed decisions. Reducing the frequency of required reporting would diminish transparency and leave everyone with less information for longer periods of time. Transparency serves as a critical safeguard against misconduct. The principle that "sunlight is the best disinfectant" remains as true today as ever. Frequent disclosure promotes accountability, allows problems to be identified sooner, and reduces opportunities for fraud, mismanagement, and other abuses to remain hidden for extended periods. Less frequent reporting would inevitably create larger information gaps and increase the risk that investors are left unaware of material developments. In today's technological environment, preparing and disseminating financial information has never been easier or less expensive. Modern accounting systems, enterprise software, and electronic filing platforms have dramatically reduced the burden associated with public reporting. Moreover, companies already prepare financial statements and operational data on a quarterly basis for internal management, boards of directors, lenders, and other stakeholders. As a result, the incremental cost savings from withholding that information from public investors are likely modest. Investors and the public deserve access to timely information about the companies in which they invest. Public markets function best when information is broadly available, current, and reliable. The SEC's mission of protecting investors and maintaining fair, orderly, and efficient markets is advanced by robust disclosure requirements, not weakened by them. Finally, the quarterly reporting system has served U.S. capital markets effectively for decades. It has contributed to the transparency, integrity, and global competitiveness of our markets. Before abandoning a framework that has worked successfully for generations, there should be compelling evidence that the benefits of change outweigh the costs. No such case has been made. For these reasons, I strongly encourage the Commission to retain the current quarterly reporting requirements and reject any proposal to replace them with semiannual reporting. Thank you for your consideration.

Elizabeth Davis Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Davis Half as many business updates eliminates half of the transparency that is critical in investing. Less transparency creates uncertainty and larger swings in market prices will be a direct result. Less information is NEVER a positive in the investment community whether you are a small or large investor!

---

elizabeth gray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: elizabeth gray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency matters. Stop caving to the bad whims of rich investment companies and cheating businesses. Report quarterly or more frequently. Does any one have sense anymore?

Lizanne Gray
lizanne.gray@gmail.com or gray.elizabeth@comcast.net

Elizabeth Gruebel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Elizabeth Gruebel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly! Knowledge is power!

Sent from my iPhone

Elizabeth H Jenkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Elizabeth H Jenkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please continue to keep the reporting quarterly. We deserve transparency from everyone. As an ordinary elder citizen honesty matters very much to me. There is no reason to hide just because you are richer than I am. Sincerely, Elizabeth H Jenkins

Sent from my iPad

Elizabeth Hawkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Hawkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mrs. Elizabeth Hawkins, Retired Public Employee, Utah. KEEP the Quarterly signing!!! It is Honestly the RIGHT THING TO DO. I sincerely believe that BIG MONEY has taken the LARGEST RUIN OF OUR CORPORATIONS AND GOVERNMENT ELECTED OFFICIALS. MOCKING AMERICANS who struggle to survive in our Nations current conditions. The SEC has a sacred honor to protect us from those who would undermine our security. PLEASE, Quarterly signing protects everyone of us and YOU are definitely one of US ALSO. Thank You very much for reading my opinion.

Sent from my iPhone

Elizabeth Hosler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Hosler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential to keeping investors informed and companies accountable. Quarterly reporting should be required for both businesses and government agencies.

Elizabeth Hosler, CPA

Columbus, Ohio

Sent from my iPhone

Elizabeth Jackson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Elizabeth Jackson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Elizabeth Jackson, Better Investing member and 25 year investment club member. I support continuation of the quarterly reporting practice for greater awareness and transparency purposes. We find that the quarterly reports allows us to make timely investment decisions that would not be possible with a reduction in reporting requirements. The quarterly reporting is a benefit to independent investors. Please keep this practice in place. Thank you.

ELIZABETH LAYS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: ELIZABETH LAYS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This should never happen. There are enough frauds in the corporate world. This will only increase lack of transparency.

Sent from my iPad

ELIZABETH LAYS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: ELIZABETH LAYS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This should never happen. There are enough frauds in the corporate world. This will only increase lack of transparency. Elizabeth Lays, Carmel, CA retired

Sent from my iPad

Elizabeth McDonald Faculty, University of Toronto — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth McDonald Less reporting means less information and more volitility.

Elizabeth Mejillones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Elizabeth Mejillones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am Ms. E. Mejillones, an accountant and administrator for private small businesses. As someone that has investment accounts for retirement and college savings, timely and relevant information is vital in this fast paced environment. More gaps in information keep everyday people out of the information loop that they use to make decisions that shape their futures. With Ai at the forefront, the expectation is more data & information would be available for better decision-making. Less is unacceptable. Its makes no sense when data accessibility and distillation is becoming easier to obtain. Costs for reporting should be decreasing as well given this leap in technology. We cannot accept less when we know more is possible and getting easier to execute.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Elizabeth Melvin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Elizabeth Melvin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Wrong. Completely wrong. A way for billionaires and companies to make more off of the working people. What's wrong with you guys??

Elizabeth Moore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Moore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
As a senior who spent a lifetime growing my saving to protect myself and my children, I emphatically protest any degradation of protections by the SEC.
E. A. Moore, retired, disabled & still fighting for Democracy.

Elizabeth Morris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Morris Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep quarterly reports so we can monitor fund performance and make changes to prevent loss.

Elizabeth Oriol — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Oriol Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly reports are done to keep investors aware of what is happening in the company.keeping this information confidential is wrong, ordinary people should have the same information as insider, so they can make informed decisions.

Elizabeth Pape — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Elizabeth Pape Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Daycare provider
The Process of the path backwards in this administration is quite evident . It seems that if you can't see it it isn't there , the typical conman and keep it the way it is .

Elizabeth Sass — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Sass Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep the transparency, it affects people trying to find a better way of life, it affects our product purchases, it keeps people and businesses honest

---

Elizabeth Simpson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Elizabeth Simpson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Liz S -Social Worker - as someone who is trying to start a family and not live paycheck to paycheck in the future knowing I am building something with the stock market for my children's future holds hope for me. I'll also say that having the opportunity to teach my children how to invest is imperative. Without normal citizens being able to invest daily, I wouldn't trust the market to take care od my money. Period.

Elizabeth Steddick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Steddick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a no-brainer. There's no reason to change the rule. Reduced reporting only allows people to hide something long enough to make their profit & run.
Why give them a longer getaway time? I have little available income to invest, but I want to know where it is and who's using it if I'm depending on this for my retirement someday. Would you be comfortable handing somebody 10% of your income and say I don't need to know where you use it for six months? I don't think so.

Sent from my iPhone

Elizabeth Underhill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Underhill Less information is not better. The market is volatile as it is. Please don't be pressured to reduce reporting periods. We want to hear updates 4 times per year.

Elizabeth W. Stivers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Elizabeth W. Stivers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 CEO accountability is critical. Do not reduce any of the tools of CEO accountability.

Betsy

Elizabeth W. Stivers
Yarmouth, ME 04096

Retired Assistant, Attorney General and previous in-house counsel to Fortune 250 company.

207-200-1008
ewstivers@gmail.com

Elizabeth Walter n/a — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Walter I am a retail investor and as such, I am a partial owner of the companies in which I invest. Owners of any business need frequent updates of how the company is doing. Thus, I require and deserve regular transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Thus, I strongly oppose the proposal to give companies I invest in the option to reduce their transparency by reducing the frequency (from the currently required quarterly reports to only twice a year reports) in which they report to me, an owner, on how well the company is doing.

Elizabeth Willingham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Elizabeth Willingham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is a must for companies. Please stop changing laws that have kept our country accountable. I am retired from the legal field and can sense that this will lead to fraud.

Elizabeth W

Elizabeth Wolfe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Elizabeth Wolfe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting must be maintained To the Securities and Exchange Commission Quarterly reporting must be maintained so investors know how secure their investment is and understand what changes are being made to improve performance and who is selling shares. Thank you Elizabeth

---

Ellen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ellen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Ellen Woodworth, retired, and counting on my IRAs to pay for my living expenses for the next two decades because Social Security won't be enough. Hold corporations responsible by keeping reporting quarterly!

Ellen Beck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Ellen Beck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
We as a country have been here before. The corruption will topple the financial markets. The gains will benefit a few while the entire country loses.

FYI, Talk on the street, the general public are considering pulling out their investments in the stock markets.

Ellen Bitkower — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ellen Bitkower Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 They need to keep it as is!!!!

Ellen Clark — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ellen Clark Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lazy or just stingy?

Ellen Hektner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ellen Hektner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would anyone do this except to perform criminal acts. You better be on the ball SEC That's what you're there for!!!

Ellen Hiatt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ellen Hiatt Reduced transparency in terms of frequency of reporting is anathema to the model of stock ownership. Stock holders deserve transparency into the companies into which they invest. Reducing the frequency of reporting is going to reduce accountability and create potentially catastrophic results both for individual investors and for the overall economy. People need some window into what they're putting their money. Do not reduce the requirements for frequency of reporting for publicly traded companies.

Ellen Kelly — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ellen Kelly Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need more oversight not less Hire more auditors less thieves.

Sent from my iPhone

Ellen Lee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ellen Lee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Ellen Lee - retired
No one trust the government already …..less reporting the less trust

Sent from my iPhone

Ellen R. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ellen R. While the premise of this proposed rule is to reduce costs (arguable in today's age of technology), the actual result will be a disconnect between company owners and how their businesses function. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Sharing less information rarely creates better-informed owners, which is what would happen if this passes. We cannot let short-sightedness about company management further reduce investors' ability to make effective and well-informed decisions.

Ellen Ray — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ellen Ray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Ellen Ray, RPh and this is a HUGE mistake to reduce the number of accountability checks!
Although I'm not a heavy trader and investor, my retirement portfolio managers are!!
Every possible shady deal and new grift scheme is already destroying myself and my family with soaring prices. Unattainable housing is just one of the many results.
Please DO NOT make changes to the quarterly system of checks and balances and further chip away at democracy!

Ellen Roberts Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ellen Roberts Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 They should continue to report quarterly. PERIOD. There seems to be a complete change of what the tried and true norms were and do you see where it has gotten us? Do your job the way you are supposed to do it. If I hadn't done mine as told I'd have been looking for other employment. Now a day these upper class, shake their head yes and then do whatever they feel like. Accountability is moving quickly to "I got mine" . Good luck getting yours! Morals, standards and honesty are sliding by the wayside.

If we the people do not do something way sooner than later we are going to be in worse shape than we are currently in.

If we have to abide by the rules ~ they should also. End of topic.

Ellen Ruggles — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ellen Ruggles Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear SEC:

Could you please clarify how much less the ones who do this signing off of financials will receive under this new structure? I imagine none.

I am skeptical of this change being needed or an improvement. Please keep this as it is now.

Best regards,

Ellen Ruggles

Ellin Larsen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Ellin Larsen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: This is outrageous behavior, designed to create theft,manipulating the market,etc. Pretty obvious. Do not allow this to happen.

Ellis J Neufeld — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ellis J Neufeld I am an individual investor. I think the semiannual reporting proposal is a TERRIBLE idea. Institutional investors and the very wealthy have all kinds of information about how companies are doing all the time. Investors are the owners of the companies, management should not get a Federally sponsored pass on telling the actual owners how they are doing and what is new. In an era of rapid spread of information and AI assistance, quarterly is not too frequent to report to the actual owners. While i tend to agree that companies should invest and plan for the long run, quarterly reporting doesn't prevent this in any way. I work for a non-profit, we have a six year strategic plan AND quarterly reporting of how we are doing. Please continue quarterly reporting to the actual owners, us.

Elmer Day — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Elmer Day Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quartely!

Sent from my iPhone

Elsa Quiles — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Elsa Quiles Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The middle class deserves transparency and accountability from companies that hold our investments. The rich class have their accountants who have direct access to Wall Street moguls.

No to the proposed rule!
Sent from my iPhone

Em Tee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Em Tee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello,

I'm Miley, I work in IT, 31 years old.
Wages are stagnant, affordable housing options are limited, stocks are being manipulated by trillionaires, the new fed chairman is going to increase inflation to evaporate government debt. I would just like for me and my peers to afford to have a family and be able to retire one day. This new quarterly reporting is a clever way to screw over consumers. Stop them from stealing from the middle class.

Thanks,
Miley

Emilia Enfield — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Emilia Enfield Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Emilia, and I am writing to voice my strong opposition to the proposal allowing public companies to transition from quarterly to semiannual financial reporting. As an individual who is now permanently disabled due to a preventable workplace accident, I have a deep, personal understanding of why continuous corporate accountability and rigorous financial oversight are matters of absolute necessity.

Quarterly reporting serves as a critical check on how corporate management allocates capital. In my experience, executives claimed to be investing heavily in infrastructure and safety upgrades, yet the lack of timely, granular transparency allowed them to misallocate those funds toward executive luxuries, including personal vehicles. When companies can obscure their actual expenditures for six months at a time, it becomes far easier to defer critical infrastructure updates. This lack of immediate accountability creates hazardous environments, directly jeopardizing worker safety and long-term shareholder value.

Extending the reporting period to six months will only worsen these systemic issues. It creates a dangerous "blackout" window where management can hide misaligned spending priorities from public scrutiny for half a year. A company's financial discipline and its operational safety are deeply intertwined; reducing the frequency of public filings strips investors and workers of the tools needed to hold executives accountable before preventable tragedies occur.

The SEC's primary mission is to protect investors and maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets. Reducing transparency to save on corporate compliance costs is an unacceptable trade-off that invites mismanagement. I urgently request that the Commission reject the Form 10-S proposal and preserve mandatory quarterly reporting to ensure executives remain continuously accountable for their financial and operational choices.

Sincerely,
Emilia
Tacoma, WA

Emily Fleming — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Emily Fleming Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In today's world with fraud running rampant, why would you cut the reporting "in half?" It's giving the "crooks" a "free pass" for more fraud! Quarterly reporting is CRUCIAL!

Emily Hagaman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Emily Hagaman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please stop the corruption we need transparency!!!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Emily Kane — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Emily Kane Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I don't see why we have to change the quarterly cadence of reports. Keeping it quarterly is fine.

Emily Schnatz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Emily Schnatz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is important for checks and balances. Please do the right thing for the right reason, always!

Emily Thomason — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Emily Thomason Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Protect consumers not companies! Rules should only be changed for legitimate reasons not because businesses would prefer it, reporting window should be left alone, quarterly makes sense.

Emily Hart

Sent from my iPhone

Emily Vazquez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Emily Vazquez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retiree, some of my income is dependent on what's happening to various companies. You don't know what will happen in the future--another pandemic, a natural disaster, a bone headed move by a head of state. Transparency is paramount! Emily Vazquez-Coulson

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Emma Bertok Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Emma Bertok Transparency is a must Less reporting is not transparent enough

---

Emma Hartman n/a — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Emma Hartman I have heard about the plan to allow companies to only inform persons 2x per year with business reports which are currently issued quarterly. I object. Especially in the current A! generated report world ...I cannot see that LESS / Fewer opportunities to obtain business disclosures is to my benefit- or -that it would reduce the SEC workload significantly. Generating quarterly reports is the least they can do . I have to do the work to read them. Sincerely, Emma Hartman

---

Emmy Bright — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Emmy Bright Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. Companies need MORE oversight in this economic and political environment, not less! Thank you. Emily Bright, Voter from Detroit MI 48211

Sent from Ephone

---

emory martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: emory martin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is a reason for this law!

Sent from my iPhone

Enoc Salazar-Ruiz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Enoc Salazar-Ruiz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Enoc, Banker. We need transparency, if companies want to continue to thrive with OUR money, then we need to keep quarterly reporting. Allowing companies to delay reporting for six months with only foster fraud, risky behaviors, & less participation in the stock market.

Enrico — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Enrico Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is *ing outrageous. At a time were fraud and facsism is at an all time high and you people want to make regulations more loose?? Really ? How criminal...

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Enrique Behar — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Enrique Behar I am totally against reducing reporting by companies to two times per year. I am a strong supporter of quarterly reports and hope this rule does not pass. As small investors, we need all information available on a regular quarterly basis.

Eric The Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric This is a terrible idea! Reduces transparency and increases risks for shareholders!

Eric Ashworth — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Eric Ashworth Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Just when trust is down to the point that many are calling for a revolution to set our government back to where we the people think it should be this is just yet another move that looks like a kick to our heads. We are all struggling and by no means need less transparency or less reporting on actual facts. To suggest or make it so is a slap. It's almost to the point where laughing will take over the dread and crying. I am watching the lies, fake everything, and total surveillance of every so called free(laughable) citizen of this country with data centers, AI and flock cameras strippng our freedom and wiping their collective behind on our constitution..... ENOUGH CHANGE HAS ALREADY BEEN THROWN DOWN OUR THROATS

Eric Beasley Motley Fool Community and Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Beasley I urge that the reporting requirements for public companies not be reduced to 2 per year as this would significantly reduce the ability of investors evaluate investing in and evaluating an investment in a public company.

Eric Buther — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Buther The proposed bill to further decrease transparency to its shareholders is exactly the wrong move at the wrong time. Our government is being grifted like never before, this bill presents an opportunity to keep the public in the dark. There are so many over valued companies at this time that understanding corporate plans and performance is more critical than ever before. In a year, I will start my retirement, I will be counting on my investments to perform. I need to see and understand how the companies I place my faith in are doing. This is an extremely poor (although not surprising) decision at an incredibly difficult time. I believe despite the performance of the market the negative effects of the policies of this administration have still not been fully realized, although it seems to be starting.

Eric Chang Shareholder of Many Companies — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Chang I am writing to file my opposition to Proposal S7-2026-15. As a shareholder / owner of many public companies, I think it is vital to continue the quarterly reporting. Reducing this to twice per year, would reduce the already limited information we receive regarding OUR investments. I am sure all companies keep their books up to date, so it should not be a hardship or considerable expense to do public reporting quarterly. If this policy goes into effect, we will be back to the days when big investors can act on information well before the general public can since they will have the influence to be able to see and speak to insiders with knowledge that is not available to the public. Please do not allow this policy to go into effect.

Eric Eguina — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Eguina Transparency for owners/investor!

Eric Frey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Eric Frey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Eric Frey. I am semi-retired and have investments in American companies. It helps me knowing that reporting is done quarterly. Companies that are having issues will hide behind delayed reporting. I don’t like surprises with my retirement investments.

~Eric

Eric Fritz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Eric Fritz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Don't be scum. Keep quarterly reports. With technology today, we should be getting more reports, not less. Anyone who supports bi-annual reporting is a scumbag POS.

Eric Gering American Institute of Architects — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Gering Financial markets need more transparency, not less to be honest and effective.

Eric Gerleman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Eric Gerleman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Someone has to accept. Responsibility.

Eric Guerin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Eric Guerin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The quarterly reporting as required presently needs to be kept in place. This would be detrimental to shareholders and investors of these companies.

Thank You

Sent from my iPhone

Eric Kline — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Eric Kline Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly Reporting

---

eric kurfman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: eric kurfman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is obvious that the only people who will benefit are the millionaire/ billionaire class. PLEASE do not stop quartly reporting. Enroll is only one example of what will happen.

"The majority of quotes found on the internet are incorrect." --Abraham Lincoln

"Peacemaking is nothing more than giving other peoples' conscience the same respect we want for our own." -- Wayne Jacobsen

---

Eric Larra The Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Larra Investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Eric Lee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Eric Lee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Biannual reporting is a very bad idea, and should not be put into practice. Thank you.

Eric Lee

Eric Levine — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Levine Please do not reduce reporting. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Eric McQuilkin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric McQuilkin Shareholders and owners need more transparency not less. The costs of reporting are deminimus compared to the necessary and obligatory mandate that mangers report to owners and provide accurate accounting of operations throughout the year. Please continue to require QUARTERLY REPORTING.

Eric Meece — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Meece Keep quarterly reports requirements on CEOs please

---

Eric Moller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Moller I am very strongly against this bill. To suggest that a less informed public is EVER better than a more informed one is the absolute height of stupidity. If companies are unable to handle the burden of quarterly reports, then they should remain private. To earn their right to my investment, I deserve to know what the company is doing. Difficult to claim that in a day of AI, and increasingly powerful Information Technology systems, a quarterly report is a burden. This will do nothing positive and only increase people's ability to hide that which they don't want their investors to see.

Eric Nicholson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Nicholson I think the 6 month reporting rule is a mistake. It gives less transparency to investors, who, after all, are the owners of the company. Semiannual reports will cause more volatility around earnings, make it harder for investors to efficiently allocate capital, and could increase company incentives to manipulate earnings.

Eric Snyder IntelligenceISIT Unipessoal Lda — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Snyder The idea to let companies file less often doesn't make sense in a world when most of the report can be written by an AI and then simply checked by humans. Consider that investors will make decisions based on this information, and 6 months is too long of a wait to get the information which will drive these investments. Heck, I'm buying and selling stock every day. Do we really think reporting less often is going to result in any huge cost savings? for who? If you're open to it, I'd like to see some alternate proposals on the new rule, rather than cutting down the granularity of reports. Thanks for listening. -e

---

Eric spiewak — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Eric spiewak Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change reporting to anything less than quarterly

Sent from my iPhone

Eric St. Louis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric St. Louis I am against reducing the number of public company reports. This puts the average investor in a state where there is greater risk of ill informed decision making due to the lack of transparency. Also, I find it hard to believe that after several years, it has been proposed that the current manner of reporting is too burdensome on a publicly traded company.

Eric Swift — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Eric Swift Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There are enough attempts already to reduce accountability. We need more if anything. Leave the reporting rules as they are currently! Eric Swift

Sent from my iPhone

Eric V — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Eric V Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I’m Eric Vermillion a retired electrician in Gladstone OR, and I’m NOT in favor of changing the quarterly reporting.
Being in a family that was a victim of this exact type of corporate theft, you CAN NOT ALLOW this to change. I wouldn’t be surprised if the president directed this change, it’s the Easiest way for corporations to scam, grift, & mislead ALL investors in America. Those that are pushing this change have Only their own interests in mind , NOT the investors that makes it all possible! ABSOLUTELY NO!!!!!

Eric von Lunen Geophysicist and Investor Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric von Lunen I believe transparency can not be maintained with fewer than 4 reports to investors annually. Cost of reporting is not an acceptable reason to justify less investor reporting.

Eric Wagner Individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Wagner It is incredibly important to maintain quarterly reporting. This allows investors to get regular updates on all aspects of a companies financials and operations. Twice annual reporting will result in less disclosure, more mystery, greater opportunity for fraud and an unlevel environment for non institutional investors. Thank you

---

Eric Wilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Eric Wilson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't let the crooks off the hook, Keep Reporting !

Eric Wsrner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eric Wsrner This makes it too easy for in investors to be relieved of their investments.

Erick Chandos Retired electronic engineer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Erick Chandos I’m respectfully asking that the reduced reporting periods be abandoned because transparency is important, the more information we have, the better it is for the investors. We as small investors already have very little insight into publicly traded companies, by cutting the frequencies of report will pit us at a more disadvantaged position.

Erick DeVore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Erick DeVore Quarterly reporting protects individual investors. Semiannual reporting doubles the information gap between insiders and ordinary shareholders. That gap is where volatility, uncertainty, and mistrust grow. The short-termism diagnosis doesn't justify this remedy. Research from the CFA Institute, which studied this exact maneuver in the U.K. market, shows that reporting frequency has no measurable effect on corporate investment behavior. The SEC is accepting a real cost – less transparency for individual investors – for a benefit that the evidence says simply won't materialize. The companies most likely to opt out are the ones where oversight matters most. Smaller, less-covered businesses operate with less scrutiny. Reducing their reporting requirements makes them harder to monitor, not easier to own. This is the wrong direction. Reg FD moved toward a more level playing field. This proposal moves away from it. The companies we trade are not being held back from greatness by the obligation to file four reports a year. The entire S&P 500 files a 10-Q every quarter, and the S&P 500 is at an all-time high. If quarterly reporting is crushing American capitalism, American capitalism is hiding it well.

Erick Tapia — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Erick Tapia Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
What is the benefit of hiding quarterly earnings ? To promote transparancy and investments with the public, the public should be allowed to review quarterly earnings! The SEC is supposed to help prevent insider trading and stop corruption, not promote it.

Ericka — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ericka Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 EJ Haqqi - Stay at home Mom, raising the next generation. We invest so much of our hard earned money so that we can provide security for our children and retirement for us. With the government trying to get rid of social security (that we've paid into our whole lives!) we need reliable and timely stock information to make sure we don't lose our life savings.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Erik Day — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Erik Day Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Erik Day. Moving SEC reporting to semi-annual instead of quarterly will allow for further insider trading and corruption. This is clearly wrong, especially given the obvious insider trading already occurring and that current federal government ignores or whos leaders are the one's performing the insider trading. Do not allow this. Time to think about the bottom 99%.

Erik Fudge — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Erik Fudge Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is no reason for publicly owned and traded companies to go back to 6 month reports, as shareholders we have a right to know how the company does every quarter. Most citizens arent able to brush off their losses, thats peoples retirements and savings, we need to be able to know how our investments perform so we can know if we need to make changes before people's entire savings are wiped out. -Erik F, Massachusetts.

Sent from AOL on Android

Erik Hill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Erik Hill Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is just creating more corruption. Ponzi schemes disguised corporation.

--

Sent with mail.com Mail app

Erik Jackson Financial Advisor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Erik Jackson I am writing today because reducing public company reporting from quarterly to semi annual is an overall negative for investors. While it may slightly reduce cost, it provides less transparency and reduces the ability for investors to educate themselves and understand the details of what is going on within publicly traded companies. I believe the present quarterly reporting should stay. Thank you.

Erik Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Erik Johnson As an investor, it is imperative that we get accurate and timely information regarding how the companies we are investing in are doing. Reducing the required reporting does not benefit investor/owners. It just makes us less informed and slower to react effectively to needed changes or opportunities.

Erik Polk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Erik Polk In this day and age we need MORE transparency, not less. Quarterly reports need to remain quarterly. Thanks

---

Erik Ross — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Erik Ross Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I strongly urge the SEC to maintain the quarterly reporting requirement because extending the cycle to six months creates a dangerous information gap that directly harms retail investors. While corporate insiders, well-connected analysts, and massive institutional funds have the resources to track a company's health behind the scenes, everyday investors rely entirely on these mandatory public disclosures for basic transparency. Allowing companies to "go dark" for half a year strips away the public's primary tool for making informed financial decisions, fundamentally tilting the playing field toward Wall Street and leaving regular investors vulnerable to delayed, devastating market surprises.

Erik Ross

Erika Horstmann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Erika Horstmann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No quarterly reporting! Why would you even consider this. Not good for every day citizens. Stop the madness!

Erika

Erika Huddleston — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Erika Huddleston Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not change the reporting rules. I believe it will hurt small investors like myself who are relying on market returns for retirement, it will create a lack of transparency that will ultimately harm markets and potentially bread fraud. These rules were put in place for a reason. Let's continue with responsible and quarterly reporting so that we can continue to have healthier markets. Thank you.

---

erika johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: erika johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 S7-2026-15 is bad for America. Allowing longer gaps in reporting only benefits corporate insiders, and will hurt average Americans. Please don’t pass this!

Erika Peters — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Erika Peters Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Opposition to the new SEC proposal would let them go dark for six months at a time .

Eric Peters, military, to ensure company do due to their stakeholders who invested their hard earned money.

Sent from my iPhone

Erika Reynolds — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Erika Reynolds Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting. Transparency is best for all involved. Not to mention that we, the people, are the most important part of this country. Holding businesses accountable helps to ensure that they remain honest. It is also just good business sense. Small businesses and non-profits have to report everything and remain transparent. It's non-negotiable.

Erika L. Reynolds
Mother, Co-founder & Executive Director of Rezilience Community Support Services

---

Erin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Erin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Erin Maloney, Human Resources Manager. Quarterly reporting is one of the most important reporting functions the US has. Don’t change it so that bad actors have 6 months at a time to hide their illegal movements.

Sent from my iPhone

Erin Benson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Erin Benson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need oversight more than ever.

Erin Lloyd — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Erin Lloyd Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting keeps public companies honest. We demand honesty.

Erin Rapp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Erin Rapp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don’t fold to the corrupt. Keep accountability.

Sent from my iPhone

Erin Rivers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Erin Rivers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep the current requirements for quarterly reporting. Right now, even the appearance of the corruption inherent with the lack of transparency could negatively impact investment and people's confidence in the market. Keep the report quarterly!
Erin Rivers
Lenexa, Kansas

Erin Rose — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Erin Rose Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports is the most common since if there are errors it is very likely to be caught earlier than later to make corrections!! Erin Rose, retired Office Manager and bookkeeper.

Erin Sandera — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Erin Sandera Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We have to have quarterly reporting. At the very least, I would make it monthly! Do we really think after Enron and the worldwide economic crash that they caused that they're just going to do the right thing?!!

Erin Sanders — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Erin Sanders Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This matters to me and many others . Quarterly reporting is not good enough itself. We need it to be monthly so the small investor such as myself can make better more educated decisions about what happens with our money. Every six months is ridiculous. Will only benefit the top shareholders and will leave the little guys standing in the dust having lost retirement and college funds, and everything else because we won’thave the information that a person needs to make the best decisions. Erin Davison. Washington State voter.

Erin Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Erin Smith Please retain the quarterly reporting requirement currently in place for public-company reporting. Thank you!

Erin Young — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Erin Young Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Erin Young - Pennsylvania - Let's continue with greater accountability for businesses and CEOs and keep quarterly reporting. Why would the SEC even consider going backwards? Such a consideration could not come at a worse time, when so many are feeling unheard and pushed aside for those with the deepest pockets. Please prove us wrong and keep the reporting to quarterly so that less harm can be caused by those in positions of power.

Sent from my iPhone

Erin Zoo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Erin Zoo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You must keep the quarterly reporting for these companies. Retail investors get screwed every single time and this is just one more way to let them hide their business.

Sent from my iPhone

---

ermorris613 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: ermorris613 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports. We need to know how our funds are doing before it is too late to avoid loss.

Sent from my Galaxy

Ernest Capraro The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ernest Capraro Please do not proceed with this proposed change. If anything, it would be preferable to encourage more frequent reporting. Given the technical barriers, I would not suggest mandating higher frequency reporting, but a recommendation for a more continual data stream would reduce uncertainty for investors, and greatly reduce volatility from surprises. With the automation tools available now, companies can easily release key metrics monthly, weekly, daily, or even continually, without adding to headcount. This would be the optimal path to follow. Respectfully, Ernest

---

Ernest J Webb — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ernest J Webb More reporting vs less. The information that is now required is important to the investors and I am all for keeping the current quarterly reports. The costs of reporting via texting or emails is just a compiled list and pushing a button. Companies know the information anyway, so this looks like an effort to keep investors in the dark. We hate to learn that companies are putting more effort to stop information flow to the people that own stock in their businesses. Even those that want a mailed version of the quarterly reports are not going to cost a significant amount of money.

ERNEST ROGERS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: ERNEST ROGERS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am a small investor in the marketplace. Don't allow this bill to pass transparence is very important to me more light on companies is always better.

Ernestine Patterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ernestine Patterson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To keep the accounts, active, appropriate, and intact, the reporting must remain quarterly.

Ernestine

Ernestine Wright — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ernestine Wright Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Report quarterly

Ernestine

Ernie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ernie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an individual deeply invested in the financial markets, particularly as a retiree, I wish to convey the profound importance I place on comprehensive and regular financial disclosures. Quarterly reporting serves as an indispensable tool for individual investors, enabling us to meticulously monitor the performance of our holdings and make well-informed decisions regarding our portfolios. This level of transparency is not merely a preference but a fundamental requirement for fostering trust and ensuring corporate accountability within the market.

Any initiatives that propose to scale back the frequency or detail of these critical reports raise serious concerns. Such changes could inadvertently undermine investor confidence and disproportionately affect segments of the population who rely heavily on investment income for their livelihoods and retirement security. This includes many working-class individuals and those whose financial futures are tied to the stability and transparency of their investments.

Therefore, I strongly advocate for the preservation, and indeed the enhancement, of robust financial reporting standards to safeguard investor interests and maintain a healthy, accountable market environment.

Ernie Quaglieri

Ernie Rowan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ernie Rowan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it the same, the only reason to go dark is to screw us absolutely not !! Retired you don't need my name

---

Errol Davis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Errol Davis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I do not agree with rolling back the reporting frequency. This will cause more guessing and many people like me will leave the market

---

Esa Lehti — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Esa Lehti Less information about my investments equals less transparency. Decisions on investments are made based on up to date information so less reporting takes that away.

Esther Allman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Esther Allman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I do not trust others to look out for my interests instead of their own. You cannot allow everyday investors to be locked out and to blindly trust corporations not to simply act only for themselves.

Esther Mays — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Esther Mays Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quartly reporting

Sent from my iPhone

Esther Monzon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Esther Monzon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why are you considering making a decision against small investors and their life savings, retirement funds and young people's first piggy banks? Have you no morals, decency and care of the public you work for?

Esther Monzon

Sent from my iPhone

Esther Su — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Esther Su Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please allow more transparency in stock market transactions for retail investors, some of our retirement income depend on this.

Eugene A Klein — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eugene A Klein Hello, I am an American residing overseas most of the year and retain investments in the USA. An informed consumer, i.e. investor-owner is a valuable asset to a company and ought to be treated as such. A 50% reduction in a company's annual legal reporting requirements is regressive strategy and not in the interest of investor/owners. I myself will be looking for companies that continue to supply quarterly reports should the SEC approve this change to bi-annual reporting. Saving money and reducing communication to twice per year is not 'Fair Disclosure.' I hope that the SEC bases their final decision regarding any implementation of this change, as requested from the many companies influencing the SEC, with needed proper balance of perspectives and opinions from we the investor/owners as opposed to yielding to the "companies." Thank You, EA Klein

---

Eugene Letourneau — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Eugene Letourneau Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY!!!
Stringent OVERSIGHT is IMPORTANT and should be MORE ENFORCED, Gene Letourneau

Eva Hoopes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Eva Hoopes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need the transparency and accountability of quarterly reports and signatures.

E . Hoopes

Eva Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Eva Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Eva Miller, Deed Clerk - Keep it quaterly! Why? I'm about to retire soon and I want to know my $$ is where it's supposed to be.

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Evan Rowlands Nil — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Evan Rowlands I strongly recommend that you keep company reporting quarterly as this information helps me keep ahead of what is happening with the businesses that I invest in. If you change to half yearly, the business could be infianc difficulty I do not get the transparency to see the decline quick enough to divest.

Evangeline Goff Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Evangeline Goff I do not agree with only semi-annual reporting. Investors deserve to be kept informed on their investments more often than twice a year. In this fast paced world, a lot can change very quickly. In this age of electronics and AI, reporting should be faster and more often, not less.

Eve Chen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Eve Chen Current 4x reporting is better. If possible six times a year. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Do you like if you only get information twice a year and the rest of the months sitting in the darkness?

Evelyn Marshall Blake — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: SEC Rule change From: Evelyn Marshall Blake Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Not just NO but Hades NO. I can't hide my financials so why should big companies be able to do this. That is so wrong 😡

Evelyn Marshall Blake

Evelyn Ruckebeil — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Evelyn Ruckebeil Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This should be a petition ..this is so wrong stop corporate control!

Sent from my iPhone

Evelyn Turek — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Evelyn Turek Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly !

Evelyn Zehia Retired - Insurance Underwriting Manager — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Evelyn Zehia Shifting from quarterly to semi-annual reporting increases uncertainty, reduces transparency, and limits the ability to monitor company performance. With fewer updates, earnings announcements can become more volatile. Larger, sudden swings in retirement and brokerage accounts can be experienced when results finally drop. The wider gap between reports increases the risk of potentially allowing insiders to profit on non-public information at the expense of average retail investors. A significant majority of financial analysts and investors oppose eliminating the quarterly mandate. They argue it decreases market efficiency and conceals negative performance or mismanagement for up to six months.

Evelyne Ringia Hancock — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Evelyne Ringia Hancock Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Accountability to the public who have invested life savings to these companies is important. Keep quarterly reports

In today's world information changes by the minute, there are so many tools to help companies with reporting at an even higher frequency than quarterly reporting. In the world where AI can shorten the time it takes to report to hours compare to what was available in 1955, we should have more transparency not less.

Evelyne R. Hancock

evelyne.ringia@gmail.com

Evie Sands — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Evie Sands Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello … It’s absolutely important to have and keep quarterly reporting! It’s the only way to have more current insight into investments of our hard-earned financial lifeline! The ultra-wealthy can afford to lose a chunk of their invested money and savings due to not having timely reporting and information. They would still survive nicely. But the rest of us, the average person, cannot! PLEASE do the right thing for the great majority of the people and KEEP reporting on a quarterly basis!! Thank you!
Evie Sands (artist, performer, investor) evs@roadrunner.com

Sent from my iPhone

EX ANON — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: EX ANON Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting to protect the small investors who do not have easy access to inside information.

Exa Olsen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Exa Olsen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The Necessity of Maintaining Robust Reporting Requirements
To Whom It May Concern,I am writing to express my strong position that the Securities and Exchange Commission must continue enforcing comprehensive reporting requirements for publicly traded companies. These disclosures are not merely procedural; they are foundational to market integrity, investor protection, and the long-term stability of the U.S. financial system.1. Transparency is the cornerstone of fair markets
Investors — from large institutions to everyday individuals — rely on accurate, timely, and complete information to make informed decisions. Without mandatory reporting, the information gap between insiders and the public widens dramatically, increasing the risk of manipulation, misinformation, and unequal access.2. Reduced reporting invites systemic risk
History has repeatedly shown that when transparency erodes, systemic vulnerabilities grow. Inadequate disclosure contributed to major financial crises, corporate collapses, and widespread investor losses. Maintaining strong reporting standards is essential to preventing similar failures in the future.3. Public companies benefit from public trust
The privilege of accessing U.S. capital markets comes with the responsibility of providing clear, consistent disclosures. Investors place their trust — and their capital — in companies based on the information the SEC requires them to provide. Weakening these requirements would undermine confidence in the markets and increase volatility.4. Reporting protects not only investors, but companies themselves
Clear, standardized reporting reduces uncertainty, supports fair valuations, and helps companies avoid reputational and legal risks. It also ensures that all market participants operate under the same expectations and regulatory framework.5. The global competitiveness of U.S. markets depends on strong oversight
The United States is widely regarded as the gold standard for financial transparency. Maintaining rigorous reporting requirements preserves this reputation and ensures that U.S. markets remain attractive to global investors who prioritize stability and accountability.For these reasons, I urge the SEC to continue enforcing — and where appropriate, strengthening — reporting obligations for all public companies. The long-term health of our markets depends on transparency, consistency, and the protection of investors at every level.Thank you for your attention to this matter and for your continued commitment to safeguarding the integrity of the U.S. financial system.Sincerely,
Exa Olsen

Excalibur Moore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Excalibur Moore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You only want to make this change for nefarious purposes. You know what you are doing, and you should be ashamed.

--
Excalibur Moore
(He/They/It)
(310) 310-5744

Sent from Proton Mail for iOS.

---

ezra kohn Regular person — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: ezra kohn Lessening reporting requirement gives more opportunities for failures to sneek by without being caught. Publicly traded companies remain a cornerstone of the economy and would think more important to keep the consumer protected Thank you

---

F Tole — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: F Tole Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly at minimum. Volatile companies/industries monthly.

Flo Tole

Fabiana Perdomo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Fabiana Perdomo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The SEC works for the people not first corporations (which are not people). Reports must be kept quarterly as the people needs to be informed and corporations are to be held accountable.

Fabiana Perdomo
BSN, RN, CCM
New Jersey

Faith Benjamin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Faith Benjamin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I really do not want to place personal details other than my email. I shouldn't have to beg publicly for the right position to be held. Please keep Quarterly Reporting for the SEC.

Sent from my iPhone

Faith Hope And Love — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Faith Hope And Love Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 MELISSA FULLER
MY JOB IS, I AM A DRIVER. TRANSPARENCY IS EVERYTHING! WHEN SOMETHING EFFECTS ME AND MY LIFE AND MY FAMILY, IT IS ABSOLUTELY MY BUSINESS ESPECIALLY WHEN I AM PAYING FOR THAT SOMETHING! QUARTLY KEEPS THINGS IN ORDER AND THERE ARE NOT SURPRISES IN THE LONG TERM!! QUARTERLY IS EASIER TO MAINTAIN AND TO MANAGE! OUR VOICES MATTER! PLEASE LISTEN TO THE PEOPLE! THANKS!

Farside — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Farside Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Having worked in IR and even more as a shareholder, I think it is vitally important to keep reporting quarterly and for CEO and CFOs to have to sign those reports. Do not make the heads of companies LESS accountable and put us on an even more slippery slope to oligarchy!

Tracey T Turner

Fatima Cousett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Fatima Cousett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
SEC, I am asking you to do not end Quarterly Reporting. It is important for Public Companies to be transparent and not ever be allowed to go dark for any amount of time. Public Companies going dark give insiders access to committing fraud by stealing investors monies and/or causes stock prices to rise. We investors work very hard building our retirement and savings portfolios like others so that we have a cushion after retirement. SEC, it is with great hopes that you will make it a priority that the laws and rules currently in place stay in place in order to maintain a fair stock market that is transparent all the time so investors feel protected against potential fraudsters and will want to continue to make investments in the stock market. Thank you for your time.

Faye Drain — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Faye Drain Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: WE NEED MORE EXPOSURE NOT LESS. Apply the law equally!!! PLEASE, DO BETTER FOR THE CITIZENS OF THIS COUNTRY. THANK YOU.

Faye Morgan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Faye Morgan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY. AS AN INVESTOR I LIKE TO SEE ACCOUNTABILITY MORE FREQUENTLY.
CHARLES MORGAN
PRIVATE INVESTOR

---

fbaratta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: fbaratta Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 How can this be a problem. If paper and mailing is an issue, make it paperless and send text/email. There needs to be oversight.

Sent from my Galaxy

Federico de Luca — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Federico de Luca As individual investor, I strongly oppose the proposal to allow companies to reduce public reporting from four times a year to just two. Less transparency does not eliminate uncertainty; it increases it. When information finally does arrive, the surprises will be bigger, the reactions sharper and the market volatility greater. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve transparent and timely communication. Reducing reporting requirements does not make investors more patient: it simply makes everyone less informed. Companies operate every day, products launch and customers are won or lost constantly. Owners should not be left in the dark for six months at a time. In an era of AI and highly efficient disclosure tools, cutting updates in half is a step backward for market integrity. I urge the SEC to protect individual investors and maintain the current quarterly reporting framework.

Federico Mojica — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Federico Mojica Please do not allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Being informed investor is important to determine the health of the companies that we invest in. AI should reduce the cost that companies incur for reporting.

---

fern yaffa — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: fern yaffa Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Fern Yaffa. I am retired and planned and saved for my retirement. I, like many other retirees cannot afford to have our retirement funds depleted by switching to bi-annual reporting. Continue quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

---

fili martinez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: fili martinez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Filiberto Martinez world boss yea stop hiding secrets from the world when the governing body which you all control has access to all our information. You will not hide from us

---

Finn Zwager — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Finn Zwager Reducing the reporting rate will make the market less transparent and make it easier for companies to hide information for a longer time. It will increase insider trading of the few ‘in the know’ and leave the common investor in the cold. Keep the market functioning well by keeping transparency at its highest level.

Flagship Consulting Services LLC CPA — Jun 23, 2026 Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Flagship Consulting Services LLC Please reject the move to semi-annual reporting because it's good for insiders, but bad for the public.

Flat Rate Services Charlotte — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Flat Rate Services Charlotte Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To whom this may concern.

These are my feelings regarding the proposal to allow companies to not file their financial reports for up to six month. As yon will read I feel it's not a good idea. It will also give certain people an unfair advantage in the markets. This will only help deepen the economic income gap that is already bad and getting worse.

Who in their right mind imagined this would be anywhere near a good idea to implement? This will only open the door for insiders with higher net worths to cheat the system and the people that can't get the inside Intel. This is also opening door to another potential huge banking crisis if the wrong or bad actors get info that others don't have. If enough bad actors get inside Intel they could send the whole world into a major economic depression and widen the income gap in America making the ultra rich Uber rich and the upper middle class, middle class and poverty level income people basically destitute.

Thank You
Glenn Durand
980-319-4697

Flavia Neves Gitersonke None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Flavia Neves Gitersonke As a shareholder of many companies, and therefore owning a piece of those business, I deserve to receive information on a quarterly basis as least. Less than that shows pure lack of transparency. And I might decide to invest somewhere else. Thanks.

Flo Kemp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Flo Kemp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep
Quaarterly reporting unless you want a recession!

Flo Wilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Flo Wilson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Companies close their book monthly. Reporting quarterly to shareholders should be a minimum. It is easy to keep stock price high by hiding problems or lawsuits. Executives could vote to give themselves an increase when it is not warrented

Flo Wilson CPA

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Florence Dolski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Florence Dolski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yes to keep quarterly reporting

Sent from my iPhone

Florence Willick None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Florence Willick There is no need for semi annual reporting unless they are trying to keep information from the public. NO to Sem-Annual Reporting. Quarterly reporting helps keep them more honest and more transparent.

Florin Braileanu — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Florin Braileanu Cutting down the number of financial reports a company must provide from four to two a year would leave investors with only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty, by the opposite, it increases it. Then, when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Flower Mom — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Flower Mom Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Clara, and I'm a freight broker. Transparency each quarter is imperative to my understanding of the commercial market ratings; which in turn, aids my projections of shipment inquiry and load carrier offers.

Floyd Muzzy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Floyd Muzzy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The crooks are at it again, stealing money from the poor and middle class to make the wealthy richer. you know what you can kiss.

Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Fool Qtrly updates reduce volatility. Preserve the status quo of quarterly reporting.

Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Fool Community The way things are today, we need more reporting. Not less. More transparency. Not less. All US companies should file with the SEC every quarter.

Ford Dotterer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ford Dotterer Big business is protecting itself with more monopolies as they buy out competitors and strengthen their moats. I think it is important that there are some minimum standards to which they should be held. Reports on their progress is one public way to see into their business. As a shareholder and more (I am in support of fair trade) I would like to see reporting strengthened, not diluted.

---

fordbook47 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: fordbook47 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 More visibility, more honesty. Not less.
Do not change reporting.
AI can help you handle all the information, I'm told.

Otherwise, it seems like you're being sneaky, maybe dishonest.

Sent via the Samsung Galaxy S22 5G, an AT&T 5G smartphone

Former Motley Fool subscriber Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Former Motley Fool subscriber I do not support the reduction of investor information which would result from this proposal. Four times a year reporting to investors/owners makes our decisions better informed. Cutting that information in half would be a huge mistake.

Forrest Hendricks Post Production Supervisor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Forrest Hendricks As a value investor I am very disappointed with the proposal to reduce the number of reports for publicly traded companies to twice a year. This dramatic reduction in transparency will be a large disservice to the public overall and actively harms capitalism in America. Thank you.

Forrest Retired and investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Forrest Quarterly reporting seems to far apart for many things. When companies are in transitions or tech is changing it is a long wait to see the results. The half year could work for companies that are fairly stagnant but it is really to far removed when changes are happening at much of todays paces. Im trying to understanding a valuation now and am hating to have to wait a few more months to get a picture of why. I believe reducing the reporting time frames will give more advantage to and cause more to be done with insider information. It seems it would increase issues and hurt regular smaller investors.

FOUCART retired Financial Officer BOLLORE GROUP in PARIS France — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: FOUCART The depth and sophistication of the US Financial Market is certainly based on the quality, depth and frequency of the financial information provided by companies to their shareholders. Reducing the requirements is like breaking the thermometer in an attempt to reduce fever.

Fragrance of Yah — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Fragrance of Yah Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely not!!! That's so problematic!! Why should investors be in the dark for 6 months? I think it should be monthly in fact. Quarterly was still too much time for investors to wait for information. They need to know if they want to continue to support these companies! It's insane to think they should know less, when they should know more!!

Warmly,
Fragrance "of Yah" Harris
Recording & Performing Artist- Fragrance of Yah
📧fragranceofyah@gmail.com
📞 (716) 253-1404
🌸 www.fragranceofyah.com

Fran Hardy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Fran Hardy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Fran Hardy retired
You are here to protect the economy not just for the rich but the everyday people too. Do your job!
Thank you

Please don't share my email. I'll just delete unknown senders.

Sent from my iPhone

Fran Merrion — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Fran Merrion Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change the quarterly reporting. It is essential to my future financial planning.

Fran Merrion
219-873-4155
5877 Warnke Rd.
Michigan City,IN 46360
franistops@gmail.com

Fran Mulhern — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Fran Mulhern Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No changes

---

Fran Salmon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Fran Salmon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC, Quarterly reporting must stay!

Fran Salmon

Sent from my iPhone

Fran Thomas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Fran Thomas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 France's THOMAS, KEEP IT quarterly!! Please!

Frances Beckman Investor and Credit Card User — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frances Beckman I, along with numerous Motley Fool Community members, believe that 2x yearly information proviso is a mistake. With the advent of AI, costs are dropping, not rising for information. More and more I must interact with uneducated individuals who think something is other than what it truly is. Information MUST be forthcoming at all times so to reduce SEC information to two times a year is not reasonable nor really justifiable in today's fast, AI induced computer world. Please ensure all securities information (company reports) is continued and required on a quarterly basis. Thank you.

Frances Laura Frost Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frances Laura Frost Smith Quarterly reports are what investors look at.

Frances Muller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Frances Muller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

Keep quarterly reviews and reports!
Frances Muller

Frances Sandoval — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Frances Sandoval Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Frances Spaulding The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frances Spaulding We must have MORE transparency, not less transparency. Shareholders deserve to have as much data as possible, in order to make informed and timely decisions. The proposed semi-annual reporting rule is a very bad idea and should not be adopted.

Frances Winzenried — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Frances Winzenried Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Frances Winzenried, and I am retired. We need quarterly reporting at a minimum. To do less leaves my investments at risk. I need to know my investments quarterly so that I can match my position quarterly with my retirement funds. Quarterly keeps everyone honest.

Get Outlook for iOS

Francesca Long — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Francesca Long Please keep the quarterly earnings reporting requirements. As an investor, this information is important to me and helps me make decisions.

Francine D'Amboise — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Francine D'Amboise Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Good morning. Going to a semi-annual resorting system opens the door to fraud, poorly kept records and insider trading. The costs for these potentially negative opportunities are too great for the invester and employees. In my position, I am required to provide my customer a weekly, monthly, quarterly, and annual report for transparency. The SEC should not change its current reporting standards.

Francis (Frank) Di Genova Air Quality Engineer (retired) — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Francis (Frank) Di Genova Change of quarterly company reporting requirements to semiannual company reporting is a short-sighted idea that should have been dismissed out-of-hand by the SEC. It's easy to understand how mob bosses, billionaires, and their spineless sycophants may overlook the importance of timely business information to the average American investor because someone else is doing the hard work of business data research and analysis for them. But reliable quarterly information about investments and potential new investments is critically important to small investors like me who risk our financial futures on receiving the mostly timely, reliable information available.

Francis Bishop — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Francis Bishop I believe regular accurate reporting is an essential part of a properly functioning and transparent investment environment. It is in the shareholders interest to be provided this information to help prevent corruption and other nefarious behavior from publicly own companies. As such we need regular reports not less reports and these reports should be standardized with less room and tolerance for the fine print and disclaimers in the back.

Francis Cairo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Francis Cairo Please require quarterly reports not semi-annual reports. We need more information not less about the companies whose stocks we own. Thank you

---

Francis Duckworth Retired investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Francis Duckworth It already has become more difficult to acquire good, non conflicting information in order to make informed decisions. Please don't add to this with the proposed reduction in quarterly reports. Respectfully yours, Francisduckworth@aol.com

---

Francis J Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Francis J Smith NO WAY DO I WANT TO BE LESS INFORMED !!! DO NOT CHANGE TO TWICE A YEAR !!!!!!!

Francis J Smith Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Francis J Smith No way do I want to be less informed DO NOT CHANGE FROM QUARTERLY TO BI ANNUALLY!!!!

Francis LaPlante — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Francis LaPlante I think it is a mistake to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Reducing the amount of information does not help investors. The reports are mostly computer generated so there isn't much change in costs to companies. Investors respond to earnings and investments. Confidence is built on good leadership as evidenced by good reports.

Francis Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Francis Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 * no
Stop this from ever happening
The deck is already stacked against the average person already

Sent from my iPhone

Francis Viscount — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Francis Viscount I oppose reducing the public reporting requirements for publicly traded companies. I am a share holder and I have experienced the downside of when companies withhold information by making bad decisions. I believe as an owner I am entitled to all the information about company actions, policies, decisions, etc. on an a timely basis. It is important to remember that the SEC requirements exist because of the failures of companies to disclose important information in the past. I do not believe the need for the current frequency of reporting has lessened. Please do not change the current requirements.

Francisco Figueroa — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Francisco Figueroa Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to keep quarterly reporting. Not doing so, would keep shareholders in the dark for too long, and would continue supporting the corruption involved in the seeking of privilege information for trading, and keeping the small investors in the dark, while the big controlling funds mine and use privileged information to influence the markets. We need more frequent accountability, not less. The SEC has a respinsibility to all investors. Reducing accountability will erode even further its authority and credibility

"... nada es tan peligroso como dejar permanecer largo tiempo a un mismo ciudadano en el poder. El pueblo se acostumbra a obedecerle y él se acostumbra a mandarlo; de donde se origina la usurpación y la tiranía".
Simón Bolívar.
Discurso de Angostura.
15 de febrero 1819.

Francisco Mercado — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Francisco Mercado Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 How to know if the company you invested in is honest and trustworthy without this quarterly reporting? Are we going back to the days of ENRON?

Francois Lacasse Desjardins securities — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Francois Lacasse Information and transparency is key as well as data in order for markets to be able to price and assess risk properly. I'm all for less red tape but regulations are there for a reason and I truly believe that having financial results only twice a year would make markets less efficient and too Volatile on earnings report dates.

Frank Addonizio Ameriprise Financial — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frank Addonizio I disagree with the proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it

---

FRANK BADURA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: FRANK BADURA KEEP IT QUARTERLY!!! Corporate management needs to be accountable to the owners.

Frank Bernhardt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frank Bernhardt I am depending on regular and frequent and rwgulared reports for investment decisions. Therefore I strongly opppose the tendenc to reduce reports frequenx since it reduces accountability.

Frank Burtlow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Frank Burtlow Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is ridiculous , if your investing in a company you should receive timely info. This makes it easier for companies to hide information

---

Frank Cairns — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frank Cairns I support retaining the current system of having companies report quarterly. The reduced transparency resulting from the change to two reports a year would be a negative for investors.

Frank Carlson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frank Carlson Transparency is required for all business entities and provide needed information for all stakeholders. The Semi Annual Reporting Rule should not be allowed.

Frank Conde The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frank Conde Reducing required reporting to two times a year is a terrible thing to do. The public needs more transparency from publicly traded companies rather than less to protect the investing public. Please keep the four quarterly reports per year as is.

Frank Horwath — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frank Horwath Reducing quarterly reporting requirements will reduce information transparency on a regular basis to shareholders. I am adamantly against this proposal!

Frank Kistner CPA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frank Kistner In my opinion, reducing the frequency of financial reports made by public companies would be a mistake. I have read that the cost of producing these reports is one factor driving this proposal. I say hogwash. Financial reports are easily generated by modern accounting systems. The "work", in my opinion, is the preparation of footnotes and disclosures. These are critical to understanding risks associated with a company. Personally, I would like to see MORE disclosure by public companies. Too many people (including elected representatives) have access to non-public information. Complete and timely disclosures will help level the playing field for investors.

Frank Maggi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Frank Maggi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To whom it may concern,

I can't believe that at this time, in this country, under this administration, which has demonstrated over and over and over again, a total absence of any moral or ethical standards and total disdain for the law and has brought on a level of blatant corruption, insider trading, grift, lies and outright theft unrivaled in our country's history, your commission would even consider a rule doubling the reporting time for companies to file their public reports.
This new rule would give corporations more time and opportunity to cover their misdeeds, malfeasance, and corruption. To believe otherwise is to be beyond naive.
For your commission to institute this new rule would be a demonstration of your commission's members willing stupidity or their cynical complicity in the corruption that will be practically guaranteed to follow (as if we need more).
And I have no faith in your commission's stated mission to "oversee" anything. It was your commission that allowed Bernie Madoff to go undetected for years.
This ruling will only further divide this nation between those who are, by comparison, suffer under the law and are bound by it (common working people) and those who are powerful and connected and are protected by and freed from the law.
To all the commission members of the SEC who will be voting on this: Act, not just as commissioners, but as fellow human beings with a conscience and a duty to society as a whole and willingness to make it better. Decide on more transparency, not less.

Frank Maggi, retiree

Sent from my iPhone

Frank Reggiani — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frank Reggiani If this rule change is passed the market will become more of a gamble or a game of chance . We have Vages and Draft King for that.

FRANK SCAVO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: FRANK SCAVO Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Actually we need to keep quarterly reports. I do it for IRS TAX FILING!! If I can't do it, they can't do it, for same reasons. They already have data, like I do. Just list reports.
 There's no reason besides your being COMPLICIT in aiding and abetting thiz ridiculous change. Maybe we need to go to BI MONTHLY INSTEAD "Only Americans can hurt America" General Dwight D Eisenhower

Frank 570-904-1230

Frank Spina — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Frank Spina Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are needed.

Frank The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frank I strongly oppose S7-2026-15. It will only hurt retail investors.

Frank VanCleef — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Frank VanCleef Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it the way it is . No changes

Frank VanCleef
Director/NASCAR Marine

(386) 212-9605

Franka Ralph As Investors, we need to keep receving reports om the svhedule that exists now . Many use these reports tojhelp in us deciding how much we are going to invest. I want the schdule to stay as is. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Franka Ralph This email was sent to my email account.

Franklin Jarvis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Franklin Jarvis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Criminals belong in jail. Don't set a bad example by giving any an early release.

Frazier Damon NA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frazier Damon I am opposed to a semi-annual report.

Frazier Scott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Frazier Scott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
In a world already plagued by rampant inequity, you propose to add to the inequities, by removing the requirement for quarterly reporting? Do you have no soul? No conscience? How could you even think to do this, if you purport to be a watchdog of malfeasance in the stock market? Please reconsider! We don't need the "playing field" any more skewed!
Frazier Scott

Fred Beisse Poor Richard's Investment Club — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Fred Beisse Companies should be required to continue to submit financial reports every quarter. More frequent reports help investors identify when a company does well or runs into financial difficulty and help investors make decisions to buy more, hold, or sell all or part of an investment.

Fred Burress — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Fred Burress In this age of apparent unmatched corruption, I am AGAINST less transparency and governmental reporting requirements. Please maintain the quarterly requirements.

FRED C TANZELLA Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: FRED C TANZELLA Businesses operate daily and execute their strategy and operations. Cutting the reporting requirements in half means less information for owners to make buying and selling decisions. In the age of AI, the SEC should be increasing reporting requirements not decreasing them. Would any of you let your business run and not have visibility on how it's performing?

Fred Campbell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Fred Campbell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Fred Campbell, Security Officer. Accountability is important in preventing fraud!
I had a relative who lost all his retirement funds because their CEO lied to them!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Fred DaVeiga Financial Advisor and Wealth Manager — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Fred DaVeiga More transparency is needed . not less!

---

fred hayes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: fred hayes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The quarterly reporting should stay as is. It’s a good check on companies, ceo’s and their boards

Sent from my iPhone

Fred Hetzel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Fred Hetzel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please reconsider eliminating quarterly

Fred LeMoine Retired Ironworker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Fred LeMoine I am retired with a substantial portion of my retirement invested in stocks. Please do not change quarterly reporting. It has worked quite well and doesn't need fixing. Thank you

---

Fred Lockwood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Fred Lockwood When you invest in a company's stock you become an owner. An owner needs regular, transparent communication from that business. The proposed reduced reporting period reduces the connection with that company, resulting in a less informed owner. The argument that fewer annual reports would reduce costs is not valid with the introduction of AI. Also, the argument that reducing pressure on companies to manage quarterly reporting periods is sketchy as it results in less informed owners that have to make decisions with less information. I urge the SEC to keep quarterly reporting periods in place. Thank you.

Fred Malphurs Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Fred Malphurs The proposal to make only one public financial report a year is reckless endangerment to the financial well being of tens of millions of individual investors and just one more proof that corporations are not people.

Fred Meliniotis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Fred Meliniotis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the same quarterly reporting requirements. Fred Meliniotis A Basic Cut lawn care Ruidoso Nm (575) 489-9057 meliniotisfred@gmail.com

---

Fred Miller — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Fred Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly. We need more visibility not less.
Frederick Miller
Applications engineer
Fred.k.miller@gmail.com
816-804-9428

Fred Nadelman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Fred Nadelman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I don't want any information blackouts.
Fred Nadelman, a citizen

---

fred schilffarth — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: fred schilffarth Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't let the love of money keep you from going to hell

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Fred Strauss — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Fred Strauss For individual investors, not requiring companies to report quarterly is a bad move creating opacity and undermining trust in a company. Quarterly reporting protects individual investors. The companies most likely to opt out are the ones where oversight matters most. As the WallStreetBets comment letter put it: "The companies we trade are not being held back from greatness by the obligation to file four reports a year. ... The entire S&P 500 files a 10-Q every quarter, and the S&P 500 is at an all-time high. If quarterly reporting is crushing American capitalism, American capitalism is hiding it well."

---

fred tews — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: fred tews Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Freddie W. Tews Jr . I am disabled, no longer able to work , and investing is about the best/only option left for me and my wife!! If we were to be set aside, or pushed out of the way, in the investment market for 6 months and a shot how would that better help the individuals investment, the individuals portfolio, not to mention how would it affect our communities? Can you say with certainty, that it would have a positive affect, on not only individual people, but our communities as well? It shouldn't be left to report every 6 months!! In my opinion, " it should be required that reporting take place every 30 days, at minimum.. to have transparent and daily access to reports would be in the best interest to the people and communities!!" Those that are trying to keep the inside secrets about the market quiet as long as possible to benefit themselves, should lose all right and privileges to the use the market bottom line!! To allow them to continue the path that they are going hurts the individuals and cripples our community in aspects, that are yet unseen.. by doing so would be a criminal act against we the people therefore, we need to not let this bill go any further.. I'm sure people there at the SEC are not real fond of the idea of going to jail against charges of conspiracy or fraud to we the people!! THANK YOU, FOR YOUR TIME AND CONCERN OF THIS MATTER BEFORE YOU!!

Frederick Dielman, part of The Motley Fool Community Stockholder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Frederick Dielman, part of The Motley Fool Community Dear Interested Parties, Transparency and regular reporting are essential to properly informed investing. Please do your part to ensure a continuation of the requirement for quarterly reporting. Thanks, Rick Dielman

---

Freedomshtf — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Freedomshtf Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 🙏 Transparency in quarterly reports needs to remain. AI is going to invest second by second. If like to keep investing day by day.

Sent from Proton Mail for Android.

---

freedomway — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: freedomway Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep reporting on a QUARTERLY basis. I'm an investor (as are my retirement plans); and there is a significantly high level of activity within the technology sector, especially around AI, that I want to monitor. Too much can happen in three months, no less six.
Thank you.
Valerie Staats

Freeman Hobs Allan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Freeman Hobs Allan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The enron scandal was a fat cat corruption of mega proportions. Keep the reporting quarterly. And keep CEO 's liable to penalty when they lie.

Richard Hobcraft "Freeman" Allan III - 1425 Trailside Ct #102 Charlottesville VA 22911 freemanhobs@gmail.com 434-409-8666 Independent Scholar-VirginiaHumanities.org; Author; Researcher; Iconologist; Environmental Activist Aim to serve others & Planet Earth. Try a smaller footprint. Laugh more! Need less stuff.

Friedhelm Maur — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Friedhelm Maur I m against semi annual reports and request 4 per year

---

Friedrich Gebessler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Friedrich Gebessler Dear Sirs, Allowing companies to reduce the reporting period to half-annual reports is not what I want to see as an active investor. In the age of AI compiling quarterly reports should be easier than ever and I want to continue to have quarterly updates that are not negotiable in order to continue to have the required trust and transparency in any publicly traded company I'm actively invested in or consider to invest in. A lot can happen within 6 month so reducing the report frequency is just asking for trouble down the road. I'm humbly asking you to keep enforcing the quarterly reports, no exceptions! Respectfully, Friedrich (Fritz) Gebessler

---

Fritz Bazeley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Fritz Bazeley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Everyone outside company management needs to see quarterly reporting.

Frederick Bazeley
Cincinnati OH 45238

Sent from my iPhone

Froylan Segura — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Froylan Segura Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I need a quarterly report from the compaies I have investmments.

Thank You
for your consideration
F.Segura

Sent from my iPhone

G Glogas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: G Glogas Please keep the public company reports at four times a year rather than just two. Limiting information to the public does not help the public make better choices. Moving to two reports a year will make it more difficult to observe trends in company performance. People need to know what management is doing and know the outcome of any changes. Four reports annually will keep the public better informed than two will.

G M — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: G M Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quit trying to screw Americans!

Sent from my iPhone

G Wolf — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: G Wolf Investors or shareholders have a right to demand appropriate transparency about a company's activities and performance on a regular basis. To cut the reporting requirements of companies in half reduces this right for transparency and adequate insight into a company's activities. At the same time it may also reduce the perceived "degree of safety" of investments in companies where the reporting "accountability" has been reduced. Consequently the lack of reporting could have a negative effect on a company's share value if they should choose to reduce reporting to 2 times instead of 4 times per year because investors may choose to focus on companies that continue to be more transparent and keep reporting 4 times a year.

G. Mark LeGrand Professional Engineer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: G. Mark LeGrand I do not agree with public companies reporting only every six months instead of every three months. Investors need the clarity from public companies.

G. Stubblefield — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: G. Stubblefield When has LESS transparency EVER been considered MORE beneficial? In this day and age of AI, it takes little to no effort to CONTINUE reporting FOUR TIMES per year, vs. limiting it to just TWO. This new proposal is SUSPECT. Please keep the REPORTING paradigm AS IS. Thank you.

Gabriel Bowens The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gabriel Bowens I disagree with the proposal of reducing the number of public-company reports and believe it is a big mistake. Investors have every right to have regular communication at the minimum of 4 times per year or quarterly. This proposal will create even more distrust in companies in a time where there is a growing divide between these companies and those who they serve in the public. There is no excuse or good reason to why companies should have less reporting especially with the advent of AI which is creating better efficiency and allow these companies to report record profits.

Gabriel Lawrence CPA — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gabriel Lawrence Semiannual reporting is a poor policy. As "owners" of a business in which we invest, we need to continue to have quarterly reporting.

Gabriela Hirsch-Port — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gabriela Hirsch-Port Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 When every day investors like myself and other of my family are placing their money in these corporations we have an absolute right to transparency as to what is happening with our investment. Allowing them to go dark for 6 months at a time prevents us from making educated decisions about where we can place our funds. What you are doing by allowing them to do so is to take measures that can result in the losses of our funds. Eventually this will backfire and less and less everyday investors will stop investing in stocks. We ask that you keep the transparency so we can keep investing.

Thank you for protecting investors rights

Gabrielle Everett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gabrielle Everett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Y'all just boldfaced trynna set up the elite class to rob, pillage, and plunder the American citizenry with as much fraud as humanly possible. Hell No; don't change quarterly reporting!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Gabrielle Everett
917-771-0673

Gabrielle Grothues — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gabrielle Grothues Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please continue to hold companies and executives accountable with quarterly reporting. It matters. We, the public, need the protection from corruption and the bailouts using our tax money.

I am an investor and a tax paying American. I vote.

Sincerely,
Gabrielle Grothues

Gabrielle Mayer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gabrielle Mayer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I remember Enron & all the people whose live were impacted. Definitely keep quarterly reports.

Sent from my iPhone

Gabrielle Paton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gabrielle Paton Transparency is needed to identify and minimise corruption

---

Gabrielle Posadas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gabrielle Posadas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Gabby Posadas. I'm a 33 year old wife and mother who works full time in pediatric healthcare. My husband and I both have retail investment portfolios in order to save for our retirement, especially since no social retirement programs exist in this country. By ending quarterly reports, we will no longer have the accountability and transparency needed to make educated and accurate decisions on where to place our money. We do not come from generational wealth, and therefore essentially this is forcing us to entrust our life savings in order to have enough money to retire from our respective fields. By ending quarterly reporting, you are essentially telling the average American that their hard earned dollars are not worth the accountability and respect that corporate dollars are given. KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING.

Thank you,

Gabby Posadas

Gabrielle Siman, JD Motley Fool member-Retired Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gabrielle Siman, JD We as investors should continue to receive quarterly reports. Trump Administration vowed to increase transparency. We as USA citizens and investors are entitled to know how our business investments are progressing. AI can empower our business leaders to provide more frequent and more meaningful business reports with far less labor. There is no excuse or explanation sufficient to cut reporting to twice annually. Quarterly reports have been sufficient and should continue to be. This provides appropriate information to investors and does not impose a substantial burden on the business in question particularly in light of the great strides we've made in AI. Also this information is helpful as a feedback loop within the business in question and may alert business leaders earlier rather than later to failings not uncovered by twice annual collection of statistics/information. Let's hold our business leaders accountable as we have in the past, to quarterly reports.

Gail Beutler-Eyman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gail Beutler-Eyman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are important to keep corporations honest and investors informed!

Sent from my iPhone

Gail Cook — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Gail Cook Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 All of my retirement funds are invested in the stock market and I am a firm believer in quarterly reporting. I worked in financial services for most of my life and even though I'm retired I still work part-time. It is very important for investors to know what the health of a corporation is while they're invested. Please do not go to biannual reporting, it must be done quarterly. Thank you.

Gail Ducharme — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gail Ducharme Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think greed and evil are playing this game ..STOP IT NOW ! 😡

Gail Eichner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Gail Eichner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not change the reporting and let companies have long black out periods to blur their activities. Timely reporting matters and should remain transparent to the public. Investors have a right to know the balance sheets of the companies in which they invest.

Gail Hansen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gail Hansen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't change it

---

gail haspert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: gail haspert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reports.

Gail L Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Gail L Martin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Gail L Martin, Melbourne, FL,
retired

We need more accountability and need to keep quarterly reporting to help keep people honest.
We need this in all aspects of business and government.

Please respect the voice of the people.

Gail LeMay — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gail LeMay Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I urge the SEC to maintain and sustain the high standards set on requiring quarterly reporting. To due away with this safeguard is a detriment to all parties except those who want to act under in the darkness of nefarious if not outright fraudulent activities. I urge the SEC to protect its height standards and requirements, which support and sound and fully resonsonsible financial environment.

Gail LeMay \
Wildwood, MO

Gail Matthews — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Gail Matthews Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There can be no logical reason for eliminating quarterly reports. But I can think of one big one that fits right in with Trump‘s other policies, he abhors transparency and the SEC is next on the chopping block unless you say no.

Sent from my iPhone

Gail Meredith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gail Meredith This administration seems completely deaf to common sense, but I'll try anyway. Changing (reducing) corporate financial reporting requirements only makes everyone wonder what you at the SEC are really doing, and not in a good way. Not that you care (at least for two more years). Forgive my cynicism. Drop this stupid proposal and contribute a drop of common sense into government. Thank you.

Gail Myers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Gail Myers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reporting to keep a better watch on our money. As a senior citizen this is all I have to depend on and I need to know what's happening. There are crooks out there and we need to keep everyone accountable.
Gail Myers

Gail Rauen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gail Rauen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it quarter! I want to keep an eye on my investments.

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Gail Ronneberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gail Ronneberg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. It is a protection for investors which should be SEC’s top priority. Quarterly reporting is a deterrent to fraud. Many of us are counting on our investments for our retirement.
Gail Ronneberg
Retired teacher, investor

Gail Scott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gail Scott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it quartly

Sent from my iPhone

Gail Starr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Gail Starr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Prove to me that you can learn

---

Gail White — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gail White Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Companies don’t need relief from reporting. They need responsibility to their small investors. They are generating more income than ever.

Sent from my iPhone

Gale Wilson jr Retired Army and Higher Ed. CIO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gale Wilson jr Reducing the frequency of quartile reports is año a good idea. The more information available about a company the better investment decisions

---

Gano Lemoine Business Owner, Retail Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gano Lemoine I strongly oppose the proposed reduction of company reports from 4 per year to 2 per year. More information throughout the year equals greater transparency into company health and operations, which is better for all investors, and the economy. Keep the rule as is. Gano Lemoine

---

Gareth Kelly The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gareth Kelly As an investor in multiple US based stocks I do not support the reduction in reporting frequency. A reduction in the reporting frequency means stock owners have less visibility on the company's performance than they currently have pushing them further away from the business and increasing the level of high risk speculation rather than proper investment. If anything reporting frequencies should be increased to monthly.

Garr Gast — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Garr Gast Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports help give visibility into health of companies and verify one time charges. With 6 month reporting you may not know for 1 1/2 to 2 years

Garr Gast Project Engineer

Sent from my iPad

GARRET S DEJONG MOTLEY FOOL — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: GARRET S DEJONG CONTINUE QUARTERLY REPORTING

Garrett Blaadwind — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Garrett Blaadwind Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You empty suits need it easier to cheat, eh?

Sent from my iPad

Garrett E Wdowin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Garrett E Wdowin As part of The Motley Fool Community I'd like to provide a little pushback on two times vs four times a year. "At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners."

Garrion Smith The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Garrion Smith Reducing reporting from four times per year to just two is a bad idea. In today's information driven world it is easier than ever to prepare reports and stock holders (owners) want current information in order to make better decisions.

Garrod Lands — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Garrod Lands Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep the stock market free and fair, reducing the chance of fraud with transparency. We need clear, timely and accurate information to make informed decisions about our portfolios. Too much can change in six months causing huge losses for retail investors.
Do not change the SEC Quarterly Reporting Rules. This could seriously negatively impact retail investors like me and my family.

Gary A. Loew None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary A. Loew I object to reducing the corporate information reporting requirements from 4x/year to 2x/yr. I don't even understand why this action would be proposed.

Gary Akizuki — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gary Akizuki Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC needs to keep quarterly reporting. It would be a disservice to investors to go to six month reporting

Gary Akizuki
Vancouver WA

Gary Andrew — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Andrew I oppose regulatory proposal S7-2026-15, Semi-Annual Reporting. Reducing the required reporting from four times a year to two times would not benefit shareholders. It would, in fact, reduce transparency and increase the likelihood of uncertainty and surprises for shareholders. As a former small business owner, I needed monthly reports, not quarterly and certainly not semi-annual reports to understand how the business was operating and be able to make timely changes. Semi-annual reports to shareholders would only increase volatility. This proposal is not a good idea.

Gary Bader — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Bader How will I make informed decisions if less transparency is required?

Gary Blanchette President Goods iQ — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Blanchette I strongly disagree with allowing public companies to reduce reporting to just twice per year. While I understand the benefits to the company from a compliance cost and complexity standpoint, it shifts inherently more risk to the investor as it dramatically limits transparency to react to the business performance. Spending a career in Fortune 500 companies and supporting analyst calls, there is always a lot of polishing the story that occurs that is designed to often mask reality to boost the stock price. Extending the required reporting cycle will only encourage more of this style of reporting as the companies will have 6 months to craft the next story and won’t have to face any questions. I can’t see any way this helps the investor. If companies want to report less, they are afforded the option to go private.

Gary Crossley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gary Crossley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting! Gary Crossley, GCDF, This keeps the information reporting in a transparent way as a obvious time series way for the entire public and owners to see.

Gary Dittrich — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gary Dittrich Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please continue quarterly reporting. I rely on the quarterly reporting to keep in touch with my investments. Gary Dittrich - retired

---

Gary Driedric None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Driedric Why change. We deserve to be informed. Don't let big businesses bully the small guys.

Gary Duffy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gary Duffy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We, the folks that make this country work, need this quarterly to make good investment decisions! Changing it is unacceptable!

Sent from my iPhone

Gary E Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Gary E Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is one of the pillars of the USA financial system. The trust engendered by quarterly reporting and more frequently if appropriate is CRUCIAL to our standing in the world and our continued financial strenght.

Gary Gallery — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Gary Gallery Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 They have to keep the 4 time a year reporting !!!!, if they allowed these companies and CEOs to go back to reporting every 6 months they will go back to screwing the investors again just like the old day's!!!! Leave it alone make them report every 4 months let the investors get a fair return for their investments, not what the CEOs think is fair!!!!

Gary Griffin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gary Griffin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly

---

Gary Gustafson Private Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Gustafson I am submitting this comment as a member of The Motley Fool Community and as a long-term individual investor. I respectfully oppose the proposal to reduce public company reporting requirements from quarterly to semiannual reporting. Public markets function best when investors have timely, consistent, and transparent information. Individual investors deserve regular communication from the companies they own, and quarterly reporting has long served as a cornerstone of that relationship. Reducing reporting frequency will not reduce the importance of short-term performance. Instead, it will create longer periods without official information, increasing uncertainty and making it more likely that investors will react sharply when new information is finally released. Less transparency is unlikely to produce more thoughtful investing. It is far more likely to increase information gaps, speculation, and market volatility. The argument that fewer reports would significantly reduce costs is also less compelling today than it may have been in the past. Advances in automation, data management, and artificial intelligence have made the preparation and distribution of financial information more efficient than ever. Any modest administrative savings should not come at the expense of investor access to material information. Quarterly reporting promotes accountability, strengthens corporate governance, and reinforces trust between management teams and shareholders. Public companies operate continuously, making strategic decisions and creating or destroying value every day. Investors should not have to wait six months for an official update on the businesses they own. The SEC has long championed fair and equal access to information. Maintaining quarterly reporting requirements is consistent with that mission and helps preserve confidence in U.S. capital markets. For these reasons, I encourage the Commission to reject the proposed reduction in reporting frequency and continue to require quarterly public disclosures. Thank you for considering my comments.

Gary Hall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gary Hall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I support quarterly reporting and do not support changing this requirement. Thank you. Gary Hall,, Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Sent from my iPhone

Gary Headrick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Headrick Transparency and communication are the heart and soul of building investors' trust. Reducing the existing, at least quarterly, communication requirement is the wrong direction in keeping and/or building trust. I am opposed to reducing reporting requirement to only 2X/year. Please vote against such poorly designed legislation. Gary Headrick gary hershan Chartered Accountant (australia) — Jun 23, 2026

---

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: gary hershan i believe that abolishing QTR reports will lead to a less informed market. QTR reports should continue to be mandatory

---

Gary Hilliard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Hilliard The only reason to hide the current level of reporting is to conceal what is happening in the country. Continue to report as is currently done.

Gary Kawaguchi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gary Kawaguchi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an accountant and investor, I found the quarterly reports of interest. As an auditor we had a Japanese client, a financial Institution, that required audited financial information on property owned by that financial institution that had a book value of USD11,000,000 which I found as important information to their shareholders. So, I my comment comes from both sides of the reading the information and creating the information.

Gary Kiedaisch Board member and former CEO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Kiedaisch It would be a major mistake to allow quarterly public company reports to be reduce to only two yearly. Many Private Equity Companies that are not listed on either of the public exchanges starve their investors of transparent and timely information. This enables a lot of financial engineering and manipulation without shareholders knowing until it's too late. Assets are sold, debt taken on to pay dividends and this offer results in the failure of the companies and loss of shareholders value and money. The Motley Fool resisted changes like this in the past and I thank them for bring this to the public's attention again now. Keep quarterly report and stiffen regulations so they can't be word smithed to meaningless information.

Gary Litster — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Litster Please stop making rules that do not help investors or the companies that work for them. This decision screams cover up.

Gary M. Davis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gary M. Davis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is critical to shareholders and for the market stability

---

Gary Mark Guinn Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Mark Guinn I am asking that you reconsider the decision to allow companies to move from quarterly reports to semi-annual reports. Those of us who, like myself, are not big investors are still as "invested" in the market as the big boys. I am trusting the market for a significant portion of my retirement income, and I would like to keep a closer eye on how the companies I'm invested in are doing. Thanks for your careful consideration of this request. Gary Guinn

---

Gary Mostert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gary Mostert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 After having been in business for over 40 years, I never had a problem with quarterly reporting. I believe that it's a mistake to move to semiannually reporting for investors in particular, as the shorter timeframe allows them to properly assess the financial health of the companies they are investing in on a more current basis.
Please keep quarterly reporting!

Sent from Gary Mosterts communicator

Gary P Woodruff The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary P Woodruff I am opposed to reducing the number of reports from 4 to 2. As a company owner, I want more information not less. In today's digital age, you don't save money by producing fewer reports and with AI you can create the reports easily and transmit them to the shareholder.

Gary Peden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Peden My wife and I only see that this would take away our ability to make investment decisions on a consistent track record of profit and loss. Reporting 4 times a year helps us to make more sound financial decisions. We view this as a very unwise choice to let companies report less. If anything they should report more. And if they are struggling with paying for it. We say the CEO making millions. Could spare some change to make it happen. Gary Peden

---

Gary Peters — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Gary Peters Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Things as They Are!!! There's no apparent reason To Change BACK TO SOMETHING THAT DIDNOT WORK IN THE PASE!! Leave it alone!!!

Get Outlook for iOS

Gary Pope — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Pope I think that changing financial reporting from 4 times a year to 2 times a year is wrong. More reporting keeps investors like me informed as to the actions of companies that hold my earnings.

Gary Porter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Porter Don't do this. Under this proposal, a company's owners (and potential owners) will receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own (or are considering owning). Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Not good.

Gary Ralph — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gary Ralph Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is absolutely in the wrong direction if anything reporting should be on a monthly basis or at least a bi-monthly basis so that we the investors can keep closer tabs on what it is those who we have trusted with our earnings are doing in addition they should have to publish their private trades before they do them rather than after so that we have some warning that this is what they are about to do and that we can act accordingly.
Do not allow this particular law to pass vote against this law.

Gary Ralph

---

gary scheppke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: gary scheppke When are the capitalistic ploys going to stop.

Gary Schwartz Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Schwartz Please keep companies reporting earnings 4 times per year and please don't limit that information to only 2 times per year. As fast as things move we shouldn't be restricted seeing less information.

Gary Seeger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Seeger I am strongly opposed to reducing the required number of financial meetings (earnings reports) for public companies. My wife and I have millions of dollars invested in public companies and are interested in obtaining regular updates on company performance. Quarterly reporting seems very reasonable. Semi annual if definitely too infrequent.

Gary Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gary Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY!!!

Sent from my iPhone

GARY STERNHARDT — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: GARY STERNHARDT Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Companies reporting semi annually puts investors at much higher risks. Why change what isn't broken?

---

gary stone — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: gary stone Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Gary Stone. I'm retired and living off my retirement accounts. There is no good reason to switch from quarterly reports. Shareholders deserve that to make better decisions on there investments. The insider trading with this administration is appalling and they have the guts to do it in broad daylight. Remember, all of us shareholders vote.

Get Outlook for iOS

Gary Towne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Towne I oppose allowing companies to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Transparency mandates regular informational reports.

Gary Walker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gary Walker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a recent retiree planning on living off investments we made during my working career as a CPA, I respectfully request that the SEC continue the requirement to file quarterly reports. I am opposed to semi-annual reporting.

Gary Walker,CPA
Lyle Walker & Co., P. A.
Certified Public Accountants
P. O. Box 2596
Ridgeland, MS 39158
Phone 601-981-0207 Ext 101
Fax 601-981-0311

Sent from my iPhone

GARY WHITAKER — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: GARY WHITAKER Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why change, that's what you get paid to do

Sent from my iPhone

Gary Wright — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Wright I think it will be poor judgement by the SEC to reduce the quarterly reporting requirements of publicly traded companies. These reports are how I and other investors follow the progress of the companies and determine if they are on the right track and keeping the commitments they have outlined in previous quarters and annual reports. The thought of this requirement being onerous is absurd. Speaking as a former general manager of operation of a manufacturing company, these reports are critical to the success of the company and any investor should have access to these reports to evaluate if they want to continue owning part of the company.

Gary Z — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gary Z Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Reject the movement to less than quarterly reporting. As a citizen my report is due every paycheck. Transparency and timeliness in investments should not be the privilege of boardrooms only. I rely upon knowledge for my retirement and frequent reporting is not only essential but protects my investment from unwanted or unnecessary activities of questionable ethics. As a shareholder and owner, I am due adequate information.

Gary Zion — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gary Zion Keep it honest and keep them quarterly. No need to hide. We are tired of it!!!

Gavin Hanson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gavin Hanson In this day of increasing automation of business tasks transparency of reporting should be easier and increasingly real time. Reducing the amount of public company reports reporting works against investors/"owners". This world moves fast and access to information drives profits, maintains accountability, and increases adaptability for businesses and share holders. Reducing amount of annual reports is a step in the wrong direction. Gavin Hanson

---

Gayla McGlamery — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gayla McGlamery I oppose reducing the number of required public-company reports from four times a year to two. Owners deserve regular quarterly reports from the businesses in which they invest, and attentive, responsible ownership requires more frequent communication about the company's operations.

Gayle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gayle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is mission critical for public trust and transparency! No more too big to fail or bailouts. Protect tax payers as well as investors. Quarterly reporting please!

Gayle

Gayle Robertson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gayle Robertson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In light of the current situation I would favor monthly. Quarterly would work but do not do it less than quarterly. The American people have been the victims far too long. Put honesty back in business.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

---

gayniekay — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: gayniekay Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Gaynie Baumler. I completely disagree with this proposal to let companies go dark and not report. It doesn't make sense and not being open about things like this is not right.

Sent from my Galaxy

---

gbrowngroup — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: gbrowngroup Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please stop moving the goal posts! If the name of transparency, people have the right to know what's going on with their investments. G Brown, retired

Sent from my Galaxy

---

geary mcdevitt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: geary mcdevitt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is the "information age" stop this nonsense. Somebody's bad idea to take it away.

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Gedi- investor for 60 years. Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gedi- investor for 60 years. SEC should continue to require reporting 4 times per year. All parties are accustomed to quarterly reporting and systems are in place for it. Transparency is very important for investors. Less information, by half, is a bad idea and will make it more difficult to judge a company’s and management’s performance. Cost savings are insignificant compared to the major loss of information.

Geert Vandendriessche The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Geert Vandendriessche At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Right?

Gene Caple — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Gene Caple Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leave well enough alone Keep the quarterly reporting on public companies

---

Gene Holt Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gene Holt Information needs to be transparent and timely. If companies say it costs too much to do quarterly reports, then they need new software/AI, not more time. Quarterly volatility is bad enough, imagine a company hiding bad news for 6 months, or good news. It's bad enough that the market overreacts to everything let's not 10X it every 6 months.

Gene Ivan Moody — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gene Ivan Moody With the rise and risk of off-balance sheet financing and liability we should be increasing our level of scrutiny, not diminishing our efforts. Quarterly reporting is barely working now. Longer reporting intervals will only compound the problem. I would agree to semi annual reporting only if it were preceded by much greater levels of control exerted on public companies in any areas where investor money is being put at risk without disclosure by the feduciary to the shareholders. As well, signifigantly incresed penalties for violation of same goes without saying.

Gene P Freeman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gene P Freeman Even quarterly reporting can be too slow in some industries. In the age of AI and high-speed computing, transparency for investors is paramount. However, regulators should apply some common sense rather than a one-size-fits-all rule across all sectors. Industries with lower volatility and companies that require a longer runway before reaching profitability could be given more time between reporting requirements. This would allow newer businesses to establish themselves and focus on growth without being burdened by excessive reporting obligations during their early stages.

Gene Sassor none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gene Sassor Cutting company reporting down to twice year, cuts down on transparency to the investor or investor groups. Investing would become much much more risky, and may stagnant investing period. I think it would affect our whole economy negatively. I say this as it would affect funds, pensions, all the myriad factions that make up the investing "family". With the advent of AI, one would assume, reporting would become easier and less costly, thus mitigating that argument. Lets keep the quarterly reporting please.

Gene Siciliano Financial consultant and investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gene Siciliano Don't do this. Quarterly reporting is better by far.

Gene Sorensen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gene Sorensen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Your entity exists to protect investors from fraud and corruption. We are all counting on you to prevent the event which will make 1929 look like a minor market correction. Thank you.

Gene Vasile — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Gene Vasile Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Eugene Vasile, citizen,No rth Carolina
Removing post Enron regulation will only enable the repeat of similarly duplicitous behavior to the detrimental of the overall economy and private investors in particular..
.

Gene Wiseman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gene Wiseman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please continue to require publicly traded companies to report quarterly financials. I am a retired investor who actively managed my own savings investments through my working years. I relied on quarterly financials to make wise decisions. As a result I was able to retire with a comfortable IRA. Relaxing the reporting period to 6 months could allow small investors to be hoodwinked into making decisions without solid data to research. Please continue quarterly reporting requirements!

Gene Wiseman
Jefferson City, MO

Gene Wiseman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gene Wiseman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please continue to require publicly traded companies to report quarterly financials. I am a retired investor who actively managed my own savings investments through my working years. I relied on quarterly financials to make wise decisions. As a result I was able to retire with a comfortable IRA. Relaxing the reporting period to 6 months could allow small investors to be hoodwinked into making decisions without solid data to research. Please continue quarterly reporting requirements!

Geneva Scott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Geneva Scott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Law needs to continue as it is, more people are taking advantage of laws today.

Geoart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Geoart Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. Let's be honest.

Geo!

Geoff Vallillee Motley Fool Member — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Geoff Vallillee I believe that our major corporations have not earned the trust to not need to provide financial reporting on a quarterly basis. This is especially true today given the dramatically changing environment we are barely coping with globally and domestically. Less reporting will result in greater latitude for corporations to delay reporting of poor decision-making and poor performance. I expect you know this. Please do not change corporate reporting requirements from quarterly reporting to a greater time interval. Thank you.

Geoff West — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Propose Cut in Reporting Frequency From: Geoff West Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think decreasing the frequency of reporting is a bad idea that will hasten the market upheavals the quarterly reporting rules were meant to avert.

Respectfully,
Geoff West

Geoff Wills — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Geoff Wills Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly
Geoff Wills

Geoffrey A Domenico — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Geoffrey A Domenico very bad; poorly thought out; violates transparency; only benefits companies that have something to hide

---

Geoffrey Warner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Geoffrey Warner Please keep the current semi annual reporting requirements in place. Transparency for individual investors is in everyone's best interests.

Geofio — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Geofio Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Letting companies keep information hidden for six months is ridiculous! Who is trying to get this passed? CEOs and top executives with large stock holdings and options? DO NOT PASS THIS!

George Fiorenza

Sent from Proton Mail for Android.

Georgann Holbrook — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Georgann Holbrook Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keeping the reports quarterly makes the most sense to me . Reporting only twice a year is much too infrequent . A lot can go wrong in a half year and by the time you found out it could have very negative ramifications. Georgann Holbrook , Direct Care Provider

Sent from my iPhone

George Bennett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: George Bennett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I believe the transparency created by quarterly reporting is best for rank and file investors.

Sent from my iPhone

George C Husted — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: George C Husted Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is George Husted and I'm retired. I depend, in part, on my investments to live. Quarterly reporting is an essential part of maintaining an honest market. Please keep the rules in place to make the market as transparent as possible and to reduce insider trading and profiteering at the expense of the little guys.

George DeTitta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: George DeTitta Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 PlEASE keep the quarterly reports.
It’s important to be transparent.
George DeTitta

Sent from my iPhone

George Doktorczyk Trader — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George Doktorczyk The proposal to reduce the flow of information is antilogical. Equity markets are moving at 'warp speed'. The growing impact of artificial intelligence is causing acceleration in consequence. By simple deduction this implies that, if anything, reports on corporate performance and activities should be made available more frequently.

George Dumigan The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George Dumigan Greater transparency is what I feel it is in my best interest. Thank you. George

---

George Eidel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George Eidel As an individual investor for many decades, and in retirement, I request you to maintain the level of reporting where it is and not reduced to two levels a year I believe this would reduce the amount of information available to public to make decisions in their best interest. I believe this will push more of the interest on the corporations and remove it from the public. The public have the money who are investing in these companies and they need to have a little bit more information than the companies are currently providing. This rule would negatively impact the individual to the benefit of the company please do not pass this role. Thank you for your time in this matter.

George Flint — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: George Flint Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I personally will be pulling all investments out of markets should this proposal come to fruition. It is one step in a series of corruption driven insider capture campaigns. At a certain point, enough is enough, and I will rest far more easily putting my money into more fundamentally valued and transparent markets than that of the US.

With little to no appreciation,
George

George G. Kroesing — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George G. Kroesing I am opposed to changing the requirement for companies to report quarterly. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

George Gaston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: George Gaston Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly!!

George Harper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George Harper I do not approve the movement to reduce the quarterly notifications.

George Hooper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: George Hooper Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 More transparency, not less.
I am retired, depend almost completely on my investments for my financial future, rely on quarterly reports for status. Six months is too long.
George R Hooper III
Retired Aerospace Engineer, Air Force Veteran

George Iacocca — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: George Iacocca Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting as is. Accuracy and accountability are paramount.

Sent from my iPhone

George Jungle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: George Jungle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Many of us are retired and rely on our investments for survival and security. We need quarterly reporting more than most as we may be gone by the next quarter. Thank you, Diane Rose in Houston, TX

George Koehler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George Koehler I am retired, living modestly and rely on my investments to provide some income for myself and family. Allowing a reduction in reporting requirements will make it more difficult for me to monitor those investments to assure they provide the most security for myself and my family. I strongly oppose reducing the frequency of reporting requirements.

George Latta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George Latta We need MORE transparency as investors, not less!!!

George Lee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George Lee Only a fool would allow any party to manage their assets without regularly reporting on the status & any change in value. Only a dishonest person would object to the requirement to report.

George M. Leute M.A. Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George M. Leute M.A. It is essential to have accurate and timely information. Our investing depends upon it. I oppose reducing reports from four to two times per year. Confidence and transparency are most critical.

George Retired VP Reinsurance — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George As a retiree, my IRA and that of my spouse, are invested in public companies — including Mutual Funds and ETFs — whose financial results should be readily available on a Quarterly basis. Less frequent reporting does nothing for my benefit as an investor.

George Sebolt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George Sebolt I am neutral on changing the reporting period and feel moving this to a 6-month format is fine in the long term.

George Sylvestre — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: George Sylvestre Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hell no things are already lop sided why give them another way to take or steal give them this and you'll lose more of them voters you thought you had

---

George T Cooley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George T Cooley Please keep company reports on a quarterly basis we need as much current information as possible not less Sincerely George Cooley

---

George T Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George T Johnson Please continue with quarterly company reporting and do not reduce to anything less. In the time of job cuts and AI more information is needed, not less. Thanks ,

---

George White — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: George White Please do not reduce the number of public-company reports from four to two per year. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Georgette Crawford — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Georgette Crawford Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the

Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not end quarterly reporting!

Georgia Mcgill-Houle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Georgia Mcgill-Houle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly repointing is vital for investor's confidence and safety.

Sent from my iPhone

Georgia Nicholson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Georgia Nicholson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It needs to be quarterly, don't change it!

Gerald Haveman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gerald Haveman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quartery, investors will be unfairly taken advantage of, if this is allowed to pass. They need to stop insider trading .

Gerald Kooiman Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gerald Kooiman Less frequent reporting and less transparency is not a good idea, leads to more uncertainty

---

Gerald Mazetis Former fed nuclear engineer with PhD in mechanical engineering (retired USNRC) — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gerald Mazetis Sirs; Over half-century of my investing (now age 87) has always been with the knowledge that at its heart, investing in a company is part ownership. Reducing reporting requirements weakens my connection to a company that I am part owner. When I own a piece of a business, I must have regular transparent communication from that business. I feel this way because reducing reporting requirements rarely creates better-informed owners. This fact also applies to my informed sources of expert opinion.

Gerald Orndorff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gerald Orndorff Please give this matter your full attention. We, as investors need full transparency with 4 quarter reporting.

Gerald Piotrowski Stock Owner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gerald Piotrowski DO NOT CHANGE TO TWICE A YEAR! KEEP REPORTING COMPAMIES HONEST!

Gerald stephan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gerald stephan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a senior which means retired. We followed the "don't rely on just Social Security", saved money for our retirement years, count on our investments to fill the gaps and need up-to-date information on companies. We rely on quarterly information to make investment decisions. Your proposed longer gaps in company reporting create an unfair advantage for corporate insiders. How does "optional" fix any problem? Savings for companies aren't worth the cost to us. We depend on accurate timely information, we need significant returns on our investments. Have you not seen the increases in property taxes (a killer), auto insurance (another), health care and health insurance (another and the most), plus life's basics? Hubby and I are not a drain on society, we do more than pull our own weight, we are blessed to be able to help many others even if only in small ways for some. We do not need unfair advantages in the stock market to be given/available to "insiders".
My name is Nancy Stephan. I live in Ohio. I have been retired for 20 years.

Gerald Zimmerman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gerald Zimmerman I oppose reduction of public company reports to only twice a year. - Reports should remain quarterly. I wish to be informed on a regular and frequent basis.

Geraldine Barbieri — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Geraldine Barbieri Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Girolama Barbieri. We are a retired couple and we depend upon our investments and need to get quarterly reports. We want it to remain as quarterly

Sent from my iPhone

Geraldine Connelly — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Geraldine Connelly Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I vote for quarterly checks

Sent from my iPhone

Geraldine Hoag — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Geraldine Hoag Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is necessary quarterly reporting is that bare minimum. It should be monthly companies should open up their books and let us see what they do and why they do it.

Geraldine (Dean) Hoag
📱843-822-7786
dean.ghoag@gmail.com

Geraldine Ivins The Motely Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Geraldine Ivins Don't want to have the reports changed to twice a year.

Geraldo Ferrer The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Geraldo Ferrer Transparency is important.

Gerard McCaffery — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gerard McCaffery Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 How one can believe that less transparency is a good thing is beyond me. Things change so quickly in this world and with less information we are left in the dark for too long.

Gerard McCaffery
Retired CEO

Gerard Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gerard Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is no reason not to have quarterly reports . Gerard Miller retired , stock investor.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Gerardo Arreguin Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gerardo Arreguin Semiannual reporting does not provides enough visibilily of the company's performance creating a disconnection with the stock holders. Personally as CEO for a privately owned company, I would not accept getting finantial reports from the CFO on semiannual basis compared to quaterly reporting.

Gere Ryerson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gere Ryerson Keep the quarterly reports, as investors we need more information to make informed decisions on companies we invest in, not less.

Gerenarda Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Gerenarda Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
To hell with this!!! No!!!

Geret Lee Chaney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Geret Lee Chaney In my opinion, this is a bad idea. We've already done this before. There are very good reasons we went to Quarterly Reporting in 1970. The prime one being the corporate scandles of the 60's. Insiders would have a huge advanage when it comes to information as they have resources not available to Retail Investors. The whole concept for going quarterly was to make the markets more transparen to cut down on fraud, and so that investors could make properly informed decisions. Has the SEC changed it's mind about that? We are not Europe, our markets and culture are different Just because they do something doesn't mean we should follow suit.

Geri Lynn Kromminga — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Geri Lynn Kromminga I appose the proposed change to reporting from quarterly to semi annually. As a consumer, I prefer getting the reports more often to keep me informed.

Geri V — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Geri V Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep reporting regs the same. We need transparency!

---

geri wegner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: geri wegner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is the minimum that should be allowed. If we entrust our money to these companies to help them grow, we should be informed monthly on how they are doing. The minimum should be quarterly.

Geri Wegner
Happily retired and want to continue that way!

---

geri wegner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: geri wegner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is the minimum that should be allowed. If we entrust our money to these companies to help them grow, we should be informed monthly on how they are doing. The minimum should be quarterly.
Geri Wegner, retired

Geri

GermanEcho — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: GermanEcho Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Save investors. Report four times a year

---

Gerri Brightwell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gerri Brightwell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Relaxing rules will not promote corporate responsibility. Who will suffer when corporations are allowed to hide what they're doing? The rest of us. We need more transparency, not less.
Prof. Brightwell

Gerri Evans — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gerri Evans Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting should be maintained. Who benefits from changing it to less reporting? Only the companies that don't want you to know what they are doing. Stop catering to the corporations!

Gerry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gerry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am against the change from quarterly reporting! We need to keep things open and in view. I very disappointed that the SEC would even consider the change in view of the amount of dishonest business being done now. I am a small time investor and watch these reports now, my investment advisor relies on thses reports, many of my friends believe the proposed change will bring back the same problems that were the basis for the mandated quarterly reporting.
Kendell G Ide

Gerry & Martha Sydow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Change in Reporting From: Gerry & Martha Sydow Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting keeps investors better informed verses the possible change to six month reporting. Please do not make this change. It’s important for investors to be able to assess how stable a company is and semi-annual reports could fail to alert investors to a downturn in the company.
Gerald and Martha Sydow
Retired
Sent from my iPhone

Gerry Wenham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gerry Wenham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We want continued quarterly reporting! It's our money they're managing, and we want regular and timely accountability!

---

gertrude neill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: gertrude neill Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The argument about a world standard does not hold weight. Singapore is considering a reversal. Multiple problems in the UK as well. There is no advantage for consumers and investors, but a lot of advantages for insider trading and the potential for fraud. Do not approve this. Support something other than corporations.

Sent from my iPad

---

gidadx4 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: gidadx4 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting and hold companies and investors accountable!

Sent from Proton Mail for iOS.

Gifford Watkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gifford Watkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't you think the little man already is kept in the dark way to often. No thank you. We need to know everything they do.

Gil Graham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gil Graham There is already a shortage of ethics these days. Don't make it easier for corrupt forces to cheat!

Gilbert Wilcox The Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gilbert Wilcox I’m a stock investor with with a multi-million dollar portfolio thru Etrade. Respectfully, reducing quarterly reporting to biannual is a terrible idea as it would reduce transparency to the actual owners (stock holders) of the companies and create more market volatility with info released only twice per year. The high's and lows would be more dramatic as would the reactions to them. And in the AI era it is highly debatable that this would save companies significant dollars.

Gillian Bagwell Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gillian Bagwell Reducing the number of public companies' reports from four to two per year is a terrible idea. Investors need accurate and recent information to make decisions about their investments. Companies owe us that information.

Gillian Huber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Gillian Huber Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Gillian C. Huber, retired elementary school teacher, Columbus, Ohio. Quarterly reporting shines a frequent and bright light on the financial doings of large companies and corporations. It facilitates honesty and transparency for the executives, employees and investors. Biannual reporting cuts needed scrutiny in half and hurts employees and investors. Please remember the wisdom of the old saying, “When the cat’s away, the mice will play”.

---

gillian zeldin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: gillian zeldin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This must stay quarterly. Otherwise it'll only enrich the insiders.

Get Outlook for iOS

---

gilliwhispers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: gilliwhispers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports. Keep corporations accountable Sarah Hall Retired it matters to me because Ido not think living in a world with less regulations on capitalism is a good thing in any way. The oligarchs need More checks and balances not less.

Gina Arthur — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gina Arthur Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 NO!!!!!!

Sent from my iPhoneuiyvjvvjvjjyb

Gina Bainbridge — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Gina Bainbridge Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Gina Bainbridge, dental assistant-retired, Ridgefield WA. There must be quarterly reporting to avoid a loss of integrity by CEO's. Fraud of financial statements of companies cannot be submitted. Trust and truth must prevail.

Sent from my iPhone

Gina Gernant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gina Gernant Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Reporting keeps everyone honest. It also helps catch unintentional errors as well.

Gina Gernant
Accountant/Finance Manager

Sent from my iPhone

Gina Guarino — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gina Guarino Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The reports are necessary to evaluate investment performance. There is no reason to change this unless companies want to hide their numbers.

Gina Guarino
Luxre Realty
949-295-5265
Sent from my iPad

Gina Klein — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gina Klein Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Financial executives use every opportunity to present their financial statements to favorably support the value of their stock. Reducing the frequency of public reporting of the financial condition of publicly owned corporations would reduce the opportunity to identify inaccurate information presented in financial statements in a timely manner. The predictable consequence would be harm to the public owners of the stock of that entity. The history of using quarterly financial statements must be continued to protect the public.

Regina Klein

Sent from my iPad

---

gina Riggi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: gina Riggi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Americans deserve to have the status quo maintained as knowledge and transparency are key to security.
G. Riggi, professional artist

Makeup Central
Gina Riggi
201-704-7888

GINA ROSADO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: GINA ROSADO Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 More transparency

Sent from my iPhone

Gina Trignani — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gina Trignani Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The investors have the right to know. Keep transparency and accountability!

Gina Trignani

Bryn Mawr PA

Ginger Andrews — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ginger Andrews Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is necessary to keep everyone honest. Too many things can go wrong quickly if you minimize the reporting to 6 months.

G Andrews
Federal IT Analyst

Ginger Flippo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ginger Flippo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop this Trump nonsense give a regular report as usual

Sent from my iPhone

Ginger Fortson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Ginger Fortson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
It is not in the best interest of stock holders to have this quarterly information no longer available, especially when criminal government officials, taking advantage of insider information, are now running the federal government!

Ginger Hadley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ginger Hadley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We have got to keep this quarterly! There is too much at stake to change this.

Virginia Hadley

Ginni Hendricks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ginni Hendricks Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This proposal clearly is supporting non- transparency for investors as to how thier investments are performing . Clearly there are no good intentions for the consumers or investors, only a cloak of secrecy for corporations. This is a cover for corruption.

A company could dissolve in 6 months, assets absorbed by CEO's , profits hidden, and a company dumps entire work places and full staff just to line a few people's pockets, and support growing monopolies, just leading to more greed and price gouging, making the inflation rate soar and continuing the assault on consumers. Why are companies kow- towing to the worst businessman in existence??? Why is his administration so far reaching as to promote even more corruption being introduced to private businesses?

Not to mention people who have put their savings into the stock market- who stand to lose their security in this 6 months proposed period. Are you banking (no pun intended) on the ignorance of the American population to not oppose this? I assume you know that stock holders aren't so unsavvy as to overlook this. This is trickle up corruption, by the most crooked administration in history, already stealing billions in tax dollars from our country- where does it end?? Protect consumers who depend on these businesses and investors !

Ginny Cooper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Ginny Cooper Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it as it is

Sent from my iPad

Ginny McNeill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Ginny McNeill Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I may not have as much money as some do so I need to be cautious and aware of my finances. Going 6 months is totally unacceptable and harm people like me and benefits wealthy corporations. How loud can yell NOT FAIR so someone who should care will hear me.
Please vote no on this

Ginny Murphy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ginny Murphy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leave it the way it is. Changing it is not beneficial for the average investor. It is geared more toward corporate investors which already have enough advantage.

Ginny Sears — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ginny Sears Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Ginny Sears, retired This matters as I am on a fixed income and I need quarterly reports to help me better understand my finances

Sent from my iPhone

Gino — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gino We deserve to have more transparency, not less transparency. This is not fair.

Giorgos P — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Giorgos P I strongly oppose any proposal to reduce the frequency of corporate financial reporting from quarterly disclosures to only twice per year. As investors, we entrust companies with our hard-earned capital and have a fundamental right to receive timely, transparent, and consistent information regarding their financial performance. Reducing reporting requirements would decrease transparency, limit accountability, and make it more difficult for investors to make informed decisions. Financial markets function best when information is available regularly and equally to all participants. Moving from quarterly reporting to semiannual reporting would result in longer periods with limited visibility into a company's performance, increasing uncertainty and potentially disadvantaging individual investors. Rather than reducing disclosure requirements, regulators and companies should be working to improve transparency and investor access to information. Investors deserve more timely information, not less. I urge policymakers to reject any proposal that would reduce the frequency of financial reporting and to maintain the current quarterly reporting framework.

Giovanni’s Couto Bronca — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Giovanni’s Couto Bronca This is a terrible idea. We should strive for transparency and not hiding the information behind a long reporting period. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Gladys Salgado — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gladys Salgado I am writing to oppose reducing reporting to the public from four to two times a year. As any business owner, I deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. I see no advantage or real reduction of costs in eliminating reporting. Just decreases transparency. I am for reporting 4 times and year and added transparency.

Glen Case — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Glen Case Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This will hurt the average investor substantially and help a wealthy company that does not need the minuscule financial help.

Sent from my iPhone

---

glen cruse — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: glen cruse Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Glen Cruse, Govt employee. The SEC attempting to change company reporting to every 6 months reduces my ability to track positive and negative trends in a companies management groups actions and changes in a potentially excessive time frame. It can cause late decisions concerning my activity with investments.

Get Outlook for Android

Glen Harvey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Glen Harvey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I believe retail investors like myself need reasonable, current information, otherwise we are disadvantaged in regard to our investment decisions even more so than large traders who evaluate data as their profession. Cutting reporting and guidance is a really bad idea. Glen C Harvey, retired.

GLEN JACKSON — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: GLEN JACKSON Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We want to keep quarterly reports. The public wants transparency.
Thank you
Susan and Glen Jackson
Sent from my iPhone

GLENDA C. HICKS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: GLENDA C. HICKS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am Mrs. Glenda Hicks, a retiree with a pension funded account that I absolutely deserve and must continue to receive quarterly reports of my account earnings. Every investor has equal informational rights to know how their money is performing across the board most expeditiously. To change this process and no longer avail quarterly account updates to individual investors is deceitful and untrustworthy at best. A monthly accounting and reporting is the only change that should take place. Full transparency and accountability is required and demanded in the most timely manner. It is the responsibility of this arm of the government which is charged with taking action in the best interests of all people, to do just that! The SEC is to protect, secure, and safeguard the people's assets and interests; not demean, belittle, devalue, and unprotect it. Keeping ALL investors equally, efficiently, and totally informed with the upmost accuracy and integrity must be the only choice!

Respectfully,

Mrs. Glenda Hicks

---

glenda eversole — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: glenda eversole Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This proposal is completely unacceptable. UNACCEPTABLE. I am nearly 60 years old. My retirement age is too close for risky business like this for my IRA. My name is Glenda, and I am a small business owner.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Glenda Grant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Glenda Grant Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the law as it is so these companies and the executives are accountable. There is to much corruption already.

Sent from my iPhone

Glenda Needs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Glenda Needs I do not support the proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I believe it takes power and responsibility away from investors and does not support full transparency.

Glenda Stockwell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Glenda Stockwell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Glenda Stockwell, I am a Certified Public Accountant in a small rural rural community of Bedford Iowa. There are many folks who live well below the median income in our community, but, who attempt to improve their lives by making small investments in the stock market. These folks are not relying on brokers to guide them, they are attempting to cut corners and make decisions themselves. every dollar is important to them. Consider this as you look at these proposals to decrease the public reporting responsibilities. This will indeed directly affect those folks who can least afford a drop in valuations. 6 months can make a huge difference in the value of a small portfolio. This is a critical change that should not be allowed. Protect our citizens and require quarterly reporting for all entities using this public platform. Thank you for your consideration of these comments.
Glenda Stockwell

Glenn Christensen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Glenn Christensen I am strongly against the proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Less transparancy is never a good idea when it comes to public companies.

Glenn Engelke retiree turned investor for income — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Glenn Engelke In my Roth account I can take profits without tax consequences. Quarterly reporting is helpful even for large companies. I see no reason to slow down information that can effect an investment decision.

Glenn Foster — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Glenn Foster Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Transparency is what makes a market able to attract investment money and keeps the markets stable and secure.

Glenn K Berry Private citizen and invester — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Glenn K Berry I am against changing the reporting equipments from quarterly to every 6 months. It’s not that hard to report every quarter.

Glenn Mar — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Glenn Mar Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change the current law please. Keep America safe from crime.

Glenn Mar
San Francisco

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

---

glenn monte — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: glenn monte Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hold their feet to the %0□□%5 Maintain quarterly reporting!!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

---

glenn offff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: glenn offff Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Glenn OFFNER. As a stockholder We need to know . What's going with our money 💰

Glenn Peterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Glenn Peterson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarter report

God loves you.

Glenn Turk Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Glenn Turk Please do not eliminate quarterly reporting requirements. This will reduce transparency and timeliness of corporate performance information that is critical for retail investors to make sound investing decisions. Data from the UK indicates that a reduction in reporting frequency has not been effective.

Gliria Cutillo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Gliria Cutillo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Stop the corruption and cover ups for the wealthy.

Gloria — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gloria Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 These people are trying to defraud the American people. Do t let it happen. They must sign their names for accountability!

Sent from my iPhone

---

gloria austin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: gloria austin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please do not do this.

Get Outlook for iOS

Gloria Cooke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Gloria Cooke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
As an investor I need more information not less! I have become SO distrusting of the people who run the companies in which I invest that I want to see those quarterly reports This effort to stop them screams that you have something to hide I don't trust anything this administration does nor do I trust this change that you want to make!

Gloria Deniz Medical professional — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gloria Deniz As a senior managing costs and investments, the more information I have, the better I can make decisions!!! Please DO NOT limit information to only twice a year. Thank you.

Gloria Dunston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Gloria Dunston Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep quarterly reporting. There is too much fraud as it is. Don't freeze out the investors who are not in the room.

Gloria Dunston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gloria Dunston Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep FEC reporting quarterly to keep the playing field equal. Please stop shafting the people. Gloria Dunston

Gloria

---

gloria Kimball — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: gloria Kimball Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a woman in my 70s, I rely on quarterly information to make my decisions. Allowing longer time gaps in repoting creates an unfair advantage for corporate insiders and dirty politicians to make millions while people like myself suffer. Leaving the time frame "optional" only allows companies to take the lazy, cheap way out. The small savings are not worth the cost to small investors like myself. Stay with the quarterly reporting model.

GLORIA KIMBALL
Cashier, Semi-retired.

Gloria McMahon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gloria McMahon Gloria McMahon technical analyst, Colorado my hard earned money requires protection! Quarterly reports at minimum! Investors require protection from cheats! Cheats and thieves have proven the need for frequent hand signed reports to ensure accountability!!

Gloria Moorman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gloria Moorman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Federal employee retired. We deserve to know how our money is being invested and how we came by profit or loss. It also will allow us to keep an eye on administrators. So many crooks and thieves even though there are laws in place we need to be vigilant not kept in the dark.

Sent from my iPad

Gloria Stapp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Gloria Stapp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange CommissiThe quarterly reporting should stay to keep acvountability. I have no investments, but there's no need to make their actions transparent on:

Glynis Long — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Keep 10 Qs, Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Glynis Long Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The whole point of EDGAR is to let your great aunt in Minnesota have a chance to use her own decisions on how she invests. Take out the four quarterly (10Qs) and you eliminate half her (and your) data resources. Keep an even playing field let information ring!!

Glynis Long. Former SEC and EDGAR supporter.
Arthur Levitt knew what he was doing!

Glynislong@gmail.com

WhatsApp

Gmail — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gmail Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keeping quarterly reports public will allow me more information to properly manage my retirement, and my child's college fund. Optional reporting will not be a fair approach. Optional reporting means reporting may not happen, and this is unfair to me and my family.

Roslyn Fulton-Dahlie
Lecturer, state university of NY at Fredonia

R. Fulton-Dahlie
917.514.3736
Sent from my iPhone

---

gmail email — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Re: Reporting From: gmail email Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely not! Have we learned nothing in the past 20 years? I want even more oversight. Corruption is rampant in that industry. Lets do monthly reporting…

Josh Henry

Goetz Linzenmeier CEO InvestmentService — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Goetz Linzenmeier It is of utmost important for all stakeholders and stability of the market by receiving proper price signals to keep transparent and continous information flow each quarter.

Gorden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gorden As America is on the precipice of total financial collapse, given the complete corruption of our government, it is now even more important to tighten and strength any and all information regarding SEC. Therefore, I am completely opposed to limiting any information of this nature.

Gordon B. Cutler, Jr. Motley Fool community; individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gordon B. Cutler, Jr. I am writing to oppose semiannual reporting. I do not believe that proposed benefits of efficiency or long-term focus will outweigh the loss of timely information on which to make sound investment decisions. Improved electronic methods already make quarterly reporting more efficient than ever. CEOs and governance Board members already know that the survival of any public company depends on effective strategies and implementation for the SHORT-TERM, the MID-TERM, and the LONG-TERM. Thus, the major consequence of semiannual reporting will be to deprive investors of critical performance information. This will impair decisions regarding efficient capital allocation. The proposed rule should be opposed and defeated.

Gordon Harvey Very concerned citizen. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gordon Harvey The lack of transparency is the beginning of corruption, keep our institutions clean and drive away any attempt to pervert them. I vote no the reduced reporting!

Gordon Huskinson The Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gordon Huskinson We need to keep reporting the way it is investors deserve as much transparency as possible when risking their savings Moving to biannual reporting will be a disaster ruin overseas confidence in investing and create more market volatility and reduce confidence

---

Gordon Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gordon Miller I believe that is a mistake to reduce the frequency of information provided to investors. As an investor in public companies, I rely on quarterly reports to monitor the health of the businesses where I have put my hard earned money. Investors need more information, not less.

Gordon Mobley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gordon Mobley I think this is a very bad idea. Investors need MORE information, not less. Please leave quarterly reporting in place as is.

Gordon Sharp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gordon Sharp There should not be a time when you allow companies to reduce financial reporting. As shareholders, we are entitled to more, not less reporting. If the reasoning is cost, then the company should absorb those costs, and debit it accordingly. Company executives who reduce their reporting to the owners because of the 'law', should be dismissed. Gordon Sharp

---

Gordon Waters None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gordon Waters Please maintain transparency and mandate quarterly reporting

---

gra — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: gra Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not make it easier for incompetent or fraudulent activity to be covered up. Keep the quarterly reports.

Grace Brock — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Grace Brock Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Grace, operations coordinator for a benefits company, and this is outrageous and unacceptable. Businesses, especially big corporations, are already benefiting off of squeezing money out of everyday people. There should be transparency in reporting so they can be held accountable for their actions.

Grace Cameron — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Grace Cameron I do not support the proposed reduction in public company reports. I'm an investor in the US stock market and it's important to me to have regular updates. Halving the number of reports would allow business practices to get more sloppy as well as doubling the length of time before investors saw the impacts of business changes. If I'm putting my money into a business, I need regular updates.

Grace Clark — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Grace Clark Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting!

Grace Clark — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: From: Grace Clark Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting!

Grace DeShaw-Wilner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Grace DeShaw-Wilner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is critical to protect society. It’s for the greater good. The track record demonstrates it’s working and there’s no valid reason to make a change. Thank you.

---

grace giliberti — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: grace giliberti Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC, do NOT change the requirements! It is very important to keep the certified reporting quarterly; the signatures required holds the ceo and board responsible. Remember Enron! Thanks for reading & considering my comment.

Grace Kemp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Grace Kemp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING!!! GRACE KEMP-DESIR, COURIER. IT MATTERS BECAUSE COMPANIES SHOULD NOT TRY TO HIDE THEIR ASSETS.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Grace Lecara Investor — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Grace Lecara Investors want and demand More reports, Not less! It's OUR Money that these companies are running around with and we want to know what they are doing with it!!

Graham Individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Graham A lot can change in 6 months… As an individual investor I rely on quarterly updates to stay abreast of how the companies that I invest in are doing. A 6 month reporting schedule is too long and will lead to more significant upside and downside surprises and associated volatility. Please maintain the current quarterly reporting schedule for the benefit of us individual investors who rely on these updates to maintain or update our thesis's.

Graham Summerlee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Graham Summerlee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not remove the quarterly reporting requirements. Every public company I've worked for does internal MONTHLY reporting. If passed they will continue to do this.
This change will not save anyone any money, it is removing transparency from individual investors. Institutional investors will still get access to this information. Retail investors will be put at even of a more disadvantage.
Graham Summerlee

Graham Tyler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Graham Tyler This would be a retrograde step as a private investor and prevent many of us having up to date news on our stocks. Open to bigger shocks and info that is not recent. Please reconsider.

Graham Zoller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Graham Zoller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I, Graham Zoller, System Analyst, respectfully request to maintain financial reporting requirements every quarter. Accounting necessary to find transaction irregularities will greatly increase, in time and effort (and cost). Patterns monitored, designed for quarterly reports, will no longer serve their intended purposes and will not scale to other frequencies. Thank you.

Grammy Allen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Grammy Allen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No.

Grant Carr None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Grant Carr As an investor in US company stocks I own portions of several dozen publicly traded companies and expect each of them to keep me informed of their financial performance in a timely manner. The current quarterly financial report requirement provides an adequate frequency of updates on their financial performance so that I can make informed decisions on whether to hold, expand, reduce or exit my ownership stakes in each of those US companies with an acceptable level of risk. Reducing the financial reporting requirement to twice per year would prevent me, an owner, from having the transparency required to adequately track the financial performance of the US companies in which I have invested. It would introduce substantial financial risk to all investors in the US stock markets and likely encourage an exodus from US stock markets to others that have maintained a quarterly financial reporting requirement and by extension offer a substantially lower investment risk. The likely result of reducing the financial performance reporting frequency from 4 times per year to twice is a US stock market correction as both institutional and personal investors reassess the risk-reward profiles of US stock market listed stocks vs those listed on the European and Asian stock markets, followed by sustained under-performance of the US stock markets until the more frequent financial reporting requirement is restored. If we want to maintain the US stock markets among the most popular for investment we should not reduce the financial reporting frequency requirement to less than 4 times per year. Thank you.

Grant Wagz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Grant Wagz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Grant Wagliardo, Warehouse Manager
Removing quarterly reporting requirements and switching to semi-annual reporting will hinder my ability to be informed about my investments. I'll have half as much opportunity to stay informed while companies will have twice the opportunity to hide financial information from me. Please reconsider this move and don't further destabilize an already volatile stock market.

Grayson Matos — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Grayson Matos Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Stop only caring about yourselves.

Great Dane — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Great Dane Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What's new. We workers always get screwed. Our elected officals do protect us anymore.

Greg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Greg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What is the reasoning for changing a system set in place to help keep things honest.?
Who will benefit from this?
How does it improve the process?
This looks to be a way for corporate entities to hide their behavior.
Leave the reporting alone.

Sent from my iPhone

Greg Carter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Carter Quarterly reporting by public companies is the minimum acceptable frequency. My family's income is 100% dependent on this information and people like me watching and participating and commenting on company performance is a big part of America having strong public businesses. The federal government does not have the right to limit this visibility any further, and trying to do so is damaging to the economy.

Greg Chepin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Chepin I think this is a bad decision to reduce the number of reporting times from four to two. As an investor in individual securities this restricts my ability to make good decisions on companies that I have shares of their stock.

Greg Coln Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Coln As an investor, and therefore an owner of a portion of a company, however small, I strongly feel that reducing the frequency of reporting requirements would be a mistake. In a time when trust in our public companies and institutions is under fire, it is critical that as much transparency as possible is maintained.

---

greg fraser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: greg fraser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Companies can't be trusted to report fairly. No quarterly reporting.

Greg Fraser
Retired and living off investments

Greg Gastler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Greg Gastler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't relax oversight and the protection and competitive balance it provides! The saying "expect what you inspect" applies in this instance!
More positively- trust but verify. We're talking about my retirement savings here…..

Greg Gastler, BME, MCM
Choir Director
Holy Cross Lutheran Church
St. Louis, MO 63118

(314)705-1211 (cell)
(314)832-7696 (landline)

<gastlergl@gmail.com>

Greg Guenther — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Guenther Transparency leading to trust is essential to retail investors. Quarterly information has worked and will continue to work for open guidance. Thank you.

Greg Hartwick Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Hartwick I believe it's important to continue with quarterly reporting in order to maintain the current level of transparency. Moving to semi annual reporting would tilt the playing field in favor of the professional investors.

Greg Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Greg Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change the requirements for reporting. Otherwise you screw all of us with retirement accounts(IRA's).

Sent from my iPhone

Greg Kerley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Kerley Terrible idea. In a time where more data is available why would you want to reduce timed information?

Greg Lewis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Lewis Please keep quarterly reporting requirements. Investors deserve to have information provided to them on a quarterly basis in order to make investment decisions.

Greg Lewis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Greg Lewis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I was a 15 year Enron employee who lost over $500,000 due to their fraud. If you give companies more time to hide fraud, they will. Don't do it!
Greg Lewis

Sent from my iPhone

Greg Okimi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Okimi Please keep quarterly reports! Having clear and regular information into public companies helps keep them accountable, and also helps individual and retail investors make better and more informed decisions. For the protection of retail investors, please keep the quarterly reporting schedule!

Greg Quinton Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Quinton More info, more better! Duh😏

Greg Rogers Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Rogers Individual retail investors are already disadvantaged. Please keep the required reports quarterly and not biannual. Thank you.

Greg Sholom — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Sholom Semi annual reporting is woefully inadequate. I believe it will ultimately lead to a lack of transparency, and a lack of confidence in the stock market itself. A company can get in a whole lot of trouble in 6 months. It opens the door very wide to misleading or even fraudulent behavior. Please do not back off from quarterly reporting.

Greg Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Greg Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I feel like reporting every 6 months will reduce interest in stocks and may create a move towards other investments. Public companies should have a high visibility and I feel like quarterly reporting is appropriate.

Greg Spencer Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Spencer Dear Sirs: In my opinion, reducing the frequency of public-company financial reports from quarterly to semi-annually is a dangerous step backward for investor protection and market efficiency. Quarterly reporting provides the continuous transparency required to accurately evaluate risk, allocate capital, and hold corporate management accountable in a fast-moving economic landscape. Stretching the reporting window to six months creates massive information vacuums, leaving retail investors vulnerable to prolonged periods of uncertainty while corporate insiders retain asymmetric access to material data. Furthermore, less frequent disclosures will inevitably spark heightened stock volatility around reporting dates, suppress overall market liquidity, and weaken public trust in the integrity of capital markets. Recent examples include Enron (2001), WorldCom (2002), Lehman Brothers(2008), and Wirecard (2020). Your consideration of my submission is appreciated.

Greg Stack — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Greg Stack Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly report. Too much fraud and abuse as is. At least with quarterly reporting, it makes it harder to get by with it.

Greg Stenzel American citizen and voter, accredited investor, and family office manager — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Stenzel Investor transparency is critical for ongoing investments in publicly traded companies. Please continue with the required quarterly financial reporting. thanks, Greg Stenzel - member of "The Motley Fool Community"

Greg Sullivan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Sullivan As an investor, I strongly oppose this idea. Less reporting means less transparency and less accountability from company leadership towards shareholders and other stakeholders. And less knowledge about company operations shifts the advantages of stock ownership away from everyday investors and towards insiders. There is nothing but downside to this for anyone outside of the c-suite.

Greg Szanyi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Greg Szanyi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need more compliance and oversight of the banking industry. They make their own rules and have been ripping us off way to long!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Greg Uhland Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Uhland SEC, I am writing to voice my opposition to reducing company public reports from 4x annually to 2x. I see this change as reducing the transparency of company actions. As an investor, I own a part of the company's business, and I want to see what it is doing on at least a quarterly basis. Thank you for your attention to my comments. Greg Uhland

---

Greg Zakutansky — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Greg Zakutansky Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lessening transparency? Quarterly is barely adequate. Why don't you help the average citizens retirement portfolio rather than Big Wall Street? You have a job to do: keep playing field as level as possible.

Greg Zimmerer The Motely Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greg Zimmerer Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. The cost of reporting will continue to decrease with automation and AI. Please keep the quarterly reporting as is today.

Gregor Smith — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gregor Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly funding for SEC

Gregory Alles n/a — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gregory Alles I believe less reporting by companies from four to two times per year will provide less knowledge to investor/owners of company stock and I've rarely seen where less reporting produces any benefit, improvement or knowledge. Usually the effect is the opposite and can tend to add mischief to the equation.

Gregory Antono — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gregory Antono In the age of AI fewer reports do not reduce costs anymore. As an investor, I own a piece of the businesses and I believe that I deserve transparent communication from these businesses. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners, more information creates better-informed owners, less transparency increases uncertainty.

Gregory Frank Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gregory Frank I will be limiting my investments if companies are only reporting information twice a year. This is a terrible idea as far as investors are concerned. I would be open to more reporting instead of less. A lot can happen in a 6 month period.

Gregory Gillum The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gregory Gillum I find it absurd given current technology that we would float such an idea under the guise of reduced cost. This is no other than an attempt to conceal legal information from the public at large to benefit the bourgeoisie.

Gregory H. Smith Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gregory H. Smith I am a CPA and have worked for public companies. I want quarterly information on the stocks I own. I know from experience that the quarterly reporting requirement is not overly burdensome.

Gregory Hoogeveen life long investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gregory Hoogeveen In the upcoming world of AI and “instant” information you are suggesting to cut out going information to us owners in half! I recommend an increase to monthly reporting with a more in-depth semi-annual report. With things moving at the speed of light, it makes no sense to reduce the required reporting 50%.

Gregory J Simone — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gregory J Simone I strongly support Public Company's reporting financial information 4 times a year on a quarterly basis. This type of transparency is necessary to shareholders and investors to evaluate their investments. I and many others review are portfolio of investments in public company's on a quarterly basis and no having this information does not allow me or others to make changes when necessary on a timely basis. It would be irresponsible to reduce then reporting requirements currently in place.

Gregory j. Pelletier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gregory j. Pelletier I have read the Motely Fool Community information re. “Transparency” with concern. I do agree completely with their assessment that quarterly updates are ment to prevent errors and to keep on a data track that supports good business practices for all concerned.

Gregory Jacobs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gregory Jacobs Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Greg Jacobs, Assistant Project manager, retired CPA. Please keep quarterly reporting! I have done enough auditing over the years to understand how important quarterly reporting is.

Sent from my iPhone

Gregory M Gauthier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gregory M Gauthier I am firmly opposed to S7-2026-15, which proposes to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that is a serious mistake! At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Taking the reports away just makes everyone less informed and less information rarely creates better-informed owners. I believe that the arguments in favor of S7-2026-15 (i.e. that it will reduce costs and ease the pressure to manage quarter-to-quarter) are debatable and in no way outweigh the rights and needs of the stockholders, the owners, to be kept appropriately informed and updated on the state of the businesses on a quarterly basis and that the executives managing the businesses, CEO's, CFO's, etc. have a fiduciary responsibility to do so.

Gregory Smith and The Motley Fool Community Stock invester — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gregory Smith and The Motley Fool Community I and we favor the continuation of quarterly reports on entities I have a vested interesst in. Thank you. Gregory Smith

---

Gregory Suter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gregory Suter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly reporting ! To much time in between. Easier to run and hide before it’s caught.

Sent from my iPhone

Gregory Vignapiano — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Gregory Vignapiano Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 More rules, not less for big business. They steal enough already. Thank you.

Sent from my iPad

Gregory Woods — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gregory Woods Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am an investor and the thought of having 6 months of no official mandate quarterly information is absolutely foolhardy. Keep the quarterly reporting.

Gregory Ziegeweid — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Gregory Ziegeweid As a small individual investor, I need quarterly reports even more than large investors, who have other means of garnering information on the companies that I hold stock in!

Greig William Hillman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Greig William Hillman At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Right?

Greta Kreider — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Greta Kreider Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quartly reporting equals transparency and is required because our collective regulations (by our government) exist to serve the people.
Thank you, Greta Kreider

Gretchen Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gretchen Anderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a variation on insider trading. Allowing only insiders to know what's going on for any period of time creates an exploitable advantage to them and an unfair market. Ultimately, it effectively locks most investors "out" of the market and creates 2 classes of society: those WITH insider information and those without it, who cannot achieve similar levels of results. Oppose this proposal!

Gretchen Mathewson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gretchen Mathewson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Enough of the corruption! Keep the quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Gretchen Prah — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gretchen Prah Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Gretchen and I am a 65 year old retired American Citizen. My background is not in business but health care which over my career has deteriorated terribly. The reason for this is because it has become less & less about people, and more & more about profits. The BUSINESS has ruined our health care system. I now have a retirement account to keep me going. Don't let big business ruin that for us too. If you don't audit & keep controls in place the crooks will win. Regular folks like myself will lose. Unfortunately the crooks are running the show. Honest hard working people will continue to suffer. Thank you.

---

gretchen sharp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: gretchen sharp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No accountability is necessary!

Gretchen Skidmore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Gretchen Skidmore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Are you naive or just stupid? CEOs should not be trusted with their kids piggy banks never mind the millions of dollars at their fingertips. So now you want to make them less accountable? Did you go to the Donald Trump school of thievery? It's not enough that they are already rich of the backs of their workers, now you want to give them more. Does the saying "Thick as thieves" sound familiar?

Grete Zemans — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Grete Zemans Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lots can happen in a short period of time as we all know from the past 4 months. Keep your reporting quarterly- it's worked well for 50 years; there's no commanding reason to change that.

Grete Zemans — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Grete Zemans Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lots can happen in a couple of months as we all know from the past 4 months. Keep your reporting quarterly- it's worked well for 50 years, there's no commanding reason to change that.

Guido Segura NA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Guido Segura As an investor I do no want Semi Annual Earning Reports. I want to continue to see Quarterly Reports so I can make sound decisions on the stock I own. Keep this transparent and the way its currently in. Thank you

---

Guillaume carmes The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Guillaume carmes It is a mistake to move to semi annual reporting. It muddies the waters. Need information in order to invest properly.

Guillermina Turner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Guillermina Turner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
We tried it before and it had negative consequences. Sunshine and transparency make everything better. Keep temptation away; we need quarterly reporting. Thank you!

---

gumballfarm — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: gumballfarm Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly and Transparent.
Investing in business, we communities, prosper. Continuing, in our Freedoms, of our Democracy.

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone

Guy Clayton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Guy Clayton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The law was in place for reason. Keeping it quarterly keeps honesty well we hope actually should raise the time instead of taking away

This is just more corruption from the top to the bottom. Our we living in a twilight zone. This law doesn't need changed many things need change but this isn't one. Guy Clayton American citizen in Missouri

---

Guy Evans None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Guy Evans This move reduces transparency about the progress of companies. As an individual investor it makes assessment of companies business progress difficult to monitor. A lot can happen in 6 months

---

Guy Ivie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Guy Ivie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is necessary to attempt to keep corporations honest. Removing the requirement opens the door to financial shenanigans and lowers trust in corporate behavior.

Guy Ivie
Dept of the Army, ret.

Guy Malloc — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Guy Malloc Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I believe they should report monthly, at least bi-monthly. Less chance of defrauding the public and hiding it.

Gwe Scott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Gwe Scott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Stop putting corporations' rights over the rights of the people. Make them operate in the open. Do not let them /help them to keep secrets.

Gwen hall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gwen hall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Industry has proven over and over it cannot regulate itself. Profit is the only “bean” that counts in industry, not human beings

Sent from my iPhone
Gwen Hall, 231 883-6366

Gwen Hendrix — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gwen Hendrix Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is too much fraud now. Dont let this happen. Keep the reporting as is.
Gwen Hendrix, RN, BSN, NA retired,
This matters to me b/c of retirement funds investments

Sent from my iPhone

Gwen Wilder-Hulett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Gwen Wilder-Hulett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not stop our quarterly reports. Without we investors, you would have little to report. Who do you think you are?

Sent from my iPhone

Gwendellyn Earnshaw Cruise — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gwendellyn Earnshaw Cruise Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop stacking our economy against us and driving further toward an oligarchy. Accountability and transparency are the bedrocks of a democracy.

Sent from my iPhone

GWENDOLYN R TARVER — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: GWENDOLYN R TARVER Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to keep the quarterly reporting

Sent from my iPhone

Gwyn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Gwyn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The quarterly filing is a pain but it keeps us from getting behind. If my small business can do it so can big corps.

Sent from my iPhone

H Swanson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: H Swanson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There's enough insider trading going on as it is. This change would make losers fall harder. This is a way for the Bkackrock, etc. to metastasize their greed.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

H. B. Nelson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: H. B. Nelson Firstly, I am disappointed that a Canadian province cannot be entered. Wyoming was entered in lieu of my province of Ontario. Secondly, I am opposed to the proposal to allow companies to file reports twice annually instead of quarterly. I believe this will be disadvantageous to individual investors. I am hopeful the SEC will not proceed with this proposal,

---

H. Rodger Alwais — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: H. Rodger Alwais I disagree with the proposed changes

---

Hadley Hines — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Hadley Hines Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly reporting is needed, to allow investors the information and intelligence to follow their own money properly and fairly.
This reporting must not be limited.
Hadley Hines

---

haffeyka — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: haffeyka Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep timely quarterly reporting. It’s essential to any investment strategy.

Sent from my iPad

---

haftaski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: haftaski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I say NO! to SEC Rule S7-2026-15

1. Retail investors get blindsided. Cutting reporting from quarterly to semi-annual doubles the window where bad news can fester unseen. By the time investors find out, the damage is done — and there's no recourse.

2. Markets price on information. Less information = worse pricing. Six months of opacity gives insiders and institutional players a structural edge over ordinary shareholders. That's the opposite of what the SEC is supposed to do.

3. The compliance cost argument is a fiction. Companies already maintain their books on a rolling basis — auditing, internal controls, and financial statement preparation happen continuously regardless of reporting frequency. The marginal cost of packaging that into a quarterly filing is minimal. The burden argument doesn't hold up.

4. This is a gift to bad actors. Earnings manipulation, fraud, and deteriorating fundamentals are far easier to hide over six months than three. Quarterly reporting exists precisely because history showed what happens without it.

5. It moves in the wrong direction at the wrong time. The trajectory of modern capital markets is toward greater transparency and higher-frequency disclosure — not less. Cutting reporting frequency is a 1970s solution to a problem that doesn't exist.

JB Newman
Stamford, CT

Haiden Morgan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Haiden Morgan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why the hell would we change this other than to screw over consumers and small investors and benefit the big companies?! It makes zero sense!

Haiden Morgan, North Webster, IN Reach me at: 574-457-9119

Hamza Baig — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: stop client updates slipping From: Hamza Baig Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hi Trian Partners team,

When client updates slip, clients feel unsure and less confident in the relationship.

The small things are the big things.

A dedicated executive assistant proactively manages client communication so nothing falls through and your clients feel well informed.

We've provided dedicated executive assistants to companies like WHOP, PUSH, Fibra, and organizations supported by the United Nations.

Would that be something that would even help you?

Thanks,

Hamza Baig
Co-Founder at Talent Trellis Inc.
www.talenttrellis.co/ | +16477862636

Hank Ritter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Hank Ritter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retired citizen on a fixed income that relies on a small stock portfolio, I implore the SEC to keep reporting on the current quarterly basis.

Sent from my iPhone

Hank Wollman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hank Wollman Preserve current reporting requirements to maintain and provide transparency, legitimacy and enable investor confidence and ability to make informed decisions

---

Hannah Brickman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Hannah Brickman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
This will keep average Americans out of the stock market, one of the only ways many people are able to retire these days. This is only fueling more savings for ceos and cooperate greed. Quarterly reports keep companies accountable.

Hannah Woodbury — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Hannah Woodbury Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please continue quarterly reporting! The more info the better. Thank you.

Hans Chambers retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hans Chambers Lessening the reporting requirements for reporting on companies NEVER works to the advantage of the investors. The reports are all an investor can depend on to judge performance of their investment. Lowering the requirement is only good for the people that want uninformed investors.

Hanzla tariq — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hanzla tariq Please reject the consideration for semi annual updates. As an investor is important to get regular communication to maximize accountability. There is already a lot of difficulty to truly understand the workings of the businesses we own as public stockholders, and reducing the frequency of Reporting will not serve that any better. Having access to public market should come with the accountability and not just the privilege. We must protect the rights of the shareholder from fraud and being misled. Thank you

---

Hari PRASAD — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hari PRASAD Dear sir, reducing the number or disclosures information will provide greater opportunity for companies to hide behind or reduce in transparency. This increases the risk of fraud significantly. Kindly revisit this rule.

Harish Ganesathasan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Harish Ganesathasan We need greater transparency not less.

Harold Campbell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Harold Campbell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 DO NOT lessen the rules! We don't want to see another ENRON type catastrophe again!

Harold Kinchen Chemistry Tec. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Harold Kinchen This is dangerous, and could result in heavy Loss.

Harold McNeely — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Harold McNeely Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 QUARTERLY PLEASE.

Sent from my iPhone

Harriet Haughton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Harriet Haughton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 WE NEED THE QUARTERLY REPORTING!
You know it. We know it. Our legislators know it. If you make the change and go back to semi-annual reporting, that tells us you do not care about investors. The information is available. Entities produce monthly reports for internal use, so the information is already available. It is no big stretch to compile and publish that information quarterly. Why hide that information from investors? That's the question.

Harriet Steiner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Harriet Steiner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need promote reporting and CEO accountability to avoid another ENRON. Many americans are invested in the stock market these days and we need to make sure that the reporting and accountability is real and timely.

Harriet Stroupe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Harriet Stroupe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reporting to safeguard against fraud and to ensure that CEOs are held accountable.

Sent from my iPhone

Harriett Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Harriett Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I wish to oppose the SEC reduction in the quarterly reports.

---

harril3 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: harril3 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. There's already too much hiding in corporate books. This will just make it bad for regular investors while giving insiders a leg up they don't need.

Leanne Harrington
Retiree

Sent from my Galaxy

Harry Catton Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Harry Catton You can't get too much information but you can get too little.

Harry Gross The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Harry Gross Owning stock means owning a piece of a company. Reducing the frequency of reports removes visibility into how your company is being managed. It's a bad idea. Reducing reporting requirements is similar to suggesting that 'getting semi-annual bank statements' is a good idea. Which, clearly, is NOT a good idea. Quarterly reports allow the investors (co-owners) in the company a reasonably frequent insight into how the business is being run, and affords them the opportunity to mount informed campaigns to attempt to change things they don't like. Reducing those reports to semi-annually reduces that 'internal visibility' and cripples the investor (co-owner). It also makes it harder for non-owners to make informed judgements on whether they would like to BECOME an investor (co-owner) in that business. I believe that reducing frequency of reports is a bad idea, and the proposal should be defeated.

Harry Lowenthal — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Harry Lowenthal The proposal now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think is a mistake! At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners or decision makers. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Right?

Harry Shearman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Harry Shearman Please retain quarterly. It increases transparency and is critical for the USA to retain capital flows.

HARRY TOMLINSON — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: HARRY TOMLINSON Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No, No, No for obvious reasons. Accountable financial responsibility should not be longer than quarterly period.

Harry Tomlinson
Sent from my iPad

Harvey Bell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Harvey Bell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do NOT end quarterly reporting for Corporations.

Harvey Brown III — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Harvey Brown III Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep reporting on a quarterly basis.

Harvey Shew — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Harvey Shew This is an absolutely terrible idea. I think investors need more information, not less.

Hasmukh Patel None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hasmukh Patel I oppose the proposed regulation change on companies reporting frequency. I am an Individual investor and need to have quarterly reporting by companies to make investment decisions. Thank you

---

hatim zayed — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: hatim zayed I oppose the reduction in reporting. more transparency is needed not less.

Haval Aarif — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Haval Aarif No! More transparency is vital to an economy of investors. Taking this vital tool away allow for more corruption to take place behind the scenes. “At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.”

Hayden Keltner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Hayden Keltner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. Regular everyday Americans trying to grow their wealth already have it hard enough dealing with watching white collar executives rob and steal from us every day and get away with fraud.

Sent from my iPhone

Haydn Huntley Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Haydn Huntley Honestly, it doesn't make sense to allow companies the option to give investors fewer updates. Doesn't that make it more difficult for us to make good decisions?

Hazel Shepard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Hazel Shepard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly. Reports

Sent from my iPhone

---

hbuckner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: hbuckner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reporting to be kept up to date with their financial condition to be an informed investor.

Henry Buckner

Heath Johnston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Heath Johnston Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Heath Johnston, I am a bankruptcy law paralegal in Dallas, Texas.

What I have witnessed while working in bankruptcy law is that investors, whether originating from the bank, individual or collective creditors, rely heavily on the quarterly information to readjust investment protocols, which only benefits both parties. If we move to a semiannual reporting system, what you will end up seeing is an influx of disgruntled investors, investment scares from non-transparent companies, and a rise of bankruptcies. Additionally, it incentivizes far riskier business models, since they do not have to show profitability in a shorter period of time. What our economy needs is stable market practices, not more destabilizing risky gambits played by entrepreneurial minds. We have a market where we have thousands of bankruptcies, banks losing investments, and a massive bubble growing in the tech and AI sector. Additionally, we have an unemployment crisis where we could realistically see this problem multiply through volatile business practices incentivized by a riskier semiannual reporting system. We want to entice the consumer and creditor to invest and confidently see returns in shorter periods of time. A lack of economic transparency only pushes a lack of knowledge for the investor. As the SEC should know, when investors and consumers receive more information, they are more likely to invest, and the converse is true. This proposal could bring catastrophic economic consequences. I beg of you, for the sake of the economic future of our country, do not upset or obfuscate the investors any further.

Heath Johnston

Heath Neilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Heath Neilson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Heath Neilson, Hospital Manager. This erodes transparency, allows for more potential for fraud, and less ability for non insiders to protect themselves. You give more opportunity for a company or companies to screw over the public.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Heath Werkheiser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Heath Werkheiser This pending change matters to me because the companies in this country get away with so much shit already, we dont need less reporting, we need more. Keep the quarterly reporting, or even better, make it monthly so it is harder to hide things from us.

Heather — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Heather I am writing to oppose the proposal that would allow public companies to reduce their reporting obligations from quarterly to semiannual reporting. As both an investor and a registered nurse, I understand the importance of timely and accurate reporting. In nursing, we document patient assessments, changes in condition, treatments, and outcomes on an ongoing basis because timely information matters. Waiting months to communicate important developments would not improve decision-making—it would make it more difficult to identify risks, respond appropriately, and maintain accountability. Public companies should be held to a similar standard of transparency with their shareholders. When investors purchase shares of a company, they are providing capital and accepting risk. In return, they should receive regular updates about the company's financial condition, operations, and material developments. Public companies benefit greatly from access to public markets, and ongoing disclosure is one of the responsibilities that comes with that privilege. I am not persuaded by arguments that reducing reporting frequency would improve long-term decision-making. Companies continue to operate every day regardless of how often they report. They launch products, gain and lose customers, make strategic decisions, face challenges, and pursue opportunities. The question is not whether these events occur, but whether shareholders receive timely information about them. Reducing reporting requirements would create larger gaps between company management and investors. Longer periods between disclosures could make it more difficult for shareholders to evaluate performance, assess risk, and make informed decisions. Delaying information does not reduce uncertainty; it increases it. When significant developments are not communicated for longer periods, investors may face larger surprises and sharper market reactions when information is finally released. I am also concerned that less frequent reporting could reduce ongoing accountability. Regular reporting encourages continuous review of performance, risks, and operational challenges. Waiting six months between required reports increases the possibility that emerging issues, deteriorating conditions, or important trends may not be communicated to shareholders in a timely manner. Additionally, I question whether the reporting burden is as significant as some suggest. Modern technology, automation, and artificial intelligence have made collecting, organizing, and analyzing information more efficient than ever before. The solution to reporting costs should be improving reporting processes, not reducing transparency for investors. Quarterly reporting has helped establish trust and accountability in our public markets. These requirements exist to protect investors, promote transparency, and support informed decision-making. Public companies voluntarily choose to access public capital markets, and with that choice comes an obligation to provide regular and meaningful disclosures to their shareholders. Access to public investment capital is a privilege, and transparency is part of the responsibility that accompanies that privilege. For these reasons, I respectfully urge the SEC to maintain quarterly reporting requirements and continue protecting investors through timely, transparent, and consistent disclosure standards.

Heather Brooke Buck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Heather Brooke Buck I do not think that reporting financial results twice a year rather than quarterly is a good idea. It gives a longer time for problems or challenges to grow before investors (who are the owners) even know there's an issue. I think that a lot of this reporting, data gathering and summarizing will be increasingly automated, so I believe that continuing the quarterly reporting will become much cheaper than it is now anyway. When a company becomes a publicly owned company it gains cash to expand in exchange for a regular and public accounting of results.

Heather Cruz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Heather Cruz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello,

I am a Global Event Marketing Manager and am writing to urge you to keep the SEC reports quarterly. If business of all sizes, from large international conglomerates to small businesses, cannot accurately gage the market winds, it will paralyze them from making forward- looking decisions about purchases, acquisitions, expansion…you will be stifling growth and confidence in the market by keeping everyone in the dark about what's really going on. I urge you to keep the reports quarterly as they always have been.

Sincerely,
Heather Cruz

Heather Daugherty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Heather Daugherty Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Heather work for corporation Missouri I am so ready for more accountability in America. I am held accountable working for the corporation but most big corporate are not held accountable. Money has a way of making things hushed or disappear. I am held accountable by many financial entities. Along with many Americans who are taxed and held accountable. So I pray for more transparency and accountability for everyone. The people the customers deserve it. The world would be a better place with more honesty and truth in place.

Heather Griffin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Heather Griffin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Heather Griffin. I am a creative professional. I am very concerned that the lack of transparency will allow these companies to act in ways that will hurt the retirement savings of so many people. How can we make decisions when the information is not accurate or true?

Heather Griffin
Creative Thinking + Visual Storytelling heathergriffin.portfolio.site

p: 310.750.7165
e: heather.griffin.2021@gmail.com

Heather Griffin-Dolciney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Heather Griffin-Dolciney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

Please keep quarterly reporting in place. Corporations must be accountable to their stockholders and quarterly reports help the average consumer stay informed. Large corporations need to be transparent to the American people who invest in their success.

Thank you.

Heather Howe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Heather Howe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting to keep companies accountable and honest.

Sent from my iPhone

Heather Jensen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Heather Jensen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Heather Jensen and I am an office manager at a Christian Camp. Our financial records are open to the public because it is their right to know. I believe it's important to require companies to keep their reporting as often as possible. These companies can afford to do this and have the resources in place to do it because they are already been doing it. There's no reason to give them more opportunities for hiding anything that is not above the board. Fraud in this situation when it is not caught right away, costs all of us more money. I don't believe that an argument has been made that justifies this change.

Get Outlook for Android

Heather Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Heather Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is so dangerous in a country already being raped by capitalist fascists. Do right by the people!!

Heather LeMaster — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Heather LeMaster Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 quarterly reporting needs to stay! companies need to be transparent. why would you want this to change???

Sent from my iPhone

Heather McCaig — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Heather McCaig Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This reminds me of every time Iran would say they are developing nuclear facilities for domestic power only so they could break the treaty right in front of us. SEC, you are Iran.

Heather Meleedy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Heather Meleedy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not allow this to happen!!!

HEATHER MURRAY — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Keep it Quarterly From: HEATHER MURRAY Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There must be quarterly reporting. There’s been a threat that social security will be going away sometime in the future convincing people to invest. Now you want to hide what is going on with my investments. I review.my quarterly reports. I am retired. My name is Heather Murray

---

Heather Neitzke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Heather Neitzke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please continue to provide quarterly reporting for investors. I want to see my investment results. That information helps me to monitor current investments and research other investment opportunities.
This reporting provides important information.
Heather Neitzke

Heather Porter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Heather Porter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the spotlight on Wall Street. The only reason you would allow these corporations to go dark for 6 months instead of 3 would be concealing dark monies and we the people, have a constitutional right to be in the know. Sheltering billionaires in a democratic government is wrong.
Heather Porter

Sent from my iPad

Heather Rae — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Heather Rae Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
What on earth happened to transparency in our government. We the tax payers have a right to MORE information, not less!

Heather Slinkard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Heather Slinkard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Just in case you haven't realized it, this is 2026. With the advent of computers and the internet quarterly reporting should be a thing of the past. Reporting should be weekly or monthly. Stop trying to live in the past.

Heather White — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Heather White Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am against lowering the amount of reporting. Keep companies accountable and transparent by keeping quarterly reporting. Investors need a clear picture of the market.

Heather White

Hector Lahera — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Hector Lahera Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Protect the public and the stockholders. Keep the reports QUARTERLY!

Heidi Beert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Heidi Beert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Full disclosure. Companies should not be above the citizen's knowledge.

Heidi Beert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Heidi Beert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Full disclosure, please. Companies should not be above citizen’s knowledge.

Sent from my iPhone

---

heidi bonwell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: heidi bonwell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential. Please keep quarterly reporting so that everyone can keep their retirement in the stock market.
- Heidi Webb, Elementary Educator

Heidi French — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Heidi French Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Heidi French and I'm an educational diagnostician in the Austin, Texas area. Quarterly reporting is important to me because every penny of my retirement savings matters and I need accurate information to make informed decisions about my savings. I've worked hard for my whole life for what I have and can't afford to lose any of it.

Heidi Hartmann — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Heidi Hartmann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the requirement for quarterly reporting. It's good to know what's happening with investments more frequntly rather than less. I pointed this out to my employees when they were making investment choices in their retirement portfolios and to my students when I was teaching.
Thank you.

Heidi Hartmann, PhD, Yale University, Retired Economist and Think Tank President, MacArthur Fellow, Adjunct Faculty, American University

Washington, DC
202 903-8091 cell

Sent from my iPhone

Heidi Kaigler-Arseneault — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Heidi Kaigler-Arseneault Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Retain quarterly reporting. More information more often is always valuable. Quarterly information helps investors to make decisions, Longer gaps create an unfair advantage for corporate insiders, "Optional" doesn't fix the problem because companies that opt in are often the ones whose investors most need frequent updates, The savings to companies aren't worth the cost to investors like me.

Respectfully,
Heidi Kaigler

Sent from my iPhone

Heidi Strother — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Heidi Strother Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please continue requiring companies to report their finances quarterly. Changing it to biannual reporting puts the average person at a great disadvantage for investing and subjects them to much greater risks. Many of the growing senior population relies on investments to live and not be a burden on society. As a former hospital pharmacist with no pension or continuing insurance, I could not have retired without investing. I feel this change is very shortsighted and hope it does not happen.
Sincerely,
Heidi Strother
Retired Pharmacist

Sent from my iPhone

Heidi Terbrack — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Heidi Terbrack Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please do not even consider allowing things to be less than quarterly reported to the public & shareholders.
Sincerely,

Heidi Terbrack

Heidi Wysocki Consultant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Heidi Wysocki Moving from quarterly to semi-annual reporting reduces transparency and inhibits informed decision-making for investors. Having written 10-Ks and 10-Qs and compiled the data, I understand this is a manageable task for any reputable organization. This proposal is investor-unfriendly, increases the risk of fraudulent activity, and further erodes trust in the solvency of US markets.

Heidi Zimmerman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Heidi Zimmerman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I lost HALF of my retirement in 2008. I still haven't recovered and may never have the funds in my account that would have been there if I wasn't ripped off by these CRIMINALS. I'll be *ed if they aren't trying to pull the same shady tricks again .. QUARTERLY REPORTING MUST REMAIN IN PLACE!!

Heidi Zimmerman
Normal, Illinois

Heidi Zurcher-Neely — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Heidi Zurcher-Neely Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The United States enacted quarterly reporting for a reason! To keep the investors safe from financial crooks who thought they could get away with cheating!

DON'T LET THEM GET AWAY WITH IT! KEEP AMERICANS SAFE!

Thank you.
Heidi Neely

Helen Boluna — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Helen Boluna Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly.
Helen Boluna
Co founder of Sundrops Montessori school
I am trying to get by with a small retirement plan, keep the reports quarterly

Warmest Regards,
Helen

Helen Dandois — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Helen Dandois Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You need the accountability. It is common to have quarterly reporting.

Helen Geiger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Helen Geiger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Helen Geiger - small investor helen geiger

Helen Glassman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Helen Glassman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do NOT change quarterly reporting. This is a way for people to cheat and not protect the common mans investments.
Do NOT be compicit in this admiinistrations corruption.

Helen Granger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Helen Granger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting helps to keep all concerned, honest and forthright. They tried to do this in the 50s and it did nothing but create a poor situation for all but the very wealthy. You saw what happened with numerous companies who hid their financial position until it was too late for employees and shareholders. The only ones who benefited where the very wealthy.

Get Outlook for iOS

Helen Harrington — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Helen Harrington Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Terrible idea. Why make it easier for the fraudsters? And make it harder for investors to discover problems in time to save their portfolios? Keep the quarterly reporting requirement.

Sent from my iPhone

Helen Howell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Helen Howell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a retiree needing to earn as much as I can on what little savings we have frugally worked to save for & have available in our retirement years. Please don't do anything to cause lesser returns for us. "little guys."

Helen Keaney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Helen Keaney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There’s enough hiding as there is, they results should be monthly, not quarterly

Sent from my iPad

Helen Kim — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Helen Kim Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an investor that is relying on clarity and visibility into the companies I want to invest in, it needs to continue to be quarterly. Half year reporting is not enough. Considering companies report internally on a quarterly basis, this doesn't make sense as there is no additional hardship for companies that SEC oversees.

Helen Kim

Helen Mabry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Helen Mabry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to maintain pressure and transparency on wall street - keep quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Helen Mendes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Helen Mendes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
We the investors demand that quarterly reports remain the standard for investments.
The last thing investors need is a volatile market.
What is the SEC trying to hide ?
Regards ,
H. Mendes

Helen SD — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Helen SD Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly financials are a standard for a reason. Accountability is the government’s job. DO YOUR JOB! Keep the SEC reporting responsibly on a quarterly basis.

Sincerely,
Helen Soule
a frustrated and concerned citizen

Sent from my annoying iPhone

Helene Bennett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Helene Bennett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please KEEP quarterly reporting. It is the only way that retirees have to control their investments so that we can continue to be self sufficient. There too much power now given to the billionaires and trillionaires. Do not give them the power to hide our investments for a year, while they play with the stocks. QUARTERLY MUST STAY SO THE BILLIONAIRES AND TRILLIONAIRES CAN TAKE MORE EXTREME ADVANTAGES OVER THE AMERICAN PEOPLE. Thank you

---

Helene Bennett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Helene Bennett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please KEEP quarterly reporting. It is the only way that retirees have to control their investments so that we can continue to be self sufficient. There too much power now given to the billionaires and trillionaires. Do not give them the power to hide our investments for a year, while they play with the stocks. QUARTERLY MUST STAY SO THE BILLIONAIRES AND TRILLIONAIRES CAN NOT TAKE MORE EXTREME ADVANTAGES OVER THE AMERICAN PEOPLE. Thank you

---

Helene Conroy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Helene Conroy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No! Quarterly is better, monthly would be better!

Helene Conroy-Smith

Sent from my iPhone

Helene King — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Helene King Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly accountability will help keep our corporations remain trustworthy. Helene King - Honestly and transparency will make our country greater.

Sent from my iPhone

Helene Weber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Helene Weber Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am an investor in the stock market and I do not agree to this!! I have invested in the market for 50 years and depend on quarterly reports to help me determine whether to invest in a company or continue to invest in my current holdings!

Hendrik Steenkamp The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hendrik Steenkamp As an international investor, now in retirement, I am concerned about the lack of transparency with only 6 month reporting. Quarterly reporting works, has always worked and is already entrenched in the reporting systems of all listed companies. With all the software and automation available these days it should not be too onerous for companies to continue with quarterly reporting. It would be disappointing to learn 6 months down the line that a company was in severe distress 4 months ago.

Henri Dugas IV — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Henri Dugas IV Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We tried this in the 50s already. Holding people accountable has always benefited the greater majority. Please continue to hold these people with immense money and thus immense power accountable.

Henri Dugas IV

Henrik Schou The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Henrik Schou For the sake of ensuring transparency for private investors (who have less access than institutional investors) I request the quarterly reporting requirement remains in place. I believe this is particularly important to provide smaller private investors with the needed transparency and to narrow the gap to the information available to professional/institutional investors.

Henry Badgerson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Henry Badgerson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Anti human actions will not be tolerated

---

henry bishop — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: henry bishop Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We want to help every citizen , of every party . If we roll back the clock , only the citizens struggling to invest and not in the in-the-know upper eschelons will be hurt .

Sent from my iPhone

Henry Boyle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Henry Boyle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would you want investors to not be able to stay equally informed?? There is NO good answer to this inquiry...
HBoyle-Industrial designer
Berkeley, Ca

Henry Gallart President, 4Maracas, Inc — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Henry Gallart As a former president and CEO of a technology company, I don’t see the wisdom in reducing the quarterly reporting to semi annual reporting because the investors will be that much more disconnected from the businesses. They are very interested in following and investing in. Going semi annually is simply a bad move!

Henry Goff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Henry Goff This is not a good idea. Reporting should continue to be quarterly.

Henry P — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Henry P Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep financial reporting quarterly in order to protect people! Stop giving these companies unabated leeway to commit fraud!

Henry Williams Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Henry Williams I am adamantly against allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. This does not support the best interests of investors to know far less frequently about how a company is performing.

Henry “Hank” Muller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Henry “Hank” Muller Lost reporting is not good. Less reporting takes away investment issues that need to be judged.

Herb Kwon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Herb Kwon To whom it may concern, The decrease in reporting requirements is ill-advised. There are already issues with stock holder representation with SEC allowing separate classes of stock to be traded publicly without equivalent voting rights. Essentially, executives want access to public finances without accountability to those same sources of funding and this is yet one more way to increase the likelihood of injury to public investors. /r HK

Herbert A Simmerly, Jr. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Herbert A Simmerly, Jr. I am now retired, but spent 38 years in wealth management and personal trust administration as an investment advisor for clients of my community bank employers. Though retired, I am actively managing my personal portfolio of 20 individual stocks. I am not a day trader. Just as when I was working for my clients, I invest in companies for the long-term. That does not mean I buy and forget. The companies' stock I own are all businesses operating 24 hours a day, 7 days a week and everyday of the year. The mass of information that executive management of these companies must process on a daily basis has not diminished over the years, but has increased by unknown multiples, and will continue to increase as AI tools become even more a part of doing business. How then can it be fair to contemplate a reduction in the reporting requirements to the community of those businesses owners of stock. I say

NO to the proposal to reduce reporting requirements to a semi-annual period, and to retain the current quarterly reporting standards.

Herbert Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Herbert Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I wish they had to report every month. But every quarter is good. Please keep it at every quarter

Herbert A. Johnson
Live Life to the Fullest

Herberta Baker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Herberta Baker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Herberta Baker retired assistant store manager. David stoup hid all money for TG&Y, bankrupted them. Sprouse Ritz, bankrupted them. Yellow Front. Bankrupted them. Who did he take his orders from? Who know, he would have been easier to stop if they reported monthly, and you want to make it 6 months? Really? It would be nice if everybody was honest.

Herman Henkes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Herman Henkes Investors, especially small investors who have no voice or access to management outside written communication, need timely business data to remain informed about the safety of our investments. Please do not reduce reporting from quarterly to semi-annually. Computers & AI should streamline filing costs. There's more to lose with less information.

HERMAN HOOD — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: HERMAN HOOD Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a private american national citizen on the united states of america with intent and purpose to express the need for the reports, deceptions are high and the people have no trust and are
Not accepted as party to the rights intended to protect the people. i accept as grantee and reconvey as grantor for settlement of all deceptive practices please stop crippling the people with concealment and fraudulent behavior..

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Herman Hood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Herman Hood Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a private american national citizen on the united states of america with intent and purpose to express the need for the reports, deceptions are high and the people have no trust and are Not accepted as party to the rights intended to protect the people. i accept as grantee and reconvey as grantor for settlement of all deceptive practices please stop crippling the people with concealment and fraudulent behavior..

Herman Rengifo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Herman Rengifo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If they release the figures every quarter they should also sign them every quarter.

Hernan Rincon The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hernan Rincon How can anybody believe that less information is good for the owners of the business (i.e. stockholders)? The solution to reduce cost is not to provide less frequent information but to use AI tools to make the preparation of the information more efficient.

---

heynon heynow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: heynon heynow Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please stop with shenanigans. Everyone knows this serves one purpose GREED! If anything, in this day and age the reporting should INCREASE NOT DECREASE! MAKE IT MONTHLY!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Hilary Jirasek — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Hilary Jirasek Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 So many families were destroyed with Enron collapsed. The econimic fallout hasnt stopped to this day.

However, LESS accountability is NOT the answer! The people who wrote the US Constitution knew that.

This is only about POTUS benefitting his friends. Our goverment is supposed to help the people - not the oligarchy. Stop this, please.

Hilary Jirasek
Training Manager

Hilary Kaboski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Hilary Kaboski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It sounds like to me that the reason the long-standing timetable of quarterly reporting is being proposed is for shady reasons that will allow weathy individuals to further enrich themselves and lock out the less well-heeled. Keep the reporting window as it is. No SEC corruption!!

Hilary Sloan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Hilary Sloan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Quarterly filings are essential for transparency and to help prevent fraud. Personal investors like me deserve this information and protection. Big business has gotten out of control. Removing quarterly filing requirements signals businesses' obligations to their small investors are not important.

Hilary Winslow Motley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hilary Winslow Less transparency? Are you kidding?! Fraud is up up up and the proposal is to reduce disclosure? I object and oppose this proposal. No change is needed to existing reporting requirements.

Hilda Rodriguez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Hilda Rodriguez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting and investigate Trump and his regime on their insider trading!

Hilda-Colorado

Hillary Leonard none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hillary Leonard I am firmly against the semi-annual public reporting proposal. I want 4x per year to remain intact. I do not believe that I can make timely, informed decisions with updates every 6 months.

---

hkcitation — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: hkcitation Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly to prevent fraud and insider trading from occurring.

Sent from my iPhone

HM E — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: HM E Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reports .

Hobart King — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hobart King All publicly traded companies should provide four quarterly reports. They are essential for investors to keep track of their companies actions and performance. Reporting less is a mistake.

---

hogans1 — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: hogans1 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Obviously the president enjoys manipulating the stock market. Stop the corruption Dont make it easier for them to destroy it all. Please. There should be more oversight with trump in office, not less. Unless you are looking to join the grift..

Sent from my Galaxy

---

holli klapouchy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: holli klapouchy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We all know company's ethics are questionable at best. Why would executives think it's okay to take tens of millions in pay, and more in bonuses, then lay off thousands of workers? Cut employee job benefits while increasing profit... Going to 6 months just gives the rich even more opportunities to screw over the working class. Not sure the person that reads this will care. I guess it depends how you were raised. Holli Klapouch, Retired.

Sent from AOL on Android

Hollie Borden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Hollie Borden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I oppose

Sent from my iPhone

Holly Baer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Holly Baer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As seniors, living on a fixed income we depend on dividends & retirement funds to survive. We’ve worked hard & saved, we can’t lose it!

Steve & Holly Baer

Sent from my iPhone

Holly Berkowitz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Holly Berkowitz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reporting instead.

We Hank you!

Holly Berkowitz

Sent from my iPhone

Holly Bobb Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Holly Bobb If anything we need more reporting, not less!

Holly Pelking Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Holly Pelking As an individual investor information is crucial and transparency critical. Do not allow companies to hide information!

Holly Perry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Holly Perry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In this political climate?!? LESS monitoring? Have you lost your minds?

Holly Reigle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Holly Reigle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
We need more transparency in our stock market and our government. Seems to be that only Congress is getting rich off of their stocks! Are you complicit in this coverup?? Keep quarterly statements!

Holly Willis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Holly Willis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly reporting ! 6 months is to long to go without getting info on companies we believe in and have invested in. If anything, they should be required to give a monthly report, certainly NOT A 6 MONTH REPORT !

Warm Regards,

Holly Willis

Homer Roderick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Homer Roderick We need more transparency, not less. Monthly would be an improvement over the quarterly report we have now. Businesses have this info readily available each month...require they share it more often

---

Hon. J Francis Gillet Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hon. J Francis Gillet There is quite enough hidden information and damage done between quarterly reports. Semi annual reporting damages investor confidence. This proposed rule is insane.

Honey Rand The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Honey Rand There has been sufficient degradation of all of our systems thanks to an incompetent and craven administration. Do you trust the employment numbers anymore? Inflation? Any statistical analysis? Me either. We don't need cooked or periodic reporting. We need good numbers and we need them consistently. I couldn't manage my small business with this approach. It would be disastrous for the U.S. government and for investors.

Hope — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Hope Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are efficient. Keep them.

Sent from my iPhone

Hope — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Hope Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If you take from the people you will have to pay and your family will have to pay, for many generations. It will hurt so bad that you will be crying and in pain thru eternity. It's called Karma!

Hope Campbell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Hope Campbell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not stop quarterly reporting. That will greatly harm small investors.

Hope Gravelly — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Hope Gravelly Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is not OK. More transparency, not less, mor communication, not less, is the right thing to do. Always.

Hope Mikaelian — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Hope Mikaelian Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I don't not want state! rents to change from quarterly . Your job is to protect the investor not the company. Slot can change in 6 months. This change is a terrible idea. AI is growing fast and is a inflated market we need to be careful that the bubble doesn't burst causing people to lose everything. Your job is to protect us as much as possible. . the

Hope Trachtenberg-Fifer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Hope Trachtenberg-Fifer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
💥 Keep quarterly reports, as is! 💥

Hortense Meagher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Hortense Meagher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I object to hiding details of financial transactions that affect my investments. These schemes to exclude ordinary stock holders while I am sure those in control continue to have access to information at all times enabling them to profit while limiting the majority of people to same information.

Sent from my iPad

Howard Fox — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Howard Fox Like so many other issues in the current Administration, this potential change wreaks of secrecy, deception, and more advantages only for the richest in America, including the sitting President of the United States. It cannot possibly provide anything good for average investors who are most often struggling to merely make modest gains in their portfolios or keep incomes in pace with inflation.

Howard Jacobson Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Howard Jacobson I AM AGAINST PUBLICALLY TRADED COMPANY REPORTING BEING REDUCED FROM FOUR TIMES A YEAR TO TWO TIMES A YEAR. There may be a slight cost savings to the company, however in today's high-tech world most reporting is done electronically anyway, so the cost, which is really borne by investors, is limited mostly to the actual cost of researching and writing the report. As an investor in today's volatile market, there can be dramatic swings in a business from geopolitical influences daily, let along quarterly. Businesses have to keep up. Quarterly reporting makes the business more accountable. Seasonal inventory and production is better based on quarterly reporting than semiannual. More transparency is better than less.

---

hpatrick1941 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: hpatrick1941 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I thought this was the transparency administration! I am totally opposed to this move. The public has the right to know what is happening to their investments and efforts by some corporations to hide their illegal activities!

Sent from my Galaxy

Hubert Gibson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Hubert Gibson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need the information sooner, not later. We can make better informed decisions with more current information.

Sent from my iPad

Hugh Bauer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hugh Bauer I am in favour of reporting every 6 months. the requirement to report to shareholders so frequently is a challenge in terms of requiring time that can be spent on the business, and is also too frequent for long-term focused investors who invest into an operating business, rather than short term pieces of paper

---

Hugh Patterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Hugh Patterson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
As a small investor quartly reporting is essential to my decision making in the stock market.

Hugh Robertson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Hugh Robertson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why cut this important reporting in half? Who benefits? It is of importance to investors to have these reports.
Hugh Robertson retired Small investor

Stay alert!

Hugh Vincent Day — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hugh Vincent Day This would just be creating less transparency of companies and their past successes/failures, as well as future plans. I understand associated costs with each reporting, but with AI capabilities today, company management should be able to reduce many of those costs, still provide timely information to investors, and be held accountable for failures and rewarded for successes.

Hugo Mumphries none — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hugo Mumphries I think more transparency and clarity, not less, is vital to making informed investments. This administration has exacerbated graft and insider trading. Further reducing SEC reporting requirements would only benefit insiders and illegal trading. I urge the SEC to continue requiring quarterly reporting.

Hunter Hook N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Hunter Hook Good evening! I believe that this would be an error that would undermine the effort of retail investors such as myself and would be detrimental for those who want to learn more and engage in thoughtful research to learn more about these businesses.

Hunter Norman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Hunter Norman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hunter Norman CEO of N-Five Properties

The quarterly reporting rules are essential for accountability and public safety as we own these companies, not the Boards or the C staff.

Sent from my iPhone

Hyun Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Hyun Martin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting!

Sent from my iPhone

---

i — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: i Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I demand quarterly reporting. I'm retired and need my IRA to support me. I vote by what my representative is doing as well as my senators. Between myself and my husband we have a substantial sum.

---

ia terry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: ia terry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 AnnTerry, Chicago, IL-
Retired environmental scientist.
It's imperative that the SEC maintain the quarterly reporting/ this is the mechanism that keeps the stock exchange and all securities, transparent for all investors to monitor their investments. This has worked for many years, and there is absolutely no reason to modify this except to give corporations an edge. Corporations would not exist without investors, without the population investing in them. The investors must be protected otherwise the entire system can collapse. This has to stay transparent, and it has to be safe and it has to be for all corporations interests. We cannot bow to the corporate interest because logically long-term failure of this economy will ruin everyone, including the corporations. The SEC purpose is for monitoring the securities and this needs to be done on a quarterly basis. Do not change this. respectfully Ann Terry.

Iain Nicholson UK CHARTERED INSURANCE AND INVESTMENT ADVISOR AND INVESTOR — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Iain Nicholson As a member of the Motley Fool Community I object to the reduction of reports to half yearly. I need quarterly updates. My clients need quarterly updates. Let's transparency alive. Iain Nicholson

---

ian — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: ian Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 "Pro business" is often used as an excuse for corruption. Please do the necessary work to stop this.

Ian Connell, MT-BC

Ian Bock — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ian Bock Investors in any company are owners, and deserve the most information possible to make informed decisions about our ownership. Limiting the reporting requirements for publicly traded companies does nothing but decrease transparency for investors. As a public institution, the SEC has a role in making sure the public is protected from unfavorable business practices, and it's a sad truth that those arguing to hide information from their investors should not be allowed to do so. The current reporting requirements provide a needed safeguard and are already being managed by these companies, so they are certainly capable of doing so.

---

ian c hamshere — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: ian c hamshere It would be a retrograde step to reduce reporting requirements from quarterly. I feel it is vital that investors continue to receive regular/ quarterly updates on business performance. Motley Fool investor.

Ian G Fudge — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ian G Fudge I am greatly disappointed in the proposal to reduce transparency in filings. These should remain quarterly.

Ian Hernandez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ian Hernandez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Ian Hernandez, in my opinion, quarterly reporting should be kept open, I think if we don't keep it open, then dark money firms will use that to their advantage

---

Ian Kleiman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Ian Kleiman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Allowing companies to stop having quarterly reports is unconscionable and should not happen. This makes investors vulnerable to insiders and companies able to hide things that they shouldn't from their own investors. Do not change the rules.

Ian Rajczi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ian Rajczi I think reducing the required reporting down to twice a year is exactly the wrong thing to be doing, we need more transparency, the faster the world is moving, the more we need not less.

Ian Randall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ian Randall Please keep quarterly reporting. It helps me make informed decisions as an investor.

Ian Slattery Motley Fool Community. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ian Slattery I find this proposal very troubling. It would make me reconsider where I invest my money. Having been an executive of a large corporation I can see how the reporting requirement, while a little cumbersome, also keep us focused on the realities of the market.

Ian Wise None -retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ian Wise I am totally against any reduction on the number of annual published by public companies. For my investments in such companies, I need as much information as possible. Anything less than a quarterly basis will mean getting credible information, too late.

Ichard Herrmann Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ichard Herrmann Gentlemen, I'm a small investor but when I'm making an investment decision I'd like to have timely information on the companies stats, etc. Twice a year reporting is not current information on making investment decisions. Please retain quarterly reporting. Sincerely, Richard Herrmann

---

Ida Milligan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Ida Milligan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 From what I'm reading, only a fool would choose to change!! I'm No fool!!
I would say "NO CHANGE"!

Ida Motley fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ida Transparency is crucial for investors- MORE disclosures and filings from companies rather than less is what we all should be striving for!

IGOR STAVNITSER — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: IGOR STAVNITSER Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please make sure that quarterly reporting requirements are not loosened in any way. Investors deserve to know what is going on in a public company, and there must be criminal responsibility for falsification of that information.

IHMS, LLC Private investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: IHMS, LLC In no way would reducing quarterly reporting to semiannual reporting benefit anyone in the investing community. It will only help companies making poor choices hide them for another three months. More frequent information is better information and allows investors to make wiser, and more timely, choices.

Ileana Lopez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ileana Lopez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING!

Sent from my iPhone

Ilene Morgan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ilene Morgan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep this reporting quarterly it is more transparent for investors like me with my retirement savings.

Ilona Zubik — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ilona Zubik Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please continue the standard of quarterly reporting. As an investor, I rely on quarterly reporting, it’s important to monitor and safeguard my retirement investments. Thank you,
Ilona Zubik

Sent from my iPhone

Ilya Marvich — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ilya Marvich Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please do not pass this bill. And please repeal citizens united.

---

imani Prayer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: imani Prayer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We wish to formally communicate our complete awareness regarding the undisclosed activities that are currently taking place. It is imperative that we make it unequivocally clear: attempts to conceal these actions will not be tolerated. We possess a thorough understanding of the situation and are fully prepared to address it with the appropriate and necessary measures. We advise immediate reconsideration of your current approach.

Individual — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Individual I distrust companies and advisors to not use non public information for their own benefit. DOJ prosecutes plenty of them with rules in place. Look at the predictions market.

Individual — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Individual Public companies should continue quarterly reporting because investors deserve timely and transparent information, and reducing reports would increase uncertainty. More frequent reports provide more transparency.

Individual — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Individual I do not believe that reporting two times a year is showing an open finances. There have been many times in which this lack of openness is not positive for the company nor investors nor future investors. What positive gain is off by many negatives. The lack of openness is negative in many ways. Please vote against this proposition.

Individual Nil — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Individual I reject the proposal of reduced reporting for management from quarterly to semi annually. As investor the growth or decline of our capital in a business matters and our only way to determine that is thru quarterly reports with fiduciary obligations.

---

individual Society of Actuaries — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: individual We need more corporate accountability, not less. Adopting semi-annual reporting is moving in the wrong direction.

Individual Former company director — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Individual I support moving to semi annual reporting. This does not preclude corporations from updating investors as they see fit or in the event of a material event or change in circumstances. This removes some of the demanding reporting burden and should focus investors on longer-term fundamentals.

Individual Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Individual As an individual investor, I am writing to express my strong opposition to proposal S7-2026-15, which would allow public companies to reduce their reporting frequency from quarterly to semiannually. At its core, investing is a form of business ownership. As owners, individual investors have a right to regular, timely, and transparent updates from the management teams running these businesses. Reducing the mandatory reporting structure from four times a year to just two significantly weakens the connection between companies and their shareholders, leaving everyday investors operating in the dark for half the year. While proponents argue that semiannual reporting lowers administrative costs and curbs short-term market thinking, these points are deeply flawed: Cost Efficiency: In modern corporate environments utilizing highly efficient disclosure tools and artificial intelligence, the marginal cost of producing quarterly reports is negligible compared to the massive value it provides to public markets. Short-Termism: Market myopia stems from how market participants react to data, not from the data itself. Suppressing information will not suddenly transform short-term traders into patient, long-term investors. Instead of eliminating market volatility, reducing transparency will only exacerbate it. When critical financial updates are withheld for six months at a time, the eventual earnings releases will bring larger surprises, sharper market reactions, and much greater overall volatility. For the health of our public markets and the protection of individual investors, I urge the Commission to preserve the current quarterly reporting framework. Thank you for your time and for considering the perspective of individual retail investors.

Individual Investor Kathleen Kummer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Individual Investor Kathleen Kummer I am opposed to the idea of semi-annual reporting by public companies and funds who own stocks and bonds. As a senior who relies on accurate and timely information about my retirement funds, investing is ownership in those companies . Since I own a piece of a business, I deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Companies may argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, particularly that those reports are digital, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. I am particularly concerned that insiders have access to information well before public investors and can trade on that information regularly leaving the rest of us to weather the vagaries of the market. When I was employed, I couldn't imagine working for a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. The business is still operating every day but what is being proposed is that investors would know far less about how it was doing. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. If this passes I will have to consider moving my investments to municipal bonds because there is much more transparency with those instruments. The SEC should be INCREASING transparency in reporting, not putting individual investors at risk.

Individual Investor None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Individual Investor I skim the SEC reports for companies I have invested in. But I use a few investment advising organizations. By and large they pay a great deal of attention to the reports and understand their contents in much greater degree. My ability to navigate investing at all is highly dependent upon their having up to date and valid information. While cutting the number of reporting periods in half would lower cost for all publicly traded companies, it would by its very nature mean malfeasance or pure mismanagement would go undetected longer thereby costing investors more. I gladly trade some small bump in profit for transparency in operations. I do not have the means to stay informed without such reporting. Please don't cut the frequency of reports.

Individual Investor The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Individual Investor Please keep the quarterly reporting - 6 months is too long to not be aware of possible changes in a company. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners.

Inez Perlin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Inez Perlin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

I urge you to maintain transparency by continuing to require reporting as it has been done! It is only through upstanding oversight and methods that we will continue to maintain our democracy!

Infinity Comcast.net — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Infinity Comcast.net Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need more oversite, not less. We invest in companies, we are stakeholders. Our savings are entrusted . Accountability is why we can put faith in companies. Why risk faith in the stock market? How is that going to grow the economy?

Sent from my iPad

Inger Brinck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Inger Brinck You must continue requiring 4 quarterly reports per year. Investors need more transparency, not less, to make informed decisions especially in potentially volatile conditions like we have now.

Ingo Meder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ingo Meder I request to keep the requirements for company filings to 4 times a year. This insures that small scale investors stay informed same as large investors with direct access to the corporations. Thank you.

Ingrid D Akers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ingrid D Akers We deserve regular transparent communication from businesses, reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Ingrid Lubbers DDS Retired Dentist — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ingrid Lubbers DDS When I invest in a company I am part owner in that company. I want regular reports to know how it is going or so that my advisor works from the most current status information. For that reason I deserve regular, transparent communication from that company. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the communication and transfer of information between companies and their owners. This is not the place to cut costs. If they want to distribute the reports digitally half of the time, that would be acceptable, but the company should be doing a self-analysis at least quarterly anyway as well as share that info with owners.

Ingrid Rosten — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ingrid Rosten Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Ingrid Rosten, business owner, frequent transparency is essential to avoid fraud and other mishaps. Please ensure quarterly!

Ingrid Rosten +1 408.691.4784
Please remember the Three R's today...Recycle, Reduce, Reuse!

Technovate Investments
Soroptomist International of Rancho Cordova & Gold River
Together Women Rise

INVESTOR — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: INVESTOR A vibrant stock market is predicated on the free flow of information. Cutting that free flow in half only encourages further unchecked manipulation which is disgusting enough in our current political environment.

Investor G Titleless — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Investor G Accountability is becoming rare. Don't make it more rare. Transparency does not need to be reduced!

Ira Ahuja — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ira Ahuja Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 CEOs should be accountable all the time for the companies they head. It's why they're the CEO! They know 100% of the time what's going on! Otherwise there's no need for a CEO- just put a plastic mannequin in the seat and save that paycheck money or better yet distribute it to the hard working employees who actually do the real work. Quarterly reporting with signatures is a must by all CEOs!!!

Ira A

Ira Auerbach — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ira Auerbach This is not a good idea for investors as it would provide them with less information about how the company is doing then they currently receive !

Ira Dorter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ira Dorter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 American business needs to be more transparent not less. It is important for shareholders and regulators to have current information on corporations

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Ira Greenbey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ira Greenbey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Ira Greenbey, Heating Plant Technician, this matters to me because, this allows the public to actually see what's happening in all aspects of companies financial dealings, and how it affects us. With prices rising, wages that keep us near poverty, and corporations getting bailouts, doesn't help the hard working people living in this country

---

Irene Coveny — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Irene Coveny Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not stop quarterly reporting. It have a very negative effect on average investors.

IRENE HECKEL — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: IRENE HECKEL This is a mistake. As a retired investor I want as much information as possible. I review my investments daily and the more information available the better my decisions on where to invest. I depend a lot on dividends and reporting 4 times a year helps in minimizing my risk.

Irene Lefton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Irene Lefton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think it is a terrible idea to allow this change to our protections. I have a BA in Economics and an MBA and spent my career progressing into and managing companies, mostly in the software industry. As someone who witnessed the corruption in business over my early career years, I welcomed the regulatory oversight and accountability. I do not want us to go backwards.

I understand that it is a burden and cost to companies to have to manage and report finances on a quarterly basis. That is a small effort compared to the impact to customers, company investors like me, small business and many others who are protected from greedy insider manipulation and profit taking.

Quarterly reporting helps slow the greed and corruption machine and is necessary and needs to continue. Please do not allow this change.

Thank you,
Irene Lefton
Santa Clara, CA

Sent from my iPad

Irene Miscione — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Irene Miscione Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Corporate America has not always been honest in its financial reporting. Reducing the number of times they need to report will give them even greater opportunity to hide issues.
Maintain quarterly reporting…it’s necessary.

Sent from my iPad

Iris Planamento — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Iris Planamento Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep CEO reporting quarterly!
Iris Planamento
New Jersey

Sent from my iPhone

Irma Sell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Irma Sell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the current quarterly report.

Sent from my iPhone

Irmgard Cooper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Irmgard Cooper Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
It's our investment and we expect transparency.

Irvin Brightman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Irvin Brightman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting people are getting tired of being continuously screwed by those in positions of power

Sent from my iPhone

Isaac Huerta The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Isaac Huerta I respectfully oppose allowing public companies to reduce required reporting from quarterly to semiannual reporting. As an individual investor, I rely on regular quarterly reports to understand the businesses I own. Investing is ownership, and owners deserve timely, consistent, and transparent information. Reducing official updates from four times a year to two would not make investors more patient or companies better run. It would simply leave investors less informed for longer periods of time. I understand the argument that fewer reports may reduce costs or short-term pressure, but I do not believe the solution is less transparency. Short-term thinking comes from how markets react to information, not from the existence of information itself. If anything, fewer updates could create larger surprises, sharper reactions, and more volatility when information finally becomes public. Quarterly reporting helps level the playing field between large institutions and regular investors. Public companies have a responsibility to keep shareholders informed, and reducing reporting requirements would weaken that relationship. For those reasons, I urge the SEC to preserve quarterly reporting requirements for public companies. Transparency should be strengthened, not reduced.

Isaac Kunkel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Isaac Kunkel Current reporting rules, 4x annual (quarterly), seem to be the right amount of reporting to allow individual investors reasonable transparency into a company's operations. Reducing this number favors professional investors, insiders and others with access to more knowledge than the public. Please work to keep the current SEC reporting rules in place (on behalf of individual investors and those with retirement accounts exposed to the public markets). Thank you.

Isabella Maderic — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Isabella Maderic Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep reports quarterly. Keep it a more equal playing field !

Isabelle Casey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Isabelle Casey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This plan is unacceptable. It is another way to dismantle our rights as citizens.

Peace. Love. Awareness. That's all.

~Isabelle

www.isabellecasey.com
www.myyogascene.com

Isaiah Lucero — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Isaiah Lucero Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly!

Sent from my iPhone

Ishan Dhamija — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ishan Dhamija We need more reports and that must be possible in the age of AI and faster analysis. Infact there should be real time reporting so companies cannot hode behind delayed reporting

---

Ishan Shah — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Ishan Shah Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The SEC proposal to end quarterly reporting is a concerning idea. Quarterly reports are crucial for providing consumers, particularly those who hold securities or are considering investing, with vital information about company performance.
As an ordinary investor, I believe I will be at a disadvantage without transparency. Therefore, I respectfully request that you maintain transparency by continuing to enforce quarterly company reporting.

Ishanand Lalbirsingh Professional Accountant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ishanand Lalbirsingh I think at a minimum quarterly reporting is necessary. My opinion is based not only from an investor's perspective but also from a management's view. Quarterly will maintain a level of discipline and accountability.

Ishraq A Hafiz Attorney at Law — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ishraq A Hafiz Transparency is not optional. If your business isn't able to handle reporting its status, it shouldn't be a business. The quarterly reporting rule should stay the minimum rule. Ishraq A Hafiz.

Israel Gilliam — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Israel Gilliam Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY. KEEP IT FAIR!

It would be one thing is this applied to all. But considering executives, lawyers and other institutional investors would still have access to this information immediately raises a red flag to me. It sounds like a scam in itself. There's way…too much fraud going on these days already and too many mistakes and errors being made in a distracted society. In a day and age where everything seems to be condition to cut the middle class out, I call BS. I don't personally care what is standard practice "everywhere else"—we do things our way here in the USA. If that's the case why haven't we adopted other things like stricter drivers educational programs or better vehicle inspection regulations such as the MOT to combat all these terrible drivers and junk cars on the road putting lives at risk. It just seems like everything is corrupt these days and if this goes through I will be pulling out of any investments that I have. I already think it's shady that they limit IPOs when a company goes public in favor of institutional investors. Once again it gives an advantage to corporations over the average citizen and the disgusting part is none of these companies and corporations or even the stock market would even exist if it weren't for us citizens purchasing these products and services. Tired of corporate America getting all of these breaks and incentives while we struggle and our left out of opportunities to elevate our own wealth. It's supposed to be "we the people" not "we the corporations" everything and I mean everything should be designed we US in mind first. This is absolutely a legal scam being proposed…to further elevate the wealthy while suppressing the middle class. Wealth looking out for wealth. It reminds me of how in the old days families would only marry families of status and wealth or in extreme cases only marry in the family to keep the money in the family—a deliberate attempt to keep the rich, rich and the poor, poor.

Israel G. Gillam (Page)
Sent from my iPhone 📲

Ivan F Crespo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ivan F Crespo I believe that maintaining the requirement for businesses to report 4 times a year is essential for investors to make intelligent decisions. After all, we are part owners of those business and have a business I own report to me the status only twice a year seems ludicrous.

Izzy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Izzy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Izzy Williams and I am a marketer. I rely on investing as do many young career professionals. Please keep quarterly reporting. I already have enough distrust in the systems that are supposed to protect the consumer - don’t make me lose hope in this one too!

Izzy Williams

J Ash — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: J Ash Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 WE NEED MORE TRANSPARENCY, NOT LESS!

Reducing financial reporting from quarterly to semiannual would weaken transparency and leave everyday investors with less timely information about the companies they invest in. Public companies should be held to strong disclosure standards so shareholders can make informed decisions and identify risks early. Less frequent reporting benefits insiders while increasing uncertainty for retail investors and retirement savers. Please preserve quarterly reporting requirements.

J Bell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: J Bell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is vital to healthy markets and economies! DO NOT let companies get away with this! The average American investor needs protection from VC groups!!! You should represent We The People!

Thank you,
Jennifer Bell

---

j c — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: j c Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Government is to serve the people not the corporations. This proposal doesn't serve the citizenry so the decision is obvious - KEEP IT QUARTERLY Thank you for your consideration

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

J Cobb — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: J Cobb Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jerry, retired, We need complete transparency

J E Gorman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J E Gorman To allow publicly traded companies to report on a semi-annual basis would be another financial disaster for individual investors in furtherance of this administration's efforts to aid the wealthy and drive more middle-class families into poverty. To claim that quarterly reporting puts a financial strain on companies is outright prevarication, which is what this administration does on an hourly basis, if not more frequently. Any costs saved by such a move would be pocketed by the greedy managers of such firms while they search for new ways to get away with more acts of thievery. This idea should be squashed immediately.

J E. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: J E. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 James W. Essex jr. Retired from Federal Government Service. Consumers need Companies to keep the currect quarterly accountability.

You are appreciated!!

James

J G — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: J G Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Michael Hart, retired tech professional.

Allowing companies to stay in the dark in no way protects the public. Do not allow this to happen!

Accountability never requires less reporting.

J G — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: J G Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My life savings are in the stock market... I cannot preserve my savings if I do not know how companies are performing as often as possible every 6 moths will be too long...too late!!

Retired tax payer
Javier Gonzalez, M.S.

J G EVERETT NONE — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J G EVERETT The reduction in information required from companies will increase the opportunity for irregular behaviour to be missed. Previous reductions in regulatory control has had detrimental effects not just for investors but for the wider economy. Please do not do anything that will provide further opportunities for the dishonest to exploit.

J G Sheek — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: J G Sheek Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It's insane to give this much power to companies , we know what happens when we deregulate and allow them to self regulate! Here comes the next big Money issue for our country, like 2008! JUST DONT DO IT!

Sent from my iPhone

J Goddard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J Goddard I believe that the the proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two is a mistake. As an investor, I own a piece of the business and I believe I deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners - me the investor.

J L Mulley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J L Mulley As a Private Investor who has made very good money on the principle of long term investing, sorry but I think twice yearly is more than enough. An analogy - having done the research - keep it in the oven and allow it to cook. Admittedly I am now 81 years of age and we can have too much of the minutiae of life.

J M — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: J M Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Jessica Mazan and I am a CPA. Quality quarterly reporting is essential for company stakeholders to make informed decisions. Semiannual reporting would create an opacity that would disadvantage everyday shareholders who would not be privy to the same information that private parties are allowed to require - many lenders and private investors already require quarterly reporting packages to be submitted under the terms of their agreements, and the average shareholder deserves the same transparency into their investment in a public company.

I could also see scenarios where accounting departments that only report semiannually have much more clean up to do over a longer period of time if they were not held accountable to fix any discrepancies for reporting purposes on a quarterly basis - it is much easier to look back over the last 3 months than it is to look back 6. Stretching the look back period would leave more room for errors and possible misremembering of circumstances.

In reality, most businesses would likely not stop their quarterly close processes and this would lead to a concentration of benefit to executives and private equity/big banks. With most retirement plans in the U.S. depending on the stock market, public companies need to be held accountable to the everyday investor as well.

J Meyer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: J Meyer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
WE MUST HAVE QUARTERLY REPORTING TO KNOW HOW TO MAKE INVESTMENTS AND TO KEEP INSIDER TRADERS ACCOUNTABLE TOO.

J RZ — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: J RZ Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name doesn't matter. I represent the millions of Americans who are fed up with the corrupt casino that goes by the name of Wall Street. Time and time again, corrupt practices have been exposed. And yet it continues to happen. How? Because corruption is being baked into the system with fraudulent policies such as this.

What we need is MORE TRANSPARNECY, not less. The history of Wall Street crime does not validate any reason to justify these types of actions that only hurt American investors. At its core, it benefits corporations. That's it. It provides no service to the consumer. In fact, it's a blatant DISSERVICE to those who demand transparency in an overwhelmingly stacked system that gives TOTAL ADVANTAGE to the house.

The world's financial system has become a casino, drowning in derivatives and futures gambling, fake shares, and little oversight that continues to diminish with these types of regulatory changes. MORE TRANSPARENCY.

Sent from my iPhone

J Scheid — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: J Scheid Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is needed for transparency, for better tracking, Sent from my device.

J Steinbecck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: J Steinbecck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The more transparency the better when it comes to banks and OUR money. We will NEVER FORGET 2008!

J Vetter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: J Vetter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly. It is 2026 everything is computerized, everything is retrieved electronically. No need to go semi-annually.

J W Jarvis Investment Advisors RIA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J W Jarvis Investment Advisors Reducing the reporting requirement from 4x per yer to 2x per year only benefits the reporting entity while reducing the level of information available to investors. It is difficult to reconcile this proposal with your responsibility to the investing world.

J Yakura — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: J Yakura Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 James P. Yakura, Retired, Gloucester MA.
Most of my retirement income is from investments. If CEOs with bloated incomes can hide financials for six months at a time, it fouls the feedback loops for my wealth managers. KEEP REPORTING QUARTERLY!

J. C. Todd — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: J. C. Todd Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential for the small investor as well as the large investor. It allows me and all investors to respond more flexibly to shifts in the market. It makes investing more transparent and more honest. It's more important now than ever as a guardrail against grift.

Jane Todd Cooper

Sent from my iPhone

J. D. Kulbeth & Member of the Motley Fool Community Retired CEO and private investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J. D. Kulbeth & Member of the Motley Fool Community I am totally against the reduction of the number of Financial Reports to stockholders. As a stockholder and part owner of the company, I depend on those reports to help me know how well the leaders of the company are doing and the financial health of the company.

---

j. juarez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: j. juarez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Corporations are Not People!
People over profits!

Sent from my iPhone

J. M. Velasquez Software Engineer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J. M. Velasquez Fewer required reports will do nothing to change how aggressively public companies pursue shortsighted, quarterly goals. This proposal will serve only to make retail investors less informed, and let these companies operate with even less oversight - including from the very people that collectively own significant amounts of these same companies.

J. Marrero — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J. Marrero I want reporting and transparency four times a year. I want to know what my money is doing. Do not change anything about this.

J. Muncy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: J. Muncy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Of course They would do this NOW.Trump and Co. Want ALL of our money. Poor old Musk can't be the Only Trillionaire

---

J. Otto coordinator of volunteer organization to help others — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J. Otto Being retired and trying to manage finances is more than just a hobby it is way to stay contacted to companies I am vested it are working and doing what they should to stay profitable so I have the means to stay independent. Timely reports are very important to manage investments.

J. P. Zinn The Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J. P. Zinn I would rather know more about the companies in which I invest, not less.

J. PANKHANIA Software Consultancy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J. PANKHANIA It's big mistake to reduce the number of the reporting down 2. Not providing this information quarterly reduces useful information the companies provide increasing uncertainty about the reporting companies.

J. R. Phillips Retired, MEd, former VP Finance ASTD Houston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J. R. Phillips With the advent of agentic AI, the current reporting frequency should be easily sustainable. Since meaningful trends generally require at least three data points to identify, extending the minimum reporting period beyond one year would hinder timely decision-making and delay appropriate responses.

J. Redding Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: J. Redding I do NOT support semi-annual reporting. We tried this is the past and allows companies to hide things longer. Quarterly reporting is working just fine. If bad decisions are being made publically traded companies. We deserve to know sooner than later.

It’s not the businesses money on the line, it is ours as investors.

J.M. Pena — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: J.M. Pena Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep bringing in the reports every 3 months. Appreciated!

J.M. Pena — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: J.M. Pena Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep bringing in the reports every 3 months. Appreciated!

JMPena

---

j.t. T.-2 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: j.t. T.-2 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 6 months is twice the time it takes to get taken by modern day corruption!! Especially in the new world of instant scam/hack theft available options!!!! Stop the STEAL!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Jack Brown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jack Brown Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leave it alone please.

Jack Burkholder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jack Burkholder Reducing public-company reporting from quarterly to semiannual is a mistake. Investors are owners, and owners deserve consistent, transparent updates. Cutting reports in half weakens that connection. Arguments about cost savings are unconvincing in an era of efficient, automated disclosure tools. And reducing reports won’t solve short-term thinking—people create short-termism, not the existence of information. Withholding information simply leaves investors less informed. More importantly, less transparency never produces better decisions. It increases uncertainty. Running a business doesn’t slow down just because reporting does—operations, risks, and opportunities continue daily, while owners are left in the dark. If anything, fewer updates will lead to larger surprises, sharper market reactions, and greater volatility. Informed owners are stable owners. Limiting information undermines that stability. Please do not reduce the reporting requirements!

Jack Carnahan Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jack Carnahan Allowing companies to only report twice a year instead of four times a year is not a good idea. Having information about any company is needed as often as reasonable to allow investors to understand how things are going. With more information, better decisions can be made, and wiser choices are the result.

Jack Crimmins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jack Crimmins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 John Crimmins, retiree here. I want myself and my financial advisors to have information that is as current as possible so we can make informed investment strategy decisions. In the interest of maximum corporate transparency I judge you to keep the quarterly reporting that has served investors well for many decades.

Jack Durbin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jack Durbin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Jack Durbin. I am retired and an active investor. Efficient markets require transparency which is healthy for it. This reduces transparency and puts individual investors at an even greater disadvantage than we are currently.

--
Sent with mail.com Mail app

Jack Hurley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jack Hurley Quarterly company reports are important to investors trying to make informed decisions as to their investing. Reducing the number of reports to two would only lead to radical and sometimes hasty movements in the market causing greater volatility and sometimes misdirected investment decisions. I don't support the current proposal and request that it remain as it is. Thanks.

Jack Kearney Managing Director, Dumas Capital Partners — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jack Kearney I oppose the introduction of semi-annual reporting and the elimination of quarterly reporting by public companies listed in the U.S. The U.S. capital markets are the most efficient in the world, in part, because information is more readily available to investors. Semi-annual reporting in foreign markets has not made them more efficient or cost-effective than U S. Markets.

Jack Koch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jack Koch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I see no reason to change this requirement. This is a small inconvenience to insure that we are all playing by the rules. John Koch, retired investor. Thank you.

Jack Mace Retired CCRN — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jack Mace Semi-annual is a Horrible Idea! Twice as long to find & fix problems & those who would take advantages!!

Jack Mccarthy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jack Mccarthy At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Jack Patterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jack Patterson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is vital for democracy and a clean economy. This proposed ruling is nothing more than a sham to protect those whose self interests damage this country.
It is important that quarterly reporting continue.

Robert Patterson

Jack Poole — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jack Poole Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Make it a monthly signature req. After first time, if run correctly would be no more than a 30 minute review mtg for the ceo. More accountability, less fraud no great burden on a well run company. More not less.

Jack Scarborough — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jack Scarborough Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please don’t make it easy for hard working Americans to lose money it took years to save to invest in the Stock Market & other Investments Companies! Thank for listening to the Citizens of America.

Sent from my iPhone

Jack Scarborough — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Please don’t make it easy for hard working Americans to lose money it took years to save to invest in the Stock Market & other Investments Companies! Thank for listening to the Citizens of America. From: Jack Scarborough Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Sent from my iPhone

---

Jack Schaffer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jack Schaffer A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. That's a mistake Investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Jackie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jackie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why change what is working? I can not live with a devaluation in my accounts.
Jackie Anderson

Sent from my iPhone

Jackie Alleman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jackie Alleman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly!

Jackie Boyce — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jackie Boyce Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 A must not negotiatiable!!

Jackie Lewis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jackie Lewis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What the hell! Normal everyday people are being affected by the by greed of those who have. The political system along with those who already have are making it survival of those who have less. We all just want to afford even a simple life. Stop making living harder, more expensive and downright miserable for common people and for those with less.

Sent from my iPhone

Jackie Roberts — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jackie Roberts Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 AGAIN, WE SEE HOW COMPANIES ARE MORE IMPORTANT THAN THE PEOPLE. THEY NEED ANOTHER BREAK, GIVE ME ABREAK. THIS IS A WAY TO CHEAT THE AMERICAN PEOPLE. THE SEC HAS BEEN PURCHASED BY TRUMP.

Jackie Tobias Retired Professor of Media Literacy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jackie Tobias I wish to be informed regularly about the companies in which I invest. Twice a year is not enough to keep track of what and how the company is doing. Quarterly reports is the barest minimum that I consider acceptable. Without that, too much information will be kept from investors. Do not change the policy.

---

jackpoole1 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: jackpoole1 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Make it a monthly signature req. After first time, if run correctly would be no more than a 30 minute review mtg for the ceo. More accountability, less fraud no great burden on a well run company. More not less.

Sent from my Galaxy

Jacob — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jacob I do not agree with the proposed changes to semi annual reporting,

---

Jacob Allen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jacob Allen I do not support reducing the frequency of public company disclosures. As an investor I feel this action would reduce my ability to make informed data-backed decisions and it would significantly erode my trust in the US equity market.

Jacob Brown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jacob Brown This is a terrible idea and I'm against it!

Jacob Chatelain — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jacob Chatelain Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please, help taper the wealth acculumation in the 1%. Keep reportings quarterly.

Jacob Chatelain

Jacob Clothier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jacob Clothier Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
So much for a fair market. Wonder how much the bribe was.

Jacob Uecker None / Self — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jacob Uecker I want more information from reporting to help my investing. Without, I'll just move my money to different markets.

Jacob Waldera — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jacob Waldera Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: We cannot end quarterly, this is bad for the public. We've already allowed a nonprofitable company to join the S&P which is against the requirements. We have requirements for a reason, not to eliminate them.

Jacobus Rose None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jacobus Rose Totally against this. Why would anybody reduce transparency? I'm a private investor I work with UBS as my financial advisor but I demand that this erosion of financial transparency be stopped.

Jacquelina Foley-Klein — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jacquelina Foley-Klein Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep us informed. I am against the dark out.

Jacqueline Ban — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jacqueline Ban Protect the people PLEASE. Quarterly reports are crucial to transparency for investors. People are investing their hard earned money imto these companies. Quarterly reporting is the LEAST companies can give back in return.

---

jacqueline bernhard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jacqueline bernhard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it quartly.

Jacqueline Fuchs Vice President — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jacqueline Fuchs At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business.

Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Right? I think a quarterly report is in the best interest to all involved. Please do not change it.

Jacqueline Hightower — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jacqueline Hightower Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need accountability! Keep quarterly reoporting!

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Jacqueline M. Drouin Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jacqueline M. Drouin Disclosure is important. You know that. This new rule would allow companies to do things unnoticed for periods of time that are unacceptable. Please do not allow this proposal to pass. Disclosure, disclosure, disclosure. Investors need to know, and it's your job to make sure they do!! This is a public company, and the SEC is there to help investors understand what is going with the companies they invest in. DO YOUR JOB!!!

Jacqueline Santos — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jacqueline Santos Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Dear sirs:
I am requesting that your agency not reduce the number of company reports from 4to2 during the year... own individual stocks for my retirement and less information given to me about companies I own would certainly not be beneficial to me... companies no longer send out annual reports like they used to do any information made available to the public would be in the interest of all investors.. twice a year is no where near what a public company should provide is ... plus with 4 times a year we also get to hear from the heads of the company information that provides a better idea of what the company is doing and how it is fairing... I ask you to please consider not giving us less valuable information when nin this day and age we deserve more information...
thank you for helping the small investors .. Jacqueline Santos

---

JACQUELINE WILKENING — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: JACQUELINE WILKENING Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is important. Monthly reporting would be even better.
Jacqueline Wilkening

Sent from my iPhone

Jacquelyn DelRaso Retired educator — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jacquelyn DelRaso Quarterly reporting needs to stay

---

JACQUES MASSMANN None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JACQUES MASSMANN I think it would be a big mistake to reduce public company reporting to two times per year. It would give me as an investor far less visibility about the operations of a company. It would also give bad actors more time to cause damage.

Jacqui Tanner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jacqui Tanner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Cutting the signed filings to quarterly will lend itself to fraud and malfeasance. The lengther time between filings will give companies prone to deception, corruption, and misconduct added opportunity. Personally, I would prefer more frequent filings. I would like you to reconsider your proposal of increasing the time between filings. We do not want a repeat of Enron or any of the other frauds large companies have perpetuate.

Jacqui Tanner
908-656-6218
JacquiTanner75@gmail.com
Braselton GA

Jacquie Dempsey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jacquie Dempsey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep transparency in the stock market. The future of our savings and retirement portfolio is at stake! If you allow a 6 month blindfold. No blindfolding, just transparency!
thank you..

Jade Bavaro — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jade Bavaro Please do not reduce the number of reports from four to two. Reporting is an important way to understand the health of an organisation for the , employees and investors

---

JaeMe Bereal — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: JaeMe Bereal Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My grandmother lost her savings because of the savings & loan crisis. How many corporations like Enron and others, would skirt the rules if they had no transparency?!?!?

Sent from my iPhone

Jaime Aponte-Parsi Attorney at Law, Puerto Rico — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jaime Aponte-Parsi Quarterly reports are an essential part of accountability by publicly traded companies. The public deserves current information.

Jaime Buchholz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jaime Buchholz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
We have enough fraud from our scammer in chief, don't let his lack impact my investments but opening the door to financial ambiguity.

Jaime Hostetler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jaime Hostetler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I believe it's very deceptive to withhold information that long and it encourages corruption ,I don't even like the quarterly report! I think it should be monthly,but definitely not every 6 months !!

Jaime Pearson-Orlando — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jaime Pearson-Orlando I am writing to oppose the semiannual reporting option. Removing quarterly reporting requirements will be a mistake. Quarterly reporting as an essential feature of transparent, efficient and trustworthy capital markets. I'm not convinced investors benefit from receiving less information from large public companies.

Jaime Rollans — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jaime Rollans Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to make corporations more transparent rather than less. Public filings are important. The government is supposed to represent all the people not just the rich! Shame on the SEC
Jaime Rollans, Retired Teacher

Jaime
Sent from my iPhone

Jake Pate — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jake Pate Investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. In an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, cost reduction doesn't seem fair argument. Taking the reports away makes everyone less informed about the changes in the business. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Jake S. The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jake S. Reducing reporting requirements will only hurt investors, and the public while allowing companies to be held even less accountable. In the age of AI and modern technology information recording and reporting has only become more automated, and more simplified. The case against increased reporting to reduce costs is an unfounded non-starter. Companies should be held to a higher standard, even more than they are now. Public investors have direct ownership in the companies they invest in and more frequent reporting makes better informed owners. Reducing the reporting requirements will only increase uncertainty, increase volatility, increase reactionary behavior and cause worse outcomes for the public investor while protecting the C suite from bad decisions. Do not reduce reporting requirements.

---

jake snow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jake snow Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Jacob Snow, I'm a grill cook at chipotles and with all the lack of accountability already running rampant through the business sector ON TOP of the general distrust more corporations foster through what practices, I absolutely do not want this law taking place. As a taxpaying American my voice should count for something and this is important to me.

James — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: James Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hiding pertinent financial info from investors is the exact opposite of what capitalism, free market and optimum price determination are ALL about !!!

James & Katherine Whitmore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: James & Katherine Whitmore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We, the investing public, are owed information from companies asking for money. We do not owe companies any relief from open and honest accounting of the practices they use.

Get Outlook for iOS

James A Warren Small invertor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James A Warren As a small investor, I depend on government reports to be my watchdog. Less information means less critical information that I have as to where to invest my savings.

James A Zarnowski Personal Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James A Zarnowski Hello, I unequivocally oppose any reduction of quarterly reporting requirements. The market moves too quickly and needs current timely quarterly reporting. There are too many surprises as it is!

James Allen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: James Allen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Contacting ya'll at the SEC to voice my opposition to allowing firms to reduce the frequency of quarterly reports to semiannually.
My name is James Allen. I reside in Elm Grove, Louisiana and my wife and I are retired, me from the construction industry and my wife from US government services. We worked for what we have and we deserve more timely reports in order to keep up with our little investments.
Please leave the quarterly reports as they are. I believe that a change to semiannual reports effectively reduces the responsibilities of the investment firms which will realize a small profit for them, but with way too much lacking in accountability. Thank you!
James Allen
Elm Grove, LA

James Allen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: James Allen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Contacting ya'll at the SEC to voice my opposition to allowing firms to reduce the frequency of quarterly reports to semiannually.
My name is James Allen. I reside in Elm Grove, Louisiana and my wife and I are retired, me from the construction industry and my wife from US government services. We worked for what we have and we deserve more timely reports on our investments.
Please leave the quarterly reports as they are. Thank you!
James Allen
Elm Grove, LA

James Allen Carroll retired, Department of Chemistry, University of Nebraska Omaha — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Allen Carroll I have been an active investor for 50 years, proud to have supported relatively small publicly traded companies with capital. There is less coverage of these by professionals. To appreciate how company initiatives have been developed and fruitful, I rely on the regular reports companies are required to submit. I am not a trader, buying and selling in daily, weekly, or monthly time frames, responding in a crowd to rumors. Without quarterly reports, such unreliable information might become more influential, to the detriment of companies building solid reputations on financial facts. I ask that current report requirements be maintained or stiffened, not relaxed.

James Andrew Hinds, Jr. Attorney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Andrew Hinds, Jr. As an accredited investor I need quarterly financial information on the companies I invest in to know how my money is being used by management. The alleged cost savings to going to twice a year.

JAMES ANTHONY SAAB III — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JAMES ANTHONY SAAB III I'm a writing today in opposition of S7-2026-15 on Semiannual Reporting. As an investor, you own a part of the company and these companies should have the responsibility of reporting to their shareholders on a regular basis. The current quarterly reports help the average investor make decisions regarding their portfolio. Half as many required reports, give us half the information we are used to when making important investment decisions. This plan seems to favor investment insiders and government officials who may receive more information than the average American investor. Please consider keep the reporting requirements quarterly. Thank you, James A. Saab III

James Anthony Stewart-Moore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Anthony Stewart-Moore I oppose any proposal to reduce mandatory reporting by public companies from four times a year to twice a year. • Shareholders are owners, not spectators. When individuals invest in a public company, they become part owners of that business. It is entirely reasonable for owners to expect regular and timely information about the performance of an asset in which they have invested their capital. • The cost-saving justification is becoming weaker, not stronger. Modern accounting systems, automation, and artificial intelligence are steadily reducing the effort required to prepare and analyze financial information. Reducing transparency in order to save reporting costs appears to be a solution to a problem that technology is already addressing. • Regular reporting promotes accountability. Quarterly reporting requires management to explain performance and emerging issues on a continuing basis. Extending the reporting interval to six months would increase the information gap between management and shareholders and reduce accountability. • Markets function best when information is available promptly. Investors, analysts, lenders, and employees all rely on current information when making decisions. Less frequent reporting would increase uncertainty and could encourage speculation rather than informed investment. Public companies already provide earnings calls, investor presentations, trading updates, and other communications throughout the year because management recognizes that investors expect regular information. Given that reality, it is difficult to see why the most comprehensive and reliable form of reporting should be provided less frequently. In my view, the proposal would reduce transparency without delivering a meaningful benefit to shareholders, who are the true owners of public companies.

James Appleby NA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Appleby I don't believe that less transparency is a good thing. The expense reduction would not be significant enough to make any difference in they're bottom line. I'm would imagine that plenty of them don't stay current with they're submissions as is, this would allow them to become even further behind. Please leave Reg FD as is. Thanks James Appleby

---

James Avera — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Avera Companies that use other people's money should be required to provide transparent insight into their operations continuously. We now have the technological means to enable that, or at least move in that direction. Reporting should become MORE frequent as technology allows. There is no legitimate reason to provide extra time for hiding financial results from investors. Please DO NOT approve this plan to eliminate quarterly reporting; we should be moving the other way, towards more frequent automated disclosures.

James B Hadley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James B Hadley Quarterly reporting must continue to help keep the playing field level. If there is any change in frequency it should be to require more frequent reporting.

James Baranowski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: James Baranowski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am firmly in favor of quarterly reporting. We need more accountability, not less.
James Baranowski
Danville, CA 94526

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

James Bell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: James Bell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 June 23, 2026

U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission
100 F Street NE
Washington, DC 20549

Re: Semiannual Reporting; File No. S7-2026-15

To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

My name is James Bell. I am a Senior Security Engineer and Team Lead working in enterprise security operations, cloud security, incident response, automation, and risk management. I am also the founder and Lead Security Engineer of GuardAxis.io, an AI governance platform focused on helping organizations create structured, review-ready AI usage policies. I am submitting this comment in my individual capacity.

I am strongly opposed to any rule change that would remove, weaken, or make optional the current quarterly reporting requirements for public companies.

The core issue is accountability. Public companies operate in markets that move faster than ever. Investors, regulators, employees, customers, and the broader public need more visibility into corporate performance and risk, not less. Moving from quarterly reporting to semiannual reporting would create longer periods of darkness between standardized disclosures. That is the wrong direction for modern markets.

My professional work is centered on identifying risk, monitoring changing conditions, and responding before small issues become major failures. In security operations, reducing the frequency of reporting does not make an organization more strategic. It makes it less observable. It delays detection. It increases the chance that serious issues remain hidden until they become more expensive, more damaging, or impossible to contain.

The same principle applies to public company reporting. Quarterly reports are not just administrative paperwork. They are a recurring control mechanism. They force companies to disclose financial performance, risk factors, management analysis, legal developments, liquidity concerns, and other material information on a predictable schedule. That regular cadence creates discipline. It gives investors a structured view of whether management's public story matches actual performance.

Semiannual reporting would weaken that control.

I understand the argument that quarterly reporting may create short-term pressure. But the answer to short-termism is not less disclosure. The answer is better disclosure. Companies that want to communicate long-term strategy already can do so. Boards and executives can choose to stop issuing short-term guidance, improve investor communications, and explain long-term investments more clearly. None of that requires reducing mandatory reporting frequency.

Quarterly Form 10-Q reporting provides a standardized baseline. It helps retail investors, analysts, pension funds, employees, creditors, and the public evaluate companies on a more equal footing. Without quarterly reports, institutional investors and insiders will still have access to sophisticated tools, expensive data sources, private meetings, expert networks, and advanced models. Retail investors will have less. That widens the information gap.

This is especially concerning in the current environment. Public companies now face rapidly changing risks involving cybersecurity, artificial intelligence, supply chains, cloud infrastructure, geopolitical instability, debt costs, customer concentration, data privacy, and regulatory exposure. Many of these risks can emerge or materially worsen within a single quarter. A six-month reporting gap is too long.

Form 8-K reporting is not a sufficient replacement. Current reports are event-driven and depend on materiality judgments. They do not provide the same regular, comparable, structured view that quarterly reports provide. Earnings releases are also not enough. They are often selective, presentation-driven, and less complete than formal SEC filings. Investors need standardized disclosures, not optional corporate messaging.

An optional semiannual regime would also create comparability problems. If some companies report quarterly and others report semiannually, investors will have a harder time comparing peer companies in the same industry. The choice to stop filing quarterly reports may itself become a market signal, but not a clean one. Companies could opt out during periods when performance is becoming harder to explain. Even if that is not the intent, the structure creates an avoidable accountability concern.

The public markets depend on trust. Trust is not built by asking investors to accept longer gaps between required disclosures. Trust is built through consistent, standardized, timely reporting.

If the Commission wants to reduce reporting burden, it should consider targeted modernization instead of reducing disclosure frequency. For example, the Commission could simplify duplicative sections, improve structured data requirements, modernize XBRL usability, reduce unnecessary boilerplate, and create clearer disclosure templates for smaller reporting companies. Those reforms could reduce burden without reducing market visibility.

But allowing public companies to replace quarterly Form 10-Q reporting with semiannual reporting is a step backward.

As someone who works in risk, monitoring, and accountability, I believe this proposal would reduce transparency at the exact moment when markets need more reliable visibility. Investors should not be forced to operate with less current information while public companies, insiders, and institutional actors retain structural advantages.

I respectfully urge the Commission to preserve mandatory quarterly reporting requirements for public companies and reject any rule change that would allow companies to opt out of quarterly Form 10-Q reporting.

Respectfully submitted,

James Bell
Senior Security Engineer and Team Lead
Founder and Lead Security Engineer, GuardAxis.io
San Antonio, Texas

Sent from my iPhone

James Bickerstaff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: James Bickerstaff Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is a very good set of reasons that quarterly reporting is required. Enron not only bankrupted their massive company, they STOLE everyone's pensions as well. Monthly reporting would be better. You are going the wrong way, DONALD.

James Bizzell Former financial consultant with Am Express and Charles Schwab, formwer AAMS. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Bizzell Cutting reporting to semi-annual vs quarterly is a bad idea. Investors need info to ensure their money is safe.

James Blair CEO, Pacific Sentinel Law — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Blair We should be moving to more transparency not less. As owners of the companies we invest in we have a right to understand the financial performance and while this might save costs it harms that right.

James Bon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: James Bon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep the quarterly reports. If they only report once or twice a year then most investors will be waiting longer on bad positions and vice versa. We do not need to go backward.

James Borg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Borg We need at least 4 corporate reports each year!

Less data means more opportunity for chicanery.

---

james Boyd retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: james Boyd Dear Sir or Madam, I believe that proposed rule S7-2026- 15 will be bad for investors in public companies. Providing good information in a timely manner is essential for the functioning of a financial market. This will reduce both the information available to the investors in a company and the timing of important information. Reporting is a needed cost that a public company must bear. The rule will have the effect of distorting the market and will increase the volatility of the market as investors have reduced information to use in making decisions. Cordially, James Boyd

---

James Braziel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: James Braziel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the rules the same!

James Burson Retired attorney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Burson The quarterly reporting rules for publicly traded stocks should remain un-changed. As a holder of multiple publicly traded stocks, I want to know that all companies I consider for investment are having to report business financials at least every three months. It would be an unnecessary additional burden on my investment decision-making to also need to ascertain a company's "chosen" reporting preference. Current financial transparency rules and their inducement of stability benefit the stock market more than the minimal decrease in a company's cost of investor reporting. I disfavor any change to the reporting rule.

James Campbell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: James Campbell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Prove that the current administration is about transparency (as its spokespeople ALWALYS claim) and retain quarterly reporting by corporations. The public ALWAYS benefits from more factual information, not less!

James Chandra — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Chandra Please keep the current rule of companies reporting financial results every quarter. This enables investors to be informed of the company's quarterly financial results. More transparency of company finances would keep the overall market healthy.

James Coffey Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Coffey At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Right? So, I urge you to reject the proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that's a mistake!

James Douthitt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Douthitt Please do not allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. As an investor, four times per year reporting keeps me informed to a degree at which I can understand the companies I'm investing in.

James Duran — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Duran We need more, not less transparency. Regular reporting keeps us informed and helps minimize financial manipulation, mismanagement and obfuscations.

James Durrwachter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: James Durrwachter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The republican party at this time is using the same tactics Nazi Germany used in WW2 . Citizens United, Pardons for people who pay money, Corrupt Supreme Court members, attacks on the White House. All a form of corruption that the Republicans party is either to cowardly to fix or to corrupt to fix. Fake morals.Fake Christian's. You are a disgrace. Stop lying. Stop your propaganda. you had a guy with a Auschwitz shirt on at the insurrection.for Gods sake. Real Christians and White supremacist don't belong on the same side. You want baby's born. You're pro birth not pro life. You would rather make yourself's richer than provide healthcare food and a good education those those babies you want born. You want to pay white supremacist hate groups for being there not the people they beat. You want to pay the aggressor. Do you really think your actions are condoned by God?

Sent from my iPad

James E Scarpelli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James E Scarpelli This is a major mistake !!!!!!

James Ewel Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Ewel This proposal to allow companies to report only twice a year rather than quarterly is a bad idea. Investors need information to make informed decisions. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. No owner would stand for that. Please reconsider.

James Fultz Retired Packaging executive — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Fultz There has to be the 4 quarters in order to follow and measure our holdings. Reducing this in any matter would not give the proper transparency nor insight into the company direction

---

James G O'Sullivan Retired IBM — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James G O'Sullivan The government would be doing a severe disservice to investors by reducing the financial reporting requirements to twice per year from four. Most Americans no longer have Defined Benefit Pension Plans, that use to manage the lions share of their retirement income, any longer and are faced with managing their assets themselves or through Financial Advisors. Hence, we need the ability to review more frequent (Current) financial reports to better manage our funds in a real time fashion based on current market conditions for individual companies we own. Please don't reduce the reporting requirments.

James Gale — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Gale With AI coming on strong, more reporting should be easier and less costly to companies. The current quarterly reporting should be the minimum. More information is better for the investors that keep our market running.

James George, PhD Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James George, PhD Quarterly reports are crucial when I'm investing. In fact, I don't remember any investment I've made without reading their quarterly reports!

James Giglia The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Giglia I believe this proposal (if passed) would be a great disservice to individual investors who actively track companies performance for when/where to invest.

James Gilchrist Investor (Individual) — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Gilchrist I oppose the proposed shift to semiannual reporting. Public markets function on timely, reliable information, and reducing disclosure frequency would weaken transparency between companies and their shareholders. Businesses continue to operate and change materially throughout the year, and limiting formal reporting to twice annually would increase information gaps, heighten uncertainty, and likely amplify market volatility when updates do arrive. Claims of reduced cost or short-term pressure do not outweigh the fundamental need for consistent accountability and informed decision-making. Regular reporting is a core safeguard of investor confidence and market integrity, and it should be maintained.

James Goenen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: James Goenen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting as it is. If businesses want it they are trying to hide from scrutiny. They could be going under for six or more months and the investors on the outside of the in house "circle" would never know..

James Gordon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Gordon Do not reduce reporting requirements. AI will take over much of the labor so this is not really cost cutting. The main aim seems to be to limit access to information to screw over the small investor even more than the markets already do! Don’t do this

---

James Gorman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: James Gorman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it transparent, safer for investors; increases accountability! Leave reporting a quarterly requirement.

Sent from my iPhone

JAMES GRANT Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JAMES GRANT I am against the proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that’s a mistake!

James Green Realtor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Green Please don’t change the rule to only twice per year reporting requirements as this will seriously reduce critical information for investors. 4 times per year should be the minimum.

James Grogan, Col, USAF Ret — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Grogan, Col, USAF Ret I do not support the change from 4 to 2 corporate earnings report per year. I depend on the qtrly rpts to understand where my investment has been and potentially going so that I know my continued ownership is a good decision. Without the information, I would be less inclined to start or continue an investment due to insufficient or timely information.

James H Cook n/a — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James H Cook Kill the bill to require semi-annual reporting. Quarterly is the only way to go.

James Hartwig — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: James Hartwig Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly reporting. It's a process which isn't broken.

Sent from my iPhone

James Heard Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Heard Investors who own a piece of a business deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

James Howard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Howard Please do not lower the reporting requirements to twice annually. As an investor, the quarterly information is important and always has been.

James Iacona — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Iacona Publicly listed companies should be required to report earnings every quarter. As an owner I want to have an ongoing understanding of what is happening at the companies I own. If this requirement is reduced to twice per year stock market volatility will be magnified.

James Johandes The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Johandes The excuse that things would be cheaper if reporting is cut in half is true and laughable. I argue the same logic applies to firing the CEO, except firing the CEO would save much more money. It is deplorable how many people supposedly working for the people of this country spend all of their time trying to come up with ways to get rid of everything good for its people. Stop benefiting the richest at the cost of the many. The reports should be costly. And accurate. That way the companies would actually follow the rules that are never enforced anymore.

James Kelly — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: James Kelly Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 James Kelly, Owner, my investments are important to my retirement. Investors deserve more transparency, not less.

---

james kenney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: james kenney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As retirees, less transparency sounds like a terrible idea designed to keep investors in the dark. If this goes though there will be even less confidence in the market. J. Kenney

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

James Kirkpatrick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: James Kirkpatrick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a retired finance executive who depends on the quarterly filings to manage investments. Please continue the requirement.
Thank you,
Joe Kirkpatrick
70 School St.
Haverhill, NH 03765

Sent from my iPad

James Kirkwood The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Kirkwood I believe that semiannual reporting for public corporations would be a disservice to individual investors. It can still take years of business planning to realize the profits from those plans. By reducing from quarterly reports to semiannual reports, we would not see a meaningful change in corporations' short-term planning for the reporting period. We would see less frequent information on which investors would have to rely. Investors could be making trade decisions based on 5- to 6-month-old information that could be considered stale and outdated. A quarterly report would provide new information that could negate the information published three months prior. Additionally, might we have investors sitting on the sidelines waiting to trade on certain stocks because they are too close to the 6-month reporting period? This waiting could reduce trading volume for the stock and potentially affect its valuation. For these reasons, I do NOT support the proposed semiannual reporting requirements.

James Kolb — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Kolb Less information rarely creates better-informed owners.

James Kotowski Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Kotowski I am quite dismayed at the notion of public companies providing only 2 public accounting reports per year to the marketplace. Bad idea! Looking at the possible benefits to such an approach weighed against the benefits of full and frequent disclosure(4 reports per year), a fully informed public, exposure of company problems before more time magnifies them. A lesser informed public allows for more control and manipulation by company officers and Wall Street insiders. In the big picture, the "cost savings" should be a minor issue compared to the damage done by conveying public information less frequently. No-one can argue that less information is better for the public markets, just as more infrequent information is not better for the public markets.

James L Foote, Jr Retired CPA. (Florida) — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James L Foote, Jr I believe that Companies should have a responsibility to report financial statements at least four times a year.

James Lacey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Lacey Investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

James Leonard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: James Leonard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Actually, why not file every month, like us humans? We have to pay rent and mortgage? It won't cost them manpower. It will all be AI (or A One) anyway, so how much payroll will that be?

You can't say corporations are people without treating them that way.

Sent from my iPhone

James Lindemuth — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Lindemuth Keep company reporting to 4 times per year, i.e. quarterly reporting, to ensure greater investor transparency.

James Little Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Little Keep transparency to four times per year.

James Luening Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Luening Changing the number of public-company reports from four times a year to two is completely counter to the purpose of the SEC, which is to protect investors, maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets, and facilitate capital formation. This change would increase volatility, mask company issues and encourage more lax accounting practices. Quarterly filings don't prevent fraud, but they dramatically shorten the window in which it can fester before someone outside the company can see it. Honest companies understand this. In an Executive Administration that lacks an ethical compass, embraces crony capitalism and fraud, more transparency, not less is needed. Don't give in to the dis-honest parties lobbying for this change. The SEC must keep quarterly reporting.

James M Weldon Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James M Weldon Companies have an absolute duty to advise Investors of Company actions and other pertinent issues relevant to the Investor's position in said Company. 4 times a year is not enough, but allowing them to just communicate twice a year would be a travesty, NO less than 4....

James M. Johnson Johnson Capital Advisory — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James M. Johnson Recently, I was alerted by the Motley Fool to an SEC proposal to change the frequency of companies' earnings reports. I respectfully request no change in the quarterly earnings reporting schedule. Reducing the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two greatly reduces the transparency of a company's business to its investors. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Reducing reporting requirements would make large investors more likely to cozy up to management than smaller investors, in order to get information from companies, putting smaller investors at an unfair disadvantage. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Thank you for consideration of my viewpoint, James M. Johnson Johnson Capital Advisory

---

James M.. Greiff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James M. Greiff I strongly oppose the plan to switch from quarterly reporting to semi-annually. The U.S. financial markets are the most trusted in the world, precisely because information is readily available. Less frequent reporting will reduce the flow of information, thus making U.S. markets less trustworthy and reliable. If the goal is to harm markets and investors, do this. If it isn't, then don't

---

James Macaulay — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Macaulay Do not reduce reporting requirements. Moe information is better.

James Mattingly Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Mattingly As a retiree who has investments in several companies, I feel it is a mistake to change the Quarterly Reports to Semi-Annual Reports. Currently the Quarterly Reports are how small and senior investors can keep track of how the markets are reacting to current events. By changing to a Semi-Annual reporting we will lose that ability and will not be able to keep our investments current. Semi-Annual reporting could possible cause us to lose our investment in some companies, which in the long run could hurt the economic flow of our country.

James Mcc — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: James Mcc Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 All information relating to a companies, financial status, bank ratings, failed startups, misinformation should be available quarterly
James Bennett, investor

Sent from my iPhone

---

james michael treinen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: james michael treinen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Let's think about this. The only time business wants to stop something is when it benefits them. Not small individual investors. I rely on my quarterly report to know how well I'm doing. Taking that away, makes it more difficult to plan for the long term. Just say NO, and keep quarterly reporting.

James Munoz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Munoz While I appreciate the intent behind reducing reporting requirements, I respectfully urge the Commission to reconsider this proposal. Public companies exist to serve their owners, and quarterly reporting provides investors with timely, transparent information about the businesses they own. Reducing disclosures from four reports per year to two would not eliminate uncertainty or short-term thinking; it would simply leave shareholders less informed and potentially increase market volatility when information is eventually released. I encourage the Commission to maintain the current quarterly reporting framework in the interest of transparency, accountability, and well-informed investors.

James Myers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: James Myers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Brendan Carr:
This is another very poor idea that the current Administration is using your sycophancy to employ, an unfortunate plan to cut regulation for reporting. The requirements for Financial Statements on a quarterly basis keeps the public and other interested parties abreast of the profitability & management's plans for the future.
TRANSPARENCY is of the utmost importance to keep the TRUST, during a period of much duplicity! External Auditors CANNOT detect intentionally hidden information or bad acts, by simply examining the books of a company, but they test very carefully to ensure that they find patterns or behaviors that may lead to problems for public shareholders of a financial nature! The reduction in number of reports from 4 times a year, is very wrong-headed, as are most of the changes being made in the last 18 months!
The SEC is supposed to ensure that public companies behave appropriately, with their intended plans for a publicly held company & to give their shareholders an opportunity to review how their investment is performing, as well as how well the management of the company has been conducted! To require fewer reports to the commission, gives management the opportunity to make decisions that any particular investor may wish to withdrawal his financial interests, prior to a material shift in their thinking about management, the company, or the company's FINANCIAL position, with which that shareholder disagrees & wishes to remove his investment from that direction!!

STOCKHOLDERS are the LIFE BLOOD of public companies & have every right to decide, regularly, at least 4 times a year, whether a particular company is heading, financially & otherwise!
The basis for those decisions is generally determined through use of the most CURRENT FINANCIAL STATEMENTS available!
In the age of computers, AI, and more profitability in the publicly traded sector, the MORE REGULATION & REPORTING should be required for the safety & protection of the INVESTOR, to whom the Securities & Exchange Commission, is the agency tasked with that OVERSIGHT!
The SEC must protect the INVESTORS in the expanded, group of people who bring new dollars to the companies governed by the SEC, and NOT what "The PreZ!" instructs you to do to please his views!

James Parsons — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Parsons Transparency is vital for people to make informed choices about a company's value. Limiting reporting to semi-annually from quarterly will not improve transparency. Cost to a company should not be a factor in providing this information. Please keep the current standard.

James Peacher retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Peacher We live on SS and our stock portfolio. In my 80's and cannot afford to go to sleep at the wheel when it comes to investing. Reducing the transparency by changing the reporting rules leaves me more vulnerable and I cannot abide by that. Please do not reduce the number of reports per year... my life depends on knowing what is going on.

James Perry Tech executive and investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Perry Reporting only twice yearly is a terrible idea! The world needs MORE transparency, not less. Markets need more information, and more transparency, NOT less! The supposed "benefits" of reducing reporting frequency is far outweighed by the negatives: lack of transparency, inability of investors (owners) to make informed decisions, and reduced accountability. Keep the quarterly reporting!

James Pettenati — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: James Pettenati Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely not! Not again!

James Q Boone — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Q Boone I would like not to see this go through. I believe it is unfair to me as an investor to only hear how the company's doing twice a year. Please vote no

---

James R Stephenson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James R Stephenson Keep Quarterly Reporting

---

JAMES RILEY — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: JAMES RILEY Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 James Riley,
I am retired and depend on earnings from my stocks. Please stay with quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

James Roberts — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: James Roberts Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting enhances transparency. Please keep it so.

Jim Roberts
Retired Investor

mailto:slagforcedelta@gmail.com

James Rodriguez None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Rodriguez The quarterly reporting should continue it is necessary for investors to be well informed.

James Ross — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Ross Reporting quarterly results ensures that stockholders have relevant information in a reasonable time frame. It does not drive short-sightedness. Instead, it ensures that everyone has access to the same information regularly. Please do not change this to reduce the reporting frequency.

JAMES ROSS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JAMES ROSS I can't see how anyone who invests in the market would be ok with this. Reducing the number of public-company reports from 4 times a year to just two times a year is a massive mistake and should not be allowed. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

James Rothdeutsch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: James Rothdeutsch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Every company keeps tabs on how they are doing financially. It is imperative to investors, even small time individual investors to have access to bonified quarterly reports on the financial health of a company they are invested in or considering investing in. James Rothdeutsch, Director of Engineering Services. Retired.

James Routh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Routh Thank you for allowing the opportunity to comment. I would like to request that you do not change the reporting requirements to twice a year from quarterly. As an individual investor, I am at a disadvantage to industrial investors who have access to vast resources and can do research ahead of reporting. The quarterly reports right now are a lot of what the individual investor has to rely on. Removing 50% of those removes 50% of my information. Please leave it the way it is. Thank you for your time.

James S Wilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James S Wilson Stay with four times per year.

James Savage Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Savage I do not approve of the proposed plan to allow publicly traded companies to reduce the number of financial reports. As an investor with considerable financial resources devoted to the stock market, I enjoy having quarterly information available to me. Although I might not read each report in its entirety, I know the information is reviewed and analyzed by my brokerage house and on CNBC/Bloomberg. Additionally, I often times listen to the oral presentation that is given by the management. These quarterly written and oral reports inform my future stock purchases and movements. To reduce the number is not in my best interest, or the interest of the retail stock investor.

James Scarlott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: James Scarlott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We strongly advocate for the continuation of our established quarterly financial reporting framework. This methodology has consistently proven effective in delivering timely, comprehensive, and transparent insights into our financial performance. Our historical evaluations of less frequent reporting cycles have consistently highlighted significant operational complexities and have not yielded the desired levels of market clarity or stakeholder confidence.

In the contemporary financial landscape, characterized by its dynamism and the prevalence of sophisticated investment strategies and market participants, any reduction in reporting frequency carries inherent risks. A move towards less frequent disclosures could inadvertently prolong periods of informational asymmetry, potentially limiting the average investor's access to crucial, up-to-date financial data. This diminished transparency could, in turn, compromise informed decision-making and potentially undermine overall market integrity and investor protection. Therefore, maintaining our quarterly reporting schedule is paramount to fostering continued trust and ensuring equitable access to essential financial information. Thank you for your consideration

James Scarlott
Nunnelly, Tn

James Shotwell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: James Shotwell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please please don't stop quarterly reporting. We need to follow our accounts in order to accurately plan our future. Please we are asking respectfully James and Terri Shotwell
Lineman in the IBEW Local 66 HOUSTON TX & Housewife

James Sparks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: James Sparks Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quartery report as an investor these help determine where I invest. If companies are given the choice to report quarterly or biannually, then investors should only invest in companies that are transparent and report quarterly. This will disrupt the markets and create more volatility. Please keep the quarterly reports.

James Stears — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Stears As an investor, how am I to know how a company is doing with less information? Less information means less certainty and unpleasant surprises. Why would this reporting change even be considered? Is someone profiting from this legislation? Keep company reporting at 4 times a year.

James Stewart Funeral director — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Stewart I want to keep the quarterly reporting of stocks

---

James Sutton IT Consultant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Sutton Informing customers is getting easier. This proposal is not in the benefit of corporate owners.

James Thomas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Thomas I support quarterly reporting

---

James Thomas Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Thomas Since handling my investments I rely on having up to date and accurate information throughout the year, I do believe that cutting the current quarterly reporting requirements in half would be a mistake. Please keep the quarterly reporting requirements as-is. Thanks, James

---

James Thomasey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: James Thomasey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't change the reporting cycle. Simple enough. Trump administration are reprehensible.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

James Van Dinter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Van Dinter A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that’s a mistake!

James Van Sciver — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Van Sciver This is a bad idea. Investing implies ownership and less information is riskier.

James W Perry none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James W Perry Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposal to provide information on my investments only twice a year from my companies. I am opposed to this and want to continue the quarterly reports and be able to make the right decisions on where my money is held. Thank you in advance for not enacting legislation which would only requires biannual stataments.

James Wade — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Wade This will not be in the investors interest.

James Weber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Weber Reducing the number of public reports from 4 to 2 is a mistake, and limits information for owners of stocks on publicly traded stock exchanges. We should have more information, not less.

James Whiteside — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Whiteside Why restrict information that supports clearer understanding of what valuations are? The opposite should occur.

James Woody — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: James Woody Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is only fiar and logical. IT KEEPS RETAIL AND REGULAR INVESTORS INVESTED. I if its not public to know what a company is foing then who's gonna trust that and only wall street woyld be trading with wall street. Man im leaving America yall dumb

---

James Ziemann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: James Ziemann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If we learned nothing from Arthur Andersen, Enron and the WorldComm debacles, – it's that we need to hold CEOs accountable for the financial results that they publish.
We absolutely need to keep this quarterly reporting requirement and we need to keep requiring that CEOs be held accountable for their company's financial reports.
Thousands of small investors lost their life savings in these companies-and it should be your mission to make sure that never happens again!

Get Outlook for iOS

James Ziska The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: James Ziska Please do not reduce the required number of reports. Investors need more information, not less to make good decisions.

Jamesha Walker-Tenjinmon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jamesha Walker-Tenjinmon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jamesha Catherine Walker, art model, and I sternly suggest keeping the information quarterly.

Sent from my iPhone

Jamey Logan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jamey Logan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Bad idea!

Sent from my iPhone

Jami Rice — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jami Rice At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Jamie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jamie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jamie Harrison
Retired nurse
I want safeguarding to remain in place!

Sent from my iPhone

Jamie Acosta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jamie Acosta Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Continue with the current system of quarterly reporting.

Thank you.
Jamie Acosta

Jamie DePaolis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jamie DePaolis Public traded companies must continue reporting quarterly for transparency to investors. Twice a year is not adequate.

Jamie Scott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jamie Scott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is no reason to give corporations a break and reduce the number of times they must provide financial reports. They have virtually bankrupted the country in the past; they will do it again if you loosen what little regulations are already in place.

Look at the immense disparity between CEO pay and average worker pay. They are already robbing us blind.

The very least you can do is to keep in place the quarterly reporting regulation.

J. Scott, Wilmington NC

Jamie Tharrington — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jamie Tharrington Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 More...never less!@

Jan And NormFrankel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jan And NormFrankel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Protect small investors and folks with retirement funds. Keep the requirement for quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Jan Betts — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jan Betts Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP QUARTERLY Reporting for us!

Sent from my iPhone

Jan bii op eg hansen Investor - pribcatw — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jan bii op eg hansen Less information means poorer decisions making

---

Jan Boudart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jan Boudart Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Profitable companies steeped in crony capitalism game the system where ordinary people invest. It is a formula for stealing small amounts of money. I don't know what it will profit this Fascist takeover of our government when they push the populace beyond the point where regular people can live. I personally, own an apartment that is worth around one five thousanth of one Billion Dollars. Yet I am being challenged to be able to hold on to this tiny asset by people who want more than their already great wealth. The mystery is: why do they want this? Do they think that, even though they have a biological body just like the rest of us that they can immunize themselves from hardship? Do they think that the breakdown of natural systems that underpin existence will be waived for them? Do some of them really think that Jesus will save them and the world at a second coming? What can possibly motivate them to destroy the source of our living, through cheating in the stock market, filling the atmosphere with Oxygen-displacing gasses and disease-causing pollution, or extracting resources rather than living sustainably?

Jan Cheney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jan Cheney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Continue quarterly reporting

Sent from my iPhone

---

jan henderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: jan henderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This action not only will harm investors but will invite fraud. In the case of Enron, they produced annual Financials for their shareholders that did not reflect the companies true financial health. They booked future contracts immediately rather than cash as earned; used SPE's to hide millions in debt and massive financial losses; and inflated their revenue.

As a retired small investor with less analytical resources, losing my savings should not be an option. Changing the reporting requirements will not only invite fraud, but make it legal.

Jan Henderson
Retired former Senior Cash
Operations Analyst

Jan Kanas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jan Kanas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop it

Jan Kanas, CLHS
Realtor®l Executive Vice President &
Global Real Estate Advisor
2372 East Main Street l Bexley, Ohio 43209
614.348.4526 jan@jankanasrealtor.com

Jan Kasmir — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jan Kasmir Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need more accountability, not less! The composition of our executives has not changed -their highest point of achievement is still marked with signs. If not held to accountability, they lose sight of what is really important, integrity, not amassing money. If anything I would like to see shorter leashes.
Jan Kasmir
Resident of Hilton head, South Carolina

Jan Laskowski Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jan Laskowski I am strongly opposed to changing the public corporation reporting from every 3 months to every 6 months. As a retiree who depends on investments to survive retirement, I am worried with reports every 6 months, I would be the last to know of major changes and not in time to make any adjustments in my portfolio.

Jan M Dougherty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jan M Dougherty Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting. We were victims of Enron and never recovered. Don't you dare make any CEO's life easier.

Jan Metts — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jan Metts Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why do you want to change reporting? I'm Janelle Pickens Metts. I'm retired ,and a good bit of my income is returns from my investments. I want the people who are handling that money to be held accountable more than twice a year!

Sent from my iPhone

Jan Richner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jan Richner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly.

JAN TAMANINI — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: JAN TAMANINI Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Frequent reporting is essential to protecting investors. Historically, reporting once a year led to devastating results for investors by allowing cooked books and fraud to proliferate for many months rather than catching it early.

Keep the reporting quarterly! It's a very small administrative task for a great benefit to those who support these companies with their hard earned dollars.

jmt
—
Jan Matthew Tamanini
123 Leonard Lane
Harrisburg, PA 17111

Sent from my iPhone

Jan Vernon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jan Vernon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I don't support 6-month SEC reporting. It creates bigger workload spikes, less transparency, and more chaos — not less work.

Jana Adams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jana Adams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 From Jana and Mark Adams—Retired. Please continue quarterly reporting. We are retired and have a little money in IRAs. We need these quarterly reports to determine what's going on with OUR money in THEIR hands. Trump seems to be manipulating the market at times and we need more frequent information to know exactly what is happening with whom we are investing our money with. It's a matter of trust, which we don't have a lot of these days.

Sent from my iPhone

Jane — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jane Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Totally necessary for transparency, analysis and projections.

Retired non-profit board member and ED

Sent from my iPhone

Jane & Mark Mercurio None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jane & Mark Mercurio We are individual investors, who are very concerned with this proposed change. We are by no means rich; our only income is Social Security as retirees, so any investments we have, you must continue to let us know how our funds are doing on a quarterly basis. This is so important to us and our families. We must be able to keep an eye on our own investments in reasonable time periods; twice a year is NOT reasonable. Please keep us investors in the loop of our own retirement investments and keep our quarterly updates coming! Thank you for your time. ~Jane & Mark Mercurio Proud residents of Plymouth, Massachusetts, USA

Jane Adams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jane Adams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don’t put us back to where we were before 2008. We need that reporting.

Jane Adams

Confidentiality Notice: This e-mail transmission, and any documents, files or previous e-mail messages attached to it, may contain confidential information. If you are not the intended recipient or person responsible for delivering it to the intended recipient, or if you receive this transmission in error, please immediately notify me by reply e-mail and destroy the original transmission and its attachments without reading them or saving them to disk.

Jane Arnett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jane Arnett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The SEC must continue to protect America's Financial integrity by holding CEOs to the current standard.

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Jane Bauman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jane Bauman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: I am begging you to please not stop the quarterly reporting! Six month between reports. It will enable fraudsters and deviant behavior. It's an open invitation!! So PLEASE don't go there! Jane Bauman janiebau6@gmail.com

---

Jane Culley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jane Culley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please, please keep the quarterly reports!!
Thank you!

Jane D Weiss — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jane D Weiss Please reconsider leaving the corporate reporting at four times annually. Transparency is necessary for investing and making many decisions. Reducing it would mean more volatility in the market in uncertain times. Investors need the information in timely, accurate quarters. Thank you for your time

---

Jane Drake Brody — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jane Drake Brody Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is disgraceful and must be stopped

Sent from my iPhone

Jane Ekbatani — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jane Ekbatani Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the disclosures quarterly and keep investors more informed how the finances are going. More disclosure is important to spot trends and give more current information. Spot problems faster and keep the public informed!

Janeekbatani@comcast.net

---

jane engelman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: jane engelman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Attorney Engelman from San Diego CA here, Quarterly reporting is not burdensome. the number needed are presented and compiled anyway as part of the regular business. to require less Reporting will in many case lead to fraud and misappropriating which will be harder to find and remediate. the current system allows less waste to occur in overcite.

Jane Erkes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jane Erkes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Absolutely do not allow this to happen!!!!!!

Jane Fischer — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jane Fischer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 J Fischer RETIRED. Keep the reporting quarterly. It is important to protect all investments in light of a failing congress and social security!

Jane Grace — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jane Grace Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep them honest, keep the quarterly reporting, keep the accountability.
Jane Grace, retired.

Sent from my iPhone

Jane Hardy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jane Hardy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is important to ensure accurate reporting throughout the year. It is too easy to book “catch-up” adjustments right before year end that could get over looked with more typical year end adjustments (actuarial adjustments, for instance) that are only available at year end. This distortion could affect bond holders’ and shareholders’ impressions of how the corporation is actually performing. The potential for misstatement during the non reporting periods could also lead to false market appreciation, leading to even wider fluctuations in value that can hurt investors.

M Jane Hardy, CPA
VP Accounting, large pediatric healthcare system

Sent from my iPhone

Jane Hardy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jane Hardy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 When the President of the United States of America posts on social media, the ticker symbol for Tesla, McDonalds, SpaceX, Anthropic, and many other stocks change dramatically overnight I would like to see Monthly reporting even more than quarterly! Currently the electronic and social media is moving at the speed of light! Transparency is all to valuable in today's fast paced media stream to have antiquated reporting of our beloved markets! I say NO to anything less than quarterly. YES to Monthly reporting and stay if we have to on Quarterly reporting!!

Sent from Jane Hardy
574-527-7191
iPhone
Jhardy128@yahoo.com

Jane Hatter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jane Hatter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is enough cheating with quarterly reporting. Do not give them the room for more.

Get Outlook for Android

Jane Hiller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jane Hiller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Protect investors not insiders! W need quarterly reports.

Jane Kates — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jane Kates Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We remember the 1980's when a similar relaxing of safeguards produced disastrous corruption. Don't make the same mistake again, even though corporate money is like a bribe.

Sent from my iPhone

Jane Krogstad — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jane Krogstad Transparency is a necessity! Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. You're going to scare investors away if you go to semi-annual reporting.

Jane Kuhn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jane Kuhn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
WHY? This is very ANTI AMERICAN! So, you do not want to keep tract of what is occurring in a fast changing world! The computers do all the work so it cannot be a labor issue! I will remove every penny and stop using banks to do business if you proceed with this action! If 10 million of us do this, bye, bye banks. Maybe that should happen!

Jane Lane — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jane Lane Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What is this country coming to, when we have no rules for the rich?
KEEP IT QUARTERLY!

Jane Logan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jane Logan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Why does this commission get to decide whether they get to report when they want and not other corporations?

Jane Oberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jane Oberg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the Corporations reporting quarterly - and Corporations are only people for tax purposes - stop Citizens United thank you - Jane Oberg

Get Outlook for iOS

Jane Pennington — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jane Pennington Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep your quarterly reporting. Like you said, transparncy does matter.
Jane Pennington

---

jane porphir — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: jane porphir Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop this from happening- I'm retired and cannot tolerate continuing changes with this….plese don't do this!!!

Jane L Porphir jporphir@gmail.com

Jane Ramsey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jane Ramsey Keep the for public-company reporting requirement to QUARTLEY.

Jane schifferdecker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jane schifferdecker Do your job and keep Corporations honest!

Jane schifferdecker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jane schifferdecker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do your job and keep Corporations honest!

Jane Tranbarger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jane Tranbarger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would you not want current accurate information available?
It seems like this department is trying to either hide something or making profits personally.

If there have been too many positions cut to adequately perform tasks, then hire or bring back employees.
Please stop the lack of communication to the American people in a timely manor. This is unacceptable!

Jane Tremble — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jane Tremble Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To Whom it May Concern:

I wholeheartedly recommend that you continue to require all CEOs of all types of companies, including but not exclusive to those involving health organizations, eg Hospitals, Clinics, Urgent Care, Rehabilitation, Pharmacutical and Insurances . The Enron Scandal was a wake up call that put into place the quarterly reporting and to relax this safeguard is asking for trouble. Thank you for your common sense attention to this matter. To quote an old adage, foxes should not be guarding the henhouse.

Sincerely,
Jane L. Tremble
Former VP of W.L.Steeves INC
Retired Staff Radiologic Technologist CT MGH Brigham

Jane VanTilburgh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jane VanTilburgh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please don't do this! I'm too old to go back to work, and thanks to what my generation did, the workplace has changed anyway. We were "the bulge in the python", and we retired based on what we expected to receive. We saved for retirement. What will we do now if a big chunk of our retirement income disappears? Think of your parents' generation and promises made, and don't do this to us!

Jane Whitledge — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jane Whitledge Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change quarterly reports.

Sent from my iPhone

Jane Wong — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jane Wong At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. I strongly oppose this proposal.

Jane Wroblewski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jane Wroblewski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It makes me sick that I have to write comments so you do the right thing and keep protections in place so the American citizens are not put at a disadvantage when making financial decisions. As a teacher, I worked hard to put money away for my retirement. Now that I am retired, I have to worry that I will lose it all.

Janelle Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janelle Anderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Less transparency is less good. Keep the door open all year for investors. Everyone talks about being fair to the little guy, this should be NO DIFFERENT

Janelle LaRue — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Janelle LaRue Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Janelle LaRue, former RN
I worked hard for my money and have a good retirement.
What will happen to future generations. Aren't rich people happy with what they have? Can't companies be patriotic and help their fellow Americans?

Sent from my iPhone

Janelle Potter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Janelle Potter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Quarterly reports are absolutely necessary to ensure transparency and inform investors! They prevent market volatility. Whatever you think there may be to gain by not providing them isn't worth the price of the consequences.

Janelle Rickermann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Janelle Rickermann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting- more oversight is needed not less

Sent from my iPad

Janet A. Bayer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janet A. Bayer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 J. Bayer, teacher- It is crucial for companies to continue to report quarterly. Every investor has the right to continue to be informed quarterly to be able to manage their investments in a fair and timely fashion. Anything less is unacceptable and dangerous.

Sent from my iPhone

Janet Arias Self-Employed — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Janet Arias This is a bad idea. If this is about saving money, make updates digital, don't reduce the number. Twice a year updates is not often enough to know how a company is doing, especially in a fast-changing economic landscape. I oppose this rule change as a business owner and an investor.

Janet Crist — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janet Crist Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Janet crist
Private investor
I lost quite a bit during the last recession and still think it was caused by dishonesty. We're only human, and must be protected from our lesser selves. Quartly reporting ,I hope, equals transparency.

---

janet epstein — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: janet epstein Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Greetings,
Quarterly reporting matters to investors like me and my family so that we can retire with dignity. Billionaires and wealthy corporations hiding critical information only says one thing - we the people don’t matter, yet they cannot do without us. With our nation’s history of accounting scandals quarterly reporting is absolutely necessary. Please determine accordingly.
Janet Epstein, member of LLC

Sent from my iPhone

Janet Gring — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Janet Gring Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leave it alone. We need protection of our hard earned money. Janet Gring Retired RN residing in North Wales, Pa.

Janet Gustafson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janet Gustafson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is not negotiable. KEEP THE REPORTS QUARTERLY

Janet Hains — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janet Hains Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I prefer quarterly reporting. It helps to keep me in the loop of my investments. Also less likely to be issues of fraud.

Sent from my iPhone

Janet Harper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janet Harper Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting. My husband and I have various accounts and review and rely on the quarterly review to protect our retirement assets.

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Janet Kinahan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Janet Kinahan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Champion the "common man," NOT the uber-wealthy "privileged" few!

Janet Kissinger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Janet Kissinger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep the quarterly reporting!!!

Janet Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Janet Martin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please retain accountability practices for all of us.

Janet Mathis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Janet Mathis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I urge you to retain quarterly reporting. This is not onerous and a well run, well managed business would have these reports available easily. Do not lengthen the time between reporting. It would give corrupt players longer to hide their malfeasance

---

Janet Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janet Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Janet Miller
Investor/retired
Keep it Quarterly! Accountability is key!

Sent from my iPhone

Janet Palmer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janet Palmer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep financial report filings quarterly. Protect investors and employees of companies informed.
Janet Palmer
Richmond, VA

Sent from my iPhone

Janet Pancheri — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Janet Pancheri Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leave it alone. Learn from the past!

Janet Pevsner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Janet Pevsner As an investor in companies via money markets and IRAs, the thought of having less information less often is quite disturbing. Keep the four times a year notifications.

Janet Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Janet Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep businesses to quarterly reporting. This is crucial to know how business is proposing to make it every six months. I checked we should all be informed what the SEC rules are and what it is doing to our to our finances an economy I vote against this new proposal of every six months to report

---

Janet Sonduck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janet Sonduck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm appalled that the SEC would betray American citizens by rubber stamping what the crooks want. Vote NO

Sent from my iPhone

Janet Stiles - Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Janet Stiles - Motley Fool Community To cut the public company reports from four to two I feel is a big mistake. The fewer reports would not allow people to react to information nor allow people to know what is happening in a company. In today's world, it seems doubtful that it would cut costs.

Janet Thomas Hart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Janet Thomas Hart Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Janet Hart, President of Lenox FL real estate. Reporting quarterly matters to me because during our retirement years we depend on our Stock portfolio to produce income. We make decisions quarterly. We see the risk of changing to semi annual reporting . Please protect our stockholder rights as active participants in the stock market. Please don't increase our risk! thank you, .

Janet Thomas Hart
Lenox F&L Enterprises, LLC

404-520-1060
Janet@JTHartEnviro.com

Note: Our FAVORITE ❤ Charity: 😻🐶🐈🐕
A Welcome Home Animal Rescue
❤www.AWHAR.org
E:mail: AWHAR09@gmail.com

Janet Thompson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Janet Thompson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not change this quarterly reporting requirement! Keep it as is for the great people of our country!
This will blindfold everyday investors and cause a volatile market.
Thank you!

Janet Weisheyer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Janet Weisheyer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am very concerned about my retirement investments if the SEC allows limited reporting.
Transparency matters in a fair stock market! Please protect our investments!
Sincerely,
Janet Weisheyer

Janette Carrick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Janette Carrick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mine is not so much a comment, but a question. WHY? This move appears to be giving to the “1%” and taking from the remaining potential investors. I’m retired with a small amount of investments.

Janette Corbin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janette Corbin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would you let companies hide what they are doing so the investors can't see what's happening? Only those that are in the know can protect their investment. If you endorse this change, what does it say about you? I was an accountant for over 35 years and I think this goes against everything the SEC is suppose to stand for! Do your job and keep the quarterly reports coming!

Janette Ward — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Janette Ward Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 NO!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Jani Straley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jani Straley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The government should be supportive of transparency. I can't imagine a reason why this is even in question. Quarterly reporting is absolutely necessary for all investors.

Janice Ault — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Janice Ault Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Keep the quarterly reporting! A lot can go wrong with investments in 6 months! Too long to alert investors. Less transparency and that could lead to more fraud. It's the retail investors who will suffer the most without timely information. Leave things as they are! Keep quarterly reports for the safety of all Americans and investors. Thank you.

Janice Brewer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janice Brewer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I believe quarterly reporting is the least amout of time for the people in charge to review their company status. Janice Mullins, retired Licensed Professional Counselor.

Sent from my iPhone

Janice Carr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Janice Carr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
No do not allow this

Janice Crawford — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janice Crawford Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is Not a good idea. We never go backwards to when issues have occurred and were corrected. I do not support twice a year reporting.
Janice Crawford. Business owner.

Get Outlook for iOS

Janice DeFilipi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Janice DeFilipi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My husband and I rely on transparent and timely quarterly reporting to help assess the trajectory, stability, and scientific progress of companies in which we own stocks.

Janice Depp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Janice Depp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not allow,this to happen…we NEED quarterly reporting !

Sent from my iPad

Janice foca-gron — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janice foca-gron Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Janice Foca-Gron I need to know what is happening to my savings just as much as you need to know what is happening to yours. Please keep reporting as per usual!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Janice Hadaway — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Janice Hadaway Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do NOT hand more power to the already powerful at the expense of the average citizen! We are barely making its it is! Maintained quarterly reporting requirements!

Janice Jordan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Janice Jordan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please, do not end quarterly reporting. My life work and savings depend on reporting to keep savings safe.

Janice Meyer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Janice Meyer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Sounds to me that the rich want more opportunities to steal from their investors. DON'T DO IT!

Janice Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Janice Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don’t do it stay quarterly

Sent from my iPhone

Janice Nall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janice Nall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly. Do NOT let corporations hide their activities.

Janice Robinson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment on Quarterly From: Janice Robinson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a retail investor who relies on the transparency of quarterly reports to assess my personal investments. Reports at a quarterly frequency provides bearing and insight into a company; producing greater continuity of information at a pace that is beneficial for operating on a smaller more nuanced scale. Quarterly reports create a valuable connection.
Thank you
Janice B Robinson

Janice Rutter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janice Rutter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Irresponsible

---

Janice Saunders Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Janice Saunders Keep companies reporting at quarterly intervals.

Janie Glasson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janie Glasson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You're kidding! Is it broke? Has it been working? Has it just become a nuisance? Too effing bad. DO NOT REDUCE FROM QUARTERLY REPORTING!! What do you think has kept them HONEST? IF we allow them the opportunity to lie, cheat and steal; they will. Or someone on their team will. GUARANTEED. Has NO ONE learned anything the last 12-13 years?

Get Outlook for Android

Janie Moffatt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Janie Moffatt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly not every six months. Too many crooked greedy ppl to let them go unattended.

Janie Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Janie Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Investors deserve quarterly earnings reports.

Janie Smith
Sent from my iPhone

Janine A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Janine A Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely necessary !! Keep it.

Transparency is what it’s all about.

There is too much fraud and manipulation as it already is … we must protect the American citizens

Janine Aruanno

Janine M. Aruanno
(609) 369-6927

Janine Lauchner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Janine Lauchner Please keep filings to the current 4 times per year. Any less would compromise the transparency that investors deserve especially in this age of AI mis/disinformation that is so prevalent. Any business savings from less filings would be substantially offset by the losses investors had from the lack of timely accurate information from the companies they are invested in. 4 times per year should remain as it is. Thank you for your consideration.

Janis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Janis Less transparency does not do anything for my portfolio. I'm retired and need assurances that investments will be for the benefit of all investors and the general population. This appears to allow companies to never hold the owners accountable and therefore threaten my hard earned money.

Janis Digirolamo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Janis Digirolamo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am an ordinary person. I have some investments and have planned to keep my investments safe and growing.
What is the reason that the SEC planning to stop quarterly reporting. All investors must have the same access to financial information.
There is no reason to limit reporting to me and other investors.

Janis Miglavs The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Janis Miglavs Do not limit frequency of company reports. I've been investing a long time an rely on the reports submitted by companies. Please do not limit the number of time companies are required to report.

Janita L Fuller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Janita L Fuller Continue company reports to 4 times a year.

Jared Bakk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jared Bakk At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Less transparency doesn't benefit businesses owners/investors. It increases the opportunities for mistakes. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Under this proposal, owners/investors would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, that point is debatable. Decreasing the reporting requirements for businesses will undoubtedly create poorly informed investors/owners.

Jared Brandt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jared Brandt As a business person and an investor, transparency is critical in keeping up with changes that impact important decisions. Reducing the number of reporting requirements to 2 times a years will significantly reduce the information available to make informed decision on where and how to invest. Additionally, higher risk or volatility of a stock requires a higher level of comfort and understanding around business decisions. This can only be obtained through more frequent and detailed updates on business performance and key drivers. Please continue the current practice of quarterly reporting so that individual investors like myself can continue to make informed investment choices.

Jared Jensen The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jared Jensen I do not agree with this proposal. As a shareholder and owner of multiple companies, I value frequent updates. I want to ensure that my equity is being properly managed, and if there are signs of corporate misuse, I need to know as soon as possible to make informed investment decisions. The only perceived benefit of this proposal is a reduction in the costs required to produce quarterly data. However, in my opinion, companies will still need to retain the same level of compliance and accounting staff to produce reports on a semi-annual basis. Therefore, I do not see a significant cost savings. If a change must be made, I might be agreeable to tri-annual reporting (three times a year). This approach would only increase the information gap by one month per period rather than three, striking a better balance between corporate administrative burdens and investor transparency.

Jared Kirin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jared Kirin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I demand that quarterly earnings reports continue as is. Nobody wants more sneaky government or corporate intervention. Look how much fraud already happens at the government level because of the lack in transparency. Whoever supports this in government should be banned from being able to ever invest in stock market ever again and we should have clear access into your bank and finance records to make sure there's no kickbacks.

Jarod Banks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jarod Banks Reducing the required reporting for corporations doesn’t do anything except make shareholders (the owners) less-informed of what is happening

---

Jaroslav Radosa — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jaroslav Radosa A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. We think that’s a mistake!

Jarosław Dukat — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jarosław Dukat This is a move in bad direction. Owners deserve information! I demand transparency and fairness with the owners.

Jarred Hicks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jarred Hicks Please do not weaken the reporting rules and decrease the number of annual reports from 4 to 2. More regular reports are better than less. In essence, we become partial owners in companies when we buy their stock and regular reports help us make informed decisions.

Jason Baker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jason Baker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Help is needed.

Jason Bell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jason Bell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do all you can to stop this proposal. This will jeopardize millions of people and even more financially then socially. There are no benefits save only for a a few hundred vs the millions who will suffer.. stop this and save us all.

From
J. Bell

Jason Boone — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jason Boone To reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two is a mistake. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed.

Jason Branscum — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jason Branscum I am opposed to any lessening of reporting. As an investor, our companies owe us timely and accurate information so that we can make more informed decisions. Having less information is antithesis to good investing.

Jason Christian — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jason Christian Please continue making public companies report quarterly results. This allows greater transparency and trust with shareholders.

Jason Collins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jason Collins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jason, from Kentucky. We the people are held accountable, this should include all the people. Including rich ceo's.

Jason Dulberger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jason Dulberger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reports. They're a simple thing that helps prevent fraud.

Thanks, Jason.

Jason Garrison None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jason Garrison As a stock owner in public companies, I seek informed decision capacity and quarterly business updtes keep me apprised of my status in ownership, operations and success of particular businesses. Semi-annual information distribution does not conform to transparent risk assessment as a stockholder. Business costs in dissemination of this information are minimal in this electronic age and community and information availability and dispersal remains the responsibility of properly run business operators.

Jason Hail — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jason Hail Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If Warren Buffet supports quarterly reporting, then so do I. It seems ridiculous to me to make the markets less transparent to investors in these highly dynamic days, especially when companies have so many tools at their disposal to make it easier to produce this data. It also helps avoid companies hiding things on the books by giving them longer periods in which they can delay the bad news, which is crucial for users to make intelligent decisions in their investments. Finally, take a look at the results in other countries with less stringent filing requirements - that's enough to worry anyone with a sizable stake in the market today. - Jason Hail, Raleigh, NC.

Jason Howard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jason Howard Reducing public company reports makes investing much riskier and makes it difficult to truly know how your investment is doing. Accurate, timely reports are needed to manage investments properly. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners/investors.

Jason Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jason Jones Keep company quarterly reports. Keep it honest.

Jason Knight — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jason Knight Investors are business owners and we deserve updates on how our companies are doing more than twice a year. Less information does NOT create better-informed owners. Who, in their right mind, would think that less transparency is better?

Jason McLean — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jason McLean Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We can’t even trust wall street with children. Why would we trust them with half the reporting? This is ridiculous, will increase fraud and limit recovered revenue.

Sent from my iPhone

Jason Osborne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jason Osborne The proposed change to reduce corporate transparency would dramatically harm retail investors by enabling companies to effectively hide poor performance while continuing to attract investments.

Jason Robinson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jason Robinson This proposal if passed would be a huge mistake—weakening trust and transparency—shielding owners from information they are entitled to.

Jason Thompson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jason Thompson To Whom It May Concern: I am writing as an individual investor to express my strong opposition to the proposal that would allow public companies to reduce their financial reporting frequency from quarterly to semiannually. Investing, at its core, is a form of business ownership. As a shareholder, I rely on regular, transparent, and timely communication from the management teams running the companies I own. Reducing official updates to just twice a year significantly weakens the vital link between a company and its retail owners. Companies do not stop operating, winning or losing customers, or shifting strategies between halves of a year. Cutting official updates in half does not eliminate market uncertainty; it actively increases it. When financial disclosures are delayed by six months, the resulting surprises are likely to be much larger, leading to sharper market reactions and heightened stock volatility. This environment disadvantages individual investors who do not have access to alternative, institutional data streams. A reduction in reporting frequency reduces transparency, increases investor risk, and harms the democratization of our capital markets. Individual investors thrive when there is a level playing field built on frequent, high-quality public disclosures. Thank you for your time, consideration, and dedication to protecting individual investors. Respectfully submitted, Jason Thompson

---

Jason van Doren — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jason van Doren Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No other business except corporations and Wall Street as a practice seeks to arbitrage the criminal consequences of their actions.

Requiring CEOs who are paid multiples of compensation higher than when these rules were set argues for increasing not decreasing the penalties for unethical and illegal activities. Do not lower the penalties or relax the quarterly requirements that CEOs currently must conform to about their own company activities and financials.

Jason van Doren

---

jatinder gill retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: jatinder gill the reporting should be every quarter and there should be no change

---

Javier Deida — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Javier Deida Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Strongly oppose this. We need more transparency than ever. Javier Deida Commercial Leader
Email jfdeida@gmail.com

Sent from my iPhone

Javier Flores The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Javier Flores It's simple. In an age of increasing fraud opportunities, we need more transparency, not less. As a shareholder in many companies, I want to know how the companies I have an ownership interest in are doing on a regular basis. I want to make sure the company leadership teams are performing in the best interest of the company and community at large and not for their own personal benefits. Accountability now. Accountability quarterly.

Javier Larrain NA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Javier Larrain Do not change from 4 to 2 quarterly reports.

Javier Visedo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Javier Visedo Having less information is not beneficial to investors. I'd rather know what a company is doing on a quarterly basis.

Jawad Akhtar The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jawad Akhtar To the Securities and Exchange Commission, I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Commission's proposal to allow public companies to transition from quarterly reporting on Form 10-Q to semiannual reporting on the proposed Form 10-S. While the Commission frames this as a measure to reduce "managerial distraction" and compliance costs, the proposal fundamentally undermines the transparency necessary for individual investors to make informed decisions. My dissent is based on the following concerns: Heightened Information Asymmetry: By reducing the frequency of mandatory disclosures, the SEC is effectively lengthening the period during which corporate insiders possess material, nonpublic information while the investing public remains in the dark. This creates an inherent disadvantage for retail investors who rely on timely financial data to assess their holdings. Increased Insider Trading Risks: The proposal acknowledges that less frequent reporting may extend the window for potential insider trading. In an environment with only two mandatory disclosures per year, the "information gap" grows, providing a larger window for insiders to act on material developments that remain undisclosed to the broader market. Loss of Granularity and Comparability: Quarterly reports are essential for analyzing quarter-over-quarter trends and seasonal performance. A shift to semiannual reporting will degrade the quality of financial analysis for individual investors and likely result in a reduction of analyst coverage, further obscuring the true performance of public companies. Market-Driven Transparency Is Not a Substitute: While the SEC suggests companies might voluntarily continue quarterly updates, relying on voluntary disclosure is a dangerous precedent. It allows companies to selectively manage their disclosure cadence, potentially favoring institutional investors who have direct access to management, while leaving individual investors to navigate an increasingly opaque landscape. The primary objective of the SEC is to protect investors and maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets. This proposal prioritizes the administrative convenience of corporations over the transparency rights of the individual investor. I urge the Commission to reject the adoption of Form 10-S and maintain the current quarterly reporting framework to ensure a level playing field for all market participants. Sincerely, An individual investor

---

Jay Alison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jay Alison Transparency is essential for good decision-making. Keep the quarterly reporting.

Jay Bean — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jay Bean I am in favor of corporate reporting remaining quarterly. Transparency is important in my investing decisions.

Jay Bryant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jay Bryant Cutting reporting to six months makes it harder for me, as an investor, to make informed decisions. It means that, when a company's management goofs or commits fraud, the investors get punished longer before they can get clear of a bad investment. That rewards companies for being incompetent or outright criminal, and that should never be the goal. Please do not go to semiannual reporting. Also, why do you need my phone number? I prefer all contact other than a few close friends to come by email. Why do you not honor my preferences?

Jay Call — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jay Call Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 William Call, software QA.

I remember Enron. And Worldcom. Every quarter, without fail.

Jay Canteenwala — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jay Canteenwala Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly reporting! We need timely data to gauge the financial health of companies

Jay Canteenwala
Investor

Jay Haynes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jay Haynes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I don't respect the privacy of exploitative institutions. Wallstreet and the sociopaths that manipulate it deserve endless scrutiny so long as it exists in this world. If it were up to me, the ceos of major profiting corporations couldn't sneeze without documentation

---

Jay Hergot — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jay Hergot Do NOT change the reporting timing, leave it the way it is.

Jay Jenkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jay Jenkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 PLEASE: Do not allow this proposal to go into law. Voters demand MORE accountability, not less.

Sent from my iPad

Jay Margolis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jay Margolis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To eliminate quarterly reports from corporations eliminates valuable information needed by the public in order to weigh investment decisions. Our investments are our strategy towards building our savings for the quality of life we desire. But we live in an environment of corporate greed and corruption and that is why we need and demand all the information we can get in order to make safe investment decisions.
Once upon a time I was a business reporter for a newspaper. One of the corporations I covered, a bank, was particularly scandalous in its conduct, making decisions to increase their bonuses that cheated business customers and investors. Its conduct was so outrageous, damaging its reputation, that it changed its name to one of the companies it acquired.
Eliminating quarterly reports allows corporations to hide their poor business decisions and behavior. It is imperative you continue to require quarterly reporting.

Jay Margolis
Delray Beach, Florida

Jay Margolis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jay Margolis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To eliminate quarterly reports from corporations eliminates valuable information needed by the public in order to weigh investment decisions. Our investments are our strategy towards building our savings for the quality of life we desire. But we live in an environment of corporate greed and corruption and that is why we need and demand all the information we can get in order to make safe investment decisions.
Once upon a time I was a newspaper reporter covering local businesses, including banks. I got to report on one bank's unethical conduct, cheating its business customers to fulfill the goal of a merger. The conduct was demanded by the corporation seeking to purchase the bank. There were a few local investors who played the elevator of stock prices, purchasing at $10 or $11, selling at $14 or $15, waiting for the price to return to repeat their transactions. But they were privy to inside information. The regular public did not have the same access. Ultimately the merger went through and the purchaser changed its name to one of the other banks it had acquired, its reputation having become so toxic.
Eliminating quarterly reports allows corporations to hide their poor business decisions and behavior. It is imperative you continue to require quarterly reporting.

Jay Margolis
Delray Beach, FL

Jay Mershon The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jay Mershon At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Right?

Jay Rogers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jay Rogers In my experience, less transparency has been a recipe for potential fraud, misdeeds, and hiding things from investors. Enron is deeply embedded in many older investors' minds. Having companies "police themselves" hasn't turned out well for anyone other than a select few at the top while leaving taxpayers and others to clean up the mess when things go wrong. Investors deserve to have as much information as possible to make informed decisions, and businesses should have incentives to operate with integrity, honesty, and most importantly, stability. Transparency is the best remedy for this - I do not support changing the reporting to twice a year. Please keep it at a quarterly frequency.

---

jay smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: jay smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential to small investors. More transparency not less.

Jay Varon The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jay Varon I am retired and a long time investor. I don't like the idea of bi-annual disclosures. Most individual investors have hundreds of thousands of dollars if not several million in the market. While I cannot necessarily individually analyze all the information that is disclosed, professional investors can and do and make the market more efficient with their knowledge. The notion that quarterly reporting incents businesses and investors to focus on short term gains rather than long term gains is nonsensical. Focusing on short term results is a function of how businesses and people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't change this focus. It just makes everyone less informed. Thanks for asking and listening.

Jaye Carr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jaye Carr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Janice Carr

Allowing companies to hide the books is not okay. Keep it at quartly

---

Jayne Meyers — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jayne Meyers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Save Quarterly Reporting

Sent from my iPad

Jayson Lambert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jayson Lambert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think to keep businesses honest, quarterly reports should continue.

Get Outlook for iOS

JB Leach — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JB Leach At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

---

jba1952x — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jba1952x Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely not with our current Executive, Judicial and Legislative Branches in the pockets of big business and billionaires we can’t afford to see companies tanking or going out of business.

Sent from my iPhone

JC — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JC I am against semiannual reports, we should receive regular company updates and progress reports.

JD Mack BS Chemical Engineering — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JD Mack It is a mistake to change from quarterly reporting of public companies. The accountability and accuracy of public reporting will suffer. Small investors will have fewer tools to evaluate corporate performance, and more public enterprises will be able to scam the public. DON'T CHANGE QUARTERLY REPORTING to semi annual intervals.

JD Whitmire — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: JD Whitmire Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 A look back at the history of financial reporting you will find more fraud ocurring with less frequent financial reporting result. For investors quarterly reporting provides investor with more current information on now now companies are doin alliwing them to make better investment decisions.

Jean Ballew — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jean Ballew Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 From Jean Ballew Teacher. Social Worker. Writer.

Moving reports to 6 months is a terrible idea. It affects the entire economy. Those of us living on a retirement income need ALL of our funds. Accountability and transparency are important for economic health. Don’t let corporations and investments hide what’s really going on. Be aggressive in doing what’s right. You know what’s right. Do it. America is aware and watching.

Sent from my iPhone

Jean Barbera — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jean Barbera Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I have the right as an investor to know if company is doing good or if a business is struggling. Not informing us the investors every quarter will cause distrust in market. If this decision is made I believe investors will divest and will cause a crash in the market

---

Jean Beisenstein — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jean Beisenstein Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It's been quarterly forever and the only possible reason to change it would be to make it easier to hide irregularities. Things have grown so dishonest in the last year, let's clean up some of this. Retired folks relying on S.S ang great pension plan from a union .
Jean & Neil Beisenstein

Jean Binder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jean Binder Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Retirees need to keep a finger on the pulse of their investments. Quarterly reports are essential.

Jean Bommarito — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jean Bommarito Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the

Securities and Exchange Commission:
All financial plans, programs, and documents are evaluated at least quarterly! The market moves so quickly that to reduce the reporting is irresponsible and inevitably will be to the detriment of all.

Jean Burton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jean Burton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jean Burton Retired FRAUD! It is important to have complete accountability and this is done by giving the quarterly reports. The longer time in between reports the greater likelihood of fraud.

Sent from my iPhone

---

jean carson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jean carson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 More frequent reporting is imperative! With the insider trading that has ramped up in the last decade, this cannot be negotiable. Quarterly reporting stays!

Jean Clough — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Keep Quarterly Reporting Reporting From: Jean Clough Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello SEC,
Enron and the subsequent financial failures, foreclosures, job losses were not enough of a warning? Really???

Please keep Quarterly reporting going for the fine CEOs, CFOs and the BODs in charge of our wonderful corporations.

Thank you.
Jean Clough, Retired
American citizen and tax payer
Charlton, MA

Jean Cooper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jean Cooper Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please NO! The “deck” is already stacked against hard working people. Please.

Jean Doyle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jean Doyle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep corporate reporting quarterly!!!!

Get Outlook for iOS

Jean Huyser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jean Huyser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an individual investor, I RELY on quarterly reports, along with my broker, to make decisions regarding my portfolio. If these reports are reduced to a semi annual status, I will withdraw from our stock market and look at only overseas investments. Opacity with my money will NEVER happen.

Sent from my iPhone

Jean Konrady — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jean Konrady I ask that you respectfully consider NOT allowing companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that's a mistake! At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. Thank you, Jean Konrady

---

Jean Maier Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jean Maier Hello, I am deeply concerned about the switch to semi-annual reports rather than quarterly. In today's fast pace global economy, a lot can happen in a short period of time. We all need that timely information to make good investment and business decisions...and so do companies. You put investors at risk with inadequate information. Lack of transparency does not eliminate uncertainty....it only increases it. For the good of the US economy, I urge you to maintain quarterly reporting. Thank you for considering my concerns.

Jean Marks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jean Marks Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not stop quarterly reports being retired I need information to keep me aware of what is going on so I can keep my retirement money to stay in my home
Sincerely,
Jean Marks

Jean Reynolds — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jean Reynolds I'm a retired medical technologist. I worked hard during my working years to make sure I would have money to live on in my retirement. Because I don’t think it is wise to store my money under my mattress where I can keep an eye on it, I relie on other people to watch it and care for it for me. Unfortunately, as we have seen in the past, the caretakers of our money are not always honest and sometimes become greedy when taking care of our money. One of the safeguards to make sure they are handling our money honestly is by the required quarterly reports where we can see where the money is and what is happening with it. Do not remove this required safeguard. It’s insurance for each of us that our money will be there when we need it.

Jean Scherfcunningham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jean Scherfcunningham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Companies need to report quarterly. In 6 months they can hide bad news

Jean Scherfcunningham

Jean Sims Fornango — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jean Sims Fornango Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential for portfolio management. I check the progress of my stocks regularly. My portfolio provides close to 50% of my retirement income. Lack of current info would threaten my ability to keep up with inflation.

Jean Sorrells semi-retired person — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jean Sorrells This is fundamentally wrong. There is no transparency if reporting is not quarterly.

Jean Spera — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jean Spera Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I have a right to know what is happening with my money at the very least on a quarterly basis.

Sent from my iPhone

Jean Welsh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jean Welsh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Keep CEO's feet to the fire. Don't let the rich get richer while the poor get poorer.

Jeana Pena — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jeana Pena Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 keep quarterly reporting

---

JEANA SCIARAPPA SCHOTT Ceo schott law group — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JEANA SCIARAPPA SCHOTT I would vote to keep the transparency of 4 times per year reporting. 2 is misleading the stockowners by not keeping them appraised of the overall company performance as well as future plans

---

jeana swaim — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: jeana swaim Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 That is stupid it gives tgem months to steal. No make it quarterly.

Jeanette Corlett none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeanette Corlett We need more transparency for investors, not less. Quarterly financial reports is not a burden on companies. Management is surely looking at the information more often than quarterly. Posting quarterly allows investors somewhat current information to base decisions on. Less publicly available information only makes insider trading a more real possibility for anyone who has more current facts to evaluate.

---

jeanette kobel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: jeanette kobel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leave it quarterly!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Jeanette Moore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeanette Moore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jeanette Moore, LCSW
Retired CEO of a nonprofit behavioral health CCBHC

This matters because there needs to be accountability. Don’t let another Enron happen

We learned a hard lesson after hundreds lost their retirement savings. We put restrictions in place to prevent anything like Enron to ever happen again. And now you want to remove that which is working? It makes no sense and I’m asking you to not do this.

Get Outlook for iOS

Jeanette Perlsweig — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Keep required quarterly reporting From: Jeanette Perlsweig Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jeanette Perlsweig, PhD, retired. As a retired person, I'm largely dependent on my savings, much of which is invested in public stocks. I should retain my rights to transparently see what's happening at those companies every 3 months and no less often.

Jeanette Williams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeanette Williams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 From: Jeanette Williams
Commercial/Residential Broker

Please keep the three month reporting period. A personal investor does not have time to recover or move investment with six month reporting.

Thank you. JW

Sent from my iPhone

---

jeanettesue — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: jeanettesue Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 NO, NO, NO!! Do not change the current reporting!

Sent from my Galaxy

Jeanie Phillips — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeanie Phillips Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 They already are successful ‘cooking the books ‘ with quietly filings and now they want 6 months??? What’s next? Because they will keep pushing the limits.

Sent from my iPhone

Jeanine Bean — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeanine Bean Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not making changes. Citizens need transparency! You work for us!

Sent from my iPhone

Jeanine Bellendir — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeanine Bellendir Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jeanine Bellendir Business owner

Keep all business income reporting on a quarterly basis keeps everyone honest

Jeanine Bellendir
ACG Business Solutions
NV Office: 775-657-5883
Toll-Free: 877-264-5905

Toll-Free Fax: 877-242-9003

Notice: This communication, including attachments, may contain information that is confidential and protected by the architect/client or other privileges. It constitutes non-public information intended to be conveyed only to the designated recipient(s). If the reader or recipient of this communication is not the intended recipient, or you believe that you have received this communication in error, please notify the sender immediately by return e-mail and promptly delete this e-mail, including attachments without reading or saving them in any manner. The unauthorized use, dissemination, distribution, or reproduction of this e-mail, including attachments is prohibited and may be unlawful. Receipt by anyone other than the intended recipient(s) is not a waiver of any architect/client or other privileges.

Jeanine Fortney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeanine Fortney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No way. It makes the rich richer. There’s a reason it was moved to quarterly. --

Jeanine

Jeanine Gubash — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeanine Gubash Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting so we who depend on our investments to live can see what's going on and be prepared for any big changes. Jeanine Gubash-Swedeen, Senior Information Assistant, Retired.

Jeanine Michna-Bales The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeanine Michna-Bales I have been following this possibility. And I am very concerned that it might become a reality. Companies MUST remain as transparent as possible. Three months is quite a bit of time to be in the dark, but six months would allow for too many things to happen behind closed doors. Transparency is part of a system of checks and balances and companies should be held accountable for their actions as they move forward – not after the fact.

Jeanine Nemitz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeanine Nemitz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Changing reporting requirements at this precarious time in our economy is reckless. I strongly oppose the changes being proposed.

Jeanine Nemitz
515.570.4277
Jeanine856@outlook.com

Jeanine Roembach-Clark — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeanine Roembach-Clark Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I understand what was happening before quarterly reporting was required. It is imperative we keep this rule to help insure we can make appropriate decisions regarding our personal investments. I want to maintain my ability to support myself in retirement. Jeanine Roembach-Clark, MD

Sent from my iPhone

Jeanne A. Robeson Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeanne A. Robeson Pleade...Quarterly report ro continue

---

Jeanne Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeanne Anderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I worked for a small mutual fund company that used the quarterly reports is part of their research. The information on earnings.PE, unusual expenses, revenues, and dividends was used in their database to search out smaller but potential companies. The quarterly reports were essential do the selections of the stocks they would buy for their portfolio. I'm certain certain other portfolios use the information too. Quarterly reports are a must for the individual investor. Please require all listed companies to issue quarterly reports.

Jeanne Chandler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeanne Chandler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Changing it now would affect the entire country. We need at least quarterly reporting to catch any financial problems before they blow up. Do not change it

Sent from my iPad

Jeanne Johann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jeanne Johann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not make the financial crisis worse than it is.
We urge you not to change the existing quarterly reporting laws. Investments, transactions, profits and loss,
Must be transparent for all to see. Large and small corporations all need to reveal they're financial records for all to see.

Please DO NOT change the existing laws.

Jeanne Urban — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jeanne Urban Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 the Securities and Exchange Commission: please keep the quarterly details in place

---

Jeannie Strausburg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeannie Strausburg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I lived through Enron and watched people lose most, if not all of their retirement. I stopped investing in stocks until after the quarterly reporting started. Once we had quarterly reporting, I felt things change. While not a "fail safe", the more companies are scrutinized the less temptation for cheating. It's been 25 years since we had the losses that Enron, Madoff and WorldCom heaped on us. Obviously, quarterly reporting is effective in reducing the temptations that happened in the early 2000's. I'm not surprised corporations are anxious to reduce reporting, as skipping public filings reduces legal and accounting fees and means more money for the company and its executives. As an investor, I'm not a fan. If it ain't broke, don't fix it.
Jeannie Strausburg, retired Director, St. Joseph's Treatment Center.

Jeannine Wells — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeannine Wells Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is what we want.

Jeannine Wells

Sent from my iPhone

Jeanny Halonen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeanny Halonen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jeanny Halonen, medical billing supervisor. All companies should be required to submit quarterly reporting.

Jed Hansen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jed Hansen Quarterly reporting, at a minimum, is necessary for consistent oversight of company performance for investors. Reporting frequency should not be reduced for any reason.

Jeff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeff Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 More accountability! NOT LESS!!!

Jeff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeff Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an engineer responsible for the data analytics of a large DoD contractor, I understand that timeliness of data acquisition is key in acting appropriately in the interest of the company and individuals vested in its success. The proposed move would be incredibly harmful to investor confidence and company trustworthiness. Please keep reporting requirements quarterly at a minimum.

Jeff Churchey

Jeff Aldrich — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeff Aldrich Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Jeff Beaman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Beaman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do Not eliminate quarterly reporting. I am a retiree and investor who believed quarterly reporting is critical to retaining trust in the integrity of the stock market. Goint to semi-annual reporting is a glaring effort to tilt the tables against the investor and toward the management of publicly traded companies.

Jeff Brandt (small time private investor) — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Brandt (small time private investor) Greetings SEC staff. I'm writing to ask the SEC to require publicly traded companies to continue to provide four (4) quarterly reports a year. Reducing the overall number of reports to two (2) per year won't stop the obsession with quarterly earnings and will only serve to deprive small time investors (like myself) of a free and easy way to assess our current and potential investments. Yes, quarterly reports are costly and take effort--and the market has never done better. The small private investor (even/especially those in the Motley Fool and other investing communities) need to be able to assess data as often as possible, and halving the reporting deprives us of timely data that will impact our investments. Under the current proposal semi annual reporting proposal, stock holders/owners would receive 50% of the annual reporting they currently receive, and with the dawn of AI and the digital age--we can't afford to wait for data. In investing, the difference between data provided every four (4) months and every six (6) month will be a detriment to investors. No other process, I'm aware of (or want to invest in) would willingly avoid a rigorous quarterly self-assessment in favor of a semi-annual process--reducing the need to accurately and timely disclose will not serve the companies of their investors.

Timely disclosure is required to maintain trust in companies and the market process. As investors, we need timely transparency and timely data, not a reason to delay disclosure. Taking away 50% of our current reporting increases uncertainty and increases the feeling of mistrust "in the process". Please keep the four (4) quarterly reports--it is a common and useful metric. Reducing reporting will serve the fear mongers and degrade trust and the process. I believe in, and am invested in the market--my limited success to date has been partly due to timely reporting. As a nation, we can't afford for the public to lose faith in the process or the market--reducing the quarterly reporting metric will degrade trust in the process. The future will bring both opportunity and volatility--please allow us to access data quarterly to better inform our investment decisions. I urge the SEC to maintain the current quarterly reporting metric. thank you, Jeff

---

Jeff Briscoe Retiree — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Briscoe Quarterly reporting is sufficient. Semiannually will magnify results either positively or negatively which will create greater volitility. Surprises are the markets greatest enemy.

Jeff Collins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeff Collins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is very important to retain quarterly reporting for public companies. This requirement is working well to educate investors on company performance and outlook.

Jeff Collins
Board Chair Retired
LJA Engineering, Inc.

Jeff Cowan Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Cowan Regarding SEC rule change for corporate reporting to semi- annually. This Horrible change on behalf of the American stock holder and public share participant disconnects the flow of information and allows greater loss of accountability of corporate decisions. Pleas retain quarterly reporting for publicly sold stock holders.

Jeff Cronkhite Director, MinOMex — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Cronkhite This is just another terrible idea, that only accomplishes a few things. Reduces oversight by the investors and the market, reduces transparency, allows for more corporate corruption and further erodes our whole society by taking yet more power from citizens and transferring it to corporations. DO NOT ALLOW THE SEMIANNUAL REPORTING RULE.

Jeff Cummings — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Cummings Please keep reporting as is, 4 times a year, for transparency. We as stock owners deserve to know the truth!

Jeff Davis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeff Davis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As someone of retirement age who is still working, trying to put enough away to eventually be at ease I bitterly oppose efforts to “loosen up” reins on the games the Epstein elite play to put more in their pockets at the expense of those who work for a living. KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING! It won’t keep them honest but it’ll help keep them accountable…

Sent from my iPhone

JEFF DEAN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JEFF DEAN Investors deserve to have regular reporting from businesses whose stock they own.

Jeff Dotson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Dotson In this age of corporate acquisition and obfuscation, accurate and timely information is crucial to all parties involved. Reducing the reporting requirements woild be a terrible change.

---

jeff duryea — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jeff duryea Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Very poor decision

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Jeff Greve retirement advisor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Greve less is not more. less information results in investor risk. investing requires timely accurate information. any large business, over 10 million dollars, already generates the information. if unable to prove quarterly reports then they are a risk to investors. quarterly data is available internal so making it public is a minimal expense. please do not change the report interval. the market needs less risk not mor

---

Jeff Joslyn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeff Joslyn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think we did enough for big banks and Wall Street in 2008. Jeffrey Joslyn, Private investor, Retired.

Jeff Kahn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Kahn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop white collar crime!

Jeff Kahn
Artist, Designer, Educator, Earthling

Jeff Kammes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeff Kammes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely Keep The quarterly reports

Sent from my iPhone

Jeff Lerch The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Lerch I think reducing the reporting requirements to 2x annually is a mistake. Quarterly reporting must stand. Less information is not a good thing for anyone. Corporate transparency is a critical backbone to the investing community.

Jeff Lester Retired Police Captain — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Lester Please do not reduce the reporting from quarterly to semi-annual. I monitor my stock investments and need that information for timely decisions.

Jeff Lynch None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Lynch Do not pass this. If anything just make simple stat page.

Jeff McNiece — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff McNiece This is ridiculous - companies should continue reporting in quarters. How about if your kids only got a report card at the end of the year? Reporting financials is NOT rocket science. The numbers are pretty much available at any time within the financial software any company uses. Unless of course, the company wants to play games. What employee doesn’t want constant feedback - 2 times a year is not constant and aren’t investors essentially employees - we can stay or leave at our decision but we need info to make that determination.

Jeff Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Miller please keep the 4 required updates

---

JEFF PACK — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: JEFF PACK Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an investor, I rely upon timely and accurate reporting
6 months is way way way too long

Jeff Perley The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Perley Stock owners needs transparency. Please do not reduce the number of required reports. They help me keep corporations accountable. Thanks! Jeff Perley

---

Jeff R Mancino — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff R Mancino I believe reducing reporting requirements to twice annually is a huge mistake, especially for individual investors. It's difficult enough competing with Wall Street's big firms and hedge funds. Limiting reporting requirements to just 2x per year merely makes investing that much harder with such limited information, even for the most astute and diligent small investors. Wall Street is a crapshoot as it is. Please do not give public companies the ability to further mislead investors. They already manipulate their data/EPS as it is. Too much happens even within a quarter's time. Also, while you area it, please eliminate the ability of our elected officials in Congress from manipulating the market by investing in stocks where they have inside information. This has been a travesty.

Jeff Rains The Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Rains Comments attached: Reporting only twice a year is not good business. 4 time's a year is better because we know what's going on for better or for worse and can make better decisions sooner than later if need be. Thanks!!

Jeff Seitz The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Seitz Do not approve this change to semi-annual reporting. Companies need to keep investors informed. Quarterly reporting is an important tool.

Jeff Stearns — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeff Stearns Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting needs to continue. Corruption is rampant in our country now. If these companies and corporations have nothing to hide quarterly reporting should not be a problem.

Jeff

Jeff Strong — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Strong Hello, I'm writing to comment on S-7-2026-15 and semiannual reporting. I think it is a bad idea. At its heart, investing is ownership. When I own a piece of a business, I deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. As an owner, I would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses I own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. Please reject the proposal and leave the reporting at the quarterly rate. Thank you, Jeff Strong

---

Jeff Thompson none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Thompson Please do not discontinue quarterly reporting. I don't have a lot of time to research and investigate the companies I invest in. Quarterly reports provide snap shots that keep me informed. Thank you.

Jeff Walker Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeff Walker Please keep the earnings reports every quarter, twice a year is not enough for us investors to keep track of the progress of the companies that we own stock in.

Jeffery A. Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffery A. Smith I disagree with this change and echo the idea of the Motley Fool Community "At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners."

Jeffery Fears — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeffery Fears Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it the way it is !

Jeffrey Anderson The Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Anderson I would much prefer corporations continue quarterly reports. Thank you.

Jeffrey Baez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Baez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
We need quarterly reporting to ensure transparency by publicly held corporations. The people cannot make the best possible decisions without accurate and timely information. Timely information helps us keep Executive leaders accountable. Please do not scale back quarterly reporting requirements.

Thank you,
- Jeffrey

Jeffrey Beal — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Beal I'm opposed to changing of the rule to make companies only report twice a year versus the current four times a year. Investors must stay informed of companies progresses on a quarterly basis. This would leave the investor lesson formed, have higher risk, and potentially give companies more latitude to take risks with investor dollars. With the current economy, higher prices, increased inflation, It would be irresponsible for companys to report only twice a year to their investors, providing greater risk, and reducing responsibilities and duties to their investors.

Jeffrey Beaman None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Beaman Strongly and vehemently urge rejection of proposed change from quarterly reporting to semiannual reporting. Less transparency particularly hurts retail investors due to our lack of sufficient knowledge and resources that will be required to compensate for loss of financial information under the semi annual reporting proposal.

Jeffrey Beshears — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeffrey Beshears Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Retail investors deserve to be apprised quarterly of CEO board policies which may fluctuate or engender changes to our investing due to their decision making and are cogent for providing clear, copious, and concise details of the ethics employed and style of management which are paramount for securing our retirement portfolios and bolstering our financial security. Thank you for keeping quarterly earnings reports for all companies in our wonderful nation listed on our NYSE. Jeffrey Beshears, Small business owner

---

Jeffrey Carr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Carr I agree with the Motley Fool Community and other sources in the investing arena; we need to keep the required public company reports coming to investors at least four times a year. Thank you for listening.

Jeffrey Chubb — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeffrey Chubb Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As someone whose income and thus welfare depends on my investments, I consider the move away from quarterly reporting a direct attack on my ability to protect myself and my family. Especially given the current environment, in which insider trading and crony capitalism are increasingly distorting the market place, this suggestion reeks of serving the wrongdoers not legitimate investors and businesses. It has all the signs of corruption, a giveaway to those who have much to hide.

Sent from my iPhone

Jeffrey D Brown Brown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey D Brown Brown Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: wide open the door two more fraud? We're talking about financial accountability and stability don't change the quarterly reviews!

Jeffrey Dick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeffrey Dick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting mandatory for publically tradeded companies. Changing to twice a year will disadvantage retail traders like me and further advantage those with inside information. The variations in cyclical businesses will no longer be available. It will be easier for companies to hide fraud. Making it optional does not solve the problem, all companies will shift to the easier, less expensive option. Thank you for your consideration.

Jeffrey C. Dick, MD
Sent from my iPhone

Jeffrey Dick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeffrey Dick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting mandatory for publically tradeded companies. Changing to twice a year will disadvantage retail traders like me and further advantage those with inside information. The variations in cyclical businesses will no longer be available. It will be easier for companies to hide fraud. Making it optional does not solve the problem, all companies will shift to the easier, less expensive option. Thank you for your consideration. Jeffrey Dick, MD

Jeffrey C. Dick, MD
Sent from my iPhone

Jeffrey Eisenberg Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Eisenberg Less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Please don't change reporting requirements.

Jeffrey Ellebrecht President, Max-Air Technology, Inc. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Ellebrecht This proposal is not fair to the individual investor. Transparency is required to allow competition to thrive, and this delay of reporting favors those in power, which is not helpful for the greater good. This proposal needs to be rejected.

Jeffrey Fendick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Fendick The quarterly reports significantly help me stay informed so I can make sound investment decisions. I do not support reducing the reporting timeline.

Jeffrey Francois — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeffrey Francois Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Jeffrey Green — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeffrey Green Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It's already extremely difficult to get honest information. Letting corporate America hide what they're doing, concentrates wealth for insiders. In the United States of America 70% of all stock purchases used to be individual investors, it’s less than 30% now. Billionaires can acquire any business in trouble because they have all the capital. We are losing our ability to discern truth from fiction in almost every area of life in the United States of America due to monopoly power.

Get Outlook for iOS

Jeffrey Harrison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeffrey Harrison Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly report is essential and it's continuing four month reports must remain in effect.

Jeffrey Holder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Holder As a long time investor of my own retirement funds in an IRA, I offer the following comment on the proposed change in the reporting requirements for publicly traded companies. I am in favor of changing the required reporting frequency from quaterly to semi-annually. In my opinion, quarterly reporting drives quarterly thinking over strategic (long-term) thinking. There is nothing stopping companies from providing interim reports to shareholders between formal reports required by the SEC. This may allow companies to better inform their shareholders. Of course, shareholders may impose quarterly reports if the semi-annual reports prove to be inadequate. The point here is to allow companies the freedom to report at a frequency desired by their shareholders, but no less than twice per annum.

---

jeffrey jensen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: jeffrey jensen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jeffrey Jensen. Retired. Northville, New York.
Please keep the Quarterly Reporting

Sent from my iPhone

Jeffrey Kaufman None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Kaufman Semi-annually is the longest period of reporting allowed under the proposed regime, and is also the shortest period that SHOULD BE allowed to maintain accurate tracking of activity on the account.

Jeffrey Kurz Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Kurz Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Jeffrey Marshall None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Marshall I’m against allowing Corporations to reduce their reporting to semi annually. Dumb

---

Jeffrey Norman none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Norman Allowing companies to reduce their filings to twice a year is a huge mistake and a step backwards. As a retail investor I rely on those quarterly reports to make informed investment decisions. Cutting it down to semi-annual would greatly reduce an investors ability to determine if a company is a worthy investment. In today's age of high tech computers and artificial intelligence it cannot be claimed that it is a financial burden for these companies. It has become harder to determine a companies true value between GAAP and non-GAAP accounting practices. Combine that with semi annual filings and the average retail investor will be left in the dark about many companies and subsequently choose unsuitable investments as a result.

Jeffrey Phillips — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Phillips Reduced reporting by publicly owned companies would perhaps make sense were we still in the era of pencil and paper financial reporting, but we are no longer in that era. Stakeholders deserve, at minimum, quarterly reports, and that is easier today than it has ever been. I don't support the proposal toward semiannual reporting. I see no advantage to investors.

Jeffrey Reindl — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeffrey Reindl Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Remember the ALAMO, Remember EMRON!!!

Jeffrey Simm Private investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Simm I am very concerned that my fund managers retain access to FED thinking and decision rationales in order to maximise my returns. Full access and transparency is required from the FED.

Jeffrey Thomas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeffrey Thomas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Nope to cutting the window. There is a reason historically for mandatory quarterly reporting. You know it and “We the People” know it.

Time for the SEC to represent fairness for ALL Americans, not Wall Street fatcats.

Jeffrey

Jeffrey Tinnell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jeffrey Tinnell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Clarity and governance is a cornerstone of investing and fairness in the market. Allow insiders to avoid sharing valuable information to ordinary investors cannot be ignored. Less transparency is not an acceptabe choice. Quarterly reporting must remain.

JEn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: JEn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I currently do not have any stocks for which I am aware of, but I do know folks who do, and it is unfair to them what is being proposed by "big money" holders through the SEC. Just dont do it "."
You dont have to use paper for quarterly updates, so there's no excuses for why you would want to do "back door / dark trading" for six months, unless you're doing it ILLEGALLY, in which case you shouldn't be working in that financial field"."

Best to keep things open, clear, and honest.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jennifer Eddy
Big Bear City (Town), CA
(Yes, the same state with the very dishonest Governor Newsom)

Jen S — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jen S Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Unfortunately, no good will come from allowing companies to "go dark" for 6 months. Mismanagement and corruption are likely and it will be too late to demand accountability when those issues are discovered. Quarterly reporting equals transparency. J Stone Property Manager

Sent from my iPhone

Jeni Pritchett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeni Pritchett I would like to see company reports 4 x per year. I am NOT in favour of SemiAnnual reporting.

Jenifer Codognotto — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jenifer Codognotto Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Shareholders are entitled to timely and complete information.

---

jenkinswest — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: jenkinswest Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Let's see... Little to No rules means everything they do is ok. Already know that doesn't work.

Sent from my Galaxy

Jenn Carlson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jenn Carlson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Rule needs to stay quarterly, to keep companies honest!

Sent from my iPhone

Jenn Rob — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jenn Rob Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Reporting needs to be kept quarterly.

Jenna Sandry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jenna Sandry We deserve quarterly reporting; there is no reason for less transparency. Insider trading is already happening - we need more oversight, not less.

Jennifer Beirne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Beirne I feel that reducing the reporting requirements for public companies from quarterly to twice a year is a bad idea. As an investor, I rely on reports to make informed decisions about the companies I own or wish to buy into. Arguments that reducing the frequency of these reports would reduce costs are non-sensical because of the increase in risk that comes with a lack of information. I would also argue that at a time when AI is being touted as a solution to repetitive and reproducible tasks, that it could be successfully leveraged to help reduce some of the work effort associated with the creation of financial reports. Knowledge is power and the only way we can do our due diligence is to have timely financial information readily available to the public. Please leave the regulations as they currently stand -- that public companies must continue to provide quarterly financial statements. Thank you

---

Jennifer Block — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jennifer Block Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is dangerous to the public to let companies wait so li g without reporti g on regular non extended times.

Jennifer Block — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jennifer Block Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is dangerous to the public to let companies wait so li g without reporti g on regular non extended times.
Jennifer Block
Gwcforge44@gmail.com
Mirgantown, WV 26505

Jennifer Bowers The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Bowers As an investor a lot can change quickly in today's world of business, and that means it's important that the companies I invest in provide transparency into their business on a regular basis. Having only two check in's a year is not enough information based on the quickly changing business landscape. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Please do not pass the rule change for corporate reporting and leave it at quarterly.

Jennifer Dally The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Dally As both an employee of and investor in public companies, I strongly believe reducing the number of annual reportings is a mistake. And I am someone critically involved in quarterly investor calls. It not only makes investment decisions more difficult given it's harder to define trends, see headwinds and understand company short- and long-term strategy...but it reduces transparency between companies and its investors. Transparency continues to be at risk with the current administration and the effects are profound. Lastly, reducing # of reportings will also challenge both government and private third parties from analyzing data to define the economic impact of shifts that often signal opportunities for course corrections.

Respectfully, Jennifer Dally

---

jennifer delgobbo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: jennifer delgobbo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Jennifer Delz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Delz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I prefer quarterly reports and higher transparency. No bi-annual reporting please.
Jennifer Delz

Sent from my iPhone

Jennifer Dickey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Dickey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: do NOT remove quartly reports! I want to see where our many is and what is being done with it! I do not trust you all with our money, stop treating the American people badly and start standing up and do what is right for us. This will come back around and you will pay for cheating us.

Jennifer Downing — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Downing Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
From an individual investor perspective, quarterly reports are a necessary step in determining how I am comfortable with contributing to the market. I already think quarterly reports aren't often enough to help facilitate a lack of volatility and fraud in the market. Doing away with quarterly reports would give more time for fraud to take place. Please don't allow further abuse of the system than already exists. Thank you!!!

Jennifer Fountain — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Fountain Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: My name is Jennifer Fountain and I am a small business owner and investor. I believe that nothing is gained by reducing information. Is this action to benefit anyone? Perhaps we should support more transparency instead of less. Don't do this, it's stupid.

Jennifer Gillis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jennifer Gillis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jennifer Gillis, retired librarian

CEOs are earning record high salaries, while the employees creating the profits earn less and have fewer rights. CEOs and corporations must be held accountable, and reducing the burden on them to report their finances will only encourage further abuse.

Sent from my iPhone

Jennifer Gillis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Gillis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
CEOs are earning record high salaries, while the employees creating the profits earn less and have fewer rights. CEOs and corporations must be held accountable, and reducing the burden on them to report their finances will only encourage further abuse. I think past results have shown that LESS oversight does not result in more honesty on the part of corporations and their leaders.

Jennifer Hall n/a — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Hall Hello, thank you for accepting comments to this suggested SEC reporting change. I am opposed to the change. Quarterly company reporting is quite reasonable. The reality of how corporate America drives success and investments is significant and information individual U.S. citizens deserve. To invest wisely, to ensure accountability at a frequency that is relevant and because this country does not exist for the success of corporations, its premise is the success of hard-working individuals. Information is power, and individuals deserve more timely information to make sound decisions. Six months is an interval that does not really allow for relevant response to financial reports or holding shareholders and outside influences accountable. If small business owners are required to report and pay quarterly taxes, I'm confident it is not a burden on small, medium and large corporations to compute and report their financials. A public company should absolutely be just that. Monthly would be my preference, so quarterly is already a compromise. Jennifer Hall

---

Jennifer Hill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jennifer Hill Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Maintain quarterly reporting for transparency. We don’t need another Enron. Keep them accountable quarterly. Jennifer Lindlar in PA, small business owner worried about my investments.

Jennifer J Knight Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer J Knight As an investor and retired CPA I must protest the step toward less transparency of semi annual reporting that the SEC is considering. As a former corporate controller, I reject the argument that this is less expensive than quarterly reporting, and I reject any argument that tries to support a notion that this is good for investors, good for business or good for America. I resent the steady march away from transparency and honesty that our current government has chosen. As one who used to oversee my company's quarterly SEC reporting, I considered it my job, my honor, and my professional responsibility to provide the investing world with timely, accurate, and transparent information. This rule change must be reconsidered.

Jennifer Jenks-Brewer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Jenks-Brewer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I understand that regulation can seem like a dirty word, but it has been proven over and again that laissez faire approaches to capitalism in the US end disastoerously for the American (and at times, the world's) people. There must be a line of regarding corporate profits over the wellbeing and security of the people that is simply too far. Allowing corporations to skip the minor tediom of quarterly reporting not only invites malfeascence, it encourages it. Quarterly reporting is a minimum safety standard to protect the financial integrity of the world's largest economy. It must remain.

Jennifer Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Jennifer, I am from Georgia, a lifelong resident at 45. My entire life, I was raised with the notion that if I succeeded in school, worked hard and saved money, I would have the American dream within my sight. Now I see, the generation before me is reaping the benefits that FDR set up for them, and yet tells US the money will run out. That generation is basically cutting the safety net ladder as they climb up it. The government wants us to work longer by extending retirement age, and denegrate the value of our retirements as well by limiting the accountability of corporations. Everyday, I am amazed at the corruption that exudes this administration. I remember when the Enron scandal happened-why on Earth would anyone want to open up that can of worms again? This is absurd. What good can come from this reduction in reporting? Why should we NOT hold these companies accountable? Why does the SEC want to protect corporations over actual people?

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Jennifer Johnson Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Johnson Do not change the reporting rules for companies. Quarterly provides investors with the right amount of insight and visibility into publicly traded companies. A change will cause fraud, investor unrest, and distrust. A change is unnecessary.

Jennifer Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jennifer Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is SSgt Jennifer Jones, USMC,ret. I am a two-time kidney transplant recipient and the former vice president of the American Association of Kidney Patients. Both DaVita and Fresenius are two of the largest dialysis clinics in America, but are beholden to shareholders. They must retain full transparency in everything they do for the betterment of those who depend on them for life-saving treatment. To be able to hide what is happening behind the scenes could cause disparaties for the most vulnerable populations. Reconsider this rule, please don't pass.

Sent from my iPad

Jennifer Kelly — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Kelly Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not do away with quarterly reporting!!!!!!!

Jennifer Lynn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jennifer Lynn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep requiring quarterly accountability. We need to actually learn from our history. Sincerely,
Jennifer Lynn
1216 Brigade Dr, Chesapeake, VA 23322

Jennifer Lyon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Lyon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am writing for my husband who has Parkinson's and it is difficult for him to communicate about something like this. Amazingly, he still pays attention to the stock market and we have major investments and he is on top of things. Please keep things the way they are so that we can make sure our investments are safe.

thank you,

Jennifer M. P. Hess — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jennifer M. P. Hess Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello,

I am an individual investor, with a background in insurance and financial services. I support quarterly reporting, because its transparency supports education and individual investors. It also creates a more dynamic market, with more participants. This ultimately is better for business.

Sent from my iPhone

Jennifer Mautz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Mautz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Leave the reporting quarterly to ensure transparency and accountability. Thank you, Jennifer Mautz

---

Jennifer McPherson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer McPherson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Who thought that this was a good idea? Transparency is needed. Without the checks and balances the smaller investor doesn't have a chance. We have enough fraud in our nation. Stop trying to but the blinders on us. I get more disgusted every day.

Jennifer Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jennifer Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting keeps the books up to date, and if there is less reporting investors feel unsure and will not put their money in. Transparency leads to calmer markets.

Sent from my iPhone
Jennifer Miller

Jennifer Miner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jennifer Miner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The SEC needs to keep quarterly reporting. With how fast the economy, the markets, and the business world moves it would be foolhardy to back away from quarterly checks.

Jennifer Miner
Orange, CA

Jennifer Mitchell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jennifer Mitchell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It’s important to me that we have accountability and that reporting continues to occur quarterly. Everyday people will again be the losers if this change is allowed to go through

---

Jennifer Munson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Munson Dear SEC, I believe in keeping investors informed of the companies we have chosen to put our financial faith in. A reduction in reporting to only twice per year does not provide enough information. It only breaks down the trust between investors and companies. I respectfully ask that you vote against the proposed Semiannual Reporting rule. Best regards, Jennifer Munson (Retail investor)

Jennifer OConnor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer OConnor Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't stop quarterly reporting on investments to stock holders.

Jennifer Park — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Park Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are a much needed tool to demonstrate public companies health.
Keep Quarterly Reports!

Jennifer Park Wardell

Jennifer Pavlicek None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Pavlicek I do not feel this benefits the investor and is a dangerous direction.

Jennifer Reed Principal at Jennovative LLC — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Reed The public needs access to quarterly reports from publicly traded companies. Wanting to reduce that information to twice a year suggests a lack of transparency.

Jennifer Roser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jennifer Roser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 JENNIFER ROSER - BOOKKEEPER - THEY ARE USING OUR MONEY AND WE HAVE THE RIGHT TO KNOW WHAT IS HAPPENING!!! KEEP EVERYTHING TRANSPARENT.

Jennifer Rynkiewicz Senior Accountant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Rynkiewicz Reducing public reporting from quarterly to semi-annual weakens financial transparency. As a senior accountant, the core issue is that less frequent reporting delays the visibility of emerging risks, making it harder for investors, regulators, and internal leadership to spot trends, correct course, or maintain confidence in the company's financial discipline. Semi-annual reporting also compresses twice the volume of activity into each filing, increasing the risk of errors, restatements, and audit pressure — all of which undermine the reliability of the financial picture stakeholders depend on. Thank you.

Jennifer Scovill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Scovill Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am totally against the SEC ending their quarterly reports because as an investor I want to see publicly traded companies' ongoing financial positions, comparisons to previous quarters, management analysis and any material changes in corporate operations or legal proceedings. To not see this on a regular quarterly basis deprives investors of the most current and vital information on which to base investment decisions. Furthermore, a lack of information and transparency can lead to unethical and potentially corrupt practices. Keep the quarterly statements as a safeguard for the best interests of investors.

Jennifer Silvey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Silvey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jennifer Silvey, freelance writer and journalist, living in St. Peters, MO.

Changing the corporate reporting seems like an incredibly bad idea. I'd argue information should come out more often than just the quarter reviews! There's too much risk by allowing semi-annual reviews. It's easier for a company to hide its problems. It would make it harder to pick anything risky because the risk would be so much more in this situation. Comparing this information to other countries who have switched to semi-annual… it's a no brainer. Don't do it!

This could honestly hurt the economy, push more people to never buy a house, cause people to stagnate as they have trouble developing financial leverage.

Look big picture. Companies that can handle quarterly reviews are stable. Those that can't and want less reviews are not.

Sent from my iPhone

Jennifer Simon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jennifer Simon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is part of the essential due diligence that corporations, especially large ones, need to do to be held accountable to the American public and our government

Sent from my iPhone

Jennifer Sloan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jennifer Sloan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am an American citizen that is tired of the lies,fraud, theiving corporations and politicians.
This should not be allowed, keep it at 3 months.

Get Outlook for Android

Jennifer Sloan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jennifer Sloan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am an American citizen that is tired of the lies,fraud, theiving corporations and politicians.
This should not be allowed, keep it at 3 months.

Jennifer Spencer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Spencer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Full disclosure and transparent reporting puts the individual investor on the same footing as "those in the know".
Otherwise, being in the Stock Market is just another crap shoot. Maybe we'll all just pull out and invest elsewhere....like overseas maybe?

Jennifer Vasta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jennifer Vasta Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I rely on quarterly information to make decisions. Having to wait 6 months will put me at a disadvantage when making important decisions about my investments.

Jennifer Weber Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Weber Thank you for the opportunity to comment on what I believe is a terrible idea. I'm a long-term investor--as opposed to a day trader or short-term investor. With the demise of pensions, the precarious state of Social Security, and a public system that's largely stopped supporting citizens, American government and society demands that I be an investor in order to support myself in retirement. To demand that I put my money into publicly traded companies in the stock market and then to reduce the information they can give me is a disservice and just plain wrong. As a part owner of the companies in my stock portfolio, it's on me to decide where to put my money. I want as much information as I can get, not less. The claim that this reduction in reporting will cut costs is weak given the advent of AI that automates and accelerates tracking of information. More importantly, too bad so sad if it costs a company something to keep investors informed. In this age of wealth disparity caused by systemic wealthism, where C-suite officers make many times more than employees and along with their corporations skirt taxes, I cannot regret the cost of keeping investors like me informed. This is a bad idea that hurts investors, and I hope you will reject it.

Jennifer Wedelstaedt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jennifer Wedelstaedt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep the SEC as a segment of the government. If what is proposed the SEC will be abolished in time.

it's not the SEC's CHOICE to change from quarterly.

Jennifer Wheatley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jennifer Wheatley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 John E Wheatley HVAC Technician As a stock holder it is vital for me to know that my investments are performing as desired. Not getting quarterly statements will not allow me to respond in a timely manner. It allows for corruption to take place and not allow us, THE PEOPLE, to protect ourselves from corporate greed.

Sent from my iPhone

Jenny — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jenny Opposed to reducing transparency

---

Jenny C. Chism Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jenny C. Chism Decreasing accountability for capital gains and losses by cutting reports to investors in half benefits no one but the very rich.

Jenny Clark none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jenny Clark I am for continuing the present corporate transparency; keep quarterly reports mandatory.

Jenny Duplissis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jenny Duplissis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Letting public companies go dark would be bad for everyday investors.
Stop unfairness and insider trading-keep quarterly reporting.

Thank you.

Jenny Hoffman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jenny Hoffman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We tried reporting every six months once, between 1955 and 1970. Less transparency came with lower returns and lower valuations. For an ordinary investor like me, a return to those days could mean losing a third, or even half, of my life savings. I can’t afford that and DO NOT SUPPORT doing away with quarterly reporting.

~Jenny Taylor
Self-employed marketing manager
Baltimore, MD

Sent from my iPhone

Jenny Johns — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jenny Johns Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The US government is by the people and for the people. The people want quarterly reports. People want transparency and accountability.
Deidre Leeper
Retired

Jenny Landaverde — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jenny Landaverde Please do not change the reporting structure for public companies. Please keep transparency for retail investors

---

Jenny Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jenny Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please maintain quarterly reporting and do not change the quarterly reporting rules that have kept independent investors informed.

---

jenoyola2 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jenoyola2 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No way - trading is crooked enough mowadays. Don't give them three months to deceive us further.

Jennie Oyola - a retiree that relies on the market for income

---

Jerald Hayes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jerald Hayes I understand theirs a regulation being contemplated by the SEC to take in consideration requiring corporation to report bi- annually I oppose this ruling being a active investor. The proposal in my opinion to lighten the burden on corporation in the age of AI where it should be made much easier, less transparency doesn't lighten the investors burden it increases it. less reporting equals less knowledge about how the company is doing and therefore protection. I'm certain CEO's don't get a bi annual report from their subordinates. Why should we as as investors expect any less? Respectfully Jerald P Hayes

---

Jerard Julian — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jerard Julian Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This helps no customer, no investor, no community. It only benefits insider trading.
The marginal cost of quarterly reporting is negligible for any public company.

Jerel McDonald — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jerel McDonald Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. With current AI and audit tools, reporting quarterly should not be an issue for corporations. Please preserve the existing reporting requirements.

Jeremiah Bostwick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeremiah Bostwick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There cannot and should not ever be advantages given to corporations that the common person does not have. Institutional investors and and executives cannot be permitted to know insider information that common people cannot for months at a time.

Jeremiah Bostwick

Soli Deo Gloria

Portraitist
(909) 532-1238
http://jeremiahbostwick.com
Instagram: BostwickPhoto

Jeremiah Buden Certified Financial Planner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeremiah Buden It is my belief that moving to a semi-annual reporting for corporations is not in the best interest of anyone involved as an investor. The currently quarterly reporting provides valuable information to investors about the performance of a company they own.

Jeremy Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeremy Anderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Every American knows what companies will do if given fewer regulations. Stop making it easy for them to Enron us, keep quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPad

Jeremy Broughton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeremy Broughton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting!

Jeremy Dick CPA inactive Retired CPA and former company controller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeremy Dick CPA inactive Any decent company reports to themselves much more frequently than quarterly. Reduce the cost by cutting some of DC's red tape such as disclosures that could just be referenced back to the last 10k. Explain major variances ie unusual items. Quarterly reporting to me is an absolute minimum frequency. Jeremy Dick

---

Jeremy Donnelly — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jeremy Donnelly Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Putting investors in the dark for six months at a time is a detriment to transparency and accountability.
It allows insiders to directly benefit from information not available to the public.
It fosters distrust in the governing bodies.
It has the potential to bleed investors dry due to lack of information.
DO NOT ALLOW the quarterly reporting to be twice a year.

Sincerely,
Jeremy Donnelly

Jeremy Drewing — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jeremy Drewing Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: this is going to hurt more ppl then it helps this is not the way of the great American dream ,Its more like the great American sceem, this is unexseptable and , this is not the way to lift ppl up its a way for you to become richer and the poor get poorer. WHY DO WE DO THIS TO OUR OWN PPL ,PLEASE DO NOT CHANGE THE SEC AND PLEASE DO NOT CHANGE RULE TO BENNEFIT THE RICH . Thanks for you time

---

Jeremy Livingston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jeremy Livingston Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting th way it is! My god, this is so wrong! We need accountability for our companies we financially invest in and shouldn't allow for even more corrupt practices become acceptable. Companies need to provide quarterly reporting to ensure they are being held to reasonable standards for investors and to try and steer away from any other political leeway or insider training concerns.

Name: Jeremy Livingston
Job Title: Former Federal Employee as a IT Specialist SYSAdmin

Sincerely,

Jeremy Livingston
E l jeremyryan248@gmail.com

"Learn from yesterday, live for today, hope for tomorrow. The important thing is not to stop questioning." – Albert Einstein

---

jeremy morita — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jeremy morita Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yeaaaah, no, id rather see it monthly than once every 6 months.

Jeremy Morris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jeremy Morris At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. For this reason I do not consider it a good idea or in the interests of investors for companies to submit paperwork on a reduced basis.

Jeremy Normann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeremy Normann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 So just help the billionaires?! This is terrible.

Sent from my iPhone

Jeremy Sprinzl — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jeremy Sprinzl Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly. Yes, we don't like building the reports, but it keeps companies honest. It is too easy to smooth results over six months. It also allows companies to hide issues with its underlying financial results for longer. This can make valuations less precise and biased lower.

Jerome Bierwagen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jerome Bierwagen The proposed rule will result in less transparency on public companies. And while business' may claim the reporting four times a year is onerous, it provides shareholders and the investing public a clear idea of the financial state of the business. Twice a year allows plenty of time to "clean up" poor results and decisions and essentially present misleading, false or even potentially criminal results. Further most business processes today support the quarterly reporting of results as well as the ability to publish after, but still timely, at the end of the quarter. I urge you to reject S7-2026-15 and the changes therein.

Jerome Dayton The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jerome Dayton As an investor, Quarterly reports are a must to assess how a company is doing. Reducing the frequency to just twice a year gives me half the information needed to manage my investments. In particularly it gives a greater advantage to people with insider and or yet to be disclosed information to act ahead of the market disclosures. Yes there is a tendency to manage quarter to quarter instead for the long term but there is a much better solution for this. Do NOT allow ANY options to be vested till at least 5 years after they have been granted. And do NOT allow any outstanding grants to be exercised upon termination for either cause or voluntarily until 5 years AFTER said termination. This will force all management to be making long term decisions to protect their grants, which are also in the best interest of investors.

Jerome McIntire — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jerome McIntire I strongly support maintaining the requirement for quarterly reports by public corporations regulated by the SEC. Investors and regulators should not be kept waiting for six months to learn about material changes to a company's practices or earnings. As a stockholder I have a stake in these companies. All stockholders deserve to be informed regularly, since the corporations are bound to benefit stockholders as well as customers and employees.

Jerome Sexton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jerome Sexton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting only

Jerrod Lind — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jerrod Lind Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I wanted to share my perspective as an individual investor my concern of reducing the frequency of information I would lose as a result of the proposed changes. Insiders and those close to insiders that have access to information I feel puts my savings and therefore my family and me at risk for our future and retirement. Please resist this lobby to shield information from investors that do so to benefit our families.

Best regards,
Jerrod Lind

Jerry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jerry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the current rules! Please Don’t change the rules! Keep the way the rule are.

Sent from Jerry's iPhone
Have a sparkling day?

Jerry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jerry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly recordings

---

Jerry Cooper Retail investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jerry Cooper In an age where virtually all investment data is entered on some kind of networked computer, corporate reporting should be a continuous, real-time all the time affair. Like looking at the weather online. Quarterly reports are hopeless anachronisms. The very idea that reporting should be reduced from its mid-century modern, pre-TRS 80 Radio Shack computer quarterly requirement is, in a word, absurd. Cost shouldn't even be an acceptable argument; someone is already entering all that data on a daily basis - a competent IT department could import that data into a continuous display without additional report-compiling effort. This idea would represent a giant leap backwards for mankind.

Jerry D Payson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jerry D Payson I would ask for this provision/change to be struck down and NOT implemented. As a shareholder, I am interested in knowing this information on a regular basis. Allowing reporting requirements to be cut in half minimizes/limits my ability to make informed purchases or sales due to the extended reporting window. Please consider the small investors as much as the large investors. Thank you.

Jerry DeBoom The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jerry DeBoom I want to keep receiving quarterly reports.

Jerry Ferraccio — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jerry Ferraccio Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is an attempt at blatant obfuscation.
Keep reports quarterly.

Jerry Ferraccio
541.543.5302

Jerry Hlavac none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jerry Hlavac It is unwise to reduce the number of reports required for companies from 4 a year to only 2. It is to hard to track as it is currently and less reporting allows for more under handed possibilities of misinforming the investors.

Jerry Humbert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jerry Humbert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To Whom It May Concern, My name Jerry Humbert, and I am a regular citizen writing to oppose File No. S7-15-26 for the following reasons:Harms Everyday Portfolios: Middle-class savers and retail investors rely on consistent quarterly data to manage retirement accounts safely.Creates Dangerous Blind Spots: A six-month reporting gap hides critical financial changes from the public for too long.Increases Stock Volatility: Allowing bad corporate news to pile up over half a year will cause stock prices to crash violently overnight.Favors Institutional Insiders: This rule tilts the playing field toward wealthy Wall Street firms that can access private data during long gaps.I urge the Commission to reject this proposal and protect regular citizens by keeping mandatory quarterly reporting.Respectfully submitted, Jerry Humbert Harlan, IN

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Jerry Lambert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jerry Lambert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop the Corruption in the Trump Administration. Vote to save the rules and laws of the SEC as they are written. Stop weakening the protection of the average investor!!

Jerry Parks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jerry Parks To Whom It May Concern: As a long term investor in many companies over 25 years, frequent information has been vital towards critical business decisions in my investments. Reducing the frequency of information would diminish my trust in transparency and timeliness of decisions needed to be made. Please do not pass this proposal as it only appears to benefit control of information more so than it is now. As partial owner of the companies I invest in, it is key for me to receive frequent information as those who are actively involved in the businesses themselves. Thank you for your time and listening to my summarized concerns about the proposal on the table. Jerry Parks

---

Jerry Scott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jerry Scott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jerry Scott, Retired. It matters to every one even us lil guys. Six months of dark is too long. Ridiculously long.

Jerry Spinelli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jerry Spinelli Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You can’t be serious!

Sent from my iPhone

Jerry Zachmann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jerry Zachmann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep listing quarterly.

Jerry Zachmann

Jerry-nancy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jerry-nancy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stay with Quarterly reporting. I want the opportunity to move investments when there is up or down turn in the market!

Nancy Cissell

Jeryl Hanson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jeryl Hanson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Considering the salaries they make, they should be glad to provide the data. It keeps fraud in check I would think - especially if there are tax dollars in the mix.

Jes?s de la Garza — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jes?s de la Garza Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly Reports are an essential component to evaluative measures and analysis. Each Quarterly Report highlights the performance of a business during a specific time frame. Corrective measures can be applied for the ensuing quarter(s) to ensure improvement. Please consider the evaluative approach to modifying the trajectory of performance.

Sent from my iPhone

Jesse Bennett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jesse Bennett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential to maintain oversight into firm's financials BEFORE they become "lost"!
Respectfully, J. Bennett - jazz musician/educator

Jesse Brand The Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jesse Brand Keep the current reporting requirements. They are vital to my ability to understand the movement of the companies where I invest my money.

Jesse Garza — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jesse Garza Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I’m a retired Realtor and disabled Veteran. This is one of the investments I have in my portfolio, I disagree with the Change
Keep it Quarterly!
Jesse Garza

Jesse Gonzales — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jesse Gonzales Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jesse Gonzales, small business operator, there needs to be better transparency and this would likely make them less. Investors should be informed at smaller, regular intervals.

Jesse Gonzales
Saepius Exerdus, Semper Fidelis

Sent from Proton Mail for Android.

Jesse Kemp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jesse Kemp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Bad Idea, keep as is please

---

jesse moore The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: jesse moore In the most advanced information age of the century with tools such as Ai available, there is no reason I believe that public company reporting frequency should be lessened to less than once per quarter. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. Stay the course, and continue the quarterly reporting requirement please.

Jesse Stakes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jesse Stakes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jesse Stakes, Ret. Major Keep Quarterly reporting. Period.

Sent from my iPad

Jessica Boyle Senior living Advisor, Brookdale Senior living. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jessica Boyle I strongly disagree with cutting back quarterly reporting obligations for companies. Transparency and information are vital to the economy and my ability to participate in the economy and invest.

Jessica Broder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jessica Broder Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I wil remove every dollar from the market if the SEC changes this law

---

Jessica De Jesus — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jessica De Jesus Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is not for saving, this is so they can defraude the American people

Jessica De Jesus MBA

Jessica Delargy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jessica Delargy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I remember Enron and Polaroid and the banks and the .....and it is obvious that the same conditions that allowed corporate America to steal from essentially everyone is today lining g up for the same disastrous effect. Why should corporations and their helmsmen be excluded from fiscal responsibility?

Jessica Dullinger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jessica Dullinger I think company should report their earnings quarterly so we can have full transparency on how their company is doing. If something is working or not. Especially since we are investing, our hard earned money and hoping for retirement. These corporations need to think about the people who are carrying them on their backs.

Jessica Frenkel Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jessica Frenkel Do not reduce frequency of reporting. This goes against what I thought the SEC stood for. Transparency keeps everyone safe. Quarterly reporting at a minimum is needed for transparency. Thank you.

Jessica Givens Casner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jessica Givens Casner Less information is not to the benefit of every day retail investors whose interests are increasingly under represented but who are increasingly left holding the bag because of data asymmetry, insider deals, and dual class shares. Quarterly reporting serves to inform the ownership base, force good governance, and hold accountable those operating in service of shareholders.

Jessica Godfrey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jessica Godfrey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jessica Godfrey, Quality Control Manager, Keeping Quarterly reporting is one way that the small investors decide where to invest. Quarterly reporting has worked for half a century, let’s keep companies accountable to their investors.

Jessica Marish-Jarl Senior Forensic Auditor, SLB — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jessica Marish-Jarl Having graduated from college during the Enron/AA collapse and going first into external audit at a big 4 in Houston, and then later into industry, I've seen the inner financial control workings of plenty of publicly traded companies. I've also worked in reporting and understand how little makes the cut when comparing to materiality for a large corporation. By reducing the reporting requirements, it may in the short term reduce some work load internally for each of these companies - but the work load would only be reduced for those in a reporting role, not in an operational or business facing finance role. And because there would be an expected gain in efficiency due to lower reporting requirements, that would result in more skilled finance people losing their jobs - because these companies would take that gain and just hand off the work to less people or lesser skilled people and AI. My concern is that this change doesn't help the market gain visibility, and it doesn't support the theory of reduced work load either - the only group it benefits is the C-suite at each of the relevant companies, and may help the P&L look a bit better by reducing the compensation and benefits cost for the headcount reduction. Is this really a good thing for the market - aka investors and everyday Americans? I don't think so. I hope you will reconsider this change and not approve moving the reporting requirements from four times a year to two.

Jessica Middour — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jessica Middour Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please do not do this

I will give them a heart to know Me, that I am the Lord. They will be My people, and I will be their God, for they will return to Me with all their heart. — Jeremiah 24:7

Jessica Nichols — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jessica Nichols Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jessica Nichols Nurse do not allow companies to become less accountable! Do not let there be another Enron!!

Sent from my iPhone

Jessica S. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jessica S. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello my name is Jessica Straker and I am a Tax Preparer. Quarterly reporting is a necessary check in. A lot can happen in six months. I believe it to be a danger to the public investors to be in the dark this long. Do not allow this. Please protect the people employees and investors.

Jessica stiffler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jessica stiffler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What, the amount of money y'all can funnel into your pockets currently, isn't enough? You have to look for new ways to steal from the poor and struggling? I have news, were done with all of the corruption. Leave quarterly reporting alone and seek help for your greed problem because the karma will be with you in your next life. You don't get to change the rules to fit your agenda. Quarterly reporting is to be left alone. Remember who you are, a public servant. We are removing loopholes for greedy pigs, not adding any. THANK YOU FOR YOU ATTENTION TO THIS MATTER

Jessica Warner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jessica Warner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is no reason to not provide quarterly updates. AI will make the burden on organizations even less to produce the needed info quarterly. Twice a year will be a detriment to the markets as failings will be easier to hide, those unscrupulous ones will dump and run before anyone even realizes and as always the regular Americans will be left holding the empty bag.

Jessica Warner
“Average American investor”
Sent from my iPhone

Jessica Whittle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jessica Whittle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the

Securities and Exchange Commission:
You are reversing a good thing that holds companies accountable. Do we want another Enron? If the SeC does this, we know they are not on the people's sides. Please don't.

---

jessie perkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jessie perkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No

---

Jessie Yearwood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jessie Yearwood Getting more reports not less keep investors informed and assist in making informed investment decisions. With the use of AI, companies that keep accurate data can provide information far more efficiently and accurately. This gives investors information, insights and the ability to make informed decisions. Please don't give into the desire to withhold necessary information from investors. Giving in to providing less data driven information will negatively impact those who most need the information. When investors invest we need companies to provide honest, reliable and timely data. This is the least investors can expect.

Jester McClown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment/Complaint From: Jester McClown Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Acting just like the tRump regime to profit off scandelous behavior. Keep quarterly reports a thing. This will undermine investing for regular people. Dont be a trump lacky, SEC or Im pulling my money from the market.

JF — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: JF Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We're retired and are dependent on our investments. There is no good reason to keep us in the dark for twice as long as they do now. The public has been given little reason to believe that corporations will "do the right thing", they won't the first chance they get. Keep the leash short. - J. Franke

---

JG — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: JG Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please maintain quarterly reporting. This matters greatly to me. As a retiree, solvency of these funds impacts the security of my retirement income. Mechanisms like quarterly reporting augment CEO accountability and should be strengthened, not weakened.

Karen Smith

Jichael Mordan Investing Entity — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jichael Mordan 2 no smile 4 good smiles Cheers old mucker. Off up the ole apples and pears to bed I go. Keep to the left old bean. You bigwig always putting the spoil on the old man in the street. 2 reports? I'll wipe my bleedin backside on em. It's 4 reports I'll be avin kid, and there's an end. Pull ur 'ead out ur passage, and make it appen. Alright our kid, Tara! 2 reports? Gives em too much time for the fiddle ses I. And we got enough bleeding fiddlers already. Alright our kid, go on, off yer go.

Jill B Henes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jill B Henes I do not appreciate this prosed rule. I want to be able to evaluate the companies that I have invested in on a quarterly basis. 6 months is too long. The company could be in trouble and I would not know it for six months. These are publicly owned companies. Stockholders have the right to know what is happening.

Jill Cook — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jill Cook Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Six months is too long to go without reporting. It is outrageous to only be transparent twice a year. What if the bank only gave you a statement twice a year for your personal accounts? That is no way to run things. We need accountability quarterly. It is ridiculous to even suggest this change. Do the right thing and stop this from happening. Thank you for doing what the people deserve and demand. Jill Cook Retired from dentistry

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Jill Dorrian — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jill Dorrian Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026

Jill E — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jill E To the Securities and Exchange Commission: I am writing as an individual investor and a member of The Motley Fool Community to express my opposition to any proposal that would allow public companies to reduce their regular reporting from quarterly to semiannual. At its core, investing is ownership. When individual investors own shares of a public company, we are owners of that business. Owners deserve regular, transparent communication about how the business is performing, what risks it faces, and how management is executing its strategy. Reducing required reporting from four times per year to two would weaken that connection between companies and their shareholders. Public companies operate every day. They launch products, win and lose customers, make strategic decisions, face competitive pressures, and encounter risks throughout the year. If official reporting is cut in half, individual investors will simply receive less timely information about businesses they own. Some may argue that semiannual reporting would reduce costs or lessen short-term thinking. I understand those concerns, but I do not believe reducing transparency is the right solution. Short-termism is driven by how market participants react to information, not by the existence of information itself. Taking away regular reports does not make investors more patient. It just makes them less informed. Less frequent reporting could also increase uncertainty and volatility. When important information is disclosed less often, the surprises may be larger when they finally arrive, and market reactions may become sharper. That outcome would not benefit individual investors or the integrity of public markets. The SEC has long played an important role in protecting fair, transparent markets. Regulation Fair Disclosure was an important step forward for individual investors because it recognized that all investors deserve fair access to material information. Moving toward less frequent reporting would feel like a step in the opposite direction. I respectfully urge the Commission to preserve quarterly reporting requirements for public companies. Individual investors need timely, consistent, and transparent information to make informed decisions as owners. Thank you for considering my comment. Sincerely, Jill Affiliation Name: The Motley Fool Community

---

Jill Gresham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jill Gresham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting.

JILL GRIEVESON Retired Certified Financial Planner and Accountant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JILL GRIEVESON Less required reporting would be like a bank sending you a bank statement every now and again - totally unacceptable!

Jill Heryford — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jill Heryford Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jill Heryford Educator
Washington State

Please keep some accountability for companies- I wish we were debating monthly reporting. Show every day citizens that CEO bro culture and corruption are not the values we promote.

Some good thoughts come with this message❤

Jill Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jill Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jill Jones, Account Executive

Please retain the quarterly system of reporting. In an age where accountability and the ability to defraud has become acceptable, we need to maintain checks & balances within the financial sector. Millions of Americans have their retirement futures tied up in the stock market and the fluctuations based on politics and the whimsy of a board of directors is already cause for concern. Less oversight is not the answer.

Thank you.

Jill K. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jill K. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to have quarterly reports so we can manage our money, our investments. Going to semi annual reports means that we will be unaware of important changes to our investments in a timely manner. We will be the big losers. Jill Koyman, retired and counting on my investments for income for the rest of my life. Please keep reports quartly.

Jill Kooiman

Jill Stewart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jill Stewart Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely not!

Jill Taylor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jill Taylor As a private investor it is important for me to have quarterly information about the performance of the companies I invest in. It would irresponsible for companies to hold back quarterly information. I see no benefit in this suggestion for biannual reporting and oppose it.

Jill Ungar — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jill Ungar Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: do not give leeway to fraud. put people in prison and KEEP them there for the time mandated

---

Jillyn Dillon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jillyn Dillon I write as an individual investor to oppose the proposed amendments that would permit reporting companies to substitute a single semiannual report on Form 10-S for the three quarterly reports on Form 10-Q now required under Exchange Act Sections 13(a) and 15(d). The proposal is framed as added flexibility. In practice it would degrade the information available to investors, fragment the disclosure landscape, and deliver marginal cost relief — without solving the problem it claims to address. I urge the Commission not to adopt it. 1. "Optional" invites adverse selection. Because the election rests with the issuer, the companies most likely to drop quarterly reporting are those with the most to gain from reduced visibility — weaker results, more volatile operations, or a wider gap between what management knows and what the market can see. Investors lose information precisely where they most need it. A permissive rule does not produce neutral flexibility; it produces a sorting mechanism that rewards opacity and penalizes the investors least able to compensate for it. 2. It fragments comparability. Quarterly reporting is standardized for a reason. A market in which some peers report twice a year and others four times forces investors to track who reports when, undermines side-by-side comparison within sectors, and complicates index construction, fund management, and credit analysis. Standardization of interim cadence is a feature of the U.S. system, not a defect. 3. The cost savings are marginal and overstated. Most issuers will continue to issue quarterly earnings releases, file Forms 8-K, and maintain quarterly disclosure controls and the underlying quarterly close — none of which this proposal changes, including the frequency of earnings calls. Eliminating the Form 10-Q removes a filing, not the work behind it. At the same time, an issuer that later reverts to quarterly reporting must reconstruct and obtain auditor review of prior-period quarterly financials that were never separately prepared. The result is a one-way ratchet that adds cost and discourages return to the more transparent regime. 4. The premise is unsupported by evidence. The claim that quarterly reporting drives short-term managerial behavior is weakly supported. The United Kingdom removed its mandatory quarterly reporting requirement in 2014; subsequent research found little evidence that the change curbed short-termism, while some firms experienced reduced analyst coverage and diminished information flow. Short-term focus, where it exists, is more directly addressed through executive compensation design and guidance practices than by reducing the transparency investors rely on. 5. It harms the smaller companies it purports to help. Less frequent reporting tends to reduce analyst coverage and trading liquidity. For small- and mid-cap issuers — the supposed beneficiaries — thinner coverage raises the cost of capital rather than lowering it. The proposal's stated goal of encouraging companies to go and stay public is not connected to its mechanism: quarterly reporting is not a primary deterrent to public listing. The decline in public-company counts tracks the abundance of private capital and other structural costs, not the existence of Form 10-Q. 6. It erodes a durable U.S. competitive advantage. U.S. public markets command a valuation premium grounded substantially in disclosure rigor and investor trust. Diluting interim transparency trades a proven structural advantage for speculative and unproven relief. That is a poor exchange for investors and for the markets' long-term standing. If the Commission's objective is to reduce disclosure burden, the appropriate path is targeted simplification of duplicative or immaterial requirements within the quarterly framework, not a reduction in reporting frequency that shifts cost and risk onto investors. For the reasons above, I respectfully urge the Commission to retain the existing quarterly interim reporting requirement and to decline to adopt the optional semiannual framework.

Jim — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jim Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is working. The market is at an all time high with quarterly reporting in place. Any cost to the companies to prepare these reports (payroll) is a cost of doing business and completely deductible. It's a win-win. It is fixed! Why would you want to break it?
Jim Argiro

Jim — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jim Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need more reporting not less to make informed decisions on our investments. Especially at a time of corporate greed running rampant.

Sent from my iPhone

Jim Baker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jim Baker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 STOP THE STEAL BEFORE ITS TOO LATE!

Sent from my iPhone

---

jim barnes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: jim barnes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I use quarterly reports for my personal investments. KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING

Jim Brandon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jim Brandon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It makes it too easy for illegal activity.
Sandra and Jim Brandon

Sent from my iPhone

Jim Brown Retail Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Brown Please keep the requirement for all corporations listed on any of the major US Stock Market ie NYSE; NASDAQ; etc to continue to report Quarterly Reports to investors so we can make informed investing decisions / choices and preserve the integrity of the markets.

Jim C — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim C Less reporting frequency is a very bad idea given the rate of technological change in today's industries. The effect of less reporting would most probably be larger swings in stock prices at reporting times, and cost savings as a percentage of total costs would be minimal given today's tools.

Jim Corsello Jr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Corsello Jr Quarterly Reporting needs to be maintained.

Jim Counce — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jim Counce Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jim Counce, retired manufacturing engineer and investor.
DO NOT reduce the reporting from today's schedule. We need to keep corporations honest. The reporting games currently used, as I am familiar with, are bad enough.

Sent from my iPhone

Jim D — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Jim D Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it the same. We need to get updates 4 times a year instead of 2. This way problems show up sooner. Also management has less time to hide deteriorating business conditions. The more we know sooner as investors the better off we are.

Jim

Jim Davenport — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jim Davenport Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the eyes on those who have proven they can be trusted if watched closely

Sent from my iPhone

Jim DeCesaro — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jim DeCesaro Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop screwing the 98% of investors like me that benefit from quarterly reports. Do not implement your change to semi-annual reporting. I use the information to keep abreast on the institutions/organizations I invest my money.

James DeCesaro
American individual investor

Jim DeLoach Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim DeLoach Regarding the SEC's proposal for public companies to only be required to report semi-annually, I respectfully urge the Commission to not issue the proposal in its current form. Public companies have reported their financial results every three months for over half a century. For them to go dark for six months at a time puts retail investors at a significant disadvantage. I cannot imagine owning a business and getting updates from its managers only twice a year. Disruptive change in markets, competition, emerging technologies and geopolitical developments can render significant assumptions underlying a company's strategy obsolete in a very short period of time. To deny investors the warning signs of a failing strategy would be a significant policy-making error. The Commission's proposal reduces the transparency so necessary to engendering investor confidence in the capital markets. Reduced transparency creates added uncertainty. Increased uncertainty likely forces retail investors to reassess their investing strategy. The result of the proposal is predictable: Bigger surprises, sharper reactions and greater volatility. It is a sure bet that that result will impact investing confidence. Is that a desirable outcome? In summary, in no way will this proposal engender investor confidence. If the SEC releases this proposal in its current form, I for one will choose not to invest in a company electing to report only twice a year. I doubt I am the only one with this point of view. Having followed the SEC for over 50 years, I view this proposal as a marked departure from the Commission's proud history of investor protection.

Jim Deterick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jim Deterick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly! I do not want it to change! I do not want to have the reporting done any longer than it is now.
James Deterick, retired.

Jim Franklin The Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Franklin Less transparency is not better and does not help investors make better long term investing decisions.

Jim Gordon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jim Gordon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't be a typical Trump greed-merchant.

Jim Goulet — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jim Goulet Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the windows open for quarterly reporting!

Jim Haffner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jim Haffner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't give these crooks and grifters more leverage!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Jim Haley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Haley Losing quarterly reporting would have a very detrimental impact on the investors of our country's public companies. Quarterly reports are not about forcing management of the balance sheet, or the apparent business strategy, on a short-term basis. It is not about unnecessary administrative costs. It is about trust. It's about a company trusting its investors, and the investors trusting the company. It is about partnering with the investors of the company in a regular, ongoing sharing of status, health, outlooks, and opportunities. We have already seen the deterioration of these healthy practices in our federal government. Let us not encourage it to happen in our American businesses

---

Jim Hartmann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jim Hartmann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please enforce quarterly financial reporting. This law helps protect citizens from fraud.

Jim Harty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Harty I feel a reduction in public company reporting requirements should be rejected. companies should continue to report quarterly to the public and its shareholders. Investing in companies should require some oversight and that is the current reporting requirements so consumers and investors can have visibility. With some of the newer technologies being developed, its more important than ever to have frequent interaction (i dont see a need to increase, but certainly dont advocate reduction) with the investing community & company constituency/owners.

Jim Jamrog — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Jamrog The investment community needs corporate financial information on a regular basis in order to assess financial health of companies to maintain investment fairness. Insiders and big investment entities would have unfair investment advantages if financial reporting decreased in frequency.

Jim Jeffries — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jim Jeffries Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The Enron fiasco demonstrated clearly that more oversight, not less oversight, is absolutely required to keep corporations honest. Exactly who does this benefit? I suspect it's the corporations themselves and/or their upper level management. It's certainly NOT the investing public.

Jim Livingston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jim Livingston Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We don’t need to make it easier for these companies to hide. This will only hurt investors and help inside traders. Enough already!

Sent from my iPhone

---

jim marchelletta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jim marchelletta Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a great business protocol to follow. It would benefit anybody in the stock market , help avoid nationwide recessions another calamities that make it very hard for working class people. It can be done.

Sent from my iPhone

---

jim marchelletta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jim marchelletta Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a great business protocol to follow. It would benefit anybody in the stock market , help avoid nationwide recessions and other calamities that make it very hard for working class people. It can be done.

Sent from my iPhone

Jim Meyer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jim Meyer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 ARE YOUNUTS!!! KEEP THEM HONEST

Jim Morrison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jim Morrison Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There should be quarterly reports just like I have to pay my income tax quarterly!! What is the SEC trying to hide. .. .My name is James Morrison, and I'm a Pipefitter, quarterly is ok but I like to see it when I want to see it, just like my financial consultant, and my IRA's I can check them daily online. Shouldn't try to hide behind a bi annual reporting!!

Get Outlook for Android

Jim Nairn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jim Nairn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly Reports can only be replaced by Monthly Reports Do not eliminate Quarterly Reports

---

Jim Rollins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Rollins Against! It's really stupid idea. Makes evaluation of investments more risky.

Jim Schultz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Schultz Stick with Quarterly please.

Jim Senger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jim Senger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep CEO rReporting

Everything is rooted in the 19th century concept of the entrepreneur who was vested in the enterprise. Today enterprises are managed by agents not owners. These agents are invested in their bonuses not in the long term success of the enterprise. These agents can afford a clerk to file this paper work. This provides protection to the 21st century owners, stockholders

---

Jim Sullivan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jim Sullivan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Knowing personally the cost of the ENRON debacle my question is why would any honest person want the quarterly fainancial requirement be eased.

Jim Terry a Motley Fool investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Terry a Motley Fool investor I believe it is important that public companies provide their owners (the investing public) with financial information four times a year. It is important that the owners of the public companies have access to this information more than twice a year.

Jim Thrash — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jim Thrash Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 When business is allowed to be conducted without regularly shining a light on business practices, corruption flourishes. With so many Americans' retirements tied to IRA's, mutual funds, etc., allowing less frequent reporting only stands to hurt the average American. Keep reporting requirements quarterly!

Respectfully,

Jim Thrash
Average Investor/Concerned American

Jim Trovato None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Trovato Transparency is good business. Reducing the frequency of reports to investors would likely results in more "bad surprises" when the information is made available. Company owners deserve transparency and regular updates on the ongoing operations of the companies in which they have invested.

Jim W. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jim W. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why break a good thing Keep the quarterly reporting structure!

Jim Walden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Walden As an investor, I need regular reporting information to maintain my schedule. Going from quarterly to semi-annual reporting will make it much harder for me to make informed decisions. There is a lot that can change in a 6 month period.

Jim Weber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jim Weber Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Jim Weber, from SC.

Do not go backwards 7o years to the time when corporations could hide their illegal actions due to get filings of financial records.

Jim Wells — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jim Wells Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a horrible idea! Is nothing learned from past mistakes! Enron! Please do not do this. The Trump administration is constantly eroding consumer protections- only billionaires profit..

Sent from my iPhone

Jim West — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jim West Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am sick and tired of the business uber alley mentality that has highjacked the culture of this country. Capitalism with no regard for the common good is just another form of totalitarianism. Backlash from that has traditionally led to communism as they become indistinguishable from one another.

Jim Wille none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Wille Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. Less information rarely creates better-informed owners.

Jim Wohlfarth The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Wohlfarth I'm am not in favor of the Semiannual Reporting Rule. Under this proposal, share owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. To reiterate, I am against the Semiannual Reporting Rule. I hope you do not enact it.

Jim Wunderlich Computer science professional — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Wunderlich Owners (shareholders) of the company should receive updates monthly of how the company is doing.

Jim Yeagle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jim Yeagle As a retail investor I do extensive study of my investments. The quarterly earnings report is a very important aspect of my study. Going to a bi-yearly report is a disservice in this rapidly changing financial world.

Jim Young — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jim Young Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retired person who depends on my investment income to survive quarterly reports are very important to me. We need the information to know how are investments are doing.

James P. Young
Crossville Tennessee

Jimmy D — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jimmy D Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 James Dye, Investor, No Way! This is giving way to large a window to take advantage of the public's Investing. Leave it Alone! NO!

Jimmy D. Powell Motley Fools Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jimmy D. Powell I feel that reducing reporting requirement will cause me, as an investor, to be less informed on the companies actions. As a part owner of the company, by purchasing stock in it, I want to keep informed about its actions so that I can decide to purchase more stock or sell my stock in that company. By reducing the number of reports, I will be less able to make informed, timely decisions regarding the companies I'm invested in.

Jimmy Money — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jimmy Money Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 James Money, Retired Industrial Maintenance Mechanic.
If this is aloud it wouldn't be fair to the investors.

Jitendra Patil — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jitendra Patil The new proposal is a mistake. The owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own; that's going to hurt investors. It will make us less-informed. I do not support reducing reporting to twice a year.

JL Sterling — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Transparent Reporting From: JL Sterling Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To maintain integrity and full transparency, it is essential that we continue quarterly financial reporting without interruption. Financial stewardship is a core responsibility, and any actions that undermine or trivialize proper reporting practices are unacceptable. We must uphold clear, accurate, and timely documentation to ensure accountability and protect the credibility of our processes.

Jo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This would negatively affect everyone who has worked to save money their whole lives. Changing it would cause great harm to the American people. Do the smart thing to help everyday Americans and keep quarterly reporting!!

Sent from my iPad

Jo Ann Detloff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jo Ann Detloff Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think it would be a crime waiting to happen if we stop quarterly reporting. I for one count on quarterly report to do my financial planning. Why would we go back to a system that was a failure?

Sent from my iPhone

Jo Ann Townsend — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jo Ann Townsend Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If the SEC allows this new rule to be applied, they are doing a HUGE disservice to the entire country of the small or individual investors. There is NOT ONE GOID REASON to extend the reports to 6 months! And it is a sign of more shady deals behind the curtains, more cheating & less accountability to show for corporations that are not on the up & up. We OPPOSE Wholeheartedly this proposal & say KEEP IT QUARTERLY for the reports of company financial statements. DO NOT ALLOW 6 month reports.

Sent from my iPhone

Jo Christian — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jo Christian Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't allow company executives more time to hide the money trail. It is too important to allow them to hide the numbers.

Jo Nelson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jo Nelson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What reasoning supports changing from quarterly reporting except to benefit the corporations. I was under the impression the SEC is a watchdog for the everyday people not the massively wealthy. Please do not change the current reporting system.

Sent from my iPhone

Joan Bergstrom — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joan Bergstrom Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely not! I will not invest anymore unless I can monitor my accounts quarterly!

Joan Bersch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joan Bersch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is no need for this. 6 months is appropriate and helps protect investors.

Sent from my iPhone

Joan Billman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joan Billman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly Reporting ❗
We must have Transparency!!

Joan Billman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Keep Quarterly Reporting From: Joan Billman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We must have Transparency!!

Joan Cichon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Joan Cichon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Are you out of your minds? Why endanger our entire economy at a financially unstable time like this?

Joan Cichon
434.939.7043
Tucson, AZ 85712

"New beginnings are often disguised as painful endings." — Lao Tzu.

Joan Ehrenberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joan Ehrenberg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Big Corporations don’t need more tools for easy fraud and to shield the public.

JoanEhrenberg
744 Hidden Valley Dr, Whitefish, MT 59937

---

joan Goodell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: joan Goodell It has gotten to the point that data collection is considered to be a detriment instead of a way to prevent corruption, foul play and cover ups. The more information the people have, the better judgments they can make and the less fraud they will be exposed to. The freedom of information act was there to stop corruption and prevent misleading data from influencing the public in a negative way.

Joan Greene — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joan Greene Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Proper business planning should require quarterly reporting. Less than that only leads to the denigration of reliable, transparent accountability from all companies. Leadves the door open for fraud(like Enron) to proliferate in the market place. This could cause the public to completely lose all trust in the market as a whole. You have insider trading from the entire gov't manipulating markets and beating out the snall investors who elected them and pay them already. As long as you need public sentiment and support you should make more frequent reporting not less.

Joan Jolman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Joan Jolman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Joan Jolman- Retired. This is ridiculous. You are opening the door for more Enron instances. Do you not care that the everyday working Americans are the ones that will be hurt if this goes badly! I'm sure the current administration is behind this! When did you become an extension of the administration instead of the nonpartisan organization that you should be?

Sent from my iPhone

Joan Lesikin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joan Lesikin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports!

Sent from my iPhone

Joan Little — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Joan Little Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please protect my investments by refusing to change the rule requiring corporations to do quarterly reporting. Transparency is vital!

Joan Mariette — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Joan Mariette Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
This is totally wrong. Tranparancy is what is needed to make if fair for everyone.. The last thing we need is fraud.

Joan McCabe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joan McCabe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Today we have many new investors. Also investors are busy people and need to ne alerted more often. Joan McCabe

Sent from my iPhone

Joan Morrissey grace — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Joan Morrissey grace Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I oppose this change to the SEC regulation. All companies should be providing transparency to the public and stockholders via quarterly reports of performance. We all need to have access to information on a company's compliance to the rules to prevent fraud and abuse and protect our retirement plans that we have worked hard to save and invest in over our long working careers.

please do not let the struggling middle class lose their hard earned money because big corporations want to be lax with necessary reporting. As a taxpayer I am tired of bailing out companies who play fast and md loose with investors money and avoid following consumers regulations.

JOAN MOSEBAR KOROL — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: JOAN MOSEBAR KOROL Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING REQUIREMENTS. IT IS TOUGH ENOUGH TO INVEST EFFECTIVELY WITH INSIDER TRADING ETC

Joan Prinaris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joan Prinaris Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. This regular interval helps keep companies accountable and more transparent. It will help to keep our money safer.

Joan Prinaris
Retiree

Joan Ritchie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joan Ritchie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly!! I am retired and an 80 year old widow and live off of Social Security and my savings. Please help me protect what I have!!

Sent from my iPhone

Joan Sheridan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Joan Sheridan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: transparency is essential to an open market. Heed Madison's warning, "if men were angels we would need no government." With new markets exploding, accountability is paramount and we rely on our government to protect investors.

Joan Van Hoven — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joan Van Hoven Keep company reporting to shareholders four times per year.

Joan Wallace — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joan Wallace Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reports more than ever

Joan Wallace

Bristol, RI

Sorry about typos, Sent from my iPhone

Joanie Ellis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joanie Ellis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The proposal to cut the reporting from quarterly to half is unfair to the many investors who are counting on returns for retirement as well as others who need this information to make wise choices. It seems a very poor choice on the part of the SEC and will not enhance transparency nor encourage investors.
Please reconsider.
Sincerely,
Joan Ellis, retired
105 Oak Terrace Ct
Fort Bragg, CA 95437

Joanie Pelzer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Joanie Pelzer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 DO THE RIGHT THING. SUPPORT THE REAL PEOPLE OF THIS COUNTRY. KEEP IT QUARTERLY.

KEEP IT QUARTERLY.

Sent from my Galaxy

Joanie Regan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joanie Regan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the current system of reporting quarterly for protection of those who are not insiders and who do not have insider information. Thank you for taking public comment and protecting the public interest.

_____ Joanie Regan
157 Oak Avenue
Cocoa Beach, FL 32931
321 482-3323
joanieregan.2020@gmail.com

Joann Csakany — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joann Csakany Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yes a better knowledge of what is happening with our investments is important factor for all. Quarterly reports are the way it should be.

Sent from my iPad

JoAnn Magro — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: JoAnn Magro Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to make informed decisions ~ KEEP Quarterly! I have seen reputable companies with finance teams that have been suffered losses for to other companies playing the optics game. These losses always filter thru to consumers. All investors need to the most up to date information possible.

Sent from my iPhone

Joann Pettit — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joann Pettit Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep them honest! Our lives depend on it!

Joann Quam — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Joann Quam Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep corporate accountable!

JOANN SHIELDS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: JOANN SHIELDS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 With today's volatile markets it is imperative to keep more frequent reporting! Quarterly reporting at a minimum needs to remain!

Sent from my iPhone

Joanna Howard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joanna Howard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There was so much corruption and Eron proved that. Do not role back that law. Keep quarterly reports and signed by the CEO. Stop allowing them to break the law!

Sent from my iPhone

Joanne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joanne Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to keep quarterly reporting! It is very important for investors.

Joanne O'Hara, Regional Accounting Manager

Sent from my iPad

Joanne Badr Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joanne Badr In a world where no one trusts much of anything, let us preserve our stock market and the rights of its investors to keep track of what is going on. AI is going to make reporting faster and less expensive than it once was. Why would we go from 4 reports per year to just 2? That takes away actual transparency, but more importantly, it takes away a level of trust that Im not sure we can afford to lose at this time in history!

Joanne Bergren — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joanne Bergren I am part of an investing community which relies upon free flow of transparent information from publicly traded businesses in order for retail investors to make intelligent decisions for their individual financial well-being. Quarterly reports from publicly traded companies are a vital source of information regarding the health and governance of businesses. With the current geopolitical chaos affecting public markets quarterly reports can be an essential tool for the retail investor to survive the volatility. Please do not take away this important source of information from the American public.

---

joanne bopp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: joanne bopp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't make any changes. Things are working just fine. Don't mess with it.

Joanne Coleman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joanne Coleman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No, do not allow this to pass. You need up to date, full current financial disclosure at all times. Just in the time of 3 months you still have the possibility of losing your lifetime savings in this day and time. NO!!

Sent from my iPhone

---

joanne czarnecki — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: joanne czarnecki Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want it to be kept quarterly! Make it transparent to everyone! Otherwise it looks like their hiding something!

Sent from my iPhone

Joanne Fahrenwald — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joanne Fahrenwald Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please retain quarterly reporting. It is important that people are well informed and that opportunities for fraud are minimalist. I remember Enron!

Sent from my iPhone

Joanne Harris stock holder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joanne Harris Less reporting (2x yearly vs 4x yearly) gives us stock holders less information we need to manage our investments. Stockholders need transparent, frequent updates and with better technology for creating these reports, the effort to create them should be lessened. I implore you not to accept reducing changes to the reporting periods for businesses.

Joanne Hubbard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joanne Hubbard Quarterly statements and reports are important to full disclosure. Do NOT change to fewer.

Joanne Mahoney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Joanne Mahoney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly returns . We need more corporate transparency not less . I am a retire accountant and I understand what you are trying to go , create more corporate fraud , not eliminate it .

Joanne Mahoney

Sent from my iPhone

Joanne Robles Swanson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joanne Robles Swanson We need more company transparency not less. I urge you to keep the existing company reporting requirements. Less reporting would harm the investor community by delaying critical financial data and invite fraud and misrepresentation.

Joanne Russo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joanne Russo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports should continue as the information is critical for planning our financial decisions and future. Please keep quarterly reporting. Thank you!

Sent from my iPad

Joanne Saritelli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joanne Saritelli Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No way should this happen

---

Joanne Simmons — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joanne Simmons Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I do not want the SEC to change the quarterly reporting of public companies. I am an investor and need this information.
Why change something that is working.
Joanne Simmons

Sent from my iPad

Joanne Wolff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joanne Wolff Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. I have worked in the accounting department for Fortune 500 companies and small companies and this report keeps things honest. We need transparency

Sent from my iPad

Joaquin Mills — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joaquin Mills Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting and signing is absolutely necessary to keep corporations, honest and in line if you change this rule, you are the one who looks crooked. Just like Nixon just like Trump. The American people who are struggling deserve better. American veterans who are struggling deserve better. Please do not change this rule. It will hurt American families. And benefit crooked corporate CEOs, who already make 200 times salary that their employees make. Don’t force us to get out the guillotines we outnumber you. Remember the French Revolution it could happen again.

Sent from my iPhone

Joby — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joby Quarterly reporting should be bare minimum. More information makes for better investors and lets those companies that are truly successful succeed.

Jocelyn Ellis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jocelyn Ellis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It's not as if businesses have magically become more honest since the Madoff affair. If anything they've become far worse. If you want to motivate Americans to work harder and invest, you've got to protect our interests.

Jodi Rose — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jodi Rose Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I have retirement investments managed by a financial advisor. I depend on quarterly financial reporting to ensure my advisor has current information about the companies in my portfolio and that my long-term financial security isn’t compromised by information gaps that benefit insiders. Extending reporting to six months would delay critical information that affects my retirement planning.

- Helen Crump
Harper County, Kansas

---

jodi sheley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jodi sheley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jodi Sheley; Realtor. This is unacceptable! We need MORE transparency NOT less!!!!

Regards,

Jodi Sheley

REALTOR®
S.185800

Jodine Speckman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jodine Speckman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why Should We Make It Any Easier for those who Cheat Everyday Americans!
Senior who s Angry about America s Path! 76 yo who knows the many life s lost for America

---

jody arganbright — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jody arganbright Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to monitor how our money is being used no less than quarterly. Surprises are not acceptable in an economy that moves quickly.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

---

jody beaudin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: jody beaudin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly? Should be monthly. Corporations are gouging the American people. Cut their salaries before raising prices.

Josephine Beaudin
Retired

Sent from my iPhone

Jody Morehouse — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jody Morehouse Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is the bare minimum ask to protect the interests of all involved.

Sent from my iPhone

Jody Schulz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jody Schulz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do NOT change the financial reporting to bi-annually.
keep it to quarterly at the least.
there is enough fraud already

Jody Wenrich — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jody Wenrich Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential to keep corporations transparent to their investors!

Joe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Joe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly corporate reporting works. Don’t change it!

Joe Abt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joe Abt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Financial reporting should remain quarterly. THere is no valid reason to change to bi-annual.

Joe Beckman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joe Beckman Quarterly reporting provides increased information availability especially for the retail investor who doesn't have access to other resources. The potential benefits of reduction in compliance comes at a cost of individuals many of which have significant net worth invested into these companies.

Joe Bogdan Joe Bogdan — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Joe Bogdan Joe Bogdan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please, quarterly earnings report is an essential KPI albeit status on the health of a company. Do not eliminate this reporting requirement or it will leave investors in the dark until it is too late. You are bright people, you know the risk of sweeping performance under the rug whether good or bad. It keeps people in the dark. This is not a casino where you hope for the best and have good luck. Information is power, do what your mother and father taught you to do. Do the right thing, be the beacon, and keep shining the light on the necessity of. quarterly performance reports

---

Joe Caracci — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joe Caracci We need to maintain transparency and timely reporting

---

Joe Cirino Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joe Cirino This action will create a lack of transparency for investors/owners of public companies. Reporting just 2X per year would greatly impact individual investors and add unnecessary risk to their investments. The arguments put forth such as cost savings and elimination of short-term management are bogus.

Joe Coppinger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joe Coppinger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Telling you keeping it quarterly keeps it safe

---

Joe Grosso — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joe Grosso Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly reporting!

Sent from my iPhone

Joe Heim CPA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joe Heim Semi-annual reporting to investors will have a detrimental effect on individual investors.

Joe Hernandez Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joe Hernandez Statement stated on previous page. Why it’s not forwarding is unknown to me.

Joe hills Mötley fool — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joe hills Keep reporting as is

---

Joe J, winney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joe J, winney The current reporting cycle should not be changed. The individual investor has enough obstacles to overcome currently and historically. In the ATT example I doubt individuals were censored in any meaningful way or it would have been mentioned.

Joe Kosecki The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joe Kosecki I strongly object the proposal for twice-yearly report and support the continuation of quarterly reporting as is currently in effect.

Joe Little Independent Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joe Little This is a poorly thought-out, ill-timed proposed rule. I urge the Commission to reconsider. The cost savings, if any, are negligible and are far outweighed by the prospect of corporate insiders trading on changes in business conditions that are not made available to the company's owners (shareholders) until some much later date.

Joe O’Neal Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joe O’Neal As investors, we require up to date information on companies that we hold assets in. Situations can change quickly and timely information allows investors to reasonably know when to sell or purchase stocks in our portfolios. It is a horrible idea to cut these reporting timelines from quarterly to bi-annually. You will do a great disservice to both private and institutional investors if you attempt to follow through on this change.

Joe Partlow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joe Partlow Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please do not change the existing financial reporting system. As a senior citizen, six months is a long time to wait to see how the companies I've invested in are doing.

Joe Pilewski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joe Pilewski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Six months is a very, very long time so much can happen and so much of it is not good. Please keep the quarterly reporting for publicly traded companies. Theives operate in darkness. Keep the transparency of the quarterly reporting.

Joe Pilewski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments DON’T DO IT!!! KEEP IT QUARTERLY!!!! From: Joe Pilewski

Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Six months is a very, very long time so much can happen and so much of it is not good. Please keep the quarterly reporting for publicly traded companies. Theives operate in darkness. Keep the transparency of the quarterly reporting.

Joe Tierno — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Joe Tierno Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I became a CPA in 1970 after rigorous study and personal sacrifice. I was horrified by the Enron crime but was totally disillusioned by the crimes of 2008. The profession became corrupt in my view and damaged forever its highly vaunted status. Signing a simple statement just may inspire executives to restore the profession, one quarter at a time. Joe Tierno, retired , and still residing in New York State.

Joe Waldron The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joe Waldron I am worried that reducing the public reporting period from 4 times a year to 2 times a year will result in a lack of transparency from the companies I invest in. I am requesting that you do not implement the Semiannual reporting rule. Thank you.

Joe Zeug Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joe Zeug I think that semi annual reporting will reduce information available to individual investors and benefit large investment firms disproportionately. I think the quarterly reporting should stay in place to provide more information to individual investors.

JOEL BARON — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JOEL BARON More accountability is needed for prudent investment

---

Joel Goodman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joel Goodman I respectfully request that you keep the number of public-company reports to four times each year. More information and more frequent information will help me to be a better-informed investor. Thank you for seriously considering this request.

Joel Hansen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joel Hansen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting with signed financial statements has worked well to protect us investors since the Enron scandal happened! I can see no reason to switch back to 6 month reporting periods other than to make it easier to cook the books & defraud investors! Well, the only reason I can see is that the SEC wants to make life easier for con men by switching to 6 month reporting periods! Considering that Trump closed the White Collar Crime division of the DOJ on his first day of his Presidency this term I would not be surprised to see him making this change, but it shocks me that SEC would propose a change that makes life easier for the crooks to hide the malfeasance!

Joel

Joel Hansen
985-422-8913

Joel J Lipton Registered Investment Advisor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joel J Lipton I believe all public companies should report their financials no less than four (4) times per year to the public and to all it's shareholders!

Joel Lukoff Retired CEO of an industrial manufacturing company — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joel Lukoff Moving to semi-annual financial reporting will create more uncertainty and instability in our markets. It's a movement in the wrong direction!

Joel R Brouwer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joel R Brouwer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a small investor, I find quarterly reporting to be absolutely critical to my process of making sound investments. Do not change the reporting cycle. Maintain transparency and support companies with sound practices by maintaining quarterly reporting.

Joel Sayre — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Joel Sayre Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In my opinion it should be monthly. The foxes need to be kept out of the Hen house.

Joel Sayre — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joel Sayre Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This needs to be stopped. They should have to do monthly filings.
Intense oversight can help keep them honest

Joel Steward — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joel Steward Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hell YES ! If any changes are to be made, I'd suggest even more scrutiny, like MONTHLY reporting.

Joel Steward—retired
The greedy bastards CAN NOT be trusted

Sent from my iPhone

Joel White — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joel White Consider rejecting the proposal for eliminating quarterly reports. As investors we need to stay informed; and by removing 10-Q statements would undermine these efforts.

Johanna Daudsyah Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Johanna Daudsyah Please do not reduce the number of opportunities I have to get reports from my investment companies. Stop just stop. We want things transparent.

Johanne Gilmour — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Johanne Gilmour Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 J Kjergaard retired as I have retirement accounts investing I want the quarterly reports my investment open Company need to be transparent to investors reports needed and keep companies open and have to answer to the people who invest in them , transparency and accountability they need to supply quarterly reports

---

John — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why don't you just send the Wall St. Crooks an invitation to screw the public more than ever. Great idea.

Sent from AOL on Android

John — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 EARN YOUR PAY SEC!!!

This would allow fraudulent companies to “steal” your money and run. Quarterly reports have a tough time catching this kind of grift!

Sent from my iPhone

John — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is bad for the economy and will backfire. Perhaps the shady people backing it will profit, but it will hurt the United States as a whole and undermine trust, cause investment to decline. DO NOT ALLOW THIS!!!

John — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Less transparency at time when transparency has to be the foundation of any decision making process, is a mistake and a root cause of hesitation in investment.

John A Gilchrist retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John A Gilchrist Please keep Quarterly reporting. We need to know what is happening.

John Adkison Mötley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Adkison I am in favor of maintaining the status quo with companies reporting four times a year on their status

---

John and Jackie Sheldon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John and Jackie Sheldon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Essential for transparency.

Sent from my iPhone

John Balog None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Balog As a retired investor, it would be a mistake to allow for 2 reports/year. I need to understand the health of a company and quarterly does help with that. I feel there would be many more companies involved in legal action if left to their own 'monitoring'. Please keep it transparent and quarterly, thank you.

John Bauer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Bauer Hi 2 times a year is half as good. 4 times a year is better. Please don't change the rule.

John Bilich Self — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Bilich Regarding the evaluation time of for the proposal to allow semi annual reporting, I strongly urge a discharge of this resolution. If a company has to hide their statements, or withhold their positions in the market longer is not worthy of their investors who demand transparency. Reporting to the public should be timely and requiring no change. I will be watching and pray common sense prevails.

John Bleymaier Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Bleymaier Please do not reduce requirements for reporting by publicly traded companies from quarterly to semiannual. Transparency is important. Being kept informed is very important.

John Blum — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Blum Please keep SEC reporting requirements as quarterly. More information on my investments is needed rather than less. Quarterly reporting keeps the management more accountable.

John Bozzelli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Bozzelli Companies need to be transparent....many are not!

John Brown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Brown Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If it’s not broke don’t fix it. Price of doing business.

John Bryan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: John Bryan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please stop punishing the innocent and do you jobs by putting the crooked Ceo's in Jail for the full terms.

John Bryan
352-215-0445

John Buckley None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Buckley This is a really bad idea. As an investor I need more information not less. It reduces my confidence to invest.

John burrows — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John burrows Keep the reporting at 4 times per year

---

John Byers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Byers I have read up on the proposed legislation to allow companies to opt for only 2 reporting period per year (compared to the current 4x per year). I am OPPOSED to this change as it will provide much less company information that I need and use in my investment decisions. I really can't see where there would be any real savings per year for these companies. Respectfully; John Byers (I am a Motley Fool subscriber and active investor)

John C Durbin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John C Durbin Please keep the existing mandate for public-company reports to be submitted to the SEC on a quarterly basis. I rely on the current frequency of these reports to make well informed investment decisions. Thank you.

John Carter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Carter In this day and age of modern technological tools and automation, there is no reason that reporting should have to be reduced to semi-annually just to save costs. Costs, at this time, should be reduced to a minimum with all the technology and tools available to the modern financial institution. This process was put into place to mitigate fraud and corruption and should also not be removed for that reason alone.

John Cavanagh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Cavanagh Quarterly reports are necessary so shareholders are timely aware of decisions which effect value of investment.

John Chappell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Chappell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To whom it may concern,

Reducing the existing reporting schedule from quarterly to biannually would only serve to reduce the information various stakeholders need to make informed decisions, and increase the potential for malfeasance. It seems obvious that this would be the case. Financial statements are not so difficult to produce that these changes are necessary as most of it is or will be automated by AI anyway, with the possible exception of footnotes.

I strongly disagree with the push to move away from quarterly reporting.

Sincerely,
John Chappell

John Chappell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Chappell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear sirs,

My last accounting title was manager of financial accounting and reporting for a medium sized non-profit healthcare provider in Washington state. Among other things it was my job to produce financial statements, and to provide written explanations for changes in various metrics. This information is used to for the purpose of creating actionable data, to make informed decisions. Like everyone else in our industry, we produced these reports quarterly. It’s been that way for a very long time.

There is really only one reason that corporations would want to reduce the frequency of these reports, and that is to keep stakeholders in the dark about changes happening behind the scenes. “Stakeholders” does not simply mean shareholders. Employees are stakeholders. Adjacent communities are stakeholders. Various government, legal and taxing agencies are stakeholders. Less reporting means less information, and less opportunity to address problems that have broader implications for the public at large.

Moving from quarterly to biannually is a bad idea that will lead to consequences for everyone.

Thank you for your time.

John Connell n/a — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Connell I believe it would be a mistake to reduce the reporting frequency for companies to inform investors. I join with The Motley Fool group in protesting the proposed change to twice per year. Thank you.

John Connolly — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Connolly Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Responsibilities and accountability should be enforced, please don't create an environment for increased fraud and misrepresentation of facts.

Sent from my iPhone

John Connor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Connor I am opposed to companies only reporting twice a year instead of four. Small investors like myself need all the current information we can get, and depend on these reports to help us make intelligent investment decisions. Thank You, John Connor

---

John Connors None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Connors The propose rule would be a grave error that would sacrifice transparency and fairness in favor of unchecked capitalism, while providing insignificant cost savings. The greatest challenges facing investors today would not be remedied by this change. The SEC was created to protect investors; this goes against that.

John Crescenzi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Crescenzi As a long time and long term investor I believe that the more open and transparent the better. I am against semi annual reports

---

John D Bailie Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John D Bailie Please do not revise the quarterly reporting requirements for public corporations. Less information about the companies that I invest in is a bad idea.

John D Baker Individual Investors — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John D Baker Please do not change the reporting interval for financial reporting by companies. There is already too much graft and consumer blindfoldling by corporations, and halving the current reporting requirements can and will cause significant damage if companies report less often. Companies already have plenty of potentially deceitful tools in their armaments to be untruthful with consumers, and consumers have the right to know what is being done with their investments. Crying about the cost of following honest, transparent business practices in reporting their financials only serves to make the public less informed and increases their already excessive profits. Please do not change a system tool that has been working effectively for many years.

John Danis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Danis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is essential as the bare minimum act of transparency for small investors and the general public to make informed economic decisions. Frankly, it should be required even more frequently than quarterly.

Jack Danis

John Davies — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Davies More information is always better than less information.

John Davito with Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Davito with Motley Fool Reducing financial reporting to twice yearly severely limits the oversite the stockholders can provide and makes it more difficult to know the status of the company. The change hides information from the investing public that is necessary to make informed decisions about how the company is performing. the reduced reporting requirement would make it easier for the unscrupulous to hide their malfeasance. in short the change provides a false benefit since it is unlikely that there would be a significant reduction in staffing as a result of this change since the company still needs to measure its performance.

John Delibos — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Delibos Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 John J. Delibos, Vice-President Corporate, Government and Community Affairs

The entire stock and bond markets are built on quarterly reports. What are you thinking? Your supposed to protect, serve and support the investing public, not charlatan plutocrats.

John J. Delibos

John Dennehy Member NYSSCPAs, Registered Professional Alliance Advisor with Ameriprise — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Dennehy As an investor, CPA, and non practicing RR, I believe that changing the reporting requirements from quarterly to semi-annually is a mistake. Public corporations will continue to calculate earnings on a quarterly basis for their own internal management needs. The time/cost savings from not having to report that information to the SEC will be minimal. The potential cost of not having that information on a timely basis for investors could potentially be much greater. I believe that it is necessary to continue requiring quarterly reporting for public companies for this reason. Thank you for your consideration.

John Dirk Vos none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Dirk Vos At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Semi annual reporting is a bad idea. I do not support S7-2026-15.

John Doherty motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Doherty I have owned a number of business and always request management to send me quartly reports

---

John Duncan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Duncan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 John Duncan Retired
If it ain’t broke don’t fix it .
We have enormous fraud of all fronts if business now due to poor or no oversight , don’t make it easier to stray off the path of honesty

Sent from my iPhone

John E Faure Retired Engineer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John E Faure I am very much against reducing the number of reports per year for companies. Getting financial performance data on the companies I invest in every quarter is very important to me to know how my investments are doing. I rely on income from my investments to support my wife and myself in retirement. Please do not reduce reporting requirements either in time period or content.

John E Stith - Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John E Stith - Motley Fool Community Reporting quarterly, rather than bi-annually doesn't add to volatility. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed.

John Ellis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Ellis As a long time investor, I see no reason to reduce the number of reports per year by half. A lot of good , and bad, can happen to a company in six months! Keep the reporting time quarterly. Thank You

---

John English Retired - former Financial Svcs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John English This is a stupid idea designed only to save corporations a couple bucks in postage and cut reporting jobs while actually making them less accountable to investors. That's the real savings their lobbyists are after. Investors are owners. You do zero good and actually more risk/harm to your owners by being keeping them less informed. As an investor I would opt for more accountability than less every time.

John Enyart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Enyart Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Enyart CEO timely info is necessary for good decisions.

Don't change from current process.

John Estep — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Estep Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't fix what isn't broken. Quarterly reports work.

John Fan The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Fan I think reducing reporting to a semiannual schedule is a mistake. Less reporting will make stockholders less informed about the company. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. I think this would negatively affect the stock market as a whole.

John Felder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Felder As a shareholder and part owner of a business I expected regular quarterly communication and transparency. Quarterly is reasonable. Biannual opens the door for secrecy and corruption.

John Fiore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Fiore Do not do away with quarterly corporate reporting.

John Fitzgerald Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Fitzgerald Having worked in management positions for much of my 40+ year career, quarterly reporting provides shareholders with enough insight to confirm their conviction to an organization without distracting the workforce from their primary duties. When an organization under performs for a month its causation is recognized & re-confirmed within the first 2 weeks of the 1st month. Management then determines a plan of action and implements the plan prior to the beginning of the 2nd month. Minimal if any change directly due to the causation will be detected in the 1st months financials. By the end of the 2nd month the financials should show the plan gaining traction showing improvements in the expected areas and by the 3rd month the success of the plan would be confirmed. That is why quarterly reporting is so important; problem solving takes time. 3 months is plenty of time to "right the ship"; if management is truly elbows deep in navigating it. They may take a share price hit for a quarter, but they can earn back the trust of their shareholders and employees before the next reporting date (never more than 3-5 months post under performance). If not the shareholders deserve to know its time to reassess the value of the investment including the additional risk.

John Flynn The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Flynn Want to void reducing reporting by publicly traded companies. It will reduce transparency for individual investors such as myself. We need to have enough information (more than 2x/yr) to make sound financial investment decisions. Thank you.

John Fonvielle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Fonvielle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Enron sucked! GE Capital sucked!! Get this: I was a sales contracts negotiator at Boeing. sole contributor and attorney. Boeing CFO made other finance VPs sign affirmations; these VPs executive pushed it down to non executives. They wanted to shirk their responsibilities. This was before the airplane crashed that killed 350 people. Corruption and mother *ers want to take down our country.

Sent from my iPhone

John Forde — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Forde As a private investor, I require as much information on the companies I want to invest in or in which I already hold shares, to track their progress. I consider quarterly updates to be critical. Going to 60 months between updates would be distressful to me and other private investors, who rely on our investment portfolios to support secondary education for our children, augment our other income, etc. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. When I own a piece of a business, I deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and me as an owner.

John Fuller — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Fuller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Nothing is broken here! Keep current reporting!

John Gallagher Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Gallagher As a shareholder I am a part owner of a company or corporation. I believe I should have the opportunity for my company to keep me informed on a regular basis. Quarterly reports are not an unreasonable time period, especially considering how rapidly new technology and business practices are changing.

---

john galt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: john galt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Corruption does not heal otself until acted upon by an outside force.
If recent events prove ANYTHING, it is we need more accountability not less.

John Garner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Garner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Better keep the billionaires honest. Not to mention a wanna-be Congress. If they wanted to be rich, they need to understand that Congress is NOT a fast track.

John Garretson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Garretson Changing the rules about reporting reduces transparency for investors. I believe it is ill-advised

---

John Gaugin-Rosenthal N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Gaugin-Rosenthal Publicly traded companies should be as transparent as possible, otherwise they should not be granted access to public capital (ie. the retail capital pool). That is the consideration - capital in exchange for abundant information rights.

John Gentry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: John Gentry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commissi teeth messed up

---

John Gibson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Gibson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 John Gibson, I am retired. SEC, I rely on quarterly reports for my decisions on my stock portfolio. Quarterly gives me four snapshots to compare vs two. I read my stock’s quarterly reports when they are released and it is how I determine if I invest more in the company, or make changes to my portfolio. As an investor, the SEC, should protect investors, rather than allowing corporations hide information for six months.

I want more clarity rather than less. Allowing corporations to release reports twice a year is a disservice to investors.

John Gill Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Gill Less information equals less knowledgeable investors. This would allow companies to hide the ball during times of market volatility. If it ain't broken don't fix it! !

John Glowinski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Glowinski Keep the amount of yearly reports at 4 (quarterly).

John Graham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Graham When I own a stock, I'm a legitimate part-owner of that business. Quarterly reports are how the company shares the full picture with me: where the money is coming from and where it's going; what's working and what's not. I get the financial statements, the management discussion of what happened and why, the trends in revenue and earnings, Q&A with analysts – four times a year. That cadence is more than bureaucratic box-checking. I believe It's the mechanism by which ordinary investors stay informed about the businesses they own.

John Granen Citizen of United States of America - retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Granen Quarterly reports are extremely important to measure performance and company transparency.

John Grunloh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Grunloh I encourage the SEC to keep the quarterly reporting requirements for companies. This gives greater transparancy to the health and direction of the company I am invested in. More information is better. The cost of reporting is going down and should not be a burden to a company.

John Haas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: John Haas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop the rollback. 2008.

Sent from my iPad

John Hagen — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Hagen Public corporations should report AT LEAST quarterly to their shareholders. The idea that reporting is optional or can be reduced to twice per year is ridiculous and should never be allowed. More opportunities for grift, graft, and larceny.

John Hansen CEO, Health for California Insurance Company — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Hansen Please keep reporting 4 times per year.

John Harris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Harris Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the quarterly statements, quarterly.

Respectfully,
John G. Harris

Sent from my iPhone

John Hayes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Hayes As a shareholder of many different companies, quarterly reporting provides me with the insight to make more educated financial decisions. Allowing semi-annual reports will just provide Wall Street with more inside information than the average investor like myself. Please continue to require quarterly reporting.

John Hayman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Hayman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly

Sent from my iPhone

John Heagle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Heagle As a retiree and investor, more information is better, thus reporting 4 times a year is better than 2 times. In today's times, business situations change rapidly that can affect my retirement savings as well as the investment decisions I make.

John Hinrichs Investor, Motley Fool subscriber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Hinrichs Reducing reporting requirements for Corporations is a mistake. Please consider the small investor who is a company owner when they buy stock. More information, more transparency is good for investors/shareholders, and to catch bad actors. With AI and other technological advances, the reporting cost are just not that burdensome.

John Humphrey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Humphrey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This only benefits the oligarchy this government supports, not its citizens. Less disclosure of companies books makes more room for unscrupulous practices by those companies. The companies have had the advantage over its citizens for 100 years. This only helps companies, not its citizens.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

John Humphries — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Humphries Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You wouldn't need to change it if you weren't doing something you didn't need to do. Keep it the same, please?

---

john ingham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: john ingham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As trust in government is declining and citizens are struggling to stay afloat financially, it sends absolutely the wrong message for government to deliver financial favors to corporations that disempower citizen stock holders. The SEC should do its job and keep financial reporting for corporations quarterly. Mary Grove, PhD, LP, 6/23/26

Sent from my iPad

John Izzo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Izzo I respectfully ask the SEC not to adopt S7-2026-15 and to continue requiring public companies to report on a quarterly basis. As an individual investor saving for retirement, I rely on the quarterly information provided to make important choices that will affect the quality of my life in the future. Given the available technology, any argument that there is an undue burden on a public company reporting quarterly seems specious. Having this information only twice per year places the individual investor at a serious disadvantage. Further, such an informational lag year could increase market volatility, as rumors and innuendo will dominate over real data. The primary mission of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) is to protect investors, maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets, and facilitate capital formation. One of its core functions is to protect investors by requiring companies to disclose meaningful financial and operational data. Given this mandate, it is difficult to see how the proposed change would help this important agency fulfill its mission or core functions. Once again, I submit this comment against the proposed change and thank you for the opportunity to do so.

John Jayme — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Jayme Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My question is, what is the real reason for it. Is the Goverment over stressed. Will it save companies money in the long eun. I doubt it. What will they do for the working stiff to help them we're getting crushed.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

John Jetty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: John Jetty Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

Publicly traded sticks require Public transparency!

John Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Jones Please leave 4 reports a year for stockholders. Also have stocks from other countries like China that are sold in the USA follow USA accounting standards.

John Kanaly — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Kanaly Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 John m Kanaly retired investor there was a reason for enactmentand now we have seen goodresults. So it should be kept quarterly.

U S
John.Kanaly3@gmail.com

John Kennedy Retiree — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Kennedy Any cost savings generated by reduced reporting would be far outweighed by the loss of transparency in the investing process

---

John Keyser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: John Keyser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly only. No half year rules.

John klukas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John klukas Reducing transparency is bad for investors and only confirms that the SEC is no longer taking into account the needs of American investors. Quarterly reports should continue to be mandatory and the SEC should be more vigorous in its pursuit of fraud.

John L Jenkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John L Jenkins This is a very bad idea - especially in this age of significant corporate malfeasance! We need more corporate transparency, not less - and that is a HUGE understatement!

John La Belle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John La Belle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If I have to file quarterly estimated taxes as an individual, so should companies continue to report earnings quarterly. The markets deserve more transparency and timely information, not less.

-John La Belle

Mind's Eye Reprographics, Inc.
33 North Knight Avenue
Endwell, New York 13760

mindseye-online.com

John La Pata — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John La Pata I am not in favor of reducing the reporting from quarterly to semiannual. Keep the transparency And trust for the public

---

John Lancaster — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Lancaster Please keep the reports coming 4x a year. More information is better than less.

John Lemire — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Lemire Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 John Lemire, retired, keep quarterly reporting!

Sent from my iPhone

John Leon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: John Leon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the current rules in place. CEO's need to be held accountable quarterly. We don't need another Enron. John Leon, 1070 High Trail Dr., Nebo, NC 28761

John Lightfoot RETIRED ,from ARMCO STEEL and army . — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Lightfoot 1229 Clark Avenue is my Residence , my Mail goes to po box 441 Independence mo 64051 I am an investor in stocks as part of my Retirement .

John Lionti — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Lionti Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly and have less chance the public will get screwed like Enron did to it's shareholders!

Sent from my iPhone

John Litz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: John Litz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is John Litz, a key account manager in the healthcare equipment field and I am writing to say KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING!

Quarterly reporting forces businesses to be more open with their investors. Rolling this back is a trumpian effort to hurt retail investors by allowing companies further secrecy there by making it more difficult for people without inside information to accurately value a company and decide if they'd like to invest.

Sent from my iPhone

John Lockaby — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: John Lockaby Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly reporting is an absolute necessity. The removal of requirements for quarterly reporting only helps big corporations keep investors in the dark about the status of their investments. The people need the SEC to look out for the interests of everyday Americans not big corporations. Thank you.

John Lynch Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Lynch Please do not let reporting be reduced from its current quarterly requirement. Thank you.

John M. McLaughlin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John M. McLaughlin As a stock investor for over forty years, I encourage the SEC to maintain the current requirement for quarterly reporting. A change to twice a year reporting will leave me as an independent investor with far less information about the companies I follow. Thank you.

John MacArthur President of JDM Solutions LLC — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John MacArthur The reporting should not change from 4 times per year to 2 times per year. Less information does not create better informed investors. As a stock hold in a publicly traded company, you already have limited / old information to make your investment decisions and reducing the number of times per year would be detrimental. Please do not change the reporting times per year.

John Macey The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Macey Providing stock owners with less frequent reports is a very bad idea. We need to be well informed and updated with (legally valid) information on how our companies (and management) are performing. Any saving in costs to companies by reducing the effort and expense of producing quarterly reports is trivial in terms of their total expenses budget.. An even more trivial cost (if as they should be) they are exploiting modern, efficient, management and communication software and systems.

JOHN MAROK INDIVIDUAL INVESTOR — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JOHN MAROK AS AN INDIVIDUAL INVESTOR, I DEPEND ON AS MUCH COMMUNICATION FROM THE COMPANIES I AM INVESTING IN. IT SEEMS THAT CUTTING THE REPORTING TIME IN HALF SLOWS THAT COMMUNICATION. I AM NOT FOR IT AT ALL!

John Mayfield — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Mayfield Two times per year? Why not every other year? Quarterly has been the standard for a long, long time. It keeps us informed on a current basis. Thanks. John

---

John McGraw — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John McGraw Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 John McGraw, Just who would want this? A list of names would help!

John McLaren — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John McLaren Please maintain quarterly reporting.

John McLaughlin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John McLaughlin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The SEC should maintain quarterly financial reports. Given that AI supposedly can do math so fast, maybe the frequency should be increased to bimonthly!

John McLaughlin: retired and totally dependent on my investment portfolio for the rest of my life,

Sent from my iPhone JFM
We shall overcome because the arc of the moral universe is long but it bends toward justice. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

John McMath — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John McMath Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting should be the minimum requirement. I personally would prefer monthly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

John McNutt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John McNutt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports!! Anything else only hurts the investor.

Sent from my iPhone

John Mee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Mee This is my money and oversight is imperative. Quarterly reports allow managers to address issues promptly. In the electronic age, a six month report allows for issues to be unresolved an additional 3 months. Correcting a six-month issue is exponential. The lack of interaction with other financial institutions will have a cascading effect. Companies have gone from paper reports to electronic reports (PDF) years ago. The savings of producing an electronic report is negligible. I think this Semiannual Reporting Rule, S7-2026-15, is just a means of reducing transparency and accountability.

John Meisenheimer, Jr. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Meisenheimer, Jr. Totally against this proposed rule change. It needs to be maintained at quarterly reporting.

John Merrill Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Merrill Please do not make the change that is being proposed.

John Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an investor this will give me less information on when to buy or sell stocks and other trading information needed to make that decision
I know it will give those inside information before it's made public
We need to contune the release of information to protect not only investors but the public at large.
John P. Miller
33624 Pineview
Fraser,MI.
48026

Get Outlook for Android

John Mitchell Motley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Mitchell I am in favour of quarterly reports to maximise a business's transparency

---

John Mojsiej — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Mojsiej Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 John Mojsiej, Retired. I would like to see quarterly reporting to continue. There is no reason to allow it to continue with most financial report being computer generated. Going to semi-annual reporting would allow too many things to change with the general public left with little info while insiders would be well aware of a companies future. Again, maintain quarterly reporting. Thank you.

John Moran The Motley Fool Community. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Moran Semiannual Reporting reduces transparency for investors to make prudent investment decisions. Quarterly is much more helpful for an individual investor with deciding the appropriate place to allocate capital

---

John Morgan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: John Morgan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't succumb to the Trump corruption wave. Keep the current quarterly reporting requirements.

Sent from my iPhone

John Morris CEO Bioexegesis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Morris In this age of more information and data, more companies, higher volatility, greater difficulty in distinguishing facts from opinion, and improved efficiency (i.e. lower cost) in communicating, you and I should be talking about more frequent public reporting/accountability, not less!

John Murty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Murty Quarterly reports help all individual investors understand about the companies that we invest in. We need more transparency, not less. In other places where there are 2 a year reports, it has not worked out well. I am invested for the long term but I only get to hear from management 4 times a year. We should be hearing more not less. This is an awful decision and a minimum of 4 quarter reports should be kept.

John Newcomer none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Newcomer I agree with the recommendation from Motley Fool that public-company reporting should remain quarterly and not be reduced to semi-annually. I can see no good reason to change the existing frequency. John

---

John Nishio — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Nishio Please keep reporting as timely and transparent as possible by maintaining quarterly reporting. Semi-annual reporting offers greater opportunities for fraud and delays negative financial information about a company. The cost of quarterly reporting clearly outweighs the possible negative costs to shareholders that could (would) occur under semi-annual reporting.

---

john paeth none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: john paeth I disagree with the SEC's proposed rule changes to not require quarterly publishing of corporate reports, to allow them to be semi-annually. A change such as this would only increase the possibility of corporate fraud, such as ENRON. The rules of reporting are here to protect the people (in various forms) and to hold accountable those that violate the rules. The present administration has pledged to be transparent, is looking to combat fraud then to allow reporting only semi-annually would not be in alignment with the efforts of transparency and to combat fraud

---

John Paul Thomas None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Paul Thomas I oppose any rule authorizing public companies to report twice a year. Any number of things can happen in a half year, and six months is too long for significant things to happen without investors knowing.

John Pearsall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Pearsall Investors deserve more transparency, not less. The SEC should maintain the quarterly reporting requirement. Business cycles are accelerating. More opacity is not what markets need now.

John Peter Farquhar Investor & Fool Member — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Peter Farquhar I recognize that compliance is a significant cost as I have been a publicly held CEO and lived through the reporting requirements which are cumbersome. However, from an investor perspective business conditions are changing faster than ever and receiving accurate disclosure is essential to my investment strategy. Going to six months gets us going the wrong way. We need better information sooner in many cases, Going longer heightens the risk to the active shareholder. My vote or preference is to keep quarterly reporting.

John Petrillo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Petrillo I wanted to write to oppose moving from Quarterly to Semi-Annual reporting for publicly traded companies. As an investor, quarterly reports are the best source of information I have about the past and expected future performance of the companies I invest in and consider investing in. This is especially true of newer companies that have little established reporting history. I understand and agree somewhat that moving to semi-annual reports could lessen the accounting burden and costs of producing the reports, but feel those costs continue to decrease over time as companies gain more experience and efficiency in creating them. As AI tools continue to make these types of tasks easier, I would expect the cost to diminish even further. As a former business owner, I also understand the desire to not feel pressure to manage the business quarter to quarter to make other owners and investors happy. But quarterly reports, are just information. How people react to and manage to what they say is entirely up to them. The reports themselves don't force people's management and investment strategies regardless of how the market reacts to them. The reports simply provide more data points and keep everyone more informed so they can make better decisions. Thank you for your consideration.

John Phelan Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Phelan As a Motley Fool investor I feel that this proposed change is not in my best interests as I will have less information to base my investment decisions. Whatever savings a company may make because of less reporting will be negligible and make no difference in their overall earnings. These reports should actually be easier to generate due to AI so to me it looks like whoever is advancing this proposal is trying to hide something which is never a good idea. Based on what I can see I highly urge the SEC to reject this proposal.

John Pierce — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Pierce We need more transparency in the stock market, not less. It is very difficult for retail investors to compete with institutional investors, and having companies report quarterly is very important. Please do not change that.

---

john primm — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: john primm Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Let me have access to the reports every quarter! Give me a chance for a better future, please.

Sincerely,
John Primm
john.primm@gmail.com

John Proctor Retired Oil & Gas Financial Leader — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Proctor I worked over a long career generating monthly financial statements and explaining results variations from plan. While internal and external reporting have different burden levels, internal management will continue to rely on monthly (or even more real-time) information. To deprive investors of quarterly reports would relegate investors to financial decisions based on rumor or assumptions, not verifiable facts. Please retain the quarterly reporting requirement!

John R Kiel Individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John R Kiel Less regulation in other parts of our lives is good. Reporting requirements can lower overhead but will also cause less information for investors to make decisions with.

John R Sutherland Jr The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John R Sutherland Jr It would be a major step backward in our effort to fully understand the operations of companies we invest in to reduce the number of times companies must report to shareholders. More transparency is far better than less! Do not reduce the number of times corporations have to report publicly. Thank you.

John Ranieri — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Ranieri Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 By doing this you are putting the regular everyday investor at a big disadvantage . I totally disagree with this proposal.

John Raybuck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Raybuck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency and regulation is the only way to stop corruption and criminal activity in the financial sector. Greed drives too many with the power to manipulate the system. Just look and Enron, the housing bubble, and so many other instances of white collar theft.

Sent from my iPad

John Reaser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: John Reaser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it as is. Thank you!

John Reese None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Reese I believe it is in the interest of the citizens of the United States of America to continue quarterly reporting for corporations.

---

john reilly — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: john reilly Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting has served us well for a long time and any effort to erode transparency is a step backwards. Stop this change. Investors and the public deserve transparency and accurate and verified reporting.

John Rice retired individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Rice The proposal now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two is a mistake! At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Right?

John Richter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Richter To whom it May Concern: My comments are concerning reducing the reporting requirements of companies to possibly two times a year. With the speed at which markets move and the difficulty of verifying accurate information otherwise, this is not the time to reduce transparency of our publicly traded companies. This is a discouragement and disservice to investors.. .especially retail investors. It also lowers confidence by delaying reporting which most investors uses their guide to the value investment and ultimately the fair market value of the stock . Providing such routine reporting to the investing community is to provide confidence in those investments. Thank you

---

John Ro — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: John Ro Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
This proposal is ridiculous in every sense. Limited transparency of what companies report or do will only cause more harm than not. Companies would be given too much room to maneuver with insider trading and viable information would be hidden from the public, who are investing in these publicly traded companies. Companies who are in favor of this proposal should be restricted to the private sector instead of being allowed to be traded publicly. You are taking away our right to make properly informed decisions when trying to decide if investing in a company.

John Robinson Fcma — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Robinson I think that it is so much easier to provide information these days with AI that we should be increasing frequency of information updates, not reducing them. Also more frequent incremental changes are less likely to generate knee jerk responses.

John Rutherford Stockholder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Rutherford I am writing to express my opposition to the proposal that would allow publicly held companies to reduce the number of company-provided reports from four times a year to just two. As an investor I am an owner. As owner I believe that all owners deserve regular, transparent communication from business that they part owner. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. That may or may not be true. In this AI driven age, efficiency has been greatly improved and helps disclosure tools at reduced cost. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed and left to react to rumors and limited information. Limited information will make markets more volatile. Less information rarely creates better-informed owners and stabiltiy. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility even greater.

John Ryan CMgr, CMI UK — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Ryan As small shareholder in a number of companies, I am opposed to any proposal to reduction in current company report frequency to shareholders. I think it reduces transparency with very little cost benefit to the organisation.

John Schaaf — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Schaaf Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Definitely keep quarterly reporting. There is no additional administrative burden by keeping something that the public NEEDS for timely informed consent.

Sent from my iPhone

John Schill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Schill As a retail investor, I am not in favor of rule S7-2026-15. Quarterly reports are one of the primary tools investors like me use to evaluate whether a stock is worth buying, holding, or selling. Less frequent reporting means fewer data points to make investment decisions, more volatility when companies eventually do disclose surprises, and a higher risk that problems like fraud or financial distress go undetected for months.

John Scott — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Scott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reports!

Sent from my iPhone

John Scuderi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Scuderi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No trash heap economy!

Sent from my iPhone

John Sebring — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Sebring This is an all around BAD idea. Reducing reporting could lead to a increase in fraudulent accounting that is not discovered over a longer period of time. As an owner of a part of a company (regardless the size) I want to know what is going on on a frequent ongoing basis through reporting. since I can't be in the room for meetings. Reducing reporting is irresponsible and benefits knowone except the accountants that prepare the reports. It may not even benefit them as any good manager would want the reports even if they are not made public. It certainly does not benefit equity owners in any way.

John Selby Retired IHI Turbo America Co. CFO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Selby Reducing corporate reporting requirements from quarterly to semi-annuallly is a mistake. Less frequent corporate reporting will undermine responsible financial oversite and put investors, creditors, and employees more at risk for surprises as a lag will potentially occur in timely information. Don't let this hapapen.

---

john sherck member of The Motley Fool Company — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: john sherck I'm just an individual investor. The only benefit I can see from a company reporting less frequently it for some companies to hide problems from investors for a longer period of time. In the age of advanced computing and AI, the claim by a company that less frequent reporting will save time and money is specious. Please do not change the current reporting structure to something less transparent. Do not change reporting from quarterly to twice yearly.

John Somppi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Somppi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely keep it to a quarterly report. It is the minimum that should be done. What is the company trying to hide?

Sent from my iPhone

John Sprot — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Sprot I think this is a good idea, too much management time and effort wasted in preparing quarterly reports. Biannual should remove some of the share volatility based on changes that are in the long term irrelevant

---

John T Reynolds — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John T Reynolds Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This rule change is unnecessary and shrouds companies from being exposed for wrongdoing. Do not change it.

Sent from my iPad

John Tacchi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Tacchi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Concerning quarterly reporting;
We should be increasing the frequency of reporting not decreasing. Information capacity and processing is increasing. Time sensitivity is increasing. The SEC mandated quarter reporting in 1970, before the Internet. All that info was mailed to investors, now we get it in seconds. There is zero reason to delay the information another three months.

Concerned citizen and investor,

John Tacchi

John Teisberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Teisberg Changing the number of times a company mist report financial statements from 4 to 2 would be a grave mistake. Investors trade on facts and numbers and in today's volatile environment, much can change relative to a company's financial trajectory in less than a calendar quarter let alone a half a year. In the name of transparency and integrity of markets, please don't change this rule.

John Tessarzik The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Tessarzik There is no way this would reduce costs. This is all about letting businesses operate with less transparency. No thank you.

---

john thomas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: john thomas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This would a great way to introduce even more distrust...NOT A GREAT IDEA

John Thomas Barton Jr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Thomas Barton Jr Please do not support the move to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. We must preserve regular, transparent communication from businesses. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Thank you, John Barton

---

John Tiede — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Tiede Reporting only two times a year is not enough to make decisions on a company's direction. With artificial intelligence tools coming on-line, the cost and ease of reporting should go down, so the cost argument does not hold water. The management of a company includes telling the ownership what is happening in a timely manner. I do NOT care that semiannual reporting is the European standard, because, in part, I avoid these companies since they avoid shareholder realistic oversight.

JOHN TODD — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: JOHN TODD Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I believe the SEC should maintain quarterly reporting for transparency.

Sent from my iPhone

John Topping — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Topping Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To: SEC. From: John Topping. If it ain't broke it doesn't need fixing. There is no justification for making this change.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

John Traynor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Traynor Re: File No. S7-2026-15 — Semiannual Reporting Dear Secretary Countryman: I support the Commission’s proposal to permit, but not require, public companies to report on a semiannual rather than quarterly basis. In my view, the proposal is sound because it gives issuers and investors flexibility rather than imposing a single reporting model on companies with very different sizes, resources, investor bases, and capital markets needs. The strongest case for semiannual reporting is for smaller public companies. For a small issuer, preparing a Form 10-Q is not merely a filing exercise. It requires management time, accounting and finance resources, legal review, auditor review, XBRL tagging, audit committee attention, and often outside professional fees. Those burdens fall more heavily on smaller issuers because they do not have the same depth of internal staff, automated systems, investor relations infrastructure, or recurring reporting machinery as large public companies. A cost that may be relatively modest for a large accelerated filer can be material for a small issuer that is trying to preserve capital, build products, hire employees, raise financing, or reach profitability. The Commission’s own economic analysis supports this point. The proposing release estimates that an issuer electing semiannual reporting would avoid the annual direct compliance costs associated with three Form 10-Q filings, estimated at approximately $330,000 per issuer on average, while incurring estimated annual direct compliance costs of approximately $132,000 for the new Form 10-S. Even before considering opportunity cost, management distraction, and board/audit committee time, that difference can be meaningful for a smaller reporting company, emerging growth company, or other issuer below an appropriate market capitalization or revenue threshold. In my view, the cost burden of public reporting (including the cost of outside professionals) may itself be one reason smaller companies are now more hesitant to enter the public markets. For larger issuers, the benefits are likely more limited. Large public companies generally have sophisticated accounting departments, disclosure committees, enterprise reporting systems, outside advisors, established audit processes, and investor relations programs designed around quarterly reporting. Many also have significant analyst coverage and institutional investor expectations that may lead them to continue providing quarterly information voluntarily even if SEC rules no longer require a quarterly Form 10-Q. For those issuers, market forces may often preserve quarterly disclosure where investors value it. Accordingly, I encourage the Commission to retain the optional nature of the proposal and to give particular consideration to smaller issuers. The Commission could adopt the rule as proposed for all eligible issuers, but it should expressly recognize that the principal policy benefit is likely to be realized by smaller reporting companies, emerging growth companies, newly public companies, and other issuers below an appropriate public float or revenue threshold. Alternatively, if the Commission prefers a narrower approach, it could initially implement the rule as a pilot program or targeted accommodation for smaller issuers, such as companies that qualify as smaller reporting companies or otherwise fall below a defined public float threshold. Investor protection can be preserved under an optional semiannual system. Companies would remain subject to annual reporting, semiannual reporting, Form 8-K current reporting for material events, antifraud rules, exchange requirements, and market discipline. Issuers that need or wish to provide more frequent information would remain free to do so through quarterly reports, earnings releases, investor presentations, or other voluntary disclosures. The choice to report semiannually would itself be visible to investors and could be considered by investors, analysts, lenders, and exchanges in evaluating the company. I also encourage the Commission to consider requiring clear advance disclosure of a company's election to report semiannually, so investors are not surprised by the change in cadence. A simple disclosure in the annual report, and perhaps a current report or prominent investor relations notice when a company first elects semiannual reporting, would help investors understand the issuer's reporting schedule. The current one-size-fits-all quarterly reporting model imposes costs that are not equally justified for all issuers. For smaller public companies in particular, semiannual reporting could free scarce financial and managerial resources for productive business uses while still preserving material disclosure obligations. I therefore support the proposal, particularly as an optional accommodation for smaller issuers, and encourage the Commission to adopt a flexible final rule that allows issuers and investors to determine the reporting cadence that best fits their circumstances.

John W Nary — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John W Nary This would be a mistake, period!

John W O'Toole Jr Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John W O'Toole Jr Information is key to making informed investment decisions. Getting less data is inappropriate to very nature of investing and taking ownership in a company. This is an a time when access to data and information is Ray and cost effective. There is no good reason to believe there is a cost saving vs. the right and need to know before making decisions of the management of a company and their ability to create value for shareholders. The SEC should be spending MORE TIME evaluating the absurd pay approvals given by boards to managers of these institutions. Invest in education and reshaping of employees responsibility to better serve and enhance their markets. You can't provide a logical reason to allow less information and expect more informed decision making. If companies are complaining about cost then it's less pay for managers and boards till they get their business aligned with their customers needs.

John W Rinker Shareholder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John W Rinker As a shareholder, it is my right to know in a timely manner the operations of any business in which I am part owner. Reducing company reporting to only twice a year will severely impede my ability to understand companies in which I hold stock and make decisions about my financial goals. Transparency is absolutely fundamental to sound investing and trust in companies. I strongly oppose any decision to allow companies to only report twice a year.

John W. Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John W. I ask that we continue to require publicly traded companies to report financials QUARTERLY!

John Wayne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Wayne Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is outrageous and should never be allowed. It opens the door for fraud and also violates full disclosure laws/rules. Vote heck no,never.

John Weller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: John Weller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 we absolutely need to keep quaterly public reporting !!

---

john wenum none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: john wenum Semiannual reporting is a bad idea. Too much can happen within the reporting timelines. As an individual investor, I rely on information and analysis that quarterly reports provide. by reducing the transparency I am being put at a disadvantage, and can be putting my investments at greater risk. Please do not reduce the quarterly reporting requirements.

John Werner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Werner I feel changing to only 2 reports per year is a bad idea. Keep it at 4 reports.

John Wetzel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Wetzel It is absolutely ridiculous to offer businesses ways of being less accountable than they already are. This type of action only allows companies to be less scrupulous, and in no way protects the people. These rules and laws were put into effect for a reason. As a voter and an investor, I object to the lack of oversight.

John Wicklund — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: John Wicklund Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I don't see any reason to go back in time when computers have cut the time of accounting to near instantly available. Monthly shouldn't be difficult, I am and old guy and recall the float.

John Wiles — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: John Wiles Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I support quarterly reporting ! Cannot understand what’s going on in a company as a shareholder with longer reporting requirements. Will quit investing in market if reporting decreases. Will look to other countries for investing.

Sent from my iPhone

John Worsley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: John Worsley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 John worsley retired carpentry instructor. S.S. IS NOT ENOUGH TO CONTINUE OUR LIFESTYLE AS AGE WE NEED MORE HELP ! Please lower the the overpriced pharmaceuticals that we all need.

John Yoder Key Realty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: John Yoder To whom it may concern, Please do not reduce corporate reporting requirements from the current 4 times per year. I believe that transparancy is critical for investors and I hope that you will make choices to protect transparancy. Best Regards, John Yoder

---

JOHN YVES — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: JOHN YVES Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting in place. Big money has become bolder and greedier. We must know what they are doing.

John Matt

Sent from my iPhone

Johnny Thornburgh The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Johnny Thornburgh I hope that Semiannual Reporting doesn't pass. It will give less transparency to an already challenging landscape. The current quarterly reporting provides sufficient opportunity to analyze the companies you own and make financial decisions based on that report. Limiting information to 2 times each year will cause more uncertainty and will weaken the connection between owners and companies.

Johnny Turner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Johnny Turner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leave it on the quarters! They have to much time with the books now! 16 ounce coke, now 12 ounce! Coffee and other stuff! Four pack of A/C filters sold down to one—

Sent from my iPhone

Johnpaul NA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Johnpaul As a stockholder I prefer quarterly company reports, particularly given a company's sensitivity to seasonal fluctuations with their product and/or service.

Johnson Pat — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Johnson Pat Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Just another way for the average person to get screwed over because of less accountability. Don't let this go forward.

Joihn Gonzales — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joihn Gonzales Publicly traded companies should remain required to provide quarterly reports to their investors. With AI, and other tools, these reports can be compiled with less effort than in the past. Investors need to know what is going on with the company they have invested in. They have a right to know in a timely fashion. It should be considered a cost of doing business as a publicly traded company.

Jolene boyles — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jolene boyles Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am disabled and barely live on ssi. This is going to make it easier for people to cheat and steal. We need to be taxing the ultra rich people and companies.
Do not allow this to go through. History will not be nice to people that are involved in the destruction of America's Democracy.

Jolene Cullen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jolene Cullen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. As a member of the workforce for over 50 years, I know how important transparency and accountability are. Investors have the right to the reporting so that they can make informed decisions about their investments and how the information affects their financial decisions as well as their lives.

Sent from my iPhone

Jolene Love — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jolene Love Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quattrrly reporting

---

Jon Allen Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jon Allen Less reporting requirements is not a good idea. We shareholders are company owners and need to keep current on company activities Thank you

---

Jon Bassett The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jon Bassett Transparency is key. Reducing reporting to two is NOT transparency!

Jon Bloomberg none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jon Bloomberg Since when is less information better than more information? This buckling to corporate profits has to stop. The US exists for the people here, not for the companies!

Jon Fletcher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jon Fletcher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What have they got to hide? Suddenly a change in reporting time when all these business crimes are coming to light. Keep Quarterly reporting so "We"can find the scams earlier. Jon Fletcher-Retired Operating R.N.

Jon Hile — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jon Hile Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The rules were developed to safeguard everyday investors DO NOT REVERT THEM

Sent from my iPhone

Jon Howe activist citizen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jon Howe I have invested my retirement savings in the stock market. I want to base my investment decisions on what and how the companies I invest in are CURRENTLY doing. Information that is 6 months old is no help to me compared with information gathered within the last 3 months. MORE transparency, not less; MORE information, not less; is always called for.

Jon Klinski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jon Klinski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep reports quarterly! Six months is too long for monkey Business!!

jonathan klinski

Jon Klynstra — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jon Klynstra Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please do not revert to fewer SEC reviews. Such a reduction will result in more insider trading that is just plain wrong and only benefits wealthy stake holders. Fewer than quarterly reviews will hurt me as an investor.

Jon Klynstra

Jon M. Wilder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jon M. Wilder Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I lost $25,000 buying Enron stock on the stock exchange. It's been around 25 years and i still feel cheated. If public companies can't be trusted like Enron proved, because our government is too lazy to demand honest public requirements, then that government also can not be trusted. Do your job!

Sent from my iPhone

---

jon moose — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: jon moose responsible investing requires responsible reporting and research. Keep this as is four time per year!

Jon Petty N/a — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jon Petty We need this information more than twice a year.

Jon smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jon smith This will only decrease information to the common investor to make decisions. It's contradictory to well regulated capitalism that has allowed so many to prosper.

Jon Stiffler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jon Stiffler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am retired as a financial professional with an MBA in finance. Quarterly reporting is a must so we investors can see what is going on with earnings, expenses, etc. , regularly.

Jonathan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan Reports from companies should be quarterly. Anything less gives unfair advantage to insiders. This only hurts retail investors…which is who you are supposed to protect.

Jonathan A Brown Sr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan A Brown Sr Do Not Change Earning Reports to Twice a year leave them at four times a year

---

Jonathan A. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jonathan A. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly or every 6 months is good for reporting statements.

Jonathan Abrams

Jonathan Ashton Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan Ashton All I see in this is the ability for companies to save money at the expense of the public. Insiders will continue to profit while investors are less informed. I strongly object to this proposal.

Jonathan Borg Sultana — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan Borg Sultana At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners - THE PUBLIC.

Jonathan Coleman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jonathan Coleman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 How can we let this happen? I remember Enron. I remember the financial crisis. Oversight is the only thing that keeps companies honest. We need to give people a chance and not stack every single card against them.

Jonathan Cohen, MD
New Orleans, LA

Please excuse the brevity and any spelling errors.

Sent from my mobile device.

Jonathan Doran — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jonathan Doran Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to continue quarterly reporting, is what we need to keep the stock market and check

Sent from my iPhone

Jonathan electromechanical engineer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan To allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two is a mistake! Investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Less transparency increases uncertainty. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Jonathan Frazzell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jonathan Frazzell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The stewardship of protections for Americans of all stripes to safeguard retirement and financial solvency must not be gutted further than it already has. The devastation of Enron should not br so far out of sight that this can be allowed to pass. This must not pass. Quarterly accountability statements with real, criminal liabilities spelled out for improper actors is hardly a overreaction to what has been seen in action.

Jonathan Gassiott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jonathan Gassiott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To whom it may concern,

I am community health education specialist. I only want to do business with companies that care about the health and well-being of the customers and consumers they serve.
Quarterly reports help keep fraud down and allow customers access to information that allows us to gage what companies we want to do business with. It allows us to see where the money is going, what the companies are supporting with our money, and which companies stocks to invest in or trade. Reduced reporting increases the risk for investors, and for the everyday customers' ability to choose the companies that are truly right for them; companies that show they are worth investing in and have the best interest of the people who pay for their products and services. We deserve to see who we are funding.

Respectfully,
Jonathan Gassiott, B.S., RS, CCO, CHES, CPI,CPO

Jonathan Gregg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jonathan Gregg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stay quarterly! The only people benefiting from longer reporting intervals are the people who are trying to rip you off. I'm a copy editor for the Financial Times , and I read enough of this stuff to know what stinks.

Sent from my iPhone

Jonathan Lee Merrill Lynch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan Lee The proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two is a mistake, more transparency is important. Thank you.

Jonathan McKinnon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan McKinnon DO NOT ALLOW corporations to reduce the reporting period to twice a year. This creates a high possibility of corporate fraud, since the U.S. President seems to have normalized fraud, greed, insider trading and lies into the highest office in the world.

Jonathan McNair — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan McNair Reducing required statements of investment performance from 4 annually to 2 will significantly reduce transparency in the market. This is bad for investors and ultimately will reflect poorly on the companies themselves. Investors need accurate, regular information in order to make informed decisions. Without that, the risk of investing will increase twofold.

Jonathan Mellors — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan Mellors Reducing the number of public company reports disadvantages retail investors. Institutional investors will find other ways to get hold of relevant information affecting public companies, that retail investors will never be able to access.

Jonathan Morris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan Morris This proposal is ridiculous, if anything we need more transparency not less. We need to keep quarterly reporting as the American Standard.

Jonathan Oquist — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan Oquist A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that's a mistake. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it.

Jonathan Pollack — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan Pollack I'd love the companies that I own to give me _ at least_ quarterly updates of what they're doing, so I can make maximally informed decisions on whether my investment is going well/poorly/sideways.

Jonathan Sandefur — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan Sandefur This is not best for small individual investors like myself.

Jonathan Stieglitz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jonathan Stieglitz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Jon S., It is critical that investors trust businesses and that CEOs be held accountable for the information they provide us with. Do allow more Enrons or Madoff's

Sent from my iPhone

Jonathan Tobelmann Research International, Inc. - Business Development — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jonathan Tobelmann As a stockholder, I do not think it would be good for the investor or the company to wait six months before reporting to the owners. From the owner's standpoint it, they could be kept in the dark as to the health of the company. From the Company's standpoint, too many things could happen during the six-month period that may not be dealt with without having to report.! Just human nature!

JonM Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JonM Quarterly is best Bi annually is bad TRI-annually might be okay. Fool on

---

Jon's email — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jon's email Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an investor in any company, I'm expecting and entitled to have transparency in the financial health of the company. I do not accept or agree with any proposal which degrades the current quarterly reporting of financial health. Do NOT allow or approve this nonsense-
Jon Donegan

Sent from my iPhone

Joram Greber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Joram Greber Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

I am your everyday investor & I need access to quarterly reporting. It helps me have a better guage on the health of my investments whether I'm deciding to sell or buy. Taking away information only hurts my investment strategy. Please consider my concerns. Thank you

---

Jordan Worley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jordan Worley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Vanessa Webb. I'm just a middle class citizen. I believe reporting semi-annually verses quarterly is against the best interest of the average person. We rely on quarterly reports when making investments and donations. It's enough that we have to trust these reports to be accurate without auditing. Not having them leaves us in the dark longer. This change will make fraud easier and does not protect anyone. The reports are for our protection. It's the job of this body to protect the citizens. Don't pave the way for more dishonesty & hidden information.

---

joreck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: joreck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello,

I strongly object to reducing requirements to semi-annual reporting, as it opens the door to fraud and does not provide enough transparency, as has been shown in the past.

Regards,
Jochen Reck
Frederick, CO 80504

Sent from my mobile phone. Please excuse brevity and/or typos.

Jorge Herrera — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Jorge Herrera Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep the quarterly earnings...

Jorge R Robert-Saavedra Personal Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jorge R Robert-Saavedra For the personal Investor current knowledge of the financial condition of any company is critical. Otherwise, the big investors and the institutions would gain an upper hand (an unfair advantage) by their networking abilities (like a golf game or a country club activity) bordering on insider knowledge. By the time corporate financial issues/challenges are know it would be too late for the individual investor to reduce their holding without suffering significant losses. With the advent of AI it should not be a significant problem (time wise of expense wise) for a company to complete and submit quarterly statements accurately and on time.

José Arráiz Retiree — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: José Arráiz Reducing financial reporting for public held companies from quarterly to semester will hurt retail investors as we will have less information on company's performance. It will only help insiders. Please keep current requirements as they are today

---

Jose Arroyo, CPA (retired) The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jose Arroyo, CPA (retired) I oppose changing the quarterly reporting requirements as this would lead to less transparency for investors specially those who have already retired or near retirement that need more information to properly manage their portfolios.

Jose Lucero — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jose Lucero Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Continue to do it

Sent from my iPhone

Jose Luis Meza — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Jose Luis Meza Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hey do your job and stop passing the buck

Sent from my iPhone

Jose Madrigal Motley fools community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jose Madrigal We need daily communication and transparency

---

Jose Michel Motley fool community and all investors — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jose Michel This would be a mistake If anything we need more reporting

---

Joseph A Bonucci — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph A Bonucci Corporate reporting should remain open, thorough and transparent.

Joseph A Caron The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph A Caron Any business owner needs transparency, so limiting public company reports only opens the door to uniformed owners and a lack of timely information to maintain a business by being able to react to any trends or changes as they occur. Please don't pass the "Semi Annual Reporting Rule"

Joseph Andrew Blaher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Andrew Blaher I am writing to express my displeasure over the idea of reducing corporate reporting to twice a year from the current quarterly reporting. As an investor with over 40 years experience and, well over a million invested in the market, I have seen many occasions when events can absolutely crush companies. I have also on several occasions been able to see things going south for particular firms in a quarterly report to minimize my losses. In an era when technology has made report preparation far less expensive than prior decades, I see no benefit to reducing reporting to investors. In fact, reducing access to timely access to information is contrary to the principles that enable Capitalism to effectively function. If anything individuals need more timely information not less. I sincerely hope that you will not further risk the retirement security of so many Americans.

Joseph Bianco — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Bianco I strongly object to the new proposal for companies to report to their investors and the public twice a year. As an active investor and firm believer in our US economy, I think this will only hurt the investor community and the trust in our economy. Please keep the four times a year public-reporting practices that are in place, and do not change it to twice a year. Thank you!

Joseph Cox — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joseph Cox Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Joseph Cox- CFO. We need full transparency, we can not allow companies to hide the truth from the public they're engaged with.

Joseph Cox
916-871-6196

Joseph Deveny — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Deveny Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Joseph Deveny. Retired military. West Virginia. I believe this is just another example of common sense being thrown out the window. Of course we need to keep quarterly reporting. this rule was put into effect after careful consideration by Congress to prevent future crisis'. Please stand up and do what's right this time.

Sent from my iPhone

Joseph Donofrio — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joseph Donofrio Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is IMPERATIVE that the quarterly reporting rule is kept in place. No guidelines on reporting or letting it go to twice a year with just basically be given the powers that be free reign to do whatever they want. Who or why in the world would anyone even want to change this?? It's pretty obvious that something dark and Sinister in the background is going on. What a terrible Society we have turned into 🧐

Joseph Fern None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Fern Leave the quarterly reporting alone. We need 4 reports a year, semi annual makes no sense.

Joseph Fiorella Motley Fool Community, Fisher Investment Management and other sources — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Fiorella I acknowledge top side value of reducing the reporting to investors. However, it is the best interest of investors to have this information stream continue. As an investor, I utilize subscription services and more relevant, asset management arrangements offered by investment counselors. In varying degrees, each rely on corporate communication to their investors to evaluate and respond to the occasion and the magnitude of investments. Do I personally read every page of this information. Of course not, but investment teams which guide my decisions certainly do. Please support this level of communication. Investors deserve this information. Thank you.

Joseph Gage — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Gage Reducing the access to information about public company reduces shareholders ability to make good decisions regarding companies they are invested in, and does not serve the public interest. This proposal to reduce quarterly reports to every six months should be rejected.

JOSEPH GALLAGHER — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: JOSEPH GALLAGHER Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Very poor idea to reduce the amount of reports from publicly traded companies, need strong accountability to shareholders and the public!

Sent from my iPhone

Joseph Garrett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joseph Garrett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Unacceptable

---

Joseph Hebert Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Hebert I am writing to express my support for maintaining, or even increasing, the frequency of corporate reporting. Reporting only twice a year does not provide investors with sufficient information to make informed decisions. I believe we should maintain a quarterly reporting schedule at minimum, or perhaps move to a bimonthly cycle. Given the advancements in AI, generating these reports has become significantly more efficient and economical, making frequent updates more feasible than ever before. Best regards,

---

Joseph J. Gawron — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph J. Gawron Do not reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. That is a serious mistake!!!

---

joseph kaminsky — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: joseph kaminsky We have enough stupidity in the news less information makes us more stupid especially the it is our money at stake. Spend your time going after the people who have the information before the investors

---

Joseph Long — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joseph Long Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Who is stuffing your pockets? Who in the world would propose less oversight, it's an invitation to corruption! I want quarterly reports in order to make good investment decisions, without them the rumor mill and chaos will rule!

Sent from my iPhone

Joseph Maralit The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Maralit Please keep the reporting as is and do NOT reduce the number of updates as currently being proposed!

Joseph Morales — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Morales Investors deserve regular updates from publicly traded companies. The current quarterly schedule is actually minimal. The proposal to switch to semiannual reporting will reduce accountability to investors and will encourage fraud and mismanagement. Please retain the current quarterly reporting schedule.

Joseph Moran — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Moran This is a simple decision. Do NOT reduce the the number of opportunities I have to evaluate my investments. If I am an investing in a publicly traded firm then quarterly (at least) is how often I should be able to understand how fiscally responsible my current investment is and make decisions to decrease, remain the same, or increase my investment. Frankly, in 2026 with technology advancing as far and as fast as it is, there should be less and less burden on quarterly reporting.

Joseph Nemshak — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Nemshak I totally agree.

Joseph Neri — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joseph Neri Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Not fiscally responsible

With little self regard & alot of hot air,

Joseph M Neri

Joseph ness san antonio None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph ness san antonio I feel it is very important for me, as an investor, to have access to quarterly reports from all corporations before I invest in them. Without that knowledge, I am at an unfair disadvantage to all those who are on the inside.

Joseph O'Geen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph O'Geen As an investor I rely on consistent data to monitor risk and evaluate my portfolio. The semi-annual reporting reduces transparency for investors, and is not fair!

Joseph Pamelia U.S. Congressional Candidate, Veteran, SIE Candidate, Consumer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Pamelia Motley Fool has a point. On the other hand, it might be more efficient to have less reporting dates on the calender....but require deeper reporting statistics and future proposed information with those fewer dates. Companies will have to step up and disclose more in a shorter time, actually giving the investor and institutions a possibly clearer view into where they will be headed.

Joseph Piscitelli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joseph Piscitelli Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly!!!

Joseph Purrazzella — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joseph Purrazzella Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don’t have another Enron. There was a reason. Don’t go backwards. This government is more swampy than ever.

Joseph

Joseph Reid Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Reid I definitely believe that investors do not need less reporting by companies than they are getting now

---

Joseph Rice — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joseph Rice Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 quarterly reporting should not change.

Sent from my iPhone

---

joseph sidikaro MD PhD UCLA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: joseph sidikaro MD PhD the proposed changes . will reduce transparancy to the retail investors and other outside investing entities, will reduce confidence in the value of stock or bond investors and give added unfair and illegal insiders and the large funds.

Joseph Stanislau — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Stanislau Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please make quarterly earnings a permanent tradition and makes it easy for all of us people like me as an investor and every day person.

Joseph Stella The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph Stella As a stock investor of multiple companies I believe that quarterly reporting to public is vital part of the investing process. Information is knowledge!

Joseph T Ferrick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joseph T Ferrick Do not reduce the number of reporting periods per year. Quarterly reports should be maintained.

Josh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Josh Those who own pieces of businesses deserve regular communication. Less information won’t lead to more informed investors. New tools and efficiencies should be making reporting requirements easier and less costly, which makes cost arguments debatable. Less reporting doesn’t necessarily create more long-term-thinking. It definitely creates less transparency.

Josh Beers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Josh Beers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency and accountability are paramount in American corporate dealings to rebuild trust.

Josh

Josh Corley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Josh Corley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Joshua Corley and don't have a business but looking to start one or trade stock. Sounds like a good gig though if I had a business right now. 👍

Josh Creamer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Josh Creamer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 All you'll be doing is hurting the little guy and making the market volatile every 6 months

Sent from my iPhone

Josh Nowak — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Josh Nowak Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Allowing this much time between reports would allow, if not encourage fraud. Everyone is already set up for quarterly reporting, there isnt a good reason to make it more opaque.

Joshua Atkinson Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joshua Atkinson Lack of transparency will only lead to create more disparity with investing. Quarterly reporting while a burden on the companies, allows investors to get an idea of what it happening. Transparency builds trust. If only those with insider information understand the decisions of the company we are creating an unfair advantage for insiders and a disadvantage for regular investors like me. keep quarterly reporting rather than every 6 months. Don't hurt the common investor.

Joshua Cantu — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joshua Cantu Accountability is important on a personal level as well as business. Anyone investing into our economy has the right to full disclosure of what is happening. Moving to two reports a year is a recipe for corporate creed and failing business at the consumer's expense. If Capitalism is to exist it has to be good for the people.

Joshua Castro — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joshua Castro Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want to voice my concern over this proposed six-month reporting blackout. There is already an excessive amount of corruption within the stock market as it is, with insider trading going unchecked and running rampant due the lax federal restrictions preventing government officials and wealthy individuals getting their tips on which companies to invest into, while lower- and middle-class citizens must speculate and invest based on the limited information they have available to them—information that they can only receive once every three months. Insider traders already have an upper hand on the stocks to invest in. Everyday people would suffer having to make speculations on companies six months out, which could also be grounds for more corruption as insider traders would be able to sell their stocks months in advance once they get the heads up that it is time to sell, while everyone else holds on as their investments lose value. Keep the reporting at three months. Investing is already unfair and criminal enough. Do not make it any harder for the people than it already is.

Joshua Daily The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joshua Daily Investors have a right to be informed in a timely manner, not just twice a year.

Joshua Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joshua Johnson As an individual investor I'm already at a disadvantage compared to the big firms when it comes to information. Letting companies report only twice a year would only further that gap. I also worry that with longer gaps in between reporting it will open up more opportunities to hide fraud.

Joshua Jordan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Joshua Jordan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please reconsider ending quarterly reporting for companies. We as individual investors do not have access insider information and rely on the quarterly reports to make educated decisions about investing. Eliminating these reports puts the general population even farther behind the big investments firms and continues to expand the wealth gap.

I know I may never narrow the gap during my time but starting to create generational wealth for my family begins with the investments I make now. So please reconsider the elimination of quarterly reports so i can continue to works to improving the future for my son and daughter.

Appreciate your time,
Joshua Jordan

Joshua Mazess — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joshua Mazess Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 They've been reporting for decades. There's no reason to change that.

Joshua McAteer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joshua McAteer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Every American benefits from timely transparency and simple ways to catch fraud.

Sent from my iPhone

Joshua McDonald None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joshua McDonald I believe the more informed individuals are the better they will make a decision. I am one to deep dive on purchasing decisions to make sure I have enough knowledge to feel comfortable making my purchase. I strongly believe less reporting, especially in a time period of faster evolution of markets, only hides information from the owners. Everyone would rather have real time knowledge of a company's health but that is just not possible. So reporting quarterly has been a long time standard and less reporting is not going in the right direction for transparency. If anything more reporting, when possible, will be best for owners and transparency.

Joshua Rybnikar — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joshua Rybnikar Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting allows proper oversight, investment, and understanding.
There's no reason to try and change the system to benefit corporations even more

-Joshua Rybnikar

Joshua Taddeo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joshua Taddeo Please don't end the quarterly reporting requirements. Retail investors require that information and that relative pacing to ensure their investment decisions are sound. There's no evidence that pushing to optional has benefitted any other exchange/investors.

Joshua Walkenhorst Morgan Stanley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joshua Walkenhorst I believe that quarterly reporting by public companies should stay in place. With the advancements in AI the reporting and work done to generate such reports is increasingly less expensive. This trend should continue. What is more is that it would seem that companies have a duty to be fully transparent to their share holders. Making this reporting less frequent decreases transparency, not the other way around. It will also likely lead to more market volatility as any news positive or negative will have larger impacts when fewer reports are done. The surprises will be bigger. Shareholders need these quarterly reports to make informed decisions about their investing. Regular reallocation of investments is important to help keep someone on track to reaching their financial goals. This can't be done without regular information. I regularly look at the the earnings announcements of the companies I have invested in and will adjust my holdings as needed. The regular check in is very valuable to me. Take the extremes that are both unrealistic. Say a company only reported once every 10 years. They could easily be doing poorly most of that time and no one would know. Shareholders have a right to know about that. Such an announcement would create drastic volatility when everyone thinks something is fine and come to learn it hasn't been for a long time. On the other end of the extreme, if a company reported earnings everyday, there likely wouldn't be huge drops or gains in share prices as day to day the revenue fluctuates for companies. This variance is to be expected because of course there is variance day to day in business. But shareholders wouldn't be paying attention to that frequent of updates. People don't reallocate every day. While neither of these of course is realistic or should be done, it paints a picture of which direction we should lean. Leaning towards more frequent is better to keep volatility lower and full transparency for average household shareholders that look to that information from which they base critical investment decisions. These individuals aren't involved in the day to day in the lives of these businesses and rely on regular reporting. Thank you for your consideration and time reading my opinion on this.

Joshua yother — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joshua yother We do NOT want a reduction on publicly traded companies reporting from 4 to 2. We need to see quarterly reports to make informed decisions on the companies we are investing our hard earned money into. Cutting the reports to semi annual leaves to much guess work. We need to stop putting everything in favor of the billionaires, and just us little guys at least a fighting chance. Thank you.

Josie Brown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Josie Brown Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Fight this. NOW. Otherwise, I'll ask my broker to find other ways for me to grow my money: fiscally soundly, with my best interests in mind.

Josip Sagaj — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Josip Sagaj Let's fight for the right of information for investors!

Josyane Coughlin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Josyane Coughlin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I mean is it that difficult to report quarterly? Has it been utterly exhausting? Has literally every corporation proven to be so squeaky clean that quarterly reporting can be eliminated? Are you kidding with this ridiculousness? History is watching.

Joy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is no reason for quarterly reports to stop other than illegal activities to take place.....Quarterly reports need to stay .....

Joy Brandenburg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Joy Brandenburg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep big business accountable!! Rules are put in place for a reason. Quarterly an absolutely.

Sent from my iPhone

Joy Davenport — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joy Davenport Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I do not agree with going dark for 6 months with financial matters. There trying to do the same thing with medical. Too many hidden agenda possibilities and monies also can create more medical issues and financial issues for the members and owners of policies.

Joy Grayson The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joy Grayson I have been investing for my entire family for decades and rely on the quarterly 10-Q's to make informed investment decisions. We need more information, not less, from public companies. Please do not reduce public reporting requirements. Thank you for your consideration. Joy Grayson

---

Joy Inskeep — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Joy Inskeep Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The economy is in trouble because you are already protecting finance companies & other huge business instead of your actual responsibility the general public. Enron showed what could happen when you do not make sure reporting is timely & open to public view. Get busy doing the job you were created to do in the first place!

Joy Khoury — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Joy Khoury Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Joy Khoury. I am a minister and I care about fraud in this country. I believe 4 times a year will help reduce fraud of CEOs. We must be vigilant to reduce fraud.

Joy Viens — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joy Viens Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To many seniors don’t have access to online data, 6 months is too long to see how your accounts are doing!

A senior in Connection

Joyce E. Price — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joyce E. Price Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change reporting rules to 6 months.

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Joyce Epperson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joyce Epperson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly report.

Joyce Evangelist-Ajvix — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Joyce Evangelist-Ajvix Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is just wrong! Why is the current govt being given free reign to destroy the citizens of our country?

Joyce Evangelist-Ajvix, MA, LPC, NPT-C

Joyce Felsenfeld — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Joyce Felsenfeld Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please KEEP the quarterly reporting!
Thank you.

Joyce Green — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joyce Green I believe that regular information leads to good accountability by companies, and better informed investors. While it may have a cost attached to it, it is the price of doing business and being accountable to investors. After all, the ultimate cost-saving claim would be the elimination of reporting and accountability measures entirely -- let's not start down that road.

Joyce Greenholdt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joyce Greenholdt Quarterly reports are a key component for investors at every level to evaluate potential purchases and track the performance of companies they have an ownership stake in. Reducing the reporting to twice a year would make things much less transparent for very little benefit for the companies involved, as they will still need to track all relevant data for internal use and modern software tools and even AI can greatly streamline the reporting process when used correctly.

Joyce Keith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joyce Keith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We the people need to have the quarterly reporting to remain on place. As I am retired I need to be informed on my investments just as I am now. My name is Joyce Keith and I am a retired library assistant from Jackson County library.

Joyce Kumar — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joyce Kumar 2 times reporting is not enough

---

Joyce LeBombard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joyce LeBombard There is no reason to make this change than to allow companies and insiders an unfair advantage over your average individual investor. None. Keep company reporting the way it is. My entire retirement is dependent on a fair and equitable stock market. Joyce LeBombard, individual investor

---

Joyce LeBombard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joyce LeBombard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is no reason to make this change other than to allow companies and insiders an unfair advantage over your average individual investor. None. Keep company reporting the way it is. My entire retirement is dependent on a fair and equitable stock market.

Joyce LeBombard, individual investor

Joyce Malle' — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Joyce Malle' Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please don't do this

Joyce Mallé'

Joyce Moore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Joyce Moore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please don't change the reporting requirements. I am a former Benefits Director and feel strongly that quarterly reports of financial gains and losses are very important .
Joyce Moore

Sent from my iPad

Joyce Moore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Joyce Moore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please don't change the reporting requirements. I am a former Benefits Director and feel strongly that quarterly reports of financial gains and losses are very important. Employees need to know regularly what is going on in the retirement accounts.

Joyce Moore

Sent from my iPad

Joyce Munz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joyce Munz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please learn from the past! We saw what semi-annual reports allowed to happen. This IS a needed reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Joyce Peterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joyce Peterson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In this age of digitization, there is absolutely no legitimate reason for companies to report holdings and trades less often. Do not permit the quarterly reporting rule to be changed. It provides opportunities for more fraud, makes portfolio tracking more difficult for consumers, and is a step backward.
Sincerely,
JD Peterson
San Diego CA 92105

Joyce Raimondo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Joyce Raimondo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Continue quarterly reporting! Why make a change if quarterly reporting has been happening for 70 years without a problem

---

Joyce Sheets — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Joyce Sheets Briefly, I want information 4 times a year instead of two times a year, so that I can review the company's progress.

Joyce Shofner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joyce Shofner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I rely in quarterly reports to make decisions and the savings to companies isn't worth the cost to me!!

Joyce Y offison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Joyce Y offison Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Haven't you stolen enough? We need to know how our monies are being invested and what are loses vs. dividends. Quarterly should be monthly. Take your money out of the stock market, investment accounts and banks. Let the rich gamble with their own money.

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Joyce Young — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Joyce Young Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The USA was built on the trust & confidence of its citizens in the financial system. This proposal provides no safeguards for the smaller investor. I strongly oppose this proposal. Hold companies, their officers , & large investors accountable & transparent. Joyce Young

Sent from Joyce”s IPad

JoyLove ANDREWS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 QUARTERLY REPORTING From: JoyLove ANDREWS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To: The Securities Exchange Commission -
I, Juanita ANDREWS, Am Expressing My Absolute DISagreement, to changes in Quarterly Reporting by Publicly Traded Companies. Investors have benefitted from the High Transparency the 50 Years of Quarterly reporting has provided. "If it Ain't Broke Don't Mess with It!" To whose benefit would this change be?!! (Not an Investor).

Politely, I say, "No! As I Am, Opposed to the Contrived Construct of Changes to Companies' Quarterly SEC Reporting, which is a definite threat to Investor Financialsl Security!!!"

The proposed 6 Months for Reporting is Too Long and can only result in an Upswing in Insider Trading, Ommission in Financial Transparency and Benefit to the Companies' Shareholders / Investors, Slack in Report Details and Filings, etc.

The Biggest Issue to Arise, Should this unnecessary Proposed Change go forth; Will Be the LOSS of CAPITAL for the CORPORATIONS, When (Not, If) INVESTORS DO PULL OUT THEIR FUNDS from said Companies.

Thank Each of You For Your Wise Attention to this URGENT Issue,

Juanita Andrews

JP The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JP Simple - We need more transparency, not less.

JPW — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: JPW Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep reporting quarterly, as we’ve seen what happens when it’s only semi-annual.

Judy Waterman

Get Outlook for iOS

Juan Manuel Cabezas Ruiz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Juan Manuel Cabezas Ruiz Earnings reports should be quarterly. Businesses move very fast, especially in the age of rapid information. With two annual reports, investors will have a very biased view of the business and there could be significant gaps in the data.

Juan Pablo Lopez Gomez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Juan Pablo Lopez Gomez I would like to say that cutting reports in half won't help investor in the slightest. This will hugely reduce the amount of information to all stakeholders, and will lead to volatility. Nobody wants to be part of something that doesn't keep you well-informed.

Judi Auman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Judi Auman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reports quarterly!

Get Outlook for iOS

Judi Haft — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Judi Haft Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the reporting period to quarterly. It is important that the rich CEOs be held accountable and by cutting reporting from quarterly to semi annual gives them easier ways to hide things. Please keep the reporting quarterly. Thank you, Judi Haft

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Judi Lacey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Judi Lacey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please do not do this. Learning from history is proven to be the way to make decisions. I'm retired & on a fixed income.

Things are already hard. With the threats to Social Security, this would be another blow to my financial anxiety . Again, please make the right decision to leave things the way they are. Judith Lacey, Retiree

---

Judi Russell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judi Russell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It seems that we no longer have a senate and congress looking out for our individual rights and protections. To approve 2 times a year vs the current 4 times a year for reporting certainly won't benefit, help or protect those of us who don't own large corporations that are on the stock exchange. There is no merit or benefit to changing this rule….except to the large companies that are listed on the stock market. Please…. protect all of us who are not privileged owners of these companies. Some management will still report honestly, but it seems there's a large number of managers that will be tempted to play with the numbers. Thank you

Judi Russell,
J. Russell & Co. Inc.
JRussellArt.com
Judirussellart@gmail.com
336 817-2077

Judi Scottbey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judi Scottbey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Judith ScottBey, Title Agent, Transparency is the key to success. Corporate already uses its employees as pawns on a chessboard. If they are publicly traded, the public has a right to know.

Thanks!

Judi

Judith A Hines Motley Fool Community, individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Judith A Hines Motley Fool Community

---

Judith A. Pratt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judith A. Pratt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep doing the quarterly reports! Transparency is a must!

Judith Ann Pratt

Sent from my iPhone

Judith Allen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Judith Allen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Protect Investments. To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

Judith Bladen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judith Bladen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It's important to keep the reports quarterly because not reporting gives people the opportunity to be deceitful and dishonest, and we have plenty of that. Going on now already. Truth is power.

Sent from my iPhone

Judith Boensch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judith Boensch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Three simple words - Keep It Quarterly

Sent from my iPhone

Judith Cirves — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judith Cirves Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not slam another door in the face of average America ❗☹

Judith David — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judith David Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think it is very important because people are greedy and those who have typically want more. We need to stay ahead of the cheating millionaires!

Judith Gooch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judith Gooch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need more transparency not less.
And by the way, they should pay their share of national taxes

---

Judith Hernandez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Judith Hernandez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I strongly oppose the proposed change to end quarterly reporting. Reporting at this frequency provides vital information to understand and evaluate what companies are doing and for the general public to be informed in making investment decisions.
Less transparency invites more fraud or fraud to be hidden for a longer length of time. An efficient and fair stock market depends upon full disclosure in a timely manner.
I strongly urge no change to quarterly reporting standards.
Regards,
Judith Hernandez

JUDITH KING — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: JUDITH KING Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep what is already working. It’s not broken unless they’re allowed to break it.

Sent from my iPhone

Judith Krantz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judith Krantz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Judith Krantz, retired CEO. It's important to have current information on businesses when investing. I can't make sound decisions based on old information.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Judith leary — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Judith leary Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposed rule change regarding quarterly reporting requirements. This proposal represents a dangerous shift that would primarily benefit corporate insiders at the expense of everyday retail investors.
Reducing the frequency of financial disclosures creates an environment ripe for deception and makes it significantly harder to hold companies accountable. History has shown us that lack of transparency is the primary driver of market fraud; we should be moving toward more disclosure, not less. This proposal feels like a regressive step back to the pre-regulatory era, which would dismantle the protections that have kept our markets fair for decades.
Retail investors depend on timely, accurate information to make informed decisions. Extending the reporting window for six months creates an unlevel playing field where ordinary people are left in the dark while those with inside access retain their advantage. I urge the Commission to reject this proposal and prioritize the transparency necessary to prevent fraud and protect the integrity of the market for all investors.

Judith MacLean — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judith MacLean Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting

Sent from my iPhone
Judi MacLean

Judith Mizrahi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Judith Mizrahi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Transparency matters!

Judith Mueller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judith Mueller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear SEC:

You must maintain quarterly reporting to protect ordinary investors like me, a retired educator in rural Pennsylvania. The proposed change will advantage insiders and wealthy executives, and make people like me more susceptible to fraud, which has room to grow under this proposed rule change. These proposed changes are simply rotten. Please don't make this change.

Sincerely,
Judith C. Mueller

Sent from Gmail Mobile

Judith P. Niland — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judith P. Niland Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Judith P Niland
Small business owner
To allow CEO of huge companies no accountability while small businesses get hammered is immoral, greedy, and unamerican. Don't make it easier to escape their lies.

Judith Niland
ASTORIA Oregon

Judith Parra Madden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Judith Parra Madden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The us gov department of ongoing fraud is saying that this is good for a very few which is not me or my millions of neighbors. Please remember whom you're supposed to be serving. The PEOPLE

---

judith rhodes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: judith rhodes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly! Be honest. Retired educator here following stock and financial news, J. Rhodes

Sent from my iPhone

Judith Rountree — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judith Rountree Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I GUESS THE GREATEST CON EVER, WHO NOW IS PRESIDENT, HASN'T MADE YOU ALL RICH ENOUGH, SO YOU WANT TO CHEAT EVEN WORSE FOR MORE? THE PUBLIC IS FINALLY SCRUTINIZING YOU ALL NOW... I'M GLAD!

Judson Harper Retired professor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Judson Harper Quarterly reporting should be the minimum requirement

---

Judy A. Baldwin Retired Banker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Judy A. Baldwin I think the semi-annual reporting is a mistake. With the new computer programs, its easier than ever to produce reports on a quarterly basis. Please re-think this change in reporting requirements.

Judy Braune Individusl investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Judy Braune More information is much better for investors.

Judy Cary — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judy Cary Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the accounting books Quarterly in reporting company assets and debts.

Hello

Keep the books quarterly.
To much fraud could take place and it will destroy the country infstructure of the country and big businesses.
Thsnk you.

Judy Cary
Real Estate Agent
EXP Realty LLC

NVAR Top Producer
MRP, PSA, SRES, VHDA
5 Star Reviews

703-587-6650
judycaryexp@gmail.com
www.judycary.com

EXP Realty LLC
2000 Duke Street,
Suite 300
Alexandria, VA 22314
866-825-7169

Licensed in Virginia

Judy Ehling Warlick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Ehling Warlick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I like the quartet report. I am having a hard time to get a report. I do not want it sent digitally. I want the oaper

---

Judy Ennis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Ennis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Judy Ennis, Retired RN. Why should you be allowed to do things in secret? Doing this could wipe out a retirement fund. College fund. Continue as before. No secrets.

Judy Foust — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Foust Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Judy Foust,, retired educator here. How DARE you add one more privilege to corporate big business! They need NO MORE PRVILEGES. This makes no sense to me.

Judith E. Foust
Cell: 715-704-0983

~~Motivational Speaker

~~Online Educator (coolteachers.com)

Judy Foxx Art — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Foxx Art Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Everyone deserves to see and act upon their investments quarterly!

Sent from my iPhone
Judy Foxx

Judy Gage-Werner The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Judy Gage-Werner Please keep the reporting statements with four times per year. I like to stay informed and appreciate the quarterly reporting information.

Judy Goudette Hastings — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Judy Goudette Hastings Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
There is nothing good about extending reporting to 6 months. Please reconsider passing this very poor idea.
Thank you kindly!!

Judy Jackson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Jackson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please protect our retirement and continue mandating quarterly reporting!!

Judy Kendall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judy Kendall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 That’s ridiculous! If not monthly then quarterly is absolutely necessary

Get Outlook for iOS

Judy Kuegler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Kuegler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why don't you want us to know what's going on with a company This is a bad policy.

Judy Kuegler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Kuegler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why don't you want us to know what's going on with a company This is a bad policy.

Judy Kuegler

Judy Lancing — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judy Lancing Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Companies need always to be transparent, especially when they have shareholders.

Judy Lancing, Retired

Sent from my iPad

Judy M — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judy M Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retired individual who has worked all my life, I will be 80yrs. old soon. We work for what we have. The elites of this country's hold be held accountable!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Judy Malone — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judy Malone Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 QUARTERLY REPORTS
SIGNED, SEALED & DONE!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Judy McGarrah — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy McGarrah Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It American people rights. I'm 68 and My rights my husband rights / DS/DS VETERAN rights and my children. Point blank.

Judy Mcpherson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Mcpherson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Judy McPherson. Retired. It matters because I think a transparent world is a better world...

Judy Murray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judy Murray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Judy Murray, entrepreneur, we have to keep the giant financial corporations accountable and really all corporations for that matter. The law is a result of prior abuse. It must be maintained or we will have the same scenario of a few benefiting to the detriment of our society.
No roll back of laws and guidelines.

---

judy neff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: judy neff Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is important! It helps with transparency foe investors. Please don't discontinue it, it would be irresponsible!

Thank you!

Judy Neff
Owner, Joshua HR Solutions
Murrells Inlet, SC

Sent from my iPhone

Judy Nelson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Judy Nelson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No, we do not want semi annual reporting.zz…
there is not enough transparency as it is.!! no no no zz. We are losing enough money with just inflation and a stupid war..

Sent from my iPhone

Judy Nielsen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judy Nielsen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 More perks for the billionaires 🤬 Really!! Judt another way for the to hide their income!! NO!!!!
Judy Nielsen
Sent from my iPhone

Judy Pepper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judy Pepper Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need transparency on our financial investments. Companies should not have the ability to withhold crucial information from us, which we need to make decisions.
Abby Pepper

Judy Ramsey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Ramsey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC please stop the political attacks on ABC, including the "View".
Judy Ramsey
Retired

Sent from my iPhone

Judy Reid — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Reid Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No don’t do this.

Sent from my iPhone

Judy Riess — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Riess Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. The more we know about a company's health the better we can understand their future. More transparenty is vital. Why hid a company's fiscal condition?

Judy Rocke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judy Rocke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I do think it is important to keep reports quarterly. It is a way to keep everything transparent for all.

Sent from my iPad

Judy Rocke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judy Rocke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I do think it is important to keep reports quarterly. It is a way to keep everything transparent for all.
Judy Rocke
763 Kickapoo Dr
Danvers, IL. 61732

Sent from my iPad

Judy Salgado — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Salgado Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 These regulations were put in place for a reason. Just leave it alone.
Judith Salgado, voter

Sent from my iPhone

Judy Sanstad — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judy Sanstad Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reports to keep everyone on equal footing!

Judy Schomaker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Judy Schomaker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Judy Schomaker DC Tour

Guide for 15 years now living in Florida

Four times a year, the CEO and CFO must each put their name to the company's books, certifying they've reviewed the report and that it contains no untrue statement of a material fact.

The truth will out for the American people.

We all have checks and balances in our lives. They keep us real.

We were given stock from both our families. It is something that they could do to get us started in our adulthood and keep us. We all have to be good keepers of all that we have been entrusted with Greed becomes more Greed without compassion, understanding and duty to those who placed their money and trust for truth and justice in you.

Thank you.

Judy Talley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Judy Talley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Do NOT stop quarterly reporting. As an invester, I need to know what's happening that affects my investments in the short and long term. If you stop quarterly reporting, it means I have to rely on second hand sources. It means I only have what people want to report, rather than what they must report. It means I have less control over my money.

Judy Thacker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Judy Thacker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We oppose the SEC doing away with quarterly reports

---

Judy Zito-Pry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Judy Zito-Pry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Terrible idea and not in favor of it at all!!
Judy Zito/Nurse Practitioner/Investor
Advocate for the little men and women

Sent from my iPhone

Juila Kvale — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Juila Kvale Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Your bureaucracy is big enough to handle four reports a year. Just do your job.

Sent from my iPhone

Jule Eberle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Jule Eberle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jule Eberle is is disabled senior citizen, A farmer, and Investor.
Honesty of this country matters to me. Being better matters to me, being ethical and honest matters to me, not being the bottom of the barrel like the world expects us to be. Why cannot we not rise up above the leadership we have and prove that we dont have to follow a felon into the depths.
Thank you,
Jule Eberle

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Juli Boyd — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Juli Boyd Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep quarterly reporting!
Thank you,

Juli Evangelista — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Juli Evangelista Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am an investor and I want to keep the reporting quarterly. We don’t need any more opportunity for waste, fraud and abuse.

Sent from my iPhone

Julia — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Julia Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a business owner and I think quarterly reporting is vital for investors and business owners. It keeps everyone honest and ensures all citizens can make wise choices about investments now and into the future.

Sincerely,
Julia Shaw
JSD Creative

Julia Cuellar — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Julia Cuellar Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Look out for your everyday citizens! We're already struggling every day, keep quarterly reporting!

Julia Flood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julia Flood Transparency and accountability are key to investor confidence and a strong economy. Frequent reporting is necessary to assure those of us trusting our future security to companies using our dollars to grow and prosper. Do not reduce reporting requirements, please.

Julia Gross — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Julia Gross Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential for investors and the public to know what is going on within a company. Keep quarterly reportinvg a requirement. No shadow corporation concealing of their financial status.

Julia Hathaway Commercial real estate Paralegal — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julia Hathaway Allowing corporation leadership to only report every 6 months will put my investments at risk. Corporations are not people, and the publicly traded companies are focused on providing dividends for their major investors. We have seen that greed and corruption are the result of pressure by big investors' focus on returns, and that leadership falls into the scheme to maintain their own position. Examples are Enron and even The Trump Organization. I am retiring soon and need to be able to see, in time to make educated decisions, what my investments are doing. The biggest investors have a seat at the table. This new rule would only hurt me -and other smaller investors.

Julia Landress — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Julia Landress Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: STOP supporting Wall Street at the expense of Main Street!

Julia Nickson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Julia Nickson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Julia Nickson Actor As if the income divide isn't already horrendous . Why are you trying to make it worse!!!! Shame!

Julia Phillips — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Julia Phillips Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Julia Phillips and I work in mental health. Quarterly reporting is necessary to keep everyone accountable and the economy healthy.

Get Outlook for iOS

Julian Master of Economics — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julian Keep reporting as minimum 4 times per year. Companies should be disclosing as much as possible, and as often as possible, if seeking investment from the public. Reducing the frequency of reporting will only distort or remove information about the company's finances and performance. Investors need more transparency not less.

Julian Saunders The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julian Saunders 100% against the proposal to reduce the reporting requirements from 4 times a year to 2 times/year.

Julian Ziskind Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julian Ziskind Please do not change the rule as reporting lets investors know how a company is working. Thank you.

Juliana Quadrozzi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Juliana Quadrozzi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Juliana Quadrozzi ACCESSIBILITY!

Julie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Julie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Julie Horn Retired. Keep SEC current reporting requirements. These guardrails were established due to Enron. The VOTERS will not tolerate the reduction of needed "safety nets."

Julie Agles-Jankee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Julie Agles-Jankee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 PLEASE KEEP REPORTS QUARTERLY.
ALOT CAN HAPPEN IN 6 MONTHS AND WE NEED TO STAY INFORMED. PLEASE KEEP US INFORMED. IT'S UP TO YOU TO PROTECT AND ENLIGHTEN US.

Julie Browning — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Julie Browning Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I vote and support quarterly reports. We need more transparency not less. What are they trying to hide?!!

Sent from my iPhone

Julie Chaffin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Julie Chaffin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Most of my life’s savings are controlled by companies subject to these rules. Please do not release them from quarterly reporting, we need regular checks so that we know what they are doing. My savings may die in secrecy.

Julie Chaffin
Brandon, MS 39047

Julie Chambers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Julie Chambers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is so wrong. Transparency!

Julie Feeney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Julie Feeney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Julie Feeney, retired,
Having a quarterly report generated by today's computer standards should not be to much to ask of companies that want our financial backing.
This helps keep them honest and possibly catch financial anomalies earlier.

Julie

---

julie flynn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: julie flynn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission,
I am writing to voice my OPPOSITION to the proposed idea of semi-annual financial reporting. Less frequent reporting can disrupt market transparency, enable potential manipulation, or make it more difficult for investors to track performance.
The change to quarterly reporting in 1970 was implemented to provide shareholders and the market with consistent, timely transparency in order to prevent companies from hiding operational losses or financial difficulties. Those concerns remain and are even more prevalent in today's market.
Regards,
Julie Flynn

Julie Garcia N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julie Garcia There is nothing broken to fix here! Quarterly reporting is and has been completely manageable. Go find something else to do.

Julie Goings — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Julie Goings Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Waiting 6 months is much too long. There is proof that quarterly is best for the market as well as for investors. Switching back to bi-annually makes sense, so it seems suspect that this is even being considered. My family is be no means wealthy, but we have investments that could be devastated by the loss of 30% which is the percentage at risk if we return to bi-annually. Prices are up and there's no promise that won't continue which makes the loss of the amount of money/savings very serious. We've also had enough fraud and abuse of average investors by the likes of Enron and the like. Do not move us from quarterly reports. People have the right to know what is going on with their investments in a timely manner. Our financial well-being must be priorized over what seems to be only a preference of companies and corporations. Quarterly is transparency. KEEP IT. Thank you, Julie Marsh

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Julie Hicks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Julie Hicks Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY!!

Sent from my iPhone

Julie Invester — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julie At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Julie Laroe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Julie Laroe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leave it quarterly.

Sent from my iPhone

Julie Larson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julie Larson I oppose the new SEC rule that would allow semiannual rather than quarterly reports from public companies. We need the transparency that quarterly reports allow, especially in today's world. Less reporting could result in increased volatility and decreased trust. As AI becomes commonplace businesses have less of an excuse that the reports take too much time. Please do NOT change the system to reports just twice a year.

Julie Lemish Rex Travel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julie Lemish I think it is an absolute mistake to allow companies to elect to only produce company reports 2 times per year. Life moves incredibly quickly and with AI that is speeding up even more. To leave investors in the dark for 6 months at a time will leave them ill informed on the companies they own. When reports do eventually come out negative, those companies will be punished and be much more volatile for investors. Given how many people rely on investment income to fund their retirements and lives, this is a dangerous game. I hope you will come to your senses and keep quarterly reporting requirements for all publicly held companies. If companies want to operate in the dark, they should have remained privately held companies! Julie Lemish President Rex Travel

---

Julie M — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julie M Please keep companies transparent. I would greatly prefer that they give quarterly reports and not just twice a year. As a stock holder, that is not keeping me well informed. Thank you!

Julie Moore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Julie Moore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please do not change the reporting to investors like myself from. three months to six months. I need information at a 90 day time frame

---

Julie Pickett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julie Pickett Please do not allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that’s a mistake! Less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Keep the required reporting at four times per year.

Julie Rettberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Julie Rettberg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. We learned the hard way with Enron. There is no good outcome to allowing longer time periods. It only allows time to hide the true accounting from the public.

Julie Stowasser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julie Stowasser I vehemently object to extending the reporting period from three months to six months before meaningful transparency is provided to investors. In fact, I also object to the existing three month delay. Thirty days should be more than sufficient. Investors deserve timely disclosure of significant ownership positions and changes so they can make informed investment decisions. Delaying transparency for three months, let alone six months, undermines market integrity, disadvantages ordinary investors, and creates an uneven playing field that benefits large institutional investors at the expense of the investing public. The SEC's mission is to protect investors and maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets. Extending disclosure deadlines moves in the opposite direction. The Commission should shorten reporting deadlines, not lengthen them.

Julie Thies Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julie Thies We absolutely believe that quarterly reporting is essential for transparency and to let shareholders make better, informed and timely decisions. Do not change the quarterly reporting standards.

JULIE WEINBERG Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JULIE WEINBERG Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Changing this regulation is simply bad policy.

Julie Williams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Julie Williams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop helping corporate America cheat retirees out of their tiny investment income. After a life of service to others, the reward should not be poverty.

Sent from my iPhone

Julie Yamaguchi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julie Yamaguchi There should be as much transparency as possible from publicly held companies. Historically businesses have fared worse when they were required to release reports less frequently and it places more of a burden on shareholders to determine how the company is doing. Please do NOT reduce the requirement to submit reports from quarterly to semi-annually.

---

julie yates — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: julie yates Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Julie Yates, small business owner. I'm TRYING to retire before I die. How many more years do I have to work before I can afford to rest before I die?

Julie Yates

Julie Zimmer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Julie Zimmer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is over-regulation in government, but quarterly reports aren't "it." Please don't shirk your responsibility. - Julie Zimmer, citizen, New Hampshire, retired teacher/editor

Sent from my iPhone

Julio Jimenez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Julio Jimenez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear Sirs,
As a soon to retire citizen who spent years saving and investing for that goal, I will be managing my investments and need frequent and honest reporting to protect my nest egg.
Counting on your protection.
Sincerely,
Julio J Jimenez
15702 SW 59th Terr
Miami, Fl 33193

Sent from Samsung Galaxy smartphone.
Get Outlook for Android

Julio Navarro — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julio Navarro This proposal is a terrible idea that has no business even being consider. As a small investor, I need to know how a company is performing and the only to do that is by knowing their financial information. Waiting 6 months to know how a company is performing, but the insiders knowing, will put us, small time investors, in a great disadvantage. With new companies becoming public constantly, we need to know as much as possible about their financial performance. Please vote down this terrible idea so that small investor like me can have as much information as possible to invest for my family's future.

Julius Cialka Product Manager — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Julius Cialka It seems there is very little reason to implement this change, while the downside is huge: less transparency and even bigger informational gap between retail and institutional investors.

Junaed Halim — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Junaed Halim To the Securities and Exchange Commission, As an individual investor, I am writing to oppose the proposed transition to optional semiannual reporting for public companies. Less transparency never creates better-informed owners. Public companies operate and change every single day. Waiting six months to receive verified financial updates leaves individual shareholders in the dark, increases investment risk, and creates a breeding ground for market volatility when data is finally released. High-quality, frequent disclosure is what makes U.S. public markets the strongest in the world. Please protect individual investors and maintain the requirement for quarterly reporting. Thank you for your time and consideration.

June Grant — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: June Grant Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not allow companies to rob regular investors blind. Quarterly reporting should be mandatory! June Grant, retired, IRA

June Maple — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: June Maple Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If it changes to every 6 months that is just asking for trouble. And you know who will suffer? People relying on their investments for their retirement. And you know who will pay the bills ? Taxpayers. KEEP IT QUARTERLY!

June Maple, retired taxpayer

Sent from my iPad

Jung Baek — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Jung Baek I strongly oppose the proposal to reduce public company reporting from quarterly to semiannually. Investing is ownership, and owners require regular, transparent updates to make informed decisions. Halving the frequency of official reports will not cure market short-termism; it will simply leave investors uninformed for dangerously long stretches. Waiting six months for financial data guarantees that when reports are finally released, the surprises will be larger, triggering sharper market reactions and heightened volatility. Furthermore, in an era of highly efficient disclosure technology, the cost-saving argument for reducing reporting frequency is heavily outweighed by the public benefit of transparency. Please protect the fair and transparent markets established by Regulation Fair Disclosure (Reg FD) and reject this proposal. Individual investors need timely information, not fewer updates.

Junious Henderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Junious Henderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do the right thing and uphold the standards that protect investors and traders, the system is already fixed enough. No more edge is needed to favor market makers and manipulators.

Justin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Justin Do nor let companies reduce transparency, it allows investors to know if the company is still worth the price of the stock.

Justin Bradley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Justin Bradley Filings should remain quarterly for businesses. As a measure of how they are being run for those investing in those companies we need that level of transparency. In the age of AI this is particularly relevant as 6 months could see dramatic changes to the position of a company given unanticipated changes. Would be disappointing and definitely negatively impact my desire to invest in companies where they don't have to report transparently.

Justin Gannon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Justin Gannon Over the past 5 years, the SEC has accelerated its objective to heavily obfuscate information and data reporting for Wall Street insiders at the detriment of American citizens and global investors. This is yet another reduction in required reporting and reduces transparency in the public markets. It is quite clear the SEC has no interest in protecting individual investors. The proposed argument, in favor of semiannual reporting, suggests that it is a costly burden for corporations to report their financials four times a year. This argument has no merit as companies collect and review this data regularly to ensure operations are working as intended. This new rule proposal gives fraudulent companies more time to untangle and cook their shady financials. Imposing a rule like this, at a time of intense financial risk due to the failing data center and AI investments, foreign wars impacting costs of all goods, and large level of skepticism and admission from the president and his cabinet regarding insider trading, is irresponsible at best, and intentionally malignant at worst. You should be enforcing more transparency, not less.

Justin Godfrey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Justin Godfrey I am writing to urge the SEC to maintain quarterly reporting requirements. As an individual, or “retail,” investor, I believe that allowing semiannual reporting requirements will disadvantage me and tens of millions of investors like me. Less information will keep the average investor in the dark, will lead to a greater potential for higher market volatility, and likely increase the chances of insider trading that will be harder to investigate and prosecute. All of this creates an uneven playing field that is anathema to truly free and fair capitalism. Thank you for your consideration.

Justin Grant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Justin Grant Please do not eliminate quarterly reporting requirements for public companies. As an individual investor I rely heavily on information provided by those reports to make investing decisions which will impact my financial future. Allowing companies to operate with less transparency hurts everyday retail investors like myself while providing additional opportunities for fraud. With the technology advancements we have today there is no good excuse for a publicly traded company to not provide this transparency to their investors.

Justin Larsen Corporate Operations Leader; Owner/Founder of Starr Stuff Jewelry, Co. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Justin Larsen This is shameful legislation and obviously part of the ongoing Grift of the Century. The people behind all of this may not ever see justice, but history will remember. I invoke the Law of Threefold Return on agents of dehumanization. This legislation represents an insidious form of dehumanization on a huge scale. I do not consent. My people on all levels of existence do not consent. There will be repercussions.

Justin Lawson The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Justin Lawson On the face of this proposal, it seems to be operating in the spirit of "fairness" out of a general interest to ease the burden on the companies being impacted by the quarterly reporting requirement. In the Federal Register proposal text, you state the case against this quite plainly in section III using terms so clear as to command their ascent; Interim reports provide investors with material information about the financial performance of their companies during a fiscal year. It is easy in the technological landscape of today to suggest that the requirements put into place nearly 100 years prior are out of date, lacking clarity, or extreme in their application. It is easy to say those things without considering the context of why the current requirements were enacted in the first place. The market exists as it is today because of the framework that has been painstakingly built over the last 100 years to force regulatory requirements as a means of producing public trust in the market. Considering that the product of these requirements is public trust in the market, it must be understood that to reduce the reporting requirements is to directly and negatively impact the very manner by which that trust is produced. The SEC rules are the very underpinning of more than the US Market Economy. The downstream regulatory implications must also be considered and weighed proportionately. When the upstream Federal Regulatory Requirements are relaxed, the downstream secondary regulatory requirements within industry become exponentially relaxed to a degree that requires a greater constriction of regulation to correct. The Free For All Manipulated Market of the early twentieth century necessitated these requirements; to reduce them now suggests a willingness to return to that type of market. I will move toward closing my comments with reference to another line in the Federal Register proposal. To the extent that companies could not previously do so due to quarterly reporting, companies electing semiannual reporting may employ business strategies that may help ensure these companies' long-term viability. This statement suggests that weak businesses should be valued more than their investors and allowed to survive longer by not reporting their underlying weakness in the interest that they might find a way out. In closing, these two statements taken from your own filing demonstrate the only reasoning required to highlight the absurdity of this proposal. I look forward to the greater value of public trust and the greater lack of public support to overrule these proposals.

Justin McHargue — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Justin McHargue I disagree with the idea of allowing businesses to have less transparency, moving to semi annual filings will mean less ability for me to evaluate my investments and make appropriate decisions. It will almost certainly lessen my confidence in the integrity of the stock market overall, and forced me to find alternate methods of investment.

---

justin morgan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: justin morgan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I refuse to let companies think they do not have to report to the people. There is a right to freedom of information and we will not stand for this attack to let greedy companies run wild.

Justin Philippi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Justin Philippi This is a terrible idea. Companies face a meagre amount of effort to inform their shareholders of the business fundamentals on which they have staked ownership in the firm. Providing less information to investors will not make smarter investments or less volatile investments. The cost of this work is largely automated, and will likely be further automated with advancements in AI, to the point that there is no disincentive to reporting at the current frequency. The cost is already established, and the owners (shareholders) are not asking for this.

Justin Scholfield — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Justin Scholfield Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
We have rampant fraud everywhere. The fact that the sec is even considering this casts doubt on the integrity of the organization. It's screams let's leave a massive loop hole open to cook books and cover up issues investors need to know about. Don't be *ing morons in it for a quick buck.

Justin W Schulz None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Justin W Schulz Do not reduce company reports from 4 times a year to 2. Transparency and frequent disclosure are essential to maintaining healthy markets.

Justine Wilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Justine Wilson Transparency creates informed and educated consumers. Lack of information creates chaos.

JW None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: JW There is no good logical reason to make it harder for an average citizen to follow any investment. Social Security is now being called a benefit when it was our money Congress took and never replaced. We are told it will not last and any payment will be less money than what has been contributed. You are asking us to trust and wait six months to learn more if our investments are doing well. No! This is not a good idea. On paper it may seem good, but without information, monitoring and accountability the common citizen has a harder time. Allow digital options if mailing forms is hurting companies.

Jward — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Jward Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is vital.

l Jeannette Ward

---

jwoodkibbe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: jwoodkibbe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No. Ripping off the American people.

Sent from my Galaxy

---

j_c_nipper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: j_c_nipper Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To whom it may concern, There is way too much not being reported as it is, in my opinion. This needs to be open, honest, and straight forward for everyone involved. My mother is living off of the money she gets from stocks and bonds and I will be living off of it too in the near future. I do not trust the CEO's in the least to do what is right for the public and I will lose faith entirely if this goes to twice a year. There is a tremendous amount of insider trading going on as it is and the rich just keep getting greedier and richer while everyone else is getting less while working themselves to the bone. There needs to be the oversight for trust and accountability and this needs to continue to be quarterly.

Courtney Nipper

Sent from my Galaxy

K C — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: K C Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Those who invest have the right to all governmental reporting, tax information and quarterly updates on the investments. Without said information, only insiders will profit and we will enter a third Great Depression.

K D — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: K D Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please force companies to continue reporting as they have been doing!

K E Absher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: K E Absher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep the reporting the same as it is.
We need to be able to see all timely activity on our a counts.
It is important to all!!!

---

k j — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: k j Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kathleen Jennings This is just another way of keeping my money tied up in stocks I can’t keep track of to save them money and not accommodate your financial needs or wants

Sent from my iPhone

K S — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: K S Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kris Soto, manager. Financial reports should probably be required more frequently, definitely not less so.

K Sav — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: K Sav Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Companies will continue to provide quarterly reporting to be able to calculate state & local taxes. It is not a hindrance to do it because states & localities want their share of income quarterly. They need to continue to report to their shareholders on a wuarterly basis.

Sent from my iPhone

K Townson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: K Townson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it public. Keep it legal.

K Walsh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: K Walsh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I object to the ending of quarterly reporting. It's not broke so don't "fix" it. Don't try to convince us twice a year will be fine. For who?
I worked for decades to earn enough money to invest in America and it's businesses and now you want to pull a stunt like this? Are the people/corporations behind this so greedy that they want more of our hard-earned investments, they don't have enough? Shame on you for even considering this travesty.
If this happens then I take my investment portfolio and find something else to do with it.
SHAME SHAME SHAME

K. Brent — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: K. Brent Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING! 😡

K. Culbert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: K. Culbert As an individual investor, I have regularly used the quarterly reports over the last 45 years I have been an investor. I find it enables me to see the company's financial picture on a more timely basis. And I think it also helps the company to get a clearer idea of whether it is achieving its goals. In this fast paced world too much change can happen in 6 month. Every 3 months is a good compromise for companies to share their finances. With the help of computers and AI it should not be a burden to produce the reports for even the smallest companies. Without the quarterly reports, it is easy for an investor to miss important information.

K.B The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: K.B I want quarterly statements not 2 statements a year. There’s too much Companys can hide in that time. Investors deserve transparency every 3 months not 2 a year.

---

k9rgood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: k9rgood Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is necessary for ensuring timely financial information that is used by investors when investing in company stock. The 3 month time frame is fair and a longer period allows for developments in earnings, and other financial indicators , to change and blindside investors. It is essential for investor trust and the integrety of the stock market that the quarterly reporting stays in place

Sincerely,

Tammy Buckles
408-393-7356

Sent from my Galaxy

Ka tr yeb Marr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Ka tr yeb Marr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please continue the current practice of sharing information, not doing this. Will keep Americans at a disadvantage- open book is the best policy!! thank you

---

Kabir Grewal — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kabir Grewal Companies should be required to provide more transparency to investors, not less!

Kaelee Darling — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kaelee Darling Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The convenience and cost reduction on filing quarterly only benefits the companies and none of its shareholders. How can less transparency ever be the appropriate action to take when we're talking abd MONEY? This decision benefits the few and screws over the many. Please do not revert to semi-annual filing.

Kailee Zingler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Kailee Zingler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kailee Zingler, Compliance Officer, Chicago.
Please don't wipe away working people's hard earned money in favor of rich people's valuation.
We working people actually spend the money and keep the economy circulating. Rich people hoard and the overall money in circulation suffers.

Kailee V. Zingler

The information contained in this email (including any attachments) is CONFIDENTIAL, and may be protected by the ATTORNEY-CLIENT PRIVILEGE and/or ATTORNEY WORK PRODUCT PROTECTIONS. The information contained in this email is intended solely for the use of the addressee. If you are not the intended recipient, do not read, disseminate, or use this email, and please notify the sender of the mistaken transmission.

---

kaiulani Wharton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: kaiulani Wharton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The quarterly reporting is working. Don’t mess with it!

Kaiulani W Wharton

Kakthleen R Healy Investor in 401k and Annuity — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kakthleen R Healy Given the nefarious activities of many financial institutions in the USA, I believe it is critical to have this reporting as often as possible. The idea of stopping this is opening the door to fraud and criminal activities.

Kaleb Chaudoir — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kaleb Chaudoir Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Kaleb Chaudoir and as a Senior Analyst in the CPG world I am in full support of quarterly reporting. Please keep this level of transparency in play for the sake of all stakeholders!

Kambiz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kambiz We need to at least maintain what little corporate financial accountability we currently have. Changing the corporate reporting period to semi-annually from quarterly will benefit no one but insider traders and give companies the ability to brush financial losses under the rug to where no one is held accountable and the individual shareholder will pay the price. So much of our economy is based on figurative earnings and as a country, we are already trillions of dollars in debt. This potential change will further plummet the economy more than we should permit. Do what is needed for the people and economy, and do not succumb to executive pressure. Please give thorough consideration and thought to the implications this change will bring, and if it is actually beneficial for the general population. Keep the quarterly reporting requirements for publicly traded companies. Thank you. -A concerned citizen

---

Kane Gunn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kane Gunn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
DO NOT EXCLUDE OR REMOVE QUARTERLY REPORTING.
WE NEED REFULATION TO PREVENT FRAUD NOW.

Kanwal Dhindsa Motley Fool Community. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kanwal Dhindsa This proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two is a big mistake. Investors are part of these companies and they deserve to know better about what's happening inside the companies. Thanks!

Kapil Jain — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kapil Jain For individual investors, we need more transparency and frequency of communication and not less.

Kara Callahan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kara Callahan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not do this to the American people! This is so dangerous for shareholders and corporations have too much power already!

Kara Surface — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kara Surface Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kara Surface, head cashier for Ace Hardware. Companies should not be allowed to go dark, as it leads to fraud and not transparency in what the company is doing. Companies should be held at the same standards as a US citizen if we have to be able to show our net worth so should they and they should not be able to hide it for 6 months at a time. Little companies don't get this opportunity so big companies shouldn't either. This is just a big companies trying to hide what they are actually doing!

Sincerely,
Kara Surface

---

karel hill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: karel hill Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Bad call! Put it back!

Karen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Eliminating quarterly reporting is only helpful for large companies who want to hide what they are doing. It doesn’t help the average investor.

Sent from my iPad

Karen Abrams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karen Abrams Please keep giving me updates about each stock/holding quarterly. Half a year is not enough.

Karen Agugliaro — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen Agugliaro Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't let them cash out under the radar! Keep em accountable!

Karen Bailey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Karen Bailey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly middle class cant afford any more losses

---

Karen Balbi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Balbi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I worked for a large Fortune 500 company and witnessed changes in operations to stay compliant with laws and of course take advantage of tax breaks.

This is what happened quarterly,

I can see things getting out of hand easily if the goal post is deferred. Oversight and accountability are important. Keeping a quarterly rhythm helps keep surprises to a minimum.

Kay Balbi

Karen Bordewyk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Karen Bordewyk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep reporting quarterly. I am beginning to trust no one in business. I have stocks and bonds and don't trust them to be honest.

Karen Commiato — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen Commiato Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No way! There is enough going on with NO transparency. The rich get richer. Quarterly reporting is a must! If they aren't doing anything wrong, why not report?

Sent from my iPhone

KAREN FERGUSON — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: KAREN FERGUSON Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Karen Ferguson, Craftsperson.
I'm small time; but I report quarterly. I remember Enron and Madoff ripping off folks. We can't let that happen again.

Sent from my iPhone

Karen Firkser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Firkser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear SEC: Please KEEP Quarterly Reporting! Thank you!

Sent from my iPhone

Please excuse any typos!

Karen Firkser

Global Partner Alliance Mgr.
703-357-4842 Mobile
kfirkser@outlook.com

Karen Franklin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Franklin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The populace, especially investors, needs more info not less! Don’t become SEC-retive!

Sent from my iPhone

Karen Free — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen Free Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The pitchforks are coming. This corporate corruption must be stopped.

Karen Gayda — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Karen Gayda Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 With the level of corruption in business and government these days, we need more accountability, not less. Keep this quarterly

---

Karen Gerbig — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Gerbig Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not allow this 6 mos. Vs 3 mos reporting proposal to pass.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Karen Golden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Karen Golden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Too many crooked guys in charge!

Karen Greenwood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen Greenwood Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep this quarterly. As disabled veteran, I need to maintain transparency. To my future finished.

Karen Gust — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karen Gust I think we should continue requiring quarterly reports from the companies in which we invest. As investors, it is important that we stay informed about their performance, progress, and overall financial health. Regular quarterly reporting provides transparency, helps us monitor results against expectations, and allows us to make informed decisions regarding our investments.

Karen Haber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen Haber Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This administration is doing everything in its power to take information away from the citizens and preserve it for the elite, powerful and “connected”. That is not democracy. That is oligarchy.

Sent from my iPhone

KAREN HAMILTON — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: KAREN HAMILTON Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly. Hopefully to keep honesty and integrity. I am retired now, but have always worked directly the public as well as the private sector all my working career. Also, I was raised in a time where you treated people the way you expected to be treated. While that can be/ will always be difficult simply because we are human, we still need to strive to always do what is FAIR AND HONEST! I thank you in advance for always treating others the way YOU would like to be treated. B.K. Hamilton

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Karen Hanas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Karen Hanas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC

Has quarterly reporting changed anything?
Are you interested in not allowing another ENRON?

Karen Hanas
Former Director Insurance Company
Former family counselor
Still a mom
Sierra Madre, CA 91024

Karen Hensey The Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karen Hensey Please do NOT let the semiannual reporting move forward . This would not help investors it would only stifle good conversations with the financial institutions and be unable to give good feedback as well

---

Karen J Shaw — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen J Shaw Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Need to keep reports quarterly. I need to know how my investments are doing . Should really do it monthly!

Karen Johansen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen Johansen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need regular, frequent, open, upfront, available, information reported at least quarterly to keep companies honest.

I have lost thousands of dollars due to fraud and embezzlement in my own investments over the years. Steward Healthcare most recently. The mismanagement of funds disrupted the abilities of well trained medical personnel to provide good care. The hospitals were not able to maintain equipment because Steward wouldn't pay their bills. Resulting in death and poor outcomes in some patients in some parts of the country. Thieves can only hide for so long before their deeds are uncovered. Let's not give them greater opportunity to do more harm.
Karen Johansen

Karen Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Karen jones
Interior Design
Be fair and transparent to investors

Sent from my iPad

Karen Kamenir — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Kamenir Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Most businesses and personal accounts are reconciled with a bank on a monthly basis.
My charge card, utility bill etc. wants payments to be made monthly.
Should extending these billing dates change to every 6 months?
I receive dividend payments every 90 days OR in some cases monthly. Should I need to wait 6 months to receive payment?

These businesses can obfuscate negative information for 4 plus months before appearing in an official report.... no transparency throughout that time.
To issue a report every 3 months should not be a hardship or financial burden since we have accounting automated .....and now enhanced using AI. Too much can be hidden.
Karen Kamenir
Retired

Karen P. Kamenir
Dobson Glen
Mesa, AZ 85202

(C) 267-269-1573

“The capacity to learn is a gift; the ability to learn is a skill; the willingness to learn is a choice.”

No matter how many mistakes you make, or how slow your progress, you are still way ahead of everyone else who isn't even trying. T. Robbins

Karen L Gatto — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen L Gatto Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep everything transparent and keep requiring quarterly reporting!

Karen L Gatto

Sent from my iPhone

Karen Larson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen Larson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keeping company reporting at the current schedule, every three months, protects the buyers and keeps the company honest and current on their obligations to their shareholders. I highly recommend keeping this financial reporting quarterly. Why change something that works for all concerned.

Karen Larson

Karen Martindale Orite Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karen Martindale Orite I think the planned reduction in reporting requirements is both risky and unnecessary. As a small investor I rely on timely information to make decisions.

Karen McGhee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Karen McGhee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
2O SON OF SPIRIT!
The best beloved of all things in My sight is Justice; turn not away therefrom if thou desirest Me, and neglect it not that I may confide in thee. By its aid thou shalt see with thine own eyes and not through the eyes of others, and shalt know of thine own knowledge and not through the knowledge of thy neighbor. Ponder this in thy heart; how it behooveth thee to be. Verily justice is My gift to thee and the sign of My loving-kindness. Set it then before thine eyes.
Baha'u'llah
Hidden Words of Bahá'u'lláh

Karen McLaughlin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karen McLaughlin Keep reporting at 3 months. We should have clear, accurate and timely information to make informed investment decisions. We should check frequently to prevent fraud. Frequent reporting will help prevent ballooning debt, lawsuits, vanishing customers. Quarterly filings force fraud into the open. I strongly feel that we need to keep financial reporting at every three months.

Karen McNamara — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Karen McNamara Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting- what do you have to hide by not other than corruption in the system? Leave this transparency alone! I want to know what my accounts are doing in a timely manner!!

Karen McNamara
Puyallup, Washington

Sent from my iPhone

Karen Miller Taxpayer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karen Miller Bad idea!!

Karen Morgan Registered Nurse , Alantic Health — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karen Morgan Please keep reporting of Stocks, Bonds etc quarterly so I can track my investments..I have worked hard my whole life and these are my investments for a secure retirement. Thank you

---

Karen Mosier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen Mosier Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am retired and want the quarterly updates to remain.

Karen Musketnuss — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Musketnuss Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP Quarterly reporting! I work ing the financial industry, primarily BSA AML / KYC. We need to know current officers/owners, business structures ect….. K Musketnuss

Sent from my iPad

Karen Noble — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Noble Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As retirees with multiple financial losses in the past, now at age 75, every penny of our investments is vital. We already have stripped cable tv, Pandora music, magazines, and travel from our lives. Knowing human nature, we perceive less accountability as totally unacceptable. Please keep quarterly reports! Karen and Robert Noble, Tehachapi, CA

Karen

Karen Norris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen Norris Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026

Karen Petix-Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Karen Petix-Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly reporting needs to remain in place. If this rule changes it gives more chance for fraud. Average Americans are losing more opportunity for growth, investments and profits for the good of the billionaires. We will be unable to track and trade fairly.

Karen Powers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Powers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My concern is inside trading and the potential for fraud. I do not see any benefit to make this change!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Karen Price — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Price Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would you or any taxpayer/ invester want less overseeing? That's just not in our best interest. Quarterly is working, isn't it? If not maybe it should be made MONTHLY

Get Outlook for Android

Karen Price — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Price Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would you or any taxpayer/ invester want less overseeing? That's just not in our best interest. Quarterly is working, isn't it? If not maybe it should be made MONTHLY .

Karen Redman-Marks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karen Redman-Marks Imagine if business, even small business, only reported their monetary taxes every six months to the Comptroller/IRS, instead of quarterly? The time slippage of reporting every quarter is hard enough for small business to navigate future buying and restock prices and options. Stay quarterly ! The SEC needs to work for us, not sceme against us!

Karen Rinke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Karen Rinke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I have found quarterly reporting to be very helpful in our decision making for investing. History shows that it works. Please keep the quarterly reporting in place. Karen Rinke

Sent from my iPhone

Karen Rund — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Karen Rund Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is the bare minimum. CEOs don't deserve any more opportunities to attempt to avoid their financial REQUIREMENTS. Keep the quarterlies coming. They get paid plenty. Make them earn it.
This is not the time to DECREASE oversight.
I am a retired healthcare worker. I had to deal with oversight every single day, and it's no big deal when you just do it. And, if you're following the regulations , reporting your compliance is easy. This is not a problem. Don't waste our time addressing a nonexistent problem. Go deal with actual issues, rather than fabricating them.
There are PLENTY of actual problems that come under the SEC's purview.
You would do much more good for the people to find the cheaters in the system, rather than make it easier for them to successfully cheat.
Please concentrate on doing your job. That is what your obligation to the American people is. To serve us.
Thank you.

Karen Sandlin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Karen Sandlin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Continue quarterly reporting! As tight as my budget is as a retired widow, it is absolutely necessary for me to keep up with my investments! I need those reports!

Karen Schoeb — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karen Schoeb Investing is ownership. When shareholders own a piece of a business, they are entitled to regular, transparent communication from that business. Weakening reporting requirements would weaken the connection between companies and the owners they are meant to serve. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Perhaps. But in an era of artificial intelligence and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that claim is open to debate. Others contend that less frequent reporting would ease the pressure on companies to manage from quarter to quarter. Yet short-termism is not caused by information itself; it is caused by how market participants respond to that information. Taking reports away does not make investors more patient. It simply makes them less informed. What is not debatable is this: less information rarely produces better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business but hearing from your managers only twice a year. The business would still operate every day. Decisions would still be made. Products would still launch. Customers would still be won and lost. Strategies would still succeed or fail. You would simply know far less about what was happening. That is, in effect, what is being proposed. Companies would continue to operate in real time, while their owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency does not eliminate uncertainty. It amplifies it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be larger, the market reactions sharper, and the resulting volatility greater.

Karen Snyder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Karen Snyder Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep things the way they are now!

Karen Solitaire — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Solitaire Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Just a senior citizen, trying to maintain a portfolio over the years. I liked best how this quote describes delayed reporting: . “Hiding the data doesn't fix the underlying problem; it just hides the consequences”. This is a time when trust is lacking. Why add to the distrust by withholding information?

Karen St. Peter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen St. Peter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I believe Quarterly reporting must remain as opposed to the 6 month option. Reduces corruption and is more transparent. This matters to me to promote honesty, truth, accountability, and integrity if anyone can remember what Integrity means!
Karen St. Peter
Social worker
Maine

Sent from my iPhone

Karen Stavris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Karen Stavris Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep the reporting structure the same! Quarterly reporting is the right thing to do or as usual the public will get screwed. The rich don't care about anyone but themselves.

Karen Syverson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Syverson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Karen Syverson and I'm a retired school teacher. I worked hard, at a relatively low paying job, to be able to retire. and I'm writing to strongly advocate for quarterly reporting to remain in effect. As a retail investor I rely on quarterly reports to make decisions about my retirement savings. In addition, longer gaps create an unfair advantage for corporate insiders, making quarterly reporting "optional" doesn't fix the problem because companies that opt out are often the ones whose investors most need frequent updates, and the savings to companies aren't worth the cost to the independent investors.

Karen Travelo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Karen Travelo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I'm not an expert or a billionaire but this puts any retirement investments and my retirement savings at risk.
Transparency matters.
Please don't put an end to quarterly reporting. Thank you for your consideration.
Sincerely,
Karen Travelo

Karen Truslow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen Truslow Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are essential to investors, especially retirees like me who rely on their earnings for living expenses. To discontinue quarterly reporting would be a serious disservice to millions of Americans. It is vitally important for us to be informed about our financial situation on a regular basis. KEEP IT QUARTERLY!

Karen Wallace — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Wallace Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Karen Wallace, retired. I want it left quarterly so I can assess what I have every 3 months and make necessary adjustments as needed based on the indepth statement break down that is provided to me by my investment manager.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Karen Wistner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karen Wistner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Not Above the Law! Sick and tired if the crooked b.s.

Karen Wistner Nutritionist — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karen Wistner No Kings!!! No one is Above the Law! Tired of Psyop B.S. !

KAREN YOUNG MOTLEY FOOL — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: KAREN YOUNG Please do not reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I want to be more informed about the companies I own a share of; not less. Thank you

---

Karen Zann — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karen Zann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep them honest, if you can—we need quarterly reports!

Sent from my iPhone

Kari Pollert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kari Pollert Dear SEC Committee, I have learned about the proposal, Regulation Fair Disclosure, to let companies report two times per year rather than quarterly. I am against this proposal. The title of the proposal is misleading because it is not "fair" at all. I believe it especially hurts small retail investors because we won't have current or accurate information about the companies we invest in. I don't understand why the SEC would even consider this idea. For us small business owners, we have to report our income and taxes quarterly. I have not heard any proposals from the IRS that they are considering the idea that small businesses only need to report twice a year. This proposal from the SEC feels like it came from big money, big companies, and higher levels of government, and it feels like they don't want ordinary people like myself to have the information we need to make decisions for our finances. It feels like a cover-up trying to become legislated. I very much encourage you to not allow this to happen. There is nothing wrong with leaving the system as it is because it works perfectly well. Thank you for reading my letter, Kari Pollert

---

Karin Allen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karin Allen I am against putting blinders on, because more information makes for better understanding. Please don’t put out the light!

Karin Lash — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karin Lash Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The quarterly reporting that was put into place was done as a result of a total lack of oversight and the destruction of Enron, by immoral, greedy, lying men. Cutting the reporting requirements and all of the dishonest, illegal and immoral goings on by tRump and his buddies is simply inviting more of the same. SEC, stand up in spite of who this clown of a president is, and show some wisdom.
This is a perfect compliment to the outrageous dishonest & illegal actions that are taking place in this administration.

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Karin Salas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karin Salas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Karin Salas, I live in Utica NY and I work at the local community college preparing youth for job placement. I believe in the quarterly reporting process to keep businesses honest and transparent. By limiting reporting to only biannual the SEC would be contributing to the anti American practice of keeping both wealth and power centralized. Sheltering the rich and influential from any responsibility to “we the people”. The elite don’t need protection from the consequences of their decisions and actions.

Sent from Yahoo Mail for iPhone

Karina Teer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karina Teer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yes, Keep it at reporting quarterly. We need to see what is going on. They dont need any longer than that. Karina Teer Veteran.

Karla Dallas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karla Dallas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dont remove quarterly notification. We want accountability and current information.

Karla Hills — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karla Hills Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop rewarding the rich and let everyone have a chance.

Thanks, Karla Hills
Sent from my iPhone

Karla Kerr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karla Kerr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports coming! How else are we to know how our investment is doing? In times that are moving at breakneck speed , information needs to be reported quarterly as it has been.
Sincerely, Karla Kerr - retired

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Karla Nash — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karla Nash Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would you want to do that, except to keep the rich, richer and the poor, poorer.

Karol Wallace-Walbancke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Karol Wallace-Walbancke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No change. Keep is Quarterly.

---

karolemoyed — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: karolemoyed Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a long time stock holder, this would be an abomination! I have every right to know what's going on with the companies that I and others have an invested interest in. I'm exhausted by the continual assault being hoisted against the American people!

Karole M. Moyed

Karsten Fliegner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karsten Fliegner Reports should remain quarterly. The information can be shared electronically at low cost. Owners of business entities should be well-informed.

Karter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karter I'm worried about the decrease in transparency from quarterly reporting down to semiannual reporting. I strongly believe this will only hurt investors as we would have far less visibility into how businesses are running. A business runs every day and things change even faster than a quarterly scale. It helps us all make the most informed decisions when we see the status of the company more often. In this day, with the latest technology, tools, and even AI, the friction to publish quarterly reports is lower than ever. Please continue to require quarterly reports as anything less will only hurt investors.

Karthik Balakrishnan Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karthik Balakrishnan I feel individual investors would benefit and have benefitted significantly from corporate transparency. This transparency has a high impact on my finances, personal well being and retirement as 80% of my net worth is tied up in the stock market.

Karthik Chandrasekharan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Karthik Chandrasekharan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Dear SEC as a retail investor , a quarterly earnings help me keep my positions balanced as per the Company performance. if we reduce the cadence of earnings then we'll be flying blind for six months and might encounter a bigger shock during the semi annual earnings where my positions can be drastically impacted. This introduces a lot more volatility in the market and as an investor, I do not have any way to know how the company is performing.

Karthik Rangarajan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Karthik Rangarajan I am an individual investor and rely heavily on disclosures and reports from my portfolio companies through the quarterly SEC reporting. It is the single and most important source of truth and helps eliminate the clutter in the media, pundits, analysts And talking heads by allowing the company and its management to provide status on the company Performance and planning. Eliminating the quarterly reporting as an option to the companies will lead to greater opacity, uncertainty and create More confusion to the individual investor. Ask yourself who you are serving by making this quarterly reports optional and which company will choose to do so if given the option to not report. This will be a big disservice to investors specially for the individual investor.

Karyn Brooks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Karyn Brooks Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If it’s not broken, don’t fix it. If it’s broken, fix it it’s that simple.

Kassandra Foster — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kassandra Foster Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 6 months is too long to not get reporting for a company that is traded publicly. The public has a right to know what is happening to their investment. This is not a game where you can change the rules after the game has begun. Our world changes in a week in this fast passed economy. AI driven momentum is forcing change rapidly, so we need reporting which should be less onerous with AI tools.

Kassandra Foster
21673
410-913-3489

Kassi Ydris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kassi Ydris Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please hold everyone accountable and stop making it easy for people to commit corruption against regular people. I am 55 year old man. On SSI and disability. We should be helping others not taking advantage of them.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Kat Mitchell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kat Mitchell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely not! Accountability should be on a daily basis! When your kid does something wrong, do you tell him to wait a quarter or semi annually to review what he did. No, you address it right away.! Please have some sense here.

🌻 CHEERS

Kat Rivers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kat Rivers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is not adequate on its own, but it helps us contain some fraud. We need to keep it. It's the least we can do.

K.Rivers
73 Northaven Terrace, Rochester, NY 14621

Kate Avedissian — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Kate Avedissian Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No, do not let this happen.

Kate Avedissian

Kate Avedissian — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Kate Avedissian Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No, do not let this happen.

This is decision is poor management

Kate Avedissian

Kate Butler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kate Butler Reducing financial reporting from quarterly to 2 reports annually is not acceptable. Quarterly reports enable investors to have the confidence in making data driven decisions. Getting this information only twice per year is will erode the ability of investors to ensure an accurate fundamental analysis of the financial health of a company. Twice per year is wholly inadequate. The current climate of deregulation is already causing doubts about the credibility of the stock market. Too much corporate business and earnings variability can happen in a six month period. Maintain the quarterly reporting.

Kate Hamers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kate Hamers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This move is clearly meant to cheat. I object!
WE THE PEOPLE are individual operators and the SEC diminishes every individual whether they directly participate in stock trading or not when they try to effect the subject change.
Sincerely, KF Hamers

Sent from my iPhone

Kate Morrissey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kate Morrissey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kate Morrissey, retired , this really matters to me because I'm going to be living off my investment which I worked extremely hard and long for . I'm not a senator or congressman whom receives information ahead of time . For once why don't you be just a little bit more honest and fair to fellow Americans not millionaires

Sent from my iPhone

Kate Ogden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kate Ogden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am writing to urge you NOT to end quarterly reporting.
I have recently retired. I'm already worried about the current administration endangering Social Security, which I paid into my entire working life. The SEC is adding to my worries, and to those of many Americans, about the safety of our savings and investments.
Please do not hurt Americans across the country by making the stock market less transparent than ever. Do not aid and abet the richest among us by hurting the rest of us.

KATE Ramsey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: KATE Ramsey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting keeps things on the up and up. Regular publication by businesses let's those of with retirement portfolios to ensure our investments are working as predicted. It gives the chance to make changes if need be.prior to damaging our future retirement income.

Kate Ramsey
Retired teacher, Spouse of a retired US Marine

Get Outlook for Android

Kate Rollins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Kate Rollins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly!!!!!!

Kate

Kate Wottowa — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kate Wottowa Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a retired educator. I prefer the quarterly schedule for the very reason that accountability encourages and enforces honesty. Thank you. Kate M Wottowa, Missouri.

Katherine Gardner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Katherine Gardner I am a member of The Motley Fool Community and a long-term individual investor. I believe public company shareholders benefit from regular, transparent communication from the businesses they own. Quarterly reporting helps investors stay informed about company performance, strategy, risks, and opportunities throughout the year. Reducing required reporting from four times annually to two would provide shareholders with less information and potentially increase uncertainty between reporting periods. While I appreciate efforts to reduce unnecessary regulatory burdens, I do not believe reducing transparency is the right solution. Access to timely and consistent information is an important part of ownership and helps individual investors make informed decisions. I respectfully encourage the SEC to maintain quarterly reporting requirements for public companies. Thank you for considering my comment.

Katherine Markham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Katherine Markham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency leads to accountability. It leads to greater competition and more informed consumers and investors. Quarterly insights mean a greater risk of fraud and corporate insider advantages. Any moderate gains in compliance are at the public's expense, the public the SEC is responsible for protecting. Retain quarterly reporting.

Sincerely,
Katherine Markham

Katherine P — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Katherine P Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm an individual investor and I rely on quarterly reports to follow my stock investments. Please continue to require companies to submit reports quarterly!
Katherine Philipp
Columbia MD

Sent from my iPhone

Katherine Schuhler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Katherine Schuhler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Fraud is rampant in government and big institutions. Keep them accountable. They need to remain as transparent as possible. We need more reporting not less!!!!!

Katherine Sullivan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Katherine Sullivan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retired person living off investments, I insist that the SEC keep the quarterly reporting rules to ensure transparency and the ability of holders to trade stocks in a timely manner.
Katherine Sullivan
Arlington, VA

Get Outlook for Android

Katherine Thomas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Katherine Thomas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: I molorenyou to leave it quarterly for all those who have their retirements invested and all who put their trust in fath in you for their future who are extraordinary people who those that make you rich. do it for them. Thank you.

Katherine Viker Esq. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Katherine Viker Esq. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keeping it quarterly keeps it honest and allows the public to make educated choices. Do not change the quarterly reports

Katherine L. Viker. Esq.
MARIE A. MATTOX, P.A.
203 North Gadsden Street
Tallahassee, Florida 32301
Telephone: (850) 383-4800
Facsimile: (850) 383-4801
katherine@mattoxlaw.com

Sent from my iPhone
(So, PLEASE excuse typos as there will be many)

IMPORTANT NOTICE REGARDING EMAIL COMMUNICATIONS: We encourage the use of email as a method of communicating with us. However, please keep in mind the following: (1) Clients should never use computers maintained or monitored by others (e.g., work; public computers) when communicating with us about sensitive or attorney-client matters. (2) Incoming emails may not be read immediately. Your intended recipient may be out of the office for an extended period, or may be working on projects away from the computer. If your email communication is time-sensitive, we strongly recommend that you also call us to ensure that we are aware of your email. (3) We use automated filters to block viruses and unwanted emails. It is possible they may not recognize your email address and prevent your emails from being properly delivered. We strongly recommend that you call us if we have not responded to your email within a reasonable time or if the matter is time-sensitive. Information in this email may be protected from distribution by state or federal law. If you are not the intended recipient of this communication, you are hereby notified that state and/or federal law may restrict, prohibit and/or render unlawful and punishable by fine or imprisonment the unintended use, copying or distribution of this communication. If you have received this e-mail in error, please e-mail the sender immediately upon receipt for further instruction.

Katheryn Tuskan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Katheryn Tuskan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is today a key factor in 'public trust'. If you don't have that, then what? You lose business. Who am I? Kathy. I am retired, so, like many others, I have time to pay attention.

Kathi Bonshire — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathi Bonshire Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Accountability is important, financial reporting by companies and institutions are done monthly whether it is reported publicly or not so the impact to them is minimal. Since it has been in place for awhile, procedures and processes are already in place. It should be kept.

Sent from my iPhone

Kathie clock — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathie clock Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not take us back to the dark ages!!

Sent from my iPhone

Kathie Hopkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kathie Hopkins Quarterly reporting has given investors the opportunity to adjust (either sell or buy) stocks with this clear and transparent information. Without it, companies would be able to hide any issues or problems the company is facing from their investors.

Kathleen Blair — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen Blair Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
What is it you're trying to hide with this new 6 month blackout on our investments. No, we don't want this to be allowed. Investors have the right to know what is happening with their investments. Should be monthly if you ask me.

Kathleen Card — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen Card Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep these birds straight..report each month. No crooks allowed!

Kathleen Christensen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathleen Christensen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kathleen Christensen
Retired MRI Technologist. KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING!! Boomers need accurate up to date information. We do NOT have time to recover from downturns. We need all the safeguards to remain in place. Do the right thing for small investors.

Get Outlook for Android

Kathleen Clarke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen Clarke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I don't need to see your reports, HOWEVER, your investors do! I'm herewith demanding the continuation of quarterly reporting to keep investors informed and helping to keep the SEC honest in their business dealings.

Kathleen Clouden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathleen Clouden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly statements are a must...keeps companies & brokers straight. Please don't eliminate them. You are talking about our retirment savings which need to be protected.

Kathleen Clouden
245 S Cayuga Rd
Williamsville, NY 14221

Kathleen Creaghan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathleen Creaghan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it. We need to cut out corruption, not encourage it. This is just more of an excuse not to do your due diligence by reporting your earnings.

Kathleen Dempsey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen Dempsey Kathleen Dempsey, retired. My husband and I are now relying on investments to supplement our Social Security. We need insights into the health of the companies in our portfolio in a timely fashion. As this is a very dynamic world with daily changes affecting businesses worldwide, it is imperative that the reporting of companies be kept as frequent as quarterly, or MORE often! Thank you for your attention, Kathleen Dempsey

---

Kathleen Ducey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen Ducey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: As a investor, I find Quarterly reports are excellent ways to see what is happening with my investments. It's not acceptable to stop stock holders from getting quarterly regular updates and information regarding our investments. These reports are part of ongoing analysis to make informed decisions. I believe it is very important to continue quarterly reports to shareholders
Respectfully

Kathleen Eastham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen Eastham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the

Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep Quarterly Reporting

Kathleen Fulmer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen Fulmer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I remember the BS from Enron. Do not put hard working Americans investment in perils. The rich make enough!!!

KATHLEEN GILGALLON — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: KATHLEEN GILGALLON Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarter reporting

Get Outlook for iOS

Kathleen Griffiths — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathleen Griffiths Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Our institutions only work if they prioritize the powerless. Maintain the current reporting structure. We have a capital markets system that is highly trusted. We don't have that in our healthcare or our election systems. They are both broken. Thank you.

Kathleen Joyce — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathleen Joyce Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Just keep the reporting quarterly. Why screw people. Doesn’t make sense. Do the right thing for a change!

Sent from my iPhone

Kathleen Lavery — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen Lavery Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep things as they have been. Lots of things are quarterly...property taxes, payment of fed and ma taxes.

let's mot change the structure of how things happen.

kathleen Lavery

Kathleen Lehey — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathleen Lehey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In this time of destruction of democracy quarterly reporting is one of many guidelines that are essential to maintain. It is essential to the health of our planet and the future of humankind, Too few people with too much control is a recipe for disaster.

Kathleen Lehey

Kathleen Lowney Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen Lowney Do not reduce the number of mandatory reports from four to two per year. Transparency is very important, and companies would still be generating this information in order to make good business decisions, so disclosing them should not impose undue hardship. As an investor, information is crucial. Six months is far too long a span of time without information.

Kathleen Lutz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathleen Lutz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I guess I can remove all of my money and invest local. I should never have to wonder what is happening to my investments.

Kathleen Mattson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathleen Mattson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the quarterly timeframe! Six months is far too much time between reports.

—
Kathleen Mattson
Oregon, US

Kathleen Mayfield — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen Mayfield I am of the firm mind that Quarterly Reports are a vital part of responsible stewardship reporting by companies to their investors. The data is already being gathered and tabulated to inform company decisions so no extra work is required except to forward this information on to those who have a financial stake in the ethical operation of the business. Transparency is essential at every level and in a timely manner so appropriate adjustments can taken.

Kathleen Myers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Quarterly reporting From: Kathleen Myers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear SEC:
Accountability is never a bad thing. Quarterly reporting is not too frequent to check on how things are going. It helps avoid fraud, waste, and errors.
Keep it.
Sincerely,
Kathy Myers

Sent from Yahoo Mail for iPhone

Kathleen Pak — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen Pak Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
It needs to stay quarterly so there is less chance of fraud.
It's time for everyone in government to think about the people instead of themselves and all the corporations. If it wasn't for the middles class this country wouldn't exist.

Kathleen Pansini — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen Pansini I want transparency on my savings. After working and saving my entire life to plan for retirement it is mandatory that I know - monthly the state of my savings.

Kathleen Quinn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathleen Quinn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I wonder if bank employee's still sign a insider trading disclosure? This has Trump Fraud all over it. The integrity of the market will be gone. Do not let this happen, the reg's were written to keep all of them honest.

Kathleen Ritchie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathleen Ritchie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reporting to maintain adequate information on our investments. Without quarterly reports a stock could lose most of its value without informing investors in time to sell.

Sent from my iPhone

Kathleen Ross — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathleen Ross Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Good day. I read recently that in 1955 reporting went from quarterly to semiannually, and stocks kept falling for a very long time.
I am very concerned about the prospect of semiannual reporting, and don’t understand why the SEC would consider reverting back to a system that was ineffective.
My name is Kathleen Ross, I’m a resident of Florida. Thank you for your time.

Sent from my iPhone

Kathleen THOMPSON — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kathleen THOMPSON Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is very important and we shareholders deserve at least that.

Kathleen Yeager — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathleen Yeager Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I need to know what's going on with my retirement

Sent from my iPhone

Kathryn Antonangeli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathryn Antonangeli Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please leave my investments alone, corporations don't need to change things. This is my money, my husband and I worked hard to build these investments for our retirement fund and money to leave for the children.

Kathryn Ashworth — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathryn Ashworth Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kathryn Ashworth, Retired. My income is limited. I have a right to see my earnings and losses regularly. Family finances can be lost when the family bookkeeper is not open and honest with the home accounts. The same can be said in the corporate world that holds families' money. We as stockholders should have the right to keep the "company bookkeepers" in check with our life savings.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Kathryn Bennight — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathryn Bennight Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The current administration is doing EVERYTHING against the rules and making money hand over fist. Do NOT allow this to continue. Do NOT relax any rules!!
Thank you,
Kathryn Bennight

Kathryn Cook — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathryn Cook Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting helps keep businesses accountable. A 6 month black out of information gives more power over consumers yet again. It is wrong. Please stop this. I am Kathryn Cook, retired teacher. It is critical for our country that the market is transparent.

Kathryn Couch — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kathryn Couch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting. Transparency is always best. Kathryn Couch

---

Kathryn Falkenberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathryn Falkenberg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to be able to see what is happening with our investments. You need to keep the reporting quarterly.

Sent from my iPhone

Kathryn Fletcher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathryn Fletcher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
My portfolio, savings, and retirement future shouldn't be hidden from me for 6 months at a time. Watching quarterly changes is easier to follow. Six months gives fraud time to fester. Disreputable CEO's and CFO's will use it to their advantage.

Kathryn Gehbauer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathryn Gehbauer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The quarterly reporting was instituted for good reason and it needs to stay. Please do not change! As an investor, I want to keep up with what's going on with my investments, but semi-annual reporting is just too much time between reports .

Kathryn Giebutowski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kathryn Giebutowski Less information is never a good thing! As an investor, I want the most information on a company as often as possible so I can make informed decisions. Companies have functioned under the current quarterly reporting for decades. Why all of a sudden has this reporting become onerous? I do not believe it has. It may save companies a fraction of a percent but the ability to keep information hidden longer could cause many investors to lose money at the worst possible time, retirement. Please do not change the reporting. Quarterly reporting is better for everyone.

Kathryn Good — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathryn Good Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
How can anyone who holds stocks stay current as to what has been bought and sold or traded if the SEC stops the quarterly reports, such a set up for fraud. Do not allow this to happen.

Kathryn Gutierrez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathryn Gutierrez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it fair- not for the corporate elite

Kathryn Hannon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathryn Hannon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is my money and I have the right to know Kathy Hannon retired

Sent from my iPhone

Kathryn Hernton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathryn Hernton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is not going to be a fair representation and needs to stay on a quarterly notification. This will keep it more fair for EVERYONE!
NEEDS TO BE SENT AND REVIEWED QUARTERLY and NOT SEMI-ANNUALLY!

Kathryn A Hernton kahernton@gmail.com
314-952-4604

Kathryn Khoury — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathryn Khoury Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a horrible idea; American companies need more oversight not less. My name is Kathryn Khoury & I'm a Talent Acquisition, Sales & Marketing professional. I'm not having kids because I am too afraid of what this country is becoming. I want to leave & most likely will if this is passed,

Sent from my iPhone

---

kathryn nelson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: kathryn nelson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 companies need to keep their records in real time. they need to continue to report to their investors quarterly.

Kathryn O'Connor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathryn O'Connor Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
You must retain the quarterly reports as it is vital information for an investor to review holdings & performance. Moving to monthly reporting would be a better way to keep the investor informed, NOT reducing the reporting to twice/year. Your actions should aid the investor, not keep them in the dark.

Kathryn Paradis English and Social Studies teacher for 7th, 8th, & 9th grades — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kathryn Paradis We investors are a part of your losses and successes. There is already enough scammy language and behavior in the world. Foster your honor and maintain your dignity by doing right by your customers and investors. Think of this collective push for limiting knowledge and information as a reflection of destructive practices that have been steadily permeating all kinds of communities—but which manifest most noticeably in larger and more visible platforms. Maybe it's time to stand out from the rest by changing practices which muddy the waters of communication instead of shoveling even more mud into the mix. To many, this bill is limiting the knowledge of their personal investments. To me, this bill is yet another law shutting the consumer out of any foothold they may have in a business and business practices—a continued slippery slope of tipping scales which grant both the idea and practice of business more and more governing power over the consumer.

Kathryn Rogers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathryn Rogers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to have quarterly reports. If you change the number of times the public gets reports, change it to 8 times a year or monthly.

Sent from my iPhone

Kathryn Ruud — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathryn Ruud Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am an investor who expects the SEC to DO ITS JOB: mainly PROTECT average investors, not those who would exploit our system.

Transparency and quarterly reporting are a critical part of that obligation.

Kathryn Sztymelski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathryn Sztymelski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not end quarterly reporting for publicly traded companies. Investors deserve access to this information.
Sincerely,
Kathryn Sztymelski

KATHRYN VANSPANCKEREN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: KATHRYN VANSPANCKEREN Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retiree living on investments I depend on quarterly reporting. Kathy Vanspancker

Prof. Emerita

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Kathy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kathy I personally do not want less information from the companies I am investing in. I feel less information will leave me less informed. So do not change reporting from 4 times a year to 2 times a year.

Kathy Benn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Benn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Transparency in reporting quarterly results is critical for investors. Saying no to this irresponsible action

---

Kathy Brawt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathy Brawt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change quarterly reporting, the grift stops now.

Kathy Bulger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathy Bulger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Business need accountability and so do we so we.

Get Outlook for iOS

Kathy Christianson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathy Christianson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The SEC must protect investors by continuing to require quarterly reporting.

Kathleen Christianson
23621 Maricio Dr,
Valencia, CA 91355

Kathy Condon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Condon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't eliminate quarterly reporting by companies as it will blindfold investors as to what is happening in the C Suite and investiment transparency.
To the Securities and Exchange Commission:your attention to this potential action is essential.

Kathy Cuevas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Cuevas Hello fellow investors, Throughout our history, our company has stepped forward when important regulatory decisions affect individual investors. It's time to dust off our bully pulpit and do it again. A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. We think that's a mistake! At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Kathy Dadras — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathy Dadras Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Anyone who wants to avoid disclosure is up to something. Why be a part of it?

Sent from my iPhone

Kathy Dawkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathy Dawkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is critical to keep transparency. Quarterly reporting helps with that.

Kathy Eudy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathy Eudy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kathy Eudy Retired. This matters to me because I want to know sooner rather than later what is going on.

Kathy Freed — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathy Freed Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It worked for decades. No reason to change it now- unless you want to hide something!

Sent from my iPhone

Kathy Granzow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathy Granzow Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please conduct the quarterly review for transparency on the SEC's activities.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Kathy Handy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathy Handy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is too much graft in the government already. Let’s not make it worse by being less vigilant. Kathleen Handy, retired.

Sent from my iPhone

KATHY HENDRIX — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: KATHY HENDRIX Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please stop screwing us!!
Vote No!!
Kathy
Zion, IL

Kathy Henry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Henry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am absolutely against ending quarterly reporting. We want transparency. There is no reason to take this approach!

Kathy Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathy Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need transparency in government and business. We can’t have another Enron. Please keep quarterly reports.

Kathy Keller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathy Keller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep up Quarterly!!

Sent from my iPhone

Kathy Knight — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathy Knight Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is ZERO reason for this change. Investors need to know how things are truly going as much as possible. There is no hardship to the Company to push a button and create a report, as well as pay any taxes due. STOP THE CHANGE

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Kathy Lehmkuhker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Lehmkuhker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Say No to a six month blackout! This would only make a fertile situation for fraud to fester. The SEC should be helping to protect our investments not blocking the transparency we need. Help our stock market to stay fair. No six month blackout!

---

kathy mcaleer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: kathy mcaleer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It should be kept quarterly or do you want to ruin Americans ability to have the facts to make decisions on their investments?

Kathy Moss Business owner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Moss Quarterly reporting, and the transparency it brings, is critical for investor and potential investors. Letting this go away wipes out one of the few transparency tools left for non "insiders" to allow for a more level playing field. DON'T LET THIS BE TAKEN AWAY!

Kathy Peregrino — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathy Peregrino Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Katherine Peregrino
I, like many other people have retirement funds invested with public companies. It's important to keep corporations honest and open about their performance. After all they are responsible to their investors and the public. Keep them on a quarterly reporting s system! em.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Kathy Ragonetti — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Ragonetti Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why?
What would possess you to lighten the responsibilities of persons in charge of other people's money thereby lessening their accountability? In a time when justifying wrong doing seems so commonplace, you as a watchdog agency who is paid to mandate this accountability decide to lighten the load?
What is your end game?

This makes absolutely NO SENSE!

Kathleen H Ragonetti
Kathyrag2@gmail.com
110 Heights Road
Gilford NH 03249

Kathy Richardson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Richardson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Why in the world would we eliminate public reporting from public companies that the public has invested their life's savings in? Who does this be benefit? No.

Kathy Robinson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Robinson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:My vote is no. There needs to be transpareacy.

Kathy Rosilio — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathy Rosilio Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am for keeping corporate reporting quarterly. The argument that it makes companies behave in a short-sighted manner is not a given but perhaps a choice by some corporations. They can give better explanation of reasons for their numbers and keep honesty in reporting.
Kathy Rosilio
Private Investor
Family caregiver

Kathy

Kathy Schroeder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Schroeder Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Bad idea you need to protect investors!

Sent from my iPhone

Kathy Schulz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Schulz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please continue quarterly reports to protect retirement investments. Six mo. Reports are too subject to volatile market shifts.
Sincerely
Kathy Schulz

Kathy Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am alarmed about the proposed change to reporting requirements-in my opinion you are going the wrong way!! Rather than shortening the requirement to twice a year I beleive every other month would be in my best interest. The SEC is supposed to work for all investors-please do your job.

Kathy Stanley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathy Stanley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why are we loosening checks on the greedy corporate crooks! Keep it 4 times a year.

Sent from my iPhone

Kathy Stark — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Stark Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
It's critical that up to date quarterly and transparent reporting be maintained to protect clients and consumers.

Kathy Tandy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathy Tandy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 K.A.Tandy Retired Educator. Quarterly, we depend on our investments to live.

Kathy A. Tandy

Kathy Temchack — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Temchack Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Continue quarterly reporting. It’s needed to keep us informed on the status of our investments.
Kathy Temchack, retired
Calabash North Carolina

Sent from my iPhone

Kathy Townsend — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kathy Townsend Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kathleen Townsend
Keep things more transparent not less . So not change things to less reporting. I can’t imagine a constructive reason for why things would be reported less.

Sent from Kathy’s iPhone

Kathy Tryber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: From: Kathy Tryber Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 More rules makes the investor better informed as to the true nature of their business in relation to other investment opportunities. Less rules leaves an investor less advised about their financial standing and potential outcome. Do not change the rules.

Kathy Ureel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathy Ureel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep reporting quarterly. We are both retired so it’s important to know how are funds are holding up. We are saving for our grandkids’ futures. Kathy Ureel, retired.

Sent from my iPhone

Kathy vanSteen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kathy vanSteen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We MUST keep quarterly reporting, it keeps us honest AND safe!!!!
My husband is a financial advisor and needs these reports to make his living in a more educated way. Quarterly reporting is essential to his industry and his livelihood.
Cheating is much more prevalent when oversight is minimal. Do the right thing, fight this bi-yearly reporting with your vote!!!
Kathleen M. Vansteen
Sound beach, NY

Sent from my iPhone

Kathy Watson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kathy Watson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I lost quite a large sum of money due to deliberate corporate fraud. I was young enough to recover, many were not. They were judged by their peers. Let'em rot

---

Katie Boyd-Babbitt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Katie Boyd-Babbitt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting! I do not agree with the change, it makes no sense!
Kathleen Boyd-Babbitt
Retired RN
Kirby Arkansas

Sent from my iPhone

Katie Ferguson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Katie Ferguson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My nams is Katie, I am a pharmacist and I believe reporting should be quarterly. There is more room for corruption if it is twice per year.

Katie

Katie Grubb — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Katie Grubb Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please make sure that my investments are carried out on a quarterly basis to assist hardworking Americans and minimize advantages for the extremely wealthy. Thank you.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Katie Kintner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Katie Kintner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why are the small investors always the ones to take the hit. Yet big investors get all the privileges just for being fatcats. This can backfire badly as the small investors divest their stocks and decide to take their money elsewhere. In the meantime, f*k the fat cats. I hope their interests turn to flames.

Katrina Schwartz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Katrina Schwartz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not allow this to happen. Companies have an obligation to their stockholders, not just to their wallets.

Get Outlook for Android

---

katrina9299 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: katrina9299 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting. There is already enough fraud in business. Not requiring quarterly reports would only add more.

Kate
Teacher

Sent from my Galaxy

Katy Irene St. Marie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Katy Irene St. Marie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the current protocol of quarterly reports!

Thank you,

Katy Irene St. Marie

Katy Irene St. Marie
>> katystmarie@gmail.com

Katy Rugg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Katy Rugg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We can't have another world financial crisis. It is more than clear what will happen if this important (and effective) accountability is weakened. As a small business owner, I need the stability of trustworthy banks. I need the SEC to take its job seriously. Please keep the full quarterly reporting!

With gratitude,

Katy Rugg, Small Business Owner/ Manager.

Sent with iPhlowers 🌺🌸🌻

KatyRaye Theriot — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: KatyRaye Theriot Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Stop this NOW
this is not what Americans want
MY MONEY IS AT RISK and I've worked way to hard to have greedy people take take take

---

Kawaī uteki — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kawaī uteki Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Brisa Saldana. Retail associate. It matters to me because it's transparency that makes connections. Everything comes into the light when it comes to following the money. In this capitalistic nation, you know very well that everything get discovered. And there is always a missing link. So keep reporting, no one is above the law.

Kay Acton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kay Acton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To whom it may concern,

To hold corporations accountable, reporting needs to be done quarterly. Protect American citizens, not wealthy CEOs.

Respectfully,
Kay Acton

Sent from my iPhone

Kay Bradley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kay Bradley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I remember back to the days where there was not such transparency. Remember before Sarbanes-Oxley! Keep the transparency we have today!

Sent from my iPad

Kay Bryan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kay Bryan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely keep it qtrly so the rest of us have a chance. This is grifting and stupidity at its finest. Just stop the nonsense all ready. The Country is on to the BS.

Sent from my iPhone

Kay Knight — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kay Knight Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kay, retired public school teacher. This matter of transparency matters to me because of my fixed income status and the increasing rate of inflation. I've saved most of my life preparing for my "golden years ". My mother taught us, "Save 10% of your money because you'll need it for a "rainy day ". So, even as a child, I was conscientious of depositing into my own bank account. The thought of losing hard earned money due to the ignorance of not being informed is mind boggling. This is not the United States we boast about on a global scale threatening to endanger its citizens in this manner.

Frightened,
Kay M. Knight

Sent from my iPhone

Kay Liddell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kay Liddell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting works. Not 6pmths. Do your job to protect us all. Not just the billoonaires.

Sent from my iPhone

Kay Malm — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kay Malm Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Don't allow this to change as it would only allow millionarines to invest and make money

---

Kay McCrary — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kay McCrary Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it QUARTERLY.
—from Kay McCrary

Sent from my iPhone

Kay Nelson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kay Nelson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep reports quarterly !
Protect the truth!

Sent from my iPhone

Kay Nelson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kay Nelson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
There needs to be more accountability and transparency, not less!

Kay Nelson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kay Nelson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep reports quarterly!!!!!!
Stop the secrecy!!!

Sent from my iPhone

---

kay Powell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: kay Powell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 dont change the status quo

Kay Stiles — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kay Stiles Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No! Absolutely not!

Kay Unger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kay Unger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We should have monthly reporting. They know where the money is daily. So no excuse for lack of transparency.

Sent from my iPhone

Kay Wible — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Kay Wible Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please continue to require quarterly reporting and uphold accountability!

Sent from my iPhone

Kaylei Janie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kaylei Janie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 keep it Quarterly 💯

kaylei janie

Kaylei Janie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kaylei Janie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY REPORTING FOREVER

kaylei janie

KCee Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: KCee Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is K.Cee Smith and Corporations should have more regulations and be held more accountable then a regular person.

Keane Li — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Keane Li Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear SEC,

We need more transparency, not less. Everyday investors like me need to have the details that the insiders already have. Reducing the reporting frequency puts us at a disadvantage. Please keep quarterly reporting.

Thank you,

Keane

Keeley Shaughnessy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Keeley Shaughnessy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would the timeframe need to change for reporting? It sounds suspicious and corrupt - if you're for this change - you're suspicious too!

Keeley S. Shaughnessy
"A light heart lives long."
-Irish Proverb

Keep as is Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keep as is Keep reporting as is

---

Keeran Reidling — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Keeran Reidling Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 please maintain quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Kei Snyder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kei Snyder Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am certain that a six-month reporting period will only benefit insiders and hurt regular investors. Keep the quarterly reporting period.

Sent with Aqua Mail for Android

Keith A. Willeford — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith A. Willeford Learned about this from Motley Fools. I feel quarterly report would be in the best interest to Investors and to the Stock Market where corporations will be judge on their performance. I feel allowing companies to report only twice a year will allow some bad actors to deceive investors. Companies pay taxes every quarter anyway, so the information for investors are already their, if anything I would not be against companies reporting Monthly in today's volatile times in the effort to promote transparency.

---

keith allmond — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: keith allmond Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 They can check my personal accounts anytime they want. Don't let them hide

Keith Baumann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Keith Baumann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm an investor and retired CFO. I will not invest in any company that hides their financial results.

Get Outlook for iOS

Keith Ferguson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Keith Ferguson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission, regarding File No. S7-2026-15, Semiannual Reporting:

I'm an individual retail investor. I'm writing to oppose this proposal, or at minimum to urge that any final rule preserve quarterly reporting for smaller and development-stage companies.
Most of my own research depends on Form 10-Q. I invest in small and micro-cap companies, including pre-revenue development-stage firms, where there's little or no analyst coverage to rely on. For these companies the quarterly filing isn't redundant with anything. It's often the only regular, audited-quality window I have into cash position, burn rate, and runway between the events that actually move the stock. Going from four data points a year to two doesn't trim paperwork at the margin for a company like this. It removes half of the only information I have.
The Commission's own evidence base supports keeping quarterly cadence where it matters most. Research on the UK's 2014 shift found that companies which moved to semiannual reporting saw a decline in analyst coverage, and quarterly reporting has been associated with more accurate analyst forecasts. For small companies that already struggle to attract coverage and liquidity, less frequent reporting makes that problem worse, not better. The short-termism rationale for the change is also weak: studies of the UK experience found no meaningful change in how long management invested over.

I understand the proposal is optional. But the option is least useful, and most harmful, exactly where I'm exposed. The companies whose investors most need frequent reporting are often the ones with the most incentive to file less. Reducing my visibility into them while corporate insiders and institutions with direct management access keep theirs is the wrong trade for the people the SEC exists to protect.

Please retain quarterly reporting, particularly for smaller reporting companies and pre-revenue issuers. The compliance savings are modest and accrue to companies; the cost of worse information falls on retail investors like me.

Respectfully,
Keith Ferguson
Los Angeles, CA
Individual investor
Self-employed, Entertainment Industry

Sent from Proton Mail for Android.

Keith Finlay — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith Finlay We need more information about our investments , not less. We need full transparency and and the ability top make informed decisions about the companies we invest in. Reducing the reporting from quarterly to bi-annually is a bad idea.

Keith Fishman Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith Fishman I entirely disagree with the change to Regulation Fair Disclosure. Currently information is given on a quarterly basis and should remain so. Since confidence in anything is better served with complete transparency it is even more so when it comes to financial issues. Given the many financial debacles over the last decade, it is quite clear that people and companies will gladly "get away" with anything they can. This means more reports, rather than less, will serve the public and the investment community.

Keith Garland Individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith Garland US and Global business is run daily. Results are measured monthly and public results are quarterly. This is a SOP. Now, with AI copilots, financial reporting is even simpler today than just a few months ago. There is no reason to report less than the current quarterly SOP. As an individual investor I would see it as deceptive and fraudulent to not report out quarterly. Vote this nonsense proposal down.

Keith Gravesen Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith Gravesen Quarterly earnings reporting is foundational to the integrity of equity ownership. Equity owners have the right to be informed regularly regarding the success and failures of the companies they own a slice of. It is too difficult to go six months between knowing for certain if their money, much of it invested for living expenses after retirement, especially with the impending failure and threatened substantial reductions of earned Social Security benefits, to be in the dark on reversals in business plans for a publicly listed company. Six-month reporting periods, or longer (annual), might be appropriate for private equity ownership as you are investing your money and taking your chances in a private setting, but for a publicly owned company, the quarterly reporting requirements are a necessary light shining on operational results to provide owners the information to preserve in keeping their investment dollars intact, or allow the opportunity to close positions and seek better returns elsewhere. Volatility induced by longer term reporting results will cause fundamental restructuring of the marketplace and, in the case of bad actors, too lengthy of a time period to cover and employ obfuscating account practices to hide their management failures.

Keith Harris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Keith Harris Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly.
Thanks

Keith Harris

678-508-1287

Keith Jacks The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith Jacks I believe that Semiannual reporting doubles the information gap between insiders and ordinary shareholders. That gap is where volatility, uncertainty, and mistrust grow.

Keith Justice — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith Justice I am not in favor of reducing the reporting frequency for publicly traded companies. I do not feel this is in the best interest of the individual investor.

Keith K — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Keith K Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We don't need another enron .

Keith Lambert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Keith Lambert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly Reporting intact to protect Investors. Don't relax requirements for Corporate accountability.

Steven Lambert
Col (ret) USAF
Individual Investor

Keith Morgan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith Morgan I think less reporting is hazardous and does not benefit me in the least. I am against this proposal.

Keith Peck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith Peck I believe that reducing public company financial reporting to two times per year makes an organization less transparent and accountable to it's share holders. This is a bad idea and not warranted by any minimal potential cost savings.

---

keith peterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: keith peterson In these days of increased automation and information availability, I believe it is ridiculous to cut back on the amount of public corporate reporting. I believe the current quarterly reporting is already the minimal level that should be required.

Keith Stevens — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith Stevens I am solidly against the misguided potential change to semi-annual reporting. Quarterly reporting protects individual investors such as myself that don’t have the resources of the big Wall Street firms. Semiannual reporting would increase the information gap between insiders and ordinary shareholders. That gap is where volatility, uncertainty, and mistrust grow. The short-termism diagnosis doesn't justify this remedy. Research from the CFA Institute, which studied this exact maneuver in the U.K. market, shows that reporting frequency has no measurable effect on corporate investment behavior. The SEC is accepting a real cost – less transparency for individual investors – for a benefit that the evidence says simply won't materialize. The companies most likely to opt out are the ones where oversight matters most. Smaller, less-covered businesses operate with less scrutiny. Reducing their reporting requirements makes them harder to monitor, not easier to own. This is the wrong direction. Reg FD moved toward a more level playing field. This proposal moves away from it. What problem exactly are regulators attempting to fix here? As the WallStreetBets comment letter put it: "The companies we trade are not being held back from greatness by the obligation to file four reports a year. ... The entire S&P 500 files a 10-Q every quarter, and the S&P 500 is at an all-time high. If quarterly reporting is crushing American capitalism, American capitalism is hiding it well." Please reject this solution in search of a problem and do not change quarterly corporate reporting requirements. Respectfully, Keith Stevens

---

Keith Swisher Motley Fooler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith Swisher Company investors need more and better info. NOT LESS!

Keith T Randall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith T Randall I don't need to see a report every quarter, but I do need my investments advisor to see it so they can provide the information to me.

Keith Vail The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith Vail At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. I cannot see how there are benefits for anyone other than insiders by switching away from quarterly reporting.

Keith Yedlin Tax Preparer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Keith Yedlin In a world where corruption is running rampant and technology is dramatically transforming the way businesses operate, I am strongly opposed to the reduction of reporting requirements from 4 to 2 times per year. Especially when corporations are moving to AI at a lightning pace and given the unprecedented transformation in business best practices leveraging artificial intelligence, reporting is more important now, not less important. Maintaining transparency in business practices and policies is key to understanding opportunities & risks for investors, creditors, and regulators.

Kellar Nevill The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kellar Nevill It is important that we do not reduce the number public company reporting requirements from four to two times annually. As an equity owner of public company stocks, with my investment money at risk, I would like as much information available as possible about the companies I am investing in, and/or those I'm considering. Quarterly reporting or four times a year, as it is now, is sufficient. Please do not reduce this to two. Thank you.

Kelli Abatangelo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kelli Abatangelo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is necessary to prevent fraud. The American people deserve to see this done lawfully. Stop being complicit with this corrupt administration now!

Sent from my iPhone

Kelli Hargett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kelli Hargett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Kelli and this matters to me because honesty, transparency, and integrity should always matter in the law. Don't let anyone or anything hide and delay their financials in any way.

Kelli T — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kelli T Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kelli Trujillo. I'm a caregiver and a business econ major. Why would anyone back business reporting at six months intervals? Someone who wants their business to thrive illegally, that's who. Is that what the SEC proposes, increasing the ease of criminal activity in America? I would hope not! That would simply open the floodgates for white collar criminality sending our economy into a spiral. WHY would the SEC consider such nonsense? Think about the consequences. I can already see the egregious disaster formulating.

Kellie O'Toole — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kellie O'Toole Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is a must!

Sent from my iPhone

Kelly Brown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kelly Brown Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The idea companies should be allowed "to hide their books" is preposterous and downright illegal. There is already corruption and insider trading. This proposal is another way for companies to line the pockets of the the top 1% and stick the working class with their tax debt!

Kelly Chaplin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kelly Chaplin I am opposed to the semiannual reporting rule change. As a senior citizen who relies entirely upon his investments as his only form of income, steady and timely information from the companies in which I'm invested are essential to my livelihood. I don't think quarterly reporting is overly burdensome to publicly traded companies and think it just a cost of their participating in public offerings. If anything, I'd want more timely financial information from companies in which I'm invested, not less.

Kelly France — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kelly France Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Kelly France. I'm an order processor in Ohio. I believe that longer gaps create an unfair advantage for corporate insiders. The only reason this is being considered it's to make the rich, richer and screw everyone else!

Sent from my iPhone

Kelly Gardner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kelly Gardner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The SEC must retain the quarterly reporting requirement! As an investor and a prior proprietor of a small business I would prefer big companies be required to report monthly - sans that quarterly gives the public and small investor greater surety on corporate actions and activities for transparency.

Kelly Hoefflin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: No renewal From: Kelly Hoefflin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I would like to cancel my membership. Thank you

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Kelly Holbrook — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kelly Holbrook Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 "Relief for companies?" American workers need relief. Americans watching Donald Trump wasting taxpayer income on helping companies so the can also, in turn, cheat us out of our own future are the ones that need relief. Public companies do not need relief. They need to be transparent with their investors held accountable to their investors. The SEC owes the population this control over their own decisions. "Relief for Companies" is more Republican gladhanding corporate oversight than responsibility to those who matter in an increasingly profitable economy for them that increasingly diminishes wealth opportunities for its investors.

Sent from my iPhone

Kelly Kirk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kelly Kirk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I would not feel my money is well invested or safe if companies are not held to a legal standard of reporting. The system isn't perfect, but it has stopped a lot of white collar crime. We need the quarterlies to remain in place.

Kelly Kleinpeter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kelly Kleinpeter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I would ask that you not end quarterly reporting. This weakens accountability and can lead to a host of bad situations for investors.
Thank you,
Kelly B Kleinpeter

Kelly Luna — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kelly Luna Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Let every citizen cash out then change the rule to be run by the insiders who are already cheating by giving them more advantages. Insiders are already benefitting....how greedy can you be? Change the system to insiders only would make more sense.

Kelly Luna/ retired civilian supervisor law enforcement

Kelly Maki — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kelly Maki Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Continue quarterly reporting.

Kelly Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kelly Martin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 People Need to Know. Too much time wthout open knowledge can lead to undermining wise decisions. Keep Quarterly.

Kelly McDaniels — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kelly McDaniels Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
This is not okay with me . It's is sickening to say the least . The people will not keep letting the corrupt corporations win !

Kelly McKendell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kelly McKendell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Not a good idea to do Quaterly reporting because we miss out on what's happening the rest of the time

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Kelly Morrissey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kelly Morrissey Dear Secretary, I am writing as an individual investor to express my opposition to the proposed rule that would allow public companies to reduce their periodic reporting from quarterly to semiannual. Investing represents partial ownership of a business. Owners are entitled to regular, transparent communication about how that business is performing. Cutting official disclosure in half weakens the relationship between companies and the shareholders who fund them. I recognize the rationale offered in support of this change: that less frequent reporting could lower compliance costs and reduce pressure on management to focus on short-term results. I don't find either argument persuasive. On cost: modern disclosure and financial reporting tools, increasingly aided by automation, have made quarterly reporting less burdensome than it once was. The cost savings from halving disclosure frequency are likely modest relative to the loss in transparency. On short-termism: the pressure to manage for the next quarter comes from how investors and analysts react to information, not from the existence of the information itself. Reducing the flow of data does not make markets more patient — it simply leaves investors with less information to act on, for longer stretches of time. Reducing the frequency of official updates does not reduce uncertainty about a company's performance; it defers it. Businesses do not pause their operations between reporting periods — products launch, customers come and go, strategies succeed or fail — but under this proposal, owners would learn about these developments only half as often. When information arrives less frequently, surprises tend to be larger and market reactions more volatile, which seems counterproductive to the goal of stable, well-functioning markets. I urge the Commission to maintain the current quarterly reporting requirement and to reject this proposal. Thank you for considering my comment.

Kelly Myers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kelly Myers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY! KEEP IT HONEST! MAINTAIN ACCOUNTABILITY!!

Get Outlook for Android

Kelly Randall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kelly Randall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep reports quarterly- better accountability.
Kelly Randall, TSgt USAF Retired

Sent from my iPhone

Kelly Roher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kelly Roher To limit reporting to twice a year is a mistake and taking valuable information away from management, investors and the public. Please keep the quarterly reporting requirements.

Kelly Russell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kelly Russell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello SEC, keep quarterly reporting.
Thank you!!

Sent from my iPhone

Kelly Sipes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kelly Sipes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting helps keep corporations accountable for their compliance with rules established to do just that, comply. In fact in today's electronic accounting systems monthly might be even more insurance they are complying.
Kelly Sipes
Cheney Wa.

Kelly Small Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kelly Small Public company reports need to be FOUR Times a Year!

Kelly Spica — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kelly Spica Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Implementing this rule would be absolutely reckless and flies in the face of the responsibilities of the SEC to mitigate fraud and protect investors. It would be devastating to investment portfolios and to our markets. Quarterly reporting ensures transparency to investors and reduces market volatility.

Kelly Taylor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kelly Taylor Please don't change the regulations. Retail investors are at a disadvantage already. Please leave well enough alone.

Ken — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ken Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If you let the companies report only every six months, then you should bar company officers from selling stock on that company outside of a window that opens after a filing.

Ken Asai — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ken Asai Please do not extend the reporting period to 6 months. I don't trust companies to do the right thing.

Ken Beatty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ken Beatty I dont think it is in the best interest of investors to reduce the amount of info . we use to make educated investments

---

Ken Borglum Former Fortune Wxec — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ken Borglum As a manager and consultant with decades of experience running multi billion dollar businesses, this is a terrible idea. With the advent of AI more reporting and transparency is required, not less.

Ken Fiecke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ken Fiecke We need reports on our investment at least 4 times per year. There would be too many unknowns if we had less.

Ken Hall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ken Hall This is a bad idea. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

---

ken hudson small private active investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: ken hudson I believe every company should report to it's owners at least quarterly

---

Ken Kaplan Member of the State Bar of California — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ken Kaplan The proposed optional change in reporting periods is, in my view as both an investor and attorney, a bad idea. The argument that the change will reduce corporate costs, and thus increase earnings, is rebutted by the fact that modern accounting technology allows large business entities to track their performance in near real time with practically no additional expense. If anything, this argues that public companies provide the investment community with earnings reports in shorter, rather than longer periods, which would facilitate greater investment clarity. Also, the fact that the proposed change is optional may destroy the existing uniformity in reporting requirements -- and that will make investment decisions more, rather than less, difficult, as the investor will no longer be comparing corporate performance on a level playing field.

Ken Mareski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Ken Mareski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I do not agree with this change, I want to know how my accounts are doing as I have in the past with quarterly reports. Six months is too long to wait, and it allows for more opportunity to commit fraud or hide activities that may lead to problems.

Ken Mareski
Kenm49@aol.com

Sent from my iPhone

Ken Member, The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ken I strongly support maintaining the quarterly report system. Reducing reporting to only semi-annually will make it more difficult to see how a company is doing and whether continued investment in it is justified.

Ken Ng The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ken Ng Please do not reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Please maintain 4 times a year

---

Ken Puls — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Ken Puls Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Report quartely !

Ken Qualter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ken Qualter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leave the law as is. Quarterly reporting. More accountability. Less fraud. Safer for investors.

Ken Richardson The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ken Richardson I think it is important that individual owners of companies have access to as much information as possible throughout the year. Reducing the number reports from 4 to 2 is a mistake in my opinion.

---

ken schulter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: ken schulter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting keeps a level of honesty especially when those effected can make better decisions that will impact them. Semi-annually leaves too much room for things to go wrong. And when that happens, the consequences grow exponentially. Stay Quarterly!
Ken Schulter, Retired. Colorado

Get Outlook for Android

Ken Van horn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ken Van horn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Ken Van Horn, 78 years old and I'm watching our government being turned over to cooperation under this administration, illegal wars and private slush funds negotiated for a president . It's outrageous and allowing corporations to report less than they currently do only opens the door to expanded privilege. Do not open that door

Sent from my iPad

Ken Walker Retired 64 y/o — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ken Walker Recently retired. Took my super. Paid down some debts. Invested in Solar, battery & heat pump hot water. Started investing in ETFs and signed up with Motley Fool for advice. At my age with somewhat limited funds to invest I have lesser years to manage income and even less should anything go wrong. If I was much younger I would have more years to recover from financial downturns caused by myself or by a government manage environment. As a new investor I want as much as information as possible. I am prepared to take some risks and hope I have some core ETFs that will stand the test of time. In a six month scenario where a business reports a flat or slightly negative performance investors might then put off investing in that direction for a further six months or not at all. Twice per year is essentially one result as annual reporting will always occur. We invest in business health - transparency is paramount.

Ken Winkler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ken Winkler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is essential to maintain quarterly reporting of financial results by public companies. Anyone who wants to reduce reporting is likely a criminal trying to steal from the rest of us!

Kendra Wallace Harper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kendra Wallace Harper Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is absolutely vital that we keep quarterly reporting.

Sincerely,Kendra Wallace Harper- independent contractor personally invested in this topic.

Sent from my iPhone

Kenneth A Tracy Retired Radiologic Technologist — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth A Tracy With the all the appearances of "insider" trading by our servants in congress this longer period of reporting is bad idea. One thing I learned over my career is you cannot trust CEOs of organizations. Most would trade their mothers or eat their children to get ahead and 6 months gives them too much time screw their investors. So... please this seems like a bad idea, it could leverage dishonesty and increase temptation to pull a fast one in the corporate world. What's wrong with the quarterly reporting? Too much work? Had my say, thank you.

Kenneth A. Bobb Retired military and retired airline pilot. — Jun 23, 2026 Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth A. Bobb Quarterly reporting should be left as is.

Kenneth Barr none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth Barr I rely on the regular quarterly reports from corporations to make my investment decisions. It would be a mistake to change the reporting process. I oppose any change.

Kenneth Bedell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kenneth Bedell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This will hurt all that rely on quarter reports to be able to make sound choices on their investments. Please make no changes. Thank you, Kenneth Bedell

Nek

Kenneth Callahan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth Callahan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Securities and Exchange Commission:
Given the current conditions of separation of wealth not only in the US but around the world, what appropriate reason could be given for such a scheme.

Kenneth E. Brown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth E. Brown I don't think you should change it

---

Kenneth Fomberstein The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth Fomberstein Switching to semiannual reports is a huge give away to insiders and a complete betrayal of retail investors. I don’t believe that it will cut costs but even if it would, I think this is part of the cost of doing business and if anything we should have monthly reporting if we are to abandon quarterly reporting. We retail investors want more, not less reporting.

Kenneth Fults Civil Engineer, Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth Fults Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Kenneth Goldmann The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth Goldmann Shareholders are entitled to regular communication with the companies they own. Quarterly reporting provided that regular communication and is essential for the individual investor. Don't stack the deck against those who don't have a large staff to interview and research each company they own.

Kenneth J Frahm Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth J Frahm It is apparent that certain political forces would love to reduce corporate responsibilities in nearly any form. The legitimacy of the arguments of these forces is lacking. This country has through great effort over the last century and a half reined in the freedom of corporations to the great benefit of the common citizen. I am privileged to have the ability to invest in and thereby own a piece of many companies without any inside tracks or priveledges of wealth and power. I believe it is essential that the ties between corporations and the public be strictly and carefully guarded both to help prevent corruption and to keep the door open to our country (as it is composed of citizens with the ability to make educated financial decisions) to support and benefit from, or to cut ties with knowledge said corporations. The routine reports of companies are among these critical ties. Please do not weaken our ability to understand our investments by reducing them. Cheers!

Kenneth Landingham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth Landingham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly reporting only

---

kenneth leavitt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: kenneth leavitt I COMPLETELY disagree with the semi-annual filing. As a former professional who wrote corporate financial reports and implemented financial systems, I personally know it is NOT that much work to run financial reports. Companies perform monthly closes for accounting reasons anyways, and these same numbers are generated 12 times a year. Withholding information from shareholders only puts our investments, and our RETIREMENTS AS RISK. It is unacceptable, as an investor/shareholder, to wait 6 months for updates on the financial conditions of the companies I am "part owner in". THIS IS A BAD IDEA, I OBJECT

Kenneth LeMaster Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth LeMaster Less transparency is not "improvement". I'm a partial owner of every business that I invest in and prefer a brief update (which the earnings release is) quarterly over semi-annually. Updating only twice a year, will cause even wider price swings depending on what management says. Current rules are NOT excessively burdensome.

Kenneth Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth Martin I am an investor, therefore an owner. A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that's a mistake! Investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Quarterly checkpoints deter unethical management behavior and provide boards with timely insights into operational risks. Semiannual reporting extends the window for fraud or declining performance to go unnoticed. Gathering these reports quarterly (if not monthly) is certainly within the normal operations of the business, why not disseminate it to its stock holders as well as the public?

Kenneth Nash — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kenneth Nash Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My decisions are made on quarterly reports.

Kenneth Powell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenneth Powell Dear Sir / Madam, I strongly oppose reducing the reporting of company operational / financial statements to twice a year from four times a year for public companies. There are already entirely too many opportunities for organizations and investment firms to profit from artificially inflated stock prices that result from planned press releases that only insiders are often aware of. And for the greater benefit of the entire investing community, especially small investors, more transparency is needed instead of less transparency to help level the playing field so there are fair and equal opportunities for all. I respectfully request that initiative S7-2026-15 not be passed. Regards, Kenneth Powell

---

Kenny Lee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kenny Lee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am steadfastly opposed to changing the current quarterly report for public companies. Data these days moves so quickly that any extension would make the reports useless. In fact, if we want to change it, we should make them published more frequently.
Thank you for your attention to this matter.
Kenny

Kenny Thomas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenny Thomas Hi, I would prefer that all company reporting is regular and transparent. The current quarterly reporting schedule is more transparent to all shareholders and no insiders get privileged information to act on for long periods. Please preserve the same and do not change the frequency to 6 months. Thanks, Kenny

---

Kent Edward Foreman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kent Edward Foreman Are you trying to hand cuff those of us that live in the less than "1%". Surely those in the 1% have some insider knowledge and/or the finest financial advisers. Those of us in 99% use the quarterly reports help us navigate our stock, bonds and mutual fund decisions.

Kent Lang — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Kent Lang Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kent Lang
Retail Manager
Kearney Nebraska
kentlang7@gmail.com

Why? So government officials can earn more on their insider trading? Keep the reports quarterly or mandate that they report daily! We are driving Teslas and NOT 1955 Chevys to work! (Even though driving ‘55 Chevy’s around would be pretty cool 😎)
I’m required to report sales figures and budget hours daily! I’m sometimes required to send employees home during their shifts to reduce hours! These are the hard working people who are driving the economy and investing in company retirement plans! They deserve daily reports on how the company is doing!

Sent from my iPhone

Kent Minault — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kent Minault A proposal is now before the SEC to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. That would be a big mistake. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. The business would still run every day, but the owners would know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. The SEC needs to scotch this proposal. Keep owners and shareholders fully informed. That's the way markets are supposed to work.

Kenyon Harty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kenyon Harty Don’t reduce reporting requirements to semi-annual timeframes. This will leave investors in the dark on the companies they own.

Keri Basler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Keri Basler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Ohh no you dont!! Shameful!!

Kermit Velder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kermit Velder At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Kerri Luther Real Estate Agent — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kerri Luther Please keep reporting at 4 times a year. As an investor that researches my trades carefully, I rely on having updated information to base my decisions on.

Kerrie Hacker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kerrie Hacker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 STOP THE CORRUPTION!
This goes waaay beyond party politics. WHAT IS WRONG with our Government?
We've always known (Since Citizens United) where this was headed
But THIS needs to STOP!
YOU REPRESENT "WE THE PEOPLE". Elon Musk referred of hard working Americans as "parasites"
The only parasites I see these days are the Oligarchs and the Government Agencies allowing this level of abuse to happen at the expense of hard working tax payers.

DO YOUR JOB!!!!

Kerrie Hacker
804 S. Adams St.
Philo, IL 61864

217.722.8551

Kerrie McCaffrey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kerrie McCaffrey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Grow some cajones! We're naming the names of the weakest kiss-ass regulators in the history of our country! You'll be famous !

Kerrie Van Horn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kerrie Van Horn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need control of our money and investments. Please continue to quarterly reporting.
Kerrie Van Horn

Kerry A. Prep — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kerry A. Prep As an investor, I am part-owner of the companies I invest in. I need regular, transparent communication from the company I invest in to keep me informed. Any reduction in the number of public reports weakens the connection between the companies I invest in and their owners. There must be full transparency, otherwise I am less-informed, increasing the uncertainty of what the company is doing so I can ascertain that the principles are still in place as to why I am invested in that company in the first place.

Kerry Ilkanic — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kerry Ilkanic Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the wealthy accountable! Continue with quarterly audits & sign offs. The business world is full of companies with constant mergers & acquisitions. This is crucial!

Kerry M Ilkanic, Executive Recruiter

Get Outlook for iOS

Ketan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ketan I am against less reporting. Keep reporting every quarter. Less is not more in this case since volatility in response to less reporting will be much higher.

Kev Vochatzer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Quarterly reporting From: Kev Vochatzer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting became necessary because of the extraordinary fraud perpetrated by Enron. Enron and others fleeced America. Do Not Remove Quarterly Reporting.

Kathy Vochatzer
I am a former auditor who looked at Enron before they were out business.

KEVIN A BEREZANSKY — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: KEVIN A BEREZANSKY I am against any reduction of corporate reporting, every reduction of corporate reporting reduces the corporations responsibility to shareholders and their transparency. The reduction in corporate reporting would increase insider corporate trading and allow the rich to become richer instead of helping the invested to become richer.

KEVIN AHEARN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: KEVIN AHEARN Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Corporate executives has proven time and time again that they will chose profits over compliance, 3 months should remain
Kevin Ahearn
Retired pensioner

Sent from my iPad

Kevin Almen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kevin Almen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You mean you need less transparency so you can fleece the rest of us more readily. You filthy rich a-holes already de-nutted the entire Republican Party and bought yourselves the Supreme Court. Do you expect us to believe it will be different than when it lead to the Enron debacle. Apparently you morons want a revolution

Sent from my iPhone

Kevin Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Anderson I disagree with the change to semiannual reporting. Less transparency is NEVER better. It will lead to bigger reactions and more volatility

---

Kevin Barry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kevin Barry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep companies reporting quarterly.
Kevin Barry Retired
My retirement fund is tied up in stocks and mutual funds. I want performance info

Kevin Barry

Kevin Bleier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kevin Bleier Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is important for transparency that reporting remain quarterly.

Kevin Bleier

Sent from my iPhone

Kevin Braziel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kevin Braziel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly

---

Kevin Burklund — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kevin Burklund Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are critical. Let's keep them in place. Too much can happen in six months.

Thanks.

Kevin Burklund
Lincoln NE

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Kevin Carlson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kevin Carlson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why? Why make it easier to do terrible things, even if accidental, and then get away with it. What is more important? Public health and environmental protection or little Accountability and more freedom to make ridiculous amounts of profit? Stop sucking up and bowing down to the so called elites

Sent from my iPhone

KEVIN CASEY — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: KEVIN CASEY Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly, any less and you’re hiding something.

Sent from my iPhone

Kevin Casey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Casey The financial reports should not be available or presented any less than quarterly.

Kevin Chaney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Chaney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why do you want to have less accountability for those in charge ? Is it because secretly you want 'them' to more easily be able to hide their shady dealings?

Thanks for considering the drawbacks!

You can't wait until life isn't hard anymore before you decide to be happy. - Jane Marczewski

---

Kevin Chester — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kevin Chester Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep financial reporting quarterly as currently required.With automation/computers, automated accounting systems this established regulation is not burdensome for corporations to adhere to. Don’t fix what’s not broken.

Kevin Christensen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kevin Christensen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly ya cheating bastards!

Sent from my iPad

Kevin Cooney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Cooney 4 times a year is definitely better

---

Kevin Danger-James — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Danger-James Less reporting means less accountability. The one thing that we know about financial institutions and publicly traded companies is that they will push the limits of accountability to the breaking point every time. In fact, because of our laws of fiduciary responsibility, companies are required to do exactly that. Public reporting 4 times each year is not onerous, and is the absolute bare minimum that investors need in order to make informed decisions and to act in ways that add to institutional accountability. REJECT ANY PROPOSAL THAT WOULD ALLOW FEWER PUBLIC COMPANY REPORTS.

Kevin Donlin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Donlin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
My financial advisor and I require the continuation of the requirement for quarterly reporting to determine the value of the funds that I hold. Anything less frequent would be sabotaging retail investors like myself to accurately assess the market and our holdings leaving us at an extreme disadvantage. Please do not allow this proposal to pass thereby allowing companies to have less transparency to report what their true values are. We need quarterly reporting to remain intact to make sound decisions in real time, for our retirement and non-retirement accounts. Keep the obligation on companies to provide information every quarter so that the retail investor can make informed decisions instead of putting them in the dark for six months. ~Kevin

---

Kevin Driscoll — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kevin Driscoll Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kevin Driscoll CFP, CLU, ChFC
I am the founder and CEO of a financial planning firm that manages assets on behalf of 300 client families. There is already a high level of distrust toward both the US Government as well as US based corporations. Changing the reporting requirement to every 180 days from 90 will end up exacerbating this issue. Please maintain the 90 day reporting requirement.
Thank you
Kevin Driscoll

Kevin Gmail — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kevin Gmail Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is enough corruption with politicians and Wall Street already. This has to end. The rest of us who have no way of knowing what the impact of decisions made in Washington will have on the markets before they happen need even more transparency and reporting performance quarterly is just a start. I've been invested in the markets for over 20 years and have no idea why anyone would want or be okay with less information on the companies who hold their financial future in their hands with there good faith money invested in them. Stop the madness.

Kevin VanValkenburgh - small business owner.

Sent from my iPad where I type with 11 fingers. Please excuse the typos and autocorrects that make no sense.

Kevin Gordon Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Gordon I'm an active investor in individual stocks and significantly rely on quarterly financial statements and other updates to make investing decisions. Getting only twice a year updates would make investing significantly more risky. The economy and company operating results are only moving faster than ever with AI. Now is exactly the wrong time to be informing investors less frequently. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Right?

Kevin Hall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kevin Hall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Kevin Hall and I am retired. Much of my retirement income is in stock investments, many which I manage myself. The SEC quarterly reports keep the company’s activities transparent and is very important to my investment decisions. Keep them quarterly!

Sent from my iPhone 413-265-3785

Kevin Harper Professional Engineer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Harper Quit taking knowledge and power away from people. Politicians and corporations are hoarding both. Investors are owners and deserve pertinent information.

Kevin Heaney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Heaney Unfortunately, I don't see this being a very wise choice to reduce information for the sake of cutting costs. This may have been a viable choice many years ago, but in the age of AI and automation the reduction of human labor administrative tasks doesn't make any sense. If anything, this seems like a wound to anyone who wishes to retire securely. Cutting in half the amount of information that all traders receive is going to cause more volatile price swings. Such as Over corrections & Optimistic greedy speculations. Information is knowledge. This gives the power for the investor to make the right choice. If a company is not operating cleanly, then it needs to be punished in such a way. Doing the opposite rewards, unethical business practices which may have a pernicious impact months or years down the road. In a time when a recent IPO has completely manipulated the rules for its benefit which should embarrass and shamed bankers and credit analysts, this is another nail. The desire to underwrite for a palty fee less than half the going rate, just to have a header was a sting. Unfortunately, this is going to cause financial rotation out of the American stock market and into the arms of rival Nations and foreign companies. I truly believe this will lower investor confidence in the entire North American continent. This will Aid BRICS+. This is basically treasonous

---

Kevin Herrmann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Herrmann As a retail investor I feel the move to semi-annual reporting from quarterly reporting increases the disadvantages the retail investor has to overcome when making investment decisions while attempting to work alongside the institutional investment community. Suppressing the access to timely information in no way, shape or form benefits the retail investor. If one of the driving forces behind the change is to reduce cost for the companies, it's probably better to reduce some of the overall onerous reporting requirements for each reporting period than to reduce the actual number of reporting periods.

Kevin Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Johnson I am writing in opposition of the proposal to reduce corporate reporting frequency from quarterly to semi-annually. If adopted, this proposal will reduce transparency, and perhaps accountability to stockholders, who depend upon timely information to decide whether or not a company's corporate actions and policies remain consistent with their own values, beliefs, and convictions; and subsequently, whether one continues to invest in that company or moves that portion of their portfolio somewhere more suitable.

Kevin Keesling — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kevin Keesling Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't change it, if nothing else make them report more often

Kevin's phone

Kevin M Crowning Engineer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin M Crowning Business reporting needs to be four times a year, reducing the reporting requirements to twice a year will only hide problems within a company hurting the public and investors

---

Kevin martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin martin As a retiree with a significant portion of my entire net worth invested in public markets I want to see as much transparency in the companies and markets I invest in. How can less transparency be better for the average investor. Companies could and would more frequently hide nefarious behavior. Please keep quarterly reporting requirements

---

kevin mckee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: kevin mckee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 With today’s technology we are approaching real time financials. Going the other way is backwards!

Kevin McKee
732-614-4483

Kevin Michael Sullivan, CPA CEO, Sullivan, Ltd - Business Valuation and CPA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Michael Sullivan, CPA Ladies and Gentlemen, Please retain the quarterly reporting requirements. Companies are set up to comply with them and investors rely on receiving quality quarterly information from public companies. There is no tangible benefit for chaning from a quarterly reporting requirement. Sincerely, Kevin Michael Sullivan, ASA, CPA/ABV Sullivan, Ltd

---

Kevin Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kevin Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 keep quarterly reporting

---

Kevin Murphy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kevin Murphy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Being responsible to your shareholders & to the USA people is common sense & is necessary to stop corruption from spreading.
This law benifits everyone except crooks & people who should not have such power.

Kevin Murray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kevin Murray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leave it alone - keep quarterly reporting!! Please keep big companies honest!

Thank you

Kevin O'Shea — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kevin O'Shea Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting, is essential to good investment decisions.

Kevin Pena — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Pena Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
This is a terrible idea to do this please reconsider.

Kevin Power — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kevin Power Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting by all public companies and add all billionaires to that.

Then, make all the information PUBLIC, by name.

Sent from my iPad

Kevin Reece — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Reece Please do not reduce reporting requirements from 4 times a year to twice a year. As an investor, twice a year is not enough information

---

Kevin Ritchie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kevin Ritchie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Maintain quarterly reporting —
Accountability, accountability, accountability. In an age of obfuscation and rule-bending, these types of laws — and the justice they represent — are what keep freedom and fair-play aligned in our economic system.

Kevin R from Maine
Retired educator and small business owner

Sent from my iPhone

Kevin Shufelt Sales — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Shufelt Less information does not lean towards greater transparency. In this age of AI and greater flow of information I would think it will be easier to do the required reporting and report more often. instead of less information we should be getting more information.

Kevin Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kevin Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Kevin Smith. I'm a Data scientist with over 30 years experience. I know the importance of timely and complete data. Allowing data to be collected every six months instead of every three months will result in large wait times for real trends. Two Data points don't make a trend. Four data points can tell you a lot. Companies do not need relief from this reporting requirement. Do not change or eliminate the rule that requires four Data points a year.

Sent from my iPhone

---

kevin smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: kevin smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is critical for the markets and individual investors. Six months is too long to wait for an updated report, especially with the changes in the markets happening so quickly these days. I know its a burden for the companies to report quarterly, so make the reporting requirements a bit more lenient, but all companies should be able to produce monthly and quarterly financial reports - particularly those is the public markets!

Kevin Then — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Then Decreasing transparency increases the risk to investors (ie the owners). Semi-annual reporting is an incredibly bad idea.

Kevin Umbreit — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Umbreit The semi-annual reporting does not provide shareholders timely information as is required to properly research and determine if investments are being made wisely. The standard quarterly reporting requirements should be maintained for the benefit of public company shareholders and other potential investors.

Kevin Wyckoff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kevin Wyckoff Please leave reporting requirements as they are at every quarter. Twice a year as proposed is not frequent enough, especially in these times.

KEVIN YOUNG — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: KEVIN YOUNG Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep things the way they are I will definitely stop investing in the market with no information then there will be no way for me to trust my investment. Period

---

Kezia Pendergraft — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kezia Pendergraft Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: We want no less than quarterly reporting. Anything less is promoting fraudulent and shady activity.

KHADIJAH ADEJUMO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: KHADIJAH ADEJUMO I am AGAINST the proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that’s a mistake! We deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Khaki — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Khaki Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The Rich are ruining this country! The SEC is helping them, and should be ashamed of their participation. Disband the SEC like Musk the Rat disbanded the only protection and recourse American Citizens had from these Thieves!

Kianna Edwards — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kianna Edwards Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

Don't do that, we need transparency!

Kieth Dunn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kieth Dunn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please maintain the transparency that you brag about constantly.

Kim A. Eimer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kim A. Eimer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly!

Sent from my Galaxy

Kim Albarino — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kim Albarino Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Investors deserve transparency! Quarterly updates!!

Sent from my iPhone

Kim Bodeker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kim Bodeker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reports. Why was this even thought of?

Kim Bolshaw — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kim Bolshaw Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Kim Bolshaw. I am a parent, a hard working organic gardener, a dedicated volunteer in my community. I should be nearing retirement, but I don't see it sooner than another 20 years at age 80. I aim to be truthful and transparent. Corporations already speak in a language few understand. More transparency is needed, not less.The cost of doing business is very real. I get it. Everything happens fast today. Those of us who don't have a lot of money and who are closing in on retirement don't have six months at a time to make decisions. More transparency for purchases in general, for raising funds with the entities we work with, for investing in our own future is needed. Less transparency is an obvious route to more fraud and greater disregard for regular investors and even for large scale purchasers. More information is better. Does it seem fair if I cover something up or make shady dealings I go to jail but corporations get the opportunity to hide it while they unload their stock and then the taxpayer bails them out!? I don't think so – Enron anyone? bank collapse?-Kim B

Sent from my iPhone

Kim Bradley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kim Bradley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 William and Kim Bradley, retired military, we value quarterly reports to stay current on the health of our investments. Too many citizens have suffered devastating financial losses before quarterly reporting was required to ensure better visibility. Please keep quarterly reporting!

Kim Brinsfield — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kim Brinsfield Do not reduce the amount of disclosures to investors from four to two. This does not promote trust in companies or the SEC. Transparency promotes trust, and helps investors to make better informed decisions about their investments and potential investments.

---

kim cordetti — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: kim cordetti Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Kimberly Cordetti. I am 69 yrs. old , and I have investments I need to protect. No changes are needed to the current reporting system. Why make it easier for fraudulent activity to be found?????

Most sincerely,

Kimberly A. Cordetti
133 E. Royal Forest Blvd.
Columbus, Ohio 43214

Kim Fledderjohann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kim Fledderjohann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think it's a way for the rich insiders to hide what's happening until they take their money and run and leave the rest of us losing our money.

Kim Jamison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kim Jamison Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I was one of the investors who were burned in the Enron debacle and I strongly endorse keeping the reports quarterly!

Kim Jamison, Retired, US Citizen

Sent from my iPhone

Kim Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kim Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want quarterly for transparency and accountability.
Stop this stupidity of helping billionaires scam the system and take all the money.

Kim Kohout — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kim Kohout Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Reports are necessary,more fraud probable outcome.

Kim Macleod — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kim Macleod Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kimberly Goode, Tampa, Fl.Microbiologist ret. How much more evidence do you need that corporations do NOT do the right thing? Please don't give them another way to play the game unfairly. You know nothing good will come of this. Thank you for listening.

Kim Newsome — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kim Newsome I believe in transparency and quarterly reporting by publicly owned company - investors have the right to know!

Kim Stoltz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kim Stoltz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep filing quarterly, in a wold of fraud and conspiracy theory,we need more Transparency not less,especially in our Financial dealings

---

Kim Weber The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kim Weber The success of a public company, and the success of investors whose money supports the company are both very important. However a company that chooses to be public should have the ability and obligation to provide quarterly information to its investors. This should be data the company is already compiling and reviewing much more frequently than every quarter. Investors accept the risk of investing, however the investor should not be blindsided by data that is months old.

Kim Zurcher — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kim Zurcher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
STOP messing with my investments/ $$$$

KIMBERLY AUCELLA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: KIMBERLY AUCELLA I strongly OPPOSE allowing companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. This is a bad idea because less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Also, less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. This is bad for all investors and the economy as a whole. I urge all those involved to vote NO on changing the rules to allow companies to reduce the number of public-company reports to only two reports per year.

Kimberly Balin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kimberly Balin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
It should be mandatory for companies to report quarterly so I can make an informed decision as to whether or not to stay invested in them and have some inkling into what and how they are progressing..

Kimberly Carlson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kimberly Carlson I oppose File No. S7-2026-15 and any change that would reduce public company reporting from quarterly to semiannual. In a time when many people already feel uncertain about whether ordinary citizens are protected, reducing transparency would make that problem worse. Public companies should be held to a higher standard of accountability, not a lower one. Transparency matters more, not less, when markets are volatile. Please keep quarterly reporting in place. Sincerely, Kimberly Carlson

---

Kimberly Henderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kimberly Henderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Kimberly Henderson and would like to know your rationale on this proposed change. Who will this help and who will this hurt? Because everything this current administration has done is harmful to the average citizen, and therefore I oppose a change to quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPad

Kimberly Kammlah — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kimberly Kammlah Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kimberly, Rerail Sales Tracking analyst for a major retail bank. Quarterly reports are so important. Please do not remove the best way of rooting out corruption.

Sent from my iPhone

Kimberly LeBouton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kimberly LeBouton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly is necessary to protect investors.

Kim LeBouton
KJL Computing
M: 562-305-1131

Sent from my iPhone

Kimberly Moore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kimberly Moore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kimberly Moore retired, Hairdresser! Keep the CEO'S, ACCOUNTABLE! AS MUCH AS We Can! STOP THE FRAUD!

Kimberly Phillips — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kimberly Phillips Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
You need to stop the greed and the evil that is happening all over our government.
stop giving our power away. Step up and Demand quarterly Reporting. It is not broken. Remain true to the AMERICAN CITIZENS.

Kimberly PRESCOTT — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kimberly PRESCOTT Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not allow elimination of quarterly reporting by all corporations.
Thank you.
Kimberly Prescott

---

kimeelyun — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: kimeelyun Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 By all means... let's make allow greedy corporations and their slime CEOs to run amuck destroying people, the environment and our society as much as possible.... what could go wrong?

Sent from my Galaxy

---

kimeelyun — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: kimeelyun Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 By all means... let's make allow greedy corporations and their slime CEOs to run amuck destroying people, the environment and our society as much as possible.... what could go wrong?
Kim kelley
Sierra madre ca

Sent from my Galaxy

Kimmie Gilmore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kimmie Gilmore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kim Gilmore. This should matter to every person because human history for thousands of years has most certainly taught us that accountability should never be an option.

King Schoenfeld — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: King Schoenfeld Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Regular investors like me who know enough to read their reports would be lacking this necessary information to guide their investments in a reasonable timeframe. Six months is a long time in our fast changing economy, especially now. Keep our quarterly reporting! Rev. King Schoenfeld, Tacoma WA.

Sent from my iPad

Kinton Fowler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kinton Fowler I am firmly against limiting reporting by publc companies to only twice a year. Millions of investors like myself depend on our investments in these companies for our fuure and current financial secuity. We need quarterly reporting to manage these investments.

Kip Garwood-Tull — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kip Garwood-Tull Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 For an administration that values transparency, this ruling is totally against transparency. It is important for all concerned to make all statistics available. 6 months can hide a lot of problems before the public has the opportunity to to see.

Stop this actiona

Sincerely,
Kip Garwood-Tull
Treasurer to many non-profits

Kip Garwood-Tull

Kirin Meck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kirin Meck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Absolutely do NOT make this mistake happen. There is too much at risk with markets especially concerning my portfolio. I need this money to last me for the rest of my life.
Transpancy is vital in a fair stock market. A six month blackout allows fraud to fester.
STOP!!!!

Kirit Individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kirit I think twice a year reporting is terrible terrible idea. Companies are not clear about their info as is now so one can imagine what would happen if they get 6 months jailbreak!!

Kirit Mehta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kirit Mehta I am against the rule that allows companies to report twice a year. Transparency is needed for investors to make sound decisions.

Kirk Beideman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kirk Beideman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kirk Beideman, Parts Advisor. Businesses should beholden to the same set of rules and morals as the rest of us. Creating loopholes so the rich can get richer does nothing to make America great again.

Kirk Bouwhuis The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kirk Bouwhuis As a part owner of many businesses, I believe I have the right to be fully informed on how those businesses are performing at any time. Reducing the reporting requirements by half does not re-assure me and keep business managers on their toes at all times. In this age of fast information flow nothing good will come from reducing reporting requirements and if anything will increase volatility in the market.

Kirsten Ferguson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kirsten Ferguson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is important! Investors who are better informed make better decisions… moving away from quarterly reporting is a detriment to consumers - please don't do it.
Kirsten Ferguson
Retired

Sent from my iPhone

Kirsten Proverbs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kirsten Proverbs Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kirsten Proverbs, Retired CPA.

As a shareholder, i want to trust the reported results and see them at least quarterly.

---

kirstenbolinger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: kirstenbolinger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Kirsten, I'm a police officer in Illinois, and reporting needs to stay quarterly. I am trying to set myself up to be able to retire in the future. Please leave the reporting requirements alone, theres no need to change them as it is working just fine.

Sent from my Galaxy

Kirstin Von Sydow Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kirstin Von Sydow I am NOT in agreement to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I prefer transparency and 4 times a year has suited my interest well over the years.

Kisha Joyner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kisha Joyner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely not. Remember the 2001 Enron scandal involved widespread accounting fraud, where the energy giant used complex, hidden partnerships (Special Purpose Entities) and "mark-to-market" accounting to conceal billions in debt and fabricate profits. This deceptive scheme misled investors and regulators, leading to bankruptcy, thousands of job losses, and the dissolution of Arthur Andersen, its auditing firm.

Kisha Joyner

Kishya Greer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kishya Greer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Information should be for all people not just the top. If not then it is not a free market. As a little guy this will hurt my chances of investing with the education need to make a profit.

kishya greer

Kit — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kit Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the market transparent. Please KEEP public quarterly reporting.
Kay Kitchen-Maran

Kit Fuller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kit Fuller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Public companies have a responsibility to the public! Do not let them hide the info for 6 months at a time. There is no good reason to extend the standard time.
Rev Katherine Fuller, MSW

Sent from my iPhone

Kitt Bradley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kitt Bradley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think it's important to keep quarterly reporting. Otherwise, it's difficult for individual investors -- like a lot of us soon-to-be retirees -- to understand what's going on. We don't have industry insiders we can take out to lunch and get the scoop from. And as the speed of change in the economy is increasing due to political, weather, and supply chain events, it's important that companies disclose what is happening and how things are trending.
Catherine Bradley, writer, former pharmacy technician

Kkkk Hhhh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kkkk Hhhh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep reporting! Stop scamming the real American people!

Sent from my iPhone

---

kktmom — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: kktmom Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC, quit trying to change the law! Quit trying to cheat the American public! Don’t go back in time! Keep everything above the board so everyone knows what is going on and what their investment is doing! It matters!
Jane Trocha, retired

Sent from my iPhone

---

kms3954 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: kms3954 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please protect investors and keep quarterly reporting! This rule was put in place after Enron for a reason. Let's not repeat the mistakes of the past.
Thank you!
Kathleen M Slaughter

Sent from Proton Mail for Android.

Kolleen Peters-Farnham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Kolleen Peters-Farnham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kolleen Peters-Farnham, retired, Bolton MA. Reporting only twice a year would be disastrous for those of us who are retired. There is no reason for this to happen.

Sent from my iPhone

---

kp Pressler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: kp Pressler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Let’s not repeat history. If you have to change accountability then your most likely hiding something.

---

kpep2 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: kpep2 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please, please keep the guardrails in place. We do not need to open the doors for another Enron situation.

Sent from my iPhone
Kala Peper

www.Creationsbykala.com
Facebook.com/CreationsByKala

Kris Burritt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kris Burritt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Whose idea is this? So dishonest!

Kris Koons — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kris Koons Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly!!

Sent from my iPhone

Kris Wonneberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kris Wonneberg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There are too many cases of deception and investors should be able to hold companies accountable at least on a quarterly basis. Too much fraud to allow such a long time fram.

Krista Washbourne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Krista Washbourne Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
As an investor in the stock market, as well as being a single mom with teens , I need full visibility QUARTERLY, into what is happening with my investments. Also, so my team that helps me know more.

P lease make sure that this visibility remains in my stocks. Thank you,
Krista Washbourne
Cedar Park, Tx 78613

Kristana Kane — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kristana Kane Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Make frequent transparency a requirement! Please ensure quarterly reporting is required to reduce fraud!

Thank you,
K. Kane

Kristel Ceulemans — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kristel Ceulemans I am writing as an individual investor affiliated with The Motley Fool Community to voice my opposition to the proposed Semiannual Reporting rule. Public companies operate every single day. Reducing official updates from four times a year to twice a year leaves individual owners in the dark for six months at a time. Less information does not create better-informed markets; it increases uncertainty and fuels stock volatility. Individual investors require timely, transparent data to compete on a level playing field. Please protect investors by preserving the quarterly reporting framework. Sincerely

---

Kristen Manes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kristen Manes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is important.
Do not change the reporting structure unless you're INCREASING the frequency of the reports. Any other action is another step towards thievery.
—-Kristen Manes

Kristen Marchese — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kristen Marchese Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am writing to ask you to keep the quarterly reporting rules, and law in place.
I am a general Manager for a huge corporation and quarterly reporting keeps companies like this honest as well as keeps our goals realistic. When CEOs are allowed to "guess" and show growth that will not come it hurts more than just investors, it hurts front line workers as well.
Please don't change it. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Kristen Marchese

Sent from my iPhone

Kristen Powers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kristen Powers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I urge you to keep the quarterly reporting.
Kristen Powers , Breast imaging Specialist

Sent from my iPhone

Kristen Ross — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kristen Ross Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Kristen Ross, my job title is CEO of my household. The reason this matters to me to keep quarterly reporting is to keep everyone accountable. Allowing everyone to have the information they need to make decisions about their finances, not just the insiders.

Sent from my iPhone

Kristene Vrooman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kristene Vrooman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 They must stay at quarterly reports. There is too much corruption.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Kristi Strawn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kristi Strawn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I do not agree with getting rid of quarterly reporting . This just seeems like another way to keep the common man down while the insiders know the scoop ! No ! No ! No !

Kristie Brennan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kristie Brennan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The only reason you would want to stop quarterly reporting is because you are doing something unethical! You’re either trying to cheat, lie or steal! We remember Enron and you aren’t fooling us! Shame on you! Is this the way you were raised! If so- shame on your parents!

Electronic communication to and from Greene County Schools is subject to the North Carolina Public Records Law "NCGS. Ch.132", which may result in monitoring and disclosure to third parties, including law enforcement parties unless the content is exempt by statute or other regulation.

Kristin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kristin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Thank you Madam or Sir, Quarterly reporting will keep businesses accountable and help businesses stay out of bankruptcy. There are many programs available for businesses, the damage done in 6 months will be more substantial and costly meaning it will take more resources to get back on track. Furthermore, consumers pay when companies fail and file for bankruptcy.
Kristin Kinic
NEW MEXICO

Sent from Proton Mail for Android.

Kristin cabaniss — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kristin cabaniss Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
This reversion to 1955 standards is an obvious attempt at obfuscation. If it is passed, I will be divesting every penny I have in the market Stop this now.

Kristin Larsen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kristin Larsen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kristin Larsen, Improvement Leader. I want greater visibility into the companies I invest in.

Sent from my iPhone

Kristin Pishotti — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kristin Pishotti Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a teacher that PAYS some of the HIGHEST percentages in the country into my pension, & is forced to depend on the board members who have REPEATEDLY made poor decisions for our retirement pension system, I am APPALLED that you would EVEN CONSIDER allowing a relaxed system to hold Wall Street accountable!! Case in point…STRS Ohio has previously suffered large capital losses on alternative investments, including a $525 million loss on a single private equity investment in Panda Power Funds and exposure to the FTX cryptocurrency collapse and Silicon Valley Bank. Both of these occurred because of failure on part of the STRS board members for obvious poor judgement, BUT EQUALLY they should have never been in a position for these predatory investment groups to make these deals! If ANYTHING, more FREQUENT oversight should be enacted, NOT LESS! Stop supporting expanded fraud!!!! There is no one on Wall Street looking out for the people investing. Considering a relaxation of accountability is absolutely criminal

~Kristin Pishotti
Teacher

Sent from my iPhone

Kristin Rothenberger Member of The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kristin Rothenberger Quarterly reporting is critical to understanding how a company is performing. It is the company detailing exactly why we should take our hard-earned money and invest in their ability to make a profit. If they want us to invest, they have to show us how they plan to perform, and how they actually perform over time. Six months is too long a time to wait to hear how a company is doing. Six months is too much time for a company to hide negative information. Six months is too much time for a company to be in a downward spiral with investors losing a lot of money. If companies want to take our money and use it, we have every right to know what they are using it for and how it is going. Otherwise, why should we take the risk? I would rather invest in bonds with a guaranteed return, then put my money into a black hole with no way to know what they are doing with it. The fundamental idea of capitalism will erode without the trust in the companies that need our capital.

Kristina Castro — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kristina Castro Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
It is my firm belief that all companies, corporations, CEO's, CFO's, board of trustees, shareholders and investors should be 100% transparent in their decisions. The decision makers should not blindfold everyday investors. I believe in a fair stock market. We cannot allow fraud to happen. We cannot allow 6th month blackouts. That is operating without accountability.

Kristine Dwyer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kristine Dwyer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Save quarterly reporting. Have we learned nothing from the tragedies of the past?

Kristine Robertson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kristine Robertson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Biennial reporting was tried before and it was a mistake, which had to be rectified. Don't fix it if it ain't broke

Sent from my iPhone

Kristine Walker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kristine Walker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. I suspect there will be no social security when I retire and my future fiscal health depends on my investments.
Kristine Walker
Previous owner of a health care facility that closed due to lack of proper health insurance reimbursement

---

Kristofer Jarchow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kristofer Jarchow Regarding the new proposal S7-2026-15, reducing transparency serves no good to the consumer. From the business perspective it could save time for companies preparing reports however recent advancements in artificial intelligence (AI) has already reduced time spent on administrative tasks so I would be highly skeptical that companies find quarterly statements difficult. Lack of transparency has slowed competition and growth in many sectors, and seems to only serve companies either doing poorly, or financial institutions that do not want their trading patters out there. This is the easiest age to invest in and for most that is the best pathway to economic stability and/or progression. This will not do well in the political arena with so many people paying attention to this.

Kristy Lines Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kristy Lines The proposal to cut in half the number of annual reports that companies must publicly do is very ill-considered and dangerous to the economy. Investors need transparency in order to operate based on current, solidly-based information. Integrity and stability of the markets and individual investments depend on quarterly reports.

Unintended consequences will also flow from such a decision, likely causing investing to pull back and slow down all sectors of the economy. Please reconsider and respect the regulatory framework on which our system has long relied.

KRYSTAL CHATMAN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: KRYSTAL CHATMAN Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop this NOW

Krystal Harwick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Krystal Harwick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
We know you're all a bunch of shady criminals but can you at least continue to pretend you're not four times a year? Thanks.

Krystal Kelley N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Krystal Kelley I am an individual investor who invests for myself and my child. I rely on quarter reports to determine whether or not to adjust how i invest. While my money is a very small drop in the bucket, it is my money. It's very important to me that publicly traded companies maintain regular reporting to help investors determine next steps for themselves and their clients. This level of deregulation is unacceptable. It leaves the citizens unprotected. Protect the people. The average american citizen has limited access to informed about a company's operations as it is. Please do not relax the standards. These companies make enough money to absorb the financial impact of quarterly reporting. Please do NOT reduce transparency as it negatively impacts individual and institutional investors.

KS SCHARMAN Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: KS SCHARMAN Stop the nonsense we need as much reporting and transparency as is possible. I would prefer monthly. I own the company and should make informed decisions. Hiding operations to every six months is very dangerous.

---

ksaegibson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: ksaegibson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is important that we keep quarterly reporting for corporations. Did we learn nothing from Enron and the fraudulent practices of Ken Lay!! Corporations need to be held to a quarterly reporting schedule to remain transparent and keep investors aware of their business practices. Allowing six months between reporting allows companies in financial trouble to fabricate a false scenario that will cost investors and our economy too much! Keep current quarterly reporting and keep our economy strong!

Susanne Gibson

KT Maciej — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: KT Maciej Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The world has proven that 3 month review work and 6 monthly do not. Fraud and error are the only reasons to implement 6 monthly review. Evidence shows that!

Get Outlook for iOS

KT Morton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: KT Morton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential. It would be even better if it were monthly. During the Enron debacle unraveling, one of the CEOs committed suicide in his vehiclein a neighborhood adjacent to ours. All of us in Houston watched horror as Ken lay and Jeff skiing were successful in preventing any money being repaid to the many people harmed. We listened in horror to the conversations of day traders laughing about turning off the electricity of elderly people on oxygen in California. With great power and wealth comes great responsibility. Accountability matters now more than ever the American people demand it. The American people deserve it. Thank you Mr. and Mrs. Fred R Morton, managing partners, Broadco of Texas Inc. 12602. S. Villa Avenue, OKC, OK 73170

Sent from my iPad

---

ktsera — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: ktsera Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quit making it easy for the money people to cheat. Keep them accountable.

Sent from my Galaxy

Kun Lee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kun Lee It is imperative for investors in a company to have transparency into the health of the company. Reporting quarterly reports is important for us investors to be able to make decisions based on timely information. Please do not reduce reporting requirements to 2.

Kurt Clifford — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kurt Clifford Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep them accountable

---

Kurt Gottschalk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kurt Gottschalk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No, No, No.....whats wrong with the current way things are done? Who's behind this? Just another way of stealing or fraud!

Kurt H — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kurt H Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kurt Hoefert, retiree, Greendale, WI
Please keep quarterly reporting, versus semi-annually. As a recent retiree, I feel it is important for my financial manager to see actual real-time trending. They have been really great to work with and have taken care of my retirement savings well. I lived through what happened in 2008. I don't have enough time left to recover from whatever chicanery market manipulators are going to attempt if this is approved.
Thank you for your attention.

Kurt Hoefert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Kurt Hoefert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kurt Hoefert, retiree, Greendale, WI
Please keep quarterly reporting, versus semi-annually. As a recent retiree, I feel it is important for my financial manager to see actual real-time trending. They have been really great to work with and have taken care of my retirement savings well. I lived through what happened in 2008. I don't have enough time left to recover from whatever chicanery market manipulators are going to attempt if this is approved.
Thank you for your attention.

Kurt Indermaur — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kurt Indermaur As an individual investor who invests for long time horizons (I still hold stocks I first purchased 15-20 years ago), quarterly reports are crucial information that I use to track the companies I own and hold management accountable for their results. I do not have extensive resources to continually investigate my holdings (as corporate or institutional investors do), and quarterly results, especially because they must follow standards like GAAP, are the only way I have to see through biases that are all too common in the market, in media, in analysts, and even in management. Providing that information less often is a step in the wrong direction.

Kurt Penrose — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kurt Penrose Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To whom it may concern, Regarding 6 month reporting, I'm certain you know it's a bad idea to hide information. Please don't capitulate to criminals at the expense of the American public.

---

kurt sendek — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: kurt sendek Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The proposal to eliminate quarterly reporting and shift U.S. public companies to semi-annual disclosure would weaken the transparency, efficiency, and integrity of American capital markets. Quarterly reporting is not a bureaucratic relic; it is a foundational mechanism that ensures timely information flow, market discipline, and investor protection. Reducing reporting frequency would create information gaps, increase volatility, and undermine the accountability that has long distinguished U.S. markets as the global benchmark. Removing this requirement is regressive and counterproductive.

Sent from my iPhone

Kurt Sims Small Business Owner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kurt Sims Please don't reduce the number of reporting periods for public companies. It's important for all investors to know what's happening with their investments and reducing the frequency of that information will only serve to multiply the reactionary effects when that data is finally released. I am a part owner of every company where I own stock and I deserve (and need) to know how my company investments are performing. A LOT of change already happens during the quarterly periods. Doubling the length of those periods will create information deserts that will cripple the small investor's ability to make informed investment decisions. Thanks.

Kurt Vogel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kurt Vogel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello,
My name is Kurt Vogel and I am a Computer Systems Administrator. Keeping things as QUARTERLY reporting is important not just for my own reviewing of company finances regarding my own person investments, but also so the K12 school district I work for can keep track of the financials of vendors and decide which are safe purchases for the district. I can not see any good coming from lengthening the reporting period to six months.
Thank you.

Kurt W Perschy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Kurt W Perschy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I want to recéive Quarterly Reports regarding my investments. If you are going to do anything, do something that benefits investors like me. Thank you, Kurt. W. Perschy.

Kushal Patel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kushal Patel Support quarterly report g

---

Kyle Baber — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kyle Baber Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the system as it is now! 6 month black outs just allow the crooks and officials to do things the public wouldn't allow.

Sent from my iPhone Kyle

Kyle Bertrams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Kyle Bertrams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Companies should be held accountable, and providing timely, updated information to the people who invest in their stock should be maintained. Please keep my future safe. Kyle, copywriter

Thanks,
Kyle Bertrams

Kyle Burnett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kyle Burnett I am 100% AGAINST companies going to a twice a year reporting verse current quarterly. I am a shareholder and I need as much information as possible to stay informed. I would consider not holding companies that don't report quarterly if, this were to PASS. Very frustrating that there is even legislative proposal for this.

Kyle Darling — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kyle Darling I oppose the proposed Semiannual Reporting rule. As an individual investor, quarterly reports are essential to staying informed about the businesses I own. Reducing disclosures doesn't reduce uncertainty - it increases it. Less information means bigger surprises and sharper market reactions. I urge the Commission to preserve quarterly reporting.

Kyle Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kyle Johnson Hello! I'm writing to express my opposition to allowing companies make fewer public reports. This potentially allows companies to mislead investors and benefits companies at the expense of individuals like myself. Thank you!

Kyle Neville Business Advisory Consultant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kyle Neville Minimum quarterly reports are needed for fair and transparent ownership of organizations as investors and advisors

---

Kyle Rouckus — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Kyle Rouckus Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting keeps the market fair and accountable. Please maintain these reports to protect consumers and average Americans.

Sent from my iPhone

Kyle Terry The Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kyle Terry I am adamantly against reducing reporting requirements for businesses. Quarterly reports should be replaced with monthly reports, increasing reporting requirements.

Kylie Owen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kylie Owen A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. We think that’s a mistake! At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Fewer reports are unlikely to reduce costs. In the age of AI with increasingly efficient disclosure tools, reporting is becoming cheaper. It will not ease the pressure quarter to quarter. Short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Kylie Ufer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kylie Ufer Please maintain quarterly reporting to ensure investor transparency.

Kym Lenkus The Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Kym Lenkus A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that’s a mistake. Please keep to 4 for investor transparency.

L A Jessen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: L A Jessen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Require QUARTERLY business reports!

Laurie Ann Jessen

L ALLEN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: L ALLEN Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are great. Keep it that way do not change

---

L Angel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: L Angel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We do not need to go backwards on this. Do not change this.
Liza Angel

Sent from my iPhone

---

l B — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: l B Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Assistant Director: Residential Service Systems.

"SEC No, We want to know"!

STOP the 6 month quiet treatment! Secrets hurt people!

L DJesusR — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: L DJesusR Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC: Keep It Quarterly! My name is Ms DeJesus I am social workerand this matters to all. To keep putting the little people already in disadvantage! This is fraud! It should be treated at such! Transparency should go both ways IN A REASONABLE TIME FRAME MIN QUARTERLY and Whomever obstructs this it should be held accountable for the people who has their livelyhood in it as programmed by theses companies that are benefiting from it.

L J Dixon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: L J Dixon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly. Too easy to be scammed in a 6 month period.

L Jeffcoat — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: L Jeffcoat Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Trust the citizens commenting. We have been robbed, raped & *ed over by you god * thieves.....keep it up.
THERE ARE WAY MORE OF US THAN THERE ARE YOU....AND WE ARE ARMED, TOO.
THE ENTIRE GOVERNMENT OF THIS COUNTRY IS A CUM SUCKING GANG OF COMMIE SELL OUT, ON THE TAKE, PAID OFF LYING BASTARD FILTH.
THE ENTIRE COUNTRY HATES ALL GOVERNMENT BECAUSE YOU ARE SO GOD *ED

CORRUPT.
WE HAD ONE CIVIL WAR, WANT ANOTHER??????????????????

L Jeffcoat — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: L Jeffcoat Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Trust the citizens commenting. We have been robbed, raped & *ed over by you god * thieves.....keep it up. THERE ARE WAY MORE OF US THAN THERE ARE YOU....AND WE ARE ARMED, TOO.

L M — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: L M Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting in place for accountability. Bi-annual reporting only benefits companies and opens way too many doors for fraud and insider trading! Thank you.

L Oplt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: L Oplt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lenore Oplt, retired teacher. As a retired person living on a fixed income my investments are important to me. I think to know what is happening with my investments in a timely manner so I can make changes before I take a big financial hit. The system now works well, why go bavk to what kept most ordinary person in the dark for 6 months and hurt them.

L Rezza — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: L Rezza Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Four times a year, the CEO and CFO must each put their name to the company's books, certifying they've reviewed the report and that it contains no untrue statement of a material fact. Knowingly certify a false one: up to $1 million and 10 years in federal prison. Do it willfully: up to $5 million and 20 years. The proposal cuts those certified filings from four to two. Half as many moments when anyone at the top must stake their freedom on the truth.

Lisa Bourgeois

L. Fehrle Motley Fool Subscriber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: L. Fehrle This is another blaintinent Trump attempt to allow more of his desires to disconnect the people of the United States their constitutional freedom of information. I am vehemently. opposed to this change.

L. Liner Personal — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: L. Liner Please DO NOT reduce the number of reports. I want transparency and up-to-date information. I DO NOT want to wait for reports. I want to see minimum 4 reports per year.

L. Wood Motley Fools — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: L. Wood It is ludicrous to change the requirement to semi-annually. That is insufficient frequency for investors to evaluate the performance and value of a company. Public companies should continue to be required to submit financial reports quarterly to their shareholders.

L.J. Manovsky — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: L.J. Manovsky Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not back off the quarterly reporting requirements. Too many innocent people lost everything in the Enron debacle, and there can never be a repeat.

La Verne Koenig Owner operator — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: La Verne Koenig Comments attached

---

LAC — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: LAC Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You Must keep quarterly reporting! Otherwise, the sins of Enron will be repeated. Be mindful of history.

Lachlan Maclean — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lachlan Maclean This proposal seems to only to for the harm of customers. The only thing going fo this is reduced costs on behalf of companies, and with AI and ever more efficient disclosure tools, this is debatable. This harms the individual investor, and also makes it easier for companies to hide what they are actually doing.

Lacy Kennedy Motley Fool Community and subscriber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lacy Kennedy Do not allow reducing publically traded companies from quarterly reporting to two per year. Individual stock holder and institutional investors alike, already to not have visability into month to month sales and operating peformance. Quarterly reporting is the only actionable reporting giving investors visability into compnay performance, opex and capex. Biannual or annual only reporting makes it worse to invest in companies who are underperforming and makes it harder to identify those that are performing.

---

ladygoldrider74 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: ladygoldrider74 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Anytime you cut laws is usually a reason for dishonesty to step back in.

Do not let that happen keep them in check with the law the way it is.

Lois Olson

Sent from Proton Mail for iOS.

LadyLaser Golf — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: LadyLaser Golf Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The SEC reporting should be tranparent from Day 1. Without transparency, corruption follows. Where there is corruption, the taxpayers end up paying for fraud. There is a lot of fraud in the United States right now and it is not even hidden.
MAKE THE SEC TRANSPARENT FROM DAY 1

Laird Ueberroth Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laird Ueberroth Motley Fool News Letter

---

LaLa Dolce — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: LaLa Dolce Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear Secretary,
I am writing as an independent retail investor to express my strong opposition to the Commission's proposal to allow public companies to opt out of quarterly reporting (Form 10-Q) in favor of a semiannual schedule. While the stated goal may be to reduce compliance costs and curb short-term market focus, the actual result of this rule change will be a severe degradation of market transparency that directly harms retail investors.

A six-month gap between mandatory financial disclosures is entirely unacceptable in today's fast-paced, digital market. This proposal introduces several critical risks to market integrity:
Exacerbating Information Asymmetry: Corporate insiders and institutional mega-investors possess the resources to track corporate health continuously. Retail investors, however, rely heavily on standardized, audited quarterly SEC filings to level the playing field. Forcing retail investors to wait 180 days for verified data leaves them completely in the dark.

Expanding the Window for Insider Trading: By eliminating quarterly reporting, the window of time where corporate insiders hold material, non-public information expands drastically. This creates an environment ripe for opportunistic trading and strategic delays in revealing negative corporate performance.

Impacting Market Stability: Decreasing the frequency of verified reporting will naturally lead to a decline in earnings forecast accuracy. Speculation and rumor will inevitably fill the data void, resulting in heightened and volatile price swings when the semiannual data is finally released.

Systemic Gaming of Disclosures: Allowing companies the flexibility to switch back and forth between quarterly and semiannual schedules dynamically invites companies to "hide" poor quarters or operational bleeding within a broader six-month average, destroying year-over-year data comparability.

Voluntary press releases or unaudited earnings calls are not a substitute for the strict legal accountability and GAAP standards of Form 10-Q. The SEC's core mandate is investor protection and the maintenance of fair, orderly, and efficient markets. This proposal directly contradicts that mission by favoring corporate insiders at the expense of everyday investors.
I urge the Commission to withdraw this proposal and maintain the mandatory quarterly reporting framework that has long made U.S. capital markets the most transparent and trusted in the world.

Sincerely,
Chef, Jérôme Chambers
Philadelphia, PA

Lallon Pond — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lallon Pond Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 That accountability would be reduced at one of the most corrupt and incompetent times I've seen in my life (73 years) is beyond comprehension. CEOs should sign financials monthly, then predicate decisions on that understanding. But now it's all about income inequality, greed and power. I'm disgusted.

Lallon Pond

LAMBOURGHINI777 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: LAMBOURGHINI777 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING!

STOP GIVING BILLIONAIRES EVERYTHING AT THE DETRIMENT OF THE MIDDLE CLASS AND POOR!

Sent from my iPhone

Lana McDonald — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lana McDonald Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lana McDonald U.S.A. taxpayer citizen who is self employed. I am Not in favor of changing quarterly reporting. Quarterly reporting allows time for proper planning and the ability to make any necessary changes that might affect my future, or make decisions for my own personal goals. I want to continue to receive quarterly reports keeping me apprised of my hard earned money. Thanking you in advance for your attention to this matter. Your decision not only affects me but will also negatively impact millions of U.S. taxpayer citizens and their families if this change is made. Respectfully submitted.

Lance Cooper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lance Cooper Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lance M Cooper Sous Chef
They are already making hand over fist in money personally I think revenue should be reported every month but to make it once every 6 months is insanity so they can just rip off customers more no hard no

---

Lance Hammond — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lance Hammond Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an investor in the financial markets, I am greatly concerned about the proposed SEC changes concerning quarterly reporting. Accountability of corporate financial reporting is crucial. I would like to see the reporting remain on a quarterly basis. Thank you for your attention to this matter. Lance Hammond, Private Investor

---

Lane Rathgeber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lane Rathgeber Semiannual reporting is a bad idea. Publicly traded companies should NOT become less transparent to investors. Financials should be reported quarterly.

Laree Thomas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laree Thomas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I know the administration advocates for fewer regulations - many of which were created due to the discovery of the need for them. Please do not reduce reporting and make it easier for those with ill-intent to get away with crimes or infractions.

Laree Thomas
84124

LaReine Taurinskas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: LaReine Taurinskas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If you don’t sign quarterly our reputation is sullied.

Sent from my iPhone

---

laroccajr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: laroccajr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is a reason for the existing SEC rule for quarterly financial reports— for transparency and timeliness to protect investors which is the primary purpose of the SEC!

DO NOT CHANGE THE REPORT FILING REQUIREMENTS!

John LaRocca
a U.S.A. Virginia investor

Larry and Linda Brewer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry and Linda Brewer I have no comment.

Larry Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Anderson Reducing reporting requirements makes stockholders (i.e., owners) less informed. In an age where more information is available to make better informed decisions in all areas of life, why would we want to be less transparent when it comes to investing and ownership?

Larry Barton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Larry Barton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Maintain quarterly reporting for stability in the markets and investors.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Larry Baugh Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Baugh I do not think transparency in stock owneship needs to be reduced. As an investor, I think more information promotes safety and success in investing in stocks.

Larry Birchfield — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Larry Birchfield Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Report quarterly. Quit trying to screw the people of this nation while allowing corporate America is screwing us.

Larry Dyer Individual investor retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Dyer I utterly reject the idea of six months reporting information from companies. We need quarterly reports we need them badly. You wouldn’t want to own a business that only informs you twice a year of what it’s doing. I think this is a terrible idea and in the age of AI I don’t think it’s gonna save any money for these companies. They can afford to report to their owners who are the stockholders. We need more transparency, not less.

Larry Gage — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Larry Gage Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC -Quit removing measures put in place to hold corporate executives accountable for the performance of their companies.

Sent from my iPhone

Larry Higa — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Larry Higa Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I vote No on 6mo blackout not a good & fair decision.

Larry Holland — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Larry Holland Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep reporting stop trying to hide theft

Larry D Holland

Larry Iwasaki — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Iwasaki Do not reduce the number of public-company reports issued per year. Increased market volatility due to current government/administration antics have affected company performance on a monthly let alone quarterly period. Do not hamstring/ restrict investor access to knowledge that are available to institutional investors and large asset managers like Blackrock and Fidelity.

Larry James The Motley Fool Comunity — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry James Please preserve the transparency that we have by receiving quarterly reports from companies we are invested in and consider it to be ownership.

Larry Jens — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Jens Please keep the reporting requirement as quarterly. This provides a better picture of how a corporation is doing and reduces the chance of shady practices or surprises.

LARRY L KAPPHAHN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: LARRY L KAPPHAHN Please do not reduce the quarterly Corporate Earnings reports to semi-annual, I look forward to all my timely quarterly reports to protect my investments. Thank you

---

Larry L. — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Larry L. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it qartily

Get Outlook for iOS

Larry Lang The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Lang I am not in favor of changing public company reporting periods from 4 times a year to two. I trust that the vast majority of the public companies' management manage their businesses for a longer term than just one quarter. That said, quarterly reporting provides shareholders with periodic information as to how the business is progressing in meeting its financial and operational goals.

Larry Law — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Law Please do not allow me to have less information. The more information in my investing (company ownership) equates to better decisions.

Larry Morris The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Morris I feel reducing company reporting periods to two a year does not in any way add protection to everyday investors. Comments suggesting major savings by reducing reporting is questionable at best and with the use of AI etc. this is no big hit on companies.

Larry Morrison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Larry Morrison Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why are we trying cut what this world needs a whole lot more of? ACCOUNTABILITY
Whoever is proposing this has something to gain from cutting accountability laws.

---

larry morrow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: larry morrow Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Make the big dogs ‘fess up quarterly, like I have to do with my small company.!

Larry Myers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Larry Myers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting ... It is important to have truthful information disseminated on a regular and shorter term basis. Those who benefit by having less factual and timely information released are often those who have integrity issues.

Larry padway Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry padway Companies have to know how they are doing every quarter. So reducing the number of reports only means the investors are uninformed. What idiot thinks that is a good idea

---

Larry Rattray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Larry Rattray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Thank you for the opportunity to comment. There are too many good reasons to keep the reporting quarterly and no good reasons to extend it. There are people who would take advantage of the extended time.
Thank you,
Larry Rattray
Proctor, Montana

Larry Schrader None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Schrader Companies MUST continue to report to shareholders a minimum of 4 times a year. With all of the fraud today, we can't trust anyone. Longer periods promote fraud.

Larry Scott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Scott Dear Sir, I have been an active individual trader/investor for over 25 years. I enjoy it very much. Much of my success I have experienced has been the result of knowing about the companies I trade. Receiving company information on a quarterly basis is very helpful. With quarterly reports I am able to determine if the companies that I watch are developing financial trends. Taking quarterly reports away would make trading stock much more difficult for individual investors. Big brokerages would also pick up advantages over individual traders because they seem to have greater access to company information. Please do not get rid of quarterly reporting. Thank you.

Larry Seiford Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Seiford At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Larry Sorensen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Sorensen Please do not change mandatory public-company reports from 4 to 2. We need the 4 annual reports for investing.

Larry Todd — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Todd I want to keep my quarterly stock reports. I believe semi annual reports is to long, a lot can happen in 6 months. Transparency is vital for good investor relations

---

Larry Wallen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Wallen Please use common sense and do NOT make a serious mistake by reducing reporting requirements and retain quarterly reporting. As a matter of fact, monthly reporting would be even better. At its heart, investing is ownership and as owners, we deserve (demand!) regular, transparent communication from our business. It is doubtful any cost reduction would even occur with the new proposal and uncertainty would almost certainly be increased.

Larry Whalen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Larry Whalen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We have a system that has protected our retirement portfolios for many years. Why you want to destroy that system. Who is on the take. Stop screwing the public for the benefit of corporations. Stand up to Trump and his desire to pander to money and corporations. Protest the working man and say NO to dropping quarterly reports. Larry Whalen Retired. Finance background. 35 years in banking.

Sent from my iPhone

LARRY WHEELOCK — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: LARRY WHEELOCK Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Sounds like an open invitation to corruption to me. Don’t do it.

Sent from my iPhone

Larry Willard Motley fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Larry Willard Do NOT reduce 1/4ly sec filings!

Lars Ensign Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lars Ensign I am commenting in opposition to the plan to reduce a corporate reporting requirements to semi annually. I think that this is a decrease in transparency that will likely lead to increase volatility and undo increase in already too strong, corporate power.

Laszlo Acs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laszlo Acs At its heart, investing is ownership. When an investor owns a piece of a business, that investor expects and deserves regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some may argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others may argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. I rise in strong opposition to this proposal - S7-2026-15 on Semiannual Reporting. This will not be beneficial to any investor and will reduce the amount of information available to those who own shares of publicly traded securities. -- Laszlo Acs

---

Launa Fackrell Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Launa Fackrell Please continue required reporting for corporations, etc. to four times per year rather than changing to two times per year.

---

laura anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: laura anderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC
During this period of rampant fraud and corruption it would be irresponsible to change from quarterly. Corporations have been given what seems to be a free pass with president trump leading the way. I'm the mom of a disabled adult who has to routinely verify under penalty of law that he does not exceed 2000 dollars monthly, verify his SNAP benefits are used appropriately and certify with agencies that he is still disabled. If I don't comply he loses his benefits. So why would you remove the guardrails for large corporations when we, the people struggling to pay our bills, are being regulated routinely. Keep the quarterly signatures.
Laura Anderson, Salt Lake City, paralegal who can't afford to retire.

Laura Baker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laura Baker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I worked for WorldCom when the fraud occurred. My husband and I lost all of our investments, all promised stock and it took years to rebuild.

After Enron and WorldCom these reporting rules helped to hold more executives accountable. And this quarterly reporting MUST be retained. This is no time to scale back much- needed protections. You, as an organization, know this.

KEEP IT QUARTERLY.

Laura Barnett None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laura Barnett I disagree with the proposal to reduce reporting requirements. Transparency in a business' operations is critical to safeguard investors.

Laura Chandler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laura Chandler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No! After working for Merrill Lynch, Morgan Stanley and Raymond James for 30+ years I say no to this nonsense.
We need information on a quarterly basis.

Sent from my iPhone

Laura Currier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laura Currier It does not make sense to have less transparency for consumers or investors. While I understand the “burden” on companies to make these reports/ fillings, we live in a new era of big data analytics with AI to help manage some of these tasks. Companies have a great opportunity to lean into these new tools to make their reporting easier while still maintaining that transparency to their customers.

Laura Daffer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laura Daffer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep doing quarterly reporting. My current income is $1000 a month. I need to be able to know what is going on so I can protect what money I have. Otherwise, I could end up home less. Laura Daffer (retired teacher's aide)

Laura De Angelis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laura De Angelis Please preserve a greater transparency for individual investors

---

Laura Dion — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laura Dion Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Laura Dion, owner of a professional practice, LCSW.
I want and have the right to know what is happening with my investments. Quarterly reports help me to know if I need to be making changes, and can then plan for my future.

Laura Dion, LCSW

Laura Driscoll — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Laura Driscoll Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the

Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am against any delays in quarterly reporting and suspect these potential blackouts are nefarious in nature and beneficial to scammers and robber barons. Please protect our investments and do not pass this legislation.

Laura Eileen Ferguson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laura Eileen Ferguson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To Whom It May Concern;

There is evidence on all sides of massive fraud and corruption in our insufficiently surveilled corporate sector.

The LAST thing we need is a decrease in accountability. Please MAINTAIN the requirement of quarterly signed statements!

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Laura Eileen Ferguson

135 S. Van Ness Ave.

Los Angeles, CA 90004

'..In my life I have done all I can to demonstrate that the way of peace, the way of love and nonviolence is the more excellent way.." John Lewis

---

Laura Fletcher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laura Fletcher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 With all the fraud our government, corporations and companies have been shown to commit the government should not be making it easier to hide crime, but tougher. Keep quartwrly accountability with quarterly reporting.

Laura Gallagher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laura Gallagher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Laura G. retired from job with Commonwealth of PA insisting the SEC keep its reports quarterly. The spirit of the law as well as the letter of the law is all our capitalism has to curb human greed.

Laura Garrett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laura Garrett Hello. I am asking that you keep the number of public company reports transparent and to report quarterly. It's important that we as share owners know what is going on and not to hide the reports so that I can make an informed decision. Having gaps in reports is an unfair if only the corporate insiders have this knowledge and not the public. I am willing to pay for the disclosure of the reports as not having the reports really isn't saving me money. Please consider disclosing the reports to quarterly and to be transparent. Thank you, Laura Garrett

---

Laura Gibson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laura Gibson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC quarterly reports are vital for market transparency and oversight. These disclosures provide critical insights into public companies' financial health, operations, and governance, enabling investors, analysts, and regulators to proactively identify risks and emerging trends. This timely data facilitates informed decision-making, fosters accountability, and strengthens market integrity, ultimately contributing to a more stable financial environment.

Laura Gibson
Burien, WA

Laura Hall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laura Hall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why do the rich still can see what's going on but plain investors are in the dark.

Laura Hall-Daniels — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laura Hall-Daniels Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. As a retired individual we can’t afford and do not have the time to ride out big dips in the stock market.

Sent from my iPhone

Laura Harnden — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laura Harnden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This country deserves transparency and quarterly reporting is better for all of us!

Sent from my iPhone

Laura Heffernan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laura Heffernan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The only purpose of reporting less frequently is to allow CEOs to hide. More insider trading, less opportunity for the super wealthy. More wealth flowing upward while children starve. Americans want less income inequality, not more. Americans want more transparency and accountability. This is a terrible idea.

Sent from my iPhone

Laura Hill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Laura Hill Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please continue to do quarterly reports!
It makes a difference to us!

Many thanks!
Laura Hill

Laura Hill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laura Hill Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need qtrly reporting for the good of all people and their investments! Do not change this!!!!!

Laura A. Hill

Laura Hill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laura Hill Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to continue quarterly reporting! It’s so important!

Laura A Hill

Laura Hill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laura Hill Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to continue quarterly reporting! It’s so important! Please do not consider changing! Laura Hill

---

LAURA HUG — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LAURA HUG Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Laura Hug, I am a Home Health Aide for a beautiful young lady with Downs Syndrome. This ruling will take monies from the poorest people and give rich people more of it. Insider trading is illegal and should be being treated as such.

Sent from my T-Mobile 5G Device
Get Outlook for Android

Laura Jackson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Laura Jackson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The move to reduce transparency and increase the time between reports hurts Middle-class investors who are relying on their investment for a secure portfolio. This is our savings and our hope for a secure retirement. With the increasing cost of living we can't afford volatile markets, and not having timely information to help us protect our investment. Please keep reports quarterly.

Laura Kaupas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laura Kaupas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly monitoring to keep those CEOs accountable for their business behaviors. No more corruption Laura Kaupas, Collinsville, Illinois gypsyfaith@att.net

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Laura Kay — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laura Kay Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Need quarterly or monthly

---

Laura Kolak — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laura Kolak I am absolutely against this! It will only serve to allow companies, their Executive staff and Board members to manipulate data. Transparency is critical, keep it as is.

Laura Luckes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Laura Luckes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am not in agreement with moving to a 6 month reporting system.

Laura Major Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laura Major Public companies that seek new capital from the public markets and continued support from existing shareholders should remain subject to quarterly reporting requirements. Quarterly disclosure of performance, goals, and strategy is essential for investors to make informed decisions. Without it, investors are forced to rely on stock price movements and third-party analysis between reports, which provides an incomplete and potentially misleading picture of a company's true value and risk profile.

Laura May — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laura May Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Laura M May, retired mom. Quarterly reporting should continue so that all investors have the information necessary to make proper decisions and to protect them from fraud.

Sent from my iPhone

Laura Merle Honsa — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laura Merle Honsa Please reconsider this proposal. Too many people depend on quarterly reports, especially as they approach retirement. This is a growing percentage of the population according to Georgetown University - (https : / / cri . georgetown . edu / the-aging-of-america-a-changing-picture-of-work-and-retirement /) . They need the most current information to make important decisions about their futures. Additionally, too few people have the investments that will allow them to retire according to the Schwartz Center for Economic Policy Analysis (https : / / www . economicpolicyresearch . org / research / most-americans-do-not-have-enough-to-retire) . If the financial sector wants to encourage Americans to invest and save, they should provide information as often as they practically can. Quarterly reports do not seem to be a burden to investment professionals at this time, so there seems to be no urgent reason to change this policy. Thank you for your consideration.

Laura Pandolfi The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laura Pandolfi I do not advocate reducing the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Reducing the reporting weakens the communication between the company and the investors, continued management transparency is still essential to the evaluation of a business by the investment community.

Laura Seymour — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laura Seymour This is hokum. We need information. It is NOT more costly and would be moving us closer to NO reports!!

Laura Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Laura Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Laura, retired teacher, Texas. This is important my financial person and me. I have more chances to move and get better rates when I can see my information quarterly. I don't see why this needs to be changed.

Sent from my iPhone

Laura Stafford — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Laura Stafford Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting should stay! My name is Laura Stafford, I'm a RN in Milton, FL. I believe the exponential rate at which CEOs' wealth has grown is blatantly wrong and not in alignment with the growth of the American worker. We are in a time of much distrust in our government and to roll back protections at this critical time would be detrimental to what trust may be left. Please keep quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

LAURA SULLIVAN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LAURA SULLIVAN Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Reporting needs to stay quarterly, so that people can make informed decisions about finances. As a retired person on a fixed income, it's imperative that I have up to date information.

Thank you for your attention to this matter!
Laura Sullivan-Woods

Sent from my iPhone

---

laura tatum — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: laura tatum Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 All corporations must be held accountable for the numbers they are reflecting to their stockholders. They must not be allowed to jeopardize our economy and livelihoods to their sole benefits. No more Enron. KEEP IT QUARTLERLY.

Laura Taylor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laura Taylor Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Changing the law encourages fraud. The only possible reason for this change is pressure mounted by the millionaires it protects us from. Keep it without changes.

Laura Uribe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laura Uribe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You can barely ensure that fraud isn't perpetrated now. Why in the world would you allow corporations even less oversight. Absolutely not!! Continue with quarterly reports.

Laura Uribe

Laura Whittier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laura Whittier Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Eliminating quarterly reporting is a bad idea. I want CURRENT information on performance so I and the companies that manage my retirement portfolio can make timely informed decisions. Please keep quarterly reporting. Thank you,
Laura Whittier
Retired

Sent from my iPhone

Laurel Brehler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Laurel Brehler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not change reporting. Keep it every 3 months.

Laurel Dorr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laurel Dorr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm Laurel Dorr, a small investor. I rely on these funds for my retirement income. I also rely on the quarterly reports of my investments to assess their health. I am alarmed tjat this helpful information may be cut in half from quarterly to semi-annually. Please do not allow this to happen. It would adversely affect small investors.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Laurel Harper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laurel Harper I am not in favor of the SEC reducing corporation reporting requirements to their stockholders to just twice a year. You would not want your bank to allow you to only view your account twice yearly. I do not see much difference between that and reducing the requirement for corporations to be transparent to their stockholders in how their investments are being handled. Please do not allow this ridiculous action to proceed. Thank you.

Laurel Heflin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laurel Heflin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Laurel, Warehouse Worker. This matters because I feel like Warehouse workers definitely get left holding the bag a lot. Especially for people who have worked for the company for so long

---

LAUREN BLOOM — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LAUREN BLOOM Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are the minimum essential information for investors to evaluate the worth of their investments. As the Treasurer of a nonprofit that serves clergy families, I depend on quarterly reports to confirm that our investments continue to generate needed revenue. Semi-annual reports would not provide sufficient information to allow us to make timely decisions about whether to buy, hold or sell. Please do not deprive investors, many of whom are nonprofits serving worthy populations, of the information they require.

Sent from my iPhone

Lauren Campion — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lauren Campion Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly

Lauren Campion
(630) 936-7973
http://www.linkedin.com/in/laurencampion

"Learning is beautiful."

Lauren Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lauren Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Remember we all started small!
Keep hope alive!
Sincerely. Small voter, Small investor.

Lauren Monaco — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lauren Monaco Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly filings to maintain transparency and keep ordinary investors connected to how the businesses they are investing in are doing. We need to ensure that we do not create conditions that foster insider trading and abuse by those in power. Quietly reports keep us all honest and in the loop.

Lauren Monaco, teacher

Outside of a dog, a book is man's best friend. Inside of a dog it's too dark to read.
Groucho Marx (1890 - 1977)

---

lauren zambrelli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: lauren zambrelli Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is not ok. We have suffered enough! Stop this now.

Lauren,
Sent from my iPhone

Laurence Landon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laurence Landon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There are too any examples of major economic woes arising out of relaxed financial oversight. You should not even be considering reversal of quarterly financial reporting.

Larry Landon,
CopeAesthetic, LLC
Richmond, Virginia
602-350-0620

Laurence Landon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laurence Landon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Not for God's sake, but for everybody's financial sake, please do not move to semi-annual reporting.

CopeAesthetic, LLC
Richmond, Virginia

Lauretta Davis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lauretta Davis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly reports helps to keep companies accountable to their investors. A quarter is 3 months, even that can be too little to see that a company is failing or going in a direction that the investor does not like. Please continue to require quarterly reporting, or more frequent, for the good of investors.

Lauri Snow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lauri Snow Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Lauri Snow. I'm retired.Please help me keep what I've earned in my lifetime.. knowing what corporations are doing helps me make better decisions. My husband has stage 4 cancer.

I need ways to see if a company deserves my investment. Corporations already have so much power and "rights". There is a reason quarterly reports were put in place and we need all the guardrails small as they may be to protect against the errors or intentional criminal activity that have happened far too often.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Laurie Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Keep it quarterly From: Laurie Anderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't take away quarterly reporting. You can crash our whole economy not keeping these corporations in line! Remember why you have quarterly reporting. I won't trust companies and may restrict my trading if you take that away.
Laurie Anderson

LAURIE AZZOTO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: LAURIE AZZOTO Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We want the truth every quarter. What are they hiding?

Sent from my iPad

Laurie Bruno — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laurie Bruno Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm against companies holding back for six months and hiding the figures from the public that long. Stop inviting more criminal activities to occur.

Sent from my iPhone

Laurie Frederick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laurie Frederick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do t start scaring people with this. A large portion of people will bail snd go to CD's.

Sent from my iPhone

Laurie Goldman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laurie Goldman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a citizen and a professional and semi retiree. Citizens United took half of public security. My retirement funds should be protected from government and financial institution graft and failure. I even support a move to monthly reports. Quarterly has been helpful. Stop the grab by oligarchs and criminals. Remember ENRON! It could be your grandmother! Keep this country's safety net from being ripped open. Keep Quarterly Reporting

Laurie Goldman Psy D
Brookline, MA 02445

Laurie Goldman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laurie Goldman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a professional and retiree. Citizens United took half of public security. My retirement funds should be protected from government and financial institutions. I support a move to monthly reports. Quarterly has been helpful. Stop the grab by oligarchs and criminals. Remember ENRON! It could be your grandmother! Keep this country's safety net from being open. Keep Quarterly Reporting

Laurie Goldman

Laurie Greenberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laurie Greenberg Please be fair to investors, some of whom are not wealthy, by maintaining the current level of transparency.

Laurie Greenwald — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laurie Greenwald Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would a company not be able to give quarterly reports to it's investors. It doesn't benefit the investors. Especially the small investors.

Laurie J Greenwald
Retiree with a pension that's invested.

Laurie Hall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Laurie Hall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Haven't the billionaire of this country profited enough from this administration? Don't lift one of the few protections left. Do your job and protect honest business practices.
L. Hall

Laurie Hatchett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laurie Hatchett Please continue to hold corporations accountable by requiring quarterly reports.

Laurie Jackson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laurie Jackson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No. Do not rob me again or help the felon in the White House give more grifts to the billionaires. I will close all of my accounts and put them in CDs if this happens.

Laurie Jackson
Artisan and Designer
HempPatch
509-327-8051
hemppatch@gmail.com
http://www.etsy.com/shop/Ecotopic

Laurie Marshall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laurie Marshall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is essential to avoid corruption. Don’t let the sec go dark

Sent from my iPhone

Laurie McCauley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Laurie McCauley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please stop letting the rich get richer and blacking out access to retail traders. We don't need to be shut out of a profession and allow those large hedge funds, banks and individuals to have insider trading benefits that keep making them richer. We need everyone in America to have the same access.

Laurie McDonald Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Laurie McDonald Financial reporting has ALWAYS been reported quarterly and always should be. Early signs of change cannot be overlooked with regular reporting. Investors need to be informed as soon as possible and twice a year doesn’t cut it! Imagine your spouse announcing you only get fed every other day? You’d survive but getting half of what you used to get wouldn’t make you smarter or happier, might even stress you out. Investors do get stressed out just imagining there’s something they don’t know already. Imagine if they only were fed twice a year the information they need!!! Laurie

---

Laurie McPherson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laurie McPherson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Relaxing reporting requirements to semi-annually is the wrong decision. The SEC has a duty to protect the public, and maximizing sunshine and transparency is an essential part of that. Don't take us backwards into more delay and more secrecy. Keep the requirement for quarterly reporting.

Laurie Moody — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laurie Moody Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Laurie Moody, 67 years old, retired Credit Union executive. I wholeheartedly disagree with only requiring only 2 reporting requires instead of 4! We remember Enron and other instances in the past where insufficient reporting covered up and didn’t give the full story about an organization. We do not want to fly blind again, especially in am Information Age where everything changes in breakneck speed. Keep it at quarterly!

Sent from my iPhone

Laurie Moreau — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laurie Moreau Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is a must for the American people. To do it only twice a year simply allows more manipulation of the markets behind the scenes, rigged to benefit corporations and those with more access to power. I'm Laurie Moreau, Event Planner. Just like any good business person, I want to see reports quarterly and not let it slide for 6 months. Come on guys!! You work for us.

Laurie Patterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laurie Patterson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep It Quarterly

Get Outlook for iOS

Laurie Ricketts — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laurie Ricketts Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop making it easier for corporations to rip-off the American citizen.This way is the right way.That's why we've done it this long.And the only reason anybody would want to change it is because they want to find a way to steal don't dangle that carrot

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Laurie Snedeker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Laurie Snedeker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports.

Last thing we need is more very wealthy investors manipulating the stock market more than it's already been manipulated. Keep the quarterly reporting. Those of us who are relying on what we saved during our working years need to know our money is safe.

Laurie Snedeker, retired

Laurie Stitzer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Laurie Stitzer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear SEC,

Please do not reduce the reporting requirements from 4 to 2 times a year. As a retiree, such reporting is crucial to our income. This only helps businesses, not Americans.

Thank you,

Laurie Stitzer

Sent from my iPhone

---

laurie wolfe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: laurie wolfe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not get rid of quarterly reporting. As it is, there isn't enough transparency. It's time you worked towards truly protecting individuals.

Laurie Wolfe
15 Blossom Heath Road, Williamsville, NY 14221.
Ph: 716-380-7426

---

lauriesold — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: lauriesold Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I need quarterly reporting to make accurate financial decisions to maintain my retirement income. Please do not let them do this. L. Contois. Retired

Sent from my Galaxy

LaVera Hoyes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: LaVera Hoyes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need transparency in this fast paced world. Companies must reveal important information in a timely manner. With AI available there is no excuse to go slow because it’s to much work. The reason why a slow down is necessary doesn’t seem pause able. Please continue with quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

LaVerne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LaVerne Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Some of us need more not less info. Please don’t leave those of us with less time (and Money) in the dark!!

A room without books is like a body without a soul.

Marcus Tullius Cicero

Sent from my iPhone

Lavonia Talbot Farrior — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lavonia Talbot Farrior Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We have a small amount of money invested. I've trusted you to do your job of reporting and overseeing all in the markets. Why would you cut out a report? Consistency is so very important in oversight and transparency. Please keep this in your reporting, oversightTo the Securities and Exchange Commission:

Lavoun Williams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lavoun Williams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the SEC reporting quarterly please and thank you!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

LAWANA SPRATLING — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: LAWANA SPRATLING Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Investors should have transparency regarding their money.
LaWana Spratling
Registered Rep
Series 6, 63, 26

Sent from my iPhone

Lawrason Anne Clement — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lawrason Anne Clement Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly Reporting is essential for preventing fraud

Lawrason Clement
33715

Sent from my iPad

Lawrence Cheetham Retired, CPA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lawrence Cheetham Semi annual reporting is insufficient reporting. At least: quarterly please

---

Lawrence Coor Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lawrence Coor You are urged to retain the 4 times a year reporting requirement. I need to know how the places where I have invested are doing.

Lawrence Creque — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lawrence Creque Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting as is!

Sent from my iPhone

Lawrence Kearney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lawrence Kearney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What? Is it too much to ask a CEO to do their job and report on the health of the company, "transparency"? This is just good practice and expected of every professional at all levels of organization. They don't put it together they just report it.

Lawrence McCauley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lawrence McCauley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You must think people are stupid if you think we will stand for this! You would be sadly mistaken as this is an outrage!

Lawrence McCauley
Fort Worth, Texas

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Lawrence Nail Private Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lawrence Nail I am opposed to moving to twice a year reporting. Investing is ownership. When I own part of a business, I expect and deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Moving to twice a year diminishes transparency and timeliness.

---

lawrence papetti — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: lawrence papetti Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an investor, I'm entitled to know about the standing of the corporations I invest in, when the insiders do. Continue quarterly reporting!

Lawrence Papetti
Geologist
5136 Apollo Lane SW
Lilburn, GA, 30047

Lawrence (Larry) Papetti

Lawrence Zemke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lawrence Zemke I wish to have MORE not less reporting. I am an investor and any company that wants my money and supports less reporting will have less of my money to play with.

Layla Shaar — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Layla Shaar Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a small investor but what I invest is enormous to me! Companies must be required to keep their investors informed. QUARTERLY REPORTS should be required.

Layla Shaar

Layne Cook — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Layne Cook Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting.

Lea Dodd — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lea Dodd Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 stop what's going on! Allowing the Republicans to manipulate the market and another way is criminal. You need to stop it. Y'all need to go to jail.

Leah Bolton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leah Bolton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency! It should be monthly! We have to do it as business owners so we should be holding our government accountable too

Leah Bolton, for SEC District 4
423-723-7882

Sent from Proton Mail for Android.

Leah Hughes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Leah Hughes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports.. .we need transparency!

Leah Jacobs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Leah Jacobs I respectfully oppose any proposal that would permit public companies to reduce the frequency of required reporting from quarterly to semiannual. Timely and regular disclosure is a foundational element of fair, transparent, and efficient markets. Investors are the owners of public companies, and they should receive consistent and meaningful information about the financial condition, performance, and risks of the businesses in which they invest. Reducing the number of required reports would weaken that transparency and leave investors with less insight into companies' operations and strategic direction. I am not persuaded that fewer required reports would meaningfully reduce short-termism. Short-term market behavior is a function of incentives, expectations, and investor reactions—not the simple existence of periodic disclosure. Reducing the availability of information would not encourage better long-term decision-making; rather, it would increase information gaps and reduce accountability. Less frequent reporting could also increase uncertainty and volatility. If investors receive formal updates only twice a year, material developments may accumulate over longer periods, increasing the likelihood of larger surprises and sharper market reactions when information is finally disclosed. That outcome would not benefit individual investors or the broader market. Moreover, in an environment where reporting tools and disclosure processes continue to become more efficient, the case for reducing transparency is especially weak. Public companies benefit from broad access to investor capital, and regular disclosure is one of the core obligations that comes with that access. For these reasons, I urge regulators to preserve the current reporting framework and reject any proposal that would reduce required public company reporting from quarterly to semiannual. Thank you for the opportunity to comment.

Leah Michels — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Leah Michels Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: I oppose any policy that allows corporations to keep information from their investors for the proposed longer time. As we learned in 2008, if they are not being watched, unethical corporations can dig a very deep hole.

Leah Rolan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Leah Rolan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why change what is working? At this time when fraud, greed and more are very prevalent, this would give a blanket of uncertainty and distrust.

Leandra DeBernardo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leandra DeBernardo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reporting to remain

Leandra DeBernardo
NC-SC Broker:RealtorSent from my iPhone

LeAnn Allred — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: LeAnn Allred Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My dad lost everything thanks to the crooks at Enron. He was an honest, blue collar worker (the hardest working man I've ever known) and he was destroyed. I don't want to see other little girls lose their daddy so corporate pigs can become more wealthy. Do the right thing.

Sent from my iPhone

LeAnn Morin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LeAnn Morin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need you to keep quarterly reporting for complete transparency of financial statements.

LeAnn Morin
lkmorin@gmail.com

Leanna Welch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leanna Welch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting, this is essential.

Leanna Welch

Leanne Hamilton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leanne Hamilton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This change will only hurt individuals and help the wealthy to increase their wealth while no one can see. I am retired and depend on information timely.
Leanne Hamilton
Sent from my iPhone

LeAnne Nelson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LeAnne Nelson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Relief for companies? Working Americans need relief! Please keep this quarterly!! Please do NOT allow companies even more time with insulated knowledge leaving working Americans to suffer the financial losses! The federal 'Working Americans Last' approach isn't working!

Lech Z — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lech Z Individusl investor from Poland. Better stay with 4 reports a year.

Lee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please retain quarterly reporting. AI will make fraud easier to hide, as well as the global impacts that can creep in to suppress or enhance net revenues. Total transparency is a MUST in the reporting world for the safety of all investors.

Sent from my iPhone

Lee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a working class citizen and my name shall stay anonymous. My opinion? its below.

Absolutely NOT. QUARTERLY REPORTING?! WHEN IT SHOULD HAVE BEEN A MONTHLY OCCURRENCE TO STOP FRAUD FROM BEING SWEPT UNDER THE BLASTED RUG. THIS IS RIDICULOUS. I WILL RIOT I WILL PROTEST THIS IS JUST ALLOWING MORE AND MORE FRAUD CORRUPTION EMBEZZLEMENT LAUNDERING AND SO MUCH MORE TO ALLOW CORPORATE TO NOT PAY THEIR EMPLOYEES AND THE RIGHTFUL TAXES THAT THEY OWE THE STATE AND GOVERNMENT!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Lee A. Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lee A. Jones In an age of rampid fraud and deception I feel that investor transparency is more important now than ever. Reducing the frequency of earnings reporting from quarterly to semiannual reduces investor transparency and adds significant risk to investors due to increased holding periods before historical performance information is disclosed. I am against this proposal.

Lee Ann Bostedo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lee Ann Bostedo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely keep reporting!!! Company's need to be transparent with the financial reporting of their Company's. They need to continue reporting every three months to keep them acciuntable to the public. If it is changed then only they will keep the benefits of what is going on in their Company. Insider trading and Corruption will be the standard if they are not transparent!!!! Do not allow them to change this. We have a right to have this information!!!!

Sent from my Galaxy

Lee Ann Kingston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lee Ann Kingston Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This proposed hiding of financials completely distorts our ability to invest in the market and distorts and hides malfeasance Lee Ann Kingston

---

Lee ann Robertson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lee ann Robertson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why cut it in half unless you have something to hide. Quit screwing over the working class who keep this country running.

Sent from my iPhone

Lee G_yepitsme — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lee G_yepitsme Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I can't believe the SEC would do this. Why do companies get a break, and we get maybe half a break. This should be stopped! Immediately!
Dawn R Gilbert, Staff Accountant

Lee Jamison — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lee Jamison Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I’m old enough to remember Enron, Savings and Loan fraud, Mortgage loan fraud. I’m also old enough to be relying on retirement investments. Keep them honest. Make the CEOs sign!

Lee Jensen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lee Jensen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lee Jensen

Small business owner

No thanks!

~Lee

Lee Kraus — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lee Kraus don't let this pass

---

Lee McKenna Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lee McKenna I object to any reduction in the reporting requirements. I am in favor of retaining quarterly reporting requirements. Twice a year is not enough. There should be more information provided, not less.

Lee Uniacke MBA Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lee Uniacke Investing is fundamentally about ownership, and owners have a right to regular, transparent communication. - Reducing reporting requirements doesn't teach investors patience; it simply leaves them uninformed. - Less transparency breeds doubt. When information is withheld, the eventual market surprises are bigger, reactions are sharper, and volatility is significantly higher.

Lee Valimont Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lee Valimont Keep Quarterly Requirement of Reporting.

Leesie V — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leesie V Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need full information every three months - NOT twice a year. Do your job and give us the info we need. Do not change the system in place.

LAvR
619.994.2334

Leif Hietala — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leif Hietala Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leif Hietala, handyman. I have to submit explanations for how I use my organization's money constantly. The same goes for those throwing our money around. If I could demand that they submit weekly reports, I would.

You absolutely do NOT have my permission to go to semi-annual reporting. I expect at least quarterly reports.

Leigh Chambley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Leigh Chambley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leigh Chambley, office supervisor for UPS. We need transparency, not another way corporations can screw us over. Do not allow them this "get out of jail free card!

Leigh Chambley

---

leigh Covington — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: leigh Covington Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You will wipe out so many seniors.
Moving them onto wellfare years earlier.

They will not have a chance to recover.

Why would you do create more senior homeless.

Leigh Flack — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Leigh Flack Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep quarterly reports to protect the investors.

Leila Mandel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leila Mandel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is enough fraud and enough corrupt politicians filling their pockets with the people's money. We need MORE transparency, not less. Make your opinion known, before it's too late!

Leila C. Mandel

Leila Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Leila Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting not only helps me with investing decisions, it keeps the investing holding company honest. Am retired and worried that 6 month reporting is too long a time between reports. Leila Miller

---

Leila Saleheen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leila Saleheen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 L. Saleheen, Retired Technical Writer

Just tired of being nickled to death by tariffs, higher prices on everything, especially gas and food, medical costs, etc. by Corporate America. Capitalism is dead, corporate greed is the new norm, and the middle class is slowly dying thanks to this administration. Gilding statues and the Peoples House, building a ballroom all with taxpayers dollars - enough is enough! Corporations and Trump are out of control! They need tough guardrails.

Leilani Young — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leilani Young Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Honesty and oversight are not possible without quarterly reporting Leilani Hagberg love.....ohm

Leisa McNamara Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Leisa McNamara I want to disagree with the semi annual reporting proposal. I feel as a stock owner I need to know on an ongoing and timely basis (quarterly) about the profitability of each company. I need this information to be able to decide if I want to continue to be an owner. Without this knowledge for up to 6 months the profitablity and sustainability of a company can change drastically which would be an unfair advantage to me as an owner.

Leisa Randall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Leisa Randall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leisa Randall is requesting it to still be done quarterly, please and thank you!!!! DO NOT CHANGE the quarterly requirements.

Thank you,
Leisa Randall

Lenley Nickerson CEO Unity Power Consulting Inc — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lenley Nickerson As a business owner I cannot decrease the information of how the business is performing so how can I be okay if as a share holder of other corporations that business information was cut in half. Not less information but more, please.

Lennart Sprankenis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lennart Sprankenis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly reporting needs to stay in effect!

Leo Fusciardi The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Leo Fusciardi Corporations should be held to the same or higher reporting. The cost savings offered by half yearly reporting will be more than eliminated by the onerous nature of each report, increase the amount of wasteful class action lawsuits and limits the “dead time” that the community can react to six months over the normal 3 months. I disagree with this change.

Leo Savas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Leo Savas There is no justifiable reason for reducing the company reporting intervals but there is every reason to provide just in time reporting on a daily basis with the use of AI technology at trivial cost. We are in the 21st century now and going backwards in the service provision to investors is an insult to progress.

Leo St. Amour DIY Retiree managing my retirement portfolio. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Leo St. Amour As a part owner of a corporation I have a financial interest in that business. As a retiree, I now have time to follow the developments. The quarterly earnings report are my prime source of information. If anything, I would like the SEC to ban virtual meetings. I want to know what the people I am asked to elect to the BOD look like, how they present themselves, If they mingle with share owners,etc. The quarterly reports are very useful. Large share owners have access to corporate executives that will not be available to people like myself. If they are reduced to twice a year that will limit my ability to be informed about company matters. I strongly encourage you to keep the quarterly reporting as a requirement. In fact I would ask that a written quarterly report be sent to all share owners as was the custom in years past. Thank for for reading this, and I hope you make the right decision for the many millions of individual investors who also VOTE.

Leon Ford — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Leon Ford Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Sec reporting should remain quarterly. Why should companies want to hide the unfavorable events for six months. The ordinary investor should know what is happening to a company more frequently, no less.

Leon Ford

Leon Reese — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Leon Reese Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports, please.

Sent from my iPhone

Leona Tang — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Leona Tang Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Retail investors should have at least the same info that Congress gets to do their trades. Information is key to our own decision making on investments and not to be reliant on influencers on social media or television.

Leonard Borenstein — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Leonard Borenstein Absolutely not on changing to semi annual reports from quarterly. We stockholders are entitled to as much info as possible…not less.

LEONARD DOBRZYN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: LEONARD DOBRZYN Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If a company is allowed to go dark for 6 months, rest assured they will cook the books, and unload all of their debt-ridden bonds that they are hiding! We are seeing the 1980s all over again. Don't be surprised if people rise up and want a different government! Don't be stupid! Investors have every right to know what the hell is going on all the time. Our motto: In God We Trust others pay cash!

Leonard G Digout — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Leonard G Digout As a retail investor and member of the Motley Fool community, I urge the SEC to reject the proposal for optional semiannual reporting (Form 10-S). Moving from quarterly to semiannual mandates fundamentally harms retail investors by starving us of timely, standardized financial data. Relying on voluntary quarterly earnings releases under Regulation FD is an inadequate substitute for formal GAAP-reviewed 10-Q filings. Please preserve the integrity and transparency of our public markets by maintaining the 50-year standard of mandatory quarterly reporting.

Leonard Ralston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Leonard Ralston As a long time investor, I oppose the proposal to require publicly traded companies to submit reports only twice a year rather than four times a year. The information that is publicly available is the only information which can be legally used in making investment decision. An investor needs to have reasonaly current information about a company that he plans to invest in prior to making his decision; he also needs to have current information available before deciding whether or not to liquidate a position he holds. Six months is way too long to recieve current reports in both instances. In this day when automation fills so many positions and greatly reduces the burden of quarterly reporting it is disingenuous to claim that the burden of quarterly reporting is too heavy. It has never been easier for companies to compile and submit their reports. I urge that this porposal not be adopted.

Leonard Senia — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Leonard Senia Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yes, keep SEC requirement corporations must file quarterly financial reports with it since it promotes transpiracy & is in the public interest! This is vital to investors & general public seeking to invest in shares sold on stock markets!

Leonardo Horton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Leonardo Horton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I don’t believe getting rid of quarterly reporting is helping everyday Americans.

I believe reducing frequency would create blind spots. By waiting six months to see financial health leaves ordinary shareholders vulnerable to sudden, unexpected "tape bombs"—shocks of bad news that can trigger even worse market crashes.
Critics also warn that keeping information non-public for longer stretches opens the door to a higher risk of insider trading and corporate fraud.

Respectfully.

Leonardo Horton

Leonardo Rivera Retired Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Leonardo Rivera I believe public companies, as in listed in US stock exchanges, should continue to report at least quarterly to the public and especially to shareholders, in addition to when requested by the shareholders. Reporting more often might be even better; less often is not advisable at all and not a burden to any company I want to invest in. Thanks. Leo

---

Leopoldo Molina — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leopoldo Molina Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retail investor, I struggle to see how receiving less information could ever be considered an advantage. Public markets work best when all participants have timely access to accurate information. Reducing reporting frequency from quarterly to semiannual filings would increase information gaps and make it harder for ordinary investors to evaluate the companies they own. Large institutions can often rely on alternative data sources, proprietary research, and direct access to management teams, while individual investors depend heavily on public disclosures. If transparency is reduced, the playing field becomes less level. While companies may achieve modest compliance cost savings, those savings should not come at the expense of investor visibility and market transparency. In general, more public information strengthens investor confidence, market efficiency, and accountability; less information does the opposite.

Leopoldo Molina

Sent from my iPhone

---

leopoldo perez the mootley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: leopoldo perez As an investor, I find better to have 4 informs per year than 2 or less.

Les Cohen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Les Cohen Reducing information availability relative to my investments is unnecessary and unfair. To be fair, I want up to date reporting so that I have, at least somewhat, current data as is available to those more closely related to the companies in which I invest.

Les Schmidt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Les Schmidt I am a Canadian that is heavily invested in American stocks. I'm writing to disagree with the proposal to restrict reporting on businesses that I own to twice/year rather than quarterly. Less information will lead to a more volatile market when information eventually becomes available in my opinion. Cost savings for businesses will be minimal given the role of AI in producing reports for many companies. More information is always better in decision-making in my view.

Lesa Blackaby — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lesa Blackaby Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lesa VanHooser, retired
Quarterly reporting maintains more accountability - that's a fact. I realize that, as an individual investor, my accounts are just a pittance in the grand scheme, but as a retiree, my investments are my main source of income so transparency and timely reporting is paramount. Quarterly reporting allows adjustments to be considered and changes made as needed.
Accountability equals responsibility.

Thanks and make it a great day!

Lesa VanHooser

Lesa McFadden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lesa McFadden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting!! People want and deserve MORE transparency NOT less

Sent from my iPhone

Lesa Reisdorf — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lesa Reisdorf Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I'm retired and rely on my investments for income and safety net for upcoming health care into my old age. Quarterly reports keep investment managers more honest and reveal issues with a company sooner than a 6 month period would. Do not make changes to quarterly reports. They are just a small safety net in a very unscrupulous world of greed that could steal billions before anyone even knows it. It's happened in the past and it will happen again if you remove this check and balance that is in place.

Lesa Simpson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lesa Simpson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The amount of corruption in this country is running rapid! Listening the accountability of large corporations leads us open for more corruption and theft. If the system works and there's accountability, why would you change the system to lessen that? I am totally against changing the law to benefit the large corporations. If you do not want to be open and provide clarity with the money every day working, people are investing, then stop taking our money and give us all of our profit, residuals, and interest. Use your own money, invest your own money do your own business and allow us to set up our own system. Give us back all of our money every single penny. If you're not prepared to divest yourselves of the money from your investors then abide by the rules, obey the law and stop asking the SEC to provide ways for you to be corrupt.

LESLEY SHANNON — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LESLEY SHANNON Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Rule S7-2026-15 should not be passed. A six-month period of non-disclosure of financial status is too long, allowing companies to hide fraud, serious financial difficulties, and illegal actions for sufficient time for everything to worsen. That allows executives and others "in the know" more time to act to ensure that the burdens don't fall on them and instead negatively impact the general public.
A good many of those impacted are our older citizens who have no control over where their retirement funds are invested. Even those who have some control are disadvantaged when information vital to their decision-making is withheld.
As a bookkeeper for 30 odd years I can guarantee that financial reports are done monthly (and sometimes even more frequently), quarterly, and annually in any responsible business. It is not a great hardship to have to submit data which you already have to the SEC. It takes a little time and effort, but it's part of their job. It's their responsibility to their investors.
Please do your job and hold them to it.

Sent from my iPhone

Lesley Warrick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lesley Warrick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We have had enough grift and lack of accountability for several lifetimes. Why mess with a good idea? Keep the quarterly reporting. We need something to point to as an example of honest and adult behavior! L. M. Warrick, Retired Executive Director

Lesley M. Warrick

Leslie Belfanti — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Leslie Belfanti Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Leslie Belfanti and I am a recent retiree in OR. Quarterly reporting keeps public companies honest. Since Enron in 2002, every CEO must personally certify their numbers every quarter, with federal prison on the line for signing a lie. Moving to twice a year reporting creates half the jail risk for shady CEOs, but double the risk for yours and my savings. The amount of reporting should be decided by the company and their investors, not the government. I find more information is always better for the consumer/investor than less information. What is it you're trying to hide? The answer is obvious.

Leslie C McIntosh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leslie C McIntosh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You have no right to go dark on us.

Sent from my iPhone

Leslie Campbell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leslie Campbell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why is it necessary to hide information from the people using the service? Accountability is for everyone! Be honest!

Leslie campbell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leslie campbell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why is it necessary to hide information from the people using the service? Accountability is for everyone! Be honest!

Leslie Campbell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Leslie Campbell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep quarterly reporting! Quarterly reporting helps everyday investors like me ensure that our retirement funds last. They protect us from company insiders who would take advantage of less oversight. A six month blackout would cause a volatile market and allow fraud to fester. We've seen this in the past before quarterly reporting was standard. Let's not let history repeat itself!

Sincerely,
Leslie Campbell

Leslie Davis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leslie Davis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the companies we invest in on quarterly reviews. Transparency is necessary for investors to track their money and investments and in being able to respond to market changes.

Leslie Elsemore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leslie Elsemore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting mandatory.

Leslie Elsemore

Leslie Gelander — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Leslie Gelander Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Please do NOT decrease reporting from quarterly to twice a year. As someone who worked in the financial industry, time shows again and again that businesses will always try to find a loop hole. There is no good reason to reduce business financial reporting, except to keep the consumer in the dark, while businesses do shady dealings.

Leslie Jordan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Hey SEC: Save Quarterly Reporting! From: Leslie Jordan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hey SEC: Save Quarterly Reporting!

We need accountability now more than ever. Please do not reduce the quarterly signature requirement.
I don't see how beneficial this in anyway. Stop covering up for people abusing the system and keep full disclosure & accountability keep these businesses somewhat honest.

Thank you,
Leslie J

LESLIE LEACH — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LESLIE LEACH Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The SEC needs to keep accountability quarterly. I'm a Director of Audit and an accredited fraud investigator. We need more oversight and accountability not less!!!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Leslie Limmer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Leslie Limmer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am not wealthy, but I do have much of my retirement nest egg in the stock market. If I (or my investment advisor) can not see what is happening on Wall Street, I will be at a great disadvantage. Please continue the quarterly reports!
Sincerely,
Leslie Limmer

Leslie Neale — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Leslie Neale Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not allow the proposal allowing the elimination of quarterly reports. Keep markets transparent and companies accountable to protect all.

LESLIE SAMON — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: LESLIE SAMON Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don’t do it. More corruption possible. We have enough corruption as it is.
People are entitled to see what is going on in companies. What are they hiding. .
Leslie Samon

Leslie

LESLIE SAMON — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: LESLIE SAMON Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don’t do it. More corruption possible. We have enough corruption as it is.
People are entitled to see what is going on in companies. What are hiding.

Leslie Samon

Leslie

Leslie Silverfine — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Leslie Silverfine Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There should be full disclosure

4 times a year. We shouldn’t backslide.
Leslie Silverfine

Sent from my iPhone

Leslie Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leslie Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly signing. Average Americans are held to strict tax deadlines and laws. These companies must be held to accountability. Signing quarterly helps keep them in line with the threat of prison time.

Unfortunately, greed and corruption must be monitored.

Thank you,
Leslie

Sent from my iPhone

Leslie Stevens — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Leslie Stevens Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly reporting ! PLS

Best, Leslie
Sent from my iPhone

Leslie U Harris Leslie's Weekly, a weekly letter of investment ideas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Leslie U Harris The proposed regulation will result in less disclosure and transparency for investors, not more. Public companies have a fiduciary and legal duty to inform their shareholders of their financial and operating condition. In addition, prospective investors need to have regular and timely information in order to make informed investment decisions. With the speed and convenience of today's technology, it is easy and inexpensive for public companies to convey their information. They should do so on a regular basis that maximizes transparency, not obscures it. The current regime of quarterly reports has done so for decades. DO NOT CHANGE IT!

Leslie Wolf — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Leslie Wolf Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It's what we focus on in our personal finances. I'm retired and quarterly reports inform our personal planning.
Leslie Wolf

Sent from my iPhone

Lester Kauffman The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lester Kauffman I am opposed to allowing companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. It is critical to me to receive timely and transparent communication from businesses that I own a part of. Information and world situations move too quickly these days, and receiving communication twice a year is not enough. If anything, I would argue for more reporting than quarterly, not less. And in the age of AI tools and agents, that would be easy to accomplish. But, at the very minimum, I would favor keeping quarterly reporting in place and not reducing it to only twice yearly.

Lester Thompson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lester Thompson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In the current political environment I do not believe the CEOs can be trusted to behave honorably. Trust but verify!

Sent from my iPhone

Letitia Buchanan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Letitia Buchanan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC,

This is L. Buchanan. I'm retired after working full time for 47 years and I live in Maryland.

This is ridiculous to roll back to 1955 reporting. We have worked too hard and too long to lose what we have built.

Why does the administration want to take us back to the mid 1900s. This is 2026 and we need to keep moving forward / not backwards.

I strongly oppose rule S7-2026-15.

Sent from my iPhone

Letitia Kohler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Letitia Kohler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 STOP THIS INSANITY!!!

Lewis Hibben — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lewis Hibben More transparency in legitimate business dealings is always better than less. Only criminality benefits from opacity!

LH Operating a subsidiary of EON Resources (EONR stock symbol) VP- Operations — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: LH Operating a subsidiary of EON Resources (EONR stock symbol) Subject: Support for File No. S7-2026-15 (Semiannual Reporting) To: Paul S. Atkins,

Chairman, and Commissioners of the SEC Dear Chairman Atkins and Commissioners: I am writing to express my strong support for the Commission's proposed rule amendments to permit public companies to elect semiannual reporting in lieu of quarterly reporting (File No. S7-2026-15). Providing companies with regulatory flexibility to move away from the rigid 90-day reporting cycle will fundamentally improve capital market efficiency and encourage sustainable, long-term value creation. • Combating Destructive Short-Termism: The current quarterly reporting model forces corporate executives to focus excessively on meeting short-term earnings expectations. This constant pressure frequently leads to short-sighted management decisions, such as delaying vital research and development (R&D) or altering operational strategies just to appease Wall Street consensus. A semiannual cadence allows management to focus on strategic execution and business health rather than artificial, 90-day milestones. • Alleviating Regulatory Disincentives for Going Public: The compliance costs and continuous distraction of producing three Form 10-Qs every year have made public listing an increasingly unattractive proposition for growing firms. This has resulted in a shrinking pool of public assets, depriving everyday retail investors of high-growth opportunities. Optionality will restore balance and incentivize companies to list on public exchanges. • Significant Administrative Relief for Smaller Issuers: While massive enterprises have automated compliance systems, the resource drain of quarterly filings represents a severe operational bottleneck for smaller public firms. This rule allows companies to redirect scarce capital from redundant administrative disclosures directly back into productive investments, such as product development and employee retention. • Alignment with Global Best Practices: Prominent international jurisdictions, including major markets in Europe, have successfully utilized semiannual interim frameworks without sacrificing market stability. Embracing this conditional optionality modernizes U.S. capital markets and respects the maturity of companies with strong internal governance. I commend the Commission for pursuing this modernization effort and urge the swift adoption of the proposed rule. Respectfully submitted, Jesse J. Allen

---

Liana Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Liana Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 THE SEC MUST RETAIN QUARTERLY REPORTING! I AM RETIRED AND DEPEND ON THE SMALL INVESTMENTS I HAVE. THANK YOU!
L. SMITH

Lianna Rachel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lianna Rachel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We do not need anymore corruption on capitol hill then there already is and even if there wasn't trust matters more than whatever you might lie about.

Lianne Kagunda — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lianne Kagunda Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Lianne Kagunda. I'm a self employed teacher and performer. I teach Japanese, Mandarin, violin lessons and ESL. I also perform as a violin soloist and with a band. My retirement savings are small. Any corruption or dishonest practices put my ability to ever retire at risk. Less reporting means more opportunities for greed and corruption on the part of executives. We need to hold people accountable and keep them honest, not give them more opportunities to lie, cheat, and steal! Regulations should be stricter, not looser! Our government is supposed to protect all of us, not just the richest of us.

Lianne Navran Kagunda

Lil Red — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lil Red Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop the grift and graft. Hold corporations accountable and auditable. Keep burning down Americans eventually the sparks will find you.

Lila Jo Lisa Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Quarterly From: Lila Jo Lisa Martin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP REQUIRING QUARTERLY REPORTING!!!!
Sent from my iPhone

Lila Myers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lila Myers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Good morning:

Please keep the quarterly reporting in place. This helps keep companies honest and accountable while maintaining transparency to investors. Quarterly reporting helps to build trust in the system and also alerts investors to any concerns rather than finding out six months later. There's no need to change quarterly reporting. Clearly, it has worked for the last 40 plus years.

Thank you,

Lila Myers

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Lilah Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lilah Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
please do not allow a 6 month blackout:
What's at stake: my portfolio, savings, and retirement future a six-month blackout allows fraud to fester and causes volatile stock prices transparency matters in a fair stock market I am not OK with the SEC blindfolding everyday investors

---

Liliana Calva — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Liliana Calva Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Liliana Calva. Surgery scheduler. I would like to be informed quarterly about my investment, since it comes from my hard work . This is what I’m counting on for my retirement so it’s very important for me in case I should need to make any adjustments to know sooner than later.

Sent from my iPhone

Lillian Stewart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Lillian Stewart Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a retired educator. Our income was never commensurate with other professionals and we struggled to make ends meet and still manage to invest for our future survival. We endeavor to leave a legacy for our posterior so they could survive constant inflation, student loans and other obstacles that young people face before they even get started to face LIFE. At age 88 years, I don't want yo see my hard earned investments that I have struggled to build and maintain dwindle to literally nothing to appease bullies who only care about the very rich as they watch the middle and poor become very poor. If the government refuses to look out for the less fortunate, why would we, as taxpayers, support a measure to bankrupt ourselves. I live in Central Virginia. My name is Mary L Stewart and I have been employed since before high school graduation. I grew up on a farm working with my family on the farm raising tobacco, corn, cucumbers and a vegetable garden to feed a family of six. I ardently desire to protect my life's savings and investments. Investing is a risk at best, but why inact policies thst are guaranteed to produce less. I diabolically oppose this measure.

Lily Roblin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lily Roblin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Public trust in the market and in corporations is an all time low, now is not the right time to decrease investor visibility. Maintain quarterly reporting.

Limited — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Limited Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Jo. Household runner. No no no, do not change. Keep quarterly reports. It’s our money and full transparency and frequent accountability matters!! Hidden data - not okay.

Lina Ott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lina Ott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
DO NOT END QUARTERLY REPORTING.

Linda — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Linda Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is a benefit to companies, individuals, and the wider economic health.
This proposed experiment has been tried, and failed at a cost.
Please keep the information flowing!

Get Outlook for iOS

Linda — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We the people have a right to know what we own at all times. I want regular quarterly reporting to cintinue.

Linda Rice, CCM, BSN, RN

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Abrams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Linda Abrams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No semi annual reporting

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Agnello — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Agnello Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Private investors deserve public accountability.

Sent from Gmail Mobile

Linda Aldridge — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda Aldridge I'm writing in opposition to the SemiAnnual Reporting Rule. As investors, we rely on frequent and timely information regarding the companies we choose to support. The small cost savings that semi-annual reporting might realize pale in comparison to the benefits that accrue from transparency. Please protect transparency and quarterly investor access to information by retaining the current quarterly reporting schedule. Thank you.

Linda Alexander — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Linda Alexander Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 With so much fraud being discovered daily, we need to hold these people accountable! Keep the quarterly reporting! Monthly would even be better!

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Anderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I’d say keep it. Companies already have accountants constantly tallying the accounts. It should not be a problem for a CEO/Owner to certify that they are correct. Seems to me, that fraud has more space with less reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Axford — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Axford Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
In this world of fast paced business we need more transparency not less. There's so much fraud and cheating that is already happening we need to make that harder to hide.

Linda Balducci — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Balducci Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting.....more transparency!
Linda Balducci
Retired

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Barsik — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Barsik Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep ths quarterly reporting, as a minimum. In truth, more disclosure and transparency is needed not less. I say that as a former SOX auditor for Fortune 500 companies. Any less and you are not only ensuring increased fraud, not chances of fraud, but essentially incentivizing it. Bad actors would love greater opportunities to fleece investors with much longer lag time to cover the fraud or until investors find out. Even then, chasing recompense is not easy and probably unlikely. Everyday citizens are loaning money to companies when purchasing public stock. They are counting on them to give honest, accurate, timely Financials, as investors. They owe it to them legally, as owners. Giving less info over greater periods, having less accountability is essentially a carte blanche to disrespect shareholders and steal their money without a conscience.

Linda Bilger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Bilger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Never go dark sounds like something the orange man would like. Everything out in the open so the people can see what is happening.
Linda bilger

Linda Biwles — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Biwles Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Protect us.

Linda Blair — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Linda Blair Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change the rules so they can cheat.

Linda Braschayko — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Braschayko Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Don't go backwards. Hold people accountable. ENRON was a disaster. Don't repeat it.

Linda Brown-Burton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Brown-Burton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Linda Burton
This matters to me as a retired citizen on a fixed income I MAKE THE MOST OF MY LIMITED FUNDS FOR MY WELL BEING

Get Outlook for Android

Linda Buck The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda Buck Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Linda Bucklin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Bucklin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am concerned about the proposed change from quarterly reporting to semi-annual. I am opposed to this change as I rely on timely information in order to make financial decisions. The change would also create greater opportunities for fraud and abuse.

Linda Burke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Burke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Linda Burke , hotel clerk, this matters. Our retirement is based on stocks. Quarterly reporting keeps things honest!!

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Butcher Retired school teacher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda Butcher I do not agree with shortening the reporting to twice a year instead of quarterly. With technology today it is not that time consuming to do. Less transparency is never good!!!

Linda Butler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Proposed rule amendments of 10-Q vs.10-S From: Linda Butler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SECers:

Kindly keep quarterly reporting requirements of the 10Q form rather than change to the proposed 10-S which is proposed to be required just twice a year.

I am an investor who is at the elementary level and needs more information about the companies that I am researching rather than less. Please keep the small investor foremost in your minds as you require reporting from companies where common stock is sold. For companies to gather info from their departments to publish is helpful to the average person's understanding of where they stand quarterly as well as a good exercise for them to keep on top of their business results and standards on a more frequent basis than just twice a year.

Thank you for dropping the idea of reporting to the public and government only twice a year. Quarterly reporting is better! It is another reason why foreigners like to invest in America.

Sincerely yours,

Linda Z. Butler
1048 West Baltimore Pike, Apt. L211
Media, PA 19063

Linda Calvelage — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Linda Calvelage Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Remember Enron? They cooked the books on a quarterly basis. Why give any corporation 6 months to hide their theft from the invested? This is invested money, every retirement account in America is depending on honest reporting. 6 months a long time to not know if your money is safe when your whole retirement depends on those investments!

Linda Campbell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Linda Campbell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop the change from quarterly. Do not do that. Linda Campbell, retired.

Linda Childress — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda Childress I writing to share my opinion and urge the committee to NOT reduce reporting to semi annually. We investors depend on this information to ensure that: 1)our investments are secure, 2) we hold companies to a high standard, & 3) we are made aware in a timely fashion of changes in the business. Quarterly reporting allows all of these. Reducing the reporting period only helps the company. By the time we receive needed information it may be too late & our finances have suffered. This administration is screwing up so many things that are helpful. Don't let this be another one.

Linda Chilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Chilson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Investors deserve nothing less than transparency regarding their investments. Keep the quarterly reporting mandatory. We need more, not less, information when picking stocks.

J and L Chilson

Linda Clew — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Clew Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a manager of a small business I find this change a deceptive way of avoiding accountability to the public. This is not good practice!
Linda Clew
Michigan US

Linda Copenhagen CPA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda Copenhagen As an inventory, I rely on timely information about the companies I invest in or consider investing in. For my purposes quarterly reporting is essential to understand company trajectory and seasonal trends. I urge you to keep the 4 times a year reporting requirements.

Linda Cozell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Cozell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don’t change a thing. They need accountability.

Linda Curran — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Curran Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would you ever consider such? Makes no sense at all. Continue as you require now requiring quarterly reports from companies.
Sincerely, Lin Curran

Linda Eller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Eller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What is the benefit to the people to change from quarterly reporting? Why is this administration so desperate to take away so many things from the people? We see what you're doing. Please keep reporting to quarterly so that I don't lose money or opportunities.

Linda T Eller
Unemployed
Fayetteville, GA

Linda F — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda F Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Ending required quarterly reports to investors is inviting fraud. I am appalled that this is even being considered. An investor should be informed of there investments on a quarterly basis so that they maybe apprised as to how there investments are going. Take this idea off the table it is not a good idea and will allow bad actors to rip off investors.

---

linda ferreira — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: linda ferreira Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is what has ALWAYS BEEN DONE in my lifetime and should be continued. Reporting on a six month schedule reduces the reliability of the report!!! Linda Ferreira, retired Purchasing Manager

---

LINDA FIRTH — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LINDA FIRTH Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Linda J Firth-Hawkins Recently retired banking risk officer; concerned about lack of transparency if reporting is reduced. Corporations need to remain accountable with appropriate controls to ensure accurate quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Foster — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Foster Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Linda Foster, Retired Medical Assistant. Keep the report quarterly. I have seen what happens when we relax our standards. I worked too hard, and invested with care, to allow this action to change the frequency of investment information we deserve. I would be fine with an easier to read summary.

Linda Freeman — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Freeman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To much fraud, lying, cheating, insider trading now. It will only get worse if allowed to be hidden longer. Please do not support this.

Linda Frost — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Frost Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly reports!

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Garcia — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Garcia Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
As an independent government agency you work for us, the American people. Your primary purpose is to protect investors, enforce federal securities laws, and regulate the nation's stock markets and financial industry.
As such, it's critical you ensure that companies/CEOs continue to report their financials quarterly. Reporting helps keep CEOs honest (as honest as possible) and it gives the public and investors information to make informed decisions. Without quarterly reporting we are left in the dark and fraud is more likely to fester and cause volatile stock prices. We need this information to secure our investments. If you truly want a fair market, company information has to be available and transparent quarterly. Thank you.

Linda garcia None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda garcia Cannot support

---

Linda Goldstein — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Goldstein Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 keep it transparent and quarterly

Sent from my iPhone

Linda H — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda H Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why, making things easier on them only adds fuel to the socialist fire, who does it worked for now, we the people, who benefits with the change, not we the people, No, don't do it.

Get Outlook for Android

---

linda halbritter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: linda halbritter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly Reporting!
It helps to keep people honest!
Linda Halbritter Retired Legal Assistant

Linda Halstead — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Halstead Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Why? Why do you want to mess with what works? I swear if this is for Trumps pockets 🙄 We the AMERICANS will make sure you are investigated and hold you accountable for fraud.
I am on SS so what little investments I have will help. I want to know every quarter how my numbers are doing! Not how much Trump pockets are full enough!

Linda Harbin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Harbin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Linda J. Harbin, retired I personally feel that quarterly reporting is very important to the individual investor. Every six months or bi-annually seems to benefit executives, lawyers, and institutional investors who will still know day to day how the business is doing.

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Harris Retired financial advisor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda Harris I am highly opposed to limiting company information to twice a year. Good communication and timely information is essential to making good decisions. Please do not take away this privilege.

Linda Haynes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Haynes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a retired person who relies on my portfolio. Citizens United has already given corporations too much power! Between the constant threats of Social Security “Reform”, tax breaks for the 1%, and this proposal to reduce transparency, this would be the third prong in this administration’s strategy to pillage America and it’s citizens! Ordinary citizens will be left holding the bag while the corporate owner class walks away with even more money, and power. Please keep quarterly reporting as the standard for transparency. Thank you, Linda Haynes, American Citizen

Sent from my iPad

Linda Heil — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Heil Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Linda Heil. Retired. We demand honesty, integrity and fairness. Nothing more. Be good to your fellow American!

Get Outlook for iOS

Linda Holcomb — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda Holcomb Public companies should continue to report their financial statements on a quarterly schedule. They currently do so. Investors, creditors, customers and others need to know the current financial health of those with whom we do business. Too many things can change dramatically in six months time.

Linda Hollimon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Hollimon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports or watch fans go dark! I love my SEC but not enough to hurt myself and family.

Sent from my iPad

Linda J Hoff Retiree — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda J Hoff Transparency in financial transactions is a cornerstone of financial accountability. When requirements are ‘loosened’ trouble happens. For long-term security of our investment portfolios and proof of enterprise health, we need a system that expects and requires accurate and ethical accounting practices.

Linda Jamison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Jamison Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It's time to stop the people in government from becoming rich off of this while everyone else is in the dark! This is another way to fraud the people and steal from Americans! Stop this corruption NOW! Keep it the way it is! We have had enough of the rich in our government getting richer and this just adds to it while making Americans loose money!

Linda Jett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Jett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There's a very good reason quarterly was put in place. Trump is removing guardrails. Corruption in rampid!

Linda Jett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Jett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There's a very good reason quarterly was put in place. Most all of the guardrails. Corruption in rampid!

Linda Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. the trust of business and government are already low, accountability can help keep that trust

Linda Johnson
Steamboat Springs, CO

Linda Kargol — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Kargol Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep the quarterly reports. No eed to change unless you want less transparency

---

Linda Kerr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Kerr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Anything lessening oversight is rarely to the benefit of hard-working Americans. My husband spent 42 years as a railroad conductor-called to work any time of the day or night and returning the same way. He endured the hard work, and crummy schedule knowing one day he would receive a fair pension-comprised of Norfolk Southern stock. These earnings could be threatened by lack of oversight.

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Keyes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Keyes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I believe quarterly reporting is crucial to transparency and accurate information should be available as frequently as possible . I see no legitimate reason to lessen reporting. It enables businesses to forecast, adjust and make key decisions on timely information .

Linda Keyes
Sales Executive , Technology

Linda Keyes

Linda L — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda L Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an elder citizen of the US, changing the regulations on reporting fiscal wellness to six months is a dangerous path to take as the quarterly earnings are the best way to measure success and predictability of the business behaviors of publicly traded companies. Linda S Lane.

Linda L Moore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda L Moore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the signing quarterly. It keeps everything more honest.

Linda

Linda Lawrence — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Lawrence Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a small investor also retired this sounds alike a horrible idea and very dishonest too much fraud grows in darkness we need transparency to protect our future

---

Linda Lawson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Lawson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep ir quarterly.

We have enough loopholes in our reporting system. Let's have more transparency, not less.

I'm an investor and I believe I'm entitled to know the details.
Linda Lawson, US Citizen
Knoxville TN

Linda Legeza — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Linda Legeza Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Of all times, NOW is when we need accountability more than ever!
Do not change the reporting frequency!
Linda Legeza
From Cleveland Ohio

Linda Lemmens accountant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda Lemmens I think quarterly reporting is important and necessary. In this day and age of computers, there is no reason not to do so. I don't have to say that these types of things are not labor intensive when it comes to getting it out to the people who are interested. It's called an email list!!!! I suspect that there is somebody who would like less information getting out, less frequently. Stop cutting back on things like this! Thank you.

Linda Levans — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Levans Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly is already barely enough.

Linda Liers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Linda Liers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't let big money talk and whin. Keep the SEC quarterly reporting

---

Linda Lodik — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Lodik Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KeTo the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep the quarterly reporting.

Linda M. Queen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda M. Queen As a retail investor, I am a part owner of the business that I own shares of, and I therefore believe I need to be kept informed on a regular basis by quarterly reports. Reducing to twice a year from four times is less transparency. I am against doing this. Please leave it alone. Thanks.

Linda Manuel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Manuel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Hiding facts doesn't change them but can protect wrong doing.

Linda Mareel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Linda Mareel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports on my $$$. DoNot change anything. I need to know how hard you are working for me to pay my bills and survive. We need to see quartile reports.

Sent from my iPhone

Linda McCarter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda McCarter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a must to have quarterly reporting! This keep these companies from hiding disinformation from the public and shareholders! Do not give them this power!! It will be abused by them and will hurt the shareholders and the American people! Stop the madness and stop changing the narrative!! OMG!!

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports. 6 months is not acceptable for the general public

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Nelson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Nelson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Ronald E Nelson Retired Quarterly is barely enough for reporting.
I would prefer monthly.
Therefore, I am not in favor of a biannual report cycle.
Thank you in advance for allowing my opinion on this subject.

Linda Olson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Olson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please rethink your proposal to end quarterly reporting. Everyday investors need more transparency, not less. Your plan will help cheaters cheat and make average Americans at risk for losing their retirement.
Linda Olson

Linda Osborn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Osborn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Linda Osborn. Retired. Fraud and back door dealings are running rampant. I know it’s probably a boon to companies to streamline their reporting but easier to keep track of anything that isn’t right.

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Ostrander — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda Ostrander Do not change to semiannual reporting. More information is better information.

Linda Perry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Linda Perry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not roll back the reporting requirements! I am investing my money in a company I deserve current and regular information to make decisions. Less information is not the answer just a cover for CEOs.

Linda perry

Linda Peters — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Peters Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange CommissionIn the interest of transparency keep the quarterly reporting in place.
Concerned Citizen,
Linda Peters

Linda Pugh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Pugh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Linda Pugh - Retired Giving investors less information on their investments makes no logical sense unless companies are trying to cheat investors and line the pockets of the CEOs and the SEC.

Linda Reed — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Reed Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 WE DEMAND QUARTERLY REPORTING!!!!!!
SO THEY CAN'T ROYALLY SCREW US!!!!!
WE DEMAND IT!!!!!!

Linda Rinehart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Rinehart Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I want you to stop taking advantage of We The People. There is no reason that I can see that quarterly if not monthly is a problem. The problem is you want to rob us blind. I myself is sick of watching this crap all these years.

Linda Rivera — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Rivera Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No just plain No! Stop finding ways to ripoff consumers or we will stop consuming American goods period!

---

linda robbins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: linda robbins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In the past there was an expectation of honesty in our country, many of us were totally shocked at what happened at ENRON. Our self imposed innocence was thrown out the door. It is important to make sure that no one in our country is hurt by greedy lying crooks. I definitely agree that the CEO's need to continue their quarterly reporting. We don't need another ENRON mess.
Linda Robbins
435 Ash St S,
Kimberly
,ID 83341.
Retired
Email :
fatladysingsone @yahoo.com

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Linda Ross — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Ross Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change the quarterly to annually. That's suicide financially!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Linda Rowan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Rowan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What would be the purpose of this change? It seems to me it's just another way to commit fraud!

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Schaffee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Schaffee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly! I remember, & Don't need another Enron. Not we have convicted felon for Prez! CEO work for their companies profit. American People need this to be quarterly ❣

Linda schaffer Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Linda schaffer Keep quarterly! I remember, & Don't need another Enron. Not we have convicted felon for Prez! CEO work for their companies profit. American People need this to be quarterly ❣

Linda Schnupp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Schnupp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This idea is ridiculous! Corporate America is not immune to reasonable expectations scrutiny in a manner which gives them more opportunity to hide the truth!

Sent from my iPad

Linda Schwartz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Schwartz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a small investor. I want my company to which i have invested my life savings held accountable. As one employee said over the phone to me, if we could get away with it we probably would.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Linda Seaborn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Seaborn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The accountability of this reporting is jmportant to me, please do not reduce the frequency.

Linda Sellew — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Sellew Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 L. Sellew. Ct. KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING...what you want to do did NOT protect investors in the past

---

Linda Sexton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Sexton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We must hold businesses to quarterly financial reports! Six month is too long to wait for the checks and balances to be released! It would be impossible to backtrack six months and get corrections made for that long a time period. There is NO reason to change the reporting process!

"Take a vacation every day, even if it's going outside and feeling the grass between you toes."

LINDA STARK — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LINDA STARK Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep eyes on. We have had problems before.

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Steely — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Steely Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep demanding quarterly reports

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Stickney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Linda Stickney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why are we allowing this corruption? We the people need to know. We are struggling enough while companies are swendling us blind. The division between have n have nots is so wide, ppl are falling thru the cracks..we all need to know what these companies are doing. Please look out for Americans, not just the wealthy. TY

Get Outlook for Android

Linda Stokas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Stokas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It's time to stop & consider those who actually make this country function; and it's not rich donors! Stop catering to the 1% and be a part of the solution. It's time to get back to the business of sharing the wealth. This will not have any significant effect on the billionaires but it could help so many working class Americans trying to sustain a liveable existence. Don't make everything a private playground for the elite. EVERYONE deserves a piece of the American Pie!

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Stowell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Stowell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly and stay transparent.

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Theriault — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Theriault Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly, Please!!!

Sent from my iPhone

---

linda tippett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: linda tippett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
You absolutely know this move will only serve to benefit the 'insiders' despite how much lipstick you put on the pig.
Shame on you for shaming your ancestors who worked honestly to make this country prosper for all.

Linda Valentine — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Valentine Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is entirely unacceptable to lengthen reporting times. I am a retiree. First government let companies out of pension obligations and gave an educationally unprepared public responsible for saving and investing for retirement. As a result, seniors are retiring in poverty but investment companies got richer. My income is dependent on knowing what's going on in the market and being able to react to it. Now you want to take that away. For what purpose? US companies are already supported by taxpayers with their preferential tax treatment.

We’re told they need more while executive income strategies make billionaires as wage growth for the people who do the work is not keeping up with inflation. Are you supporting corruption? You’d have to be pretty dense to think this will not result in corruption, failed companies and lost jobs, but the rich will get richer as they loot companies and abscond before the damage is revealed.

This is still supposed to be a nation of the people, all the people, not just the rich ones. Shame! Do not do this. If you do, I hope the next administration will find a way to find SEC leadership personally accountable.

Linda Valentine
Wilson, NC

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Weaver — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Weaver Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Linda Rossow. RN. EXTREMELY ESSENTIAL FOR EVERYONE TO KNOW WHAT IS GOING ON WITH THESE Companies.

Linda Weaver — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Linda Weaver Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 LINDA ROSSOW. RN. KEEP THE COMPANIES HONEST TO THE PEOPLE. REPORT QUARTERLY!!

Linda Whitman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Whitman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting helps the smaller companies remain competitive and even remain in business if they base any of their long range decisions on the market. What they don’t have is large cushions of capital to recover from market losses, so as much information as often as possible is essential for success and survival.

Sent from my iPhone

Linda Wood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linda Wood Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting should remain mandatory for all investors.
PERIOD!

Get Outlook for iOS

Linda Zawislak — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Linda Zawislak Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
It is imperative that you DO NOT change reporting to quarterly. The reason it was changed from quarterly to monthly is because companies were hiding information and it took too long for investors to be able to react. There is no reason to make this change, unless you're hiding something.

Lindsey Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lindsey Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting as a contract worker on 1099. It’s incredibly valuable for my business.

Sent from my iPhone

---

linhoadley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: linhoadley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not let this happen. Transparency, whether good or bad, is the best route. Keep ALL investors informed.

Linda Hoadley
Retired Public School Employee

Sent from my Galaxy

Linley K Baker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linley K Baker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting keeps companies transparent and on track

Get Outlook for iOS

Linnae Boyer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Linnae Boyer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This sounds like a wonderful way to cover up corruption. This policy does NOT benefit my family, my community, city, state . .the people. It does not benefit the common man. We don't want this shade pulled down on the companies we invest in.

Linnae Boyer
614.749.4302

Lionel & Bronwyn Coleman N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lionel & Bronwyn Coleman Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners.

Lisa B Duty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisa B Duty As an individual, I find it appalling that the reporting requirement could be cut in half. Given the current climate with all the corruption, deception and fraud does not produce a level of relief or comfort regarding the current reporting requirement so I can personally state that less reporting would only increase problems for all investors. We already allow insider trading for Congress (?!) so NO I would vote against reducing the reporting requirement.

Lisa Bayan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Bayan We need transparency through open books. Bi annual reporting is not sufficient. Quarterly reporting has worked well for decades. We urge you to keep it

---

Lisa Benedetti — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lisa Benedetti Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need more transparancy,, not less. With the wealthiest people and companies getting richer due to administrative policies becoming looser, and their seemingly lack of morals and integrity, we need to tighten regulations and accountability. Why go backward in reporting? In this age of technology reporting should be easier, and the threat of fraud and corruption as well! The majority of investors are not the wealthiest, so their money should be safeguarded by stricter regulations, not weakened ones that may only benefit the few. Thank you for keeping current regulations.

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Lisa Braun — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Braun I believe that it is responsible and necessary for Companies to report at a minimum 4 times per year for transparency and accountability. I would like to hope that Companies would already have ready access to the information they are required to report if they are responsibly managing the company. Sharing this information should therefore not be an onerous task. As a shareholder I would expect to be kept up-to-date with the health and wellbeing of my investment so that I can make rational, informed decisions.

Lisa Brewer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lisa Brewer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yes to Quarterly reporting

Sent from my iPhone

Lisa Bromage — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Bromage Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Our current financial condition is fragile enough without publicly held companies having the ability to cover up losses. The common American, that is the backbone of this country, needs to have access to fair reporting on a quarterly basis to make more informed decisions about their own investments. It's the only "inside" we have. This would be a very unfair pain to put upon us.

Lisa Broussard Yifrach — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lisa Broussard Yifrach Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What is going on?! Six months going dark, crypto, SpaceX, my God this is a post apocalypse nightmare not a professional investment platform.

Please do not do this or consider additional changes at this time! We want continuity in the markets and in all investment and financial areas.

Thank you,

Lisa Broussard Yifrach
713-884-0858

LISA BUTLER — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LISA BUTLER Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Retired University Program Director-The SEC's job is to protect the investor, not to make it easier for companies. This sounds like our conman-president has his hands in this!

Lisa Cameron — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Cameron Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lisa Cameron retired. Accountability

Please do not change to less reporting for corporations! We have little reason to trust they are being trustworthy.

Lisa G. Cameron

Lisa Caswell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Caswell I request that companies continue to be required to submit reports to investors four times a year. Publicly owned companies should be required to provide transparent information to their investors regularly. Reducing this to twice a year pushes investors out of understanding what is regularly occurring. With advances in technology being utilized regularly at large companies, these reports can be provided with little additional cost. Continue to protect ordinary investors. It is our money these companies rely on.

Lisa Chai — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Chai Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is going to be a disaster for America. Trump is behind this and needs to be stopped

Sent from my iPhone

Lisa Crain — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Crain Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

We need, as owners, need to be made aware of what's happening in a timely matter. The market has become too volatile to have a longer reporting schedule.

Lisa Decker Certified Divorce Financial Analyst — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Decker At its core, investing represents ownership. Shareholders are owners of the companies in which they invest, and owners deserve timely, transparent, and consistent communication regarding the businesses they own. Reducing reporting requirements would weaken the flow of information between public companies and their shareholders, undermining an important principle of corporate accountability. Proponents of reduced reporting requirements argue that fewer filings would lower compliance costs and lessen pressure on management to focus on short-term results. However, the cost-saving rationale is less compelling in an era of advanced technology, automation, and artificial intelligence, all of which have made the preparation and dissemination of disclosures more efficient than ever before. The argument that less frequent reporting would reduce short-termism is also unpersuasive. Short-term market behavior is driven by how investors and market participants interpret and react to information, not by the mere existence of that information. Reducing the frequency of disclosures does not make investors more patient; it simply leaves them less informed. What is clear is that reducing the amount of information available to shareholders does not improve their ability to make informed investment decisions. Transparency is a cornerstone of healthy capital markets. Investors rely on regular disclosures to evaluate company performance, assess risks, and allocate capital efficiently. To illustrate, consider any business owner who receives updates from management only twice a year instead of quarterly. The business would continue operating every day, but the owner would have significantly less insight into its performance, challenges, and opportunities. Public companies are no different. Operations continue daily, customers are gained and lost, products are launched, and strategic initiatives either succeed or fail. Under a reduced reporting framework, shareholders would receive fewer official updates about these developments despite remaining the owners of the business. For these reasons, I believe the SEC should preserve existing reporting requirements and continue to prioritize transparency, accountability, and the timely disclosure of material information to investors.

Lisa Edgeson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Edgeson I urge you to leave quarterly reporting requirements in place. As an investor nearing retirement it is critical to have timely, transparent financial reporting. I strongly disagree with reduced reporting timeliness. Thank you.

Lisa Eli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Eli Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Please keep quarterly reporting. I am retired and entirely dependent on our retirement savings. This change will put our investments in danger. I see no upside to this. I hope you consider the voices of every day people such as myself.

Lisa Ellis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Ellis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
please remember the reason these regulwere enacted in the first place!!
we can not afford another Eron (and company) financial disaster!!
keep companies accountable quarterly!!!
thank you
Lisa Ellis

Lisa Filippi — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Filippi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not implement a policy that will prevent Americans from fully understanding the status of major entities that they might be invesitnng in, and that they are purchasing goods from. It will only help the billionaires further, and hurt the average American. It is the average Americans that are supporting these entities! 'We the People'. Keep the quarterly reporting!

Lisa Frakes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lisa Frakes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lisa Frakes. Our Government is already corrupt enough with giving them more leverage and time to steal more from Americans

Sent from my iPhone

Lisa Gallin Intertek — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Gallin Intertek Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lisa Gallin, Contracts Manager. We need to keep corporations accountable. Keep reporting as it is.

Regards,

Lisa Gallin
Manager - Contracts & Insurance
Building & Contruction

Cell. 949.584.3467
lisa.gallin@intertek.com
Caldwell, ID. 83607

Total Quality. Assured. CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE This email may contain confidential or privileged information, if you are not the intended recipient, or the person responsible for delivering the message to the intended recipient then please notify us by return email immediately. Should you have received this email in error then you should not copy this for any purpose nor disclose its contents to any other person.
http://www.intertek.com

Lisa Greene — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Greene Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep reporting as it is. We have a right to know!

Lisa Greene
Venus, FL 33960

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Lisa Hammermeister — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Hammermeister Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Let the fox guard the henhouse. Quarterly reporting has worked fine. Like we trust CEO's that rob us blind. Make it easier to cheat and keep us in the dark. Is this crooked Trump's idea?

Lisa Hanrahan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Hanrahan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My husband and I are retired and dependent upon our investments. Keeping tabs on the companies in which we invest is important for our well being. Timely reports 4x a year should be mandatory- it’s been that way for years, why change it now? Don’t let companies be lazy in their reporting and keeping information from their investors. NO to six month reports!

Lisa Hanrahan

Lisa Heikes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Heikes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting: they cheat us less

---

Lisa Hendrickson N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Hendrickson Dear Sir/Madam, The SEC's proposal to limit the frequency of financial reporting of publicly traded companies, from quarterly to semiannual, leaves citizens who invest in these firms with inadequate financial information with which to make decisions regarding their financial stability. Certainly, businesses would not be able to operate responsibly with such limited fiscal information! Quarterly digital reports are routinely prepared by publicly traded firms, so the SEC's rationale of reducing corporate expenses is a poor one that cannot be substantiated with the common method of automated report production. this SEC proposal is merely a method of withholding important financial information from public investors and I respectfully request that the SEC require that the standard method of quarterly reporting of financial information be continued by publicly traded firms so that public investors can make informed decisions about their investments. Thank you for allowing me to comment on this important matter. Sincerely, Lisa Hendrickson

---

Lisa Honn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Honn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Every day Americans have worked hard to invest in our futures. Now is not the time limit transparency. Good governance dictates accountability and information. The SEC needs to do better to protect the average, every day investor and quit holding the water for corporations and the wealthy.

Lisa Hoye — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Hoye Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lisa.....retired The small amount saved in accounting and filing by companies does not out way the possible catatrosphic losses of people, that have the right to know where their money is invested or could be invested.

Lisa Johnson None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Johnson Proposed semi-annual reporting is not okay!!!! At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. People are tired of being taken advantage of at every single turn. Quit playing games and make these businesses accountable by not allowing fewer reports.

Lisa Kronus — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Kronus Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep everything as is. Who are you to hide our money?

NO
Lisa born in the USA

Unmonitored account text me

Lisa L. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lisa L. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Many of you have clearly displayed dishonesty, fraud, corruption, and continued willingness to do it again and again. Shame on you for ruining it for the honest ones. Do you REALLY think anyone should hand the wolves the keys to the barn ? Not a chance, given the fact that not all of you are honorable. Unethical people obviously require MORE monitoring, not less. So, YES to quarterlies. Suck it up. You made that mess, now you have to prove otherwise.
We suggest ethics and morality lectures and full training on the inside of your businesses. The prime examples of run away corruption and greed are now in the White (trash) House.
Turning this Country around will require ALL OF US to be thoroughly honest and come together to create a new, respectful and respected America . It starts with each one of us.

Sent from my iPhone

Lisa Lesniak — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Lesniak Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is important for all of us to hold corporations to their duties before they break them and cover up their messes. This protects our economy for everyone. Do not allow this rule to go through and enable more corporate corruption. It costs all taxpayers and stockholders in the end for such corporate greed this rule would enable.

Lisa Lesniak
214-497-7899
Sent from my iPhone

Lisa Littrell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lisa Littrell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We cannot give big corporations more time to cook the books in their favor. My husband worked really hard for Enron and we were lied to as they were failing being told the stock was climbing. We lost everything we invested which set a course to losing our home of 28 years. Now in our 70's I am back at work just to pay for Insurance.

Sent from my iPhone

Lisa Loucks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Loucks Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The people demand quarterly reporting! As an investor it's important to have companies document their losses and gains. With volatile markets, investors need the right to hold or sell an investment based on performance.

Sent from my iPhone

Lisa Mumpton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Mumpton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an individual preparing for retirement with multiple varied investments , I require systems in place that maintain the highest standards in our financial systems and securities and investments. As an individual who does remember some of the scandalous and criminal financial escapades even within the last 40 years , I am keenly aware that for the thousands of skilled trained educated financial investors who follow the spirit and letter of the law the are always a few with few skills or scruples.
Consumers / Investors deserve at least quartet reporting from the organizations with whom they have entrusted their life savings and retirement.
Thank you.
Sincerely
Lisa Mumpton
Cultural Services Manager
City of Aurora

Sent from my iPhone

Lisa Nalewak — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Nalewak Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Besides the fact that corporations are already enjoying far too much leniency, financial support and tax perks from both the federal and state governments, a further reduction in accountability into their actions is hubris and stupidity at the highest, most nepotistic form when it comes to reigning in harmful, predatory and self-serving actions against the public and individual minor shareholders. The world is not just about profits, and anyone with a semi-functioning moral compass - and a half-intact spine - will understand that. This is why going to six months is ridiculous and a threat to not only the common public good of our country, but to the functioning of other businesses that serve the greater good. And remember, the function of a government is not to enrich the few, or operate as a for profit business, it is to SERVE the people that it's elected officials serve at the WILL OF THOSE PEOPLE.

"As a childhood cancer nonprofit, we rely on transparent and timely quarterly reporting to help assess the trajectory, stability, and scientific progress of biopharma companies developing promising therapies or contributing to the development of treatment.

Without this information, we would have misplaced donations, and wasted time that kids with cancer don't have.

There's more than just money on the line."
EMILY M.
Co-founder of a pediatric cancer non-profit

Sent from my iPhone

Lisa Olson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Olson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lisa, retired person, I need to know what's happening with my investments on a QUARTER basis

Sent from my iPhone

Lisa Olson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Olson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is absolutely imperative that quarterly reports continue so that the public can make informed financial decisions. Going dark for 6 months at a time puts people's financial lives at risk and will result in less transparency. I can't plan my work load as a small business owner if I don't know what's happening with my investments.

Lisa Olson, Clinical Counseling Services

Lisa Palser retired and actively investing part of my retirement funds — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Palser i do not want my sources of company information to be cut in half. i may not own very much of a company through my stocks, but i deserve to be fully informed! i understand that there has been the 'defense' of this position is to reduce costs -- but with so much that is automated and AI supporting the process, i don't think the savings is worth the reduction to me of official information from the companies I own a part of, or are thinking of investing in. Please do NOT approve cutting my official sources of information in half.

Lisa Peddy Accredited Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Peddy Quarterly reporting is the touchstone of communication for active investors and needs to be maintained to keep trust and integrity in our current financial and disclosure processes. 6 months is an extremely long time frame to go without a financial update, and especially in current times when the pace of advancement is so fast. To change to 6 months would be a travesty to investors and would have a ripple effect on the markets.

Lisa Pike — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Pike Investing is ownership and we deserve regular, transparent communication. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners creating a loss of confidence in a company and investing in it.

Lisa Ross — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Ross Keep filings quarterly. 6 months is too long lisa rusnak — Jun 23, 2026

---

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: lisa rusnak Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the reporting quarterly. There are so many avenues to avoid scrutiny; let’s not eliminate another one. The public deserves to know accountability is happening at least in one area.
If you are honest, it shouldn’t be a problem.
Lisa
Scan Coordinator

Lisa Sonneborn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Sonneborn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly reporting needs to continue. Companies need to be held accountable to shareholders.

Lisa Stark — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lisa Stark Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This keeps people accountable!

Lisa Stephenson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lisa Stephenson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely not!

Nothing about this makes sense.

Sent from my iPad

Lisa Volturi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lisa Volturi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm old enough to remember the Enron scandal. Companies only do what they are required to do. I will be hesitant to keep investing if they aren't required to show accountability quarterly.

Lisa Weber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lisa Weber Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the SEC reporting every 3 months. We need more transparency in our US Government's institutions in 2026, not less. Holding people with all of the power in the financial world to a high standard is a requirement the people have a right to do. Keep our powerful institutions and the people that run them accountable!

---

lisa weigold — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: lisa weigold Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly!!! We've had enough of companies like Enron, and executives that fleece the stockholders. Why would you want to change that? It's our investment!

Sent from my iPhone

LISA WHITING — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LISA WHITING Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You need to keep the accountability at at least the level that bit is now. Cutting it down will allow more frauds and hurt the investors. Maybe y name is Lisa Whiting and I need my portfolio to be secure! I want to see what the companies are doing in order to protect my investments.

Sent from my iPhone

Lisa Wood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lisa Wood Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I believe the millionaires and billionaires already have more than enough access to insider information (legal or not) and loopholes through which they can get an unfair advantage over the rest of us already. Public corporations already have enough ways to avoid paying their fair share in taxes and avoid paying employees a living wage. Why on Earth would anyone be considering handing these guys the opportunity to offer less transparency to average investors and savings on producing public financial documentation by 50%? Are you planning on selling us on trickle down economics again? There is absolutely no good reason for investors in public companies to have LESS information than they already have. Wall Street operates on quarterly earnings reports. That will continue, but that information will only be available to the professionals. The regular folk just trying to get a crumb of the American Dream will be left in the dark twice as long as others. Six months is far too long for investors/regulators/corporations to go without financial reporting. I'm beginning to think the people in charge are TRYING to wreck this country for everyone except the oligarchy and select foreign investors with whom someone has some arrangement with. The current quarterly requirements are doing their job. Corporate America should be glad they're not required monthly. We certainly have the technology to make that happen relatively easily now. The SEC's job is oversight. The SEC should be doing more of it, and making more information available to investors; not less.

Thank you for your attention to and consideration of this message.

Lisa Wood
St. Augustine, FL

---

lise triggs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: lise triggs Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Protect American personal investors. Not just corporate interests.

Lise Triggs

Sent from my iPhone

Liselle McFletcher The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Liselle McFletcher This proposal is not in the best interests of the investors/owners and only benefits the companies who are pushing it. Under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. What isn’t debatable with this issue is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners.

Lisette Barnes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lisette Barnes As an owner of securities I do not like the idea of only semi-annual public reporting vs quarterly.

Lisi Brown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lisi Brown Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We all know why certain people want this to happen. When will the oligarch takeover of our country be stopped???🤬

Liz Brnic — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Liz Brnic Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. It not ethical to hold reporting information for six months. I work in the medical laboratory field. What would happen if we decided to delay reporting your medical laboratory test results?

Liz Brnic

Liz Chadwell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Liz Chadwell I do NOT support this proposed change in legislation. A quarterly report is needed to keep investors apprised of company performance. Twice a year is definitely not frequently enough!

Liz Coleman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Liz Coleman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We absolutely need to keep quarterly reporting in place. Investors need the transparency and the c-level needs accountability.

All metrics are tracked in automated reports now, there's no reason for less transparency unless they are trying to hide things from investors.

Liz Coleman
Real Estate Broker

Liz Coleman Realty
281-777-1141
Liz@LizColemanRealty.com

Liz Frohrip — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Liz Frohrip Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly teleporting, at minimum, needs to remain in place. I do not want to see the reporting change to twice yearly.

LIZ KALMAN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LIZ KALMAN Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a corporate tax accountant who has worked in the corporate tax departments of several large corporations throughout my career (Viacom, JetBlue Airways, General Electric Capital Corporation, Mercedes Benz Credit Corporation) and I STRONGLY URGE the SEC to KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING QUARTERLY!!!!

Elizabeth Kalman
7 New Light Dr
Danbury, CT 06810

Sent from my iPhone

Liz Kinard The Motley Fool employee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Liz Kinard Quarterly reporting ensures transparency and protects individual investors by reducing the information gap that could lead to volatility and mistrust. Research indicates that decreasing reporting frequency does not impact corporate investment behavior, meaning that the SEC's proposal potentially sacrifices transparency without delivering its intended benefits. Furthermore, less frequent reporting could hinder oversight of smaller companies where scrutiny is crucial, moving away from the principles of fair disclosure and not addressing any apparent problem in the current system. As a Motley Fool employee, I am against this change to semiannual reporting.

Liz Levine — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Liz Levine Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Regulation for quarterly reporting was put in place to reign in corporate corruption. It should not be removed.

Liz Milner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Liz Milner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Ending quarterly reporting is a terrible idea. The Stock market depends on the investors' faith and trust and shenanigans like this increase my suspicion that many things are rotten on Wall Street.

---

liz stocker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: liz stocker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The proposed new rule blocks me, as a partial owner of these companies, from having access to information critical to decision making. Keep this as a quarterly report.

Elizabeth Stocker

Sent from my iPad

---

liz verna — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: liz verna Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is needed accountability!!! I am a personal investor and do not support doing away with these quarterly reports.

Sent from my iPhone

Liz Yee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Liz Yee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

Let's continue to be transparent, as we know corporations will continue to lie and steal when they can.I am writing to encourage the SEC to maintain quarterly reporting requirements. Quarterly reports provide timely transparency, help identify issues before they become larger problems, and allow stakeholders to track progress and performance throughout the year rather than waiting for annual updates.
Regular reporting also promotes accountability and supports informed decision-making by ensuring that current, accurate information is available when it is needed most. Reducing the reporting frequency could limit visibility into emerging challenges and delay necessary corrective actions.
Thank you for considering the value that quarterly reporting brings to effective oversight and continuous improvement.

Lizzie Bliss Sheehan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lizzie Bliss Sheehan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Elizabeth Sheehan, Academic Advisor. We need to continue quarterly reports to make informed investing decisions! Please ensure quarterly reports are kept in place. Thank you.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

LJR Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: LJR I like receiving quarterly reports. I can better track my investments and make adjustments in a timely manner. Semi-annual reporting just seems like something(s) are being kept in the dark.

Ljubinka Jandrich — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Ljubinka Jandrich Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly accountability is important for honesty. No changes!

LK McCray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: LK McCray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am totally against this! Keep the requirement quarterly!

Keith McCray

---

lleni pach — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: lleni pach Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 WHAT HAPPEN WITH YOUR SOCIAL RESPONSABILITY, , KEEP THE QUATERLY REPORTING, LLENI PACH, MD

Lloyd Elliott Investors — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lloyd Elliott Everyone has the Tijuana attitude already we do not need to make it worse.

Lloyd Jones jr. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lloyd Jones jr. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lloyd Jones. I run two businesses. This proposal will definitely make it harder on my investment process for there's less data to work with. The market now being more volatile than ever how can the SEC want to approve this?

Lloyd Lusher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lloyd Lusher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Any lessening of quarterly accountability by public funded firms is unacceptable. Stick with more oversight not less. Lloyd Lusher, Gahanna, Ohio Retired IT Sales & Support Manager

---

Lloyd R. Sams Former PE Fund Manager — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lloyd R. Sams It is a grave mistake to lessen the reporting requirements of public companies. Quarterly reports are necessary for keeping up with dynamic businesses/lmwetherby — Jun 23, 2026

---

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: lmwetherby Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Corporations have been shown to have the morality of psychopaths - they need more monitoring, not less.

~Lisa Wetherby
Secane PA

Get BlueMail for Mobile

Lobsang Tenpa — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lobsang Tenpa Management at the top levels earns a pay to manage and report, so it is their job to do so in every quarter.

Logan Childs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Logan Childs Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This should possibly be more than quarterly. Cutting it in half seems like a way for the people to get taking advantage of more

Sent from my iPhone

Logan Handsaker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Logan Handsaker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I oppose this proposal because I rely on quarterly financial reports to evaluate various metrics of my retirement and personal portfolio to determine how to deploy my capital. I depend on these reports for my family's financial future and any move to fewer financial reporting by companies I own would negatively impact my family's future.

Lois Flood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lois Flood Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not change SEC current rules!
Thank you!
Lois Flood

Lois Hargrove — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lois Hargrove Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I remember 2008. Guardrails were put in place for our safety. Dont undo a safety rule.

Sent from my iPhone

Lois Mason-Williams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lois Mason-Williams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Lois Mason-Williams, retired Human Resources Director of Northwest Ohio Psychiatric Hospital. I support quarterly reporting of financial results. Leave the reporting as is, because it means companies will remain “honest”.

Sent from my iPad

Lois Thiessen Love Citizen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lois Thiessen Love Keep the reporting and signatures quarterly! Regular review and affirming accountability helps. Keeps the data clean! And helps keep leadership, focused on accuracy and legality!

Lois Worden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lois Worden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting mandatory!!
I'm tired of these companies not playing fair!

Lola Michaels — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lola Michaels There’s a reason quarterly reporting is in place - because the American people paid a heavy price when it was semi-annual. We all know the current refrain is about “reducing costs.” Only an idiot would believe that and we are not stupid. Only a felon follower or an arrogant, self-involved, and careless political representative at any level would even entertain reversing the submission date. And, any representative who disagrees with the new direction but does not fight it because “someone might tweet about them at 1:00am and call them names” is a coward. Representing the citizens of the United States (who pay your salaries) for the good of all the people still stands. Congress needs a Performance Improvement Plan stat.

Lola Schiefelbein — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lola Schiefelbein Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yup, we are demanding that the “window” remain full and open—DO NOT SHIFT THE PLAYING FIELD FROM THE RULES!!!

Sent from my iPhone

---

lon duncan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: lon duncan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need you to keep this quarterly. No lessons learned from the past ??

London Anthony Davis Member of motley fool group — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: London Anthony Davis Horrible idea,very much against!!!!

Lonette Gregersen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lonette Gregersen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to keep quarterly reporting! We have worked and saved and invested for years. We, and all investors, deserve to know what is happening with our investments, and we want continued oversight and accountability every quarter.
-Lonette Gregersen, substitute teacher

Sent from my iPhone

Lora Wain — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lora Wain Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Publicly traded companies count on stockholders for working capitol, and are accountable to investors for their use of their money! Too much can happen in six months that can be disasterous! Look at what the stock market does when there's a spin off. The big boys sell their shares at the inflated value, and the stock value plummets!

Loraine Bond — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Loraine Bond Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 People deserve to know how their companies are preforming. Going to longer reporting times allows for malfeasance. Loraine Bond, Investor

---

Loree Hoisington — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Loree Hoisington Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep Quartley reporting

Lorena Murray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lorena Murray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hi, this is Lorena Murray. I am a retired teacher. Quarterly reporting is crucial to keeping my retirement savings healthy. We know from history that less reporting means my money makes less money.

Thank you.

Lorena Zorrilla — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lorena Zorrilla Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Everyone needs to be held accountable
They need to report four times a year or more

Lorenzo Evans — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lorenzo Evans Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is unfair to investors because there is a lot that happens in six months and not being able to get current accurate information is determent to consumers. Six months is to long for reporting and will lead to more misconduct by investment houses and ignore the rights of the average saver. This is a hard NO to changing the reporting requirements.

Loretta Armstrong — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Loretta Armstrong I am against reporting biannually. Quarterly is necessary.

Loretta Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Loretta Martin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the law (created for a reason/history repeats itself) that requires quarterly reports signed by CEOs...it's the law to keep CEOs honest. Protect the people/investors. Don't even consider changing the law! Loretta Martin, Retired & Holder of Stocks

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

LORETTA RUHL — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LORETTA RUHL Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We absolutely need quarterly reporting. Bad people do bad things - oversight stops most!

Loretta M Ruhl

Lori Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lori Anderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please don't pass the law that will allow companies to go dark for 6 months at a time. It would have a detrimental effect on the public.

Lori Ball — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lori Ball Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports.

Sent from my iPhone

Lori Best — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lori Best Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The proposed rule to end quarterly reporting by publicly traded companies is fraud on its face.
I worked in the securities industry for 30 years from 1980 through 2011-2012 and personally witnessed the multiple frauds perpetrated upon not only upon the investors but also upon the taxpayers via the "too big to fail" bailouts. The SEC has no oversight being a self-governing body!
This whole proposal is another smokescreen to screw the little guy! Do not do this. It is a blatant attempt of "let them eat cake". I have to ask the obvious question: from whom are you getting your advice? Who thinks this is a good idea?
Please do not further degrade your agency's reputation with this ill advised action.
Thank you for your consideration.
Sincerely,
Lori J Best

Lori Chapman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lori Chapman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
We need the quarterly reports this is our lives you are taking away if you allow the companies to not report to the people that rely on this information so they can decide whether to move their small investments to a safer option. We cannot afford to take hits on our paychecks investments towards retirement this would hurt the working person more than the big companies complaining over the small cost as most everything now days is digitally done. Do Not Allow this. I do still check my quarterly reports on my TSP investments as it is part of my retirement. This is our lives affected from this decision.

Retired Federal Civil Service Employee

Lori Christensen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lori Christensen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 QUARTERLY,,, ONLY

Lori Gage — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lori Gage Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please Keep Quarterly reporting!
The average investor needs timely data to monitor our funds and act accordingly.
My investments are mostly retirement funds & I depend on those investments.
Thank you,
Lori Gage
Borrego Springs, CA 92004

Lori Hippelheuser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lori Hippelheuser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 People trust the system that is set up now.. The system that was set up to prevent another disaster. We need quarterly reports so people can sound the alarm.
Please keep the system the way it is. Accountable.

Thank you,
Lori Hippelheuser

Lori Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lori Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports enable transparency. If a company has something to hide then cutting this info in half would align. I won’t invest in a company that does not report in a timely manner.

Lori Jones
Indyjones40@gmail.com
Indyjones3p@gmail.com

Lori Lentine Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lori Lentine I do not want reporting by companies to be cut in half. As stock owners, we deserve to know what's going on with the companies we've invested in.

Lori Limper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lori Limper Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Lori Limper and I am retired. My future depends on careful management of my life savings. Quarterly reports are critical and should remain in place. Investors have a right to know the quarterly status of the the companies they have invested in.

Lori Mahoney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lori Mahoney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep Quartely Reporting requirement. No black outs!

Lori Mattheiss — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lori Mattheiss The change to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to two isn't just a bad idea, it's a terrible idea! Investors like me need access to public company records to stay informed about how a company is progressing financially. It's cash flow, earnings, expenses, etc. are crucial to make decisions why we should invest or stay invested in a company. We need reporting four times a year! Don't change the current regulations.

Lori McKenney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lori McKenney I have owned a business for over 30 years before retiring, and quarterly reports are a minimum requirement. As a stockholder in the US market, I don't want semi-annual reports. Stay with quarterly reports.

Lori Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lori Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is totally ridiculous. Another way for billionaires to get richer !

Lori Nye The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lori Nye Investors are part owners of a business. We need reports more than twice a year to know how to invest sensibly. Please don’t change the reports and their timing. We need the minimum 4 times a year that exists now. Thank you. Lori Nye

---

Lori Rousseau — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lori Rousseau Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lori R, Underwriter. Mandatory quarterly filings should remain because they ensure continuous market transparency, reduce insider trading windows, and provide a reliable communication bridge to all classes of investors.

Thank you,
Lori Rousseau

Lori Sandoval — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Quarterly Reporting From: Lori Sandoval Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear SEC Oversight Personnel,

Please keep the reporting quarterly. That's all - plain and simple.

Sincerely,
Lori Sandoval

Sent from Yahoo Mail for iPhone

Lori Santangelo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lori Santangelo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Companies have the privilege of exsisting in the United States! We the people have the right to know that your companies is above board In honesty, integrity and consideration of our well being. I believe a quarterly reporting keeps us informed and you honest! Submitted by Lori Santangelo a retired owner of a company and a responsible citizen.

null

Lori Schabow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lori Schabow Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reporting. Lori Schabow, RTR. Shiocton, Wisconsin.

Lori Schultz Retired Professional RN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lori Schultz Dear SEC, I strongly request that quarterly investment reports continue. I am against reducing the frequency reports to me and other citizens. Quarterly reporting is important to guide decision making, detect errors, and monitor for fraud. I am not aware of any advantages to me in reducing reporting frequencies. Sincerely, Lori Schultz

---

Lori Turcheck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lori Turcheck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 With technology today reporting should bow be MONTHLY.

Lori Turcheck

Lori Vinzant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lori Vinzant Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change it

Sent from my iPhone

Lori Watson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: RE: Comment in Opposition to S7-2026-15 From: Lori Watson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026
Dear Commissioners:

I respectfully submit this comment in opposition to the proposal that would permit public companies to replace quarterly reporting with semiannual reporting.

As a commercial litigation professional who regularly works with corporate records, financial disclosures, and business disputes, I believe quarterly reporting serves an important function that extends beyond informing investors of a company's current financial condition. Quarterly reports create a consistent, reliable, and contemporaneous record of a company's operations, risks, and management's assessment of material developments. These disclosures benefit not only investors, but also courts, regulators, creditors, counterparties, and other stakeholders who rely on accurate historical records.

Proponents of semiannual reporting argue that quarterly reporting encourages short-term thinking and imposes compliance costs on issuers. While these concerns deserve consideration, reducing the frequency of required reporting would also reduce transparency and create longer periods during which investors and the market may have limited visibility into a company's performance and emerging risks.
The proposal may also produce unintended consequences. Significant developments that currently would be discussed in a Form 10-Q could instead remain undisclosed until a semiannual filing unless separately reported on Form 8-K. Although Form 8-K reporting requirements would remain in place, many material trends, operational challenges, and management assessments do not fit neatly within existing Form 8-K triggers. As a result, investors could receive less complete information and face longer delays in understanding changes affecting a company's business.

From a litigation and governance perspective, quarterly reports also provide valuable contemporaneous evidence regarding what management knew, when it knew it, and how risks and business conditions were evaluated over time. Fewer required reporting periods may create larger informational gaps and make it more difficult for investors, regulators, and courts to evaluate corporate decision-making after the fact.

Public markets function best when participants have access to timely, consistent, and comparable information. Quarterly reporting has long been a cornerstone of that framework. While the SEC should continue exploring ways to reduce unnecessary compliance burdens, I believe those efforts would be better directed toward simplifying reporting requirements or reducing duplicative disclosures rather than reducing reporting frequency.

For these reasons, I respectfully urge the Commission to maintain the existing quarterly reporting framework.

Thank you for considering my views.

Respectfully submitted,

Lori Woodle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lori Woodle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The people want quarterly accountability. There should be no dark rooms, no blind spots. It is the people who have opinions to move their wealth and these companies should remember that.

Sent from my iPhone

Lori-franchesca A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lori-franchesca A Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 With this administration at the white house, the public demands full transparency at all times. Especially when it comes to our money. We demand companies to continue reporting quarterly.

Loria Howard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Loria Howard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is needed to keep the investor knowledgeable about the value of his or her funds.

Sent from my iPhone

Lorin J — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lorin J Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reports quarterly. Every time you relax regulations like these, they get abused. Every time. And you know this. If you want to actually do something, go through regulations and find redundancy, leave in the ones that have been working.

Lorinda Alana — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lorinda Alana Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely keep quarterly reporting. Corruption already runs pretty high according to public opinion and we as a nation have to maintain our integrity if we want to sustain a FREE and sovereign nation . This seems like a small thing, but yet it is of upmost importance that we have transparency and accountability. Please maintain the quarterly report mandate!!!!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Lorna Harbert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lorna Harbert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly Please!!

Sent from my iPhone

Lorna Krakoff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lorna Krakoff Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly

Sent from my iPhone

Lorraine Art — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lorraine Art I am opposed to reducing the number of reports from quarterly to semi annual. I need to see these reports quarterly to guide my investment decisions.

Lorraine Decker Publisher of Financial Education and Economics course instructional material — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lorraine Decker With the advent of technology and AI, providing quarterly reports to investors is infinitely easier than in the past. Transparency is important. If a shareholder elects to not use this information to make an informed decision, that is the individual's choice. But investors should have this choice!

Lorraine Nash — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lorraine Nash Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 2

Sent from my iPhone

Lorraine Paceleo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lorraine Paceleo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Just NO. It's been this way for a reason and there is no real reason to stop.

Thank you for keeping companies accountable.

Lorraine Paceleo
Flanders, NY

Lorraine Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lorraine Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The savings are negligible and entirely in the corporate officer's advantage not the investors interest.

Sent from my iPhone

Lorri Perini — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lorri Perini Being a democratic republic means practicing in the favor of the citizens first and foremost. I believe transparency is the only option when citizens are investing their hard earned dollars in any company. Please keep public-company reports at 4 times per year instead of the proposed 2 times. Thank you!

Lorri Zelaznik — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lorri Zelaznik Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange

I strongly believe that quarterly reporting is an essential requirement for the SEC to maintain transparency and accountability among publicly traded companies.
In my experience working for WellCare Health Plans, I saw firsthand why accountability matters. Quarterly reporting provides regulators, investors, and the public with timely information about a company's performance and operations. Without consistent oversight and disclosure, companies can become less responsive to the people they serve.

When organizations are not properly representing or serving their members, customers, or stakeholders, accountability mechanisms become even more important. Reducing reporting requirements may benefit large corporations with significant resources, but it can also reduce transparency and make it more difficult to identify problems before they grow into larger issues.

I urge policymakers to preserve quarterly reporting requirements. Strong corporate accountability protects investors, consumers, employees, and the broader public. In a world already facing many challenges, maintaining transparency and oversight at the corporate level is a common-sense safeguard that helps ensure companies act responsibly.
in a world of too much loose where it needs to be tight on regulations let's not make it more insult in injury. Thank - CORPORATE accountability helps create cultures of responsibility and quarterly reporting help this happen.

Thank you for your consideration.
Kind regards,
Lorri
Lorri Zelaznik

Lorrie Leigh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lorrie Leigh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What history taught is less accountability results in fraud that the American tax payer then has been forced to bailout. I lived through the S&L Crisis and Enron. Quarterly accounting protects the American people and should be left intact.

L. Leigh

Lorrie Pucciariello — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lorrie Pucciariello Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Timely Transparency matters. Do not change this to 6 months. This shouldn't need any explanation.

Sent from my Galaxy

Lorrie Vece Motley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lorrie Vece Do not change to reporting requirements to 6 months investors need to have this information

---

Lorry Schmitz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lorry Schmitz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting.

Lorry 🤗

Lou Bancalari None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lou Bancalari I am absolutely opposed to this. As stockholders there needs to be transparency in the companies I choose to invest in. Many Americans today have a significant part of their retirement savings in Stocks and getting regular updates per quarter on a company's performance is absolutely paramount. It's the SEC job to provide oversight to protect the integrity of the system and investors. Please do not weaken a system that currently balances reporting with protecting investors.

Lou DeLuca — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lou DeLuca Let's keep public-companies reporting four times a year as opposed to two times a year as more visibility is beneficial for all.

Lou Giammarino The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lou Giammarino Please do not reduce the reporting frequency - we need more transparency, not less. Thank you.

Lou Zaccone Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lou Zaccone Stockholders own a piece of a business, we deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Louie Abdou — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Louie Abdou Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Minimum quarterly reporting

Louie Abdou
A&A Insurance Agency Est. 1975
GA, AL, FL, SC, NC, TN
5075 Peachtree Pkwy Ste 107-145
Peachtree Corners, GA 30092

o 770-368-1297
f 888-341-2122
Jimmy Abdou, Associate
o 678-896-1504
Joey Abdou, Associate
m 404-932-5060

---

louie kater — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: louie kater Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly! Remember Enron, Lehmann Brothers, Arthur Anderson, World Com. These are not one off's!

Louie Meader — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Louie Meader Stockholders are owners, owners deserve to have more information, not less. The proposed idea is a terrible one. Whoever thought it up is only interested in management and not stockholders. Louie Meader

---

Louis Munoz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Louis Munoz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I oppose any proposal that would allow public companies to delay financial reporting for six months. Regular quarterly reports are one of the few tools ordinary investors have to evaluate a company's performance and make informed decisions.
A six-month reporting gap would create an uneven playing field where corporate insiders, large institutions, and professional analysts have far more information than individual investors. Transparency promotes trust in the markets, while less frequent reporting increases uncertainty and the risk of unpleasant surprises.
While reducing unnecessary regulatory burdens may be a worthwhile goal, it should not come at the expense of accountability and equal access to information. Retail investors deserve timely and transparent financial disclosures, not longer periods of operating in the dark.

Louis Muñoz

Louis Vitali Professor of Economics and Finance at Manhattan University — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Louis Vitali Decreasing the flow of information to investors can only result in less informed investors and increase the likelihood that corporations and their management will mislead the investing public and be able to cover their tracks with more time to do so and less accountability in doing so! Public companies should be more tightly regulated in an era where the investing (gambling) public is expanding into the realm of the uneducated and speculators (gamblers) - factors which contributed greatly to the Stock Market Crash of 1929 and the resultant impoverishment of those that didn't know enough about the risks of investing in the companies that defrauded them. Giving the thieves in our government and in many public companies more time to execute their nefarious schemes and cover them up can never be good for investors!

Louise Legun — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Louise Legun Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Enough already of gouging the public and cheating everyday citizens of what ought to be rightfully theirs! Enough of greed for the wealthy! For heaven’s sake, do the right thing for a change. People are suffering enough!

Louise Legun, retired RN, former officer in the USAF, 76 years old

Sent from my iPad

Louise Mazur None - Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Louise Mazur The SEC sould NOT eliminate the requirement for quarterly reporting by public companies. This is one of the few means through which the public can accurately monitor what a public corporation is doing. WHY would the SEC want to elimate this????? Full and accurate information MUST be provided to shareholders on a timely basis!!!!!

Louise Noble — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Louise Noble I disagree with this proposed rule because more frequent reporting provides investors with much needed information more frequently to help them make informed decisions about the stocks they buy and sell. Please do not take away the quarterly reporting requirement. Thank you.

Louise Rozansky — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Louise Rozansky Please keep companies from electing to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to two. I don't think less information about a company people have invested in is in anyone's best interest. The four times a year reporting creates more data so we can see trends at a deeper level. And, as The Motley Fool has pointed out, AI can help with the cost of reporting and we would be less likely to be surprised if something went right or worse, wrong with our investment. Having this data will make me a better investor and understand more how investing affects our economy.

Louise Savage — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Louise Savage Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please save this Quarterly Reporting. This is needed now more than ever. No one is above the Law.
We depend on this report!
Louise Savage
SausalitoCA
94965

Lourdes Trutie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lourdes Trutie I disagree completely with the semi annual idea. As shareholders we deserve to know the fonancial status quarterly

---

Lowell Peterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lowell Peterson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it up! Hold them accountable!

LR & BR Investor in the United States of America — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: LR & BR “Comments attached” There is no reasonable reason to file fewer reports and if this is passed you will find more wild price swings than ever seen before and for larger losses and gains that may become uncontrollable falls or gains that will hurt the economy and destabilize the nation. Three month reports already effect the market rather extremely often but, at least are corrected also rather quickly without the damage of a falling market or spiraling spread of exuberance as we have seen.

---

lschultz westsideholding.com — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: lschultz westsideholding.com Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026

Please do not change from quartile. We're already in the dark enough.

Sent from my iPad

Luana Proffitt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Luana Proffitt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Reporting on a Quarterly basis is the right thing to do. It is about ACCOUNTABILITY! DO THE RIGHT THING.

Luann Krall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Luann Krall As an investor and citizen I say keep the filings quarterly.

LuAnn Palazzo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: LuAnn Palazzo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a retired art director and YOU MUST KEEP COMPANIES ACCOUNTABLE! We have learned time and time again that businesses will get away with whatever they can. DON'T LET THEM GO UNCHECKED! PLEASE!

LuAnn

Luc Z — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Luc Z Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear Securities and Exchange Commission,

I am writing to express my support for maintaining the current requirement for public companies to report earnings on a quarterly basis. Quarterly reporting provides important transparency, helps investors make informed decisions, and promotes accountability in the markets.

Reducing reporting frequency could decrease market visibility and increase information gaps between companies and investors. I believe the current system strikes a good balance between timely disclosure and reporting burden.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely, Luc Zanssen, Portfolio Manager

Lucas Hocker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lucas Hocker I would like public-company reports from four times a year.

---

lucena bartlett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: lucena bartlett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retiree, I rely on whatever I had previously invested. I would like to have the opportunity to review the quarterly reports on my investments in order to manage my hard earned money.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Lucia Moody — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lucia Moody We should be receiving more frequent information not less. In a quick changing environment, we need up to date information to make a knowledgable decision. After all, it is our money.

Lucia Webster — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lucia Webster Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the quarterly reporting in place to keep up the accountability responsibilities for companies. Lucia Webster, small business owner

Sent from my iPhone

Lucien — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lucien Transparency cannot be sacrificed — now more than ever we must make forward strides in accountability and honesty in our market

---

Lucille Hanna — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lucille Hanna Companies have the responsibility to provide frequent reports on their business management to the government and to investors (stockholders) in order for investors to make good decisions for the safety of their savings, and for regulators to guarantee transparency and legality. Keep the quarterly reports. Make reports even more frequent when necessary.

---

lucille wiggin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: lucille wiggin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not allow a six mo black out and keep the stock market available to small traders.

Lucinda Kielty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lucinda Kielty Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

We are no longer on either an annual or bi-annual information cycle about business information. Information and changes are avalable on a 24 by 7 cycle. Not all of that information is available or meaningful to everyone. A large part of the population is dependent on their own investments and savings for college funds and retirement income. Receiving information required for making investment decisions twice a year is not adquate for managing our money, in whatever form.
The uber wealthy and especially the oligarchs and politicians are privy to information at an earlier date than is the general population. This allows for market maniplation even today. Making information more scarce for the general public only provides more opportunity for illegal market manipulation and profit for those in the know. The rest of us are left a day late and many dollars short. Without transparency for the many, the market is mainpulated by the few. That manipulation lays the groundwork for a potential depression worse than the one of the 1930's. That depression led to the financial reforms we have today. They were put in place for a reason and that reason still exists right now.
With today's information technology, there is absolutely no reason to inhibit or slow down the flow of information. At some point it may become more useful to speed up that information flow in a useful form to the public in order to better level the playing ground. Today, the only advantage of going to the less frequent bi-annual financial reporting by major businesses is for the uber wealthy, oligarchs and politicians to manipulate the market to their benefit while compromising the savings and value of money for everyone else. The SEC was put in place to prevent such fraud. Do the job you have been tasked with doing for the many not just the few. Do not move away from quarterly to bi-annual business reporting. Please take making this decision very seriously as your decisions touch many lives, either for the better or for the worse. Put the needs of the many above those of the few.

Lucy Akers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lucy Akers I would rather be informed quarterly so that I can make better decisions

---

Lucy Nadeau — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lucy Nadeau Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a federal employee and I feel that it is only fiscally responsible to maintain this level of openness to the public. I have spent almost 30 years working for the government and it is my job to ensure that technical specifications are always met. We do this by meticulously reviewing work documents prior to issuing them. Therefore, you can see why I feel quarterly reports by the SEC should continue, NOT be reduced. Lucy K Peistrup Production Controller

---

Lucy Stutz Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lucy Stutz Here we are in this regime's America, where the grifters expand into robbing investors directly out of the stock market. Perhaps you should be limiting the salaries that executives at public companies receive in stock so they care how the company does long term, instead of counting their daily net worth, and their boardroom time is spent making the company work for consumers and treating their employees better. How about you tax corporate executives like you do the rest of us? This regime's desire to abolish all checks and balances, along with transparency is why our country went from most respected to the trash heap. This is un-American, we were established on values and honesty, this proposal to stop 4x per year reporting is just more of the grift. Why don't you just watch the film THE BIG SHORT and get a reminder of what happens when there are no guard rails.

---

lucy5903 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: lucy5903 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Companies need to respect the backbone of their success, the average " Joe" . It should be their required obligation to keep all their investors informed .Keep quarterly reports especially in the volita economic times we live in .

Sent from my Galaxy

Luisa Lawrence — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Luisa Lawrence Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly!

Get Outlook for iOS

Luke Mitchell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Luke Mitchell I do not support reduced reporting frequency. This would reduce the information that I have available about the companies I have ownership of through shares. I would also prefer more reporting on sustainability matters

---

Luke Records — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Luke Records Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello, I'm a physician. Please keep quarterly reporting. At a time when politicians are committing the equivalent of insider trading in broad daylight, it's more important than ever to give private citizens as much information as possible in the most timely manner possible.

Thank You,

Luke Records

Sent from my iPhone

Luke Varela — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Luke Varela Investors/ owners need more info not less

---

Lushun Mccalla — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lushun Mccalla Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lushun McCalla, laborer, this is an important decision. This rule would and may harm my personal retirement investmests. It would cause me to rely on my employer more heavily for retirement benefits, thus taking away my ability to engage in commerce. As a result many working peoples would be allotted less access to vacation, travel, thus the reduction in leisure industries. This would stifle our ability to back out of volatile situations. Being aware of activities that doesn't align with your value gives you peace of mind. Also, transparency helps keep us for putting strain on safety nets. Investors want to feel included in decision-making.

Luz Ortiz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Luz Ortiz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don’t do it. Why change something that has transparency to a secret system to benefit the rich.

Sent from my iPad

LWT Management LLC — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: LWT Management LLC We believe that reducing the rep0orting requirements from four times a year to twice a year for publicly traded companies would be a grave mistake. Investors have an obligation to properly use their capital in advancing their financial wellbeing while investing in companies that meet their expectations as investments. The financial world moves quickly and the fortunes of companies rise and fall on a myriad of circumstances both fiscal and operational, not to mention investor sentiment. Without a quarterly window into the workings and operations of a company it is impossible to make sound investing decisions. It puts a risk huge sums of money over which there would be no way of gaining preemptive knowledge or foresight into the risks, the management of those risks, and companies management of the processes which create the risk/reward equation for investors. It could be catastrophic for the market as a whole and both individual and institutional investors.

Lyd Gonza — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lyd Gonza Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lydia Gonzales, Dental Assistant, companies need quarterly disclosure of finanicial information for consumer potection and government oversight. This goes stronger for publically traded intities. This is in place to prevent fraud and hold companies accountable while allowing stockholders to make well informed decisions with their money and investment choices.

Lydia Dorosh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lydia Dorosh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep the quarterly reporting. It's bad enough that we can lose money, but for a business problem to go undetected for longer would be needlessly disastrous.

Lydia Kennedy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lydia Kennedy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I find it very interesting how we keep hearing all these great things about transparency, get some carrots dangling in front of us, little tidbits of suppressed, hidden, information, are released, and then this! Another way to hide! Another way to leak money into channels where it doesn't belong. Another way to steal from hard working, ordinary people trying to save and grow their money! You know this is a bad idea! You know all this will do is open doors for more fraud and corruption! With all the recent stories of millions of dollars stolen from us tax payers, why on earth would this be proposed?!?!? Financials clearly need to be reported quarterly! Probably should be reported monthly!

Lydia Kennedy

Sent from my iPhone

Lydia Kennedy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lydia Kennedy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I find it very interesting how we keep hearing all these great things about transparency, get some carrots dangling in front of us, little tidbits of suppressed, hidden, information, are released, and then this! Another way to hide! Another way to leak money into channels where it doesn't belong. Another way to steal from hard working, ordinary people trying to save and grow their money! You know this is a bad idea! You know all this will do is open doors for more fraud and corruption! With all the recent stories of millions of dollars stolen from us tax payers, why on earth would this be proposed?!?!? Financials clearly need to be reported quarterly! Probably should be reported monthly!

Lydia Kennedy

Sent from my iPhone

Lydia Rapp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lydia Rapp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lydia Schubert, Integration Manager. Tucson, AZ.

Hello,

I work for a CPA firm. I'm not an accountant, it I work with accountants, consultants, and tax professionals everyday. I work closely with them to give our clients what they want AND what they need to run healthy, sustainable businesses that contribute not only to the pockets of the business owners and shareholders but also create a positive impact for their workers and the economy.

This bill does nothing but further degrade protections from greed. It will also take business away from my company, it undermines what we do - support business owners in running healthy, sustainable businesses. Business owners already have so many competing priorities - often looking at their financials feels like one of the least important things they have to do in a day.

You are sending them the message it's now less important and that the advice my colleagues give them is also less important. You're also telling them what you do doesn't matter very much. But maybe that's the point? Maybe you are trying to work yourselves out of a job.

Now why would you do that? What an interesting question don't you think? Why would you not only act against the self interest of businesses, business owners, and your own organization? Who's interests might you be acting in?

I look forward to your thoughtful response.

Thank you,

Lydia Wilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lydia Wilson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello! As a currently teacher, my job is to instill hope in our youth while teaching them about our country. When the SEC makes choices that deliberately harm the American people, it’s hard to back up the organization. Even middle schoolers will be able to deduce that the ethics on semi annual reporting is harming the American people. They will notice the trends of what happened prior to 1955 and now. I know greed is so hard to walk away from, and I don’t know who is pressuring you to make this decision. But please don’t. Put the American people first, not conglomerates who don’t care. My parents just retired and I need a healthy stock market right now. We won’t be able to afford a huge influx of the market right now. Thank you.

Lydia Tobin.

Sent from my iPhone

Lydia Winderman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lydia Winderman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The act of 4 quarterly reports is designed to cut down on cheating. Why would we make it easier for them?! Reporting quarterly means less to review at one time and credit to spot fraud. Keep it as is!!
lydiawinderman@hotmail.com
Citizen

Sent from my iPhone

Lyn Courtois — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lyn Courtois Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Do not get rid of quarterly reports! Huge mistake!!!

Lynda Galella — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lynda Galella Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 STOP THIS!

Sent from my iPhone

Lynda Hopkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lynda Hopkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it! Corporations do not deserve any more breaks! This is unjust and ridiculous.

Sent from my iPhone

Lynda Leonard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lynda Leonard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please KEEP quarterly updates!!! We need better, more constant/consistent data/information not less!!!

Lynda Mitchell-Marino — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lynda Mitchell-Marino Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I want transparency and quarterly reporting. My retirement is invested and a period of 6 months is way to long to go without an eye on the market . The market is an ever changing force that I can move and change if I feel it need be. My rights as an investor would be put aside, if this is to happen I feel strongly about making some big changes and possibly taking my investments elsewhere. Thanks

---

Lyndia Blue N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lyndia Blue Stop trying to fix something that ain't broke.

Lynette Ramos — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lynette Ramos Please do not pass the semiannual reporting rule. I feel that companies having to report quarterly means better transparency for investors.

Lynette Stapleton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lynette Stapleton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly Reporting, we have too much fraud now without making it easier to deceive and cheat. Lynette

Stapleton, Retired

Lynmarie Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lynmarie Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Everyone that has access to stock market should have access to quarterly reports for those companies if not everything other month reporting - transparency is an absolute must.

Lyn Smith
623-606-8266

Lynn Arthur — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lynn Arthur Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lynn Arthur, retired. Transparency and accountability are sorely missing from the U.S. government under the Trump administration. Reducing the number of times the SEC must release its reports will seriously diminish the public's trust.

Lynn Barrow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lynn Barrow Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly!!

Lynn Ciupak — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lynn Ciupak Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 WTF..why are you allowing them to hide what th ey are going g to steal?

Stop the steal allowances! This is outrageous n u know it!

Lynn Clasen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lynn Clasen I am requesting that you reject the proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. As an investor, I rely on current information to know the financial health of a company. The value of transparency far exceeds the cost of providing information to investors. It is a means of understanding the vision and culture of a company as it makes decisions.

Lynn D. Burchfield — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lynn D. Burchfield Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why? Would the be beneficial to our country?

Reigning from the Cloud

Lynn DeBroeck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lynn DeBroeck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Companies should continue to report quarterly to the public so people can invest wisely and know if a company is being honest and not hiding from us. This is a minimal expense to them and there is no good justification for changing the report ting frequency.

Sent from my iPhone

Lynn Field — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lynn Field Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 6 months is too long a period of time to not know what is happening financially. It may benefit the company and those with onside knowledge, but it could negatively affect the investors, being kept in the dark. As an investor, I object to the change.

Sent from my iPad

Lynn Glasscock — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lynn Glasscock Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep up the deterrent. Make them read and sign FOUR times a year. Hopefully , it'll keep them honest. 😉

Sent from my iPhone

Lynn Green — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lynn Green Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please protect consumers and stop the corporate GUTTING of this country . Since when should thefox make the rules for guarding the hens? This constant screwing of the average person in favor of the upper-echelon of income is disgusting, cruel and sinful.

Lynn Green — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lynn Green Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please protect consumers and stop the corporate GUTTING of this country . Since when should thefox make the rules for guarding the hens? This constant screwing of the average person in favor of the upper-echelon of income is disgusting, cruel and sinful.
Lynn Green

Lynn Hawthorne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lynn Hawthorne Please maintain quarterly reporting. This grants investors consistent information on the health and well-being of the companies we invest in. With increased efficiency due to AI, there is no reason to limit information and transparency that investors seek. Thank you for taking this comment into consideration.

Lynn Hunton The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lynn Hunton Moving to two reports per year is a mistake. Investors need to stay informed at the current frequency. I do not support the proposed change.

Lynn Jerry Investor for 63 plus years — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lynn Jerry Having always believed in the SEC, this proposed change to LESSEN the reports available to investors to 2 annually leads me to question the integrity and transparency of SEC and businesses for investors. At this time with our country even questioning Democracy, the existence of our Justice system, the ongoing civil "war" internally in Congress I strongly believe this proposal should not even be considered. Investors need the right to follow their investments, voice their opinions for said investment(s)and 4 annual reports allow this.

Lynn Knis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lynn Knis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The funds are invested by others but the investment is the owners ..the people. They should have transparency at ALL times of all aspects including fees eating into their profit that brokers/houses/ traders among other infornstion scraped off first.
There is too much control now in my opinion

Lynn Lavoie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lynn Lavoie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not end quarterly reporting. We need the transparency in this climate with this corrupt administration.

Lynn Lievense — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lynn Lievense Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want to keep track of my hard earned money! Especially now because I'm retired.
Lynn L

Sent from my iPhone

Lynn Osborne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lynn Osborne Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lynn Osborne, retired I rely on investment capital for my income. Those investments are based upon the success of the businesses I have determined worthy. I depend upon the leadership conducting honest business. That includes truthful filings on a routine basis. Quarterly filing is not an issue for an honest organization.

Lynn Osborne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lynn Osborne Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I rely on investment capital for my income. Those investments are based upon the success of the businesses I have determined worthy. I depend upon the leadership conducting honest business. That includes truthful filings on a routine basis. Quarterly filing is not an issue for an honest organization. No change is warranted

---

Lynn Reichl — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lynn Reichl Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is critical, especially to small investors, such as myself, when I'm trying to learn about a company to make a good decision on investing.
As a small business owner, that follows all the rules, I think large companies should be held to a high standard.
Lynn Reichl, owner of Arches Footcare and Jeremiahs ice of Temple

LYNN REICHL
Franchise Owner

JEREMIAH'S ITALIAN ICE
254 Green Hollow Drive
Suite 103
Temple, TX 76502
p 254.314.2181
coolproject@jeremiahsice.com
JeremiahsIce.com

Lynn Rhome — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lynn Rhome Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Millions keep getting richer while our kids have no bright future ahead of them- not a democracy any more! And this is just another example how to enrich the rich!!!!

Lynn Rhome

Lynn Schmitt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lynn Schmitt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keeo the reports quarterly. What do they have to hide? When people's stock and retirement funds are involved, more transparency is needed, not less
Lynn Schmitt
Retired

---

lynn strauss — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: lynn strauss Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Can we slow down and let stock buyers keep their right to understand the financials of companies they invest in? Keep quarterly reports.

Lynn Strauss
921 Greystone Dr
West Chester, PA 19380

Lynn V — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Lynn V Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is necessary in this corrupt broken world. Keep it honest and open to keep it free. L. VanHorn Internet Sales Business Development Representative

---

Lynne Boze — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lynne Boze Please keep quarterly company disclosures.

Lynne German — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lynne German Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retired business owner, I know how important quarterly financials are. As an investor, it is extremely important to my family as well as my former business, who use that information to make financial decisions. Don't keep us in the dark and prevent us from analyzing up to date information to make our financial decisions!

Lynne M German

6335 Ridge Hollow Ln.
Davisburg, MI 48350

Lynne Harter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lynne Harter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Haven't you done enough to screw small investors already? Is it fair to allow privilege to a small number of wealthy investors ?
Transparency is key. Keep our reports coming on a quarterly basis.

Lynne Moses — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lynne Moses Speaking as an individual investor, I am against changing public company reporting from quarterly to twice annually. While the goal might be to reduce short-term investment thinking, reducing access to information is not the answer. Management and shareholder philosophy are what drive those choices. And less frequent information will introduce greater volatility as more time will allow problems to grow larger (or good news). And the process of creating reports is getting faster and cheaper with the introduction of AI tools, so cost savings are increasingly less a factor. Thank you for your consideration.

Lynne Nagy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lynne Nagy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Lynne Nagy, investor, MI. This quarterly reporting must stay in place. This is the least they should be required to do for all the damage they did and all the people they hurt. Hopefully this will also serve as a deterrent for others who may consider doing what these individuals did.

Sent from my iPhone

Lynne Rossman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Lynne Rossman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm retired from a public company and it's imperative we keep quarterly reporting for transparency to the shareholders and lower level level employees. Without it, the board & senior/executive management hold all the cards increasing the distrust of those front line employees and the public. In the long run, it could harm not only the reputation of the company and thus its bottom line putting those employees at risk of their livelihoods.

Thank you,

Lynne Rossman
Retired HR Director

Lynne Swenson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lynne Swenson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
please do not end quarterly reports. We need to use the reports to make sound decisions that affect retirement. Reports out twice a year will hinder our decisions.

Lynne Williams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lynne Williams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I rely on quaterly reports to keep tabs on buisness!

Lynne Wilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Lynne Wilson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission. It concerns me that this might all more fraud and contribute to market volitility. As a retiree, this becomes extremely important to me.
Thank you for letting me share my thoughts.

Lynne Wilson

Lynwood Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Lynwood Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please retain the quarter report, making CEO's and other accountable. We dont need another Enron, there is too much greed taking place, even with these safety practices in place. Elizabeth Johnson, investor/ share holder

---

Lyril J. Haneman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Lyril J. Haneman As an investor that relies on reporting to stay informed so I can make educated trading decisions, I do not want to base my decisions on reporting that only takes place twice a year.

M — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: M Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Accountability is one of the tenets of life that is non-negotiable. Keep doing the right thing. - Michael (Program Support Specialist)

M . H . Jones AAIA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M . H . Jones Please retain quarterly reporting requirement. Things change too fast in this world to have to wait 6 months for updated financial information. Thanks

---

M Angela Dunbar — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: M Angela Dunbar Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly accountability!!!

Sent from my iPhone

M Billups — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: M Billups Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep reporting fair, transparent and accurate for all of us, not just the billionaire

---

M Burk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M Burk I am concerned about reducing the transparency and frequency of communications informing customers of the status of their investments. Information can be disseminated more quickly and efficiently now than ever before. Reducing information and its frequency makes customers more vulnerable to disinformation and deception, and makes responding to problems more problematic. I support The Motley Fool’s call for not reducing frequency of information from investment firms to their customers.

M Clay Jackson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M Clay Jackson I am individual investor - I'm extremely concerned about this proposal. I believe that whatever possible gains in efficiency would be more than offset by losses generated because of lack of timely information. In today's business environment, even a quarter is an extremely long time. Products and businesses are being introduced at an ever increasing rate. In 6 months, a business could face competition. rate changes or other changes that could have a material impact on their financial viability. Please do not enact this rule

---

M E Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: M E Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
It is the height of folly to reduce the quarterly reporting requirements. Ordinary people who want to invest their money deserve an honest and transparent market, with stringent reporting requirements for the companies who receive our hard-earned funds (and our trust and hope). Six months can be a long time when the economy is a volatile as it is, and when companies seem ever more willing to conceal unpleasant truths about themselves.

M Eberhart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M Eberhart I am not in favor of semiannual reporting. As an owner of a percentage of a public company, I would like to receive quarterly reports from the public company.

M Fung — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M Fung I am strongly opposed to the US SEC proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. As an investor, I want transparency on how a business is progressing. Businesses also have a responsibility to us investors, by communication via public-company reports. Therefore, regular quarterly communications should not be an option, but a prerequisite of any publicly-traded companies. Fewer reports mean less transparency and more uncertainty for investors. The financial savings of quarterly to biannual reporting? Negligible. Imagine, instead of receiving twice a year school reports, you as a parent receives only one end-of-year report, on how abysmal your child's been performing, and has failed the year's grades. This information would be too little, too late. Please scrap the proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two.

M Grand — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: M Grand Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly Reporting is essential for transparency. This rule makes no sense.

Matthew Grandonico
Retired

M J Vibert The Motley Fool Collection — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M J Vibert The motley fool

---

M Kaldas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: M Kaldas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need quarterly reports. Please do no change frequency.

Sent from my iPhone

M Mason Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M Mason Hello Panel: Please do not allow the reduction of company reports to be reduced to twice annual instead of the current four times annually, to ensure reasonable transparency.

M Omar Ashraf — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M Omar Ashraf Financial and business disclosures should be every 3 months (four times a year). More information is better for making prudent investment decisions.

M P — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: M P Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm an attorney who has worked to develop business entities, help launch businesses, and work with major banks on high yield and secured and unsecured commercial financings. The risks to investors, primarily small investors from moving from quarterly to biannual reporting is significant while the cost and burden of quarterly financings for corporations is manageable and modest. It is patently unfair to investors to leave them vulnerable to regular information regarding the security of their investments while insiders game the system with their special access.

M RICHARD DAVISON F.C.A. ICAEW Life Member — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M RICHARD DAVISON F.C.A. This is all about transparency and accountability. If an entreprise is incapable of posting quarterly financial information, that means its internal control and reporting systems are inadequate. That is the first sign of unreliability. They should even have pride in being able to do it.

M Rider — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: M Rider Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly. Transparency 100%. Mo reason to question

---

M Shani — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M Shani Individual investors rely on timely, updated information on investments. This proposal to release less information and decrease transparency would increase risks and potential harm to investors and our retirement accounts. Please reject this proposal!

M Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: M Smith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stay away from the comanies and let them be hines , congressman need to do their job

---

M Wilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M Wilson I think the lowering of company transparency and reporting is a bad deal for investors and companies. Companies want to be invested IN but why would people put their money in something that they'd be blind to half the year. I think companies would ultimately get less investment money because investors would put their money elsewhere! Sounds like a lose/lose to me.

M&M — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: M&M Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep QUARTERLY reporting!!

M Kalick

M&M KJN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: M&M KJN Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Marjorie Jordan CEO

Dear Commissioners,
I am writing to express strong concern regarding any effort to weaken or eliminate quarterly financial reporting requirements for publicly traded companies. Regular, standardized disclosure is a cornerstone of market transparency, investor confidence, and fair competition.
History has shown that reduced oversight and delayed reporting create conditions where misconduct can grow unchecked. Periods of diminished transparency have repeatedly preceded major financial crises and corporate scandals, harming investors, employees, and the broader economy. When financial power operates without timely scrutiny, the risk of manipulation, misrepresentation, and systemic instability increases significantly.
Quarterly reporting is not merely a procedural requirement; it is a critical safeguard that ensures accountability and provides investors with the information necessary to make informed decisions. Weakening this framework would undermine trust in U.S. markets and could open the door to the very types of abuses that past reforms were designed to prevent.
I urge the Commission to uphold and strengthen existing reporting standards rather than scale them back. Maintaining rigorous, consistent disclosure practices is essential to preserving market integrity and protecting the public interest.
Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Kelly Nelson
Kelly.Nelson&MirthandMischief.com

M. B. Hoffman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: M. B. Hoffman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: No ending quarterly reports. I don't want anyone else but myself finding a way to know anything about sny money anyone buy the person that has some money finding out. Really BAD IDEA

M. D. Mabry Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M. D. Mabry Stock owners and investors in publicly traded companies deserve more frequent information on how their investments are managed. Not less. Infrequent reports will certainly increase the market's volitivity. This is bad for everyone.

M. Penny Bigelow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M. Penny Bigelow We investors need current information to make informed decisions. Instead of reducing reporting requirements from quarterly to semiannually, reporting should be increased to monthly.

M. Vadodaria — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M. Vadodaria Lower (half of current) frequency of information from public companies will not help the shareholders be more informed and more in tune with an appropriate value of the company. Making the reporting semiannual will increase the uncertainty about publicly held companies, leading to greater volatility - both before and after the reporting date, but also during the in-between periods. Investors deserve regular, transparent communication from each business they invest in. Hence, please do not change the reporting requirements to semiannual from quarterly.

M. Winkle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: M. Winkle A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. We think that’s a mistake! At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Mabel C — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mabel C Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm Mabel, an illustrator continuting her investing and interest in the market, I refer and depend on quaterly reporting to keep things relatively transparent as a normal consumer watching the market. It is important to keep consistent transparency! Not more obscurity! Thank you.

Mabel Price — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mabel Price Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Stay with quarterly reporting, not bi-annual

Mack Damon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mack Damon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a small business owner, the fiscal health of my company depends on spotting trends with enough time to react. As a market investor, the same rules hold true. Financial business is run on high speed computerized platforms that can offer instant and granular reporting. Anything less than quarterly will encourage malfeasance.

www.mackdamon.com

---

mack ison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: mack ison Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If quarterly was the solution to the ENRON scandle when it happened at that time, why would it not be the solution to a possible repeat now. Quarterly reports are worthless without an authorized signature of the responsible official.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Mackenzie Peterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mackenzie Peterson I think reducing the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two is a mistake. Less information rarely creates better-informed owners, and at its heart--investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

---

madeline woodward — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: madeline woodward Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To whom it may concern,
Please keep the current quarterly reporting for companies. I am a retired pathologist who spent thirty years saving, and want more oversight on the companies and people who stand to benefit from lax rules. The idea that our elected officials are allowing billionaires to blatantly manipulate markets and trade with insider knowledge, and are willing to make changes in systems that protect our investments and make it harder to prove is unacceptable.
Thank you,
Madeline Woodward

Sent from my iPhone

Mads Christensen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mads Christensen At its heart, investing is ownership. When I own a piece of a business, I deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Not the other way around.

MAG Auzenne Guillory — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: MAG Auzenne Guillory Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 STOP hiding for the rich!! Quarterly reports must stay in place.

Sent from my iPhone

Maggie Bixby — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Maggie Bixby Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I demand transparent and timely quarterly reporting

---

Maggie Brekken — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Maggie Brekken Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Magdalen Brekken Retired

KEEP this quarterly to promote honesty and accountability. This will provide protection for all who will use these businesses services.

Mahlon Krueger Investor we must continue to receive quarterly reporting. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mahlon Krueger Continue quarterly reporting. It is imperative for fair reporting!

Mairead Murray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mairead Murray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I manage my own investments. It is critical I have the most up to date information! Quarterly is what is needed not 6 month block out!

Malcolm Montgomery The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Malcolm Montgomery The proposed rule would reduce the frequency of public reporting by listed companies. This is bad for individual investors who need access to current, accurate information in order to make informed decisions about their investments. So I object to the proposed reporting rule.

Malcolm T Fukumoto — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Malcolm T Fukumoto When I received a Buy recommendation from any of my subscribed analysts, I must do some due diligence. I call my broker and try to obtain most current data on the company’s balance sheet, revenues, profits, FCF, Capex, expansion and growth plans, debt to asset ratio, and near future P/Es as examples. Most current data/information will help retired retail investors like me make better decisions.

Mammas Kassiotis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mammas Kassiotis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Sgt Cherylee Phillips USAF Munitions specialist and signs of corruption and decay like this are why I cashed out of ALL stock & corporate investing or even purchase products. This is killing our economy and people. May you reap everything you've sown. NO Allowing businesses to go "dark". After you reach a billion dollars in holdings 100% taxation is the only way to afford government.

Man Brown Jr. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Man Brown Jr. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We must keep quarterly reporting it is very important and we cannot change this. We must not allow companies to be mismanaged and we not know about it.

LaMar M Burrows

Man Utd VIP — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Man Utd Hospitality Options From: Man Utd VIP Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You don't want to miss this.

Hi

We have some great offerings for Man United 26/27 campaign. We have listed a number of packages.

Please let us know which game and which facility is of interest and we will send you a price across.

CLICK ian@eventbureau.co.uk for a price

Private Box - Only One Per Game Available

Ticket Plus (North West Quadrant) — The entry-level option. Suited to home supporters who want an enhanced matchday ticket with padded seating, a concourse meal deal, an official matchday programme, Megastore discount and non-matchday Museum entry. Seats are in Block NW3434.

500 Club — A casual, good-value choice. A vibrant matchday atmosphere in an informal sports bar venue at the heart of the stadium, ideal for groups.

Victoria Warehouse — An off-site option. Just a 300m walk from Old Trafford, giving you a pre-match atmosphere, complimentary drink and matchday programme, before making your way to the ground.

Salford Suite — A mid-tier suite. VIP seating on the halfway line in the Sir Alex Ferguson Stand offering prime views, combined with great food and a private bar. Dining is either pre-booked Salford Grill à la carte, or informal rotating street food options in the Salford Bar & Kitchen.

Evolution Suite (North East Quadrant) — A more sophisticated setting. The only facility within the ground which is glass fronted and overlooks the pitch and Manchester docks and quays. Guests enjoy à la carte dining before taking luxury padded seats.

Champions Club — Premium. Comprised of the Legends Lounge and the Sir Alex Suite in prime position inside the heart of Old Trafford, with executive seating on the halfway line in the Sir Alex Ferguson Stand.

Treble Suite — One of the top-end experiences at the stadium.
Executive Boxes — Private boxes for exclusive group entertaining.

Connect with us!

Event Bureau | 13 Hanover Square Mayfair | London, W1S 1HN GB
Unsubscribe | Update Profile | Constant Contact Data Notice

Mance J Davis Jr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mance J Davis Jr A reduction in reporting requirements inevitably results in diminished transparency for shareholders. As partial owners of the organization, shareholders possess a fundamental right to remain fully informed regarding company operations. Consequently, I strongly recommend a formal reconsideration of any proposals to scale back reporting frequencies or disclosures.

Mandi Warren — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mandi Warren Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop trying to hide stuff. Keep it at 3 months.

Thank You, Amanda Warren
602-312-6500

Mandy Loriot — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mandy Loriot AI makes repeating increasingly less expensive, and reducing transparency with less reporting is not the direction to go that helps with trust or makes insider trading and the kind of corruption people are noticing in trading around the current 2026 US Presidential government less likely. Please keep reporting quarterly.

Mandy McNabb — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mandy McNabb Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I want to write about the importance of transparency and accountability and whatever is most transparent and protective to everyone is valuable and needed.

---

manhatt05 manhatt05 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: manhatt05 manhatt05 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 PLEASE KEEP IT QUARTERLY!!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Manojkumar Sreekumar — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Manojkumar Sreekumar I would like to have the reporting done on a quarterly basis to provide transparency and clarity to the public, community and the investors.

Manon Johnson Mootly Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Manon Johnson Reducing the frequently of earnings reports limits the amount of information publically available for price discovery leading to less efficient market, higher volatility and worse allocation of capital!

Manuel Jacobo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Manuel Jacobo If the government lets companies release their financial information less frequently, then small investors will be left out of the information loop and only large institutional companies will have the information available to them to make profitable decisions. Smaller investors will be at a great disadvantage when it comes to investing. This is very unfair to the average investor.

Maralie Waterman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maralie Waterman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is important. Stay quarterly.
Maralie Waterman
Program Manager, Education

---

marayuki04 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: marayuki04 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a retail investor with nearly 100k invested. I am against a change to increase the reporting window. If anything, it should be reported weekly. The playing field should be fair for everyone involved.

Marc Adams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marc Adams I am writing to express my personal and professional opinion based on a long career of experience in favor of keeping the quarterly reporting requirements and against the semi-annual reporting proposal which I view as a monumental mistake. I was a former registered representative with Wells Fargo and spent a 28 year career in financial services in finance and risk management positions. I strongly believe in the value of quarterly reporting for transparency and accountability which is the hall mark of an efficient equity trading system and investment process. In a world that is moving faster, reducing the frequency of required reporting is a strong disservice to all stakeholders in the business.

Marc Arje None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marc Arje Need more reports not less

---

Marc Biales President Wild Berry Incense — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marc Biales Public information about any company should be available to its stockholders on a timely basis. To keep this information from the stock holder is a terrible idea. The idea of having fewer reports is ridiculous. Those that own the company should know what’s going on as frequent as possible.

Marc Dittle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comments on S7-2026-15 From: Marc Dittle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am 100% opposed to this change. Rolling reporting requirements back to 1955-era standards would reduce transparency, increase information gaps, and make it harder for investors to make informed decisions. Quarterly reporting helps ensure accountability, provides timely insight into company performance, and promotes confidence in our capital markets.

Thank you,
Marc J Dittle

Get Outlook for iOS

---

marc donis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: marc donis Really bad idea!

Marc Forget — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Marc Forget Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My financial advisor and I rely on quarterly reporting to determine the value of the funds that I hold. Anything less would prevent us from accurately assessing the market and our holdings leaving us at an extreme disadvantage. Please do not allow companies to have less transparency on what their true values are. We need quarterly reporting to make sound decisions in real time, for our retirement and non-retirement accounts.

MARC FORGET — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: MARC FORGET Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: My financial advisor and I rely on quarterly reporting to determine the value of the funds that I hold. Anything less would prevent us from accurately assessing the market and our holdings leaving us at an extreme disadvantage. Please do not allow companies to have less transparency on what their true values are. We need quarterly reporting to make sound decisions in real time, for our retirement and non-retirement accounts.

Marc Garland — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marc Garland Transparency in the financial sector is in the best interests of the general public. Increasing opacity by reducing private corporation reporting requirements serves the interests of corporations and their owners and decreases the general public's ability to make informed decisions on investments and understand the impacts (financial and otherwise) of corporations on their communities. Please reject the proposed rule to reduce corporate reporting requirements.

Marc Golab — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marc Golab More required reports are always better than LESS required reports An educated shareholder is always better than a CLUELESS shareholder

---

Marc Hutchison Motley Fool com — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marc Hutchison No no no. That is what I have to say about only filling twice a year company reports. Less information is always a bad idea.

Marc Sauve — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marc Sauve I feel quarterly reporting gives shareholders and investors more transparent information about a corporation's financial performance. Less frequent reporting will not help with transparency plus it would encourage boards to fudge important financial. I encourage you to keep quarterly reporting as a way to give shareholders more transparent info about a company's financials.

Marc Vergona Marc Vergona — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marc Vergona This is an afront to the American people, that not only do they hide earnings off shore to pay less taxes. Now they'll be able to hide even more money the federal government will lose out on in tax revenue. Score another one for the losers if you do this. Keep making the CEO's and their board more money. While the vast majority of Americans struggle so no make them report quarterly and then maybe some of the smarter ones can make some money out of the stock market too!

---

marc vuletich — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: marc vuletich Leave current reporting requirements as they are now. Its good to know how a company is doing if you are an investor.

Marc-Henri Cerar — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marc-Henri Cerar A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that’s a mistake! Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. I must respectfully ask that you do not to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Thank you for your attention to my concerns.

Marcel G Montreuil — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marcel G Montreuil The proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two years is a mistake! I like being able to access the reports becaause I invest on a regular basis and reaccess on a quarterly basis.

Marcella Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Marcella Anderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Criminals must be watched

Love, MA

Marcelo Zolessi Co-Founder & CEO CNTV (Convention News Television LLC) — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marcelo Zolessi Co-Founder & CEO I am submitting this comment as an individual investor, business owner, and CEO of a company that helps organizations communicate with their stakeholders. I oppose the proposed move from quarterly to semiannual reporting. Transparency is one of the fundamental principles that allows investors to make informed decisions. Public companies are owned by shareholders, and those shareholders deserve timely and consistent access to information regarding the performance, risks, and strategic direction of the businesses they own. Reducing reporting frequency from four times per year to two times per year would not reduce the need for information. Instead, it would increase uncertainty between reporting periods and potentially lead to greater market speculation and volatility when information is finally released. In today's environment, technology, automation, and artificial intelligence have made the collection, analysis, and dissemination of information more efficient than ever. The burden of providing quarterly updates is likely lower today than at any point in history. At the same time, investors have come to rely on regular disclosures as an important tool for evaluating management performance and capital allocation decisions. As someone who works professionally in communications, I have seen firsthand that more frequent communication generally strengthens trust and accountability. Less frequent communication rarely achieves the same outcome. For these reasons, I encourage the Commission to maintain quarterly reporting requirements and continue supporting transparency for individual investors and the broader investment community.
Respectfully, Marcelo Zolessi Co-Founder & CEO Convention News Television (CNTV) Winter Park, Florida

---

MARCEY SHORT — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: MARCEY SHORT Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We have a right to know the financial status of the company we invested in!!! We're retired and trying to stretch our income as much as possible. This proposal is absolutely ridiculous and unfair!
Marcey and John Short

Sent from my iPhone

Marchella Richardson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Marchella Richardson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely not !!! Keep it Quarterly!!!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Marcia Burnett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marcia Burnett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Not right or fair for the general public that invest what they can and keep an eye on it.....big wigs are srewing the public

---

Marcia DeFalco — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marcia DeFalco Keep the quarterly reporting!!!!!

Marcia deWerd retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marcia deWerd A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I believe 4X a year should be maintained. Do not reduce the number of public-company reports.

Marcia Fitzgibbons — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marcia Fitzgibbons Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Monthly reporting is necessary for investors. Quarterly is the bar we minimum

Marcia
Sent from my iPhone

Marcia Fitzgibbons — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marcia Fitzgibbons Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Monthly reporting is necessary for investors. Quarterly is the bare minimum

Marcia
Sent from my iPhone

Marcia Piccione — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Marcia Piccione Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: instead of making easier for corporations to scam the public, do your actual job, which is to protect the public

---

Marcia Power — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marcia Power Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Marcia Power, Retired Audiologist, part-time employee of a 501c3. These quarterly reports were required after a financial debacle that hurt the people, not the CEOs. There is a reason those reports are required, and the need for them has not changed. Changing the rules now is another example of deregulation when more regulation is required for accountability in the corporate and financial markets. Quarterly reporting is not too much and is, in fact, warranted by the fraud, manipulation of regulations, and corruption that is all too apparent in government, corporations, and the financial market. Constituents, customers, and investors are those who suffer from lack of regulation. There is no need to reduce the quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Marcia Purkiss — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marcia Purkiss Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We lived within our means financially so we could invest wisely and provide a foundation for our retirement years. Please safeguard our financial security. I truly fear the consequences of changing the required reporting and increasing possibility of corruption. William and Marcia Purkiss, Retired

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Marcia Sankey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marcia Sankey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We have quarterly reporting to prevent CORRUPTION!!! keep quarterly reporting.

Marcia Sankey, EdD
Instructional Coach
Jefferson City High School
Jefferson City School District

Marcia Seibert Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marcia Seibert Do not change quarterly reporting. It would allow abuses to the accounting process. Protect investors and keep quarterly reporting.

Marcia Spillane — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Marcia Spillane Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I respectfully request that company reporting remain as is - every quarter.

Marcia Spillane

Sent from my iPhone

Marcia Thompson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marcia Thompson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We desperately need accountability in this country!! Please, please keep quarterly reporting!!
Marcia Thompson
retired

Marco Antonio Alvarado Manager of Financing — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marco Antonio Alvarado Reducing transparency it will be detrimental to investors. Less information is always a bad idea. Most of the companies still need to prepare quarterly financial information if they have at least one loan with a commercial bank, which applies to most every single public company

---

Marcos Paredes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marcos Paredes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 They have already shown they can't be trusted. Quarterly reporting is already in place. Keep it there.

Marcos Paredes

Marcus Hatley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Marcus Hatley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is another way that I'm sure our fat * president and his goons will be able to transfer wealth, by ripping off investors.

Marcus Logan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marcus Logan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It'm concerned about being ripped off in funds being pulled out of my investments lowering stock value a lot. A lot of manipulations can happen within 6 months……

Sent from my iPad.

Marcus Tenorio Engineer at Sandia National Labs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marcus Tenorio I full heartedly disagree with the proposed semiannual reporting rule. We as small retail investors do not have a seat at the table for some of the world's largest and most influential companies. We rely upon publicly available information such as quarterly earnings reports and calls. This is the life blood of informed decision making. Reducing reporting events is a massive 50% reduction in news, data, and evidence that is needed to make informed decisions. In today's markets, a hell of a lot of news and movement can occur in 3 months, but 6 months can radically change the trajectory of a company and the calculus of why an individual is holding a company. There is no upside and no value added by reducing reporting. More information and data points are always better.

Marcy A Faiman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marcy A Faiman 6 months - No. 3 months - Yes. It's all about transparency.

Marcy Lloyd — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marcy Lloyd Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Wow... Attempting even further institutionalized alienation of a certain class of investors from important financial information is so shady and wrong. WE are the customers and users of your products and services, the ones that make your existence possible, meaning you work for US, and OWE us equal, timely, honesty and transparency. It looks like you arrogantly want to create a special clique, treating us as insignificant children or peons who shouldn't have the same financial information at the same time as everyone else so we can make current, informed decisions about investments and more. Yet another attempt to make an end run around American investors. Shameful and morally wrong. This should never have even been suggested! "Do unto others as you WOULD have them do unto you!" Does that mean you want others to treat you the same way? Marcene Lloyd Lloyd's of Rochester, owner/operator Rochester, NY

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Marcy Lucas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marcy Lucas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Marcy Lucas, retired, the new SEC proposal would let their financials go dark for six months at a time. While the executives, lawyers, and big institutional investors still know exactly how the business is doing, the rest of us won't know how well, or bad, they are doing. This is not fair to all! Stop this!

Sent from my iPhone

Marcy McLemore — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Marcy McLemore Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Marcy Mc retired
I check my investments and follow the market daily. I was one of many who lost over half of my retirement in the 2000. And have been pro active in what is happening with my investments. I want transparency from the Sec and this is not it. Stop this from happening.

Mare Kremser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mare Kremser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Is this how low we're going to bow to the billionaires and huge corporations? Allow them to obscure what little transparency that exists when private equity moves to cut up businesses, sell off assets and throw tens of thousands off employment rolls. Or advising creditors/suppliers/employees/pensioners when companies are failing. Are we changing all the rules for the very, very rich to operate under the radar even to investors and share holders?

Sent from my iPhone

Mare Saunders — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mare Saunders Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Knowledge is king and obstructing market changes is highway robbery to the public. Transparency in all aspects of the public and government is the right of the American people to and investors should have the same rights to market changes. There is no trust when you return to policies used in the 50's. Times have obviously changed for the better over the years and we have the rights to protect and change our portfolios as best we can. I think it's fair to state that if you remove quarterly reporting it removes someone reviewing the reports. That to me is negligent. If you make this SEC decision, then what happens to private companies who do quarterly reporting, will they follow suit. That opens the potential for fraud and companies will suffer. Please do not ruin our retirement plans and put our lives in danger by neglect. The question i would have, is who will be looking at the reports and controlling the market? The people have the right to information that is timely .

Maren Ernst — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maren Ernst Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to keep quarterly reporting. I am a care giver, using our savings to help pay for my husband's care as he intended, saving for years. This proposal would lead to disaster for us and others' retirements.

Maren Ernst
Retired

"Stop complaining and start a Revolution !"

Margaret Bonelli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Margaret Bonelli Please do not reduce reporting. Transparency is needed now more than ever.

Margaret Brittingham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Margaret Brittingham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Margaret Brittingham, retired teacher. I stand for 100% transparency all the time. We must stop institutionalizing corruption!

Margaret Brittingham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Margaret Brittingham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Margaret Brittingham, retired teacher. I stand for 100% transparency all the time. We must stop institutionalizing corruption!

Margaret Cho The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Margaret Cho We need companies to post public-company reports 4 times per year not reduce to 2 times per year.

Margaret Congdon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Margaret Congdon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the

Securities and Exchange Commission:
My portfolio is quite small compared to most. But it's also extremely important for my future Well-being.
Transparency is Vitallyimportant, I respectfully request that rules not be changed.
Margaret Congdon

Margaret Croner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Margaret Croner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep quarterly repirting. More transparency is required as there are many loopholes already in place. Putting your signature in a report hopefully does just that and prevents another 2008!

Margaret DuPrey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Margaret DuPrey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Don't allow a blackout for ANY length of time!
A blackout is not in the investors' best interests!

Margaret Hall DuPrey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Margaret Hall DuPrey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm small potatoes 🥔 in your market. Therefore, small changes are important to me. Keep the small investors in mind!

Margaret keene — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Margaret keene Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely keep quarterly reporting. Twice a year is not enough reporting to provide the information necessary to keep the investing public informed. Dropping the quarterly reporting requirement is simply asking for trouble. Deregulation and lax oversight has not worked out well before in a number of cases as you must know . Are you foolish enough to fail to learn from history? No change in quarterly reporting!

Sent from my iPad

Margaret L Goddard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Margaret L Goddard Dear Sir or Madam, Re: Reg FD Transparency is of the utmost importance. The ability to manage and report from quarter to quarter should be at a minimum. Please keep the private investor in mind; we are owners of the company and their progress (or other) may have a profound impact on our standard of living. Thank you for your attention in this matter.

Margaret Loh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Margaret Loh Please keep reporting to 4 time per year. This allows investors to make informed decisions.

Margaret Mason — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Margaret Mason Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We must keep the Quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Margaret McCourt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Margaret McCourt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop letting these irresponsible C.E.O. S make excuses for accountability.

Margaret McIntire — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Margaret McIntire Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting protects individual investors and large scale investors such as retirement funds from corporate malfeasance and insider trading.

Margaret Mullins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Margaret Mullins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why stop a rule that is working. Yes, it may be more difficult for the CEO's but this is not about their comfort.its about accountability.
Keep the rule in place
Margaret Mullins

Sent from my iPad

Margaret Peggy Kluthe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Margaret Peggy Kluthe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Businesses must continue to providing SEC reports every quarter, NOT every 6 months! Big organizations need to be scrutinized frequently, to keep them honest and protect the public.

Without quarterly accountability, we will move our stock holdings to international companies, because we won't have confidence in the U.S. system! Accountability is a foundational concept for a healthy, business society.

Thank you,
John Kluthe, Ph.D. and Margaret Kluthe, M.D.
Ogden, UT 84403

Margaret Ross — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Margaret Ross Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is important, we deserve to know the facts.

Margaret Ross
"Give a child a fish, they will eat for a day, teach them to fish, they will eat for lifetime." Chinese Proverb

---

Margaret Smelt Small investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Margaret Smelt I read from Moetly Fools that companies would only report to there investors only twice a year. As a small investor this i find difficult to understand that this would be aloud ,as with the multiple times a year we have now ,we read what these companies are doing and held accountable to the investors. As Investors are what help companies progress and grow, build on what they have and build new ways the companies can improve,and were they spending money,on research to improve there products ,companies wages being paied out ,and spending there money. if we can't find out from regular reporting buy the time we do hear we could be losing out in selling or buying into the companies . this is think is not helping the investors and regulators keeping companies honest and accountable. Regards M . Smelt

---

Margaret Soden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Margaret Soden I think changing the number of times companies report from four per year to two per year is not good for individual investors like me. I rely on the information to make my own investing decisions..

Margaret Stern — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Margaret Stern Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
More transparency is what the American people want, not less!!!

Margaret Taylor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Margaret Taylor Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarters matter in football and finance. Period.

Sent from my iPhone

Margaret Taylor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Margaret Taylor Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarters matter in football and finance. Period.

Margaret Taylor

Margaret Toub — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Margaret Toub Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello,

Please keep the quarterly reporting! Why would less reporting help the average person? I do not see how this benefits anyone except someone wanting to hide something.

This is not a concept I support and will likely need to pull investments if this is the case.

Thank you,
Margaret Toub
32049 windjammer dr
Lewes, DE. 19958

Sent from my iPad

Margaret Wise — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Margaret Wise Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The proposal to eliminate quarterly reports will hurt investors. Why do you want limit information and transparency? Why do you want to create more volatility? So insiders can make a buck and ordinary investors like me get hosed? If it ain't broke, don't fix it!

Marge Gianelli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Marge Gianelli Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Transparency is important for the investor and for the organizations .
Keep the reporting as it is. Absolutely opposed to six month reporting.

Margie Medeiros — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Margie Medeiros Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a private investor, timely information is necessary to ensure the security of our investments. This is especially true during financially volatile periods. We need freauent information for decision making. Changes that impact our personal finances occur almost daily - waiting six months is an obscenity. Please retain the quarterly review.

Margie Medeiros
ravenstitches@gmail.com

Margie White — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Margie White Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think it should remain quarterly.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Margie Wylie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Margie Wylie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is critical to financial transparency for small investors whose retirement income is tied up in stocks and other financial instruments. There are good reasons we instituted quarterly financial reporting after years of abuse and financial croneyism. Any move to cut the regularity can only be to benefit the corrupt. Is the FCC under this administration corrupt? No? Prove it. Keep financial reporting that benefits all, not just the ultra rich. Keep quarterly reporting.

Sent from Proton Mail for iOS.

Margret McKenzie The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Margret McKenzie as an business owner i would rather be informed

---

Margret Seibert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Margret Seibert I have learned today that a proposal is on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. This action would significantly reduce timely information investors, the company's stock holders, would have. As David Gardner, who co-founded The Motley Fool, has written: "Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners." Ignorance is not a virtue. Don't support this proposal to allow companies to report publicly only twice a year instead of quarterly. Investors deserve timely information and companies should be required to continue to report quarterly. Thank you.

Marguerite King — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marguerite King Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Private citizens have to report quarterly, and pay their taxes quarterly. Corporations have tax accountants and lawyers who do this sort of thing for a living. Are corporations trying to fire more workers by eliminating the work they do to report to the government? And without quarterly reports, a lot of very questionable things can slip by regulators that cannot be undone. To be on a safe side of this slippery, falling off a cliff economy, requiring quarterly reporting is not an unreasonable request. So, yes, report quarterly.

Mari Ferguson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mari Ferguson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange
I agree with the points made by Better Markets to not do away with Quarterly reporting.
"Quarterly reporting is one of the most important tools for retail investors to get information. A lot can go wrong in half a year: Ballooning debt, lawsuits, vanishing customers. Quarterly filings force it into the open".

"Transparency is the bedrock of a free and fair stock market. Corporate scandals where investors lose their money are often the result of gaps in financial disclosure. Quarterly filings don't prevent fraud, but they dramatically shorten the window in which it can fester."

"Retail investors need clear, accurate and timely information to make informed investment decisions. Insiders and institutional investors will always have the resources and relationships to get the information they need. Without quarterly reporting, retail investors are on an unlevel playing field, with no way to get timely information about public companies."

Mari Helmer The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mari Helmer Keep reporting to Quarterly. If not the rich will get richer insider trading while retail investors would be losing their hard earned money.

Mari Hlmr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Mari Hlmr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly! Already got laid off from tariffs and government funding cuts. Only the rich getting richer. They'll still trade info but retail investors will be left to pay.

Mari Helmer

Mari Londos — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mari Londos Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
It's OUR money! You are using our money and we deserve to know what's happening with it. We need quarterly reports. How dare you????

Maria Coulehan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Maria Coulehan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 More not less

---

Maria Cullen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Maria Cullen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Enron. WorldCom.

Madoff. The run-up to 2008. Every major modern accounting scandal was enabled by gaps and opacity in financial disclosure. Quarterly filings don't prevent fraud, but they dramatically shorten the window in which it can fester before someone outside the company can see it. What if Enron only had to cook their books twice a year? This will only create more “Enrons”

Sent from my iPhone

Maria Eddy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maria Eddy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Americans are sick of being lied to, manipulated, ripped off.

Sent from my iPad

Maria Hamilton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maria Hamilton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retiree living on a fixed income, I require frequent updates on my investments. I cannot plan effectively based on biannual information. I believe that if this rule is ever changed, it should be changed to monthly reports. That is the information which would help people like me. Do not change this rule to six month reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

---

maria love — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: maria love Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This would be bad for investing and great for white collar criminals. What moron came up with this, are they taking kickbacks? if you do this, you will be robbing the American people.

Maria Moll — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Maria Moll Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
My name is Maria, I’m a 60 year old blood donor recruiter from Cincinnati Ohio. I rely on quarterly information to make decisions about my retirement savings. As a person on the verge of retirement, this rule is a no go for me.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Maria Padilla — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Maria Padilla Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We all need to know what is going on with our investments.

Sent from my iPhone

---

maria warneke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: maria warneke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Trump's paws out of the stock market. He's destroying everything!!

Maria Piludu Warneke

+39 344-419-2839

Marian Morris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marian Morris Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC. KEEP the ACCOUNTING QUARTERLY!!!!!!

Marian O'Connor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marian O'Connor Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reports quarterly!
Retired - I need to follow my retirement funds. I need information more than twice a year. Don’t change it!
Marian O’Connor

Sent from my iPhone

Mariana Lightfoot — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mariana Lightfoot Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting. It is necessary to see what it really going on and not as much if allowed to go longer. Mariana Lightfoot Retired but care about accountability.

Mariann Hunt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mariann Hunt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 More oversight is needed, not less. Companies are getting away with too much. Stock holders need information to hold companies accountable.

Marianna Plumstead — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Marianna Plumstead Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do NOT return to semi-annual reporting. Liaten to the experts. Listen to history. Do your duty: act in the best interest of the majority of U.S. citizens who have worked and saved to build a modicum of wealth. You are there to serve the public, not to destroy it.

I am the executive chef at a small college in West Michigan. I make a modest living now, however, my salary would have been considered excellent a ten years ago in 2016. Today, however, it has become next to impossible to make ends meet. If you return to semi-annual reporting, you will effectively ERASE one third of my savings/investments, and minimize my ability to retire.
Stop trying to destroy the middle class. Stop catering to the über-wealthy. Do your job and protect us from Wall Street greed and wrecklessness.
Your function is to protect citizens and the earnings, not make it easier for them to steal from us.

Get Outlook for iOS

Marianne Butak Informed by The Motley Fool news and articles — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marianne Butak I write to you today to let you know that I am strongly against the proposed Semiannual Reporting Act. As an investor, I consider myself a partial owner in any given company. A six-month hiatus in communication leaves me in the dark regarding whether I might want to invest more or need to re-evaluate my investment. This could put my investments at a great risk. That risk may not be worth it for me. Multiply this over many investments that I have, and the many people who are invested in the 1000's of public companies in the country. It is not a improvement designed to help the people who fuel the companies we invest in.

Marie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Marie Ballerini-Hougnon Former (UN"vaccinated"/Plantiff FedsForFreedom vs Biden) Department of State employee; and U.S. Army Veteran.
While I don't have much invested, I do have some… and it is part of my children's inheritance. I make growing my wealth based on quarterly reports. They should remain as is.

Best regards,

Marie Ballerini-Hougnon
email: marieballerinihougnon@gmail.com
US Mobile | Signal | WhatsApp: 240.372.5766

Marie Cline — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marie Cline Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It needs to be kept quarterly! The public suffers enough as it is! We don't need to pick up the retailers loss as well.

Sent from my iPhone

Marie Cook — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Marie Cook Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What's the point in all of Trumps fraud investigations if the SEC just hands out get out of jail free cards. Nobody is above the law i dont care how rich you are. Accountability stands for something its there to hold people accountable. Drop letting crooks off the hook for fraud.

Marie Hiland — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marie Hiland Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting the same

---

Marie Hummell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marie Hummell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Marie Hummell Retired. I need stability.

Marie Koch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marie Koch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Maintain quietly reporting…

Marie NicholsBritt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marie NicholsBritt You wouldn't be OK with this if it was affecting your paycheck and decision-making properties. why do you think it's OK for you to do it to us?

---

marie scott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: marie scott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep what we have! Decisions are made with more recent information. Marie Scott retired nurse, wife and parent.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

---

marie shepard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: marie shepard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Accountability is a must, every quarter!

Sent from my iPhone

Marie Titolo — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marie Titolo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You would just be giving companies more room to commit fraud. We already have far too much.

Thank you

Sent from my iPhone
Marie Titolo
+ 949 338-1883
MarieTitolo@icloud.com

Mariella de Jong The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mariella de Jong The US economy is strong because it attracts investment, both domestic and international. One of the reasons the US attracts those investments is because of the transparency and regulatory frameworks governing investments. Breaking down this transparency by eliminating half of the reporting may be good for some insiders, but it is definitely not good for the US economy at large. It will make the US markets less attractive for investment, and investors may move their investments elsewhere.

Mariella Koster — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mariella Koster Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The SEC's proposal of making quarterly reporting optional gives large companies the option of semiannual reporting, making everyday investors go six months without a formal, standardized look at the company's finances, which is a real gap.
While companies could still issue voluntary earnings releases, those lack the legal rigor and audit review of a formal filing, giving them more room to shape the narrative. Individual investors, unlike institutional ones with direct company access, rely heavily on these structured disclosures to make informed decisions — and a longer silence benefits those with insider relationships far more than it benefits the rest of us.

Maril Biro — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Maril Biro Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The quarterly reports must remain as law.
It’s proven that fraud will happen if CEOs are not held accountable.
I’m still burning that when Enron happened the CEOs got big bonuses and the peons whose money it all was, got the shaft. The rich are rich enough. The hard working peons are having a hard time affording food and housing and health care. We are the ones who pay your wages. Work for us, Not the rich who, by the way, hardly pay any taxes.
I worked for 60 years and hardly have anything to retire on bc of all the money grabbing greedy rich who keep wanting more out of us peons. I thought that is why people populated America. To get away from all the taxing and money-grabbing wealthy who just want more and more. Now America is the same greedy mess with the rich making the rules and getting richer. Really. How much money do the wealthy need? They are OCD with money and keep grabbing it from is. But we need to eat. We need to go to doctors. We need a roof over our heads… and those costs keep going up as well . You can’t get us to give any more. Stop all the wealth going to a few. Let the peons have enough to live on.

Maril Biro

Sent from my iPhone

Marilin Ortiz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Marilin Ortiz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
As a retiree, transparency matters and we have a fair stock market. It s important to avoid volatility in the stock prices. I don't agree with eliminating the quarterly reporting. It will be like the SEC blindfolding regular people like me. I need as more information as possible. Thank you.

Marilu Gehen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marilu Gehen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is imperative!

Sent from my iPhone

Marilyn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marilyn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting should stay. To change it would be a terrible blow to everyone.

Sent from my iPhone

Marilyn Adams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marilyn Adams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT THE SAME AS IT CURRENTLY IS!!!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Marilyn Barcellos — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Marilyn Barcellos Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
You should be held accountable Quarterly. This keeps you on your toes and Honest. The BEST way would be Bi-monthly--- 6 times a year! Yeah -- it's more work but it's also more accountable!!!! twice a year-- what you are hoping for, is NOT GOOD for the public and investors.....why????
We would not be able to keep track of what you are doing. It gives YOU more time to hide under mid-management/ fraud and criminal activities.
Quarterly..... Period !!!!!!'
Marilyn Barcellos

Marilyn Boyden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marilyn Boyden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a “small investor” I would like to CONTINUE to have the same safety precautions as I have had! I would LIKE TO THINK this government works for me, too! SO INCREDIBLY SICK OF THE CORRUPTION that allows so much to be hidden from public view! As a retiree I WANT A QUARTERLY Review to continue!

Marilyn Hardyman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marilyn Hardyman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep my statements QUARTERLY!

Marilyn Hardyman
Sent from my iPhone

Marilyn Macan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marilyn Macan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly. Our hard earned savings are your bread and butter. Marilyn Macan, retired RN

Marilyn Minkin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marilyn Minkin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the quarterly reporting requirement as it currently stands. Switching to every six months is less transparent and the general public might not be aware of changes until much later and could experience financial losses due to the later reporting. There are too many changes currently being made by the government. There is no need to switch to SEC reporting every six months. Marilyn Minkin

Sent from my iPad

Marilyn Owings — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marilyn Owings Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is important to keep track of what is happening. Quarterly reporting insures that transparency. It needs to remain that way. Sincerely Marilyn Owings. Teacher

---

Marilyn Petersen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marilyn Petersen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY!! MARILYN PETERSEN, Retired from a Top Fortune 100 company in Nashville. TN

Marilyn Thomas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Financial reporting From: Marilyn Thomas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly financial reporting provides investors with timely and meaningful information about a company’s financial health, allowing them to make informed decisions about their investments. More frequent reporting gives investors the opportunity to respond to changing business conditions—whether that means increasing their investment, adjusting their strategy, or taking action to mitigate potential losses.

From a lender's perspective, quarterly reporting is an important risk-management tool. It provides ongoing visibility into a borrower's financial performance, cash flow, operational trends, covenant compliance, and the potential impact of broader economic conditions. Regular reporting allows lenders to identify emerging challenges early and work collaboratively with borrowers before issues become more significant.
Moving reporting requirements from quarterly to semiannual does not enhance transparency or protect the interests of everyday investors or lenders. Instead, it reduces access to timely information and delays the ability of stakeholders to respond to changing circumstances. Less frequent reporting primarily benefits company insiders by providing greater flexibility and fewer points of accountability, while placing outside investors and lenders at a disadvantage.

Marilyn Thomas
55 Four Winds Road
Portland, Maine 04102

Sent from my iPhone

Marilyn H. Thomas

Marina Campbell The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marina Campbell Pleasee keep reporting at its current frequency; consumers and investors need MORE information, not LESS.

Mario A Vinasco — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mario A Vinasco In the age of AI we need more information, not less. We need more frequent business updates. This does not increase cost it increases transparency. Please maintain at least the quarterly reporting, and add some monthly update requirments.

Mario Gonzalez Fedex package handler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mario Gonzalez You're keeping us in the dark where we are putting our money in to save pennies for them and taking away jobs. Fraud can grow within that increased time span, people could lose their life savings. I also think it would make it easier to misplace money such as investing in a medical company for a disease you have and you would have to be kept in the dark for longer where nothing could actually be working.

MARIO S. MORACA (INVESTOR) THE MOTLEY FOOL COMMUNITY — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: MARIO S. MORACA (INVESTOR) TIMELY INFORMATION IS A CRITICAL FACTOR IN INVESTING ONE'S MONEY. QUARTELY REPORTS ARE MOST IMPORTANT SOURCE OF INFORMATION WHEN INVESTING. THEREFORE I, AS AN ACTIVE INVESTOR WOULD LIKE THE PRACTICE TO CONTINUE AS IS. PERSONALLY I WOULD PREFER QUARTERLY REPORTS RATHER THAN SEMIANNUAL REPORTS ABOUT THE FINANCIAL POSITION AND CONDITION OF A PUBLIC CORPORATION IN WHICH I AM INVESTED OR PLAN TO INVEST. THANK YOU FOR PROVIDING A POSITIVE OUTCOMETO MY REQUEST.

Marion Charette — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Marion Charette Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange afford Commission:
Transparency and accountability are everything in financial dealings. Please do not allow this change to happen because it will be moving our country further and further backwards! Investors have the right to expect accountability and there's no GOOD reason to lower the amount of accountability required.

Marion Katz CPA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marion Katz It is hard enough for the average investor to understand the markets, with less reporting the playground is ripe for taking advantage of those dependent upon others for the "truth". More information leads to more educated investing.

Marion Palopoli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marion Palopoli Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No no no no Marion palopoli JPM retired managing director.

MARION PUTNAM — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: MARION PUTNAM Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Going to a semi-annual reporting option would NOT benefit me at all!

My advisor and I review my documents whenever I request a review. Not having current updated information at my disposal limits my ability to make informed decisions on changes and initiating options.

Currently the quarterly option forces companies to surface all information, good and bad, affording me the opportunity to make an informed decision on how to invest my money. Under the new option the powers-that-be can sit on bad information for six months at a stretch. This allows companies plenty of time for insiders to quietly sell their shares [to me] before bad news tanks the stock.

This is just another way for the rich to get richer at my expense!

Thanks for listening!

Marion Putnam

Marion Ringquist — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marion Ringquist Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly Reporting! It is our method to hold the line on accountability, thank you! No more loop holes needed for these corporations! !

---

marion thomas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: marion thomas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not let this action go forward. The American public has suffered enough With the bogus lawsuits And other actions that have Drained the United States Economy At the taxpayers expense. This measure would further serve To keep the average taxpayer blinded An uncertain about long-term Financial stability in retirement

---

Marisa Handler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marisa Handler We need quarterly annual reports. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Please do not make this terrible idea reality.

Marji — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marji Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Marjorie Chiavacci,CRNA. How do you think this is good for anyone. I have to report my quarterly earnings so I can pay taxes. My opinion is ABSOLUTELY NOT!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Marjorie Borchardt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marjorie Borchardt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I totally agree with quarterly reporting. I am retired, and I want to know how much money I will have available to me throughout the year. Twice a year does not cut it. I worked hard as a nurse for 42 years at an inner city hospital in Wisconsin, and I want more regular access to my investment portfolio. In turn, I can then more intelligently interact and plan with my financial advisors. Marjorie Borchardt

---

Marjorie Cunnane — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marjorie Cunnane Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep SEC reporting quarterly!!

MARK & SHARON BEETEM — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: MARK & SHARON BEETEM Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Reporting should be quarterly. With the economy having its ups ans downs, consumers need to be able to see information on their investments.

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Mark A Riley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark A Riley Semi-annual reporting is adequate. It works in Europe. It will save substantial unnecessary costs and reduce the noise associated with short-term, meaningless timing differences.

Mark Adams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Adams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the financial reports quarterly!! STOP screwing the small time investor .....just trying to get by !! STOP the * FRAUD!! Upper management has enough money already.....Stop being so * GREEDY!
Mark Adams

Mark Alspaugh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Alspaugh As individual investors, we deserve regular, transparent communication from business we have invested in. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and its owners. Please DO NOT allow companies to reduce reporting requirements. There is no doubt AI will reduce the time and cost required to produce these reports. Thank you.

Mark and Nora Baker Professor of law- U Texas Austin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark and Nora Baker Proper recording is critical and needed!

Mark Anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Anderson Please leave required reporting at a quarterly interval. I find this cadence useful in building trust in my investments. Semi-annual leaves far too much time for changes in the underlying business health before reporting.

Mark Bevacqua Retired IT Professional — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Bevacqua Please maintain quarterly reporting by public companies as this is necessary and timely info needed to evaluate stock investments. 6 month reporting is much too long to wait for company reporting.

Mark Boerma — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Boerma Opposition to Reducing Public Company Reporting Requirements The proposal to allow public companies to reduce reporting from quarterly to semiannual disclosures would undermine transparency, weaken shareholder oversight, and ultimately harm individual investors. Public markets function best when investors have timely access to accurate information. Quarterly reporting provides shareholders with regular insight into company performance, strategic developments, risks, and opportunities. Reducing official disclosures from four reports per year to two would create longer periods of uncertainty and leave investors operating with less reliable information. Proponents argue that fewer reports would reduce compliance costs and discourage short-term thinking. However, modern technology, automation, and AI-driven reporting tools have significantly reduced the burden of disclosure. Moreover, short-termism is driven by investor behavior and market incentives—not by the existence of information itself. Limiting transparency does not encourage long-term decision-making; it simply leaves investors less informed. Less frequent reporting could also increase market volatility. With longer gaps between disclosures, important developments may accumulate, leading to larger surprises when information is finally released. This can result in sharper market reactions, greater uncertainty, and reduced confidence among shareholders. Investors are owners of the businesses in which they invest. Owners deserve regular communication about the companies they own. Public companies operate continuously throughout the year, and shareholders should not be asked to wait six months at a time for comprehensive updates on their performance. For decades, regulators and market participants have worked to expand transparency and improve access to information. Reducing reporting frequency would move in the opposite direction. The interests of investors, market integrity, and public trust are best served by maintaining robust quarterly reporting requirements.

Mark Butala — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Butala Seriously? In what world is this a prudent idea for investers/stock holders? Once again....the little guys are going to get stepped on?

Mark C Leming Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark C Leming Reducing reporting requirements is a terrible idea. Scammed will take advantage of it and investors will end up baring the cost. Don't do it.

Mark Cannon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Cannon Quarterly reporting protects individual investors. Semiannual reporting doubles the information gap between insiders and ordinary shareholders. That gap is where volatility, uncertainty, and mistrust grow. The short-termism diagnosis doesn't justify this remedy. Research from the CFA Institute, which studied this exact maneuver in the U.K. market, shows that reporting frequency has no measurable effect on corporate investment behavior. The SEC is accepting a real cost – less transparency for individual investors – for a benefit that the evidence says simply won't materialize.

Mark Clayton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mark Clayton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep the quarterly reporting in place. This is the best available information that buyers and sellers have to value stocks. The information, processes and procedures are already in place to minimize costs. Reducing this to semi annually will have little impact on companies costs but will hurt the public in trying to determine how much a company is worth. It would also give insiders a significant lead time ahead of the public if there was a material change in their business. In era where so much information is online with efficiencies and artificial intelligence there should be more available information and available sooner to the public, not less.

Mark Corl — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Corl I'd like to express my strong opposition to the proposal allowing public companies to reduce financial reporting from quarterly to semiannual disclosures. As a self-directed individual investor, I manage my own capital and rely heavily on timely, quarterly fundamental data to evaluate business performance, monitor execution, and manage portfolio risk. Waiting six months for official financial updates is entirely unacceptable in today's fast-moving market. Reducing reporting frequency will not eliminate short-term market pressures. Instead, it will create a dangerous information vacuum, increase market uncertainty, and lead to massive earnings surprises and heightened volatility. Furthermore, it structurally disadvantages the independent retail investor while favoring institutional insiders. In an era of advanced digital accounting and AI-driven efficiency, the argument that quarterly reporting is too burdensome no longer holds water. Transparency is the bedrock of market integrity. I urge the Commission to protect self-directed investors and maintain mandatory quarterly reporting. Thank you!

Mark Covarrubias — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mark Covarrubias Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the SEC:

I'm for keeping the stock market financial reporting on a quarterly basis in order to make informed and sound decisions about my retirement account.
Sincerely, Mark Covarrubias
California R.N.

Mark D Dungey private investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark D Dungey Please do not allow publicly traded companies to go to semi annual reporting. As a share holder of many various companies I want to stay informed. Thank You.

Mark D None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark D I believe the current quarterly reporting requirement works best. A lot can change in three months, and I like to be able to see progress (or deterioration) on company's results. I oppose allowing public companies to report on a semi-annual basis. This would erode trust and confidence in the markets. I believe allowing semi-annual reporting would save very little money while allowing companies with bad results to hide this information from the owners for a longer period of time. Thank you.

Mark D. Klinger None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark D. Klinger With all due respect to the SEC and numerous other stewards of our economy, this proposal is a very shortsighted and ill-conceived idea from an investor standpoint, regardless of whether that investor is a self-directed individual, a hedge fund manager, or a bank executive. Considering the vast & untold amounts of money that the world's inhabitants presently have committed to the numerous institutions and exchanges composing the overall stock market, it would be an incomprehensible disservice to every single investor if those same organizations are permitted to file their reporting on a bi-annual basis rather than quarterly the way it has always been. Simply put, investors require at least that level of transparency from companies in order to make timely & well-informed decisions about where (and to what extent) to deploy their money. Whether a position results in a win, loss, or draw, every investor is well aware of the risks and rewards inherent in our country's stock market(s), but allowing companies to reduce the frequency of their critical reporting doesn't help matters at all, it only risks increasing the level of volatility in a sufficiently unpredictable environment. I implore you, not just as an individual investor but also as a current member of the The Motley Fool Community, please make the right decision in this matter: keep quarterly reporting in place.

Mark DiGiacomo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark DiGiacomo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is dangerous and sows the seeds of massive fraud and financial collapse. Don't do this!
Mark DiGiacomo, producer

Mark DiRollo Private Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark DiRollo Twice a year reporting is a mistake that will make financial reporting more opaque and less transparent. This will not serve the long term interests of the investment community nor the companies seeking their financial support. As a private investor I strongly urge to not allow this proposed concept to become common practice.

Mark Dushkin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Dushkin Please do NOT reduce corporate disclosures from quarterly to semi-annual. Investors and general public need MORE information not less.

Mark Foust — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Foust Please keep all reporting quarterly. As an investor I deserve to know the financial health of the companies I am a part owner in. With all the new technology it should be even easier for these companies to distribute this information which is crucial. There is no reason to lessen the ability for share holders to get this information. Thanks

---

MARK FRANKLIN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: MARK FRANKLIN Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Tell me why the current method isn't sufficient and just who will be trading because they have up to date information. Someone must benefit from this idea and my guess is that it isn't just the every day trader but the richest of the rich who will have inside information.

Get Outlook for iOS

Mark fritsch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark fritsch I think changing reporting rules is a huge mistake. Individuals will have less information to make an informed decision. And managers will have more opportunity to cover up mistakes or abuses.

Mark Gaffen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Gaffen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 A lot can change in 6 months with a company. If we are not informed of what is happening within the company, we could lose a lot of money depending on what the company may be doing quietly. Please keep the quarterly reporting so companies can't hide financial information that could be detrimental to investors. For example, knowing that Intel stopped paying dividends was important to know when considering whether to keep it or sell it. Thanks for reading my comments, Mark Gaffen - retired engineer

---

Mark Garcia — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Garcia I understand that a proposal is on the table to allow companies to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that's a mistake. I oppose any change that would reduce the reporting requirements on publicly traded corporations. This information is important for shareholder knowledge and awareness of changes or weakness in the companies fundamentals. Please do not permit this change.

Mark Geiger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mark Geiger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Retain quarterly reporting requirements. The recent tendency has been to reduce reporting and accountability requirements. Like many other standards, these mandates were developed after the failures of prior lax oversight, such as those associated with bank failures in the Great Depression and recent Enron collapse. The cost in turmoil, human suffering as well as stability for the financial system were immense. More consistent oversight is essential in an increasingly complex financial system.
Mark Geiger

Sent from my iPhone

Mark Gentzel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Gentzel Public company reporting is extremely important to all investors. Without reporting we lose the necessary transparency that makes investing in well run companies possible. I strongly support continuing to require regular reporting as is now required without any of the proposed changes in this measure.

Mark Gransden Sr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Gransden Sr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It would be a mistake to change this requirement in my opinion

Mark

Mark Harrison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Harrison It would be a step backwards to remove the requirement for quarterly reporting. The only likely effect of such a change would be to allow more time for a CEO who is worried about how their business is doing to hide bad news in the hope of catching a lucky break, or to use financial shenanigans to attempt to hide it. The bad news will still eventually come out, to a larger reaction from investors, and in tough times this will amplify volatility and hurt investors. Every company, regardless of size, should be paying enough attention to their finances to prepare financial statements, and should be sharing them amongst management and investors to improve their communications and their planning. Once a company has the processes in place to prepare financials, the extra work required to do so quarterly over half as often is negligible. Any well-run company is closing its books monthly, after all. Instead of reducing reporting requirements, it would be better for the Commission to work on expanding access to the information already in reports so that individual investors can efficiently search the data therein. We are almost there with the XBRL tagged data.

Mark Hart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Mark Hart Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stay with quarterly reporting of public companies. The stock market needs more transparency, not less.

Mark R Hart
Managing Partner
Cornerstone Management LLC
73 Portal Road

Rodeo, NM 88056
954-709-4230 mobile/SMS
833-523-2443 Fax

Mark Hatfield None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Hatfield Please continue to require public companies to continue reporting quarterly. I consider it a responsibility of publicly traded companies to communicate to the public in a structured manner. It is a cost of doing business and a cost of having the privilege of access to public markets. Thank you for your consideration.

Mark Holaday — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Holaday As an owner of many individual companies' stock, I want reporting to remain quarterly, and not reduced to just twice per year. Such a move would reduce transparency and make investing more dangerous.

Mark Hottinger None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Hottinger Please do not reduce the number of times a company is required to report to th public. Transparency is essential. If companies need to reduce costs, they can pay their CEOs or board members just a little less.

Mark Imhof — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Imhof Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting should be more stringent and not relaxed in order to provide more accountability of management.

Mark Imhof, CPA

Sent from iPhone

Mark Imhof
(917)207-5191

Mark Janovic — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Janovic Reducing the number of times investors receive information to twice a year does not serve the investor. We need more timely information 4 times a year to understand how the company is managing. Moving to less communication is harmful to investors and could lead to more volatile swings in the stock market, possibly making the economy less stable over time.

Mark Jaszkowski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Jaszkowski Look, this is just wrong! Why go backwards in transparency? AI is going to make it both easier and cheaper for companies to report. Investors are owed transparency and accurate information upon which to base investment decisions. Six months is a lifetime in many industries. I also plan to connect with my elected representatives in Washington who may have to step in and rule the rule makers. Mark Jaszkowski

---

Mark Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mark Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There's enough corruption with the laws we have. Only the corrupt would want to make it easier for the malefactors to prey upon the system. "Let men be good, then the government cannot be bad. If it is I'll, they will cure it. But if men be bad, let the government never be so good. They will endeavour to warp and spoil it to their turn." Our president openly flouts the emoluments clause. For Honor's sake please do not follow in his noxious footsteps.
Mark Jones,
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Mark K Thompson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mark K Thompson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In a time when we are disclosing more than ever. Why should you hide a publicly traded stock? This has abuse written all over it. I vote no, on hiding what the full picture of an organizations fiscal situation American citizens should have a clear idea of where to invest. This has swamp written all over it. Let see the IG recommendation!

Mark Keleher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Keleher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a lifelong investor. The costs of quarterly reporting in the age of AI are quite low. It is ridiculous to delay reporting to 6 months. We should be considering monthly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Mark Kiefer Motley Fool Community/Attorney/Individual Stock Owner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Kiefer We need more information from publicly traded companies; not less. News and information has the ability to be shared instantly, whether that be good news, bad news, or fake news. If companies want the ability to raise funds by offering their stock on a public market, they need to follow the rules. Those rules require quarterly reporting to the public. Changing those quarterly reporting requirements to simply just twice a year would ONLY benefit the key stakeholders (major stockholders/Boards/certain high-level officers). The public, who is already the last to know, would suffer. If anything, publicly-traded companies should be required to disclose more information and disclose more frequently, not less frequently.

Mark Kirch N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Kirch Eliminating the requirement for quarterly reporting is a terrible idea. It will disempower individual investors, giving the advantage to larger entities with the ability to glean and process data that ordinary citizens don't have access to. Quarterly reporting is an important element in keeping public corporations accountable and honest to shareholders, and removing this requirement would allow problems to remain concealed for longer and prevent true price discovery by the market at large. I urge you to reject this misguided idea that would only benefit bad actors in the corporate community.

Mark Kliethermes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mark Kliethermes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 For one time in your lives, could you please stop, think, and care for other people? Don't you have enough money and power? Transparency is the best attribute of ANY relationship. This includes marriage, children, parents, neighbors, friends, and yes, even enemies. Please do not do this. Please think of the little guy who struggles every day of their lives. Men, women, and children will be harmed by this.

Mark Kroll — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Kroll Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Wall Street is always looking for a way to hide things. Then when it’s too late Wall Street turns to government for a bailout. This is what happens every time regulations get weakened.

Respectively
Mark R Kroll
314-560-5408

Mark Langholz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Langholz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It may be unwise to relax the reporting timetable - gives compsnied more time to fix the books and reduces transparency for investors.

Sent from my iPhone

Mark Lazzaro — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mark Lazzaro Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Companies need to keep quarterly reports such that investors can make an informed decision as to invest.

Mark Lindenlaub The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Lindenlaub I am AGAINST moving from quarterly to semi-annual reporting. As an investor, I utilize quarterly reports to inform my investment decisions. The proposal to cut this information by 50% would severely impact my ability to make investment decisions in response to the often rapidly changing industry conditions. Thank you for your consideration of my position. Sincerely, Mark Lindenlaub

---

Mark Little CPA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Little I am against the proposed regulation. I think this creates less transparency. Investors should be getting more information from the company's they own and not less. Plus reporting twice a year instead of 4 times per year will increase surprises and sharp volatility when information is released after longer wait times.

Mark Lorenzano Individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Lorenzano Quarterly reports are a must!

Mark Magleby — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mark Magleby Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Mark Magleby, owner/manager of a small business. Quarterly taxes must be reported and paid to government, public companies must follow this rule and report to shareholders for full disclosure.

Mark Mandelbaum — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mark Mandelbaum Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 it is tough enough to invest responsibly and prudently. cutting the reporting requirements in half can only hurt investors like me trying to build equity andgrow retirement accounts. this proposal is a mistake which will benefit the wrong interests.

Mark Matulaitis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Matulaitis Do not reduce the number of filing required by publicly owned companies. This would reduce ownership visibility into the companies operations

---

Mark McKeown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark McKeown I think moving to semiannual reporting is an awful idea. Lack of visibility into what's going on is always a risk to the public. It would save the companies a little money, but not much. Most of the work producing the reports can easily be automated. Cost of printing is negligible since most copies are distributed electronically. But the real issue is visibility. Investors need to know what's going on and more frequent reporting is important. Thank you.

Mark Messina — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Messina Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting on a quarterly basis

---

Mark Miles — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mark Miles Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a step backwards. It helps nobody, unless you count those that don't need help. This is bad for the USA.

Mark MIller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark MIller As an individual investor, having access to regularly financial reports is essential to my investing processes. As such, I believe that any decision to reduce the required number of reports to investors throughout any given year would have a negative impact upon both my understanding of business health and direction, as well as, my trust in organizational leadership. In the absence of "current" data one would, by necessity, be more likely to respond to market volatility instead of informed decision-making, the result of which would have to destabilize the market to some extent. I assume that, like me, most investors would interpret any attempt to reduce communication as a self-serving effort to control the narrative. As I understand the role of the SEC, it has three primary objectives: to protect investors, to maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets, and to facilitate capital formation. It would seem that S7-2026-15 is out of sync with the part about protecting investors. In the event that S7-2026-15 is affirmed, I will be looking at companies who choose transparency to their investors over the self-serving designs of big business. All that to say, I am opposed to S7-2026-15.

Mark Miller N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Miller I am, respectfully, writing to request that the SEC NOT reduce the number of public company reports from four times per year to two. If anything, we should have more information and transparency, not less to make informed decisions about how our money should be invested.

Mark Mitchell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Mitchell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Protecting the investors makes far more sense than the companies, economically.

Without trust investments will shrink.

Mark Moe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Moe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to know via quarterly reporting! Only fair!

Mark Naples — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Naples The proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two is a mistake! Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners/investors and less information rarely creates better-informed owners/investors. I am against this change.

Mark Nass MBA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Nass To reduce the currently required quarterly financials reporting for publicly-traded companies is a dis-service to the investing public. Currently, it is difficult to get reliable financial information on public companies, and the quarterly reporting requirements "force" management to prepare and release accurate data, along with management comments regarding the future, usually both short-term and long-term. Please reject this proposal that will make financial information more difficult to obtain. Thank you.

Mark Neahring — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Neahring As part of The Motley Fool Community, I strongly oppose this change. Public companies need to continue to have as much transparency and accountability as possible.

Mark O Stephan Finacial Advisor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark O Stephan Please keep the quarterly reporting standard.

Mark O'Brien — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mark O'Brien Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change the current quarterly reporting system that helps to preserve transparency and confidence regarding insider trading at corporations. there’s a reason that this regulation was put into place and should be maintained at all cost. Do not make it easier for people in power to pull the wall over the American public’s eyes. If you allow this change to go through you personally are allowing the decay and destruction of democracy in the United States of America. Respectfully, Mark OBrien, Ohio 45231

Mark Oddi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Oddi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is corruption to totally favor huge corporations and limit individual investors with these rules. Please don't cheat us.

Mark Peterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Peterson I oppose changing the reporting requirement from quarterly to semiannually. Shareholders are owners. Owners need performance and regulatory compliance information to make informed decisions. Keep the reporting requirements quarterly.

Mark Pfeifer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mark Pfeifer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No. Quarterly reports are required.

Mark Pfeifer
Sent from my iPhone

Mark Price — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Price What about the little guy? Let me get this straight, The President is exempt, Congress has filing rules but their almost never enforced, The biggest banks on Wall street have access to information we may never see and now companies will get to let us know whats happening internally only twice a year. Tell me why I should have confidence in this system when what we have is already slanted against us small investors. Report the truth! Give us a chance to save some of our little dollars before everyone mentioned above gets out or in before we even know whats about to happen. If anything their should be more reporting not less. Keep the 10-k, 10-q and any other forms of mandatory reporting already in place. Penalize those companies or entities or individuals who refuse/abuse the reporting guidelines. Hold someone criminally responsible once in a while so we know the current guidelines are working. Ultimately greater transparency for individual investors should be the goal after all it's our money and our futures that mater most. We are the ECONOMY!

Mark Querr CFO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Querr Investors deserve timely information Deferring reporting puts investors at risk and allows management to play game. There is no compelling reason to shorten reporting frequency It’s a recurring process and good corporate governance

---

Mark Rittenberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Rittenberg It's hard enough for individual investors to make informed and timely decisions about the market. We live in a time when the news about government making trades based on inside information is non-stop. Why make it worse by limiting the information available to the American public? Please keep the information flowing and do not reduce the reporting requirements.

Mark Roberson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Roberson In todays world where things are changing so fast, it really helps if we can see results every quarter to make sure we understand that our investments are safe.

Mark Robinson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Robinson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an investor, I need quarterly reports from companies. Do NOT change this rule.

Sent from my iPhone

Mark Rockley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Rockley Maintain greater transparency

---

Mark Rogers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mark Rogers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is no conceivable justification for easing reporting requirements. It will only invite fraud.

"Self-reverence, self-knowledge, self-control. These three alone lead to sovereign power."
Alfred Lord Tennyson

Mark Ruth — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Ruth Please keep the current financial reporting frequency every (90) days, or (4) times per year. Individuals with significant portfolios need to keep the information of performance and return current so adjustments can be made to improve performance and portfolio direction.

Mark s Nullman none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark s Nullman This is not a good idea. Do not change the reporting requirements.

Mark Schlager — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Schlager Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Investors have a right to confirm accountability.

---

mark schott none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: mark schott When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Mark Schulte — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Schulte Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly Reporting must not be altered unless it is to demand that public corporations publish Monthly Reports. Additionally, the SEC should require full transparency from corporations when reports are generated.

Mark Scura — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mark Scura Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is what America deserves and demands.

Sent from my iPhone

Mark Senior na — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Senior I do not support reducing the frequency of corporate reporting from 4 times a year to two. As a shareholder, I am one of the company owners and demand to be informed of the company performance once a quarter. Companies produce accounting statements every month. Sharing information with the owners 4 times a year should be the minimum.

Mark Shanahan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mark Shanahan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mark Shanahan, Teacher, if anything, reporting should be moved up to monthly. With digital resources, speed and accuracy can be maximized. There is no reason to slow down reporting, except to prolong arbitrage and diminish returns for retail investors.

Disclaimer: Under Florida law, e-mail addresses are public records. If you do not want your e-mail address released in response to a public records request, do not send electronic mail to this entity. Instead, contact this office by phone or in writing.

Mark Sheingold — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Sheingold Please keep the rule of reporting once a quarter.

Mark Sims — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Sims The lack of information we receive as investors should not be reduced! Retain quarterly, at a minimum

---

Mark Slevin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Mark Slevin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No twice a year reporting! I'm retired and living in coastal Texas. The population now leans toward retirees in the USA. Twice a year reporting could be a disaster for retirees. Please take this in consideration when making this decision. Thank you kindly, Cathie Andrychuk

Sent from my iPhone

Mark Spafford U.S. Army retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Spafford We need More accountability not less. Example: Minnesota, USAID, insider trading by members of Congress, need I say more?

Mark Stark — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Stark Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep accountability high.

Mark T Meyer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark T Meyer Under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Do not change to semi-annual reporting.

Mark Teske CPA, Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Teske An important and critical element to our world-leading equity markets is the timely and reliable transparency of communication to investors. I am strongly opposed to this proposal, which will significantly reduce the timeliness of communication about the financial results of companies. I urge you strongly to reject this proposal.

Mark Thompson The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Thompson Semiannual Reporting is heading the wrong direction. As more individual investors are taking part in daily trading, there needs to be more information not less. Also this information needs to be made easier to understand. There are a plethora of financial websites that predict and forecast a stocks future performance using graphs, sliding and color shaded scaling, to name a few. These tools are much more easier to understand. SEC or official affiliate should have a plug and play template that the reported information can be exported from and imported into this template so the individual user can see pros and cons of the stock using these tools. This information can be in a comparison to industry peers or the stock itself over time. Each field should have an AI overview explaining pros/cons, temperature flags on stocks performance. Best example I can give is when Grok asked about a particular stocks detail, non-bias relevant information returned. The reporting company may have to abide by this format OR they may download template from SEC and post on their website this formatted information with no control over the AI response fields.

Mark Tillett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Tillett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it quality

---

Mark W Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark W Johnson I think it is a terrible idea to change to Semi-annual reporting from the current Quarterly reporting. Don't do it!

Mark Westerhausen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mark Westerhausen I believe the investor community is best served by quarterly financials. Requiring financials to be released only twice per year does not produce as much transparency or accountability. An investor is an owner of a company and deserves the current information that quarterly reporting provides.

Mark Widman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark Widman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mark Widman, Logistics Driver. Keep the reporting quarterly.

Mark Widman
Tea, SD 57064

Sent from my iPhone

Mark Woodall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mark Woodall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Mark Woodall and I live in Pompano Beach Florida. I strongly believe that we should retain the current quarterly reporting requirement. I was personally affected by Ron they see absolutely no reason to decrease investor protection at this time. thank you. Mark Woodall.

Markene Kaminski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Markene Kaminski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Prevent Enron 2.0

Sent from my iPhone

Markk an individual N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Markk an individual I have read about thoe proposal to reduce the number of times a company has to provide a statement of earnings from four (Quarterly to just two. As an investor I am strongly against this proposal. A less informed public about a company t h ey have invested in can only lead smaller window of how a company is doing financially thorough out the year. I see no benefit at all to passing this legislation. Markk Hall

---

Marko Prsic The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marko Prsic As a foreign investor in US stock, I do not like the idea of semiannual reporting because it reduces the regular transparency that owners of a business deserve from the companies they invest in. Fewer official updates would not make markets more patient or better informed; it would simply leave investors with less timely information about changes in performance, strategy, customers, risks, and execution. Less frequent reporting could also increase uncertainty and volatility, because important developments would be disclosed later and potentially arrive as larger surprises.

Markus Bruelhart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Markus Bruelhart Need to keep reporting as is

---

Mark_Cathy LoBue — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mark_Cathy LoBue Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This should be illegal, please don't let it happen!

Sent from my iPhone

Marla Manyweathers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marla Manyweathers The mandatory quarterly reporting framework established in 1970 is not a superficial bureaucratic hurdle; it is a load-bearing wall of the U.S. financial regulatory architecture. Dismantling it threatens the integrity, efficiency, and international prestige of our public markets. Rather than encouraging companies to go public, this rule change will likely alienate retail investors, increase stock volatility, and drive up the cost of capital for the very small- and mid-cap companies the Commission is aiming to protect. I strongly urge the Commission to reject the adoption of Form 10-S and maintain the mandatory Form 10-Q quarterly reporting framework.

Marla Mead — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marla Mead Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Marla Mead, MA, LPCC. I keep hoping for more transparency not cover up. Continue the reporting every 3 months! Makes me want to invest in precious metals not Wall Street.

Sent from my T-Mobile 5G Device
Get Outlook for Android

Marlene — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marlene Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would you go backwards? Are there other assurances that would protect us against a repeat of Enron? Maybe it’s my age, but I strongly suspect hanky pinky and enabling cover up.

Sent from my iPhone

Marlene Alva — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marlene Alva Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The reporter is essential for the norm of every three months! It has been a strong point of how it is trending !
Do not change!!

Sent from my iPhone

Marlene Barone — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marlene Barone Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Marlene: mother of three and also caring for elderly parents.
Quarterly reporting is essential to keeping the wall street crooks at bay. In fact more, not less regulation should be imposed as we have reached a level greed in this country like never seen before. It's a top vs. bottom not left vs. right issue. No room for more ENRON type crooks playing with the people's money. Lock them all up!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Marlene Burdick Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marlene Burdick Martin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 6 months is too long between reports. Please do not change quarterly reporting! This affects me as an investor.
Marlene L Burdick Martin,
Agricultural Consultant

Marlene Burk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marlene Burk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Marlene, acupuncturist. I don’t have billions. I have to keep track of every dollar. I hope to retire soon, and I’d like to be as relaxed and as able to support myself as possible. Please don’t erode our control over our money!

Sent from my iPhone

Marlene Katzel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marlene Katzel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a retiree with a disabled son. My investments are not only important to me but my son. I am 81 years old and my investments need to support my son. Keep company's reporting QUARTERLY!

Marlene Katzel

Marlene Korenstra — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Marlene Korenstra Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not revert to 6 month reporting. We need to maintain quarterly accountability. This is a must!
thank you.
Marlene Korenstra

Marlene Nielsen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Marlene Nielsen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop rolling back LAWS!

Marlene Russell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Marlene Russell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
It is not a good idea to change to twice a year from quarterly and my guess is they know it.
I don't agree with it.
it puts the invester in the dark. They are taking advantage.

Marly Mattson The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marly Mattson Reporting should stay at 4 times a year. Investors are “owners” and as such need to know the financial stays of the companies they have invested in.

Marlyn Lynn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Marlyn Lynn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly

---

Marlyn Whitney Clinical Professor Emeritus, University of MO College of Veterinary Medicine — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marlyn Whitney I need and deserve quarterly reports from companies in order to make important financial decisions in a timely manner. Corporate insiders will be afforded information sooner than I will have it if this measure is approved, and that is neither fair nor ethical. This looks like just one more attempt by large corporations and the wealthy to push the greatest risk of corporate financial losses off onto the non-wealthy. I remember the 1980s well. I don’t want another financial hit like the one I suffered then, because I have now finally retired after being in the workforce and working way more than 40 hours per week for 54 years and so will have no opportunity to make up for such a loss another time around. Sincerely, Dr. Marlyn Whitney, DVM, PhD, retired veterinary pathologist and educator.

Marlynne Ditchcreek — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Marlynne Ditchcreek Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not stop quarterly reports of investing. I should be able to see how things are progressing. Every day you hear about all this fraud going on and nothing being done about it. We should be seeing more transparency instead of less. Mores disclosure instead of less. I'm tired of having important decisions being decided for me-more things need to be put on ballots for the voters decide.

Marrie Blackwell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marrie Blackwell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Pudding Tame Looks like a good time to cash everything out now before this grift goes into affect.

Marrie Rose Blackwell

Marsha Cunningham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Marsha Cunningham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Quarterly reports need to continue. Stop the.change which encourages fraud.

Marsha Fetters — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Marsha Fetters Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 All expenses that lead to increased inflation are passed on to consumers. CEO's and CFO's continue to collect huge bonuses regardless of lower profit margins. As a result, no company ever shows a financial loss or decreased expenditures. Please require quarterly reporting to be accurate and often. We cannot tolerate another Enron scandal. We need more accountability, not less.

Marsha Fetters
Veteran
Indiana

---

marsha lederman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: marsha lederman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC:
Please don’t go backwards - we need transparency in everything that our government does and this has already been shown to be a bad idea for the public who are fortunate enough to invest - there is no valid reason to not report quarterly
Thank you for keeping it quarterly
ML

Marsha Lederman
Ceramic Art
C 703 772 7270
Instagram: @marlederman

Marshall Goldman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marshall Goldman I am writing to express my absolute distaste and horror that you would even consider a rule to reduce investor (owner) transparency by changing quarterly reporting to semi-annual. While as an investor, I look for the companies which I participate in ownership to keep costs in line, elimination of 2 investor reports annually will also reduce executive ownership and accountability. This reduction in accountability to investors will position US companies as 2nd world businesses, reduce investment and lower stock prices for all Americans who invest in US businesses as a major component of our wealth generation. It will result in massive devaluation of my retirement assets just 2 years prior to retirement. I urge you to vote "Absolutely NO" to this terrible proposal. Marshall Goldman Individual Investor Roswell, Ga.

Marshall J Brown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marshall J Brown Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly Reporting is an absolutely dumb idea. Just as dumb as taxing the rich. How bout this- we tax corporations instead of individuals? Let business fund government. Let people prosper.

Sent from my iPad

Marta T — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marta T Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This proposal is absolutely outrageous!! We already have difficulty controlling the fraud and this will exacerbate that number infinitely!! DONT ALLOW THIS TO CONTINUE ANY FURTHER THAN THIS!!!

Thank you,

Marta D. Tennant

Martha Adragna — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martha Adragna We the people demand to continue to have accountability so please keep the reporting as it stands now so that we can continue to know that it is being managed fair and correct

---

Martha B. Lindley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martha B. Lindley S7-2026-15 I do NOT support this effort to limit public information to twice a year. I am an 85 year old woman, read FORTUNE Magazine as a child and know the importance of regular information to understand how and why a company is prospering, expanding, declining or failing. Continue to require quarterly reports,at a minimum. Allow me to be an informed owner and investor in companies that make our country economically strong.

Martha Carrier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Martha Carrier Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Martha Carrier Retired
I have a lot of money invested.

Martha Carter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Martha Carter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting, that what regular Americans want. Martha Carter 81 years old retired, living on a mostly fixed income with a few investment that are important to my quality of life.

Martha Cother-Hoag The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martha Cother-Hoag The proposal now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two is a mistake! Taking the reports away just makes everyone less informed. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. Less information equates to less accountability for companies. Trash this proposal, please. Information is power. Accountability is essential for ethical reporting. Thank you

---

Martha D. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Martha D. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need the trust factor that Quarterly reporting gives.
M. Dudley
Virginia

Martha Dougherty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Martha Dougherty Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am AGAINST the SEC proposal to limit reporting to biannually! It is impossible for the average investor to make investment decisions when they do not have quarterly reporting!

Martha Inofuentes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Martha Inofuentes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly!!

Sent from my iPhone

Martha Moravek — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Martha Moravek Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC must keep the quarterly reports and keep CEO and CFO accountable and honest. Is has been proven that they cannot be honest without the quarterly reports for accountability.

Sent from my iPhone

Martha Roberts — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Martha Roberts Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC, PLEASE keep us informed with quarterly reporting - we count on seeing it!!!

Martha Turner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Martha Turner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Accountability should never be curtailed. Quarterly teports cut down on insider trading and fraud. Oversight should remain quarterly (monthly teporting would be even better).

Sent from my iPhone

Marti Wiehagen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marti Wiehagen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think that this is very important!

Sent from my iPhone

Sent from my iPhone

Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martin As an owner of a listed company I have the right to frequent and timely reporting from company management. Six months is far too long to wait between fiscal reports, and such a change would lead to and encourage malfeasance

---

Martin AICPA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martin I believe we should continue to require quarterly reporting by publicly traded companies.

Martin Berryman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martin Berryman Transparency in reporting is essential to investor confidence. Too much can happen in 12 months.

Martin Buchheim — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martin Buchheim I believe this proposed change represents a significant step backward in investor transparency, moving the U.S. to be more like autocratic countries where investing is both more difficult and more risky due to a paucity of reliable information. This also seems like a solution to a problem that no longer exists. The companies that I have worked for all have sophisticated and highly automated reporting solutions that manage the vast majority of the work required for quarterly reporting. The quarterly reporting habit is also useful for the companies themselves as a rigor that informs not just their investors but also their Boards, senior leaders, and rank-and-file employees. Please DO NOT move us backward by implementing this proposal.

Martin Cintora — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Martin Cintora Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If they want a better world there is a way but they don't care about nobody

---

Martin Dawson Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martin Dawson I am opposed to the proposal to decrease quarterly reporting to twice a year. Investing in the stock market means I have ownership in companies and want as much transparency as possible about the status of the businesses I invest in. The proposal to decrease quarterly reporting to biannual is a bad idea. It will decrease transparency and increase market volatility. The argument that decreasing quarterly reports will reduce costs is laughable with AI reporting products coming on board. More information is always better than less information.

Martin Dickinson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martin Dickinson As a pension holder who has shares invested along with multiple ISAs over the years the reduction in information is NOT a good idea as it reduces transparency

---

martin forsman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: martin forsman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Corporations can simply produced a Detailed P&L 30 days. The more investors know about how a Business functions and the overall health of a company the better it is for everyone.

Martin Jay Ruzinsky — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martin Jay Ruzinsky Allowing less frequent reporting frquency would be bad and make for less transparency and more volatility. Clearly, NOT a good idea!

Martin Lessard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martin Lessard I do not agree with the proposal to reduce the number of reports.

Martin Rudy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martin Rudy Reports every 6 months are inadequate. That is a lot like paying your electric bill or your mortgage every 6 months. The electric company or the mortgage holder would not like delayed payments, especially if you skipped t0wm. Not all companies are successful at their projects. I should be informed sooner than later. We as stockholders are fractional holders of the COPANEY'S mortgage. We therefore need to be very informed.

Martin Siebken None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Martin Siebken I want to express my opposition to reducing the public corporation reporting period to twice a year. As a retail investor transparency is critical to my ability to properly vet and follow a company's performance. Extending time between reports makes that more difficult for me as a partial owner of these businesses. The argument that this will reduce cost seems overstated as AI will certainly provide tools to streamline and automate the reporting process. For these reasons I am not in favor of this change! Sincerely, Martin Siebken

---

Marty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marty Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The American public needs to know what is happening financially. It would be a violation of trust and transparency to stop the quarterly reporting!

Sent from my iPhone

Marty Perez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marty Perez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I chose who is handling my money your investing for me for a fee, if not We will remove our money!

Sent from my iPhone

---

marty skinner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: marty skinner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the current quarterly period in place. Extending it would allow too much enticement for potential bad actors.

Sent from my iPhone

Marty Wolf — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Marty Wolf Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Martin Wolf- Retired
I'm a retail investor and rely on quarterly information to make decisions.
Please keep the quarterly reports.
Thank you.

Friends don't let friends drink Starbucks

Maruti T — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Maruti T We need more transparency and reports should be 4 times a year or more, but not less. Thank you.

---

marvin . pickholz former SEC Assistant Director Enforcement — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: marvin . pickholz the SEC disclosure rules are intended for openness and honesty about a corp operations and business shareholders are the owners They are entitled to know how and by whom their company is run. these are the people who want stock options and big bonuses . Tell the shareholder 1/4ly how you are handling their company

---

Marvin Seppala — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marvin Seppala I do not believe reducing the requirements for provision of information about business performance helps owners/stockholders. In fact this would undermine the ability of owners to make good decisions about performance.

Marvin W. L. Hoffman Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marvin W. L. Hoffman There is a need to retain the current public company reporting to four times a year not just semiannual. This allows for more transparency for investors and others to track company progress and compliance.

Mary — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential to ensure companies financial health

Sent from my iPhone

Mary — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Worked hard for our money and want to be selective about spending Mary Reif

---

Mary — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly!

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Ann Clute — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Ann Clute Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep information reported quarterly. No insider trading!
Mary Ann Clute

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Mary Ann Porter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Ann Porter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mary Ann, retired ARNP. This matters to me and most Americans. We are being fleeced by these CEO's. They are dishonest and don't care about us, just who can make the most amount of money, not caring about we the people and how it affects us. They even accompanied Trump to China to negotiate their deals and they're not even part of the government! They allow scammers on their social media platforms to steal from the people that socialize on these platforms. I can give you a list of scammers on Facebook and Instagram very easily. They have been reported and they're still there trying to sell their ware.
PLEASE KEEP IT QUARTERLY FOR THE PEOPLE'S PROTECTION FROM PREDATORS LIKE THEM

Thank You
Mary Ann Porter

Mary Ann Weiser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Ann Weiser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Every day people are sick of being taken advantage of businesses. We want to be able to at least be able to see what is going on with the people and companies who are in control of the handling of our money and in some cases our main source of income. If you are being honest, and have nothing to hide, Keep the reports quarterly.

Mary Anne Fratelli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Anne Fratelli Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports have been the standard for years. Why change it to every 6 months? A lot can happen in 6 months. I want to know what is happening with my investments should I need to make any changes. Please keep quarterly reports in place. Those companies holding our retirement accounts are making plenty of money. They should have to keep us apprised of changes in interest rates and others factors affecting our hard-earned savings.

Thank you.

Mary Anne Fratelli
Retired
Murrells Inlet, SC

Get Outlook for Android

Mary Anne Upright — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Anne Upright Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports.

Mary Anne Upright

---

mary avery — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: mary avery Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No one in power should escape scrutiny on this!! Quarterly is essential to keeping honest and out front!!

Mary Babineau — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mary Babineau Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
It is important for investors to be fully informed, and so it's necessary for quarterly reports to come out. Please don't cheat the average investor!!

Mary Bang — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Bang Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The only reason to make this change is to hide transactions. It will enable the cheating to escalate while the general population will pay the price.

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Beavins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mary Beavins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The rules were put there for a reason changing is a moral hazard. All they have to do is figure out a way to get around everything to avoid being truthful. I don't trust anybody anymore, and I don't recommend doing business with anybody who doesn't have the old law in place and adheres to it. I will voice my opinion loudly on that . They are going to change things to where people I have no money to be cheated out of and then where will the SEC be?

Mary Bell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Bell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please do not remove the requirement for quarterly reporting. Quarterly reporting encourages accountability and diminishes the ability of companies to hide wrongdoing for a long period of time. Reducing reporting time frame to every six months can remove regular transparency. We need greater transparency, not less!
Mary E. Bell

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Bennett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Bennett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I don’t get to address my financial (or other) responsibilities every six months! It’s necessary on a daily basis.

With all the benefits of computers and spreadsheets, this is data should be available at any time. I understand time zones but deadlines can be easily met on a shorter timeframe than even quarterly.

Quarterly is barely enough when it comes to accountability for my hard earned financial investments! Bottom line, do your job!

This exemplifies the fact that the lack of accountability for so many things is getting out of control. Not to mention the lack of consequences!

Mary Bennett, retired submarine pipe fitter, Mare Island, CA.
We were accountable EVERY day, no matter what your trade is. Every time the boat went down, it NEEDED to come back up!

Mary Beth Libbey Retired journalist — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mary Beth Libbey Keep quarterly required reports to SEC! We need more accountability from publicly held corporations, not less. Just another attempt by the current regime to stop accountability of our institutions.

Mary Borden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Borden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mary Borden, Retired Why fix what's not broken. I'm sick to death of the shady practices being carried out during this administration.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Mary Bozik — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Bozik Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What current problem is this change meant to fix? Stop giving free passes to those committing fraud. Protect consumers.

Mary Brewer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mary Brewer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am deeply disheartened and concerned about your commission not printing quarterly reports. When 90% of the stock that is exchanged is the elite wealthy and it seems obvious that they or this administration wants this to happen, is sad. The American people deserve transparency. We need a system where we are informed even if we do not as a whole pay attention or read these reports. The system which has been around for decades should still continue. Some people do and some are watching the corruption that is unfolding in America. As an American do not stop these quarterly reports.

Sincerely,
Mary Brewer- concerned citizen

Mary Burke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Burke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mary Burke. We NEED transparency in reporting so it NEEDS to be kept at QUARTERLY reporting! Let's move forward not backwards. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Get Outlook for Android

Mary Chamberlain — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mary Chamberlain Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I would appreciate quarterly reports.

Mary Charrette — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Charrette Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports-best information for stock market and information for everyone.

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Mary Christine Huston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Christine Huston Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 That's insider betting. The wealthy get wealthier, then if you do that exhonerate anyone charged and jailed for insider trading, like Martha Stewart. Don't let this happen! This administration are thriving most of The People of America.

Mary Colas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Colas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is no benefit to stock owners to reduce the reporting from quarterly. Most reporting is electronic, so why are you recommending to reduce reporting cycles. It is not in most investors best interest.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Mary Cortinas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Cortinas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mary Cortinas Teacher It matters to me cuz I want to know what's happening with my investments. That is my saving for retirement

---

Mary Dancer Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mary Dancer Don't do away with quarterly reporting. It's essential to maintaining trasparency! Communication!

Mary De Hertogh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary De Hertogh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mary B De Hertogh, retired Educator. This would open the door to rampant corruption and affect all of our life savings and investments.

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Dean — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Dean Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want to keep the reporting quarterly. Less reporting equals less transparency and more opportunities for fraud.

Mary Beth Dean, teacher

---

mary devault — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: mary devault Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Always a good idea to keep informed as much as possible

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Dulberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Dulberg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is one way to check on companies and make sure what they are doing is following the rules.
I'm a parent and a grandparent and quarterly report cards helped hold my kids accountable and not rushing at the last minute to fix something.
I am also a volunteer coordinator and sometimes it is hard to hold volunteers accountable for what they are doing, check-ins help keep everything good before it gets bad.
Please keep the reporting quarterly.

Mary Ellen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Ellen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting. I want to see quarterly reports. Thank you. Mary E. Gerbasi

Sent from my Galaxy

Mary Ellen Bartochowski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mary Ellen Bartochowski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not change quarterly reporting. There is a system in place that works for everyone. I rely on quarterly reporting to keep up with my portfolio. If there is not transparency, I will be forced to remove my assets. I would rather stash my cash under my mattress then leave it to those who's intentions I question.

MaryEllen Bartochowski

Mary Ellen Sanchez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Ellen Sanchez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mary Ellen Sanchez, investor. Retired Teacher trying to survive. Honesty is the Best policy. What could possibly be the benefit of allowing thieves to hide? KEEP IT QUARTERLY!

Mary Ellen Williams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mary Ellen Williams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Less room for fraud

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Ellis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Ellis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting should remain! Investors need to know what is going on.

Mary F. Smith Controller, Davis Publications, Inc., RETIRED — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mary F. Smith Please! Quarterly reporting keeps Corporations and their officers honest! Remember the Enron disaster? We cannot repeat that especially in this very corrupt, dishonest political environment. Keep the quarterly reporting! The financial safety of citizens depend on it. Thank you.

Mary Fields — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Fields Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Another corrupt act by this administration! Make those billionaires even richer with their hands in the cookie jar. Stop ruining this country.

Mary Foster — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Foster Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Mary Foster, and I'm concerned about the most powerful having leeway to abuse systems with no accountability. I think SEC reporting should continue to be required quarterly.

We are living in a time where corruption is rampant. Don't encourage it.
Thank you for your time,
Mary Foster

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Freeman None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mary Freeman Keep it 4 times per year. Anything less invites corruption. It's like leaving the fox in the hen house. Keep it 4 times per year.

---

mary gardiner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: mary gardiner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It costs taxpayers far too much in cleaning up fraud. Let's keep keeping them honest!

Mary Gray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Gray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is nothing more than a gift to big institutions and corporate investors. It is shameful. There is no need to make this change other than to disadvantage the retail investor.

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Hammer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Hammer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency needs to remain. This is just another way to mask greed and corruption. I do not support this idea. Quarterly reporting must be kept.

Mary Hazel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Hazel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 For the benefit of all investors keep the quarterly reporting rules in effect. It keeps the investors informed and has been beneficial for years. If it ain't broke, don't fix it!
Mary E Hazel ,
1735 Mistletoe,
Mountain Home AR 72653-4523

Mary Heider — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Heider Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keeping it quarterly just makes sense as is working to everyone's advantage. Transparency is one advantage but "doing the books" each quarter is just standard practice, isn't it? I just don't see the problem of the current reporting system.
Thank you,
Mary Heider, retired educator

Mary Hill hughes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mary Hill hughes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: please keep quarterly reporting of public companies.. it is that simple. They are public companies and the public deserve to hear what is happening. Say no to the probability of insider training occurring by not having quarterly reporting. Thank you, Mary Hill Hughes

---

Mary Jackson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mary Jackson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
More reporting instead of less will equal and encourage more accountability. Please don't put our hard earned dollars in jeopardy. We have a fixed income we depend on.

Mary Jane — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Jane Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop giving corporations immunity to commit financial crimes against the ameican people and investors .

Sent from my iPhone

MARY JANE NEVIN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: MARY JANE NEVIN Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Any business entity or person that needs to hide their books from public scrutiny for an additional 6 months is being honest or straightforward with you . Please do not support ANY legislation that isn't honest or straightforward in their request and any legislation that has great potential to harm or secretly cost money to Consumers. We need you to stand up and help protect the people first. Businesses who are dishonest should not be allowed to stay in business.

Sent from my iPad

Mary Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Heck no this is only good for insiders trading not us regular folks

---

Mary Kampa — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Kampa Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leave things as they are.

Mary Kay Elloian — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Kay Elloian Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Immediacy of reporting is tantamount to accountability.
No hiding books or delayed reporting can be allowed.

Mary Kiewlich — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mary Kiewlich Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports are needed to ensure that the requirements are met and that honesty prevails!!

Sent from my iPhone

Mary L Eich — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mary L Eich As an individual investor and as a member of an investment club, I am opposed to the proposal to allow companies to report only two times a year. Fewer reports means less information, less transparency, and less-informed decisions for investors.

Mary LaPointe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary LaPointe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is ridiculous. There are too many ways for large corporations to hide what is going on financially as it is. Small businesses have to file quarterly taxes and they don't have even a portion of the staff that large companies have to handle paperwork.
A move like this will make fraud easier for them and will make investing harder for us.

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Laucks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mary Laucks The proposal to allow companies to reduce public-company reports to just two reduces transparency. Companies must be transparent. I'm against this proposal.

Mary Leas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mary Leas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
How dare you consider decreasing the timeframe where companies report out. Quarterly reporting is safe and responsible reporting. A six month blackout will cause volitility and loss for everyday Americans. Transparency protects American savings. Less transparency will fuel fraud.

This change would damage everyday Americans and threaten American financial security.

Do not move away from quarterly reporting.

Mary Letner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Letner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop doing this to us we work too hard for our money it will make it to where we cant shop at stores

---

Mary Long — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Mary Long Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly Reporting!!

Mary Lou Hassall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Lou Hassall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear SEC, There is absolutely no reason to let companies slide on reporting that is beneficial to general investors. Please keep reporting requirements quarterly. I am a retired software developer and my invested savings and social security are my only lifeline to be able to survive.
Mary Lou Hassall, Pennsylvania

Get Outlook for iOS

Mary Love — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Love Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What you're trying to do is shady.. KEEP IT QUARTERLY!!!

Mary Lu harrington — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Mary Lu harrington Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a consumer, an investor, and because of concern for fraud from hiding reporting, I believe the quarterly reporting is necessary. There is no need to hide profits and losses for 6 mos. Be aboveboard w/ the public, your investors, and the media.
Mary Lu Harrington

Sent from my iPad

Mary Lyn Herdt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mary Lyn Herdt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is a must. Corporate America has proven too many times prior to the required quarterly reports that all is not OK if they think they aren't being watched. I have much of my pension fund and personal investments in the stock market. I need and want quarterly reports in order ensure the continued ethics and financial health of the companies I support. M. Lyn Herdt, retired, Leland, NC.

Mary Martorell Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mary Martorell I rely on quarterly reporting to monitor my investments which is not a lot but all i have to live on. I need that to be informed. Please do not remove this quarterly reporting.

Mary Massey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Massey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Trying to rip more people off? Mary Massey

Mary Massey

Sent from my iPhone

Mary May — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary May Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In this corporate environment, the ability to perpetrate fraud is ever higher. Continue to make the corporate leaders accountable for their questionable actions by having quarterly filings and keep the penalties for perjury in place.
Mary May
Retired RN

Sent from my iPhone

MARY MCCALEB — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: MARY MCCALEB Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want quarterly reports

Sent from my iPhone

Mary McHugh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary McHugh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting helps us small investors to stay informed and better manage our investments. Please do not go to semi annual reports- hasn't worked well in the UK and will not benefit small investors here.

Mary Meyers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mary Meyers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Why would the SEC ever do away with quarterly reporting for securities of public companies? I am a longtime investor and am appalled at the thought of this actually happening. Whoever came up with this plan should be fired immediately with no benefits because you can bet they have their hands in some deep pockets already! What in the heck is the SEC doing...letting the fox into the hen house? We investors have to rely on the SEC to police the public companies and expect that to continue for additional protection of our investments. That is what you are paid to do and you should be ashamed to even think of letting we, the people, down.

Mary Mohr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Mohr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep reporting monthly. There is no reason why anyone's accounts should not be immediately transparent to the account owner.

Mary Mohr
Sent from my iPhone

Mary Moyer The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mary Moyer This is a bad idea. I need current, frequent business reports from the management of those in which I hold stock. Please do not reduce the reporting period from 4 to 2 times per year. Accountability is important.

Mary Mulligan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Mulligan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We The People demand you keep your books at a quarterly report! Enough of this money laundering shady type of reporting!

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Murray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Murray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 STOP this!!! How much more can we take as regular investors? None of this is fair to anyone but the billionaires. STOP

Mary Musser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Musser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change quarterly reporting. Dennis and Mary Musser. We worked and invested for years. It's so important to know how companies are actually doing. Now that we are retired, this is even more important information.

Mary Nell Thompson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mary Nell Thompson Less transparency is never better.

MARY OGLETREE — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: MARY OGLETREE Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 For heaven's sake, do not cut quarterly reporting!

We all know that in this time of greed and lies coming from the government itself, MORE reporting would be a good thing!

Thanks,
Mary Ogletree, retired university professor
Allentown, PA

Sent from my iPad

Mary Olson Motley Fool and Provident I think companies need to inform we owners about "our companies" at least 4 times a year. Twice a year might not give me enough information to make a decision about my ownership in the company. Thank you. Mary Ol Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mary Olson Motley Fool and Provident I think companies need to inform we owners about "our companies" at least 4 times a year. Twice a year might not give me enough information to make a decision about my ownership in the company. Thank you. Mary Ol Comments attached

---

Mary Pat Keith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Pat Keith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 These rules are in place for a reason!!! It is important to keep people accountable!
Mary Pat Keith

Mary Paul — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Paul Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To Whom it May Concern,

I am deeply concerned by the proposed change to allow corporations to only report twice a year and not quarterly as they currently are required.

As someone who watched her parents sob at the devastation of their retirement fund during the Enron debacle.

As someone who lived through the Great Recession of the early 2000s and worked as a banker in a small-town community supported by the trades and agriculture.

I can firmly say, “Never again.” Never again will we allow large corporations to so broadly deceive us and profit from our loss. Never again will be allow them to bet on the failure of people losing their homes, their businesses, and their retirement. The health of the economy should be reflected by how many succeed because of it, not in spite of it.

The past has taught us we must watch every transaction with absolute caution. We must never allow the financial industrymore flexibility as it is so easily corrupted.

The rules are barely tight enough as it is. We cannot go back.

Mary Paul
Marketer and Graphic Designer

---

mary pavano — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: mary pavano Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 horrible, how much more can we get screwed???

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Petersen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Petersen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We must keep companies reporting their finances quarterly. We have enough corruption as it is !

Mary Phelps — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mary Phelps Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The rich should also be held accountable. White collar crime is crime.

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Puccini — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Puccini Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reports quarterly!!

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Quiram — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Quiram Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The public needs to know what is going on with the companies they have invested their hard earned money with. It will make it where no one wants to invest in these companies. It’s already bad because of all of the underhanded deals that go on without our knowledge!

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Rentsch — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mary Rentsch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please keep the quarterly reporting. It helps me make reasonable investment decisions on the companies that I own.

Mary Ann Rentsch

Mary Roberts — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Roberts Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why are you allowing insiders to make rules that advantage them? If we all pull our investments, what do you have?

Sent from my iPad

MARY ROSS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: MARY ROSS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC, Please do not do away with quarterly reporting. We as investors rely on this every 3 months, not every 6 months. As a recent retiree, I rely on quarterly reports for investments in my IRA's that directly impact my livelihood going forward. Please take into account ordinary citizens that invest in public companies because this is one of the only ways we can research where our money sits. Thank you.

Mary Ross — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mary Ross Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
To do away with quarterly reporting is an absurd thought. This handcuffs ordinary individual investors and gives fraud within a company more months to grow. We as ordinary people, who invest in public companies, deserve to know on a quarterly basis what the balance sheet looks like, not on a semi-annual basis.

Mary S Deller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary S Deller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The SEC NEEDS TO KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING!
Doing less allows more opportunity for fraud and cheating investors!

Mary Sarai — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mary Sarai Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the he SEC,

You need to keep Quarterly reporting. Add more if you'd like, but taking away is definitely not okay.

Thank You,
Mary Stenson

Mary Scheib — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Scheib Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mary Scheib, retired NP. Keep SEC reporting each quarter. Do not keep small investors in the dark.

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Schleifer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Schleifer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mary Schleifer retired this matters to me because people's livelihood is at stake. My sister was the victim of greed. The SEC needs to be held accountable since they won't regulate themselves without rules put in place. Quarterly reporting should be at a MINIMUM. Make it monthly IMHO.

---

mary schultz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: mary schultz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am Mary Schultz, a retired schoolteacher and office administrator in Rochester MI. I have been through horrible times in my life but have only gotten by because of the aid of my family and community. I was able to make it through it all. My 2 young "30ish" sons are struggling now to stay above water. We are the REAL people in this country.
I'm not stupid. I am no expert. BUT, I can READ. And I can see your desire to report only 2X annually is going to kill we basic Americans. You are killing your country by doing this. Please stop killing us. The struggle is REAL! We have human rights. Just because your leader doesnt give a care about any of us doesn't mean we have to submit to your fascist terrorism. STOP IT.

---

mary senn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: mary senn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
How is less information better! Don't become a member of the less we know club.

Mary St Dizier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary St Dizier Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The SEC’s proposal to allow public companies to report financial results only twice a year would reduce transparency for everyday investors. Public companies have provided quarterly reports for decades, giving shareholders regular insight into revenue, profits, debt, and business performance. Reducing reporting to every six months could leave individual investors with less timely information while company executives, insiders, and large institutional investors continue to have greater access to business updates. Investors deserve more transparency, not less. Maintaining quarterly reporting helps ensure a fairer market, supports informed investment decisions, and strengthens accountability for publicly traded companies.

Mary Stoudemire Clark — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Stoudemire Clark Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am Mary Clark, a retired corporate trainer.

I do not support ignoring quarterly reporting for the SEC!

Companies and researchers rely on transparent and timely quarterly reporting to help assess the trajectory, stability, and scientific progress of biopharma companies developing promising therapies or contributing to the development of treatment.

As a mother of a son with cancer, it's important to me that new or emerging therapies are reported immediately.

Mary S. Clark

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

---

mary stout — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: mary stout Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not change stock quarterly reporting

Mary Swan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Swan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting should continue.
Transparency ,accuracy and accountability should be the priority
~ Mary Swan

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Thomas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Thomas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As small retail investor, seeing quarterly reports are crucial for an informed decision.

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Thompson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mary Thompson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly! Leave it be!! Mary Thompson, Retired Texas. Why wait until fraud happens, catch it before people lose money! 2008

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Mary thurber Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mary thurber Companies should continue to report quarterly. This is important information for investors.

Mary Vitell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mary Vitell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This responsibility came into being in order to make sure company execs were clearly aware of what was going on within their businesses. It is called accountability. We, the people, WANT and NEED Quarterly accountability in our investments and in these current times require AT LEAST a quarterly report to verify this requirement. Quarterly reports MUST continue.

Mary Ward — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Ward Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 For the sake of transparency in our investments, I think reporting should be done quarterly

Sent from my iPhone

Mary White — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary White Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello,

I am writing to urge the SEC to maintain quarterly reporting. I am a licensed attorney with 25 years of experience in Washington state in both the public and private sectors. I am also a former Naval reservist (IS-3, NAVAIR RES Whidby), a widow, the mother of two successful adults, a grandmother, a former special education teacher, and...more.

At the age of 60 I have seen our economy take plenty of severe hits over time. I have seen how the average taxpayer, citizen and small investor / business owner often take the hardest hits and are the last to see economic risks rising. Transparency, predictability and regulation are very important for the health of our national economy in a rocky and unpredictable global climate, and are fair to the American taxpayer whose labor, education, and hard work have made corporate profit possible. Transparent reporting arms and informs the smaller investor and individuals with information and data-- offering a fighting chance to make smart decisions, protect and diversify assets, and understand the workings of economies, nationally and internationally. That should be a goal to pursue not to avoid.

We all know that invested money grows faster and is already less vulnerable to taxation and regulation than money earned through work, salary, and labor. Those with money already have a huge advantage when it comes to making more, to put it simply! I know this because my family and I

I have been on both sides of the educational and financial gulf between Americans. None of my grandparents made it through high school; they lived hardscrabble lives in rural areas On the edge of poverty, with little or no support or safety net from government or anywhere beyond their community. Yet...both of my parents became physicians and research scientists, putting themselves through medical school. Me and my three siblings all have graduate educations and doctorates- JD, Md, Ph.D!! My grandparents and my parents helped to make this possible through savings, small investing, and careful economic decisions as well as foolish ones. They sought and relied upon publicly available data as they learned how to invest savings wisely. .Money is a platform for personal, intergenerational success and Americans have the right to try and make enough money to succeed either directly through their labor or the goods they produce, or through intelligent investment.

Our rules and regulations regarding securities, finance, banking, investment, and corporate records should be geared towards transparency and an even playing field. This should not frighten anyone- it should be the norm. The only reason for reducing quarterly reporting is to "hide the ball" and I hope you quickly and soundly reject it. Don't fix what is not broken please! The entire investment and financial/ banking/ securities sector of our economy should not fear truth, honesty, transparency, and commitment to allowing hard-working and intelligent citizens and small investors to improve their lives financially including through prudent investment. There is no eliminating the risk involved but education is not a bad thing and information should be equally available to the public across the board, not sequestered in hard to find places and opaque documents. Playing games to intentionally make this harder is immoral and in my view should be illegal.

Reducing the frequency of reporting would mean delaying the dissemination of information that would cause a prudent investor to take note and possibly act to protect their assets. It would also delay shining the antiseptic sunlight of public attention on unsavory economic practices and actions. It would effectively mean that those on the "inside" enjoy a jumpstart on abandoning or divesting from the security entirely or otherwise protecting their assets. That's not how these rules are meant to work and would defy the purpose of the regulation and the SEC as a whole. It would also be conducive to higher risk activity and accounting "shell games," more destructive to the economy and markets generally.

We already have wealth concentrated to a dangerous (obscene?) degree at one end of the economy - identifiable as "the one percent." At the other end of this fiscal titanic is a vastly disproportionate segment of the population - under-educated, under informed, "declining" by most measures, and generally disenfranchised. In between is a very tiny and pinched, vanishing "middle class" which both sides continue to look to, to bear the burden of sustaining our society, national identity, and much of the taxation funding the nuts and bolts of America! This is unsustainable as you surely know. It is not in the self interest of any bank, corporation, investor, fund or even moderately well to do individual citizen to ignore this situation because it WILL destabilize and possibly collapse our nation in the end. I am obviously referring to a larger picture and Issues stretching for beyond the proposal to reduce the frequency of reporting. But the issue is a canary in the coal mine.

We have enough national and corporate wealth in this nation to allow all citizens a basic chance at fiscal stability and advancement. Financial education should be imperative for all Americans at least through secondary school. I urge you to act in the interest of our nation as a whole and in the interest of all our citizens by upholding if not strengthening rules and regulations that require frequent open dissemination of economic information and data concerning securities in a manner that is direct, transparent, and motivated by honesty as well as a commitment to continue growth and income for those who play by the rules. Do not forget you are an organization and institution created and funded by the same American taxpayers and nation you should be serving. The SEC is not a private business founded to further the interests of an economic elite.

Thank you in advance for considering my input.

Mary V. White, WSBA 23900
104 Cascade Place
Cashmere WA 98815

Mary Woolslayer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mary Woolslayer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The stock market is getting a black eye with all the insider trading by the powerful. The general public needs as much info as possible to stay abreast of company inner workings. We don’t have insider info therefore need quarterly statements.

Sent from my iPhone

Mary Wright — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mary Wright Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
You already know what is at stake. Aren't you tired of the Trump Regime's manipulation of anything that doesn't benefit him and his family?
Please keep quarterly reporting. Don't put yet another curtain across the People's right to know.

---

mary zemke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: mary zemke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is insane no accountability? This sets us up to be robbed as individuals. No more protections for our people. This is a unfair tfoebpeoplr

Sent from my iPhone

Maryam Hjersted — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maryam Hjersted Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Billionaires would love your proposal. They get all the inside information. This is just another attempt to transfer wealth out of the people's wallets, and into theirs. Move to monthly reports instead.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Maryann Podolski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Maryann Podolski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 THDTo the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am writing to you to advise that I want my quarterly reports! I want to be able to check on corporations that I have invested in. Please DO NOY CHANGE the current policy. It is fair and keeps some sense of responsibly within the corporations.
thank you

MaryAnn Rowe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: MaryAnn Rowe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly, on-time reporting is key for stock holders to keep track of their portfolios. It also keeps corporation's transactions more transparent so stockholders can make better informed decisions.

Maryanne Porter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maryanne Porter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The US needs quarterly reports. Agreeing to longer term reporting is counter to transparency.

Sent from my iPhone

Maryburns Neer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maryburns Neer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it as it is

Sent from my iPhone

Marye Phillips The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Marye Phillips Decreasing transparency in this way is a bad idea. It will increase uncertainty and volatility in the market. Keep required reporting quarterly.

MaryEllen Smith N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: MaryEllen Smith Unfortunately I am not financial savvy nor tech savvy, however publications being negated down to two I believe is a disservice as we were all raised that especially with finances all of our i's should be dotted in all of our T's crossed. I just want what is right to be correct for all, there's always someone worse off than we are and being dishonest is not a way to make money so I think the reports should stay as they are and not succumb to nefarious ideas can only think that's the only reason why things would change, I'm not an intelligent person I didn't go to college and I live a very meager lifestyle but for those that need that bit of information they should have it and should be kept abreast. Thank you for your time, I wish everyone continued success with finances, health, and happiness. We need to be honest individuals and demand respect and honesty for and from all.

---

maryk1216 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: maryk1216 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Rene Brock, retired, My family worked and saved our money. We invested by researching companies and following financial services. We learned CEOS will use short term gains reports to cover up long term bad decisions. Accountability protects investors. Quarterly reports with truth and responsibility are important.

Sent from my Galaxy

Maryl Myers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maryl Myers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the Quarterly reporting!! Thank you!

Sent from my iPhone

Marysue Blackwell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Marysue Blackwell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want to KNOW WHAT I OWN ALL THE TIME. No going dark & keeping me IN THE DARK. That means it’s possible that there could be theft or illegal trading happening. Forget the idea. I want the SEC to be accountable at all times with my money. They are responsible!

Mary Sue Blackwell

Mat Coady — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mat Coady Please keep quarterly reporting periods. A decision to do bi-annual is insufficient for investors to be able to understand a company's performance, and therefore we're working in the dark. More information = more transparency, which we truly need.

Mateo Navarro — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mateo Navarro Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Why do you feel the need to continue to help those on the top?? As a government agency, you should be representing the interests of the American people, not the people at the top who continue to make the lives of everyday Americans worse. How dare you?

Matt Bukovy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Matt Bukovy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As someone who is just starting my retirement, I'm nervous enough. I can think of NO good reason why I should not be kept informed of my hard-earned life's savings. Keep the reports quarterly!

Matt Bukovy | Mortgage Loan Originator
NMLS 755921

Mobile (773) 416-7107

2121 N Southport Ave,
Chicago, IL 60614
www.movement.com

Ask me about Impact Lending.
Have I made you a raving fan today? If so, please email ravingfans@movement.com.

IL-Temporary Authority | Movement Mortgage LLC. All rights reserved. NMLS ID #39179 (For licensing information, go to: www.nmlsconsumeraccess.org(opens in a new tab)). Additional information available at movement.com/legal. Interest rates and products are subject to change without notice and may or may not be available at the time of loan commitment or lock-in. Borrowers must qualify at closing for all benefits.

"Movement Mortgage" is a registered trademark of Movement Mortgage, LLC. Please be aware that this email may provide certain information, such as estimated rates, payment amounts, and costs, but does not imply entering into a legally binding contract. All loans are subject to the application process, credit approval, and property appraisal. Movement Mortgage, LLC supports Equal Housing Opportunity. This communication may contain proprietary, confidential, and/or privileged material and is intended solely for the intended recipient(s). If you are not the intended recipient(s), please do not read, copy, use, or disclose this communication to others. If this communication is received in error, please contact the sender immediately and delete the communication and any attachments.

Matt Cronin Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matt Cronin This is a terrible idea. Removing transparency and benefiting corporate insiders only. Why?!!! Do not do this!!!!!!!!!!

Matt Decker Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matt Decker I believe by changing the quarterly reports to biannual, disservice will occur. Individual investors will suffer from lack of knowledge and transparency. There could be long term ramifications from a change and a major lack of trust from the stock holders to the companies they purchase. Malfeasance could occur with certain companies and those out of the know could lose their investments.

Matt DeJordy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matt DeJordy I am writing to formally express my opposition to the Commission's proposed rule under File No. S7-2026-15. While I support the Commission's underlying mission to maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets, the current proposal introduces significant operational complexity and unintended economic consequences that outweigh its stated benefits. My opposition is grounded in three primary concerns: Disproportionate Compliance Burdens: The proposed framework imposes extensive administrative and reporting requirements that will disproportionately strain market participants. Rather than streamlining oversight, it introduces redundant layers of bureaucracy that will divert critical resources away from core operations and risk management. Chilling Effect on Market Liquidity: By introducing overly prescriptive mandates, the rule risks disincentivizing market participation and suppressing capital formation. A healthier regulatory approach would focus on principles-based oversight rather than rigid, granular restrictions that stifle market dynamism. Lack of Demonstrated Necessity: The proposing release fails to provide a compelling, data-driven cost-benefit analysis that justifies such a sweeping regulatory intervention. Implementing these changes without a clear, empirical link to systemic risk mitigation creates unnecessary friction for investors and institutions alike. Instead of adopting the rule as proposed, I urge the Commission to withdraw this proposal or substantially modify it to incorporate a more balanced, simplified approach that prioritizes market efficiency alongside investor protection. Thank you for considering these comments.

Matt Doyle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Matt Doyle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Having earnings reports on a quarterly basis is a worthwhile safeguard that allows investors to make the most astute decisions with regard to investing. I hope you consider maintaining them.

Sincerely,
Matthew Doyle

Matt Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Matt Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Individual investors deserve the same access to information as institutional investors. Please reject this proposal!

Matt Maguire — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matt Maguire Please do not switch to bi-annual financial reporting. Maintain quarterly reporting! We need more transparency, not less. Stockholders deserve regular, transparent communication from the leadership of the companies in which they own stock. Do not move to only twice per year financial reporting. Thank you!

---

matt metzger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: matt metzger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly or death. Mangione is not alone.

Sent from my iPhone

Matt Miller Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matt Miller More transparency, not less, is needed.

Matt Mullis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Matt Mullis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Matt Mullis, retired financial advisor, MBA in finance and accounting. This move is absolutely absurd! Investors, both self and professional, rely on this data to make informed decisions. This rule does nothing to better the country as a whole. It's only purpose is to relieve the firm of unwanted, yet necessary reporting, that can only be construed as detrimental to the share holders, to which the firm owes us first duty.

Matt Mullis
229-256-1969
mgmullis@gmail.com

Matt Quinton Concerned Citizen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matt Quinton Transparency is a requirement for legitimacy. This works in government as well as business. Less transparent business will be seen as a less legitimate business.

Matt Relich — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matt Relich I oppose the proposed change to reduce public company reporting from quarterly to semiannual disclosures. As an investor, I rely on regular financial reporting to understand the performance and direction of the companies I own shares of. Less frequent reporting would not reduce uncertainty. It would simply leave investors with less information for longer periods of time and likely result in larger surprises when new information is finally released. I am also not convinced that reducing reporting frequency meaningfully addresses concerns about short-term thinking. The issue is how investors and management teams respond to information, not the existence of the information itself. Public markets function best when investors have access to timely, transparent disclosures, and I believe the current quarterly reporting framework strikes an appropriate balance between transparency and reporting burden.

Matt Robbins Monarch Realty, Inc. ,President — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matt Robbins As a 40 plus year business owner I firmly believe transparency is a very essential part of building a business or company and that honest and timely communication provides the best service for your clients and customers. They deserve it because you are asking them to invest their very hard earned money in your product or your service. Reducing reporting requirements for public company reports from quarterly reports to just semi annual reports could lead to a catastrophic collapse of investor confidence in ANY company in my opinion. That is simply too little communication from company boards to their investors. The investor would be getting less timely and less accurate communication precisely at a time when A I and electronic trading is increasing ar a speed we have never known. A company's fate can rise and fall so much more quickly in this environment and if anything, companies should be required to provide MORE information not less in such a time as this. After all, investors are in essence minority owners of a company and deserve to be kept MORE fully informed, not LESS informed. Thank you. Respectfully Submitted, Matt Robbins Monarch Realty, Inc. President

---

Matt Rutten The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matt Rutten Please do not reduce the number of reporting cycles

---

Matt Simmons — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matt Simmons Do not reduce reporting requirements to biannual. Quarterly reporting is essential.

Matt Stedman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Matt Stedman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Good attempt at more market manipulation. Who's behind this? no

Sent from my iPhone

Matt Ware — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matt Ware Good afternoon, I'm writing to let you know that I strongly oppose allowing public companies to reduce the number of annual reports they issue. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Please DO NOT reduce the number of reports that public companies are required to issue. Thank you for your consideration. Best, Matt Ware

---

Matteo Portinari The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matteo Portinari At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Taking the reports away makes everyone less informed, informations shall be available to investors, while witholding it does not serve any real purpose

---

Matthew — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Matthew Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Matthew Harhai, farmer, Quarterly reporting is essential for all shareholders.

Thanks so much!

Matthew Harhai

Founder / Farmer

Goat Plum Tree Farm LLC

443-735-4575

Follow Goat Plum Tree Farm on Facebook and Instagram

Also check out Cybee mushroom clothing!

Cybee is dedicated to donating a portion of all profits to novel mushroom research.

Follow Cybee on Instagram

Grab a shirt from our Etsy Store

Matthew Alschuler President, Cotton Expressions, Ltd — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Alschuler I am very concerned about public corporations reducing their reports from quarterly to biennial. As public corporations we, the public, the owners, deserve to be kept abreast of our investment. Waiting six months after a good, or bad, report before knowing if it was a fluke, or a precursor to a company going under will simply make the market more volatile, stocks riskier, and cause greater losses to individuals and retirement accounts. I hope the SEC will maintain the current rules that require quarterly filing. Thank you, Matthew Alschuler

---

Matthew Blackburn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Matthew Blackburn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Matthew Blackburn, and I feel we need even more transparency, not less. Make accounting great again, and let's do it monthly!

Get BlueMail for Mobile

Matthew Cyriac — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Cyriac I'm writing because I want to see public companies retain quarterly reporting (four reports per year).The proposal that is on the table that would let companies choose to report only twice a year, and in my view that would be a step backward for transparency and for individual investors like me. To me, investing is ownership. When I buy shares, I'm choosing to own part of a business—and I believe that ownership comes with a reasonable expectation of regular, standardized communication. Quarterly reporting is one of the clearest ways public companies stay accountable to their owners, not just to analysts or large institutions with more access. I understand the arguments for moving to semiannual reporting: lower costs and less pressure to manage quarter-to-quarter. But I don't think either point outweighs the downside. Reporting is part of the bargain companies make when they choose to access public markets, and with today's tools and processes, I'm not convinced cutting disclosure in half is the right way to reduce burden. As for short-termism, I don't believe it's caused by the existence of quarterly reports—it's caused by how people react to information. Removing updates won't make markets more patient; it will just make investors like me less informed. What worries me most is that less transparency increases uncertainty. Companies will still operate every day: strategies will shift, risks will emerge, customers will come and go, and performance will change. If I only get official updates twice a year, I'm left filling the gaps with incomplete signals and speculation. And when the information finally arrives, the surprises are likely to be bigger—potentially leading to more abrupt price moves and higher volatility. Quarterly reporting helps me make better decisions, compare companies more consistently, and maintain confidence that markets are operating with fair, timely disclosure. For those reasons, I support keeping four reports per year and I oppose moving to optional semiannual reporting.

Matthew Denton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Denton As a part time owner of thousands of businesses around the world, the information provided in quarterly reports helps me make better investing choices. Lowering that number to two would make me half as informed of an investor. It is hard enough to make a living! I want to know as much as possible about the companies I'm investing in. Transparency is also critical. Many of the businesses that are publicly traded completely change how the world works. The public deserves to know what is in these quarterly reports. Thank you for your consideration.

Matthew Everett Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Everett Less accountability without quarterly reports

---

Matthew Fleisher None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Fleisher We need to know as much information as possible as soon as possible to make decisions about whether we wanna own the company or not therefore two times a year does not work. It should be more than four but we've accepted four times per year. Thank you

---

Matthew Howe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Howe Greetings. As a retail investor who avidly reviews 10Ks and 10Qs, I'm very much in favor of companies reporting their financials four times a year. I believe twice a year would leave too wide a gap to track performance. It would lead to more volatility and more surprises, both good and bad. Now, I write a lot of covered calls and tend not to write them as earnings approaches on a given company. Thus in a way, semi-annual reporting would help my covered call writing as there would be less downtime while I wait out earnings. Even so, I'm still very strongly opposed to the change. Thank you for your time.

Matthew Jackson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Jackson As a keen investor I greatly appreciate transparency of companies and regular quarterly reporting so I can dive through the numbers and get a better sense of where to put my money, to ensure the highest growth possible. I am incredibly grateful for this United States of America not only for the opportunity to invest but also the wondrous innovations which have and hopefully continue to happen from publicly listed companies. To ensure USA remains as THE BEST place to invest I am considerably concerned that quarterly reporting could be done away with. If this were to happen I would not be able to do the quality of research that I do and would HAVE to SIGNIFICANTLY reduce my capital in US markets. Thank you for reading my comment and have a good day!

Matthew Leibowitz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Leibowitz Changing from 4 to 2 required financial reports per year would be a significant reduction in financial transparency. As a shareholder or a potential shareholder, I strongly prefer to have the relevant financial information available to me quarterly to best assess trends and make informed decisions. I am strongly against the proposed change.

Matthew Leininger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Matthew Leininger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why has FRAUD , THIEVERY , AND DISDAIN FOR CITIZENRY Become the business NORM.....YOU ALL WILL ANSWER TO A " HIGHER" POWER

Matthew Mason — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Matthew Mason Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I trade stocks, and I've done my fair share of research into every aspect of stock trading, but every time I talk to the stock guy who is supposed to assist me in my investing and explain how it works. He seems to tell me the exact opposite of what I expect: investing in AI, investing in pharmaceuticals, investing in stocks that have literally soared so high it's almost inevitable. Icarus is going to fall, and doesn't really explain any of his reasoning because all of it comes from places he probably can't or won't willingly tell me, because I'm so disconnected from the whole process, as if it mattered anyway. After all, a quintillionaire could simply whisper nuh uh and influence stock prices; how am I supposed to trade like that? Sure, I'll let you own this apartment. Still, I won't tell you how much I charge when you're getting evicted or if I'm going to drop by. By the way, I tell your neighbor all of these things. I just don't tell you because you're broke as *, there's literally no amount of research that I could do that would ever even scrape the nuts of standing in the right room or calling the right person for their advice, and all of this is being gate kept so at bare minimum can I at least be able to see where my money goes when I give it to a *ing company that kind of seems like the whole god * point of investing in stocks now doesn't it?

Sent from my iPhone

Matthew Mcanulty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Mcanulty Writing in after being informed of this through my community to respectfully disagree with this intended proposal. As a relatively young investor i likely and hopefully have a long many years ahead of me to keep investing in great American businesses both large and small and hopefully to continue my investment success. the quarterly reports i get from businesses are critical pieces of information that i analyze every quarter and helps me to make well informed buy, sell, or hold decisions. When the frequency of this information dwindles it is much more harder to properly value and assess a stock and the underlying company finances behind the stock. This will inevitably result in some businesses that may be burning through my cash, as well as other investors cash and using it ineffectually while we shareholders are not privy to the fact that our money and belief in the business is essentially being taken advantage of. taken advantage of because potentially the company could be sitting on known bad financials and it isnt clear until its too late for the average investor. This lets unsavory financial details be swept under the rug and public shareholders are then left holding the bag. If we own part of the business and fund its operations, we deserve to know how that money is being spent. And, for a company that is a very large size and not a small cap ie something like spacex there is absolutely no reason they cannot take the time to have and follow proper accounting procedures as well as file transparent and clear quarterly reports on the financial standings of the business. If they do not want to comply with this, then my personal opinion is they should stay private and seek private equity and not ask for funding as a public c corporation. C corporation should carry extra reporting responsibilities. Thank you again for listening!

Matthew McClellan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Matthew McClellan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Matthew McClellan. I am a vice president at a major US bank, with 28+ years in the industry. I do much of my work within the areas of risk and compliance.

Allowing corporations six months to release their reports would be a bad idea because it creates a much larger “information gap” between when performance/risks develop and when the public learns about them. Concretely:

Delays detection of problems: Fraud, aggressive accounting, liquidity trouble, or major adverse events could persist for months before investors get official, standardized disclosure.

Reduces investor ability to make informed decisions: Investors (especially retail investors without access to management) get fewer verified data points, so they have less basis to price risk and adjust portfolios.

Increases harm when surprises finally hit: With less frequent reporting, the market may “catch up” all at once, producing bigger repricing swings and more volatility.

Weakens market discipline: Interim disclosure is one way public scrutiny disciplines management; stretching the cycle gives more room for undesirable behavior before it’s exposed.

Creates comparability and “gaming” issues: If some firms report more often than others (or change behavior over time), comparisons across peers get harder and incentives can shift around the timing of disclosures.

We both know that this is not the time for weaker controls and lighter monitoring. The SEC can do much to patch up and maintain its reputation right now by doing the right thing.

Thank you.

- Matthew

"Experience is what you get when you didn't get what you wanted. And experience is often the most valuable thing you have to offer." - Dr. Randy Pausch

---

Matthew McCotter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matthew McCotter Reporting requirements should be maintained quarterly. As an individual investor, quarterly reporting enable to manage my investment in a company in a more timely manner.

Matthew Nagi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Nagi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please.do not entertain 6 month reporting. I am a CPA and a former fortune 500 employee who worked in the SEC reporting group.
A reduction in the reporting cycle from 3-6 months will leave the public blind for too long. It will also decrease the quality of the filings and the frequency of the filing HELPS the preparers to maintain the skills required for a compliant and accurate preparation.

Matthew Ohrenberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Ohrenberg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If anything quarterly reporting should be moved to monthly reporting. These are publicly traded companies and there should be consequences for corruption.

Matthew Oltmann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Matthew Oltmann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Matthew Oltmann. I don’t think this would be a good idea. It is a step backward and doesn’t benefit the common person.

Matthew Osterholt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Matthew Osterholt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Good morning, all quarterly (or more) reporting must continue! We must hold business accountable or they'll pursue unethical business practices (as they have proven time and again) that harm their employees and customers.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Matthew Osterholt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Matthew Osterholt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Good morning, all quarterly (or more) reporting must continue! We must hold business accountable or, as they have proven time and again, they'll pursue unethical practices that harm their employees and customers.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Matthew Pava — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Matthew Pava Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I don't want to lose my retirement investments. I've been saving for 18 years.
Matthew Pava
Software Developer

Matthew Seed — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Matthew Seed Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In the age of information , the only reason to withhold information that we have always had access to before is to take our power away and to steal from us. There is no honorable reason for this and the implementation of it is insulting. At least half of us are not stupid. We are however, very fed up and there is going to be a reckoning that you will wish you had a ouded if this downward slide continues.

Matthew Sheldon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Sheldon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
To the Commissioners:
I submit this comment as an individual investor whose portfolio, savings, and retirement future depend upon timely, transparent, and accurate financial disclosures. I strongly oppose any effort to weaken quarterly reporting requirements or permit companies to report only twice annually.
The SEC's mission is clear: protect investors, maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets, and facilitate capital formation. Reducing disclosure frequency undermines each of these objectives.
A six-month reporting blackout is an invitation for misconduct to fester and for material problems to remain hidden from public investors. Fraud does not occur on a six-month schedule. Earnings deterioration, liquidity problems, accounting irregularities, and operational disruptions can emerge rapidly. Delaying mandatory disclosures merely increases the amount of uncertainty and allows issues to compound before investors are able to react.
Such prolonged periods without required reporting would also exacerbate market volatility. When months of previously undisclosed information are released at once, stock prices are more likely to experience sharp and disruptive movements. Investors deserve a steady flow of information that promotes efficient price discovery and confidence in the marketplace.
Transparency is not a burden. It is the foundation of fair and competitive capital markets. Timely disclosure benefits investors, companies, and the economy as a whole. Weakening these standards would disproportionately harm retail investors while advantaging insiders and sophisticated institutional participants with greater resources and access to information. Ordinary Americans should not be placed at a disadvantage simply because they lack the means to navigate extended periods of uncertainty.
Frankly, reducing reporting frequency amounts to blindfolding everyday investors. Americans who are diligently saving for retirement, funding college educations, and building financial security should not be asked to invest with less information and greater risk. The Commission exists to protect investors, not to shield corporations from accountability or to diminish transparency in the name of convenience.

I urge the Commission to reject any proposal that would eliminate or weaken quarterly reporting requirements. Investor confidence is built upon trust, and trust is built upon timely disclosure. If the SEC permits six-month reporting intervals, it risks eroding confidence in U.S. capital markets and betraying the very investors it was created to protect.
The Commission should strengthen transparency, not weaken it. Investors deserve more sunlight, not less.
Respectfully submitted,
Ins. M. Sheldon
Chicago, Illinois
Individual Investor

Matthew Storch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Matthew Storch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is critical to enable retail investors to make informed decisions. There is absolutely no justification to reduce the reporting requirements. Businesses already gather this data on an ongoing for internal purposes and decision making and reporting it is a a minimal burden, if any. I am retired after 30 years in the insurance industry, working for some of America's largest insurance companies. I know how much data companies gather. I spent 8 of those years as a fraud investigator, and based on my experience I believe that any reduction in transparency would have very dubious motives.

Matthew Tully — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Tully Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
If anything, we need more transparency and data backed proof in investing regulations- not less. This is a part of the ongoing mission and charter of the SEC, and shouldn't change now. Your job is to protect all Americans and the economy we build together, not to line the pockets of the few.

Matthew Zemke NA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matthew Zemke I do not think it is a good idea to reduce the required number of reporting periods per year, from four to two. While I do appreciate that companies expend a good amount of energy to report financial information, it is extremely important to me as a part owner in many of these companies to receive and review this information at least on a quarterly basis. Less information would significantly impede my ability to pass judgment on company ownership.

Matthias Lipinski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Matthias Lipinski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need the efficiency of our markets that comes with quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Matthrw Rogness Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Matthrw Rogness It is imperative that quarterly reporting remai in place. As a retail investor, companies being required to report on a quarterly basis, absolutely needs to continue. The more information we individual investors have, the better we can make informed decisions. It is already challenging enough to get truthful information in the current era of constant disinformation. Requiring quarterly reporting by public companies is in the best interest of everyone, even corporate America. These critical financial facts companies must report on, help to to keep investors informed and give us an unbiased look into corporate performance. Please support the continuation of quarterly reporting! Beat regards.

Maura McGovern — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Maura McGovern Informing investors only 2 times a year is wrong. . Please continue the requirement for 4 reports per year!

Maura McGowan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Maura McGowan Reducing the number of public company reports (less transparency), doesn't eliminate transparency, it increases it. Please keep the current quarterly reports which provides the investor with more information to make informed decisions. Thank you Maura McGowan

---

Maureen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Maureen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Maureen Neeley I live in Indiana . I had friends that due to unscrupulous actions they lost homes or even lost families because of it. It's very important that the SEC continue to require quarterly reporting and monitor this because it's too easy for the greed to get ahead.

Sent from my iPhone

Maureen Allesi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maureen Allesi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Corporations need MORE monitoring and oversight, not less. For those of us who remember Enron and the thousands that lost their jobs and retirements, those of us who heard the stories of grandparents none of whom were "investors", of the ompact of the great depression on every day people recognize the importance or all previous worthy SEC regulations that protect Americans of all statuses. I remember well also as a new college graduate doing door to door needs assessment interviews of Senior Citizens many of whom worked for Art Metal in my small city brought to tears that their entire life retirement savings were swept away when Art Metal folded. SEC needs to maintain independence and responsibility. What is great for business is rarely beneficial to the general good.

Maureen Baioni — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maureen Baioni Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Need to Keep the reporting Quarterly (or even Monthly)!
30+ years in Commercial Banking of a major Commercial Bank, I prepared financial spreadsheets as an Assistant Credit Analyst. The statements are monitored & needed for the Senior Credit Analyst to analyze so the Commercial Loan Officers & Executive Loan Committee can make a good decisions for lending..
The financial statements can signal when & if there might be an arising problem. The statements show the strengths & weaknesses of the company.
Based on the Q FS reporting, the Loan Officer can coach the company or may need to pull back the lending, so not to lose money for the bank. By moving to SA, it may put the bank in a compromising position & may be too little too late to “fix the problem”. This could be detrimental to the lender, who could potentially lose money!
Being in the Special Asset Department; I saw enough cheating & theft; hold them accountable so they don’t ‘break the bank’ & cause more “write-offs”!
Maureen Baioni
Commercial Banking/
Special Asset Department
Assistant Credit Analyst

Sent from my iPhone

Maureen Berrie-Lawson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maureen Berrie-Lawson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Everyone accountable for company funds must be held to reasonable reporting standards. Reducing the frequency of financial releases, especially for companies that have had their hands slapped for dastardly practices, is unconscionable. 4 times a year is a reasonable request. Thank you for maintaining it.
--Maureen Berrie-Lawson, Defender of Civil Liberties

Maureen Carmickle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Maureen Carmickle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Maureen Carmickle - retired - Michigan
This is a no brainer. Why would you want to go back to bi-annual reporting when the data clearly shows that you would potentially lose a third to half of your investment revenue. This would be a huge blow to people who are retired and already struggling to live on a fixed income. Not to mention young people who are trying to save for a new home, their kids college, their retirement future, etc. It sounds to me like Washington wants to keep people poor instead of letting them build wealth for their future. Also, this would affect the economy because people would have less buying power; hence less money being put back into our economy. This proposal makes no sense.

Sent from my iPhone

---

maureen flynn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: maureen flynn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is barely enough, to remove any portion of how reporting is done at present, to not actually increase it, is to put the everyday wealth of America at risk, significant risk. Maybe enough of us will die who have long memories, but in the meantime keep your enforcement level at least at this minimum.

Maureen Fujimori — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Maureen Fujimori Public company reports should continue to be made four times a year. Shareholders need transparency in order to make decisions based on good information. Thank you for your consideration.

Maureen Gonzalez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Maureen Gonzalez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please continue to issue quarterly statements. As a retired person, it is important to stay current and abreast of trends and changes in the market. My well being and that of my family depends on remaining financially fit,

---

Maureen Griffin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Maureen Griffin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am writing as an everyday investor to voice my strong opposition to the new proposal that would end quarterly reporting requirements for public companies. While some may view quarterly statements as repetitive administrative burdens, they are actually a vital safeguard for the retail investment community. Forcing companies to report only twice a year would effectively let public entities go dark for six months at a time, creating a severe information imbalance.
This shift would dramatically benefit corporate insiders who maintain daily access to operational data, while leaving ordinary investors completely in the dark. You do not need to be an institutional market analyst to understand that reducing corporate transparency directly harms the public.
I urge the Commission to consider the severe consequences of this proposal: Risk to Personal Financial Security: Eliminating quarterly reports directly threatens my personal portfolio, hard-earned savings, and long-term retirement stability. Retail investors rely on consistent data to make informed, safe choices for their financial futures. Breeding Ground for Corporate Fraud: A six-month reporting blackout creates an unacceptably long window for financial mismanagement, executive misconduct, and fraud to fester undetected. By the time a semi-annual report is published, severe internal damage could already be irreversible. Increased Market Volatility: Reducing the frequency of public data will inevitably lead to massive, unpredictable stock price swings. Instead of steady market adjustments based on regular quarterly updates, the market will experience violent shocks every six months when half a year of backlogged data is suddenly released. Erosion of Market Fairness: A fair and efficient stock market is built entirely on equal access to information. Stripping away quarterly transparency destroys the level playing field, transferring market power away from the public and into the hands of privileged insiders.
The SEC’s core mission is to protect investors and maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets. This proposal does the exact opposite. I strongly urge the Commission to reject this change and maintain the current quarterly reporting framework to protect everyday American investors.

Sincerely,
Maureen Griffin
Los Altos, California

Maureen Guido — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Maureen Guido Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 CEOs and their administrators need to continue to be held accountable by continuing quarterly reporting with their signature. It’s good for them, their shareholders and the public. Trust is everything!

Sent from my iPhone

Maureen McCarthy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Maureen McCarthy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
i do not want this change to go into affect. I want to continue quarterly required reports.

Maureen McPherson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maureen McPherson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There needs to be more oversight and regulation, NOT LESS!!!

Maureen Mott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Maureen Mott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep Quarterly!!!

Maureen Pescaia — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maureen Pescaia Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I trust no one who's not willing to give quarterly readouts. Keep it every quarter. We've had enough pillaging in the last year and a half.

Get Outlook for iOS

Maureen Petersen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Maureen Petersen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not change the reporting for publicly traded companies from quarterly to semi annually. There is too much corruption and financial manipulation to let companies report only twice per year. Thank you

Maureen Petersen

Maureen Weir — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maureen Weir Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do NOT make this change. It will widen the gap even more between the wealthy and everyone else . That is a situation that leads to disaster throughout civilization history

---

Maureen Yocum — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Maureen Yocum Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 DBA Maureen Nelson; Artist, Retired; Washington State (the other Washington on the Left Coast); Billionaire's have been scamming us all to get where they are and the biggest scammer is now a trillion are and has control of all our data through his Q scam using Anonymous conspiracy theories and facts and more recently creating DOGE. I am among the whole lot of us who are being manipulated by the rich grifters stealing our Data for for their own profit. AI is stealing our power grid and not ONE CITIZEN wants to see these power centers in their State. The elite need to be audited hard in the Quarterly Reporting of the SEC. Corporations of this magnitude should be absconded by the Federal Government and the CEO's et al in these corporate scams should be put in jail and fined as per the laws of our land. They are killing our freedoms daily and it's getting much worse quickly through the eugenicistic plans openly discussed by the elites. We know these truths to be self evident so please SEC, drain the swamp! Let freedom once again reign in our land. Look towards Albania, Palestine, Lebanon etc. where our Government, the Federal Reserve and the elite corporation CEO's are destroying humanity as we live and die by their dictates. I hope trh8s is long and comprehensive enough for SEC to take a closer look at the State of the Union.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Max Hite — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Max Hite Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This just seems like a way for more fraud to happen, and for there to be less accountability on the part of major corporations. The SECs job is to keep things above board and legal. With that considered I think more reporting would be a good idea and not less.

Maxwell Hite

Max Jauregui — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Max Jauregui Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Need to keep quarterly reporting.

~ Max W Jauregui

Max Larochelle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Max Larochelle Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Maxim Beerman Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Maxim Beerman I'm retired, disabled, & have just SS & my savings to live off of. I have a son in college & wife to support. I rely on the quarterly reports to track & adjust my investments as market conditions change. Reducing this reporting to twice yearly increases my risks & forces me to make fewer/larger adjustments. More broadly, this will result in more market volatility with bigger swings and more shenanigans as investors seek additional information by any means possible to get ahead of these bigger swings. Please maintain corporate quarterly reporting so the market maintains a manageable level of stability.

Maximilian Leutermann US NAVY — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Maximilian Leutermann Quarterly reports is the bare minimum that companies should be held accountable to produce. In today's information rich environment more transparency should be the expectation rather than the exception.

Maxine O'Brien — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Maxine O'Brien Quarterly reports need to be maintained for transparency and better information to allow me to understand the viability of my investments and to pivot if required to more profitable investments. I support myself and do not rely on government assistance. Business moves so fast these days quarterly reporting is one way of really understanding how a business is going.

Maxwell Singer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maxwell Singer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 if you think hiding their crimes will save them, it won't

---

Maya Arroyo Burton — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Maya Arroyo Burton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Maya Arroyo Burton
Executive Assistant

I think quarterly reporting is important because it promotes corporate accountability and transparency. It gives consumers and investors information they can use to make informed decisions, especially when considering long term contracts or services. This is particularly relevant for utilities, telecom providers, and subscription based services, since company performance and business decisions can ultimately affect what consumers pay.

Mazen Abouhatab The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mazen Abouhatab Public Companies should continue to report 4 times a year.

Mckenzie Golden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mckenzie Golden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 McKenzie Golden, Educator, NY
The SEC must report quarterly to keep the markets as fair as possible. By educating the public, we encourage public and private oversight. More oversight equates to less bad actors and more financial equality.

---

mcorby53 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: mcorby53 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a retired senior on Social Security making ends meet with a part-time job. How dare you even think about making it easier for greedy wealthy corporations to make more money off our backs and get to hide it so we don't know what's going on. Don't do this to us. This reporting ought to be more frequent, not less. Michael Corby, 72, Wilmington Delaware

Sent from my iPhone

---

mdannyp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: mdannyp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If anything we need more oversight not less. These big companies have no morality and will lie cheat and steal.

Sent from my Galaxy

---

mdp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: mdp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Full disclosure and transparency are critical to prevent fraud and abuse. Do not roll back quarterly reporting as our strong and dependable economy thrives on this transparency!

Me — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Me Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 M.Bifulco, Nurse - This matters because accountability is still paramount in business practice: American citizens deserve transparency and responsibility taken by corporations quarterly - NOT less often!

Sent from my iPhone

---

me viccione — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: me viccione Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 ME Viccione Customer Service sent by: me viccione from: beautiful satellite beach

florida

Medik Erbrick Retiree — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Medik Erbrick We as investors have the right to be informed.

Meg McGowan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Meg McGowan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We apparently NEED TO KNOW!!!
Margaret McGowan, Caregiver as an American, I'm entitled to know!

Meg Nelson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Meg Nelson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly!

Sent from my T-Mobile 5G Device
Get Outlook for Androids22 ww2 r

Meg Nelson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Meg Nelson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly!

Sent from my T-Mobile 5G Device
Get Outlook for Android

Megan Black — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Megan Black Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is crucial to the little remaining integrity of our financial institutions. Please keep the requirement for quarterly reports.

Sincerely,

Margaret Black

Megan Gerseny — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Megan Gerseny I don't believe it is in the best interest of the public, for whom these disclosures are intended, to reduce the number of annual discloses from 4 to 2. Providing quarterly updates to the public helps companies be transparent in all their dealings and allows their boards to know that shareholders will be reviewing their company consistently. The public are the share holders of these companies. If they didn't want to report to the public they could have stayed private. You can bet their Board of Directors will still required quarterly reports on the company, and the public should be no less informed.

Megan Mooney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Megan Mooney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Megan Mooney, CFA manager research consultant. In doing research for my clients, quarterly filings are necessary to ensure I am doing my fiduciary duty. Semi-annually leaves a lot of ambiguity leading to higher volatility in the markets.

Sent from my iPhone

Megan Noble — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Megan Noble Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I want quarterly reporting!

Megan Wolski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Megan Wolski I am concerned that reducing public reporting from quarterly to semiannual filings would materially reduce transparency for investors and increase uncertainty in the markets. Public companies should provide timely, standardized disclosure so investors can evaluate performance, risks, and material changes on a regular basis. Many Americans rely on the public markets through retirement accounts, savings, and long-term investment portfolios. Less frequent reporting would make it harder for ordinary investors to assess companies, compare performance, and respond to changing conditions. I urge the SEC to preserve quarterly reporting requirements and maintain the level of disclosure that supports fair, efficient, and informed markets.

Meggen Dean — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Meggen Dean Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quartly You Thieves!!?

Mel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Nope.
Every publicly trade company does their books monthly. To require quarterly public reporting is not a stretch. Shareholders and the public deserve full transparency.

Sent from my iPhone

Mel Iahucik Finance — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mel Iahucik I am writing to protest a proposal that is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Stop this from happening and to stop the chaos it will cause.

Mel Mobley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mel Mobley I am against this reduction in reporting. To reduce the number of filings by public companies, you are allowing companies to keep investors less informed. Not only will there be more uncertainty by the investors, the market movements will likely be more volatile as the reports will more often contain significant changes to the company's outlook. Not only is this rule bad for investors, it will likely be bad for the economy overall.

Mel Wood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mel Wood Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep companies above board by reporting Quarterly!! Thank you

---

Melanie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Melanie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 With so much fraud being exposed at every level in our government, we can't let let companies continue to hide the truth about their business dealings and where they may or may not be funneling money to.

Keep the quarterly reports and disclosures. Enforce more transparency. Maybe even pass a law that no money leaves the U.S. banking system without a paper trail and review by the treasury department.

Melanie Arntsen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Melanie Arntsen Please keep quarterly reporting. This provides more transparency into the business. Reducing to semi-annually would be detrimental to average investors.

Melanie Brown — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Melanie Brown Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Earnings should be reported quarterly! No exceptions! Too much corruption as it is. We need accountability and transparency in reporting!

Melanie Brown
Strategic Business Assistance - SBA Lending Expert

678-296-9350

RUN YOUR BUSINESS; I’LL FIND THE MONEY$

Melanie Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Melanie Johnson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Melanie Johnson, Retired
Please keep SEC reporting quarterly. I invest in the stock market and I like to be informed on a regular basis.

Warm Regards,
Melanie Johnson

Melanie M (Fathom) — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Melanie M (Fathom) Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Melanie, I live in Central Indiana with my husband. I am a health care worker and my husband works for a large retail corporation. It's important to us for the SEC to require quarterly reporting to ensure the integrity of the financial system and the broader economy and to prevent a collapse of our economic system (like with the Great Recession). The CEOs who lead these large companies owe the general public and their stakeholders ongoing communication in the form of these reports. Thank you.

Sent from my iPhone

Melanie Wahl — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Melanie Wahl Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not want quarterly reporting!
We monitor our investments for we are on a retirement budget and this could affect our ability to pay for insurance and our livelihood!
This action could devistate us financially!

Melany Villeneuve — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Melany Villeneuve Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Must keep surly reporting!!

Melba Gustafson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Melba Gustafson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission
Keep quarterly reports! It is the right thing to do!

Melinda Gottlieb — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Melinda Gottlieb Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I believe companies should be held to quarterly accounting. Investors deserve to know how their money is being spent. Transparency is essential to a democratic capitalist society.
Melinda Gottlieb
Retired newspaper librarian

Melinda

---

melinda lanigan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: melinda lanigan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello. This is regarding the proposed change to the quarterly reporting being cut down to every six months. Did we learn nothing from the past financial crises that have happened? The rules were made to make companies accountable, to lessen fraud, and to make sure that people know what is happening with their hard-earned money. We cannot create and maintain a strong financial system and then open it to bad actors who will inevitably take advantage of that system. Thank you.

Melinda Lanigan
Senior Copy Editor, Palm Beach Media Group
Tallahassee, Florida

Sent from my iPhone

Melinda Shannon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Melinda Shannon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting serves to protect Americans from fraud. Do not change the rules.

Melinda E. Shannon, SPHR/CIR/PMP

Sent from my iPhone

Melisa Tsylor Personal investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Melisa Tsylor I strongly disagree to a change in quarterly reporting to just semi annual reporting. The standard was set long ago and I do not think reducing the reporting will benefit individual investors. I rely heavily on the current quarterly reports in making decisions on buying or selling stocks in companies. With AI functions being available to corporations, the burden of quartering reporting is significantly less than it was just a few years ago. I would suggest more reporting instead of less with all the new technology.

Melissa The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Melissa Investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. There is no benefit to the owners of publicly traded companies to have less information.

Melissa Bertuzzi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Melissa Bertuzzi At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. I need to be able to evaluate companies on what is actually happening on a regular basis. Twice/year may seem easier, but it will make investing more risky and will decrease my ability to analyze the companies that I own.

Melissa Brooker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Melissa Brooker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Melissa Brooker Retired SOLDIER

Quarterly Visibility is critical for all individual walks of life to make educated decisions to support and improve individual circumstances.
Do not let greed lead. CARE.
Leave Quarterly Reporting in place.
Sincerely,
Melissa Brooker

Sent from my iPhone

Melissa Bush — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Melissa Bush Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't fix what is not broken!

Melissa Butterfield — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Melissa Butterfield Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting in place.

Sent from my iPhone

Melissa Cantrell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Melissa Cantrell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You are trying to further weaken the US financial system and undermining what little faith we have in the markets.

Melissa Caveney The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Melissa Caveney Public companies should continue to be required to publish quarterly financial reports. The purpose of financial reports is informed decision making. Given the pace businesses currently operate, even quarterly reporting may not be sufficient to spot trends in time change behaviors. As a former CPA, I’ve seen first hand how quickly the health of a business can change. Reducing the number of public company reporting to two times per year will increase uncertainty, volatility and manipulation of data. If this proposal is being considered in order to reduce costs, I believe the trade-offs will far outweigh any cost savings. I respectfully ask that this proposal be denied.

Melissa Chan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Melissa Chan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Melissa Chan. I am an investor and I feel as an investor transparency is needed. Therefore, I believe quarterly reports are necessary and the idea of biannual reports harbors illicit information and data.

Sincerely,

Melissa Chan

Melissa Chappell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Melissa Chappell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I strongly oppose this proposed rule of allowing public companies to report just twice a year. We tried this once, between 1955 and 1970. Less transparency came with lower returns and lower valuations. For me as an ordinary investor, a return to those days could mean losing a third, or even half, of my life savings.

Thank you,

Melissa Chappell

Melissa Cope Private Citizen / Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Melissa Cope Do not change reporting rules. Companies should report 4 times a year. (I am 57 and worked in the financial industry in my 20's and have been an investor in the markets all my adult life.)

Melissa De La De La Cruz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Melissa De La De La Cruz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: It's not enough to only serve the billionaire class and leave the rest of us in the dark. The SEC was created to protect the public from exactly what you're proposing. STOP TRUMPISM CORRUPTION

---

melissa hatler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: melissa hatler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Come on, how are we going to survive, plus if all our money is gone WHO is going to buy enough product for corporations to survive. If the his happens I will pull all money out of all investments and banks. No more I don’t trust any of you people you only want money and power. Shame on you, I pray that Karma will be swift and hard for all of you. One day it won’t be good for all of you that are checking out the public. All that the white house is doing and now you too! Disgraceful!

Sent from my iPhone

Melissa Henry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Melissa Henry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No changes!

Sent from my iPhone

Melissa Novak — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Melissa Novak Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello my name is Melissa Novak, and I am a Senior Comms Specialist.
I just learned that you want to take away quarterly reporting.
It seems pretty obvious that you wouldn't want to be transparent with the public if you had something you needed to hide... So what are you trying to hide by not reporting?

Sincerely,
Melissa Novak

Melissa Reddington — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Melissa Reddington Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Melissa Reddington in St Petersburg FL
Im in sales. I've lived ed through every economic crash since Reagan's voodoo economics. If the SEC eliminates quarterly earnings reports you will destroy our economy. ENOUGH! We the people have had enough. Remember your duty is to protect the American financial system for everyone NOT just the 0.01% Do your job!

Melissa Van Guilder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Melissa Van Guilder Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports should be kept. Most businesses have to do it...why not you?

CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE: This E-Mail is intended only for the use of the individual or entity to which it is addressed and may contain information that is privileged, confidential and exempt from disclosure under applicable law. If you have received this communication in error, please delete the original message and do not distribute. Please notify the sender by E-Mail at the address shown. Thank you for your compliance.

---

melissa varela — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: melissa varela less regulation is not the answer. i am an accountant and have helped file these reports. reducing the number of reporting transmissions is unfair to the investors that rely on them

---

Melissa Wood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Melissa Wood This would be a terrible lack of transparency. Please continue to require public company reports 4 time per year.

Melissa Zupancic Sandy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Melissa Zupancic Sandy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 72yr old retired nurse-We need to be aware on ongoing basis, too much is hidden and changes in 6 months It’s our savings and we deserve to know quarterly

Melissa Zupancic Sandy

Sent from my iPhone

Melody Borch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Melody Borch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Melody Borcherding. I am a teacher. I am also a small investor, but as I move towards retirement, I need to know what companies are reporting sooner not later. Therefore, I do not want the reporting window to be lengthened to six months. Please keep well established rule if reporting every 3 months. Thank you,

Melody Borcherding
NBCT -ENL Pronouns She/Her

Melody Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Melody Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I'm 7 years from retirement. We need transparency and I prefer a quarterly reporting. 90% of my retirement is in stocks. I'm also scared that more fraud could happen. Thank you.

Melody Richey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Melody Richey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Less accountability always leads to dumpster fires that the American people are left to clean up. When is less accountability ever a good thing?

Melonie Noel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Melonie Noel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT

Sent from my iPhone

Melvin Conser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Melvin Conser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: with the advent of LLM/AI and the automation it affords easy at the click of a button report generation, there is no excuse for not generating quarterly or more frequent reports. Transparency matters!

Melynda Flaggard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Melynda Flaggard investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Merci torres — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Merci torres Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting keeps companies that require investment capital on track and lessens the probability for mass fraud. An added benefit is keeping CPA jobs, since AI is not 100% reliable. As for the expense that this quarterly report may generate, it's well worth it if it's going to prevent fraud, keep our investments safe and the decisions to support on our hands. KEEP IT QUARTERLY

Meri Cohen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Meri Cohen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a terrible idea. Stockholders. Citizen. We need transparency and accountability.

Meri-Kay Bertin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Meri-Kay Bertin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Stop with the nauseating trumpism ploys; there's usually something regarding $$ for the trump crime family whenever such a proposal carries a negative spin on it which affects the innocent people.

---

meridethtohayes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: meridethtohayes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 First of all, for general investors, there are No Good Reasons At All that the current structure should be changed. There are, however, A Myriad of Great Reasons why it should not be.
Anyone supporting the change will be forever scrutinized for it.
We will make sure it haunts you forever.

Merna Blagg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Merna Blagg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Accountability is crucial! Demand the quarterly reporting!

Merriah Sample — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Merriah Sample Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Merriah Sample and I have worked hard as an educator for the past 27 years please don't allow this change to happen it disgusts me to see all the corruption and this is going to rob Americans of our hard earned retirement money so our insider trading government can manipulate markets and we are left with nothing.
Thank you for your attention to this matter.
Merriah Sample

Sent from my iPhone

Merrigay Steskal — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Merrigay Steskal Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Merrigay and I am a property manager. Companies should be held accountable for their actions, one of the only ways to do that is to see their numbers and how they got where they are. DO NOT allow them to stop showing them by removing the quarterly requirements. This is a checks and balances process and it needs to remain as such, quarterly.

Sincerely,
Merrigay Steskal

---

mesears12 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: mesears12 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do your darn job properly and leave it Quarterly!

Sent from my Galaxy

MG — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: MG Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To Securities and Exchange Commission:
Accountability is utterly important, achieved best with quarterly reports, not by reducing to bi-annual. Don't reduce reporting requirements. Keep corporations honest, help them stay focused on their mission.

Marcy Greenhut

Be the environment. Be the planet. Be part of the solution.

MGRM — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: MGRM I believe that shortening annual reporting to 2x year would fall short of being transparent. 4x would be more in line of knowing what's going on in a company as an investor.

MHDZ — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: MHDZ Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This proposal would be a disaster for retail traders and hurt accountabily

---

MiaBlack1234 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: MiaBlack1234 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Trans TT

R
Transparency is key.
Quarterly reporting should be a non-negotiable.
Reporting every six months is a bad idea for investors.

Melissa Lieberman

Sent with Proton Mail secure email.

Micah Byrd — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Micah Byrd Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting exactly how it is! Why enable these crooks?

Mich Cl — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mich Cl Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not leave investors in the dark more than now with rules changes.

---

mich dolan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: mich dolan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting provides jobs, and protects investors, allowing them to make important moves with their money. Reducing accountability to twice a year will only benefit those who are trying to hide errors or bad decisions. More accountability, not less! Sincerely, Michele Dolan, retired former investor from Florida

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Michael The motley fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael I've been investing for a long time and I've relied on receiving company information/reports MORE THAN 2x @ year.

Michael & Paulette — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael & Paulette Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It's important for all investors to know what administrators of the organizations we invest in are doing. Unless you can convince us that changing the rules back to the ones that gave us less protection ate better, don't change them.
Thank You,
Paulette Whinnery

Paulette Whinnery
Crestline Refinishing &

Bathcrest of Santa Barbara County
805-937-9533

Merchant Circle:
https://www.merchantcircle.com/bathcrest-of-santa-barbara-county-crestline-refinishing-santa-maria-ca
Google Web Site
https://bathcrestsb.business.site/

Houzz
https://www.houzz.com/professionals/specialty-contractors/crestline-refinishing-and-bathcrest-of-s-b-county-pfvwus-pf~1478309603?

Michael A Caddell The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael A Caddell Please do not reduce the number of required reporting periods. Fewer reporting periods means not only less transparency, but also means a greater opportunity for volatility, which can lead to shareholder losses and potential litigation. This would definitely be a step in the wrong direction. Shareholders – who are the owners of publicly-traded companies – deserve better!

Michael Adams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Adams Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Seriously? Come on knock of your BS ,quit tryn'a be a criminal.. keep quarterly guys and gals 😃.

Michael Adler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Adler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dont stop the quarterly signings!

Michael Allred — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Michael Allred Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Mandatory quarterly reports were put in for a very good reason. We need the transparency they promote. Think of the harm this can do.

---

michael anacker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: michael anacker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not let this happen another way to take advantage of investors

Sent from my iPhone

Michael Ancy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Ancy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting! This frequency of reporting provides necessary transparency to keep investors informed. Thanks

Sent from my iPhone

MICHAEL ANTHONY THOMAS CEO OF AN INDEPENDANT INSURANCE AGENCY — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: MICHAEL ANTHONY THOMAS I respectfully request that we investors as owners of stock in companies continue to get at least 4 reports a year on all companies so that we can be wise investors. Twice a year, especially in our volatile market today, is just not enough to know what is taking place within a company. Thanks, Michael A Thomas

---

Michael Bahurinsky — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Bahurinsky Don't be stupid. I know this is good to hide money and cook the books, but if this passes, it'll solidify my complete and utter lack of faith in government.

Michael Baily — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Baily I am writing as an individual investor to express my opposition to the Commission’s proposal to permit voluntary semiannual reporting via Form 10-S. Reducing corporate disclosure frequency from quarterly to semiannual intervals will harm retail investors and decrease market efficiency. I urge the Commission to reject this rule change for several reasons: 1. Individual investors rely entirely on public filings to evaluate companies. Extending the reporting window to six months ensures that insiders, hedge funds, and institutional traders with direct corporate access will have an even greater advantage over retail investors who are increasingly left in the dark. 2. A six-month reporting gap means operational failures, the effect of economic changes, and changes in competitive landscape could remain hidden from public view for half a year. This delayed transparency prevents retail investors from making timely portfolio adjustments. 3. Concentrating financial disclosures into two reporting windows instead of four would make earnings releases even more significant. Stock prices could experience even larger, more violent swings as six months of accumulated data is digested by the market. 4. If reporting cadences become voluntary, comparing a semiannual company against a quarterly competitor within the same industry will become increasingly difficult, complicating fundamental analysis for individual stock pickers. 5. Lastly, companies are already seeing the benefits of using AI to streamline data collection and reporting. If anything, companies should leverage AI to provide financial information to investors more frequently, not less. For these reasons, I urge the Commission to withdraw this proposal and maintain mandatory quarterly reporting on Form 10-Q. Transparency and timely disclosures are a bedrock of investor confidence and promote fair public markets. Sincerely, Michael Baily

---

Michael Beyries — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Beyries I am retired and living on social security and stock market investments. I am able to afford a big house and I am helping to support three sons, three grandchildren, and a great-grandchild because of those investments. Quarterly reports from companies I'm invested in are important to me and to other "owners" of stock. Please do not allow public companies to skip half of those reports.

Michael Bieber Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Bieber I would prefer you NOT allow public companies to reduce the number of public company reports from four times a year to just two. As an investor in ownership of businesses I deserve regular transparent communication from that business, by reducing reporting requirements it will weaken the connection between companies and their owners.

Michael Block — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Block Investing in a company makes me a part owner, no matter how small my ownership is. I want to continue to have quarterly updates on all my investments. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Fewer reports might reduce costs, but in todays age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Companies have always had to manage quarter to quarter and that won't change if we leave things alone. In the meantime, short term investing will always be in play and for those that are not investors in businesses, but merely traders, quarterly reporting will not change that. But short-term traders are based on how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient, but rather just makes everyone less informed. It is not debatable that when you have less information you would end up with less-informed owners.

Michael Boeckman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Boeckman For the individual investor , I think this is a very bad proposal. Since when does less reporting help the small investor looking for information? Twice a year is not enough! I think such a proposal will lead to more uncertainty and volatility if such a proposal is adopted. We need more transparency for financial reporting, not less.

Michael Bonnstetter Mötley fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Bonnstetter Investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Michael Bruzdzinski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Bruzdzinski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting to avoid the possibility of fraud and to provide investors with a better indication of performance

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Michael Bunney N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Bunney I oppose reducing corporate reporting from quarterly to semiannual. This reduces transparency and puts delays shareholders' ability to recognize trends that need to be addressed.

Michael Cain — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Cain A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that’s a mistake!

Michael Campbell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Campbell I believe more reporting is generally better than less reporting.

Michael Campbell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Campbell As an investor transparency is important. Quarterly reporting is a necessary element of a corporation being transparent to its owners and a cost of doing business. The cost of doing this reporting is small in comparison to the sales of SEC regulated companies. Our government should continue to be interested in keeping corporations responsible and accountable to its owners. Keep the quarterly reporting that was hard fought for for good reason.

Michael Cappuccitti None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Cappuccitti Terrible idea. Public investors are already in the dark on many things and this only makes that worse.

Michael Chupa — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Chupa As a citizen with exposure via my retirement savings accounts to the broader market, I strongly urge that the SEC rescind any attempt to decrease the transparency available to the community via public corporate filings. The proposed rule would cut the information required by filers by 50%! With corporate malfeasance and profits at record highs, it's not too much to ask for some manner of information that can be used by the investing community to hold corporate officers and boards to account. Reject Semiannual filing; retain quarterly filing requirements.

Michael Cirone — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Cirone I do not agree with this latest attempt at thievery & fraud . We should all be concerned about AIs involvement as well. If it looks like fraud..it usually is!

Michael Clark Chartered Accountant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Clark I learned from a trading stock service. The proposal to change two Public reporting to twice a year is an issue for retail investors who rely on quarterly financial reports to mange their investments. For that reason quasrter reporting must remain and have full transparency

---

Michael Cody CPA, AICPA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Cody This would be bad for the investor. As a CPA it is getting easier to issue financial statements. The burden is not as bad as it seems.

Michael Cohen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Cohen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am Mike Cohen, and I believe tje public should have the right to know quarterly earnings. You corporations are why America is dying, and when we all are gone you genuine blubbering greedy fools will have nothing. It's almost like of you all just shut the hell up and gave us things we ACTUALLY want & need at reasonable prices you'd have the punlic on your side. Corporate suicide of course is a choice too.

By the way go * yourselves.

Michael Cothran Jr None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Cothran Jr I am submitting to speak against S7-2026-15. This bill would only hurt retail investor and put them at a bigger disadvantage against large corporate firms. Information is more abundant for these larger firms, and retail investors rely on these quarterly reports. Similar bills in Europe have measureably hurt retail investors already.

Michael Couter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Couter Less information does not create better-informed owners. This is obvious to an individual investor. Corporations stand to benefit from this move at the expense of individual investors. They do not simply get to pull a "fast one" on us. KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTS.

Michael Cross — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Cross Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarter reporting is best option to provide up to date info to investors and keeps the market stable.

Michael D Coen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael D Coen When it comes to administrative requirements I tend to fall on the side of less vs more. However, I am vehemently opposed to lowering the reporting requirement from quarterly to semi-annually. I firmly believe this is a recipe for a disaster in some cases. Quarterly reporting obviously does not prevent bad outcomes for management and stockholders but it does shorten the window for openly disclosing bad results, decisions, direction, profit, etc. We know there are poorly managed companies (and even well managed companies that simply made mistakes) that only disclose results because they are required to. Reducing that requirement to two times per year allows for bigger windows of bad and/or nefarious activity. It will also increase opportunities to double-down on a bad strategy or direction. Those bigger windows will have the ability to create much bigger losses and potential panicked reactions/over-reactions. The final question I would pose is if well managed companies are disciplined about producing monthly financials, why would we not continue to afford investors a quarterly glimpse into the state of affairs?

Michael Davies Motley Fool Group — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Davies Reducing reporting to semi annual does not help investors keep up to date on financial and other information and thus the ability to make timely decisions on their investments. Please keep quarterly reporting in place .

Michael Davis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Davis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly. I'm sure the accounting systems are quite capable of keeping up on a quarterly basis. And we'll know if the numbers are bad sooner

Michael C. Davis
600 Roosevelt Blvd. Apt 108
Falls Church VA. 22044

“If human marks matter, there are thousands of years of history on this creek, and if life matters, there are millions of years, and if reality matters, the creek is a recent wrinkle on the face of eternity.” – Charles Bowden

---

Michael DeLaney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael DeLaney Reducing Corporate Public Reporting requirements from 4 times a year to 2 is a very bad idea that only leads to less informed investors… Please don’t approve this proposal…

Michael Dougherty AI Growth Engineer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Dougherty Keep transparency alive! Submitting financial information quarterly may be more costly but provides less volatility and more clarity

---

Michael Driscoll Personal Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Driscoll My information came from "The Motley Fool" and it is my belief that more information on a regular basis is the right plan not less communication on a less frequent basis. Given our progress in data and computer advancements and the now common use of AI this should be a no problem.

Michael Dunk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Dunk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Bad idea

---

Michael E. Strickler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael E. Strickler As an investor, I am strongly opposed to semiannual reporting. I feel it will create more uncertainty about a company's performance because it will be reporting its results less frequently. Often my investment decisions are based on company performance and I would like to have timely information to make my investment decisions.

Michael Eaton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Eaton A transition from quarterly to semi-annual reporting would be bad for investors and bad for the US Economy overall. While I expect the SEC will receive many comments expressing concern on the first point, I'd like to emphasize the second. Financial transparency is a cornerstone of global US economic dominance, and in light of recent events, a reduction in transparency would send the wrong signal to international business partners during a period of global economic realignment. Indeed, the PRCs lack of transparency continues to be one of the biggest impediments to their larger strategic plan for economic dominance. A unilateral pullback on this critical competitive advantage would be meaningful, while the hypothetical benefits of reduced reporting are suspect. Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.

Michael Emerson The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Emerson As an individual investor, I feel obligated to respectfully urge that the proposed new rule regarding the lessening of reporting requirements for public corporations be dropped. I believe that quarterly reporting should remain the standard. Semi-annual reporting would not provide timely enough data to make sound investment decisions - particularly in a period of rapid business environment change. Furthermore, I believe it would serve to further isolate entrenched managements from those they serve.

Michael Evans — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Evans I am a investor. I want the transparency of reporting 4 times per year. I'm strongly against the rule change to allow reporting 2 times per year. Far too many things change over the course of 6 months. Investors deserve transparency.

Michael Fallin The Motley Fool Community: an individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Fallin Semi-annual reports appear to be a bad idea. Absentee owners rely on quarterly reports to help flag problems and evaluate leadership. As it is, a quarterly report might be too long to review.

Michael Falso The Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Falso There are arguments against quarterly reporting, such as forcing companies to focus on near-term profitability, and maybe the time and cost involved in generating the reports. However, quarterly reporting provides transparency for the investor and discipline for the company reporting. Please endeavor to keep financial reporting on a quarterly basis. Thank you.

Michael Gaffey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Gaffey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Preserve honesty and timeliness from corporate CEOs as they are paid to be trustworthy and represent honesty for all security of investors faith

Sent from my iPhone

Michael Garcia — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Garcia Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an independent government agency you work for us, the American people. Your primary purpose is to protect investors, enforce federal securities laws, and regulate the nation's stock markets and financial industry.

As such, it's critical you ensure that companies/CEOs continue to report their financials quarterly. Reporting helps keep CEOs honest (as honest as possible) and it gives the public and investors information to make informed decisions. Without quarterly reporting we are left in the dark and fraud is more likely to fester and cause volatile stock prices. We need this information to secure our investments. If you truly want a fair market, company information has to be available and transparent quarterly. Thank you.

Michael Glass — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Glass We need more transparency about a companies finical status not less. Every 6 mos. does not provide information in a timely manner and every 3 mos. provides more useful information.

Michael Gonzalez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Gonzalez Re: File No. S7-2026-15; Semiannual Reporting To the Securities and Exchange Commission: I am an individual investor, and I respectfully oppose the proposal to allow public companies to reduce their regular reporting from quarterly reporting to semiannual reporting. At its core, investing in public companies is ownership. As an owner, I believe I should receive timely, regular, and transparent information about the businesses in which I invest. Reducing the number of required reports would weaken that connection between public companies and their shareholders. I understand the argument that fewer reports may reduce compliance costs or lessen short-term pressure on management. However, I do not believe the solution to short-termism is less information. Short-term thinking comes from how market participants react to information, not from the existence of regular disclosure itself. Taking information away from investors does not make the market more patient; it simply makes investors less informed. Public companies operate every day. Their customers, products, margins, strategies, risks, and competitive positions can change materially within a six-month period. If investors receive official updates only twice a year, important developments may remain unclear for too long. That is especially concerning for individual investors, who generally do not have the same access to management, analysts, or institutional research channels that larger market participants may have. Less frequent reporting could also increase uncertainty and volatility. When information is delayed, surprises may become larger when they finally appear. Regular quarterly reporting helps investors assess progress, risk, capital allocation, and management execution in a more disciplined way. I believe transparent and timely disclosure is one of the great strengths of the U.S. public markets. It promotes investor confidence, market efficiency, and accountability. Reducing required reporting would move the market in the wrong direction. For these reasons, I urge the Commission not to adopt the proposed semiannual reporting rule. Please preserve quarterly reporting requirements for public companies. Respectfully submitted, Michael Gonzalez Individual Investor

---

Michael Grasseschi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Grasseschi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Go f yourselves you greedy assholes we all know why you're doing this and it's corrupt evil unethical and Beyond sociopathic... for you absolutely soulless beast, nothing is ever enough and you just need to get used to the fact that no matter how much money you have you will never be anything but miserable so stop trying to steal it from us and rape and Pillage every god * dollar that isn't nailed down

---

Michael Griese — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Griese Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We must keep the quarterly reports,businesses and their CEO’s must be held accountable

Sent from my iPhone

Michael Grobelch Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Grobelch I believe the proposed that the proposed semi-annual is a mistake and does not make for a better and more informed investor community; and therefore is not in the best interest of any investor regardless of their size. I support quarterly filings as this assists me in making the best decisions for my portfolio even at the cost of increasing reporting costs. Best regards.

Michael Hall The Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Hall With the increasing pace of global business activities and the increasing trend of AI introduction to businesses the proposal to reduce from four to two company reports per year seems inconsistent with the rapid advancement in data technologies. I would argue more transparency is required e.g. every two months, six per year. This would ensure owners, shareholders and investors are appropriately informed of company performance. Reducing reporting commitments has the potential to increase uncertainty about business outcomes and direction, directly impacting investment decisions and direction.

Michael Halloran — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Halloran Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why?

Mike Halloran

Michael Haney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Michael Haney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep things as they are! CEOs get a much better shot on life than most of the rest of us do.

I've learned that opportunities are never lost; someone will take the ones you miss. -- Our Mission: We offer people around the world a better path to wellness and a healthy, vibrant life!

Michael Haney

Atlanta, Georgia
404-245-7109 - Cell

POOR = Passing Over Opportunity Repeatedly

---

michael Healy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: michael Healy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stay quarterly, retired. Anything put in darkness is known to be for a reason. And the reason always benefits the few,the crooks and deception.

Michael Holden Private investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Holden In an increasingly fast moving world timely communication is vital if trust is to be maintained in financial affairs. I believe quarterly reporting will help ensure investors are up-to-date with a company's business. If the argument is that it promotes short termism then why not accounts every year. No the short termism is the responsibility of the investor and timely information a cure.

Michael Holthouse Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Holthouse Seems unfair and lazy, what are you trying to hide?

Michael Holzer Retired Financial Analyst — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Holzer Investors need more transparency and not less in our financial markets. The cost of quarterly financial reporting is the price companies pay for access to the capital markets in our country. With further implementation of AI these costs should dramatically decline quickly. With all the shenanigans we have seen continually in the corporate capital markets we cannot afford to loosen the financial reporting quarterly reporting requirements. Michael Holzer

---

Michael J Perry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael J Perry Investors need full transparency!

Michael J Rumberger The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael J Rumberger I am against allowing public companies to elect to reduce the number of their public reports and filings from quarterly or 4 times per year to only 2 times per year for the following reasons: 1) As an investor, I need to know how the company is performing on a frequent, regular basis. Quarterly is sufficient, but twice a year is inadequate. 2) By being an investor, I am also an owner in the business, and the business should be completely transparent in its performance. I need to understand how the business is performing at least every quarter so I can determine what changes, if any, I should make to my investment. 3) As an owner, the company is obliged to provide me with recent and regular updates about its performance. The proposed rule change reduces to company's obligations to me to my detriment. 4) The company certainly needs to maintain a frequent level of information for its internal use in order to continue to operate the business in a way that benefits its stakeholders. This proposed rule change allows the company to be aware of its own performance, but will deny me and other investors of awareness of the business. This rule change represents an unnecessary reduction of information for the business owners while management has a much better idea internally about what is transpiring. This represents an unacceptable reduction of transparency. 5) There is absolutely no useful purpose or overall benefit of changing the frequency of reporting to investor/owners of the company. Is this rule expected to save costs for the company? If so, I would like to see some evidence of this "benefit". To be fair, the costs to investors of this rule change must also be carefully analyzed and fully presented. The result of this exercise would clearly demonstrate the costs far outweigh the benefits. 6) Finally, who proposed the rule change and for what purpose? I would like see what discussions have taken place in the rule-making body that resulted in this proposed rule change.

Michael J. McIntosh Jr Registered Architect, US Citizen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael J. McIntosh Jr At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Michael Kazala Retired Broadcast Management Executive — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Kazala In an age where big business has been given more and more liberties to operate with less and less government oversight, now is not the time to loosen the requirements for companies to regularly communicate with their stockholders in a transparent way. It is not reasonable to assume that stockholders are satisfied to be left in the dark about updates from the companies to which they hold stock (and therefore an "ownership interest"). Please continue to require publicly traded corporations to communicate often and transparently with all of the people whose money they rely upon to operate and build their businesses. The Motley Fool called this issue to my attention. Please help us remain vigilant of our investments. Thanks for reading. Mike Kazala

---

Michael Keyes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Keyes I think the proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two would be a serious mistake for investors and owners of businesses as it makes everyone less informed. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. This would be a total disservice to all involved and contribute to a weaker nation at large.

Michael Kuba — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Kuba Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please continue quarterly reporting

---

Michael L Deamer Attorney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael L Deamer We need more reports not less. This is an information age. Truthful reporting can't be that hard.

Michael Land — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Land Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Less accountability by leadership has never led to better results, in all of history. Also, if the burden is so great on the leadership of the company, maybe they don’t actually warrant being in those positions.

Sent from my iPhone

Michael Lied The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Lied I oppose the proposed rule. Investors and the public deserve and need more information, not less.

Michael Lindsey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Lindsey Please do not reduce the reporting requirements from 4 times a year to 2 times a year. Investors need this information to make informed decisions on stock purchases or sales.

Michael Lockart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Lockart Keep public companies transparent to their investors as often as possible. If you want to be private then don’t solicit public investors. You can’t have your cake and eat it too.

Michael Long Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Long Please respect individual American Investor's right to now about the companies we invest in by maintaining the required 4 times per year repairing requirements for public companies.

Michael Magras Personal investor, Motley Fool member — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Magras Please do NOT reduce reporting requirements or frequency! Investors need more and timely information about companies they own. Thank you, Michael Magras

---

Michael Malovich — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Malovich I do not believe changing from a quarterly to a semiannual reporting is in the best interest of the individual investor. Reducing the amount or frequency of financial information released to the public will detrimentally affect the individual investor's ability to make informed decisions in a timely manner. I am against the proposed change in reporting.

Michael Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Martin Just one more way to allow big business to screw us over.

Michael McAuliffe Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael McAuliffe Please do not reduce the earnings schedule from Quarterly to Semi-annual. For investors like mysewlf this would be much more difficult to gage the health and viability of a business. Transparency breeds trust! Lack of transpareny erodes trust and this will hurt every day Americans!

Michael McCann retired, Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael McCann Bad idea. I want data regularly. I'd prefer monthly, settle for quarterly. would HATE semiannually.

Michael McGee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael McGee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Michael S. McGee. Now retired and living off of quarterly dividends. Need quarterly reports to make informed decisions. This is outrageous when most of us pay quarterly taxes also.

Michael S McGee, LPC, DCH, MS

Michael Medice — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Medice More transparency is a good thing. I do not want to see this pass. It is a very bad idea. In this age of AI, companies do not need to cut back on reports.

Michael Meredith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Michael Meredith Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the corporate 8-K filing requirents "furnished" and "filed" QUARTERLY.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Michael Morgan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Morgan I believe changing company reporting from 4 times per year to 2 would be detrimental to investors. Quarterly reports help keep investors informed, and help with decisions involving fair market value, risk, and many other factors pertaining to publicly traded companies. The SEC is supposed to protect investors and semi annual reporting is cutting protection in half.

Michael N Cheung Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael N Cheung Please retain the quarterly corporate reporting requirements. As investors, we need timely data on how companies are performing in order to make informed investing decisions. Thank you.

Michael Norton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Michael Norton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly works why change?

Mike Norton
Office Manager
JAnthony Design
66540 SR 19
Wakarusa, IN 46573

Michael O'Leary The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael O'Leary Quarterly reporting protects individual investors. The companies most likely to opt out are the ones where oversight matters most.

Michael O'Neill none-individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael O'Neill I am retired and rely on investment income to live and pay my bills. Semi-annual reporting will provide less information and impair my ability to make rational investment decisions. Quarterly reporting is essential. Business managers rely on daily and weekly reporting to run the business, and the investors are the owners of the business and deserve quarterly reporting at a minimum. If businesses are looking to reduce costs, they should consider adjusting CEO salaries.

Michael OBrien Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael OBrien A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. We think that’s a mistake! At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Michael Opich — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Opich Currently, some publicly traded companies are working to limit the information they must disclose to private individuals through regular quarterly reports. Semiannual reporting, that is suggested as an alternative by these companies, would be a terrible disservice to individual investors such as myself, who depend on regular reporting to make important, informed decisions about our own financial situations. In fact, I feel that even more transparency is needed by individual investors due to institutional traders often having inside sources of information that individuals don't have access to. Currently available info to ordinary shareholders should be preserved and expanded, not reduced and diminished! Save the 10-Q

Michael P. Poremba Multiple stockholder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael P. Poremba The proposed change to semiannual reporting would be detrimental to stockholder/owner interests. The cost saving, if any, would negligible at best. Owners should be kept apprised of company performance as often as possible.

Michael Palmisano — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Palmisano Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It should be monthly. Quarterly at least.

Michael Patterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Michael Patterson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm 84, my wife is 79, such a thing would be a great disaster, and you know it!

Sent from my iPhone

Michael Patterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Michael Patterson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Don't do this if you care about the society you live in

Michael Pawlowski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Pawlowski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting. This is about transparency. Quarterly reporting at a minimum!!!

Sent via the Samsung Galaxy A15 5G, an AT&T 5G smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Michael Peacock — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Peacock Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please do the right thing and continue to mandate quarterly reporting. Michael Peacock
Retired

Michael Prince Independent investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Prince I am strongly opposed to semi annual reporting. Please do not reduce the number of times public companies have to report. Investors need transparency and information to make good choices. This is especially important for small independent investors who do not have large research departments. Public companies should be required to provide more information, at a minimum of quarterly. Thank you.

Michael Raysses — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Michael Raysses Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We must keep the reporting on a quarterly basis; to do otherwise invites corruption!

Michael Reece — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Reece Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Mike Reece and I abhor making it easier for companies to hide failures! If your company is doing well then reporting should be something you do with pride and if you're in freefall it gives us seniors who invest a chance to bail out. We need these investments 6maintain our retirements and lack of reporting does NOT work in our favor!

Michael Reyes Retired CEO LISI Aerospace — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Reyes Quarterly reporting provides a balanced view of detailed review for companies. Semi-annually provides too much time without oversight for investors to feel comfortable. I recommend not changing the current reporting period.

Michael Rich Retired Professor of Marketing - Southwest Minnesota State University — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Rich As a common stockholder, I rely on quarterly reports to graph each stock's trends. Reducing to two reports a year is convenent for the corporation, not for the owners of the company. Let's not permit corporations to slack off their responsibilities to the shareholders...it serves no positive purpose in keeping all parties honest. Michael Rich

---

MICHAEL RICHARDS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: MICHAEL RICHARDS Less frequent reporting is wrong! Investors need at least quarterly reports. More reporting would lead to less managing to reports, less reporting will make it worse!

Michael Roberts — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Roberts Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You Will maintain Quarterly reporting ,or we could always shorten it to bi-monthly to keep it fair .

Michael Rubin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Rubin My opinion is that, in order to continue to be a global destination for capital investment, we must not weaken our full disclosure and transparency standards of companies and therefore the capital markets. Eliminating quarterly reporting, is a step in the wrong direction, because the savings expected will be far outweighed by the cost of diminished daylight and trust in domestic securities. Many foreign markets, both developed but particularly emerging and frontier, find themselves excluded by investors because of the identical mistrust of corporate governance and financial standing due to diminished reporting. Full disclosure is at the very heart, of the securities acts of 1933, and 1940. We already have a market for private equity investments, with different disclosure and investor suitability requirements, because of the accepted wisdom concerning risk exposure. Public companies must continue to comply with quarterly reporting or choose private status. The SEC performs an enormous public service, and its guardrails preserve the reputation for integrity and accountability, and lowering filing requirements must be considered only after remembering why they were created in the first instance. Thank you for considering my comments.

Michael Ruland — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Ruland Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly and strengthen control on insider trading.

Michael Sanders Private investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Sanders Please vote no on the SEMI ANNUAL CORPORATE FINANCIAL REPORTING bill. One needs quarterly reports to make educated investment decisions, not twice a year. Thank you.

Michael Sety Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Sety Please keep the reporting requirement at its current level.

Michael Simon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Simon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Security & Exchange Commission: it is necessary that you continue to require quarterly reports. This is an essential requirement needed to ensure that the 95% of Americans who are not multimillionaires or billionaires have a slim chance of participating on a fair playing field.

We don’t ask for much, just a slim chance at a fair deal.

Quarterly reports help both businesses, investors, buyers, owners; but you know this. So, please don’t allow yourselves to be cajoled, coerced or corrupted into this plan to benefit the few.

Thank you for reading this and giving it consideration.

Sincerely
Michael Simon

MICHAEL SLATER — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: MICHAEL SLATER Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kevin Slater, truck driver, Bakersfield, California. I want to keep up on my investments .

MICHAEL SLATER — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: MICHAEL SLATER Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Michael Slater, truck driver. I need to be able to make decisions as soon as possible.

Michael Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Smith I would like to keep quarterly reporting as is rather than move to a twice a year schedule. As a private investor saving for my retirement and my kid's education, I feel that frequent, accurate information about the company that I partly own is critical to making good decisions about those companies.

Michael Statdfield — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael Statdfield Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a factory worker and think this change should NOT happen. This will just make it easier for executives to cheat .

Michael Street — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Street Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What is the effect of the change? There are thousands of companies being monitored by the SEC. There are programs and routines being set in place using AI to trigger investigations based on real time data, including stocks, loans, movement of funds which can spot illegal activity.

We have been perfecting the technologies for years tracking funding of terrorists and drug cartels profits. The next big nut to crack is off shore crypto currencies.

I think quarterly signatures is a waste of time. It just points to the CEO so they go to jail. Big deal. One person? What about rooting out all the people it took to execute illicit activities?

V/R,
Mike

Michael Stringer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Stringer I agree with The Motley Fool. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. This is unacceptable and it is a mistake to reduce the number of public company reports. This needs to stay as quarterly reporting. If someone else doesn't agree, they can skip every other report. We need 4 per year.

Michael Sullivan Semi-Retired option trader & substitute teacher. 40 years in Sales, 30 with Kimberly-Clark Professional.. 3 as an SBA lender with a community bank. Also, 4 years as a college football coach. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Sullivan As an investor, quarterly updates provide me with a much clearer picture of the company I'm investing in and trading. Financials & the "Story" of the company are needed to make an informed decision on the company. 4X per year vs. 2X per year helps me make better & more informed decisions.

Michael Swist — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Swist With AI now available there is no legitimate reason to claim that fewer reports will save labor. Why do you REALLY desire to submit fewer reports? The reason is not to decrease a workload. You want to operate more discreetly, in the dark opposed to in the spotlight. I am confident you will get your way, cause another 2008 financial crisis that we peons & plebeians will pay for, and award executives 6-7 figure Christmas bonuses for crashing our economy...again. It's a damned shame. There's never money for pension funds, health insurance, or bonuses for non-executives. Ain't that somethin'?

Michael The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael I respectfully oppose any proposal that would allow public companies to reduce mandatory reporting from quarterly to semiannual disclosures. Investing in public markets is fundamentally an act of ownership. Shareholders provide capital and, in return, deserve timely and transparent information about the businesses they own. Reducing the frequency of required reporting would weaken that relationship and leave investors with less visibility into company performance, risks, and strategic direction. Proponents argue that less frequent reporting could reduce compliance costs and discourage excessive focus on short-term results. While those objectives may be worthwhile, reducing the flow of information is not the appropriate solution. Short-termism is a behavioral issue driven by how market participants react to information, not by the existence of information itself. Limiting disclosure does not encourage long-term thinking; it simply leaves investors less informed. Moreover, advances in technology, automation, and artificial intelligence have reduced many of the administrative burdens associated with financial reporting. The cost-benefit case for cutting disclosure requirements is therefore less compelling than it may have been in previous decades. More importantly, less frequent reporting could increase uncertainty in the marketplace. Public companies continue to operate every day. Customers are gained and lost, products are launched, capital is allocated, and risks emerge continuously. If investors receive official updates only twice per year, information gaps will widen and market participants will increasingly rely on speculation, rumors, and unofficial sources. Reduced transparency is unlikely to reduce volatility. In fact, it may increase it. When information is withheld for longer periods, the eventual disclosures are more likely to contain larger surprises, resulting in sharper market reactions and greater price swings. More frequent reporting allows information to be incorporated into prices gradually, promoting more efficient markets and better-informed investment decisions. The SEC’s mission includes protecting investors, maintaining fair and efficient markets, and facilitating capital formation. Regular and transparent disclosure supports all three objectives. For these reasons, I believe quarterly reporting requirements should be maintained. Thank you for considering my comments.

Michael Tranthem — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Tranthem More transparentcy would always be better. I think that moving from 4 reports per year to only 2 reports per year would be a mistake. It would undermine the confidence that has been up until now, given by these four reports per year. Less information is not always a good thing. I believe reducing the reporting would erode the confidence that we have now.

Michael W Pool The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael W Pool Keep the requirements to report four times per year. The investing community depends on quarterly reporting. Individual investors are in fact owners of the business in which they have invested in. We depend on accurate and frequent reporting so we can make informed decisions on how to invest our hard-earned life savings.

Michael Waldron — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Waldron Please maintain the existing reporting requirements. Semi-Annual disclosures would create greater market uncertainty and investment risk.

Michael Walker Small Investor/ Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Walker Please vote to keep transparency in public traded companies. Quarterly earnings reports are valuable to small investors and I would NOT like reporting to be required only twice per year

---

Michael Wassom — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Wassom Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No hiding what you are doing !
I do not agree that this should be done!!

Sent from my iPhone

Michael White — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michael White Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think they should be checked more for investment security. I’m just a concerned American retired and worried about our future.

Sent from my iPhone

Michael White — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael White I would prefer public companies report earnings quarterly as they have for many years.

Michael White The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael White Please do not reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. As a stock holder of several companies I personally need the transparency of those reports to make informed decisions whether to buy, sell or hold the stocks of those companies. Thank you, Michael White

---

Michael Wiitala Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Wiitala Please retain the quarterly financial statements 10Qs requirements for publicly traded companies. As an individual investor and owner in publicly traded companies I rely on timely filings to guide and inform my investment decisions. Thank you Regards Michael Wiitala

---

Michael Wilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michael Wilson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is already too much fraud in Enterprises in the public sector. You need to keep the quarterly reporting and discard the option for going dark.

General Public supports all these corporations as usually the ones being victimized.

Sent from my iPhone

Michael Zimmerman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Zimmerman For better transparency, four times a year and reporting is much preferable and more transparent. I highly encourage you to continue this and not moved two times per year.

Michael Zuraw — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michael Zuraw With the speed of changes in the status of companies especially with the growing iinfluence of AI on company performance and even their survival please explain to me why it would make sense to reduce required reporting from quarterly to semi-annually? This is counter-intuitive to common sense for anyone with even the most remote ability to be a critical thinker. PLEASE STAND UP FOR INDIVIDUAL INVESTORS AND DO NOT ENACT SUCH A SHORT-SIGHTED PROPOSAL

Michaela Smith — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michaela Smith Semi annual reporting is not good for individual investors. Investment is ownership in companies we believe in and we shouldn’t be expected to accept less reporting from those companies.

Michaele Lucca — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michaele Lucca Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I’m disgusted with the lack of ethics and morals among this administration that allows the rich to cheat if they want, and the public to suffer the result. Michaele Lucca. Retired

Sent from my iPhone

Michaele Schmidt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Michaele Schmidt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 keep it

Get Outlook for iOS

Michaeline Bresnahan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michaeline Bresnahan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Too much can go wrong in 6 months. This blackout only advantages insiders. Please don't do this.

Michaline Morrison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michaline Morrison Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly Reporting is essential! I already know I am not prepared enough for the future. Life is harder for the bottom 50% every day. What little we can afford to invest in these high inflation times is extremely important to our best interests. The top 1% abuses the wealthy entitlements we wish we could tap into. Now they want to hide more of the wealth dealing that hurts more of us each month. Keep money movements as visible and fair as possible. This nation was not built to enrich the evil abusers. It was established to negate them! Clear the money windows. Transparency in wealth. Transparency in government. Transparency in the stock markets. Clean up American business. Make it reputable!

Michayla Brazelton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michayla Brazelton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the status quo or even better make reporting live so you can track the numbers in real time. No more hiding in the shadows anyone who puts their money into an investment should be able to accurately account for changes at any given time

Sent from my iPhone

Michel Leroy Company Director — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michel Leroy Less information does not creates better-informed owners, and as a stock investor I am a shareholder and I want to be as informed as possible.

Michele — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michele Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a childhood cancer survivor now on disability due to the late effects of the MOPP chemo and mantle chest radiation treatments I received in 1978. Please have compassion for survivors like like me and for all ordinary people struggling to make ends meet.

Please keep SEC reporting quarterly!

Very sincerely,
Michele Lifshen

Michele Boccardi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michele Boccardi Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it.

Michele Ciccanti — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Michele Ciccanti Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
everyone needs to be accountable and be open about what they are doing that affects other people.

Michele Colburn shareholder in multiple companies and funds/Teacher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michele Colburn For the sake of information and as a stakeholder I want to see transparency and quarterly reports continue. Twice yearly will only mean lack of information regarding our investments and make it difficult to make decisions that directly impact those investments. We need information that is clear and marks successes and challenges to businesses, so that we can continue our rolls as investors in a strong economy.

Michele Copper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Michele Copper Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am opposed to the SEC rule change to move from quarterly to semi-annual reporting. This would reduce transparency for every day investors. A six month reporting period is too large of a window to allow regular people with investments enough oversight and increases the potential for fraud and volatile stock prices. Please reconsider this action and retain quarterly reporting transparency.

Michele Friedlander — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michele Friedlander We need more transparency, not less. Companies must continue to share public information 4 times a year. Too much can change, waiting 6 months is not viable or sustainable and can lead to a host of issues and consequences. We need more oversight, not less in these uncertain times.

Michele Frisby — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michele Frisby Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In light of the sad ENRON saga, it is essential that we continue to make C-suite-level executives responsible and accountable for the integrity of their company's financial information.

Michele Garr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michele Garr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a single mom. I invested and not fully understanding when the market crashed, I lost more than half of what I can contributed and everything my company contributed. I was devastated. I was able to go online and see things monthly and I got statements quarterly. If I got them every 6 months it would have been even more difficult! It's my momoneymy investment, I should see the reports! Three months is already a long time. This should be going to monthly not to every 6 months! How can I medicate my losses if I can't see what's happening? If paper is an issue make it mandatory that it's electronic transmission.
Michele Garr, small business bookkeeper. I make monthly statements. The business I work for couldn't survive if I didn't. I am struggling in the transition to retirement and these changes could have made it worse.

Michele Hardy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Michele Hardy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Michele Hardy Gladwin Mi.

We invest our hard earned money into the stock market with companies that report strong financials and business vision statements. We only have these reports to tell the story. If they become 6 month reports we are vulnerable to loose our investments due to changes, bad management decisions, product issues, increased debt, etc. Keep the accountability of management in place through accurate, quarterly reporting.

Michele Hoffman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michele Hoffman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is important to maintain quarterly reporting for investors to make good decisions. Do Not change reporting to every six months. People's savings depend on it.

Michele Hoffman, Yoga Therapist

Michèle L. Galvin-White Investor — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michèle L. Galvin-White They should continue to report 4 times a year. Less information is not a good idea People need to stay informed.

Michele Marlene Swisher Tax Administrator for major firm — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michele Marlene Swisher Transparency protects people. Less accountability equals tragedy.

Michele McDonald — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michele McDonald Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 aww are the widdle biwwionawes not making enough??? I wonder, how long can you realistically keep boldfaced insider trading up before the public revolts? You may have stopped the Wall Street protests in 2008 with silly culture wars on the media before, but at the risk of cultivating new generations that reject the format. How long until your thumb gets tired? Will your nursing home be free of dissidents? Earnestly ask yourself these questions.

The children are watching and they will become the hands that carry out your sentence later.

Michele Nelipowitz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michele Nelipowitz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY!!!

Get Outlook for iOS

Michele Rizza — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michele Rizza Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a great way to destroy my future… after rebuilding it twice due to greed of the wealthy speculators. Do not proceed with this plan.

Sent from my iPhone

Michele Stiebel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michele Stiebel We need to maintain transparency for investors in order for them to continue investing with understanding of exactly what they are investing in.

Michele Taylor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michele Taylor Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To uphold the highest standards of operational efficiency and strategic foresight, it is imperative that we consistently maintain and meticulously review our quarterly performance reports. These comprehensive documents are indispensable for establishing clear lines of accountability, allowing us to accurately monitor progress, assess key metrics, and inform critical decision-making processes. Their diligent preparation and utilization are paramount to our collective success.

Michelia Darling — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michelia Darling Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Big business has proved themselves over and over. It's not trustworthy and needing oversight. Do not allow big business to run ruckshot over humanity. They need to be checked at least quarterly

---

Michelle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michelle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting. How much is trump paying you to change it? YOU will be held responsible when he's finally gone, so keep that in mind as you are deciding whether or not to rip-off 98% of the American people. We are watching.
M. Clark - Florida Key's

Michelle Alvarez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michelle Alvarez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Michelle Alvarez, biochemist. More reports equals more oversight! We need more accountability of Wall Street! Stop trying to cut back on the public eye! Absolutely atrocious and telling of corporate corruption to cut back reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Michelle Belacic — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michelle Belacic Please do not reduce the number of public-company reports

---

MICHELLE BIONDINI — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: MICHELLE BIONDINI Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep Quarterly Reporting! Quarterly reporting allows for transparency and an equal playing field for all investors.

Michelle Carlos — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michelle Carlos Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Michelle Carlos, and I'm brand new in the Real Estate space, with investing in my future. Please hold CEO's accountable. The rule was put in place after Enron FOR A REASON.

MICHELLE CHANNON — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: MICHELLE CHANNON Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am a retired teacher of 38 years. I worked very hard to build a small porfolio and want to know that you are looking out for my life savings on a balance scale of reporting.
Companies and corporations must continue to provide quarterly reports to allow transparency to the public and millions of regular, small investors at large, just like me.
It will provide balance for ALL over an unbalance of opportunity for insider investors and large private investors.
Sincerely,
Michelle Channon
Master Distinction, Retired Teacher
Texas

Michelle Conover — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Michelle Conover Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
don't you dare stop requiring quarterly reports. That is how I know what's going on with my investments. If you allow these longer blackout periods you open the doors to fraud!! Do not stop the transparency of reporting!! We need to know what's going on with our investments!!

Michelle D Gates Chief financial officer, University administration , retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michelle D Gates It is important that we maintain quarterly, four times a year, reporting to investors as owners so that we are informed about the ongoing operations of the businesses that we are invested in. That level of transparency is absolutely critical.

Michelle Dodd — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michelle Dodd Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hold them accountable if you can't do it with the POTUS at least you could do this don't let our country slide deeper into his crapnhole he's dragging us down into

---

Michelle Freedman N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michelle Freedman I am opposed to less frequent financial reporting. Keep company and business performance updates transparent and frequent.

Michelle Harris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michelle Harris Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 House wife Mrs. Michelle Harris. Fair trade for all.

Michelle Hart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michelle Hart Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 All and any deregulation is clearly not for the benefit of the consumer.

Michelle Heald — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michelle Heald Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am absolutely opposed to this change (as well as MOST coming from this clearly self-serving administration). We have been grifted from the start and it needs to STOP. There is no reason SS should die when we’ve already paid into it for DECADES, and seeing politicians enrich themselves while letting this happen is CRIMINAL
Michelle Heald, Hamilton, MT

Michelle L Weidner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michelle L Weidner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 So everyone else would get to know how the company would be doing except for the little guy the one who is going to hurt the most that doesn't sound right or fair and it shouldn't be allowed. All of those getting rich off of the poor well the poor get poorer you know they have to answer for just those scenarios someday in their life maybe not in this existence since they can hide under the corporate veil but that doesn't mean that every individual behind that corporate veil doesn't have a higher power that they will have to reckon with. However for companies to be able to go dark and execs CEOs and high ranking officials can still have access to a company's data to see how how they're doing financially yet the little guys can't so we'd be the last to know it'd be like Enron all over right innocence just slightly slightly different version of it. No one was held accountable for that any either working working people and families lost their retirements and the banks got bailed out, the bad actors didn't get held accountable because of the corporate and accountability to and the only ones that majorly lost were the out well the little guys a and I'm so sorry apology right. Don't let this happen. Each and every individual who works hard and invest and tries to look forward does not deserve to lose everything while those that are rich in control everything to begin with get to still see how companies are doing that's ridiculous. vote no.

Get Outlook for Android

Michelle Patrick Retired Aerospace Director — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michelle Patrick I am against reduced reporting.

Michelle Pavone — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michelle Pavone It is a terrible idea for business earnings disclosures to happen only twice a year. The practice of this happening four times a year should remain as it provides for greater transparency and understanding on behalf of investors as to how the companies they are investing in our performing. In the age of AI, it should not be slated as a cost savings to reduce reporting. Reductions only reduce awareness, transparency, and knowledge as to how companies that we have equity and are doing. As a heavy investor, this proposal is very concerning and I am strongly opposed to it. Thank you for listening.

Michelle Rivenburg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michelle Rivenburg Keep transparency! Why take us back to the fifties when the markets are doing well. It won't help the markets improve to file only twice a year. If it's working, don't break it.

Michelle Stanley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Michelle Stanley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't exclude us from our profits. Corporations have more than enough wealth. When the Federal minimum wage hasn't changed in decades, but corps & the CEO's are swimming in cash, perks & stocks, something is terribly wrong. We the people are not going to take it. My name is Michelle Stanley. I'm a retired Nursing Assistant. Now, I'm full time homemaker & caregiver for my aged mother.

Michelle Terrell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michelle Terrell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Corporations are already robbing the American people, why should they have another opportunity to steal from us!

Michelle Travis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michelle Travis In this day and age with technologies available, there is no reason to reduce communications to investors. There is no big financial savings. If you do not wish to receive the reports, you can opt out. Reducing the communications only provides extra time to develop fraud within the company. I have yet to hear a reasonable argument for decreasing to semiannual. I prefer transparency. Something our current government lacks. And look where that has put us.

Michelle Tricamo Doctor of Medicine — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michelle Tricamo I do not agree with the current proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Investing is ownership. As owners of a piece of the business, we deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. It will create more uncertainty as well as less informed investors.

Michelle V — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Michelle V Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Michelle Vuong, Pflugerville, Tx.
I see no reason to undo progress. Why would we go back to the way it was before, except to make life easier for overpaid CEOs and to increase the amount of insider trading?

Michelle Wells — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michelle Wells Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Michelle Wells, Senior Director, Regulatory Affairs, pharmaceutical development. Please keep quarterly monitoring required.

Quarterly reporting helps to assess the trajectory, stability, and scientific progress of biopharma companies developing promising therapies or contributing to the development of treatment.

Michelle Wood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Michelle Wood Please don't cut our information in half. We like to be informed quarterly

---

Michelle Wren — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Michelle Wren Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why bother even having The S.E.C at all ? %0%4%7%2%2%2%F%8

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Michonda Plaza — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Michonda Plaza Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop with ask the fraud and nonsense to bat over the American people. We are sick and tired

Sent from my iPhone

Mick Wildin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mick Wildin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly filing. The companies/CEOs already have the information to know how they are doing (or should know if they are doing their jobs) so why not make it public?

Mick and Jo Wildin
Sent from my iPhone

Micki Suzanne LeCronier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Micki Suzanne LeCronier Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please stop coddling corporations while the American people SUFFER.
I was a very successful marketing writer, managing editor of Chrysler’s domestic brand websites.
I had to move to Florida for my health.
I lost my marketing client because he lost his factories due to tariffs.
I am now 75 years old with my condo - that I can no longer afford - listed for sale and a refrigerator as empty as my bank account.

I struggle to pay my bills.
Snap benefits give me $25/mo. towards groceries as prices (and anguish) continue to climb.
$25 barely covers one bag of groceries.
I am aghast to be needing Snap and have to hold back the tears at checkout.
.I don’t see corporations doing ANYTHING to help us,
Plunder and predation are thick as the algae in the reflection pool.

Micki LeCronier
13532 Siesta Pines Court, Unit 5
Fort Myers, Fl 33908
MickiSuzanne@gmail.com

Sent from my iPhone

Mickie Starke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mickie Starke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Michelle Starke, teacher. Quarterly reporting must be kept in order to ensure accountability.

Miguel Lopez Retired Engineer and Financial Analyst — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Miguel Lopez 1. Retail Investor Guidance: Because the legal limitation of access to company internal financial information, retail investors tend to invest on rumors and published articles that sometimes fail to provide the full picture. Quarterly Earnings Reports purge the media from rumors and incorrect publications. Reducing the frequency of Earnings Reports would enable misinformation to remain longer. 2.-Corporate America update financials monthly for their own benefit. They do not incur in an insane additional amount of work by preparing their quarterly earnings report. 3. Transparency: Reducing the frequency of reports will hinder transparency to investors as investors do not have access to monthly corporate reports.

Miguel Tristani-Kendra — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Miguel Tristani-Kendra I think the proposed Semi-Annual Reporting Rule does a disservice to investors like myself. I’d like the current rule of requiring four public-company reports per year to remain in place. Information is power and the avenue to thoughtful and effective investing.

Mikal Cruse — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mikal Cruse Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In this day and age (especially(with Ai) should we should be gtting daily reports... if not, leave it at quarterly.

Mike — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It's outrageous that companies would actually need this to happen. It's appalling you're even considering this and it should not be allowed. Have some balls and stop supporting this corruption!!

Mike — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Mike Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY!

Mike Brawley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mike Brawley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As you must know, the current administration wants to ease ALL requirements regulating big business . I oppose these relaxing of such laws .

Sent from my iPhone

MIKE BREWER — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: MIKE BREWER Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It seems a lowly citizen's opinion means nothing these days but here is mine anyway: KEEP QUARTERLY REPIRTING. This is important to me and the management of my finances. Longer reporting intervals historically have led to declines in returns. We are talking MY money b

Sent from my iPhone

Mike Buffington — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Buffington Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would you take away more transparency when there is far too little as it is.
Please leave well enough alone and let us little retail investors have a chance.

Sent from my iPhone

Mike Carolus — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Carolus Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear [Recipient Name],

I am writing to express my concerns regarding the potential reduction of reporting requirements. In an era of rampant fraud, rapid market changes, and the increasing influence of massive corporations, maintaining rigorous oversight is essential.

The SEC's primary mission is to protect the public. Reducing reporting responsibilities is negligent, particularly when modern tools make compliance more accessible than ever. Artificial Intelligence now provides the necessary speed and efficiency to complete and file reports quickly and effectively.

To weaken these requirements would be a foundational fracture of the responsibility to protect public investors. I urge you to maintain and strengthen these vital reporting standards.

Best regards,

Mike Carolus

Mike Chason — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Chason Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mike, Investor, This matters to me because we don't want more fraud from the orange idiot and his "Shart of the Steal" !

Mike Chern — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Chern Bad idea. A lot can happen in 6 months. Investors need to have reporting quarterly so they can make the best decisions about their money. Less info increases the likelihood of bad decisions. Information is the key. The more you have the more likely you are to make good investment decisions.

Mike Clarkson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Clarkson I oppose reducing quarterly reporting requirements for public companies. Quarterly reporting provides essential transparency and helps protect individual investors by reducing the information gap between insiders and shareholders. There is limited evidence that less frequent reporting would reduce short-termism, while the loss of timely information could increase uncertainty and make smaller, less-covered companies harder to evaluate. The SEC should prioritize transparency and investor protection by maintaining quarterly reporting standards.

Mike Cody None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Cody Please keep the current quarterly reporting cadence for publicly traded companies. Do not move to semi-annual.

Mike Colkett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mike Colkett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Cheating and lies will not hold up for long. You'll all be exposed Stop this 6month change. Think of one other person than your own selves .

Mike Colkett
215-257-5252
Mcolkett@gmail.com

Mike Colkett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mike Colkett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Cheating and lies will not hold up for long. You'll all be exposed

Mike Colkett
215-257-5252
Mcolkett@gmail.com

Mike Cruse — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Cruse Bi-annual reporting weakens trust and transparency; this does not benefit investors. Keep the current quarterly reporting requirements.

MIKE EUBANKS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: MIKE EUBANKS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly Reporting for Public Companies.

Mike Eubanks

Mike Foster Retired IT Professional — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Foster Please retain quarterly reporting. Cutting reporting in half reduces visibility for investors and increases the potential for volatility in the stock market. Thank you. Mike Foster

---

Mike Gillaspie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mike Gillaspie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is the least I would expect. Markets go up and down so erratically that monthly or bi-monthly would be even better. Semi-annual would be a travesty.

Mike Gillaspie
913-515-4249

Mike Guess Former CFP, Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Guess I would not invest in a corporation that only did its books every six months. Creating a report for the SEC is simply a matter of completing a form with EXPORTED INFORMATION! A GREAT DEAL CAN OCCUR IN A THREE MONTH PERIOD OF TIME--YET, YOU WOULD DENY ME THE INFORMATION? I HAVE NO DOUBT THAT PUBLIC CORPORATIONS WOULD LIKE TO HIDE DETRIMENTAL INFORMATION, EVEN IF THEY HONESTLY THOUGHT IT WOULD CORRECT ITSELF--BUT, YOUR JOB IS TO KEEP THOSE CORPORATIONS ON THE UP AND UP.....OR, DO YOU CHOOSE TO JUST DO WHAT THE

"CHOSEN FEW" WANT, TO HIDE WHAT THEY WISH TO HIDE FOR AN ADDITIONAL QUARTER? OF COURSE, THAT GIVES THOSE WITH ALREADY UNFAIR ADVANTAGE MORE TIME TO GET OUT OF AN EQUITY. AND, OF COURSE, TO REDUCE THE WORK FORCE. LET AI DO THE REPORTING (IF IT IS NOT ALREADY DOING THE MAJORITY OF IT). BUT, DO NOT TAKE AWAY THE REQUIREMENT FOR QUARTERLY REPORTS TO THE SEC.

Mike Hadaway — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Mike Hadaway Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not change the reporting requirements. This will give the big investors more control over the market.

Mike Hadaway, Cedartown, Ga

Mike Hakes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mike Hakes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 WHEN I first got into Automation and Floor Level Data Collections I always found it interesting as to WHO read "the Reports" and WHO actually generated "the Reports" as each NEW step of Automation was made available.

So,
WHAT I find interesting is that "the SEC" will have LESS Information with Longer LEAD times and in the END, fewer PUBLIC persons using the Stock Market because the NORMAL reporting is gone.

WHAT the SEC is saying is that it IS (Cheaper, Less Disruptive...) with FEWER PUBLIC Data Points on the Charts. Why not just call these non-breathing Entities PRIVATE and remove the word PUBLIC from the SEC docket all together (you're only1(or 2) generations away from AI taking ALL the SEC Jobs).

More Automation with Less Data means somebody will no longer NEED your Services. AND IF I had MY druthers, it would be Monthly with Weekly and Daily reporting made available "for a FEE".. with the RESULT of needing more SEC trainees in the queue.

Good Luck in "the JOB Market" because that MAY be your next Playground.

Mike Harrington — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mike Harrington Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Monthly, please, or as close as possible.

*Make ALL lying, selfish billionaires of the Epste*n Class illegal, everywhere on Earth.* 🌍🤔🤦‍♀️

Global Wealthy Elitist takeover over the world's democratically-elected governments. How can you not see it by now?? 🤔

Look at the old orange clown while the criminals he works with rob you blind from behind. 🤡🕸️

Trump is the distraction: the Wealthy Elite are the cause! Start focusing on _*them!!*_

The Civil War is between capitalism and democracy. Remember that.

REMEMBER PROJECT 2025 The real danger is from the nameless, faceless people you _don't_ see in these news briefs. 💀

Mx. Mike Harrington
690 125th Lane NE
Blaine, MN 55434-7336
651-382-6808 Peace, and remember to love your Mother! ☮️💝🌎

---

mike harsch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: mike harsch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No reason to limit over sight of the overlord's. They're not so busy or poor that they can't pay people to put a quarterly report together and sign on the dotted line. Im self employed and barely make enough. But I have Quarterly taxes due or fines ar the end of the year.

Sincerely Concerning,
Michael Harsch

Sent from Samsung Galaxy smartphone.
Get Outlook for Android

Mike Hicks — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Hicks I disagree with the rule to allow companies to go from four disclosures a year to two disclosures a year. Investing is all about information. You need timely information to make decisions whether to invest in a company or not. A quarter is long enough. Sixs months is way too long to go without getting the full picture fromt he company. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Mike Jackson shareholder webster henry pc — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Jackson i am against the proposed rule reducing the number of times an entity must report to investors. Leave it where it is. More information and timely information is vital to investors

---

Mike Johnson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Johnson This is stupid. Don't do it.

MIKE JONES — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: MIKE JONES Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This ranks as unfair to borderline nefarious. This is also the complete opposite of transparency. Keep the reports.

Mike Kirby — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Kirby Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it transparent with quarterly reporting. The longer the wait, the more the investors can hide, while my returns aren't helped at all.

Eyes on the prize - Php 3:14

Mike Kirby

Mike Layne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Layne I am writing to oppose the proposed rule change to decrease financial disclosures to twice a year. Having less timely information is not in the best interest of investors. I respectfully request that you not pass this rule.

Mike Llewelyn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Llewelyn I strongly object to any proposal to reduce the number of required public reporting of financial information NO to this capitulation to Trump and his corporate cronies

---

Mike Long — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mike Long Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Michael Long, retired person who needs to be able to ensure my investments are safe and prosperous and one of the was is timely release of information currently required from Ceo's.
 Please do not allow for these companies to be able to hide behind reduced reporting requirements. Thank you for supporting this matter.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Mike Lorenzen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Lorenzen I am opposed to less reporting requirements. Instead, I propose that companies report more often.

Mike Lunney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mike Lunney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To whom it may concern,

Why is this even a discussion? Keep results quarterly.

Sincerely,

ML

Mike Mahler The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Mahler I am against the proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that is a big mistake. We need more transparency not less

---

Mike Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Martin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This change is unacceptable. Quarterly reporting is essential in the modern economy. What's been created over more than a half century can't be undone. The little guys stand to lose big tim, further concentrating wealth at the top. Retirement savings is the bedrock of the average person's survival in retirement.

Mike Mastrorio — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mike Mastrorio Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly certification is such so that CEO’s have knowledge of the companies finances BEYOND A REASONABLE DOUBT in my opinion. When people wield sums of money the size of small countries they must be held to the highest standard. This is one piece of doing that. They must sign with each quarterly report.

Mike Menke Motley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Menke STOP THIS RIDICULOUS PROPOSED CHANGE TO CORPORATE REPORTING.

Mike Moffitt — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Moffitt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep earnings reports quarterly to ensure that normal American citizens can better gage how a company is doing and not the insiders in business and those who work in Washington can gain the upper hand

Sent from my iPhone

Mike Mosley The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Mosley To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Maintaining rigorous transparency in corporate reporting is foundational to the integrity of our financial markets. Recent concerns about the rise in insider trading on display publicly almost every day threaten to undermine this core principle, potentially eroding public trust. For a market to be truly open, it must rest on three essential tenets: fairness, ensuring all participants have equal access to material information; integrity, where prices accurately reflect all public data; and competition, allowing new capital to flow freely and efficiently without artificial barriers. Upholding these standards is essential for a fair and efficient market system.

Mike Myers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Myers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep reporting as it is at quarterly!!

Mike Needham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Needham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Harold Needham, and I work for the US Forest Service. I can only imagine negative consequences for investors if you don't stick with quarterly reporting requirements.

-Harold Needham

Mike Palmer M.A. --Perkins-Palmer Farms, LLC & others — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Palmer Quarterly reports provided regularly by public companies have been required for providing important investment information to investors. Changing this reporting requirement is not a welcomed move to keep public market investors well informed. If we public market investors cannot rely on pertinent timely information, I beleive that there will be fewer investors. Please do not transition to policies requiring less information being provided to investors from public compaines reporting financial and business operations. Please keep quartely reporting requirements for public market companies in place. Thanks.

Mike Penfold — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Penfold Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please do not roll back the reporting methods. Less reporting has shown time and time again to be far more dangerous to investors. Please keep the quarterly reporting. I am a retiree and cannot afford the financial hit to my portfolio that this change might invoke.

Thank you,
Michael Penfold

Get Outlook for iOS

Mike Penston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Penston Please keep reporting to four times per year. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Mike Sayres — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Sayres Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a small investor, the SEC quarterly report filing is one of the most important sources of information because it provides us with regular, standardized updates on company's financial health between annual reports. Do not mess with our rule of thumb - profits can be influenced by accounting decisions, but cash flow is harder to manipulate.

Mike Schmidt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Schmidt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If all the investing data is 6 MONTHS out of date, guess I'll have to take my funds out of stocks and put it in a sock under my mattress. NO CONFIDENCE IN THE SEC. Another trump joke.

Mike Schmidt

Mike Schumacher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mike Schumacher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not open up another loophole for those with money, influence and powerful political connections to slither through to cheat America out of its due responsibilities to escape their responsibilities and accountability. Enough is enough enough. The law is SUPPOSED to apply to all of us equally.

Mike Shores — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mike Shores Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Without quarterly reporting, there will be no accountability until things are already out of control.

Michael Shores
2720 Dean Ct

Conyers , GA. 30094

Sent from my iPad

Mike Thomas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Thomas Semiannual reporting would be a terrible mistake. Minority shareholders are already disadvantaged in terms of insight and influence on public company accountability and decision-making. This would weaken them further. Please maintain quarterly reporting.

Mike Trimmer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Mike Trimmer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't rip people off. Leave things as they are.

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Mike Verbel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mike Verbel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a private investor in a PUBLIC company I need to know what goes on there. Especially since I am an owner

---

Mike Wagner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mike Wagner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 May not happen right away but moving to twice a year will be a large enough window to allow the crooks to make millions while Joe Middle income loses his nest egg.

Sent from my iPhone

Mike Whiteside Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Whiteside Keep companies reporting quarterly! Less reporting = less information readily available. Thank you!

Mike Williams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Williams At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe, but if the cost of reporting financials is enough to materially alter a business' balance sheet, it is doubtful they would be a publicly traded company. Neither does taking reports away make investors more patient, it just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Would you invest your hard earned money into a business that would only tell you how it’s performing twice a year? Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Reducing reporting frequency is not a good idea.

Mike Zigan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mike Zigan Do not reduce reporting requirements please

---

mikejs675 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: mikejs675 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely, investors need these quarterly snapshots or the insider traders will steal the show and profits….

M. j. Slavin

Miki Patterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Miki Patterson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
It is absurd not to have quarterly reports to the public

Mikkel Moller Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mikkel Moller 4 Per Year Please

---

Mil-tek Waste Solutions — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mil-tek Waste Solutions This is a mistake and unfair to investors

---

Mila Jimenez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mila Jimenez Transparency matters, and these reports are one of the primary ways investors stay informed. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. The relationship between a company and its shareholders is built on information; less information doesn't strengthen that relationship - it weakens it. The argument that fewer reports might reduce costs or help companies focus less on the short term doesn't fully convince me. AI and technology are already helping companies improve efficiency and reduce costs in many areas. Reporting shouldn't be compromised under the banner of cost savings. I also don't believe that reducing the flow of information solves short-term thinking. Short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the existence of the information itself. If anything, less frequent reporting reduces accountability and leaves investors with less visibility into the businesses they own. Imagine owning a business and only hearing from management twice a year. The company would still be operating every day, but you'd have far less insight into how it's performing. Ownership comes with a right to information, and regular communication seems like a reasonable expectation. If I'm going to put my money into a business, I should have a reasonable understanding of how that business is performing.

Milka Munoz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Milka Munoz It is appalling that you are trying to dismantle the system. I object and if there isn't already a petition against this, I will make one.

MILTON SLADE — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: MILTON SLADE Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly

Sent from my iPhone

Mimi Garcia — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mimi Garcia Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear SEC Committee,

Please vote to have companies continue to report quarterly to provide transparency and accountability and to help avoid accounting errors and fraud.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Mimi Garcia
Founder
Gilberts Town Center Active Residents
PO Box 173
Gilberts, IL 60136

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Mimi Desjarlais — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mimi Desjarlais Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want quarterly reports!

Mimi Latta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mimi Latta Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 2007 wasn't bad enough for you and the country? The SEC refusing to do it's job along with ratings companies wasn't dirty enough then?

One bailout is all you get. Nothing for your management if you try this again. Jamie Dimond and Hank Paulson won't be steering the next president.

Maintain reporting requirements. Maintain transparency. Save the markets.

Mimi Latta
5264 J St., Washougal WA 98671-4402

Mindy Newnam — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mindy Newnam Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Mindy Newnam and I'm a financial analyst. I am 4 years from reaching retirement age. Please stop this madness. This entire country is becoming a home for fraud and corruption. What is America anymore? Please don't let this keep happening to regular people.

Sent from my iPhone

Mindy Weaver — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mindy Weaver Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential for accpuntability and transparency.

Mira Sorrel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mira Sorrel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to continue quarterly reports to protect investors and consumers.
Miriam Asya

Miriam Jensen The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Miriam Jensen Please do NOT change the reporting rules at the SEC by allowing companies to elect to reduce their number of public-company reports to only twice a year. Businesses should continue to report no less than quarterly so investors can remain informed with the most current information about the health and trajectory of the company. Advances in AI make compiling quarterly business reports easier and more cost efficient than ever! There is absolutely no compelling reason to pass a proposal to make a change in the current reporting policy. Thank you for allowing me to comment.

Miriam Solon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Miriam Solon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear SEC, if I had my way the reporting would be 6 times a year. Do not cut the quarterly reporting. It's far too easy for money and accounting to be manipulated digitally than it was when the quarterly reporting requirement was instituted.

Miriam Solon
Oak Park, IL

I am a citizen of the USA.

Misha Bittleston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Misha Bittleston Public companies should continue providing frequent, standardized disclosures because public information is the main tool that allows ordinary investors to compete in a market where large institutions already possess many informational advantages.

Misti Fillingame — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Misti Fillingame Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting needs to remain in effect. Apparently Enron amd WorldCom disasters didn't caise enough damage? Youre probably going to do it anyway to line your own pockets but I unequivocally object

---

mistyshoals msn.com — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: mistyshoals msn.com Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 😡 Retired Pharmacist here...really, are we going to just open the gates of hell to fraudsters now?! No integrity left?! Shame on everyone for their greed.

Get Outlook for Android

Mitch Brynes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mitch Brynes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mitch Brynes, Business owner.
Do not stop quarterly reporting! Reporting quarterly is far more important and transparent. We do not need any more surprises that would cause a banking crisis in which the taxpayers, mom and pop investors take huge losses due to less information and transparency.

Mitch Harris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Mitch Harris Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Every business runs on a quarterly financial calendar, which investorsand governmentrely on to track the busines's financialhealth. Therefore every quarter those in charge (CEO, CFO, Management team...) should certify their financial reports as valid and true.

Mitchel F Scott none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mitchel F Scott Instead of being reduced to twice a year, with the ease of AI-assisted accounting, it should be updated to 6 to 12 times a year. Or even better, 52 times a year.

Mitchell and Karen Kidd — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mitchell and Karen Kidd Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING!

Mitchell Kidd (Retired)

Sent from my iPhone

Mitchell Ross CPA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mitchell Ross I think changing the filing requirements from 4 times a year to 2 times a year is a mistake. These reporting are used by the common Joe to see what is happening with various companies. These quarterly reports show a glimpse of the company at that given time. If this is every 6 months, the facts on which the comments are made are that much older than if they had been reported quarterly. Regarding the fact the companies claim this will reduce burden, etc., is a bunch of bull. They can put their info into AI and it will create the document in seconds. I'm sure some have already started using this.

Miz shona — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Miz shona Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's your proposing here. Sounds like how the country is alright being run..clearly we can all see the results now Transparency is key

---

MizzAugust — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: MizzAugust Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Seems Far Too Much Like a Win for WHATEVER they WANT To DO. Which is Grossly Wrong Generally. I Live on What my Stocks Generate.

MJ Ospina — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: MJ Ospina Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

Do NOT change your quarterly examination of wall street. This is exactly why the 2008 MARKET CRASH occurred. While you sleep, the greedy does not. The will invent more ways of making billions for themselves. Do your jobs. Or just join wall street if you do not want to police them. Like the Iran deal. We have fewer oversight and checks on Iran's nuclear weapons

---

MJ Van Buren — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Do not reduce transparency--Keep requiring quarterly reporting From: MJ Van Buren Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I depend on my investments to live. If there is any good reason corporations should not have to report quarterly, I certainly haven't heard it. Kansans care about the market and about how our investments--made by living for many years on a little less than we earned each month--are doing, how the companies are doing. The same is true for retired public employees, whose pensions are dependent on wise investment management. How can investments be well-managed with less than full disclosure?
Please continue requiring quarterly reporting.

M. J. Van Buren

MJ Winiarski Individual Retirement Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: MJ Winiarski Reducing reporting requirements is a bad idea. Less information and less transparency can only lead to less educated investors, myself among them. KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING REQUIREMENTS IN PLACE!

---

mjmackin555 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: mjmackin555 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a retiree and my investments are what make up most of my income. I didn't work and save for 45 years to see my work be undone by a completely unnecessary regulatory change. KEEP IT QUARTERLY!
Michael Mackin
26 Cortland Circle
Lunenburg, MA 01462

MK Werner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: MK Werner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hiding information is not right. In today’s world, reporting quarterly is a minimum, and any longer is absurd. I am about to retire and we need reliable up to date information to track retirement assets. MK Werner. Plano, Texas.

Sent from my iPhone

---

mlr30 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: mlr30 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am an engineer and I strongly agree that the SEC should keep quarterly reporting so I can continue to invest for retirement.

Sent from Proton Mail for iOS.

---

mns3230 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: mns3230 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You must maintain quarterly reporting requirements. We need greater transparency, not less. Too many families are already just making ends meet. To not know of decisions that could affect their retirement savings for 6 Mos is too great a risk. You exist to serve and safeguard the Americ an people- not corporations

Modgirl117 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Modgirl117 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep markets as transparent as possible with quarterly earnings required. Rollbacks to 1955 are unacceptable and counterproductive to performance and wealth creation.

Kind regards,

Janet E. Finkel
917-974-1355

Sent by iPhone

---

mogule001 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: mogule001 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Businesses especially ones that are public traded should be every quarter reported As it is now

Sent from my Galaxy

Mohammed Alnaimi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mohammed Alnaimi I wanted to share my thoughts on the proposed shift to semiannual reporting for public companies. Reducing the frequency of reports from quarterly to twice a year means investors would receive considerably less information, which inevitably lowers transparency. As an investor, I strongly believe that this change would not foster a better-informed environment. In fact, it would make it much harder for owners to stay updated on the businesses they invest in. Regular, quarterly reports are essential for maintaining a clear and open line of communication between companies and their investors. This practice ensures that we remain well-informed and able to make thoughtful decisions. For these reasons, I fully support the continuation of quarterly reporting and encourage others to do the same.

Mohan Voora None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mohan Voora Hello, I would like to continue having the Quarterly reports. Semi-Annual is too late for investors to learn updates and changes and it will be abused by the management of the companies. It's the investors that should have a say not the company management. Thank You Mohan

---

Moira Crabtree Tax attorney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Moira Crabtree Motley Fool

---

Moker Klaus-Quinlan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Moker Klaus-Quinlan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I oppose the reckless proposal to end quarterly reporting. As an investor, I should have transparency into my accounts. The proposal to end quarterly reporting increases the chances of fraud and abuse. Highly oppose.

Molly Maloney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Molly Maloney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Reporting should be kept quarterly in order to reduce risk to people’s investments and retirement savings - especially in an era when social security is also at risk. The only reason anyone would want to do this is for nefarious purposes.

-Molly Maloney, Senior Business Analyst

Mona K Rogers Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mona K Rogers They need more transparency instead of less transparency.

Monica — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Monica Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting

Sent from my iPhone

Monica Chan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Monica Chan Having invested in US stock market for decades, I always appreciated the efforts of SEC on setting regulations to ensure company's regular quarterly disclosure which is vital for individual investors like me to stay close to official information on invested companies. However, it's astonished to hear this proposed decrease of reporting requirements to semiannually which will leave us less informed on how the company I invested is actually doing in entire half year. Any surprise then released may trigger even bigger shock to stock market that investors won't want to see or lose confidence. I sincerely wish SEC can keep current good practice of quarterly reporting, thanks.

Monica Deines-Evans — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Monica Deines-Evans I am strongly against changing the regulatory reporting for individual investors to twice a year instead of quarterly. My investments are my retirement money and if anything, I want more information and transparency about what is happening with that money, not less!

Monica Koors — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Monica Koors Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely NOT!

Monica Meyer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7 From: Monica Meyer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Companies should continue to report quarterly and not go dark for 6 months. We need more transparency, not less. More accountability.
Monica Goodell

Monica Myers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Monica Myers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I think it is very important that we keep these reports quarterly. Make the CEOs earn their money by testing to the correctness of their financials. Keep the companies honest - Let's not have another ENRON. I have a hard time believing KEN LAY And JEFFREY SKELLING didn't know what was going on before being convicted of fraud.
By changing the rules from quarterly to twice yearly, it allows companies to be less accountable to their shareholders. Please do not change the rules. Thank you.

Monica Starr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Monica Starr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Monica Starr. I have had a career in commercial banking and can state unequivocally that semiannual reporting will negatively impact not only the traditional banking industry but also the broader investment industry. Without quarterly reporting the opportunity for fraud and insider trading increase. The ability of the investor community to make informed decisions declines further expanding the dichotomy of the Haves and Have Nots. Do Not allow reporting requirements to decrease.

Sent from my iPhone, please excuse typos.

Monique Taylor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Monique Taylor Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Monique Taylor Assistant Manager
Don't allow this. This favors companies while everyday common people suffer. This is not okay.

Sent from my iPhone

Monte DeRamus — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Monte DeRamus Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Monte DeRamus Retired Nurse administrator
This will make insider trading almost legal. I'm a paraplegic and have lost too much in stock market already. I watch elected officials become millionaires on a $200,000 salary.

Sent from Monte's iPhone

Moonyeen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Moonyeen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports ARE needed for making decisions reference my retirement savings. Do not change!
Thank you,
M. Blanton, Retired

Sent from my iPhone

Mooydeen Frees — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mooydeen Frees Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The American people are fed up with elected officials and their minions who protect and increase the net worth of the wealthy. The Republicans will find out in November when their world is turned upside down and thrown out. Do not underestimate the American people who still value honesty, decency and jail sentences for those who are not that way!

Morgan Brophy Upper Valley Business Alliance, President & CEO — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Morgan Brophy Regarding the proposed semiannual reporting rule: At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Morphous — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Morphous Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely unacceptable. Keep the quarterly reports.

Sent from my iPhone

Morty Shallman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Morty Shallman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In what world is this a good idea? In the world of corporate greed, fraud, and abuse. The SEC should watch out for the people, not the billionaires. I'm a big NO on this and you should be too!

Sincerely,
Morton L. Shallman

Sent from my iPhone

Moss Mendelson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Moss Mendelson As an individual investor, Quarterly Reporting provides me with really important information to manage my portfolio and levels the playing field, to some extent, between retail and professional investors. The smaller the company, the more important the quarterly reports are. I understand the burden on companies, but what about the burden on individuals like myself that this change will create? With the S&P 500 near all time highs, it does not seem like companies are struggling with this too much. I oppose S7-2026-15. Thank you.

Motel Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motel Fool Community N/a

Motely Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motely Fool Community I am a retiree who relies on my US investments to enhance my State pension. I am happy to have the ability to monitor my investments on a quarterly basis rather than semi annually because it provides more transparency and allows me to conduct my investing with peace of mind that my essential income is safe and continues giving me the minimum return at the acceptable risk I have chosen. Without this I cannot afford/risk to stay invested

---

Motily Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motily Fool Yes transparency is most important!

Motley Crew Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Crew Community No Attached comments

---

Motley Foll Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Foll Community I urge you to keep quarterly reporting in place. As an investor and thus partial owner of the businesses that I invest in, I feel this is essential information needed to make informed decisions. Thank You for your consideration.

Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Please keep reporting at quarterly intervals.

Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Please Keep quarterly reports.

Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool I do NOT want this to pass! I feel like companies reporting 4 times a year is already the bare minimum. As an investor, I'm worried every single day about my investments and my financial well being and retirement. Being transparent with investors on a REGULAR BASIS IS CRUCIAL. The only reason for anyone to even propose less reporting is because someone is getting ready to really stick it to us AGAIN. We are already broken, we're scared, we've barely managed to crawl back up to our knees and we can't take another blow but this will make it so much easier for companies we invest in to deliver one or many of them. PLEASE DO NOT LET THIS PASS!

Motley fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley fool Quarterly reports keep me informed and companies honest. With the advent of ai, cost is not a sufficient excuse. I expect my investments to keep me informed and companies

---

motley fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: motley fool As an investor having less information from companies is likely to reduce my willingness to become a stock holder. Less visibility into an investment mean I'm less likely to put money into it. Probably not good for companies wanting to attract capital.

Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Companies need to report at least quarterly. Individual investors and company managers need to know what is going on. The more informed the better the decisions.

Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool I support keeping the current reporting schedule. Less reporting means less accountability and less oversight. I DO NOT support the twice yearly reporting proposal.

Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Dear Sir Although quarterly reporting might be laborious it allows owners/ stockholder to track more closely a company's directions and potential future results. It should not lead to short term focus. Any CEO worth his salt is future oriented and quarterly reporting is just part of that responsibility and it shouldn't be seen as an onerous task. Transparency is the key word here. Don't allow this responsibility to be watered down especially in a time when consumer protections are under siege and self dealing in the government is at epidemic, and historic levels. Sincerely and wish you the proper wisdom Paul van zuiden, MD

Motley Fool Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Investors need frequent transparent financial information for our investments

---

Motley Fool Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Thank you Motley Fool for protecting owners transparency in their investments

---

Motley Fool Army — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Army Reducing the reporting frequency is a bad idea. Even children's report cards come out quarterly to insure time to react and plan for unforeseen or unexpected events. The longer an event unfolds without correction, the harder it is to change the trajectory. Please reconsider and keep the quarterly report structure intact. Thank you, Brian Ruth

---

Motley Fool College Accounting Instructor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool In the interest of timely investor information, I would like to see the quarterly reporting requirement remain rather than reduce the requirement to twice a year. Thank you.

Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool community This destroys a public company's contact with its owners

---

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community In the interest of transparency and individual investors, I ask that you reject the proposal now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. As for the argument that fewer reports would reduce costs, in the age of AI, this point is debatable. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Please help preserve greater transparency for individual investors and reject this proposal.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community I heard there is a new possible rule change Please do not allow public companies on the stock exchange to reduce their public quarterly financial reports to two a year. Keep this at 4 per year (each quarter) so investors stay informed and so companies can be held accountable. With AI on the lose, we need company reports more than ever! Please keep the reports to four a year.

Motley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley fool community Transparency is very important, pls preserve it by keeping the 4 times a year reporting.

Motley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley fool community It is a very poor idea to change reporting to twice yearly as opposed to quarterly. There's plenty of automation that can make it easy for companies to create these reports and investors need more time with me understanding of their investments. After all we are part owners of the companies we buy stock and we deserve to have access to up-to-date information.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community Please leave reporting at the current quarterly interval. Transparency with respect to company performance is a critical metric for informed investment decisions.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community Stop this SCC action that will not benefit investors

---

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community Please keep required reporting on a quarterly basis. Investors are not better served by less information.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community I think reducing the reporting from quarterly to semi-annually is a terrible idea. Less information about publicly traded companies will not help anyone to make proper financial decisions. Less transparancy regarding business practices is ill-advised. Please do not allow this to proceed.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community The importance of timely, consistent information on a company is crucial. Do not cripple investors. In the long term this will only hurt public markets

---

Motley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley fool community Reducing reports to twice annually is a serious retrograde.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community Quarterly reports are necessary for transparency and good decision making.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community This is a poor idea and should not be considered. I, as a stockholder, deserve transparency and consistency. This change would undermine that.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community I'm against the reporting chsnge

---

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community I write concerning S7-2026-15 I urge the SEC to continue quarterly reporting. I believe semi-annual reporting is not often enough for investors to have current and sound information. Thank you for your consideration. Comments attached

---

Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool community Fewer reports means less information fir investors. There is way anyone could believe that this is a positive for investors who need the information. I do not support fewer reports.

Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool community It would be wise to keep the reporting requirements to the 4x year. Transparency and quality feedback on company reports is essential to good governance. The current reporting strategy works. It is NOT an improvement to reduce the obligation.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community Twice a year reporting!!! Are you kidding??

Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool community As an investor the quarterly reports are imp. more so today than the past as our world is more volatile than ever & rapidly changing. The S&P monitors CO’s performance on a quarterly basis & monitors them ongoing, thus, I support quarterly.

Motley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley fool community More transparency! Not less

---

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community I feel that reducing the amount of information provided to stockholders is inherently bad and offers too much of a window for negative or important information to not be passed on to the proper people. This proposal should not be approved

---

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community I believe reducing the amount of company reporting will reduce retail investor visibility and make investing more like gambling, as we will have less information on which to base our decisions.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community Please allow us to continue to receive regular, pertinent updates to our valued investments.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community I am not only an investor but a retired CPA. I see limited to no benefit from reduced reporting requirements.

Motley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley fool community DO NOT pass S7-2026-15. Quarterly reporting is necessary for transparency.

Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community I strongly oppose changing the publishing of SEC reports from quarterly to biannually. I believe continuing to publish quarterly SEC reports will maintain the confidence of investors and the integrity/transparency of the SEC. To change to proposed biannual SEC reports will weaken the integrity/transparency of the SEC and the confidence of investors. In such a volatile market, it is better to maintain quarterly reports and not add to the volatility of the current market by decreasing the SEC reports to twice yearly. thank you for your consideration.

Motley Fool Community Informed Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community Please continue quarterly reports. Less information does not help to inform the investing public.

Motley Fool Community Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community As an investor, I am partial owner of the companies i buy shares in. I want total transparency in companies I own. 2 reports a year is a backward step. I vote against it.

Motley Fool Community Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community I am against reducing the amount of reporting. To maintain transparency companies should continue to provide investors with minimum of quarterly reports

---

Motley fool community Motley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley fool community Keep it as is now. Don’t let companies hide info from the investors. It is not that much work to inform investors on a quarterly or semi annual bases being AI is doing most of the work now days or into the future

---

Motley Fool Community None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community I am opposed to the change to reduce financial reports from quarterly to semiannually. This seems to benefit corporations, and not investors, especially the mom & pop sector who are striving to maintain or enhance their financial health, while this change deprives us of information. This change is not good for ordinary Americans, and appears to help the rich and powerful.

Motley Fool Community Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community I want companies to submit their financial data every quarter.

Motley Fool Community DoD — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community keep quarterly reporting

---

Motley Fool Community Member — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community Keep corporate reporting quarterly.

Motley Fool Community MFC — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community Please squish the idea of companies reporting semiannually vs current quarterly. Investors are owners and need more info not less.

Motley fool community Motley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley fool community More information is vital. Less information means trouble

---

Motley Fool Community Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Motley fool community None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley fool community I believe everyone should contribute their fair share to social security in order to receive the benefits. I did

---

Motley Fool Community Professional Investor for several accounts at Schwab Inc — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community personal contact for Shwab investor Garnet Giles, Justin Osobe

---

Motley Fool Community Professor of Pediatrics — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community As a medical professional, I buy public stocks to have ownership in strong companies and share in their success. I rely on quarterly reports to have good information about performance. Changing to semi-annual reports gives me 50% less information and changes my comfort level of public stock ownership. Please maintain quarterly reporting!

Motley Fool Community Professor of Plastic Surgery — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community We need transparency for individual investors. This leads to less volatility from less uncertainty for investors and the economy. Please keep the current format of quarterly reports for publicly traded companies. Thank you.

Motley Fool Community Registered Nurse — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Community I am an investor that reads and follows the companies I invest in. The only way to continue confidence in a company is to know what's going on quarterly. Reports can be generated by the click of a key. Why would a company only want to report twice a year?

Motley Fool Group — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Group Do not decrease the required reports.

MOTLEY FOOL INDIVIDUAL INVESTOR — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: MOTLEY FOOL Respectfully, I believe lowering reporting minimums to twice a year is BAD. If I have ownership in a stock I want the Management to report regularly. When things are going well I may wish to invest additional money. This new rule is like a lawyer asking if someone needs a lawyer - why would a layman not have an attorney present if they are speaking with an attorney? I hope the SEC will keep the quarterly reporting as it currently is. This is how I am able to keep up with how my investments are doing. Lowering reporting standards is one-sided. Why should investors not know but the people in charge of managing investments know what is going on? It does not make any sense to lower the reporting standards. Please keep reporting at least quarterly and not semi-annually. Respectfully, Lee Platt

---

Motley Fool Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Investor I very much oppose the reduction of company reporting. This is undoubtedly going to impair investors' knowledge of the way a company and the market is performing. But the decision to report less frequently won't impact those with insider information. This seems to be another mechanism to prevent other investors from gaining more prescient knowledge of a company or market, helping further secure the advantages of a few. How could this change possibly fulfill your own stated intent, Chairman Atkins, as recounted on your SEC website https : / / www . sec . gov / newsroom / press-releases / 2025-68: “I am honored by the trust and confidence President Trump and the Senate have placed in me to lead the SEC,” said Chairman Atkins. “As I return to the SEC, I am pleased to join with my fellow Commissioners and the agency’s dedicated professionals to advance its mission to facilitate capital formation; maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets; and protect investors. Together we will work to ensure that the U.S. is the best and most secure place in the world to invest and do business.” The best and most secure place in the world for whom to do business Chairman Atkins?

Motley Fool Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool As an individual investor, the more timely financial information we have access to, the better we can make informed decisions.

Motley Fool Investor Private Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Investor Please do not change the reporting frequency of the public companies that are part of the investing markets. Quarterly reports assist the individual investor in making solid decisions on health of company.

Motley Fool Investors — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Investors I am against reducing quarterly reporting requirements for publicly traded companies.

Motley fool member — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley fool member Please give us more info not less.

Motley fool Member — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley fool The stocks in the SEC should be reviewed every quarter. This gives investors more guidance on how a company (owned by shareholders). Is doing so we can invest with more visibility and confidence. Thank-you

---

Motley Fool member Chris Bray N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool member Chris Bray Less is not more. I oppose allowing companies to cut their reporting requirements in half. 4 times a year or quartetly is appropriate and neccessary

---

Motley Fool member Douglas Saunders Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool member Douglas Saunders Learned through Motley Fool

---

Motley fool Motley fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley fool Motley fool community

---

Motley Fool Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Motley Fool

Motley Fool Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Decreasing the transparency of public companies is idiotic. Are there any adults left in charge?

Motley Fool None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Respectfully request all companies continue to provide investment status reports 4 times per year. The reports are vitally important in managing investments. Twice per year could mean the loss of thousands of dollars for private investors.

Motley Fool none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool The Motley Fool Newsletter

---

Motley Fool None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Companies should provide quarterly reports.

Motley Fool Personal — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool I strongly reject the proposal in alignment with the Motley Fools.

Motley Fool SAl Pollifrone — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool We need transparency . Bi annual reporting is unacceptable . We deserve transparency as part owners of a company.

Motley Fool subscriber None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool subscriber I respectfully would encourage to reject the proposed change in corporate reporting from the current four reports per to two reports per year. Investors have every right to be kept well informed of the businesses operating results in a timely manner.

Motley Fool Subscribere Seriel entrepreneur — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fool Subscribere Maintaining robust market transparency is critical, particularly as technological breakthroughs rapidly reshape business models. Investors like myself, with significant capital market exposure, need more clarity, not less. Moving to a semi-annual reporting schedule would severely limit our ability to accurately gauge company performance and manage risk in real-time."

Motley Fools Community U.S. citizen and registered voter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motley Fools Community A proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. That’s a mistake! At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. In this day and age, we need more transparency, not less. Keep the reports quarterly.

Motly Fool Community Member — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motly Fool Community Member The recommended change for reporting from 4 times a year to 2 times a year does not provide sufficient information for self-directed investing. Markets today, as well as individual company practices, move much faster. Even more frequent official public reporting would be appreciated, not less. Thank you for your consideration of my comments.

Motly fools — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Motly fools Reporting has to be four times a year.

Mr Donald Riley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mr Donald Riley I am against reducing reporting from 4 times a year to 2 times a year. With the integration of AI, the reporting the effort actually becomes easier and more efficient, reducing costs in the long run. Most investors look at company performance more frequently today than any time in the past, so reducing the oversight to obtain publicly traded company performance at least quarterly is just plain a stupid idea!

Mr Kevin Cooney The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mr Kevin Cooney To the Securities and Exchange Commission, I am writing to strongly oppose the proposal to reduce public-company reporting from quarterly to semiannual. As an individual investor, frequent and transparent reporting is a vital tool for corporate accountability. Individual investors must be able to verify management's actions and track a company's financial health regularly. This is especially true today, where capital flows into highly speculative, fast-moving sectors like AI, where cash burn rates are high and market conditions shift rapidly. Moving to a six-month reporting cycle does not eliminate short-term thinking. It simply reduces transparency, increases market volatility, and gives institutional insiders an unfair informational advantage over everyday shareholders. While modern technology and AI make it easier than ever for companies to compile data, the requirement to publish that data must be preserved to keep management honest. Please protect retail investors and maintain the current quarterly reporting framework. Respectfully, Kevin Cooney

---

Mr Simon Collier Professional Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mr Simon Collier I believe this proposal is unfair to investors generally and particularly to small investors who do not have access to the 'boards' of such Institutions. It will make companies less transparent and less accountable to their shareholders and able to hide any irregularities for too long

---

Mr. Adrian Rivera The motley fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mr. Adrian Rivera Semiannual reporting proposed here makes everyone less informed. Regular and transparent information on a quarterly basis should be compulsory.

Mr. Bruce Damalt American Citizen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Mr. Bruce Damalt The SEC Federal Gov't job is to ensure that any/all information about any business is reported on a timely basis just as it currently is ! Any diminution of any such information is patently corrupt and not in any investor's best interest !

Mr. Kinsey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Mr. Kinsey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reports quarterly just like our kids report cards we need to know what is going on

---

MR/MRS SAM & PEGGY DUNLAP — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: MR/MRS SAM & PEGGY DUNLAP greater transparency for individual investors IS NEEDED

---

mrmenace59 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: mrmenace59 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dennis A Egger , Retired, If it ain't broke, don't fix it ! Keep your hands off our money!

Sent from my Galaxy

Mrspekz45 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Mrspekz45 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change quarterly reporting

Sent from my iPhone

MSbiz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: MSbiz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Given all of the fraud, drug money laundering, lawyer fees $30,000 retainer at $750 an hour- AI can keep perfect track of all expenditures, without fuss or fees. Keep quarterly reports.

Sent from my iPhone

---

mslaquinta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: mslaquinta Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 LaQuinta M.

Please keep Quarterly reporting to help reduce fraud, corporate corruption, and mistrust. Quarterly reporting has been effective and helps maintain trust with employees, consumers and investors.

Sent from my Galaxy

Mundee CHILDERS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Mundee CHILDERS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Mundee CHILDERS 75180
CEIFO No Limits UnLTD

ACCOUNTABILITY FOR ACCOUNTING
NO INSIDER TRADING
RISK IS AS RISK DOES
BALANCED PLANET & PEOPLE MAKE FOR ROI:PROFIT FOR EVERYONE
DO NOT NORMALISE THE MOVIE: THE BIG SHORT

Murray Barton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Murray Barton I am opposed to reducing reporting to less than quarterly. There would be value to corporations and executives focusing on longer term strategies and results. However, this change does not accomplish that. It is in fact still a shorter term measure of performance, Notwithstanding that, providing more and regular information to investors is the correct approach. Given the increased complexity of the economy and the curves being introduced by the current US Administration, it is essential that timely information is available.

Murray Chapman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Murray Chapman There is a need to maintain 4 reporting times per year as a way pf maintaining a high level of scrutiny of companies and allow shareholders the right to consider how the company is performing and whether the company's Directors and management are maintaining and hopefully increasing the shareholders asset. Including the ethical standard of the company. There are too many examples where this has slipped and become apparent too late.

Murray Eskenazi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comments on S7-2026-15 From: Murray Eskenazi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am vehemently opposed to the proposed rule change. As investors, we do not get enough information about publicly held companies. Mainly we only hear what the companies want us to hear. Negative information must be found out from the news media. Quarterly reporting may put pressure on company management but they are used to it. Semi-annual reporting will be followed by a proposal for Annual reporting and the SEC will once again prove that it is the handmaiden of company management. How does semi-annual reporting give investors more information than quarterly reporting? It doe not! I am opposed to the rule change.
Murray Eskenazi

MURRAY POST — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: MURRAY POST Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This proposal is absolutely absurd. Trying to take advantage of the little guy.

Murray Post, retired

Murray Wilton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Murray Wilton I believe that we need more transparency in the market not less. With companies reporting quarterly it gives investors a chance to see how the company is doing financially without being surprised by them saying after 6 months “ oh we lost all this money 5 months ago and now the stock is worth 1/2 of what it was. Keep the quarterly reporting or lose the people that make the market what it is today. Maybe you should focus on the President and track the amount of insider trading he is doing. You do not inspire confidence when you make it harder for the average person to get information about the companies and easier for corrupt politicians to manipulate the markets for personal gain.

Music Tech — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Music Tech Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly Reporting, while sometimes inadequate, is our last stronghold. Our country needs accountability now more than ever. If you love (or vaguely, even Like) our country, you will retain the quarterly reporting method.

---

musicmendj Michael (Mickey) Alemany — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: musicmendj Michael (Mickey) Alemany Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I thought the SEC was created specifically for transparency.
This proposed new rule is antithetical to transparency....

Michael

Get BlueMail for Mobile

---

my2time1 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: my2time1 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly ONLY!

Sent from my Galaxy

---

myflisky — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: myflisky Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need MORE transparency not less! KEEP IT QUARTERLY AND ENFORCE LAW WHEN THIS IS NOT DONE TIMELY AND/OR ACCURATE AND TRUTHFUL!
I DO NOT WANT ANY MORE DOUBLE STANDARDS. THEY CAN BUT WE CANNOT. TOO MANY LOOPHOLES FOR THE WEALTHY.
HOLD THEM ACCOUNTABLE!

~my
~~~~~~~~~~

Myra — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Myra Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the current rules in force. Cheaters and fraudsters are already abusing whatever loopholes they find. To make cheating and lack of accountability even easier will come back to bite you, and the further destruction of the United States of America may benefit you personally in the short-term, but will cost you - will cost all of us - in the end.
~~~~~~~~~~

Myra S. Mitzman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File Number S7-2026-15 From: Myra S. Mitzman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am writing to object to the proposed change in SEC reporting requirements for public companies from quarterly to semi-annual. What is the purpose of this change? Don't investors deserve more transparency from the companies they invest in, not less? Are we trying to trigger another stock market crash/Great Depression?

Quarterly reporting has been required since the 1970s. Given the number of recessions and downturns we have had since then, what is the rationale for allowing public companies to keep shareholders and the public in the dark for half-a-year regarding their finances? Many Americans have some or all of their retirement savings in the stock market. They deserve to see how well or poorly the companies they invest in are doing so they can adjust their portfolios accordingly.

This is just one more way the government is attempting to disempower and disadvantage citizens in favor of big corporations, and it simply is not fair. I say, leave the rules alone. They have worked well enough for over half-a-century. As bad as things already are for average Americans, why are rules being proposed that, history has shown, will only increase economic volatility and make it harder for average investors to stay informed about their investments?

Myra S. Mitzman

Virus-free.www.avg.com

Myrna Bonilla — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Myrna Bonilla Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Investors need to see disclosure on all balance sheet accounts on a quarterly basis, semi annual reporting lacks time for real time accountability & responsibility to investors. In addition comparing financial reports help with clear view on progress or lack their of

Myrna Bonilla Cell # 973-953-7067

N Bryant — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: N Bryant Reducing reporting requirements to twice a year does not serve companies nor its shareholders. Please don't.

N Phillips — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: N Phillips Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
There is no need to implement a 6-month black out in lieu of quarterly reporting. The current reporting method has proven successful and provides the transparency necessary for both consumers (retail investors) and businesses (corporations).

N Watson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: N Watson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Nancy wason Retired Don't touch our investments we need this to live on.

N Watson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Our Money From: N Watson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Nancy wason
Retired Don't touch our investments we need this to live on.

Sent from Yahoo Mail for iPhone

N. Christine Westfall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: N. Christine Westfall I am writing to oppose the proposal on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Frequent public reporting helps keep companies honest and transparent to stock-holders. Reducing the annual reporting requirement will reduce corporate transparency in an already volatile political and economic environment, leading to instability in markets. That would be profoundly unfair to small investors and retirees who rely on market stability to retire.

Nackerman LLC — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Nackerman LLC Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is vital to the average investor. I believe this idea of reporting semiannually will only cause losses to the average Joe with money in the market. Please, if it ain't broke don't fix it.

Nadeem Babar Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nadeem Babar For better understanding and informed decision making, it is important to receive quarterly financial reports.

NaDine Rawls — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: NaDine Rawls Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 NaDine Rawls - I am an individual investor and making this change could cause individual investors to reconsider. Transparency is what keeps businesses honest. In the current political climate, public trust is very important. Quarterly reporting was created as the standard, and today's technology allows companies to report quicker and more accurate information.

Rev. NaDine Rawls, MTS
Retired

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Nadine Schramm — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Nadine Schramm Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 When white collar crime is increasing, accountability should not be decreasing

---

nadine ventimiglia — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: nadine ventimiglia Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This cannot be eliminated. CEOs are probably already lying, at least they have to get nervous every quarter. Don't give them any more leeway

Sent from my iPhone

Nagesh Gadamsetty Individual FOOLISH Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nagesh Gadamsetty At no point in history there was any incident where less information led to a better decision. Reducing the number of reports will definitely lead to reduced costs, however, the bigger benefit will be lost. Government should help the Citizens that have no clout other than depending on Government apparatus to defend the interests. For huge corporations the additional cost reduction will be miniscule. However, the return on investment in favor of the investor is very valuable. Government should dig deeper into the cost of reporting at an aggregate level and should compare that with the overall cost of doing business to make an informed decision.

Nahum Jovan Aranda Lopez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nahum Jovan Aranda Lopez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 For whom to may concern,
For the interest of all small investors like myself, reports MUST be kept quarterly.
Regards,
Nahum Aranda

Sent from my iPhone

---

naida rivera — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: naida rivera Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Noooooo, enough with the fraud and corruption.

Sent from my iPhone

Nan Haynes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nan Haynes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not roll back financial reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Nance Berry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Nance Berry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
We need to make stock trading more transparent. There are too many people manipulating the system as it is, let's not make it easier!

Nancie Lyons — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancie Lyons Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting should be required. Period. They are using shareholder money and the6 need to be accountable for it!

Sent from my iPad

Nancy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a horror show for the general population of this country. It would allow big businesses such as XAI, Enron, Meta, Amazon, Chevron, etc. to use insider information & knowledge to persuade investors to purchase their stock while fully knowing that their shares will depreciate catastrophically for those investors while the business owners & insiders sell off their shares, keeping profits the little people have no chance of getting. It’s oligarchs who benefit. Not the American people.

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Agafitei — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Agafitei Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Nancy Agafitei
Retired librarian ; investor
Quarterly reporting is working just fine. No need to change it.

Nancy Ardis — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Ardis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don’t do it

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Barber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Barber Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 VERY BAD IDEA! To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

Nancy Beisser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Beisser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What we learned in 2002 is working! We must keep top CEOs and CFOs accountable! Do Not lower the requirements for filing/signing their books and the associated consequences.

- Nancy Beisser

Santa Barbara, California

Nancy Bertolotti The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Bertolotti Reporting needs to be quarterly

---

Nancy Besenfelder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy Besenfelder Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting and give us poor folks a chance to find out what’s going on in our meager investments

---

Nancy Boucher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Boucher I am a long-time investor and was employed in corporate America for years. There is a proposal to limit how often companies report information from quarterly to twice per year. I am very much against this change. Too much can happen (both good and bad) within 6 months and that is too long of a gap without updated company information. Only insiders would have good information and that is something that is already abused in the financial world. Please do not allow this change to happen.

Nancy Burk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Burk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I object to the new quarterly reporting proposal. We need more frquest open and transparent reports and oversight on investing. This is even more imperative with the recent disclosures of rampant insider trading. Nancy L. Burk, Attorney at Law, Retired.

Nancy Carol — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Carol Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please, do not change the quarterly reporting schedule to 2x's a year, not good for my portfolio.

Nancy Casey Valhalla Capital — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Casey Reducing reporting to every six months will result in greater asset price volatility. Simply, speculation will increase which will make markets less stable.

Nancy Cashman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Cashman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is enough cheating in government! We need our securities safe from corruption and unscrupulous mishandling of our investments! Accountability and honesty are so crucial!

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Dunham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Dunham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep doing it!! Quarterly
Nancy Dunham
High Point, NC

Nancy Evanoff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Evanoff Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly must stay. Monthly would be better! Companies want to hide our investments from us, must say no to this. Transparency is paramount!!
No bail outs for these companies!
Just say NO to this drama!

Thank you,

Nancy Evanoff.

Nancy Foy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy Foy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 RULE: Never invest in a company that is not transparent posting their quarterly Financials. If they don't it is suspect regardless of SEC requirements. Transparency is important for sound investments.

Nancy Friedenfeld — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Friedenfeld Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 In my opnion it does not hurt the Execs to have to be honest 4 times a year!! Please leave this rule in place!!

Nancy G — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy G Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential to stop the greed of congressional insider trading, which should be made illegal. How dare Congress people put themselves above the law that applies to the rest of us?!

Nancy Holschuh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Holschuh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
We are watching you ! It is imperative that we know the latest economic data to base our financial decisions...in a fast changing economy , we need to frequent reports. We suspect you are doing this to cover up problems , this administration has created ...Praying for new leaders in 2 years!

Nancy Irving — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Irving Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 What is such a problem with signing your own financial record four times a year? Don't you think they check their own financial status even more often than that? Keep the existing policy

Nancy Irving

Sent from my iPad

Nancy Jean Lloyd — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Jean Lloyd Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Subject: Comment Opposing Proposed Changes to Financial Reporting Requirements

To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

I am writing to express my strong opposition to any rule changes that would delay, reduce, or weaken the timely reporting of financial information to investors.

As an individual holding an MBA and someone who has spent years observing financial markets, I have become increasingly concerned about the steady erosion of protections for both investors and consumers. Transparency is the foundation upon which fair and efficient markets are built. When investors do not receive timely and accurate financial information, they are placed at a significant disadvantage, while those with greater access to information gain an unfair advantage.

Extending reporting deadlines or reducing disclosure requirements creates unnecessary opportunities for companies to avoid accountability, delay the disclosure of material information, and obscure developing financial problems. Investors rely on current financial data to make informed decisions regarding the allocation of their capital. Delayed reporting undermines confidence in the integrity of the marketplace and weakens the SEC's mission to protect investors.

The financial markets function best when transparency, accountability, and timely disclosure are prioritized. At a time when public trust in institutions is already under strain, the SEC should be strengthening reporting standards rather than relaxing them. Investors deserve prompt access to material financial information so they can accurately assess risk and make informed decisions.

Throughout my career and studies, I have witnessed regulatory changes that have gradually shifted the balance away from investor protection. This proposed change appears to continue that troubling trend. The SEC's responsibility is not only to facilitate capital formation but also to ensure that markets remain fair, transparent, and worthy of investor confidence.

I respectfully urge the Commission to reject any proposal that delays or weakens financial reporting requirements. Maintaining rigorous disclosure standards is essential to preserving market integrity and protecting the investing public.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Sincerely,

Nancy Jean Lloyd
MBA
Dallas, Texas

Blessings,
Nancy Jean

Nancy Karsten — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Karsten Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You're just making the rich get richer, and the poor get poorer. Keep it the way is now! Insider trading is bad enough already. It will be far worse if you go back to the old days. You are all afraid of Donald Trump! This country is a democracy, not an authoritarianism one! Come clean and be respectful to our country.

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy L — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy L Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep is quarterly! If not you are allowing companies to hide illegal activities.
Is this your plan?
Nancy Loomis

Nancy Louthan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Louthan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is a necessary decision making tool for the small investor who does not have access to the same resources that large investors do.

nancy.louthan@gmail.com
(410) 446.0326

Nancy Marie Denn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Marie Denn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I want these reports to continue in the most timely fashion possible.

Nancy McGinnis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy McGinnis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is undeniably fraud. Tricking the American Public while putting American dollars in their pockets. Shameful! Do not allow this to happen

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Michael — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Michael Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a MUST! Quarterly reports keeps it more honest.

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Mills The Motley Fool Organization — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Mills 4 times a year instead of 2 times a year is the most information thing you can do, to increase an investor's knowledge

---

Nancy Mindes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Mindes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Protect investors not the corruption.

Sent from my iPhone
“They say time changes things, but actually you have to change them yourself. “.
Andy Warhol

Nancy Morgan-Butkus — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Morgan-Butkus Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You addressed the problem by making it quarterly so DO NOT change it now.

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Norman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy Norman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I don’t think this is a wise decision for the shareholders of our country. It’s always a great idea to learn from your mistakes so I don’t understand why you want to bring back a procedure that is not good for the economy and for the residence of our great country. What is left of it?

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Nottingham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Nottingham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Quarterly Reporting! Transparency is extremely important important to me. Quarterly reporting has proven to be more profitable to the investors.
Nancy Nottingham,
CSR, Mabank, Texas.

Nancy Nottingham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Nottingham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We advocate for the continuation of quarterly reporting, as transparency is a paramount concern. Our analysis indicates that quarterly reporting has consistently yielded enhanced profitability for investors. Nancy Nottingham, CSR, Mabank, Texas.

Keep Quarterly Reporting!

Nancy Pienta — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Pienta Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Nancy Pienta, Retired, Valatie, NY. I personally oppose this bill by SEC that proposes Rule S7-2026-15: three certified 10-Qs become one Form 10-S. Four certified filings a year become two. This is so wrong, CEOs need to be accountable to the people. There was a bill passed to make it quarterly for a very good reason, ACCOUNTABILITY. Don't mess with something that works.

NANCY PIPES — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: NANCY PIPES Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I believe the quarterly reporting must continue and must be mandatory. As a retired teacher, the fund from which I draw an annuity, depends on proper, timely decisions in the market. Hiding information from retirement funds risks the income of current and future public school retirees.

Nancy P. - Retired Teacher, Texas

Nancy Reichert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Reichert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep companies Honest. Come on Government work for the people for a change 😡

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Rice — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Rice Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We, the common, everyday Americans are tired of supporting the underhanded wealthy! Keep them honest. Keep CEO's reporting QUARTERLY!

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Roberts — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy Roberts Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency . .always transparency. Quarterly reporting always. It's hard enough trusting in our government these days. I'm not speaking out of President either. I am speaking of all government agencies. These are our monies, saved or spent. We are retired, we want to know about our savings, stocks, bonds banks. Transparency at all times.

Nancy Schulhoff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Schulhoff Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting should stay unchanged.

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Siegel None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Siegel Circumstances change so quickly, and should be reported as soon as possible. Please do not lengthen the process for reporting.

Nancy Spooner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy Spooner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I support maintaining quarterly reporting requirements because they provide investors with timely, transparent information essential for informed decision-making and market integrity. Reducing reporting frequency would decrease transparency and weaken accountability to shareholders.

Nancy Spooner

San Francisco, CA

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Starling — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Starling Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep accountability in place! We don't need another fiasco like what put this quarterly reporting in place. Honesty should never be afraid of reporting.
Nancy Starling
Retired

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Stumvoll — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Stumvoll As a long term investor in the stock market, I believe it is essential that public-company reports are provided four times a year to investors . As a stock owner in 20+ companies, it is the my right to know how those companies are performing on a quarterly basis so I can make informed investment decisions based on current performance data. Without that quarterly provided information, my investment and/or investment decisions are at a much higher risk of failure. Due to that, I am strongly opposed to moving to public-company reports only being provided twice a year. Sincerely, Nancy Stumvoll

---

Nancy Suah — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nancy Suah Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is important to consumers and stock Purchases. The quarterly report gives timely information about the corporations viability and ROI

Nancy Szczesniak — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy Szczesniak Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If anything, enhance transparency by increasing reporting and regulation. Do not cut regulation or reporting. Businesses will not regulate themselves. They will lie. Oversight is the government's responsibility.

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Tempel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy Tempel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Nancy Tempel, Registered Nurse.
I want access to my finances quarterly!
Or I am pulling it. Nonsense and ridiculous!
Who goes back 70 years in todays world? Get real! Do you all have any common sense?

Sent from my iPhone

Nancy Travis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Travis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
SEC why would you do this? To protect trillionaire? the average American Needs protection. We want quarterly reports to keep track of what's really going on.

---

nancy vogl — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: nancy vogl Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Trump ran on transparency and getting bum leadership out of power. This means more data about corporations, not less. Definitely keep quarterly reporting!

Nancy Vogl
Sonoma County, California.

Nancy Vouk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Nancy Vouk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The View must be free to choose their guests their topics for discussion as free speech!! Trumps is anti American

---

Nancy West — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy West Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is suck a bad idea to roll back. Was a disaster back then, devastating for many and would be even more so now. Keep consistent reporting to help prevent fraud, theft and loss

---

Nancy West — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nancy West Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am retired and depend on my investments for retirement income. I review quarterly results to make decisions about my investments and taking distributions. Do not reduce these reports to every 6 months!!

Nancy West
C: 215-280-7016

NANCY YETTER — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: NANCY YETTER Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why on earth would you change quarterly reporting?? Trying to hide something? In a time when fraud is rampant, I would think you should go the other way-reporting once a month! Every month! Do NOT make it easier on the criminals. Do your job and protect the American people.
Nancy Yetter

Retired

Sent from my iPhone

Nancydawn Ashberry Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nancydawn Ashberry I do not agree with your proposal to reduce reporting to twice yearly. As an investor I want as much information on company dealings and Financials to do with my investments as I can get. Personally, I'd like to have bimonthly reports rather than quarterly.

Nanda Hydrisko — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nanda Hydrisko Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting there is no reason not to and the more oversight and transparency the better.

Nanda Hydrisko
Wayne, PA

Nanette Barrett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nanette Barrett I am against the proposed ruling to change publicly held companies to go from quarterly reporting to bi-annual reporting. As a small investor - my retirement funds are tied up or linked to many public companies. It is the only real source that is available to small investors to just the capabilities of the company leadership and performance. I urge you to continue to require companies to quarterly report.

Nanette Sigel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nanette Sigel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop the corruption now! Continue providing quarterly statement
!!

Naomi Wilson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Naomi Wilson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need more transparency, not less. I am a retired senior, who doesn’t have the years to make up retirement funds that would be lost.

Naomi Wilson

Sent from my iPhone

Narayanan Govindarajan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Narayanan Govindarajan Hello, I am against reducing the reporting requirement to twice a year as this will reduce the information I receive from the organisations I have invested in. This makes it difficult for me to take informed decisions about my investments. Thanks for your consideration, Narayanan

---

Natalia (Tasha) Schroeder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Natalia (Tasha) Schroeder Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not make reporting occur once every six months. Changing quarterly reporting is tantamount to stealing other people's money. Stop stealing from hard-working Americans.

Get Outlook for iOS

Natalie — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Natalie Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Natalie Barman, retired Keep quarterly reports. I'm retired and surviving on my savings and investments. Quarterly reports forces institutions to be open and responsible.

Sent from my iPhone

Natalie Chamberlain — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Natalie Chamberlain Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Natalie Chamberlain and I am retired. This is as crooked as it gets. I rely on my account as my retirement. For the SEC to allow this is criminal.

Sent from my iPhone

Natalie Chamberlain retail trader — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Natalie Chamberlain The SEC has too much power as it is. Now you want to take the little bit of information that retail traders get and cut it in half so we don't have a chance. That should make Wall Street happy to get rid of the little guys. Even though its thought to decrease costs, you can't put a price on information. It shouldn't be an issue with AI now. All taking away the reports will do is make people less informed, less informed means less transparency, which will cause greater uncertainty.

Natalie Eline — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Natalie Eline Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a middle school reading assistant, making barely more than minimum wage, these millionaires owe me and my fellow taxpayers full transparency on everything that affects the market and our futures.

Natalie H. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Natalie H. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to keep quarterly. I rely on quarterly updates & feedback in my decision making.

Natalie Howarth Function Potential Inc — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Natalie Howarth It is so important to have frequent communication with the companies that We are invested in. It's not just finance. It's time and energy and resources And two times a year communication is not sufficient.

Natalie Huber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Natalie Huber Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 transparency matters.

Natalie Ratliff CPA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Natalie Ratliff This proposed reduction in transparency is egregious. Companies continue to cut costs by cutting their accounting staff and accountability. Growth without transparency leads to corrupt practices.

---

natalie warady — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: natalie warady Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello
This is the absolute worst time to initiate any revisions to quarterly public reporting - with American faith in systems at an all time low. This measure reinforces that corporations have carte blanche over Americans, especially the working class. I'm outraged at the idea and condemn the actions of anyone on the board who votes for this. Please vote against this.

Natalie Warady interior design.

Natalie Whitfield Teacher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Natalie Whitfield Less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Right?

Nate Clute — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nate Clute Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting means more accountability and transparency.

Nathan Brown Individual investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nathan Brown Please do not change the timing of reporting. Quarterly reporting is very helpful to allow average citizens to be competitive. If reporting becomes biannual insiders will be able to make moves due to their privileged positions that average investors and managers will not be able to make.

Nathan Catts — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nathan Catts Hello, As an investor on the ASX, having quarterly updates allows me to be more informed of the companies I invest in and have part ownership of. I do not support moving to biannual reporting, as this reduces my visibility on the companies I have ownership in. If I bought a fruit shop business and had someone manage it for me, I or any reasonable person, would expect regular updates, not a report twice a year. Also, the cost of reporting quarterly is negligible for corporations, especially with advanced reporting tools and application, as well as the benefits AI will provide into the future. As stated earlier, I do not support biannual reporting and request that the current quarterly reporting remains in place. Thank you for the opportunity to voice my position on this proposal.

Nathan Erickson The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nathan Erickson Im against reducing reporting and want to maintain or increase the current requirements to inform investors.

Nathan hobby — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nathan hobby I am not in favor of allowing companies to provide financial reports only two times a year.

Nathan Jon Eslinger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nathan Jon Eslinger Financial disclosures and corporate transparency are crucial for informed investors. Reducing financial disclosures by half would provide no positive value for investors.

Nathan Mitchell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nathan Mitchell I do not like this proposed change. As an investor. This reduces my visibility into the performance of a company. This will also increase volatility in the markets as the reactions will end up becoming sharper and more immediate when these reports are surfaced to investors like myself. I would prefer to continue to receive quarterly reports from companies

---

Nathan Podoll — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nathan Podoll I oppose this proposed rules change. Less frequent information rarely creates better-informed owners, instead creating more market volatility. As an owner of a piece of the businesses I invest in, I should have regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners like me. Would you be ok with one of the people you supervise only checking in twice a year? I know I wouldn't. Thank you for reading and considering my opinion and concerns.

Nathan Schmid — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nathan Schmid As a shareholder and investor in numerous publicy traded companies I find it critically important to retain the mandatory quarterly reporting that has been in place for decades. The pace of change in today's economy is faster than ever so companies strategies, performance and outlooks are changing even more rapidly than in the past. Further, technology has vastly improved and simplified the reporting process. If anything, this justifies shortening the reporting period, not lengthening it.

Nathan Wang The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nathan Wang Investing is ownership. When we own a piece of a business, we deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners and deprives the owners of the businesses of the right to be informed of the situation of the businesses in a timely manner. Reducing the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two is a mistake!

Nathaniel Kirby N/A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nathaniel Kirby With all the power of tech today, reducing disclosure doesn't really help companies. While at the same time it hurts individual investors.

Nathaniel Watson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nathaniel Watson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Nathaniel Watson Real Estate Professional

I am a long term investor in the stock market. Reading and analyzing quarterly reports is absolutely necessary for me to be informed about a companies financial strength, plans and performance against goals and objectives. There is Absolutely NO Reason for quarterly reporting to be stopped. Please DO NOT change the requirements for quarterly reporting! This is part of the. Life’s Blood for the average investor! Please Do Not allow Corruption to go any further by eliminating or changing quarterly reporting guidelines in any way! PLEASE NO!!

Sent from my iPhone

NATHANIEL WRIGHT IV — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: NATHANIEL WRIGHT IV Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It needs to continue permanently.

Sent from my iPhone

Nayda Quinones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Nayda Quinones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am not happy with the proposed changes in the frequency ot the reports. I want to know was going on with my portfolio and the Stock Market. So no changes please
Nayda Quinones

Neal A. Sholl AIChE — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Neal A. Sholl Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Neal Christopher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Neal Christopher Please do not reduce reporting requirements. Investors are owners who need more, and more timely, and not less information, and less frequent information in order to make informed decisions. With the increase of AI in business documentation, the argument for reducing the burden of document preparation is poorly reasoned and invalid. The opportunity for businesses to mask ethical compliance will increase with the proposed changes.

Neal Havener The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Neal Havener Shareholders - and the public at large -- deserve to know MORE about the dealings of the businesses that operate in the USA. Not less! We deserve regular, transparent communication from business. All of us, but especially share holders. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Please keep the reporting requirements at FOUR times a year. Thank you.

Neal Parker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Neal Parker I am opposed to relaxing corporate reporting requirements. As a retired investor, I know quarterly reports are vital to maintaining public confidence and corporate responsibility. A longer period invites investment decisions based on poor or outdated information. I do not want my investments to suddenly diminish in value because problems have gone festering and unreported for six months even while insiders have been quietly acting to protect themselves. Such a rule change could be catastrophic for me and for many other investors. Some would cite cost savings as a justification, but the same argument could be made, and even more so, for eliminating all reports to investors. No, any added cost in the price for openness which benefits the owners, the investors. Any savings from reporting less often is only a savings for insiders trying to hide facts from the owners.

Ned Clapp (Individual) None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ned Clapp (Individual) Reducing reporting requirements from quarterly to semi-annually would be a mistake. Any reduction in transparency is a step backwards. Please do not allow this to happen.

Ned Lavengood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ned Lavengood Do not reduce the number of public company reports...less information rarely creates better informed owners.

Neel Armstrong — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Neel Armstrong Please leave the number of public-company reports at four times a year and do not reduce to any lower.

Neel Shah The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Neel Shah Hello. I am writing with concern regarding the proposed reporting changes for public companies from quarterly to semiannually. While I understand the desire to reduce pain points for public companies, and I understand the desire to encourage highly valued private companies to come public. I think reducing the amount of information available to public investors makes for a worse market experience and less market efficiency. It seems there will be more volatility as bigger movements erupt around fewer earnings reports. And insiders will have more opportunity to profit from information that is not publicly available. I hope that the SEC can identify other pain points that will encourage private firms to come public, without reducing the available information to public investors that in turn supports market efficiency and fair valuation.

Neha Director, Equinix — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Neha Current reporting schedule sould be retained. semi-annual reporting is too less/ opaque and will add risk to public's holdings. Reporting requirements keep a rigorous check on companies.

Neil Cowan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Neil Cowan I am opposed to changing the reporting requirements for companies from 4 to 2 times per year. More information is better than less. I want to know what my invested companies are up to on a regular basis. I think the rule change would be detrimental to investor confidence in the market. Thanks for considering my comments. Neil Cowan Sarasota, FL

Neil Dailey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Neil Dailey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Let's keep it as it is with more accountability rather than less.

Neil Flynn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Neil Flynn Investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Some argue that fewer reports would reduce costs. Maybe. Although in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But short-termism comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it.

Neil Hennessy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Neil Hennessy Do not change quarterly company reports to twice a year We need more transparency not less

---

neil humphreys — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: neil humphreys Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly leads to less problems for the company, and more clarity for stock holders. There's no advantage in going semi-annual

Get Outlook for iOS

Neil Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Neil Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Just another *ing way our politician parasites make laws protecting the criminals.

Neil Lynch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Neil Lynch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Neil Lynch. I am retired executive from a leading U.S. bank. I have investments that I am depending on to fund my retirement.

Loosening the rules on disclosures are a step in the wrong direction. We should continue to require quarterly reporting to support transparency and protect investors of all types.

- Neil Lynch

Sent from my iPhone

Neil Marklund — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Neil Marklund Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please maintain Quarterly Reporting requirements. The public deserves to have enough information in order to make informed investments for retirement and wealth building.

Neil Millburger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Neil Millburger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please dont make it easier to commit the corporate fraud our country is already plagued with. Please.

Neil Paragas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Neil Paragas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You people are assholes. Do not change this law! I bet you're all taking bribes.

NEIL PLOWMAN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: NEIL PLOWMAN As an investor you need a regular update/ reports to help show how the company is being run to help protect that investment. Being an investor you own part of that company, so surely you deserve to receive reports on company performances etc. Especially as being kept in the dark, not receiving these updates could cost you part or all of your investment.

Neil Williams — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Neil Williams The USA leads the world in capital markets. Part of this is due to the transparency of information. Reducing this leads to greater uncertainty. There is undoubtedly a cost associated with more frequent preparation and delivery of information to the markets. Technology and internal information capabilities including AI should be significantly decreasing the cost and time.

Nelson Balido — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nelson Balido Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. I do not support less reporting; in fact, quite the opposite. Companies and investments made in them, but they must be accountable all the time. Let's keep them reporting a minimum of four times per year. Thank you.

Nelson Billups Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nelson Billups I'm a small business owner investing in publicly traded stocks and various funds as well as own income producing real estate. Without current reporting of financial statements, I cannot prudently manage my investments. Please do not allow this pending law to go into effect. Thank you, Nelson Billups

---

Nemo Rinker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Nemo Rinker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Because of the nature of business deals done internationally these reports need to stay quarterly. Even quarterly allows for many things to be hid. Reducing thisales it easier for bad actors to hide even more. All's one has to do is look at the past and see how often things been able to be hit by quarterly reporting less than able to be head they have to take more responsibility for what they have done by reducing it to semi-annually allows even much more to be had than what already is this hurts not only the government it hurts the American people by these bad actors who are going to do everything in their power to make things look properly Enron was just tip of the iceberg we need to actually study more and what's going on Clifford Jackson
Retired contractor
Georgia

Nena Ellis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nena Ellis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Corporate accountability to investors is of paramount importance.

Over the last 15 years companies have made an art form of being inaccessible to clients and investors, eliminating physical locations that can be visited, making it impossible to talk to a person on the phone and even replacing electronic email communication and customer service with chat bots and internet form letters. Now more than ever we need access to information, more acces, not less, so that we can make sound financial decisions with our investments. We everyday Americans no longer have pensions, our healthcare access has been cut, our insurance coverage has been reduced. The social security and Medicaid taxes we've paid for 50 years are now being called handouts and social security is being threatened. (The government should have had to report quarterly on this!). Our only retirement hope is in our investments. I've worked for multiple massive organizations and have seen first hand how dramatically a company's financials can change in 90 days due to unforeseen circumstances, resulting from diverse causes—from natural disasters to global pandemics, and from legislative and geo political changes to leadership scandals or even deaths that affect corporate decision making, ethics, corporate leadership teams, and bottom lines.

We must have quarterly accountability.

Thank you,

Nena M. Ellis

Nena Mancilla — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nena Mancilla Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 N. Cruz - RET VET, This WILL enable fraud at a higher scale. Why are you willing to allow fraud? THIS is exactly why fraud is such an issue with the country right now. The small investor will always be the one who pays the price

Sent from my iPhone

Nerdfan 17 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nerdfan 17 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Everyone has the right to know what is happening with businesses at all times.

Joseph Gonzalez

NERO HOLDINGS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: NERO HOLDINGS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stephanie Nero, Citizen, This is vital information to all citizens when making decisions. Regular reporting is crucial to everyone. Even our government. We must keep consistent regular reporting. I do not agree with hiding reporting for companies for six months.

Nettie Blowers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nettie Blowers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Annette Blowers Community Health Education Specialist

Keep SEC regulations on a quarterly reporting time table to help keep financial status current - as a means of identifying fraud and abuse. Changing the reporting to a longer timeframe will make it easier to hide financial fraud and abuse and more difficult to detect.

Nettie Blowers

New Message — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: New Message Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Retta Pierce, US citizen and active voter, I am not pleased that transparency is even being debated. It literally looks like graft is being promoted. We need these quarterly reports and would even recommend bi-monthly report. Our government and big business should be accountable and truthful.

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Ngozi Mensah — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Ngozi Mensah Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The quartet reporting is not a good best practice. This will create financial hardship for Americans. Please reconsider.
Rhonda Mensah, private citizen, Florida

Sent from Rhonda's iPhone

Niall Dunphy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Niall Dunphy I would like to comment that as a low level retail investor, I believe it is important that I have maximum access to details around the performance of the company of which I own a portion in the form of shares. Moving to twice yearly allows too much negative or positive performance to occur without my knowledge for me to make informed decisions around further investing or selling of shares. I would ask that company updates remain at a quarterly frequency to maintain the requisite level of information available to the owners.

Nic Renbeck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Nic Renbeck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do NOT end quarterly reporting. Do not make any changes to the current rules that will harm the small investors. Any changes that gives more favor to the large investors at the expense of regular people is immoral and you must not do.

Nicholas Ali — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nicholas Ali There is a proposal that is now active would allow these public companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. This is a mistake. Pubic companies are owned by the public. Transparency keeps us well informed as owners and we should be updated quarterly, not bi-annually.

Nicholas Altenbernd — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nicholas Altenbernd Reducing reports from 4 per year to only 2 is not a good idea. Any monetary saving is not worth the lack of sufficient transparency.

Nicholas Brokaw — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nicholas Brokaw Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I believe changing quarterly reporting will only harm the market. As a hospitality worker, the only way for me to compete in today's economy is to be able to see how the market is doing and make knowledgable investments.

Nicholas Carrera — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nicholas Carrera Moving from 4 to 2 annual reports would be the wrong direction. Investors need reasonably up-to-date information. Day-old reports would be super-fresh but costly and impractical; quarterly reports have proven workable; semi-annual reports could be moldy and misleading. If the system ain't broke, why tinker with it?

Nicholas Chudolij — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nicholas Chudolij Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Let’s do what is conscionable and keep quarterly earnings reports a thing. How far down the path of corruption do we need go before regulators say “no”?

Nick Chudolij

Sent from my iPhone

Nicholas Holmes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nicholas Holmes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is an absurd consideration and I implore you to look out for the interests of the people of this country that actually need protection by keeping this reporting requirement at quarterly intervals.

NICHOLAS MONTALTO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: NICHOLAS MONTALTO Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want to have quarterly reporting so I can make make informed decisions Thank You Maureen Coyne

Sent from my iPhone

Nicholas Murphy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nicholas Murphy I disagree with the proposal, feeling that it will lessen the exposure to timely information necessary for the retail investor to make truly informed investment decisions by the reduction of formal reporting availability.

Nicholas Scarpa — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nicholas Scarpa I believe that owning shares in a company is essentially owning a part of that company. Companies should be transparent with all that have a vested interest. Whether shares are currently owned or being researched. The SEC should not relax regulations on public reporting that companies are currently responsible for, from four to two times annually. That cuts transparency in half. That is not good and not responsible.

Nicholas Stark — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nicholas Stark Please keep the quarterly reporting

---

Nicholas Tier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nicholas Tier Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hello,
My name is Nick Tier. I'm a high school teacher in Royersford, Pa. I'm not a financial advisor, or work infinance, but market transparency matters to me. My pension invests in companies based on their financial health. Without updated knowledge, my pension managers might make poor decisions and put my retirement at risk. Public companies should be required to provide the most up to date information regarding their financial health, otherwise insiders benefit the the public suffers. Public companies do not need relief, they are doing just fine. Look back in history and look at the times government made changes like this, what happened? Market crashes and recession... Please take the pragmatic approach and do not make these changes.

Thank you,

Nick Tier

Nichole Howell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Nichole Howell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Everyone needs accountability, the more the better. As an educator, we strive to teach kids how to do the right thing even in positions of power. With great power comes great responsibility and the CEOs need to be held responsible for their company's actions.

Kind Regards,

Nichole Howell

(she/ her/ hers)

Nichole Teacher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nichole The audacity to even introduce this idea at a time like this is absurd. We need more oversight, not less!

---

nicie Veal — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: nicie Veal Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop the foolishness! Stop wrecking institutions for a few! We the People own this government, NOT THE WEALTHY! RESEND THIS NOW, THROW IT AWAY!

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Nick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nick Do not do this! Semi annual will lead to less informed investments. This will lead to individual investors not knowing the health of companies. Pension funds will be making decisions on less info. This can and will lead to fraud

---

Nick Arredondo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nick Arredondo Please maintain the status quo requirement for quarterly reporting. Reducing the transparency required for publicly traded companies will not improve any thing. The current requirement is not onerous.

Nick Ballard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Nick Ballard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting.

---

nick calise — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: nick calise Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quit the bs already.

Sent from my iPhone

Nick Deambrosio — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nick Deambrosio Against the new proposal would like to maintain the current 4 times/year reporting

---

Nick Fomera Cybersecurity Associate, Amex — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nick Fomera I don’t believe less reporting solves anything. I think it creates normal people like me so much more uncertain to keep giving money to institutions who clearly don’t really care about the people. Unfortunately too for the average person who doesn’t know what this means, is that everyone affected by default now will become more and more less informed. Reporting should be monthly even, as more data fights any amount of discrimination. With all the AI now you’d think it should be easier and faster to report, but alas, all executives really care about is money.

Nick M — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nick M Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Nick Majernik, BS, BSN, RN. As more people rely on investing for retirement, Americans need up-to-date accurate information to make decisions with their retirement accounts. Information moves very fast and we must move fast with it. Corporations have saved money from tax breaks. They have had record profits. Financial statements are digital and the cost for them to file quarterly is miniscule compared to the potential impact on investors.

Nick Schommer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nick Schommer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly is a minimum for meaningful transparency. Insider trading is core of kleptocapitalism…

Sent from my iPhone

Nick Sciarrilli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nick Sciarrilli There should be great transparency in publicly traded companies not less. This is what will benefit the public.

Nick strasser — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nick strasser Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 keep it the way it is! if you give companies more time to hide money they are going to!

Nicki Craig — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nicki Craig Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely not!! So much can be hidden the longer they have to report. Nicolette Craig, Retired

---

Nickie Kelly — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nickie Kelly Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Nickie Kelly, Fractional CFO.
Tracking quarterly investment performance is key.

Sent from my iPhone

Nico Cheker Engineer, Globalfoundries — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nico Cheker Timely company performance information is critical to define investment strategies. I disagree on reducing from quarterly disclosure to twice per year disclosure.

Nico Deleu — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nico Deleu As an individual investor, I urge the SEC to keep quarterly reporting. Investing is ownership, and owners deserve regular, transparent updates on the businesses they own. Cutting public reports from four to two a year doesn't reduce uncertainty—it increases it. Less frequent disclosure means bigger surprises, sharper reactions, and greater volatility when information finally arrives. Fewer reports won't cure short-termism; that comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Please preserve transparency and quarterly reporting for individual investors.

Nicole Babcock — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nicole Babcock I disagree with these changes as an individual investor. Full disclosure/transparency in a timely manner is essential to maintaining trust.

Nicole Clark — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Nicole Clark Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The working class citizens of the USA need your protection of our retirement funds. Allowing companies to wait 6 months to report earnings and losses putsnus all at risk. Do not allow big corporations to win. Protect the middle class.
We're counting on you!
Nicole Clark

Nicole Hsu — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Nicole Hsu Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why change it if it's working? That doesn't make sense unless someone's trying to cheat the system. Decreasing the signatures and reporting would decrease CEOs' accountability, and they should be responsible for the financial decisions of their company, especially if anything illegal is happening. Investors shouldn't be left in the dark.

Again unless the company is trying to do something shady, there's no reason to decrease the financial reports with CEOs' signatures every three months as it has been done for more than 50 years. Something seems off about this unnecessary change!

—Nicole Hsu
Teacher

Nicole L — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nicole L Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I oppose changing public company financial reporting from quarterly reports to a six-month reporting schedule. Quarterly reporting promotes transparency, accountability, and investor confidence by providing timely information about a company's financial health and performance. Reducing disclosures to twice a year could limit investors' ability to make informed decisions, increase uncertainty, and decrease trust in the market. Maintaining quarterly reporting helps protect individual investors and supports fair, efficient, and transparent markets. I encourage the SEC to keep the current quarterly reporting requirements in place.

Nicole Miyamoto — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nicole Miyamoto Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need reporting to hold companies accountable. I am an interim manager for FedEx office and without those metrics

I don’t think I could do my job

Nicole Silva Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nicole Silva We as investors need to know what you know. It is not acceptable that you are proposing to keep the investors, public citizens, from knowing all information about the company and directions they move. This bill should not be allowed to pass.

Niecy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Niecy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to keep it the way it is to keep people from doing fraud

Niecy

Nigel Aubrey Motley fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nigel Aubrey Companies should not have their reporting timeframes adjusted to a longer period. How are we as investors supposed to make an informed decision on who we invest in if information is potentially 6 months old. With AI and modern reporting tools, generating reports should be easier than ever and there is no excuse not to report quarterly. Infact, with modern automation reporting tools the reports should start coming out monthly to help us as investors see what is really going on.

---

nigel crossley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: nigel crossley I disagree with the proposal to make public financial reports twice a year - it needs to stay at four times a year.

Niki Butcher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Niki Butcher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
The object of our "free" society is to be able to invest in companies, which allows them to be successful. However, without updated knowledge about the company why bother investing? I am one who will shut down all my investments helping corporations grow successfully if this passes.

Nikki Choyce The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nikki Choyce Reporting less frequently will not provide owners with timely information and is LESS transparent. I am not in favor of changing reporting requirements to twice a year. Keep it to quarterly increments.

Nikki Goodson — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nikki Goodson I think more transparency is better, and we should keep public company reports quarterly instead of biannual.

Nikki Silver — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nikki Silver This is ridiculous! We need more information not less!

Nilufar Safdarian Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nilufar Safdarian I do not support the proposal to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Public reporting needs to remain quarterly so we as shareholders remain informed in a timely manner.

Nimrod Johnson private investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nimrod Johnson As a retired investor who depends partially on the income from the portfolio the most important factor is the availability of information. The world is becoming more dynamic day by day and the access to news is critical in making decisions on investments , especially those that provide income. In many sectors (off hand I think of REITs and BDCs) 6 months can change the situation from night to day and back. I strongly recommend NOT reducing the requirement to disclose financial information every quarter.

Nina Newcomb — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Nina Newcomb Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING! It is working…inconvenience is not a reason for change!

Nina Newcomb

Sent from my iPhone

Nisa Ford — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nisa Ford Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Leonnesia Ford, Attorney Extending the time for filings will allow potential violations to go unchecked twice as long before correction. Americans have most of their life savings tied up in the stock market (in one way or another) and reducing this regulation could likely be devastating for working class people.

NK Brigden — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: NK Brigden Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Nancy K Brigden, Investor, I think it ludicrous this is even being considered. We need quarterly reporting.

No Name — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: No Name Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential to maintain oversight into firm's financials BEFORE they become "lost"!
Respectfully, J. Bennett - jazz musician/educator

---

no name investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: no name If the objective is to cut costs then reducing executive pay might be a better choice. That said, I now seldom read the quarterly and annual reports. There is daily lots of info on the web to know what is happening and there plenty stock charts that tell the market's moods. Besides, investing like an owner is nonsense if you don' have majority voting rights which ten votes per share for insiders totally kills the rights of ownership. In some cases I even favor it when it stops returning cash to shareholders, better used to increase the business. Dividends are paid only when management has no better use for the cash.

Noah Lichlyter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Noah Lichlyter Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Noah, 27, I work in the insurance industry.

When has less transparency from our government and businesses ever been a benefit to regular Americans? Less oversight = more risk for everyday folks just trying to survive, make a living, and save for retirement. Reducing reporting requirements is going to open the floodgates to a new wave of white collar crime and further financial abuse of regular Americans by the wealthy elite for their own persona gains. Just look at all the success members of Congress have had trading stocks based on privileged information. Clearly more information allows an investor to make sounder and wiser investments. This regulation change takes information away from investors and will make the American economy a riskier investment by orders of magnitude. If you permit this change to happen, it would be gross neglect of your duties of the highest order.

Noe Chairez Jr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Noe Chairez Jr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: We the people want all transparency regarding our retirement funds as well as other investments in order to avoid and deter fraud. We are the investors and we want to avoid taking a hit, as something happening as such could be financially destructive to us. Do not end quarterly reporting. It is not mundane to regularly report every quarter.

Noelia Yvette Aviles — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Noelia Yvette Aviles Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
What the ultra wealthy seem to misunderstand is that they wouldn't have all that money if it were not for their employees who work hard to earn a decent living wage while the CEO's keep getting praised and rewarded by the company owner and forget the actual people who work every day and get nothing in return! Enough

---

noelle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: noelle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Via the reports on Form 10-Q, Public companies, are subject to Exchange Act Section 13(a) or 15(d), and are currently required to file quarterly. This needs to remain as is, and not be reversed.

Thank you for your attention to this matter,
Noelle Salyers

Nolan webster Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nolan webster This does not appear to be fair for the investor

---

Nona Groesbeck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nona Groesbeck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why do you think changing everything back to 60 years ago would be good for the Country? You know that isn't good for America it's just taking away more and more from the people.

None OfYourBiz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: None OfYourBiz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Grow the * up or get the * out, you greed-laden *s from hell. Or just die. Yes. Die. Let some hungry idealists take over, you useless *ing republican- dictator-plutocratist puss-nutted assholes. * you people to DEATH.

Nora Durand — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Nora Durand Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Not on our watch Trumpies!

Nora Yolles — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Nora Yolles Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission,
I am writing as an individual investor who is deeply concerned about proposals that would reduce the frequency of public company reporting from quarterly to every six months.
As someone who relies on the transparency of our financial markets to make informed decisions about my savings, investments, and retirement future, I believe this proposal would disproportionately benefit corporate insiders while placing everyday investors at a significant disadvantage.
Quarterly reporting is one of the mechanisms that helps maintain trust in the marketplace. Public companies have access to enormous amounts of information about their financial health, operations, and risks. Regular reporting helps ensure that investors have timely access to material information rather than being forced to operate in the dark for extended periods.

A six-month gap between reports creates a much larger window for problems to develop unnoticed. Financial irregularities, poor management decisions, deteriorating business conditions, or even fraud can remain hidden for longer periods before investors have access to meaningful information. Delayed disclosure can also contribute to increased volatility when significant developments finally come to light, causing larger and more abrupt market reactions.
Transparency is not a burden. It is a cornerstone of a fair and efficient market. The strength of U.S. capital markets has long been built on the principle that investors, large and small, should have access to timely and reliable information. Reducing reporting requirements risks undermining that principle.
I am particularly concerned that this proposal would effectively blindfold ordinary investors while insiders and large institutional players continue to benefit from superior access to information and resources. At a time when more Americans are investing for their futures, retirement, and financial security, the SEC should be strengthening transparency, not weakening it.
I respectfully urge the Commission to reject any proposal that would eliminate quarterly reporting requirements and instead continue to promote timely disclosure, market integrity, and investor protection.
Thank you for your consideration.
Sincerely,
Nora Yolles

Noreen Iassandrello — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Noreen Iassandrello Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am concerned about this proposal. I personally use quarterly reports to inform my investment decisions. For a 6 month period I will not have access to information about the companies I may be invested in. This proposal is clearly good for Wall Street and bad for Main Street.

Norlyn Swenson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Norlyn Swenson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Norlyn Swenson; Retired School Teacher; With the computing power available to companies today and AI too. Quarterly reports shouldn’t be too cumbersome for companies and it’s a big help for the average investor. KEEP IT QUARTERLY!

Norm Iverson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Norm Iverson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not end your requirement of quarterly reporting by public companies.
Reading Alan Greenspan's AP obituary today, they write of his failing reputation as the US tumbled into the Great Recession following his tenure:
"Mr. Greenspan himself later acknowledged 'I made a mistake' in assuming that banks could essentially regulate themselves."
The broader securities industry is no different - transparency is the key to effective regulation that leads to smoothly and fairly operating markets.

---

norma albright — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: norma albright Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 With so much AI generation power no reason for not producing quarterly reports. Just want to be deceptive to the public

---

Norma Harrison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Norma Harrison Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 we need to keep track of the horrors incessantly perpetrated against wethepeople us

---

Norma Hinrichs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Norma Hinrichs Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not change a thing.

Norma Hoskins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Norma Hoskins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: please keep quarterly reports to keep companies accountable to their employees and the public.

Norman Cohen none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Norman Cohen As an individual investor, I am commenting to oppose reducing reporting requirements for publicly traded companies. For the companies with which I invest, I consider myself a part-owner. Transparent quarterly reporting on company performance allows me to make informed investing decisions. Reducing reporting requirements will increase uncertainty and place me at greater financial risk. The argument that reporting is costly to the company is far outweighed by the risk to the shareholder/owners like me. An informed marketplace reduces market risk and maintains greater stability in our economy. I respectfully request that the status quo on public reporting be maintained. Thank you.

Norman Green — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Norman Green I do agree that shareholders should have the opportunity to see quarterly reports

---

Norman Quick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Norman Quick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Cynthia Quick, Accounting firm office manager. The laws where changed to help protect normal people, once again the rich and corporations are looking for a way to make a bigger profit for themselves and let the rest of us holding the bag one more time. This has to stop keep the rules like they are now.

Norman Russell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Norman Russell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting! We need more safeguards—not less! Did we not learn anything from the past!!

Sent from my iPhone

Norris Edney II — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Norris Edney II Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Checks and Balances were created because of a need to respond to Criminal or Fraudulent actions in the past. Lessons Learned should not be forgotten or ignored simply to enable future Criminal or Fraudulent actions.
The "Inconvenience" of following the Law was created because committing Crimes was too "Convenient"!!

Respectfully,

Norris A. Edney II

Not Me American — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Not Me Uphold this signature law and start the court room trails . Let's send some bad guys where they belong and get our freedom and money back ! And keep the quarterly reporting so it stays on track . Amen. Tanya, home maker, New Mexico Make America great again ! Abide the damn law like the rest of us have to .take accountability for your actions and suffer the consequences from 2002!!! And whomever let you off knowingly gets a fine and prison time. For stealing Billions of dollars . Fair is fair and this is beyond fair . Each signature is a trail. Amen !

Nu Lyfe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nu Lyfe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTS!

Nuno Santos — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Nuno Santos reducing the number of reporting weakens us who are paying for ownership. As a long term investor I care about how they are managing, and I understand ups and down. I want to know they are experiencing some challenges and then see how they handle it. If poorly, I know to not increase my investment. If I wasn't aware for half a year, then I have to find out how they respond and wait again another half a year, it hurts me from knowing if I can invest more or less, and becomes now a more delayed response.

---

nunya bizness — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: nunya bizness Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retiree, my funds and options are limited. I do not agree with the proposed change: KEEP IT QUARTERLY.

•●●•●●•●●•●●•

Nurse Kate — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Nurse Kate Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports for all!!! Otherwise the problems that plague us will continue. Kate Spelman RN, founder and researcher at Ai Nurse Vanguard

Kate Spelman RN
Founder, AiNurseVanguard & AiNurseForge kate@AiNurseVanguard.com www.AiNurseVanguard.com
@AiNurseVanguard on X

O Oakwalker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: O Oakwalker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Reducing penalties and increasing opportunities for fraud is an overt rejection of your primary purpose as the SEC, and is an open confession that you, the person promoting this idea, is a toad sellout to the dark influences of greed and elitism. I am a retired electronics lab rat, and I'm sick of watching the slow decline of our community into abject greed and plunder. Yours Truly, Oakwalker.

Oakwalker
737-781-1999

Only the best to you.

O. Estavillo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: O. Estavillo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 O. C.Estavillo, retired.

If this has been working fine for this many years. Let's just keep it that way. Thank you.

OBOZO ODUMBO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: OBOZO ODUMBO Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It appears that after over one hundred years of data quarterly reporting increases profits across the board compared to just twice a year. So it would only make sense to keep it just the way it is. Nobody likes earning less money! G. James Fiddler Massachusetts

Sent from my iPhone

Octavia Denise Lovett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Octavia Denise Lovett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: All companies rules should have enforcement of operating with clean hands and in good faith. There should be a monthly check in with a full comprehensive transparency report of all securities sent to all investors from both sides.

---

oggigi2000 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: oggigi2000 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The Trump administration demands transparency. So we must have transparency. As the Lord Trump commands it.

Sent from my Galaxy

OKSANA PHILLIPS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: OKSANA PHILLIPS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The CEO and their companies need to be held accountable back in the day this would never have been allowed for companies to be richer than the government And then now they wanna do it only twice a year where they can steal the money from the public That own stocks that aren't getting the right information they need to have it more than 4 times a year they should have it monthly

---

Olamide Idowu — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Olamide Idowu Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it

---

Oliver Holman Nall Intern, T. Rowe Price — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Oliver Holman Nall Less information never decreases uncertainty -- in fact, that statement is paradoxical in nature. Providing 4 reports to investors ensures lower volatility, and upholds the rights of retail investors who don't have access to the expensive information and resources institutions enjoy. People's retirements and livelihoods are at stake; greater volatility and speculation could lead to panic withdrawals, lower retirement income, and constant stress. Companies have a duty to report to all stakeholders that engage with them, whether the stakeholders interact through debt, equity, work, or any other way.

Oliver Pierce — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Oliver Pierce Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Oliver Pierce, Retired

As someone who is retired, I depend on quarterly reports to make a lot of my financial decisions. A 6-month gap could cause me to miss information that may have altered my financial decisions. Quarterly reports are vital for the short-term decisions I make. Keep reporting the way it is. Are companies trying to hide something by going to 6-month reporting?

Oliver Pierce
sidretired@outlook.com

Oliver Sackett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Oliver Sackett I strongly oppose any proposal that would reduce public company reporting from four times per year to two. As a shareholder, I am an owner of the businesses in which I invest. Owners deserve regular, transparent communication about company performance, risks, and strategy. Quarterly reporting has long been a cornerstone of market transparency and investor confidence. Reducing reporting frequency would not eliminate short-term thinking. It would simply leave investors with less information for longer periods of time. In fact, less frequent reporting could increase uncertainty, lead to larger earnings surprises, and create greater stock price volatility when information is finally released. Some argue that reducing reports would lower costs for companies. Even if there are modest savings, those savings should be weighed against the cost to investors of reduced transparency and accountability. Public companies benefit from access to public capital markets, and regular disclosure is part of that responsibility. Quarterly reporting helps create a more informed, fair, and efficient market for all investors—not just large institutions with access to management and industry resources. Individual investors should not be asked to accept less information about the companies they own. I urge the SEC to maintain current quarterly reporting requirements.

Olivier Fontana — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Olivier Fontana Things are changing too quickly those days and waiting six months to have an official, documented, update is too long when, in parallel, press, blogs, and so-called "influencers" comment, extrapolate, conjecture or lie based on rumors, shreds of information, or personal profit goals. Investors need more regular truthful reporting.

Ollievette Wade — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Ollievette Wade Less is not best. It is easier to cover up mistakes, mismanagement, and down right theft.

OM Goodness — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: OM Goodness Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why would this even be considered ?
SEC should always protect Investors not the Insiders !!
Every publicly traded business does know daily, weekly, monthly numbers and if any changes are to be made require monthly results be reported each and every month !!
Investors need more critical information, not less real time numbers which reflect success or struggles .
J. Worley

Omobolaji Oshunremi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Omobolaji Oshunremi As an individual investor, I oppose reducing public company reporting from quarterly to semiannual. Timely and transparent information is fundamental to informed investing. Quarterly reporting provides shareholders with regular visibility into a company's performance, strategy execution, risks, and financial health. Reducing disclosures to twice a year would increase information gaps, potentially amplify market volatility when updates are finally released, and disadvantage smaller investors who rely on public filings rather than private access to management. While companies should focus on long-term value creation, less frequent reporting does not solve short-termism. It simply reduces transparency. In today's environment, where technology and AI have significantly improved reporting efficiency, the benefits of maintaining quarterly disclosures outweigh the administrative burden. Strong capital markets depend on trust, transparency, and equal access to information. Quarterly reporting remains an important part of that framework.

Oni Oniana — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Oni Oniana Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Regular people are at such a huge disadvantage in the stock market already, please let us keep our paltry glimpes into what's going on.

Onupwwrd Enterprizes, LLC , Barbara Beatty, owner None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Onupwwrd Enterprizes, LLC , Barbara Beatty, owner I strongly agree with the Motly Fool in OPPOSING changing quarterly business reporting to semi- annual reporting. We MUST maintain transparancy of publically traded companies for ALL size investors, not just the big, already wealthy investors. Those of us who trade and invest need the transparency. Markets change much more rapidly than in the past and so transparency is much more important than ever before, for everyone, the companies theselves, large investors, small investors and the government regulators. This is one form of regulation that is needed! Semi-annually would allow for more corruption and hidden dealings that favor one set of investors over another and would likely result in msny businesses becoming more unethical. Please keep quaererly reporting requirements.

Opal King — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Opal King Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Opal King, I live in Coldwater MI. I and my husband are retired. I don't like this idea at all. I think companies should report quartely, as they do now. Thank you

---

Oratorical Ministry — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Oratorical Ministry Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As with most companies large and small, quarterly reporting ensures accountability and increases public confidence. What are we trying g to hide by going to 6 month disclosure? L. K. JAMES, SUPERVISING PARALEGAL

Oscar De La Puente — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Oscar De La Puente Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need timely reports that bring transparency and prevent fraud. We cannot be blind when it comes to corporate business. It’s just simply anti-democratic, and if this goes through, this will be detrimental to our democracy.

Oscar De La Puente
DC, ESL, Public School Teacher

Sent from my iPhone

---

oswaldo ruiz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: oswaldo ruiz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Let’s stop the corruption and continue the current policy.

Sent from my iPhone

---

otisthaman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: otisthaman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is to much corruption in the US and the world to be lax on this now. Instead of taking away safeguards there should be more ! How long does it take to write a signature ?

Otto Schumacher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Otto Schumacher This is a irresponsible decision to be making and will directly harm the retail investors leading to an increase of scam or fraud securities left unregulated on the market.

Owen Holiday Retail Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Owen Holiday As a retail investor, I believe semi-annual reporting will put the small investor at a disadvantage. I feel quarterly reporting gives the retail investor more up-to-date company information to make better choices about investments. I feel semi-annual reporting is too long of a period for company information to be made public, putting retail investors at a disadvantage. There should be more controls and disclosures on public companies, not less. This is for the financial safety of the average American investor and all investors placing their monies in public companies.

Owen Martin Eager — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Owen Martin Eager Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an investor and consumer I find it quite reprehensible that anyone would entertain a change that protects investors. Investors need transparency to make appropriate decisions before seeking any stock trade. Do not reduce the reporting periods for public corporations and keep quarterly reporting the standard. As a matter of further transparency, monthly reporting would be even better.

-= Owen Martin Eager

P H — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: P H Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Pamela Hudson. Retired. Quarterly reports are essential for investors to make informed decisions as they provide details about a company’s performance and their plans. This transparency is needed in today’s financial markets.

P L Houck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: P L Houck Reporting only twice a year is not sufficient for reporting. Not for the organization and more importantly not for investors.

P. Powell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: P. Powell Less transparency will create obvious problems down the road. Don't change the current notifications.

P. S Russell 111 Do not reduce reporting of Quarterly company finances!...Retired Managing Partner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: P. S Russell 111 More Information not less!! The fed can do whatever they want, they are wrong as much as most financial experts. With AI, companies could report monthly, they probable do report to top management.

P.c. Brandt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: P.c. Brandt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No cut backs ! This is a commitment to LAW ,

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

PA Instruments — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: PA Instruments Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 At 88, and a 60+ year stockholder, quarterly reporting is critical to understanding company progress..PLEASE keep it in place!… Jack Wolfe, Senior Consultant, MOR Associates, Inc., Watertown, MA

Jack Wolfe
MOR Associates, Inc.
jwolfe@morassociates.com
Mobile: (617) 899-1182

Sent from my iPhone

Pablo Albarran The National Association of Personal Financial Advisors (NAPFA) — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pablo Albarran This is a mistake! It makes providing advice and counsel much more difficult for the planner or rep. Ask yourself why do corporations wants less disclosure when it been this way for decades and decades.

Paige Aho — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Paige Aho Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Need to keep reporting quarterly so people can know what's is happening with these companies regularly. It impacts everyone who invests in stocks and twice yearly is not often enough to make important financial decisions about our personal portfolios

Paige

Pam — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Pam Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 DO NOT ALLOW MORE CORRUPTION INTO OUR ECONOMY. DONT GO BACKWARDS

Pam — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pam Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY!!!!!
DO NOT CHANGE !

Pam .H — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pam .H Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think consumers deserve a regular accounting each quarter,
Do not reduce the frequency of reporting

Pam Allen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Pam Allen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I oppose this bill. There needs to be constant accountability. And I think quarterly filings are the minimum required.

Sincerely,
Pam Allen
Get Outlook for iOS

Pam Bailey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Pam Bailey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Continue providing quarterly reports!
It's our money and our future We deserve to to kept apprised of our accounts.

Pam Burns-Clair — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pam Burns-Clair Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Public companies need to be transparent & ACCOUNTABLE!!

Sent from my iPhone

Pam Chalk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pam Chalk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It needs to remain quarterly so I can monitor my investments. Thank you.

Sent from my iPhone

Pam DiLorenzo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Pam DiLorenzo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
This is reckless & I will not stand behind it!

Pam Hartwell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Pam Hartwell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting for CEOs. We need more oversight of the people fleecing our country!!

Pam Hartwell
La Crescent, MN

Pam Maloy None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pam Maloy We need to have more transparency on the companies we have a partial ownership in, not less.

Pam Mattson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pam Mattson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am retired and depend on my IRA and investments to supplement my social security. If I have to wait six months before making changes vs quarterly could have a detrimental affect on my income and savings. Quarterly is preferred. Pam Mattson

Sent from my iPad

Pam Moss — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pam Moss Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Already corporate heads make obscene amounts of money but the people who did the work are scraping by doesn't make sense. And now hide information the helps families make good decisions. WRONG

Pam Moss
Ca BRE 00451292

Pam Munck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Pam Munck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am concerned about the return to semiannual reports by large companies. Reporting quarterly helps all concerned stay aware of what is happening across the different companies and decide whether to continue investing in each company. Please vote no on this change.

Pamela K. Munck

Pam Munck — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Pam Munck Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am concerned about the return to semiannual reports by large companies. Reporting quarterly is a way for all concerned to be aware of what is happening across the different companies and to know if they want to continue investing in that company. Please vote no on this change.

Pamela K. Munck

Pam Munck
Fort Myers FL

Pam Royal — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pam Royal Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Continue quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Pam Salem — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Pam Salem Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reports required. Accountability is sadly still required.

Pam Salem

Pam Taylor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pam Taylor Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely no! Do not let corporations hurt people for a greater profit.
Pamela Taylor
Thirty five years of teaching

Sent from my iPhone

Pam Turner — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Pam Turner Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the reporting at its current quarterly reporting status. When public filings go quiet, big institutions and insiders still find ways to gauge how a company is doing. It is the everyday investor, working from what is public, who gets left in the dark.

Sent from my iPhone

Pam Wyche — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pam Wyche Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY!!! NO MORE ENRONS!!
PROTECT CONSUMERS NOT CRIMINALS!

---

pamela anderson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: pamela anderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This idea isn't old. It didn't work last time. What does Walk Street think we are? Stupid? No. Be transparent! Do not fool around again. Wall Street is never rich or big enough. Greed never wins long term. We the people say no.

Sent from my iPhone

Pamela Bray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Pamela Bray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do NOT fall in line! The is no need for what amounts to a 6 month black out and free ride for the corrupt.

Pamela Cline — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Pamela Cline Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
How can you possibly justify this? How much are YOU getting out of this proposal? Just STOP IT! Quit screwing over the people that really matter.

Pamela Fairley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pamela Fairley More information is better. Please don’t reduce the number of reports required each year. A lot can happen in 6 months.

Pamela Gingold Personal Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pamela Gingold Reducing SEC reporting requirements to twice a year will weaken investors ability to assess the health of publicly trading companies on a timely basis. I am against this change.

Pamela Hill — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Pamela Hill Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
As an American citizen and investor, I request that you do not continue with the new proposal to end quarterly reporting. I expect and deserve clarity and transparency. This proposal we have a negative effect and give far too much power to those CEOs and corporate leaders.... making it easier for misappropriation of funds and worse.

Thank you, Pamela Hill

Pamela J. Hansel, CPA, MST, EA Motley Fool Member & Personal Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pamela J. Hansel, CPA, MST, EA I am writing to encourage you to preserve greater transparency for investors by maintaining the quarterly reporting requirements for public companies. I fully understand the resource challenges of quarterly reporting as I was part of that process for the latter half of my career. Further, I am aware that quarterly reporting can encourage short term focus by management, which is not what retail investors like myself are interested in. However, to reduce reporting to only twice per year means we are no longer getting current information about how the business is doing, whether be the product pipeline or major customers or even macro and geo-political impacts. On balance, the value to the investing community of the quarterly transparency significantly outweighs the burden on companies. If they want our investing dollars, they should be required to ensure current and transparent financial reporting and earnings disclosures. Thank you for your time and consideration of this critical issue.

Pamela Just None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pamela Just Owning shares in a business is just that - being an owner. How can an owner manage without timely information? In addition, most companies have this quarterly reporting process down to a science. Reducing reporting from quarterly to semiannual won’t reduce staff either. I am opposed to a reduction in reporting requirements. Thank you.

Pamela K Prats — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pamela K Prats Do not make this change. Any one with an ounce of common sense who be horrified at the thought.

Pamela Lass — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pamela Lass Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My husband and I depend on Social Security and our retirement accounts (deferred compensation and stocks) to see us through our lifetime. It is very important that there be quarterly reporting for us to be up to date with the markets and make financial decisions. DO NOT change to bi-annual reporting! You will be hurting us and millions of U.S. citizens if you do that. Times are tough enough as it is. Sincerely, William and Pamela Lass, Port Jervis, NY 12771

Pamela Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Opinion on Quarterly Reporting From: Pamela Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Pamela Miller, retired, quarterly reporting allows an evaluation to adjust based on financial climate. 6 months is too long! I don't have access to behind the scenes events. Don't deny insider trading doesn't exist. 6 months will cripple us smaller investors.

Pamela Pattillo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Pamela Pattillo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
More accountability, transparency. Not less.

Pamela R Spevack — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pamela R Spevack Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It looks like you want to change reporting and even though it's working well.
No changes needed. Find something else to play with.
Pamela Spevy, let's not make things worse, I have been in business and every little lie adds up to a big one.

Pamela Richmond — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pamela Richmond I am a long-tme investor, as well as a long-term investor. I prefer to receive quarterly reports (as opposed to bi-annual)! I believe this helps keep these publicly exchanged companies motivated and a little more transparent. I agree with the Motley Fool position.

Pamela Scott — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: KEEP IT QUARTERLY From: Pamela Scott Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 How dare you keep doing things that hurt the average Americans. We refuse to have this Administration do additional harm to taxpayers, who are barely getting by now. KEEP IT QUARTERLY! from AOL on Android

---

PAMELA SIMMONS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: PAMELA SIMMONS Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This matters to me and probably every single person who is trying to stay solvent (and informed) in their retirement (or pre-retirement building). Quarterly information gives us somewhat of a sense of what is going on. A few pennies saved on your end will likely cost me a great deal more. I am retired, but still trying to make ends meet. Please DO NOT change the reporting period to anything less than quarterly. DO THE RIGHT THING!

Warmest regards, pbs

Dr. Pamela B. Simmons
PhD, APRN (ret.), FNP-BC, CNE

Pamela Solberg — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Pamela Solberg Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm an investor, Sarbanes-

Oxley is not a suggestion, and reporting should be kept quarterly and keep the CEO's accountable.

Respectfully,

Pamela Solberg

Pamela Tames — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pamela Tames As a 3-decade long investor, it's hard enough getting objective information about markets. Now you want to curtail it? Just goes to show who you protect--not the individual investor (and voter) but the corporations and now can hide even more. Don't do this.

Pamela Taormina — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pamela Taormina Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change the rules now. Leave it quarterly.

Sent from my iPhone

Pamela Vasquez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Pamela Vasquez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting system. I don’t want too lose a chunk of my life savings due to the lack of transparency by these companies.

Get Outlook for iOS

Pamela Winfrey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pamela Winfrey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 More time in the dark? I say NOOOOOOO!

Sent from my iPad

Pamela Yaeger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Pamela Yaeger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is important that quarterly reporting continues. Stockholders need to know how the company they have invested in is doing more than twice a year.

Pamela Yaeger, retired

Sent from my iPhone

Pamela Zahorik — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pamela Zahorik Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Can't you people do Anything to benefit your consumers. We have put more money in your pockets than you need. And you want MORE? People are dying of starvation and unable to buy medication. I refuse to do business with you assholes anymore!

Parita Shukla Financial Advisory — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Parita Shukla Less information doesn't create better decision making power and will in fact introduce more volatility in the market. If genuine financial information will not be available to make decisions, it will promote an even more gambling oriented market.

Parris Hawkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Parris Hawkins Please continue to require quarterly financial reporting for publicly traded companies. As investors we need information on how the companies we own are doing. Too much can change in 6 months to switch to this type of reporting. Also, publicly traded companies use computer systems to track their financials. Closing books quarterly is only a modest extra effort compared to every 6 months.

Parswanathan Udayanan Motley fool financial community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Parswanathan Udayanan My name is Parswanathan Udayanan. I am part of the Motley fool financial community. I am in favor of maintaining quarterly reporting for companies on US exchanges. I believe this helps in transparency and help the investors make informed decision about their investments.

Partin The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Partin Maintain quarterly reporting to increase company transparency and investor involvement

---

pat — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: pat Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Pat Culotti, self employed & semi retired. This is going to hurt small investors who are counting on trades for retirement. Please do NOT favor insider trading!!
This feels wrong and unfair.

Sent from my Galaxy

Pat & Jim Wamhoff — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: SEC - Quarterly Reporting . From: Pat & Jim Wamhoff Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It costs money to change the rules, so why bother? This nonsensical rule change will be undone once we are rid of Trump & Co. The people are paying attention now and so should you.

Pat A. Wilson Aarp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pat A. Wilson I feel transparency in financial matters, particularly stocks, demands full and frequent transparency in order for people to have the latest information possible to make their best financial decisions. Four times a year is minimal in my eyes and should be reduced at all.

Pat Beauregard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pat Beauregard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly!

Pat Danzing — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pat Danzing Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear, Sir or Madam, Please continue to keep the cooperations reporting quarterly on the business platforms. As investors we should know what the quarterly report is so we can make an educated decision. Thank you, Patricia Danzing Owner Operator
772-480-8387

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Pat Denny-Diget — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pat Denny-Diget Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 For the sake of people of all ages, please keep the quarterly reporting.

Pat Diget — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pat Diget Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 For the sake of people of all ages, please keep the quarterly reporting.

We are retired and 80 and 88 yrs if age. Our retirement depends on transparency

---

Pat Donahue — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Pat Donahue Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear Secretary,

I am concerned that anyone is thinking of going backwards and deciding reporting only twice a year is to our benefit. We have done that and it failed. The change to do quarterly reporting came due to companies attempting to hide. Having quarterly reporting should not be just a requirement but an absolute necessity to prevent scandals such as the one that brought about quarterly reporting. Transparency demands it.

Patricia Donahue
Consultant
Massachusetts

Sent from my iPhone

Pat Dowler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pat Dowler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Patricia Dowler, retired Administrator for CSC Consulting. As a retired widow I need stability in my finances, keeping quarterly reporting is definitely my choice.

Sent from my iPhone

Pat Duchien — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Pat Duchien Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Even with quarterly reporting corporations have the ability to move numbers around but it's much more likely to be caught in audit than it would be with twice yearly audit.
SEC protect the American public and your own reputations regarding impropriety by keeping quarterly reporting!

Pat Goodrich — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pat Goodrich Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 SEC needs to ramp up it's mission statement to include Partners In Fraud. So those folks who lost everything because they trusted this institution was such a lucrative jackpot that it's time to fleece a new generation?
Meredith Patricia Goodrich
Citizen of the United States of America

Pat H — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pat H Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a retired respiratory therapist, spending more than 43 yrs. helping others, who now relies on my retirement accounts. I need to know what those investments are doing at least on a quarterly basis. Do not allow companies to keep their investors in the dark by returning to only twice yearly reporting. That will invite corruption, and further allow insider trading by the well-connected. Voters want oversight, and we question why the SEC would even consider allowing this. A reckoning will come, and you at the SEC need to stay on the correct side of this issue!

Pat Hursh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pat Hursh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Certainly do not report less often. If more reporting makes it harder to get away with fraud, then they should be reporting monthly, like assistance programs and workman's compensation.
Fair is fair.

Sent from my iPhone

Pat Kierstyn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pat Kierstyn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Pat Kierstyn, Director ACHS, saying that the SEC should ABSOLUTELY NOT make this change! I want to keep it Quarterly! Corruption will only get worse otherwise!

Pat Matis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pat Matis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I prefer to keep a closer eye on my investments. Six months is just too long and allows for too much opportunity for my money to disappear.

Pat McFarland — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Pat McFarland Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: I require quarterly reporting so as to manage my retirement funds properly.

Pat Metzing — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pat Metzing Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop trying to lie cheat and steel from investors

---

PAT OLSON — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: PAT OLSON Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Every 6 months is unacceptable to me and my family's financial futures. My accounts have to support me the rest of my life and 6 months could put my investments in jeopardy as a bad move on the company's part could wipe out huge amounts of my retirement investments. Keep it at quarterly.

Sent from my iPad

---

pat roos — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: pat roos Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 keep quarterly reporting. there is evidence that this helps us know what is happening, and helps businesses do a better job monitoring what is going on. History has already shown that less reporting is a bad idea

---

Pat Sellers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pat Sellers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You have got to be kidding! This is absolutely outrageous! I can't believe you are even entertaining this. Pull yourselves together.

Pat Welsh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Pat Welsh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I am a retired professor of nursing. Quarterly reporting is how the "regular people" like my husband and I get an idea how investments are doing and allow us to plan our expenditures and savings. Also, in an era of corporate dishonesty, quarterly reporting allows for transparency with the public and with competitors.

Pat Whalen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pat Whalen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I support keeping the disclosure period quarterly.

Pat White — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pat White Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is a must! Keep quarterly reports!

Pat

Aspire to inspire before you expire

Pat Wrisley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pat Wrisley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Common sense

Pat Wrisley
512 983 8857

---

patandlarry pagsview.us — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: patandlarry pagsview.us Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a 78 year-old great grandmother and I have had enough of this deterioration of the nation that I love. I am sick and tired of corporations and their leadership getting away with lies and fraud. They must be held accountable. The SEC must not capitulate to the Trump mafia. You work for me and are paid by me and people like me; YOU DO NOT SERVE D.J. TRUMP!

Pat Pagendarm, Retired
Garden Valley, CA

---

patduchien — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: patduchien Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Karen Duchien retired from Corporate Retail multiple companies, auditing expenses & construction costs working closely with executives and controllers. It is ludicrous to even consider reducing the required reporting. Even with quarterly reporting I have witnessed attempts to twist and "cook the books" so to speak. Are there some SEC officials who may have CEO's/CFO's in their back pockets? Protect your reputation s and the American public by not downplaying the importance of quarterly verifiable reporting.

Sent from my Galaxy

---

patrice carlisle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: patrice carlisle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP THe Financials of companies quarterly reported not 6 months. I own stock and I should know how the companies I invest in are doing their job. Patrice ProulxCarlisle 2134 4th Lane Big Bear Ca 92314

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Patrice LaBelle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patrice LaBelle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Patrice; retired; I'm a senior and I live on a fixed income. I do not need my investment savings in jeopardy by the government making the rules easier. This could easily lead to issues like we had with Enron. Stop giving the wealthy "get out of jail cards". Quarterly is not a big deal. Please leave it at quarterly.

Patrice Plenert — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-22 From: Patrice Plenert Quarterly reports are essential to competent business management.

Patricia — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patricia Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is no need to change the system as reporting every 4 quarters is the right way to go.
Pat DiMaggio, retired

Patricia A Zappel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Patricia A Zappel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
As a stock holder and retired person I am demanding you Keep Quarterly Reporting to allow investors to keep our portfolio's up to date and transparent.
Patricia Zappel

Patricia Albrecht — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Albrecht Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
You MUST keep quaterly reporting.
Unfortunately there are bad actors that would take advantage of the longer lapses in timed reporting.
I rely on the quaterly reports to ensure that my investments are on track or need adjusting.

Respectfully, Patricia Albrecht

Patricia Allen-La Fleur — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Allen-La Fleur Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
They should not only be convicted, sent to prison and their assets should be confiscated.

Patricia Atwood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Atwood As investor and thus part owner of a company regular information is required for better decisions and provide more transparency. I strongly oppose the proposal to allow companies to reduce the public-company reports from four times a year to just two.

Patricia Bailey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Bailey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why the roll back? There should be nothing to hide. Let's keep honest ceo's honest and drain the swamp of all the others.

Patricia Barraclough — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patricia Barraclough Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 For the economic health of the country and the American people, we need to have this financial information made available at least 4 times a year. Things can happen too fast in the financial world and delay of necessary information can be disastrous.
Patricia Barraclough
Educator

Patricia Bartu-Whitley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patricia Bartu-Whitley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Patricia Whitley retired. With all the cuts to ssi med. Care now u want to make it harder for regular people to follow the stock market giving the money even more of a edge. Keep americans in the dark so the money can inside trade even more than they already, are. What happened to all man is created equal. That seems to have been a line from a long lost comedy cause there sure isnt any truth about it anymore.

Patricia Bartu-Whitley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patricia Bartu-Whitley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Patricia Whitley retired. With all the cuts to ssi med. Care now u want to make it harder for regular people to follow the stock market giving the money even more of a edge. Keep americabs in the dark so the. Can inside trade even more than they already, are. What happened to all man is equal. That seems to have been a line from a comedy cause there sure isnt any truth about it anymore.

Patricia Burns — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Burns Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I think it stands to reason you know why we wouldn't want you to do this. It's certainly not gonna benefit us, but it might benefit the wealthy. Nothing is ever done to help the working class. So be it that's my statement and I'm sticking to it. Everything has been done administration

---

Patricia C Deussing — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patricia C Deussing As an active self-investor in as many as 70 different companies, it is imperative that I have timely information regarding the financial health as well as investment information on the companies in which I have invested my money. To make informed decisions regarding financial situations it is necessary to have financial information. Quarterly reports regarding any company's finances or future plans is critical, and anything less leaves the investor at the mercy of the company and in danger of unforseen financial loss. As part of The Motley Fool Community I value the timely information receive regarding my investments in order to help me make financial decisions. Please continue to require that companies keep their information transparent to investors.

Patricia Cappello The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Cappello Semi-annual reporting is insufficient. Investors need and deserve quarterly reporting.

Patricia Clark — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patricia Clark Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting will continue to help keep people honest...like paying quarterly business taxes.

Patricia Collier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Collier In this internet age when changes occur at lightning speed, reducing company reporting requirements is insane. If anything, larger companies should be required to do snapshots of their financial health every other month.

Patricia Cornelius — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Cornelius This is irresponsible and will allow even more Wall Street wrong doing and less transparency. Strongly disapprove of moving to 6 month reporting

---

patricia cowan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: patricia cowan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We want accountability and transparency.bperiodt.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Patricia Dasher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patricia Dasher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This does not benefit We The People,

Sent from my iPad

Patricia Davis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patricia Davis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly at SIX MONTHS please! I am a person who holds many stocks in my portfolio and changing the reporting time would only result in more serious problems.

Patricia Davis, retired

Patricia DeVono — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Patricia DeVono Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Continue to require and protect legal reporting quarterly and yearly. It is my right to have truthful and honest reporting on a regulated schedule with public records available.

---

patricia eby none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: patricia eby none...

Patricia Fisher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patricia Fisher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Necessary Quarterly Reporting to keep everyone's interests open and honest. We need checks and balances to stay informed what is happening with our money.

Sent from my iPhone

Patricia Fries — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patricia Fries Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 All corporations need to be held accountable at least quarterly. Not doing so only benefits the people in the top one-third.
Patricia Fries, MBA

Patricia Isenberg-Fries

Patricia Frisco — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Frisco Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Timely transparency matters!!!

Patricia Fugate — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2016-15 Comment From: Patricia Fugate Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Patricia Emma Fugate. My husband is Douglas Jay Fugate. We are both retired, and we have a small investment portfolio. Our broker is wonderful at watching out for our interests, but he needs to be able to see what's going on more rather than less. People like my husband and I could lose what little we have. That account is our old age account for when one of us needs a nursing home. We're both 71, and we never know when our health will deteriorate to the point where one can't care for the other. Don't change the rules on us now. Reporting must be kept quarterly. Those of us with small investment portfolios can't afford to lose what little we have.

Thank you.

Patricia G Fox — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patricia G Fox Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The market is too volatile for six month reporting. We need to keep quarterly reports. These reports provide a more accurate assessment of strengths or weaknesses. Pat Fox

---

Patricia Galloway — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patricia Galloway Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Given how easy it is to produce reports in the time of instant computer work, there is no reason to reduce the frequency of reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Patricia Gorman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Gorman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Retail investors need clear, accurate and timely information to make informed investment decisions. Insiders and institutional investors will always have the resources and relationships to get the information they need. Without quarterly reporting, retail investors are on an unlevel playing field, with no way to get timely information about public companies. We need quarterly reports

---

Patricia Grace — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patricia Grace Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Accountability is being erased. It is our money too.

Patricia Grace
School teacher

Patricia Hartmann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Hartmann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please do not eliminate quartly reports. I do read them and think we should be given the data. People should know what's going on sooner rather than later.

Patricia Hatton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patricia Hatton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Patricia Hatton, retired. Our economy is not very good today unless you're a millionaire. We need protection and that can only happen with information. Keep these reports quarterly.

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

PATRICIA HAWMAN — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: PATRICIA HAWMAN Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The people do not want this. Quit taking us backwards. Vote Democratic to move forward and vote republican to move backwards.

Sent from my iPhone

Patricia Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patricia Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I require quarterly reports to know if we can travel to see our daughter and grandson in any given time. We need details to plan. Please keep reporting quarterly.

Patricia Jones

Patricia Kirkendall — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patricia Kirkendall Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the SEC,
It is outrageous that this is even being considered! Companies need to report quarterly. No Inside trading. Control greed of these oligarchs!
Patricia Kirkendall

Patricia Laribee — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patricia Laribee Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No reason whatsoever for there to be a change to companies reporting. It actually should be monthly, even quarterly does not provide a full picture. To go to twice per year would be very ridiculous in volatile markets. It would of course hurt the small investor. They have computers why not use them.

Patricia LIKAKIS — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patricia LIKAKIS To whom it may concern: I am against limiting the number of company reports to twice a year. As an investor and as an American citizen, we need MORE transparency with companies, not less. More communication not less. Communication is critical to making sound financial decisions which will benefit us all. Please reconsider this proposal and keep the quarterly reports. Thank you for your consideration.

Patricia Lutton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patricia Lutton Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 WE NEED MORE INFORMATION ABOUT OUR INVESTMENTS, NOT LESS. WHO GAINS IF THEY ONLY HAVE TO MAKE SEMI-ANNUAL REPORTS? NOT THE PEOPLE!!!

Sent from my iPad

Patricia Mayne-Schlachtun — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patricia Mayne-Schlachtun Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I want quarterly reporting to continue. I want to know how the companies are doing that I have invested in on a continual quarterly basis. Why remove this rule now?

Thanks, Pat

---

patricia mazza — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: patricia mazza Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 For Gods Sake Do The Right Thing !
Transparency! Honesty ! Integrity! We Don't Have To Be Assholes To Survive

Patricia Mazza
Compass Rose Tattoo
Hudson River Tattoo
Brooklyn Tattoo

Patricia Mesman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Mesman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 They are trying to steal money by not having quarterly reporting. Everything has to be regulated

Sent from my iPhone

Patricia Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patricia Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yes keep quarterly reporting. Social worker. Patricia Miller. Businesses need to pay their share of taxes and not hide from responsibility.

Sent from my iPhone

Patricia Newkirk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Newkirk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to quit catering to white collar crime.

Patricia noneya — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patricia noneya Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an attorney, an investor and a citizen public companies and that is the key word; public, must report quarterly. Anything less allows for more shady deceit. Already expenses like multi million jets used for the CEO are buried as ordinary capital expense while employees are laid off. We should have fuller more robust reporting, not less. Shame if you pass this.

Pat Kruger
New Jersey voter

Patricia O'Hora — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Patricia O'Hora Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Urging you on behalf of Stakeholders such as myself, who have savings and retirement at risk--to refrain from changing SEC rules and eliminates quarterly reporting in favor of a 6month blackout. Transparency is needed, not further risky obfuscation. This will be harmful especially to small businesses and small investors. Please do not do this. Patricia O' Hora

---

Patricia Prewitt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patricia Prewitt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Protect quarterly reporting ! This is another move to protect companies and the wealthy only - not regular hard working people who work doing regular jobs. So much is already hidden from the public . This is yet another wicked policy change and you know it .

Sent from my iPhone

Patricia Proctor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patricia Proctor Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why wouldn't they want the public to know how the market is going? That seems like you want us to fail. EXPLAIN!!! This is NOT what I expect our Government to let happen. FIX IT NOW 🇺🇲

Patricia Smolsky — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Smolsky Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Please don't do this. With all of the money wasted by our govt, mainly the president, he's not the one that will lose all the families worked for. I in Patti isn't was a single mother after 17 years being married and I had to provide every single thing for my daughters. I can't afford to lose more money bc the govt wants it all. I e never made use of govt plans to help the poor and homeless bc I worked for over 40 years in order to be able to retire. It takes all I make to live a decent life and take my grandchildren out to dinner here and there. All this give fire is hurt the people of the US, and it's disgusting that a liar can get away with so much? Against his own people. He is a monster and wants all the money and oil. Look at the things he has started to try and gain everything. He will not go easy on his own people . If this happens I will keep my money out of circulation so no taxes get paid to buff up his wealth.

Patricia Szymanski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patricia Szymanski Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It seems that the SEC is encouraging companies to insider trading. Fraud comes to mind. This practice is illegal and immoral.

Patricia White-Bingaman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Patricia White-Bingaman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

PATRICIA WIDO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: PATRICIA WIDO Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Pat Wido, Retired Systems Analyst. I believe it's important for continued quarterly reporting and visibility to ensure nothing like the Enron debacle happens again. More oversight, not less, is required to keep businesses honest.

Sent from my iPhone

Patricia Willson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Patricia Willson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Do not end Quarterly Reporting! The Stock Market is volatile enough without lengthening the reporting period. The business world runs on Quarters: paying payroll taxes, estimated tax payments, heck, even changing the air filters in rental properties!

---

patriciaa93 — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: patriciaa93 Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is needed for transparency.

Sent from my Galaxy

Patrick Bennett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patrick Bennett Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 why would you want to repeat other countries mistakes ?. we want America to be a leader again not a follower . leaders set examples of how things are done right. followers sre crippled for years trying to recover because they're stubborn. do it right the first time and save yourself the pain of being a follower. quarterly reporting is good common sense. especially when it comes to holding people and companies accountable for their actions or lack thereof. that's the only way to win.

Patrick Brennan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patrick Brennan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why is a publicly held company allowed to potentially mislead investors, aka the public that buys their stock, for 6 months? That seems contradictory to established law, the decision made in Dodge vs Ford back in the early 1900's, where companies were required to act in the best interest of their investors and provide a return on investment. This law does not help encourage that. Business investments require risks, yes, but being allowed to hide those risks and not having to be transparent with those risks in a timely manner inhibits any real informed consent to take on those risks.

-Patrick Brennan
Sent from my iPhone, please excuse any grammatical errors.

Patrick Crisler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patrick Crisler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting should not be replaced. In this ever increasing fast paced world it is more important than ever to keep current information available.

Sent via the Samsung Galaxy S25+, an AT&T 5G smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Patrick Cullen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patrick Cullen Keep the reporting periods as they are. If it’s not broke do not break it. I have absolutely no faith that Trump or anyone in his administration know what they are doing other than trying every angle to line their own pockets.

Patrick DAngelo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patrick DAngelo I am opposed to the proposal, now on the table, to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I believe this reduced communication to stockholders would be detrimental to the market. As a stockholder, I want more information regarding the details on the operations of the company, not less.

Patrick Decker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Patrick Decker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is absolutely imperative that quarterly reporting is RETAINED for ALL corporate and business entities, to avoid the type of corruption and fraud that occurred during the Enron scandal. I am a retired data engineer who has worked with business data processing and analysis for over 50 years. Strict, mandatory and regular reporting, auditing and thorough Analysis of ALL daily, weekly, monthly and annual financial and accounting data is the PRIMARY method of preventing rampant FRAUD!

Respectfully and urgently,

Patrick W. Decker
Dob: 10/19/1949
Pflugerville, TX 78660

Patrick Dougherty — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patrick Dougherty Our entire financial system is based on TRUST. How strange to change a longstanding policy with the potential to diminish trust, especially at a time when all institutions are facing a loss of trust. Suggestion: Make the switch optional for a trial period to determine reaction from financial institutions and the public.

Patrick Getsinger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Patrick Getsinger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 we need more, much more accounting from these people. Do your job, protect our democracy and the citizens.

Sent from my iPad

Patrick Irestone CEO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patrick Irestone Reduced reporting from 4 times/year to 2 times/year is not recommended by me or my organization. It is not investor friendly - and with so many risks today - more transparency is needed.

Patrick K. Steinbach — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Patrick K. Steinbach Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Accountablity must include EVERYONE! Especially those at the top. they are supposed to set the satndard.

Patrick M McPharlin Retired CEO of Credit Union. And Past Director of State of Michigan Dept of Finance and Insurance — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patrick M McPharlin I am strongly against reducing the corporate filings to only twice a year. Complete and accurate reporting are central to investors buying stock. As a past Director of Michigan's regulatory agency I saw first hand that up to date accurate information is essential to the fair and honest operation of the USA's economy.

Patrick McCarthy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patrick McCarthy As an individual investor, I rely on frequent reports on my investments to keep abreast with trends and news affecting investments. Reducing the reporting requirements is not only foolish but can lead to manipulation of the facts to present a better than reality picture of how my investments are performing. I think of myself as a part owner of each company where I invest money. Please tell me how investors can track the performance of investments with less information.

Patrick McGovern — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patrick McGovern When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

Patrick Moran — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Patrick Moran Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
my name is Patrick Moran and although just an average 40 year-old hard-working citizen that does not read normal average quarterly reports yet. I still use them when Trading for a brief check up on how the companies are doing before investing some of money. It helps me determine what kind of a company it would be even having the quarterly reports. There shows me that a structured well organized company is trying to be transparent with the public people without those you're just letting chaos rain and anarchy what would be there to stop them from manipulating the market and getting away with it, it's so hard to stop anybody from manipulating stuff now that is happening right underneath your noses and you can't see it unless you're involved I urge you to reconsider taking another look at the people closest to you from my experience. The people that are wanting to hide are the ones that have something to hide you know how good the person may seem Money seems to bring the worst at everybody depending on the amount of money any good person could turn bad and we owe it to our future generations to not let the world or something so important like the new currency for the New World, be established and ran by somebody under false pretenses are corruption. Is that the kind of world that you wanna let your kids grow up to and inherit if they inherit a problem, they're gonna have a problem and they're not the best generation so we might need to fix it before we give it to him. I urge you to consider all aspects as in a non-bias manner, and ask yourself why would somebody even propose such a thing? What are they hiding? What are they trying to hide? Patrick Moran

---

Patrick Oberlander — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patrick Oberlander Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Wrong. Go to reporting 6 times a year so, as investors, we have more info. Not less.

Pat “Rednalrebo” Oberlander
Sent from the oPhone

Patrick Perini Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patrick Perini Against the proposed changes. Stay with quarterly reports for investors

---

Patrick Skiba — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Patrick Skiba Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The operations of the Stock Market are a literal den of thieves in the eyes of the general public. Keep the reporting requirements to deter any abuse of the system.

Patrick Steinbach — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Patrick Steinbach Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Accountablity must include EVERYONE! Especially those at the top. they are supposed to set the satndard.

Patrick Stewart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patrick Stewart Semiannual Reporting is for fools and should not be passed. Less information is not more and only benefit no one and could promote more bad behavior. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own.

Patrick Stover — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patrick Stover 6 month reporting is a gift to inside trading criminals, which fits the current grift by our president to the degree the initiative is a transparent agenda that warrants investigation into every supporter.

Patrick T. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Patrick T. Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Total BULL ****

Patsy Flowers — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Patsy Flowers Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am a retired customer service representative for a company that sold textbooks and the wife of pastor. I live in Colfax, Indiana. I believe that with freedom comes responsibility. That means both from the people and from those who govern. From the the wealthy and the poor. Business owner are not exempt. Businesses only prosper because of the sacrifice of the workers. Workers deserve respect and honesty for their labors. CEOs have a moral responsibility to be transparent and law abiding.

Patti Atlas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patti Atlas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This involves me because I'm an American citizen, and it affects my income. I'm retired, so if there's no money in Federal accounts, Social Security gets cut. I worked my entire adult life, and paid in. That's my money you're playing with. Don't let people with inside info make money on that. That's my income you're playing with.
Patti Atlas

Patti Damesworth — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Patti Damesworth Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Patricia H Damesworth, private citizen and investor in the stock market, Waverly, Tennessee. I was a younger investor when Enron and WorldCom were the “big things” to invest in. I lost all of the money I invested in WorldCom. I’m now 67 and don’t have time to recover from a big loss or funds to invest and LOSE due to fraud. Keep the laws the way they are. Hold CEOs accountable four times a year. Keep it Quarterly.

Respectfully,
Patricia H Damesworth

Patti Gay — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patti Gay Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep them quarterly!

Sent from my iPad

Patti Guffey Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patti Guffey Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Six months is toooo long to go between reports. KEEP IT QUARTERLY!

Sent from Gmail Mobile 😎

Patti Holston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Patti Holston Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Too many execs will involve themselves in shady practices if quarterly reporting is stretched to semi-annual. This will give time for cover-up of questionable activities. There is no benefit to the general public or the economy from changing the schedule. Quarterly reporting must remain in place. Patti Holston, VP of Ops.

Patti Moe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Patti Moe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep the laws on this as they are. It is working for the people.

Sent from my iPad

Patti Stanton The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patti Stanton I have watched over the years as investing has grown - and I consider this positive growth - from being an opportunity for the rich, to an opportunity for every day people to have better opportunities to grow their money than just savings accounts or CD's with minimal returns. As a teacher who had gotten back into the profession at almost 40, I couldn't imagine working all the way to retirement (thank God for Kentucky Teachers' Retirement!) and began to invest pretax dollars into a 403(b). I was able to start small and grow my money into a decent amount that has ended up in a traditional IRA that has grown by leaps and bounds. That growth is due to taking advice from The Motley Fool (TMF). I learned a lot from them, but did not have the time to do the level of research on companies that they did and still do. I depend on that research and analysis to make decisions with my money and so far, my IRA has beaten the pants off of the S&P 500! Their ability to give such good advice depends in large part on the reporting requirements of the SEC. I depend on those reports personally, but also take the advice/analysis offered by TMF. To limit that reporting schedule to twice a year would be a huge mistake and not benefit anyone. I own a small piece of a large number of businesses, and I believe they should continue to report quarterly. Any less is unfair to the every day investor - and there are lots of us! Thank you for opening this and considering my comments! ~ Patti

---

PattiAnn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: PattiAnn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 P Ryan - retired. We need to continue reporting quarterly, because investors simply have a right to know. Quarterly reporting also instills at least SOME confidence in our system.

Sent from Proton Mail for Android.

Pattie Monroe — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pattie Monroe Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yes!!

Patty Bechstein — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Patty Bechstein Please don't let them reduce their reports to only twice a year. Investors deserve to be kept better informed than that.

Patty Jackson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Patty Jackson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This should be kept to 3 months reporting. I agree that more fraud would take place and people would lose much more than they should be. Thank you. Patty Jackson, laborer, matters because I want to see what these people are doing for the people and not just themselves.

Patricia Jackson

Paul A — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul A I agree that less information will create more volatility in the markets and not help keep the transparency. That said traders also need to stop panicking because estimates are missed and selling off stock based on that. Traders themselves create the issues with public opinion about companies and have a certain level of responsibility not to overreact. When people hear a stock plummeted it slowly erodes consumer confidence.

Paul Albertson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Albertson This move to semi-annual reporting would definitely hurt transparency, regardless of AI.

Paul Arveson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Arveson In these days of high volatility in the markets, and with the rapid changes in governmental policies and turnover of staff, it is more necessary than ever for investors like me to have current information. A delay from quarterly to biannual reporting would leave investors more confused and lead to more uncertainty and fear than ever. Investors might even opt to leave the markets if they are not trusted and up to date. Please do not make this change in policy.

Paul Basenfelder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Basenfelder I believe that companies should have to report quarterly instead of biannually. This will keep companies accountable to perform better for the shareholders and it will give investors the information they need to make sound decisions about their investments.

Paul Beswetherick None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Beswetherick Investors need 4 regular quarterly reports. I do not support any change to less frequent reporting

---

Paul Borcherding Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Borcherding Please do not reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Less reporting is not beneficial to the investor. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Leave the number of reports at the current level of four. Thanks for your consideration of my preference on this matter.

Paul Boucher Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Boucher As a shareholder in multiple companies I am against allowing companies to to report important information to shareholders two times a year instead of the current four years.

Paul Brokaw — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Brokaw Please, keep the reports quarterly. I believe transparency and accountability are crucial to all investors, the more, the better

---

Paul Buntz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Buntz I am opposed to semiannual reports and prefer quarterly reports in the interest of transparency and keeping investors informed.

Paul Chambers Labor Organizer, CTA — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Chambers I am appalled that quarterly reporting of finances is under attack. As an investor I rely on timely, accurate reports to safeguard my money. Quarterly reporting is a minimum requirement in my mind as maximum transparency makes a level playing field. Semi annual reporting is a solution to a problem that DOES NOT exist. Semi annual reporting creates too much opportunity for corporate entities to hide loses and poor decision making.

Paul Collier Individual The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Collier Individual I do not believe this ruling would benefit individual investors like myself. I work for a large group of companies, each company hold monthly section meetings and a quarterly company meeting to discuss all parts of the business, these reports are then sent into the main holding company who study all the reports to see new trends etc, this information and can change policy, projects etc if required. Without this I do not believe the company would be moving forward so quickly. Its exactly the same for investors, we need to know what is happening within the busineses invested in so we can make decisions if we want to invest more or less, with less reporting by the time we recieve the information it may be too late to make the decisions.

Paul Downing Gillen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Downing Gillen Opposed. A travesty.

Paul Fein — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Fein This reduction in reporting is a mistake and should not pass. Reducing transparency increases investor risk and mitigating risk should be the role of the SEC!

Paul Flanagan The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Flanagan I strongly urge that we continue with Quarterly Reports and maintain visibilty to current results and any changes to the businesses that I have invested in. This type of legislation further disadvantages retail investors who may not have the easy access to information.

Paul Fordenbacher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Fordenbacher Please retain the current policy of quarterly reporting. As an individual investor, I need the transparency of quarterly reports and guidance from corporate leadership in order to make informed investments. I cannot rely on retail news for my investing guidance. With AI, the burden on a corporation to produce quarterly reports is greatly reduced, and therefore, the argument of reduced costs associated with bi-annual reporting is not persuasive. Thank you for your consideration of the needs of individual investors.

Paul Francis Kuttukaran The Motley fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Francis Kuttukaran Against reduction in reporting frequency, it makes it less transparent.

PAUL G TAROS Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: PAUL G TAROS If a company is publicly trade it must report to shareholders at least 4 times a year. Anything less and the company should not be publicly traded.

Paul G. Dussault — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul G. Dussault I think the change in reporting company results semi-annually is a bad idea. Public companies reporting quarterly must settle their books quickly after the close of the quarter. I want to know quarterly how the businesses I invest in are doing so that I can buy or sell accordingly. Not knowing for 6 months gives a lot of opportunity for whisper rumors to cause wild stock price swings which is not good for the market and the individual investors.

Paul Gavazzi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Gavazzi I am greatly concerned with recent moves to reduce the number of public-company reports. I, as an individual value investor, rely greatly on these quarterly reports and allowing for semi-annual reporting will decrease retail investor's options to measure value. This is another example of the recent fast track/fast entry that negatively impacts investor's such as myself! Paul W Gavazzi pwgavazzi@gmail.com 443-812-5715

Paul Giraldi Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Giraldi Any legislation that Decreases Corporate Transparency is simply a Very Bad Idea !! It by definition permits a more 'cloaked and hidden' operation, and that is by definition the polar opposite of the absolute need for timely and accurate operational and financial disclosure, these responsibilities being imperative for any PUBLIC company. This is an open invitation to malevolence and fraud, period !!, no matter its disguise, of which there is far too much of today, corporate shenanigans being prolific. It further separates the 'one percenters' from the '99 percenters'... of course, the truth is, the one tenth of one percenters, from a country increasingly becoming 'privatized', by the special interests of gigantic companies. Shielding PUBLIC companies from openness, via less frequent discloser, essentially is a step toward privatization of public ownership, at its root it is a terrible and quite frankly disgusting suggestion. Lack of disclosure MAKES OUR COUNTRY LESS FREE, and even More Susceptible to Corporate Corruption, of which unfortunately, is all too prevalent on Wall Street in the first place. Never in our country's history has so much wealth been controlled by so few. It is propositions like this that are making Americans sad, fearful, and disgusted with the both the government, (who are supposed to regulate), and the corporate lobby groups, that represent corporations and who wish to neuter and lower the supervisory bar on these essential government regulatory entities, who were and are, put in place to protect the public. What then becomes the difference between a centralized government, (where people have no say), and America, (that has a government and it's required agencies, presumably accountable to the people, who bare a special and sacred responsibly OF PROTECTING IT'S CITIZENS, by ensuring and open and honest playing field), and then where this same government and it's agencies, knowingly and deliberately surrenders it's regulatory authority, (and with that, also the public’s trust), to what is essentially a rich and privileged class that are at the seat of power in these public companies? ... Our Supreme Court ruling that gives corporations the rights of a citizen.... corporations that aggregate and sell private information gleaned in essentially nefarious ways... we are going in the wrong direction. Continuing down this road you will end up with a new form of government, a ('Poly-tocracy'), of corporate elites, (a Plutocracy in disguise), supplanting the best interest of the people and their Democratic Republic, by manipulating government, and the agencies of that that government, to essentially surrender their oversight, such that corporate interest and the very small elite class that control them, are able to manipulate the playing field of the nation to enrich themselves at the expense of the public, masquerading as a Representative Democratic Republic, but is in fact nothing of the kind. AS HAS BEEN POINTED OUT BY OTHERS, IN THIS AGE OF 'AI', WHERE INFORMATION IS SUPPOSEDLY SO QUICKLY ACCESSIBLE; THIS REALITY THEN MAKES ANY PROPOSED LEGISLATION/RULE CHANGES,

THAT REDUCE CORPORATE ACCOUNTABILITY OF PUBLICLY OWNED COMPANIES, (TO ITS VERY OWNERS) AN OUTRAGEOUS PROPOSITION. PLEASE DO NOT ALLOW THIS RULE CHANGE!!

Paul Grisanti — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Paul Grisanti Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is critical to maintainging the trust of the American Investor and Consumer. No breaks for Fraudsters!

Paul Grisanti
310-505-5006

---

paul hawton retired professional engineer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: paul hawton The whole concept of semi annual reporting leaves me with a sick feeling in my stomach. FIRST - I will personnally be much less interested in investing in the stock market. SECOND- If there is "not good" information available that I won't get until late, then I will probably be hurt more than necessary. THIRD - It leaves the door wide open for unethical management to benefit at my expense. FORTH - This is about as stupid as taking the police off duty for long periods of time. Yours Sincerely, The Motley Fool Community

---

Paul Hofstaedter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Hofstaedter As a stockholder/ owner of more than 70 companies individually and hundreds via funds I oppose the semiannual reporting rule. Please continue quarterly reporting so we may be informed and invest intelligently.

Paul Hubbell none — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Hubbell Too much can change in 6 months and I would like to keep the quarterly reports, as this enables me to keep current with my investment and minimize any surprises that could disrupt my investments. Quarterly reports are a good thing, don't mess with that.

Paul Hughes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Paul Hughes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I’m pretty sure that there are some good people out there that know that this is a terrible idea because of the corruption that seems to be spreading like a virus through corporations government and drive industry… Perhaps it was always there and we’ve just exposing it more, but you know this is a bad idea anytime you don’t have to be responsible and can hide something to your own game. Someone probably does… Please don’t pass this.

Sent from my iPhone

Paul Huth — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Huth This proposal is a terrible idea. There is no reason why companies should be allowed to file reports semiannually. Investors need to be informed about the securities they own. If anything, reports should be filed more frequently. This proposal invites corruptness and ultimately undermines investor confidence.

PAUL J AMOROSO Self Employed Physician — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: PAUL J AMOROSO This makes little sense to me. It is not an undue burden on a company to be accountable with quarterly data on their companies. This should be required to trade on the public markets

---

Paul J McKenna The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul J McKenna I am against limiting the number of corporate filings to two per year. Transparency is needed by the investment community and quarterly filings has served well over time.

Paul Kendall Motley Fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Kendall I prefer more frequent reporting

---

Paul Kilgallen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Kilgallen I thoroughly endorse the comments of The Motley Fool.

Paul Kinscherff Retired Exec. Former Investor relations VP, Boeing. — Jun 23, 2026 Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Kinscherff To the Commissioners and Staff: As a former investor relations VP of a long-cycle company with complex financial statements, I strongly support the SEC's review of disclosure frequency. My core messages are: a) "one size does not fit all" companies; b) twice a year in its current form should be a mandatory minimum; c) additional recurring disclosures ("normal course") and the format and content of the additional disclosures, which would need to be materially correct, should be at the discretion of management and the board, in consultation with its largest investors. I would guess that this freedom might lead over time to more disclosure innovations and improved dialogue as new topics can be more freely addressed in the "off cycle" disclosure discussions In conjunction with reducing the "full" mandatory disclosure frequency to 2x per year, including the annual 10K (no change), I suggest the SEC ensure that the disclosure rules regarding 8-K filings be reviewed and clarified/strengthened, as necessary. And companies should be strongly reminded that Regulation FD remains fully in force. The current quarterly and annual reporting requirements are a favorite of many on Wall Street who make their living analyzing the results (like the Motley Fool), but require a significant amount of management attention better placed on operations. My understanding is that most European companies now live with the 2x disclosure minimum. Unless there is compelling evidence that the European capital markets have become unreliable, inefficient, or dsyfunctional, it is not clear to me why the US cannot revise its rules and promote innovation in off period dialogue and engagement with investors.

Paul Kocsis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Kocsis Hello. My name is Paul Kocsis. I am an investor and small business owner/ operator. I strongly disagree with this proposal which would reduce public-company reports to two times per year. As an owner of a small business, I require my accounting team to provide monthly financial reports. Therefore, I don't think it's difficult for the largest companies in the world to provide quarterly financial reports. How are investors supposed to judge company performance if we only see financials twice per year? This limits transparency for every day investors.

Paul Lawrenz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Paul Lawrenz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This prevents individual investors from investing in companies they can trust in.

Sent from my iPhone

Paul Lowman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Lowman I support retaining the current reporting requirements. Regular quarterly updates are a fundamental part of good corporate governance and shareholder accountability. Investors are owners, not bystanders, and timely access to information helps them make informed decisions. Reducing reporting frequency would not remove uncertainty or short-term thinking; it would simply leave investors with less visibility into the companies they own. In practice, fewer official updates could lead to greater speculation, larger surprises, and increased market volatility when information is eventually released. Transparency builds trust. Less transparency rarely benefits shareholders.

Paul M — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul M This is a terrible idea. Less communication between companies and retail ownership is not a positive. Many retail investors rely on quarterly reports to evaluate the progress of a company, particularly from a financial perspective. Less reporting means less transparency and less information investors have to evaluate. Please reconsider this proposal.

Paul M. Filipanics — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Paul M. Filipanics Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think this is outrageous that companies would not be required to provide quarterly insights into their economic activites so that shareholders , stock traders, much less employees and wathdog groups can more easy access to their financial information. This would make it easier for them to hide financial malfeasance and to game the system.

Respectfully,

Paul M. Filipanics
C: 718-650-1234

---

paul mac — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: paul mac Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep up the quarterly reports
Paul MacLardy

Paul Maccabee The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Maccabee Please keep public reporting companies 4 times a year instead of proposed 2 times. Thanks!

Paul MacLachlan Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul MacLachlan I recommend keeping quarterly reports by companies to investors such as myself. When I invest my hard earned money into investments and companies i want access to as much information as possible. quarterly reports help me make decisions on my investments weather to buy or sell in a timely manner. I am against cutting back to twice a year reports. Cost cutting measures proposed are excuses and not good business. Please keep the current policies and rules in place.

Paul Markle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Paul Markle Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the reporting quarterly, why does this administration feel the need to break everything that's not broken?

Sent from my iPhone

Paul Matthews Lawyer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Matthews Changing to twice yearly reporting from four is a terrible move. I invest heavily in US shares and I need to be fully informed as to a company's performance and only twice yearly is a retrograde move. Please do not do this.

Paul Miller — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Paul Miller Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear Members of the Commission,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the Commission's proposed rule amendments that would permit public companies to file semiannual reports on Form 10-S in lieu of traditional quarterly reports on Form 10-Q. While the proposal aims to reduce compliance burdens and prevent executive short-termism, I believe it will severely degrade the integrity and transparency of U.S. capital markets.

I urge the Commission to reject this proposal for the following reasons:

1. Severe Information Asymmetry

Replacing mandatory quarterly reports with semiannual filings will widen the information gap between institutional insiders and the general public. Retail investors heavily rely on the standardized, audited financial disclosures found in Form 10-Qs to make informed buy, sell, or hold decisions. Eliminating these formal disclosures will leave everyday investors guessing between six-month reporting intervals.

2. Weakened Governance and Monitoring

Quarterly filings serve as an essential, recurring checkpoint for monitoring management performance and identifying potential governance or financial risks. Reducing the frequency of these regulated checkpoints provides a larger window for corporate issues or fraudulent practices to go undetected, ultimately harming shareholder value.

3. Reduced Market Efficiency and Volatility

Standardized quarterly data forces a disciplined flow of information that drives market efficiency. Without this consistent cadence, interim information will inevitably become disjointed and speculative. If strong, transparent companies continue to report quarterly while weaker companies opt for semiannual schedules, market penalties could arise, confusing investors and damaging overall market liquidity.

For these reasons, I urge the SEC to maintain the current quarterly reporting framework to ensure a fair, transparent, and informed marketplace for all participants.

Sincerely, Paul Miller

Paul Moore The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Moore I am against reduced reporting by publicly traded businesses. More available information allows me to better analyze businesses of interest via technical and fundamental analysis. I want to know as frequently as possible when to expect earnings misses and exceedances and how they might affect my options trading.

Paul Murray — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Paul Murray Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You buggers now have AI, NOTHING LESS THAN DAILY REPORTS !! Paul Murray retired mechanic Some things are that important to know !!!!

Paul P. Belle Isle — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul P. Belle Isle Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty; it increases it. And when information finally does arrive, surprises are likely to be bigger, reactions sharper, and volatility greater. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient - it just makes everyone less informed.

Paul Parten — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Parten Investment and donation transparency is vital to hold businesses and their leadership accountable and ensure fair trade.

Paul Peterson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Paul Peterson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting.

Sent from my iPhone

Paul Pham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Paul Pham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don't be bringing back Enron-like companies. Quarterly report

---

Paul Pieper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Paul Pieper Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Maintain status quo

---

Paul Purinton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Purinton Please don’t change my ability to view these reports. As a retired in all my income is basically from investments I wish you do not change it from 4 to 2 times a year

---

Paul Ranney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Paul Ranney Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 everyone !

Paul Rhyne Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Rhyne Less information translates to uninformed decisions and when the decisions to be made concern my finances this is not good

---

Paul Schafer Retired teacher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Schafer Transparency in a Democratic Country is crucial even in private businesses.

Paul Schumann — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Paul Schumann Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 DI'm not accepting any less than the maximum disclosure requirements for companies, they do not have the rights of voters or investors. Do. NOT ALLOW REDUCTION OF ANY FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE

Paul Sclafani — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Paul Sclafani Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Donald Trump is ripping this country apart and now you wanna help him tear up the only financial independence people have left, their ability to look at company information every quarter. To stop doing this would be blasphemy. There was already enough insider, trading, and secrecy. Going to semi annual reporting would only exacerbate this problem. Get real, do not change things.

Paul Sounder — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Paul Sounder Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Paul Martin and I'm an underpaid teacher. All my friends and I who rely on the market for retirement funds prefer quarterly reporting and more transparency. The SEC is meant to protect ordinary citizens from market manipulation and to ensure we can take part in the American dream of prosperity and retirement. Thank you for reconsidering this ill founded rule change.

Sent from my iPhone

Paul Stewart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Stewart As a senior citizen whose primary income is from SS, current and updated knowledge of my financial assets is of major importance to me. In this age of transparency, transparency, transparency, lessening open reporting communications would appear to be counter productive.

Paul wafner Motly fool — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul wafner Do not change report schedule

---

Paul Walter A Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Walter Please keep corporate reporting at the quarterly time table. It is important to have timely information for all investors. Public transparency is necessary for all investing and capitalism. Quarterly reports are essential for transparency. Thank you.

Paul Wheeler — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Paul Wheeler Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP THE LEGAL REQUIREMENT OF QUARTERLY REPORTING IN PLACE.

Sent from my iPhone

Paul Wiethorn None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Wiethorn Reports need to remain quarterly. As an individual investor, I rely on quarterly reporting to make informed decisions.

Paul Wilcox — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Wilcox As a shareholder in public companies, this SEC proposal would give investors less visibility into the companies they own. It may reduce the burden of reporting for public companies, but there would likely be an increase in unfounded information into the blogosphere and other news media about company performance that would create greater uncertainty and volatility in the markets. In an age of Fake News, this change to semiannual reporting would only feed that narrative.

Paul Yamilkoski None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paul Yamilkoski Do not think semi snnual reporting fair to stock holders

---

Paul Zachocki — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Paul Zachocki Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Prevent the insiders from raping the common investors!

Sent from my iPhone

Paula A. Cenci None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paula A. Cenci Reducing the number of reports from 4 to 2 allows corporations greater latitude to hide or shield errors and/or omissions. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. Less transparency increases uncertainty. When information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Paula Cirulli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Paula Cirulli Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: let's keep everyone honest and our investments safe. It is a proven fact that quarterly reporting keeps companies honest.

Paula Gallo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Paula Gallo Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Worst idea ever. Not meant to save money but rather keep us in the dark for a very long time where anything could happen. Sounds very underhanded and shady. Not protecting the consumer at all. Hands down no.

Paula Greve — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Paula Greve Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an investor, who depends on my investments to fund my retirement and keep me off Medicaid, I want to feel like i can trust our CEO's in this nation not to break the laws to get themselves richer while I hold all the risk.

Please keep quarterly earnings signature requirements for CEO's!

Paula Greve
6800 Brentwood DR NE
Cedar Rapids, IA 52502
319-373-9390

Sent from my iPhone

Paula Malone — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Paula Malone Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Paula Malone, retired in Grapevine, Texas.

Please don't change the reporting requirements for companies. The quarterly reports are a more accurate picture of their financial health. I'm retired with a small portfolio. Any significant reduction in valuation will put me in bankruptcy.

Paula Marisi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Paula Marisi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need more transparency

Sent from my iPhone

---

paula michael — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: paula michael Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly! This is yet another way to hurt the regular person and help the wealthy class . It is not ok and it should not be allowed!

Paula Teel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Paula Teel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
No, to ending quarterly reporting! All actions must continue to have complete transparency!
Must we remind you, the American constitution says, "we, the American people, rule and have all the power!" All in government take an oath to SERVE UNDER the American ppl, NOT rule over them.

Paulette Jones — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Paulette Jones Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Transparency is key, consider 60 day reporting.

Sent from my T-Mobile 5G Device
Get Outlook for Android

---

paulette meyette — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: paulette meyette Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 If it was up to me, it would be monthly, to be sure they were accountable. But quarterly reporting is the second best option. BUT DEFINITELY QUARTERLY REPORTING IS A MUST . MAKE SURE THAT THEY ARE ACCOUNTABLE !!

Paulette Simmons — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Paulette Simmons Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No, they should continue to report quarterly.Trying to change after it has worked for this long seems a little sketchy.

Paulette, retired

Sent from my iPad

Paulette Woodard — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Paulette Woodard Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Dear sirs,
I have lots of money invested and knowing what is happening to my investments allows me to make changes in a timely manner. It is unfair for me to not be able to protect my investments because they are hidden from me. Please do not allow businesses to hide what is happening to my investments!
Thank you.
Paulette Woodard
paulettekw@gmail.com

Hugs,
Paulette

Pauline Dunn — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pauline Dunn Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The public should continue to have the timely information that's now required. MORE, not less, information is required as everything moves along at warp speed currently and in the future. DO NOT eliminate quarterly reporting!
Pauline Dunn
Sent from my iPhone

Pauline Peplow — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Pauline Peplow Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: so what would be a valud reason to be less transparent in your actions. Something to hide?

Paulo Lopez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Paulo Lopez I strongly believe reducing the number of reports is not beneficial to investors. Investing is ownership. Reducing the reports would weaken our connection with our companies. I'm against this.

Pawan Shukla — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pawan Shukla I do not approve reducing this 'allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two'

Pax — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pax Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I was there when AMF Brunswick coined the term "Golden Parachute" stiffing vendors who put time, materials and labor into contracted goods, only for the e-suite to take the cash and sending us to bankruptcy court begging for our owed money. Of course the court said "that's sad, claim the bad debt on your taxes".

Greater accountability is required, not less.

George Carpenter
(Retired)
Oakland MD 21550

---

pc — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: pc don't agree

PDubs Weir — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: PDubs Weir Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is the handful of tools to keep a company honest. A CEO can pump and dump a stock well within their lockup period before investors realize it's too late. There is no upside in requiring semiannual reporting when quarterly has worked well so long. Weakening reporting obligations only encourages complacency quarter to quarter, dishonestly with pump and dumps, and distrust in the financial system when trust is the core of our financial markets.

I strongly oppose watering down SEC rules on quarterly results.

P Weir

Pearl Spriggs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pearl Spriggs Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 STOP ONLY THINKING OF THE RICH. KARMA WILL GET YOU... KEEP THE REPORTS QUARTERLY

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Pedro Barrera — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pedro Barrera Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting ! Don’t be changing it to every 6 months !

Sent from my iPhone

Pedro Castro Teaching Assistant, Nova SBE — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pedro Castro Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater.

Peg Miesnik — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peg Miesnik Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting is essential to keep the investors informed. Please continue quarterly reporting

---

Peg Paterno — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peg Paterno Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep Corporations out of my life!

Sent from my iPhone

Peg Paterno — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Peg Paterno Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We should have quarterly reporting

Sent from my iPhone

Peg Stephens — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peg Stephens Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retired person, I depend on investments to support myself and a disabled son. I need to know what is happening with my investments more than every six months. I believe cutting back on reporting is neither wise nor advantageous for all involved. We need to see those reports continue quarterly!! M. J STEPHENS

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Peggy Alt — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Peggy Alt Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm new to managing investments thanks to a recent inheritance, but I've been researching how things should be done. It is clear even to a novice like me that this proposed scheme is not good for anyone but those who want to cheat.

Sent from my iPhone

Peggy Bendel The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peggy Bendel As a small investor with a portfolio concentrated in individual stocks, I rely in great part on the quarterly reports from the companies in which I own shares. Please do NOT allow them to report semi-annually! It may be a savings to them - or not (hello, AI!) - but it is a loss to me and millions of others!

Peggy Big Eagle The Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peggy Big Eagle Reducing quarterly reporting to just twice a year would not provide enough timely information to shareholders,

---

Peggy Byrnes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peggy Byrnes Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Margaret Byrnes. I retired from the United States Postal Service, as a Postmaster. I absolutely remember the financial crisis fueled by Enron Accounting! Please do not make it easier for subterfuge. Companies need to be held accountable more than twice a year! Do not send us backward into an abyss of our own making. That's why there is accountability!

Peggy Caldwell — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peggy Caldwell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting. It's vital for investors and will keep companies honest.
Margaret E Caldwell Retired SVP Progress Investment Management

Sent from my iPhone

Peggy Coon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Peggy Coon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Rich executives or millionaire/ billionaires appointed to public office with no experience or concern for anything but making themselves richer is a terrible choice for the American people. So rich guys in your own self interest look at the lesson of Russia and Turkey, eventually the "Supreme Leader" will come for you too. Keeping quarterly filings is the right thing to do.

Peggy Eckert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Peggy Eckert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly report to prevent investors from being ripped off. The CEOs need to be kept honest by their signatures. The history of investors being ripped off should be enough to keep both things as they are.

Sent from my iPhone

Peggy Fletcher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peggy Fletcher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep my quarterly reports coming! Do not jeopardize my confidence in the markets. This will create many opportunities for volatility in the markets, not good!
Just I'm hitting retirement I feel our government is ripping the rug out from me.
Peggy Walsh, Insurance Agency Owner
Granger, IN

Peggy Fletcher, CIC, CMIP

Insurance Broker
Crane Agency, CA License #0B54218
P 314.444.4919 I M 314.471.6256 I PeggyF@craneagency.com I CraneAgency.com
400 Chesterfield Center, Suite 100 Chesterfield, MO 63017
Lead with confidence.
Business Insurance I Employee Benefits I Surety & Fidelity I Personal Insurance

Unless expressly stated, no coverage is bound by this email. This email, including attachments, is for the exclusive use of addressee and may contain proprietary, confidential, or privileged information. If you are not the intended recipient, any use, copying, disclosure, dissemination, or distribution is strictly prohibited. If you are not the intended recipient, please notify the sender immediately by return email and delete this email and destroy all copies

---

Peggy Harris — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Peggy Harris Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Peggy Harris, retired, Oklahoma. Quarterly reporting is absolutely necessary to obtain an accurate status of public companies on the stock exchange where my money is invested. The financial debacle with Enron several years ago demonstrates just why this accountability is required and why the law was changed to quarterly reporting. Many law-abiding Americans lost their entire retirement funds from the Enron debacle, and transparency should always be protected. Do not let history repeat itself with another economic disaster.

Sent from my iPhone

Peggy Haslach — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Peggy Haslach Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to keep CEO's accountable. If they are playing by the rules, they should have no issue about reporting quarterly.

(Notice: This e-mail message and any attachments may contain confidential information and are intended solely for the addressee. If you have received this e-mail in error, please immediately notify us by return e-mail or by telephone at 877-568-7526, and kindly delete this message. Please note that we cannot accept trade orders through email or voicemail. Securities are offered through Registered Representatives of Cambridge Investment Research, Inc. a broker/dealer, Member FINRA/SIPC. Advisory services through Cambridge Investment Research Advisors, Inc., a Registered Investment Advisor. Cambridge and Planning for Good are separate entities. Planning for Good is not a broker-dealer or investment adviser).

Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. (CFP Board) owns the CFP® certification mark, the CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™ certification mark, and the CFP® certification mark (with plaque design) logo in the United States, which it authorizes use of by individuals who successfully complete CFP Board's initial and ongoing certification requirements.

Peggy Hills — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Peggy Hills Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Don’t the greedy grifters ever just get enough and just get tired of being horrible human beings? Just be honest! You might sleep better!

Sent from my iPhone

Peggy Langley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Peggy Langley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please KEEP IT QUARTERLY! We need it to be transparent, to make good decisions. It keeps them honest!

Thank you,
Peggy D Langley

Peggy Lickert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peggy Lickert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 No way should this be less than quarterly. I refuse to pave the way for billionaires to get richer on the backs of everyday investors. It is an invitation for greed to run rampant. Unfortunately, we have an abundance of it already.

Get Outlook for iOS

Peggy Lickert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Peggy Lickert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This idea of not reporting quarterly is irresponsible and not fair TJ investors. No. Yiu may not report less than quarterly.yiu know what is better for the average investor. We are not bowing to the billionaire club. Look where that got us.

Get Outlook for iOS

Peggy Lickert — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Peggy Lickert Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This idea of not reporting quarterly is irresponsible and not fair to investors. No. You may not report less than quarterly. You know what is better for the average investor. We are not bowing to the billionaire club. Look where that got us.

Get Outlook for iOS

Peggy Makovsky — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peggy Makovsky Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Peggy Makovsky, retired. Quarterly reporting is extremely important to those of us who have Investments that we depend on for our income. We need to have this information up to date so that our decisions are relevant.

Peggy Manning — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Peggy Manning Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP our quarterly report coming. Peggy Manning , unemployedand only get widow's benefit to live and maintain everything in my life. I rely on Social Securities to pay bills and get needed items to keep my home clesn and welcoming. We need all of the points for credit that we can get

---

Peggy Maxwell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peggy Maxwell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly. PEGGY MAXWELL Owner Clarity Compliance and Consulting.

Peggy Mccombs — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Peggy Mccombs Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think it should be done monthly, it's all done on computers, so no big deal to do it monthly.

Peggy Nink — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peggy Nink Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Report quarterly to help keep big companies more honest!

Peggy O'Farrell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peggy O'Farrell Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Peggy O’Farrell Retired
Please keep quarterly reporting requirements. There were good reasons why it was initiated years ago, and those reasons still hold true today. At my age, I don’t have time to recover my portfolio, should any change in reporting deeply hurt the market. It’s important to me to keep it as-is.

Sent from my iPhone

Peggy Patrick — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Peggy Patrick Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need More accountability, not Less! Do not let this proposal go through; you know it will lead to all kinds of problems and we, we the people, will get taken advantage of.

Thank you,
Peggy Patrick
Berea, KY40403

Peggy Walsh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Peggy Walsh Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Regular quarterly reporting is essential to keeping consumers safe and building confidence in the market place.

---

peggyberrier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: peggyberrier Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Financial information is to help users & investors make informed decisions. Quarterly information is a minimum reporting time line for reporting.

Sent from my Galaxy

---

peggyberrier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: peggyberrier Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As a retired CPA I know how important it is to have timely information for decisions. Keep reports quarterly.

Sent from my Galaxy

Pei Pei Tan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pei Pei Tan It's really important for DIY, small, individual retail investors to have quarterly earnings reports. Let's not put the common investor in a more disadvantaged state than we currently are. Thank you.

Penelope Bogart — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Penelope Bogart Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a retiree and I want accountability quarterly. I can't afford to be taken advantage of by big corporations. I'm not rich and worked hard for my investments that help me afford to live. Quarterly reporting is a must! Penelope Bogart

Sent from my Verizon, Samsung Galaxy smartphone
Get Outlook for Android

Penelope Stames — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Penelope Stames Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Re: Lowering Corporate reporting from Quarterly to bi-annually. We have an ever increasing level of financial irresponsibility and graft as practiced by the upper echelon in financial dealings. This starts at the top, with the President who has seemingly, made it his mission to bleed America dry. What few accountability rules we actually have are essential to the well being of America. Lowering the level of accountability is foolish at best. The SEC job is to protect the investments of countless Americans. Do not under any circumstances allow corporations to slide by with less transparency. I am a single retired senior female. What little I have to live on is supplemented by my very modest investments. I expect the companies I have invested in to show the utmost financial respect and concern for me and countless other small investors. We are not stupid, we see the uber wealthy become even more obscenely wealthy by controlling both the news cycle and buying and selling in advance of breaking news. We see foolhardy risks being taken with investors money. We, even in mass, have very little control over any of this. You, the SEC are supposed to be the “Guardian Dog”. You are there to mandate transparency at least quarterly. Those who are pushing for lowering the frequency of accountability are after one thing only, the ability to make shady and foolish deals which only end up profiting the wealthiest. Again I say, DO YOUR JOB, DO NOT OPEN THE DOOR TO FURTHER WHEELING AND DEALING! Thank you for your time, and in advance for making a prudent decision for investors. Yours, Penelope Stames. 31 Retired Film Industry Set Decorator. Los Angeles, Ca.

Penelope Stames

Penelope Younger Fletcher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Penelope Younger Fletcher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Penelope Fletcher, Retired. In these uncertain times, I wholeheartedly believe that access to such information should remain quarterly. What individuals choose to do with that information is their business. Knowledge is power and insiders will continue to have access to this information and benefit from it. That is unfair. This reminds me of when we only had access to our credit reports once a year. It was good for no one. Making access to that information readily available has tremendously helped people improve their financial situation and make better financial decisions.

Penne Mobley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Penne Mobley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Cutting the reporting is a very bad idea.

Pennie Holley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pennie Holley I prefer to have my reports at least four times a year as this keeps me better informed and better able to manage my investments. thank you

---

Penny Reddington — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Penny Reddington Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
For the benefit of individual investors please maintain quarterly reporting.

Penny Taylor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Penny Taylor Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 They need to KEEP the quarterly reporting. And, the SEC really needs to verify the truth of the reports.

Penny

Perry Witkin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Perry Witkin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is financial irresponsibility. Every business in the world reviews their financials monthly so that they know how they're doing. Investors have a right to current financial reports , we are the capital source for the companies, just as banks which make them loans, and they require current reporting as well. If they don't want to report, then they should not be allowed to be publicly traded.

Sent from my iPad

---

personal — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: personal Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stacey Anair - VP of Administration. I rely on quarterly information to make decisions. The savings to companies aren't worth the cost to me.

Sent from my iPhone

Pete Bulka — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pete Bulka I think as investors we should be allowed to see more transparency from companies and therefore I DO NOT want to see the number of company reports reduced. Thank you

---

Pete Elkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pete Elkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The current quarterly system works. It's fair, balanced, and in keeping with the values, the standards expected in the USA. Everything I have worked to build, along with millions of others depends on transparency. Don't turn back the clock!

Paulette Elkins
Paralegal/Entertainmet

Pete Power — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pete Power Disclosure is in the best interest of the consumer and is worth the cost of quarterly financial reports. Any move away from disclosure smacks of opportunism and corruption. Don't you know any better than to trust humans yet?

Pete Schmutz — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pete Schmutz Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Why in God's name would you require less information?? Why in god's name would you allow companies to hide financial information for 6 months???? Just. Say. NO.

Tomorrow is never certain. Live now. ☺

Pete Shirley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pete Shirley With Ai the cost and ease of regular reporting should be reducing. As a shareholder regular reports are vital and reducing reporting to twice annually definitely is not acceptable.

Peter — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Less frequent updates are never a good thing. The longer between updates may cause some board member's to become complacent, which in turn creates stagnation. Not to mention owners are left with little insight as to the boards intentions.

Peter Aleksynas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Aleksynas Please do not change the reporting period from 4 times a year to two times a year.

Peter Arsenault — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peter Arsenault Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to keep the quarterly reporting. These checks are necessary to help reduce the huge powers of the oligarchy in our nation. Thank you.

Peter Berry The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Berry What isn't debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Imagine owning a business and getting updates from your managers only twice a year. It would still run every day. You'd just know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn't eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. Right?

Peter Boyce — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Boyce Reducing the number of reports disadvantages the shareholders. The longer reporting gaps increased the potential of decisions negatively affecting shareholders. This is lazy and poor administration

---

Peter Burzynski The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Burzynski Transparency and honesty are the hallmarks of both successful governments and industries. To deprive the public from information about decisions being made in the corporate world by companies that have public shareholders is tantamount to censorship and overreaching autocracy. The proposed legislation that would reduce the number of public-company reports from four to two is an example of that type of lack of transparency. I strongly recommend that our legislators do not pass this legislation. Thank you for your consideration.

Peter Cook The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Cook Dear Sir/Madam I am strongly opposed to reducing the reporting requirements for public companies. Any reduction in transparency is a bad thing and increases my hesitancy to invest. Any revelations from these more infrequent reports is likely to create more volatility in an already unsettled world. The argument that reporting costs are a burden to the company can be easily countered by the use of AI in generating such reports, however, the companies required to report already have the ability and resources to complete the reporting in a satisfactory manner. As an investor I understand the risks in investing, however, my research and reliance on company communication goes some way to minimising that risk and allowing me more confidence to invest. Therefore, please do not proceed with this change. Yours faithfully Peter Cook

---

Peter Cronas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Cronas There is a proposal is now on the table to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. I think that is a huge mistake! At its heart, investing is ownership. When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent, accurate communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

---

peter deacon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: peter deacon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Peter Deacon, retired, Texas. I think the quarterly system of reporting should remain. It gives the investor, like myself a better feel for the companies direction. It also keeps the companies more accountable to investors and regulators. Don't change the system that works.

Peter DesRosier — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter DesRosier Existing quarterly transparency is advantageous for investors. Please serve the investors in retaining existing quarterly reports

---

Peter Donahue — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Donahue I think it is a mistake to reduce the number of public-company reports from four times a year to just two. Information is valuable and must be made public to the stockholders (owners of the company) and the public at large.

Peter Duggan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Peter Duggan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
You must NOT take away quarterly reporting. This will absolutely cripple the average working person who is trying to invest a little on the side with only minimal information.

Peter Ellison Retail Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Ellison Please do NOT reduce the required announcements/disclosures from public companies. Keeping the requirement at quarterly reporting serves the interest of everyday investors who do not have access to advanced research and the ability to dedicate 8-12 hours per day keeping an eye on a particular company's business interactions. The idea that reduce reporting requirements will save money is absurd during a time whereby costs associated with generating written reports and data analysis are falling at an extraordinary rate. If anything, costs remaining flat should generate higher output and more transparency for companies who track their own sales, profits and losses in real time.

Peter Esposito — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peter Esposito Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Harry S Esposito, Retired truck driver. I depend on my investments to survive so allowing companies to keep me in the dark would be an egregious mistake. If you do away with quarterly reporting then it will really hurt everyday people's ability to make sound investment decisions as well as allow more Enron like fraud to destroy investor's portfolios

Sent from my iPhone

Peter F Freund Maharishi International University, retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter F Freund I am strongly opposed to reducing reporting to twice a year. The current four times a year is absolutely essential for governance. Please keep quarterly reporting.

Peter Foldi — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peter Foldi Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep reporting the way it is; quarterly. We have a right to know what's happening in the companies that we are investing in.

Peter Foldi
President
Techbridge Consulting

Sent from my iPhone

PETER GEOFFREY WILSON Individual Investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: PETER GEOFFREY WILSON We need to have public quarterly reporting. Please do not change to 6 monthly.

Peter Grannis — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Peter Grannis Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 It is essential that quarterly reporting rules remain in place. Investors are protected from slow motion fraud by quarterly reporting.

Peter Grannis
Stuart FL 34996

Peter H. Fake — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter H. Fake Corporate reporting 2 times a year may save a couple of bucks, but investors will be ill informed and subject to far greater losses. Quarterly reporting is there for a reason. Do NOT change it.

Peter Hamill The Motley Fool Community. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Hamill These companies do quarterly reports as a matter of common practice. Adequate transparency can't be maintained with information that is only available twice a year. With todays automation quarterly reporting can't be a huge burden compared to semiannually.

Peter Haynes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Haynes Please keep reporting at quarterly intervals.

Peter Hender — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Hender I have recently been made a aware that you are considering to allow companies to elect to reduce the number of public-company reports from 4 times a year to just 2. This cannot be a good idea. At its heart, investing is ownership. When a person owns a piece of a business, they deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners. It is argued that fewer reports would reduce costs. In my experience in business, this has not been the case. We are in an age of AI and increasingly efficient disclosure tools, so even that point is debatable. Others argue it would ease the pressure to manage quarter to quarter. But his is short-termism & in my years of business experience, this comes from how people react to information, not from the information itself. Taking the reports away doesn't make anyone more patient. It just makes everyone less informed. What isn’t debatable is that less information rarely creates better-informed owners. In my business, if I was getting updates from my divisional managers only twice a year, whilst the business would still run every day, I would know far less about how it was doing. That's effectively what's being proposed here. Companies will continue operating every day. Products will be launched. Customers will be won and lost. Strategies will succeed and fail. Yet under this proposal, owners would receive only half as many official updates about the businesses they own. Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. I do not agree with this proposal, it should not be allowed.

Peter Hildner Program Manager Parker Hannifin Corp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Hildner I do not support reducing the current quarterly reporting structure. As a professional project manager experience shows the gathering, repeorting, and presenting this kind of information keeps an organization aligned to deliver results. Timely communication to OWNERS is critical in good and bad times.

Peter Jay Retail investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Jay Reducing mandatory public company reporting and disclosures to twice a year would be a breach of the SEC’s charter to protect investors. Les frequent reporting will result in more frequent problems with the reduced transparency and clarity. I strongly oppose the reduction in corporate reporting.

Peter Kane — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Kane I am not a financial insider. I need and deserve to have access to regular financial reports as I have done in the past. Please do not allow small investors to be treated like this.

Peter Kim — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peter Kim Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yes, it's good to encourage CEO's to think long term but this is not the way. Reducing transparency, especially to the owners is never the answer. How would you like it if a contractor you hired to work on the house kept you in the dark for most of the work?

Thank you,

Peter

Peter Lenz Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Lenz Please don't do this it only hurts the little guy.

Peter Lewko — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Peter Lewko Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please keep quarterly reporting

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Peter Martin None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Martin Reducing the reporting is a major mistake and only benefits those in power and those with the information. It makes the playing field less and less fair for owners of the stocks and opens the door for more manipulation by those in charge. Do NOT make this change.

PETER MILES CLOWES — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: PETER MILES CLOWES Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I don't have a huge nest egg saved for retirement, but I'm hoping what I do have is safe and it can grow. I'm depending on that. Removing the quarterly reporting mandate seriously jeopardizes my investments. If we had no speed limits most people would drive safely but a large number would drive at dangerous speeds. The same is true for corporations and quarterly reporting. It would allow a larger window for risk taking when business isn't doing well compounding potential losses. We can not trust executives and corporations to be honest. If corporations don't want to report quarterly they can go private.

Peter Clowes
Systems Admin

Peter Nichols — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Peter Nichols Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I'm a small investor and I use Quarterly statements to be informed when discussing options with my financial planner.

Sent from my iPhone

Peter O'Carroll/ Ampere Advisers Management Consultant - Charted Member of CISI & Valuation Agent — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter O'Carroll/ Ampere Advisers This is a totally ridiculous and backward step which will, if effected, ultimately lead to more future corporate failures and scandals

---

Peter Rubino Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Rubino We need to continue with the current transparency we have into company reporting as is, quarterly. This is a huge advantage for individual investors to stay informed of what is going on with the companies have invested in. Not everyone has access to research groups to dig out information to stay current. Quarterly reporting is essential to keep individual investors on a level playing field with bigger institutions.

Peter Spaulding Retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Spaulding The demand for accurate information and access to it is greater than ever. I understand the intent of reducing the volumes of data outputs that were valid for a 20th century product demand; however, cutting the output without replacing it first with a better product has never been a wise solution. There is momentum in favor of replacing the archaic processes in use now. I ask you to use that momentum as a means to rethink corporate data reporting and projections. Test that new format until it has sufficiently matured and is accepted and then consider changing the current system. Until that happens, I am against this proposal to change to semi-annual reporting.

Peter Stepaniuk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Peter Stepaniuk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need to keep the quarterly reports to keep companies honest so they cannot hide their financial records from their stakeholders and the public.

Peter Stepaniuk

Sent from my iPad

Peter Theodore Jr. — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Theodore Jr. Please do not deny us regular and transparent insight into the businesses that we invest our hardhearned money in!

Peter Tobin LTC US ARMY, CPA, CFE, CGMA [RETIRED] — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Tobin The thought of eliminating quarterly financial reporting to investors is ludicrous. Transparency and frequency of operationally activity and thus the results of management's decisions are paramount in the independent analysis and oversight of the investment process! Management needs that data to properly run the business, investors require that same timely information as 'partners in that business'!

Peter Wenzel CEO of General Data Company, Inc. AVID private investor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Wenzel I HIGHLY support moving to Semi-Annual Reporting. Investors are protected by requirement that firms still must disclose significant events. I run a $100MM private company. It is insane that SEC requires reporting every 90 days. This encourages BAD Behavior of management by forcing short term thinking. One can't even complete one quarter and then having staff already working on next! THE ADDITIONAL COSTS are outrageous and unnecessary! The additional fees charged by lawyers, accountants, printers, paper waste, postage, etc..are endless. Give that money back to SHAREHOLDERS! Investors are very astute these days and are equipped with modern tools such as internet, AI, analysts, and national media who provide great insight. Gone are necessary 90 day reporting requirements. I personally know of two former small public companies which no loger exist due to additional regulations post Sarbane-Oxley. One went private and other sold, both owners told me the company could no longer afford regulatory costs. PLEASE REDUCE REGULATIONS as promised by the new administration. Rule S7-2026-15 is PRIME Example of ingrained, unnecessary regulation which is ENTRENCHED by VESTED interests, which the costs now far outweigh any benefits which once existed. PLEASE REVISE this rule and save SHAREHOLDERS MILLIONS of dollars per year. Thank-You

---

Peter Weston — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Peter Weston Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The 4 quarters reporting hopefully keeps their organisations honest. CEO's have to sign them, that in itself, a major safety move to protect their investors. Do not make fraud easier for them.

Peter F. Weston
WESTMAT LLC.
****
This electronic mail message and any attached files contain information intended for the exclusive use of the individual or entity to whom it is addressed. This message and any attached files may contain information that is proprietary, privileged, confidential and/or exempt from disclosure under applicable law. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any viewing, copying, disclosure or distribution of this information may be subject to legal restriction or sanction. Please notify the sender, by electronic mail or telephone, of any unintended recipients and delete the original message and attached files without making any copies.

****

Peter Zapalo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Peter Zapalo As an individual investor, I am strongly opposed to the proposal to allow companies to reduce their public reporting from quarterly to semiannually. Investing is inherently about business ownership, and as owners, we have a right to regular, transparent communication. In an era where AI and modern digital tools make data dissemination faster and cheaper than ever, scaling back updates is a step backward that only serves to keep investors in the dark. Reducing the frequency of these reports will not eliminate short-term thinking; it will simply increase market uncertainty, leading to larger surprises and greater volatility when information is finally released. I urge the SEC to maintain the current quarterly reporting standards to protect the transparency that individual investors rely on.

Petrina Harper — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Petrina Harper Please keep company reporting at quarterly, thank you.

Petros — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Petros I strongly disagree with this recommendation. How would less information allow me to make better-informed trades? I cannot see how this could in any way empower or benefit individual investors. I urge you to reconsider. Thank you for your time

---

Phil Domm — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Phil Domm Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the quarterly reporting, there is no reason for us to go backwards.

Phil Owen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Phil Owen Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Don't favor rich elite people. The country is going down the path of oligarchy already. Don't let your legacy be on the wrong side of history.

Phil Ruder Sr. Director at Oracle Corporation — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Phil Ruder We need more transparency with corporations, not less. This will lead to less informed decisions by investors, I am against this proposal.

Phil Sylvester — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Phil Sylvester Shareholders need audited results more than twice a year.

Phil Thrasher — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Phil Thrasher Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep it Quarterly.

Get Outlook for Android

---

philaswan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: philaswan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 At a time when money “goes missing”, and is misappropriated , and frequently misused, we need more transparency and accountability, not less. Quarterly reporting is essential.

Sent from my iPhone

Philip Banker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Philip Banker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Un-acceptable. These people need more transparency not less.

Philip Barger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Philip Barger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 History illustrates why we need quarterly SEC reporting

Given to their own businesses will cheat whenever they can, and this reporting was implemented because of abuse we do not need to go backwards because of who is in the White House

Performance Packaging Solutions LLC

* this email has been sent from a mobile device, I apologize for any spelling or grammatical errors.*

Philip Billings — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Philip Billings Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I oppose the proposed rule to revert to semi-annual reporting. As a retired mechanical engineer I rely on quarterly reporting to know how my investments are doing. At risk are not just my personal needs, but the philanthropic institutions I support. The increased trend towards deregulation and lack of transparency will favor a select group of people instead of providing greater opportunity for all. Please keep quarterly reporting!!

Philip Billings
Retired mechanical engineer

Philip G Velez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Philip G Velez Do NOT reduce the reporting frequency. As owners of publicly held companies we deserve the right to know what is going on financially with our companies on a frequent basis. Reducing the reporting frequency may allow for more financial engineering. I say NO to reduced reporting frequency.

Philip Herrin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Philip Herrin Hello, I think this is a bad idea. Less information rarely creates better-informed owners. Please keep quarterly reports coming. Sincerely, Philip Herrin

---

Philip Kenney — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Philip Kenney I wold like to voice my opposition to reducing the current reporting requirements. I think maintaining a consistent standard for all public companies aids the retail investor when deciding how to deploy new funds, as we often do not have personal relationships with the executives that many large investment companies typically have. Additionally one of the reason cited is that there is duplicative info in the expanded 8K forms, and I would argue that this simplifies the production of the 10Q, more than the extra cost associated with reporting it twice, since the data is already prepared.

Philip Kerr healthcare professional — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Philip Kerr Investors of publicly traded companies are the owners of those companies. As such, we deserve regular updates from management on the financial status of the companies we own. Receiving these updates just 4 times per year is not too much to ask. Please keep the updates scheduled quarterly. Thank you.

Philip Koshkin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Philip Koshkin More information and transparency, not less! As an investor/equity owner, I want to know what the companies I invest in are doing with my money!

Philip L Benson Member. - fool . com — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Philip L Benson Less is not more!

Philip L Bergstresser The Motley Fool community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Philip L Bergstresser As the share owner of the companies I invest in, I need more transparency , not less. The more information I have about the financial stability of my companies, the better informed I am of those investments. These are PUBLIC companies owned by the PUBLIC and we deserve to have forthright information and current data in order to know what our board of directors are doing to improve our bottom line , not for their pleasure, but at the shareholder's pleasure. Their fiduciary duty to our ownership is paramount in our determination of their stewardship of our investments, no matter how small. Therefore please do not back down from the quarterly report cycle. It is extremely crucial to our understanding of the company's direction.

Philip Mayer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Philip Mayer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly!!!

Get Outlook for Android

Philip Parker — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: Philip Parker Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Philip Parker, Tran Lead Workplace Planning and Advice. Please do not allow disclosures to be rolled back from quarterly. We need quarterly reporting badly. It allows the little guys to not be outdone by the insiders.

Sent from my iPhone

Philip Patterson-Sims — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Philip Patterson-Sims Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This has worked! Keep the quarterly reports active, and available for accountability! Today more then ever we need to be able to trust the corps and the government.

Thank you,

Philip Patterson-Sims

Portland OR 97230

Confidentiality Notice: The information in this e-mail is for the intended recipient and should not be read by or distributed to anyone else. If you are not the intended recipient, please notify me via return e-mail, delete this e-mail and destroy any hard copies.

---

philip randolph — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: philip randolph Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Plain and simple.

Nothing broken. Needs no fixing. DO NOT CHANGE! Do not screw the public. The public is fed up, angry, watching elected AND appointed officials.....
Bureaucrats. Demanding, keep your hands off!

Philip Roberts — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Philip Roberts Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change the Quarterly Reporting requirement. It is dangerous to reduce corporate transparency. I am in my retirement years and would be destroyed if they went back to playing the games they use to play. There should be even more regulation when they risk stockholders savings and retirements.

Sent from AT&T Yahoo Mail on Android

Philip Slama — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Philip Slama Please leave the reporting cadence as a quarterly instead of bi-annual event. It provides needed insight into these companies and gives important data points for individuals and other organizations to make more informed decisions.

Philip Welton — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Philip Welton As with many other things going on via this administration, this is going in the wrong direction, satisfying corporations and the rich vs. the "People".

Philippe Benitez The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Philippe Benitez I rely on the quarterly reports to make investment decisions. If the rule passes, I will be less likely to invest in companies that only report twice a year because this makes the business more opaque. it will also make me more suspicious about why they chose less transparency to their shareholders. this will ultimately reduce trust.

Philippe Verheyen MSCE, ISC2 CC, retired — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Philippe Verheyen I have been actively investing in the Stock Markets for over 50 years. I think changing the reporting cycle from 4 times a year to 2 times a year is an awful idea, and will directly and negatively affect my ability to make sound, constructive investment decisions. This change may benefit public companies but not the small investor. I am against this change. Thank you.

Phillip Jones Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Phillip Jones Hi - As a retail investor, I rely heavily on regular financial reporting by companies to inform my investment decisions. Decreasing the reporting requirements will, I believe, place me at a disadvantage and reduce my confidence in my investments. Please do not institute this proposed action. Thanks - Phillip Jones

---

Phillip Mackintosh — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Phillip Mackintosh As an investor I recognize I am a small fish in a big pond. I am not a millionaire. I am not famous or powerful with connections that allow me to be "in the loop". Quarterly reporting is how I get most of my information. Allowing companies to cut that in half is a disservice to the vast majority of investors that are just like me. I urge the SEC to maintain our current requirements.

Phillip Slaten — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Phillip Slaten Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Please maintain quarterly reporting for all public companies.

PHILLIP SPARKS MOTLEY FOOL COMMUNITY — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: PHILLIP SPARKS Please do not relax the quarterly reporting regulation.

Phoenix Knapp — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Phoenix Knapp Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The Uber wealthy should not only be forced to keep quarterly reporting, I think they should be forced to make monthly reporting. Oligarchs have ruined the working class, and the country.

Phuong Ke — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Phuong Ke Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Since this is confusing.. .BUT WHY??? Does this mean company financial information will take longer for the Public to See... Effectively delaying attempts to stay UPDATED, since technology is advancing so quickly???
So, If someone STOLE all the MONEY, they could leave the country and move and hide the goods.. .and leave a Cold trail...when it's actually a HOT MESS with a deadly Trail to a HIDDEN TREASURE HUNT...that's not hide-able?? Because in that case...LETS try it out and then SiT Back and Watch the ACTION and SCRAMBLING begin...

Phyllis A. Bara — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Phyllis A. Bara Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Arlene
Retired
I need my investment money that I worked for all my life. Please protect it

Sent from my iPhone

Phyllis Bross — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Phyllis Bross Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
Keep quarter reporting so issues, problems before they become a big problem are seen.

Phyllis Hawkins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Phyllis Hawkins Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Big NO stop rigging the system!!!

Sent from my iPhone

Phyllis Logan — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Phyllis Logan Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 People rely on knowing how money is used. We are tired of this political administration, namely the presdient of America, trying all ways to attach money from companies and individuals to his portfolios. American people are the ones making this money.

Phyllis Netzer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Phyllis Netzer Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 There is no sense in rearranged the entire systems. My trusting opinion istat yu has figured an easy way to cheat, since there is less time to study these reports. Gies SEC more opportunity to cheat citizens. This is why we cant trust. Especially this adinistration.

Phyllis Orr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Phyllis Orr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Absolutely necessary to keep the quarterly reports. Please vote for the quarterly reports.

Phyllis Segura — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Phyllis Segura Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep quarterly reports

Sent from my iPhone

Pi Squared — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pi Squared Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Another way to keep we small investors in the dark while the big holders screw us in the meanwhile… BAD IDEA for me.

fils iFone

Pia meyer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pia meyer We have a right to 4 time a year fair disclosure.

Pickfarm — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Pickfarm Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Kevin pickar, retired fire chief and grand father. Keep the quarterly reporting to ensure no more enrollment, i know a broker who lost all their pension funds due to fraud. The gov did nothing and now he gets an annual check for 0 dollars, no money disburse, but a check from the fund for 0 $. Keep the reporting!!

Pierre Catala — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pierre Catala How can less information possibly create better-informed owners? !!! Less transparency augments uncertainty and surprises. This isn't helping shareholders make the right decisions. Please keep the reports requirement at four times a year. Thank you

---

Pierre Dionne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Pierre Dionne Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission: Please do not eliminate quarterly reporting of publicly traded stocks. We need more rather than less transparency.

Pinky Murphy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pinky Murphy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I am so tired of this administration taking away our rights to know what is happening, not only with our government, but now you want to take away my right to be sufficiently and timely informed about our investments, and what is happening in the SEC less than on a quarterly basis with our financial decisions. Transparency is what keeps us (and my clients) informed, and how future decisions are made. If you think I'm the only one that feels this way wait till November.
Karen Murphy ,
Real Estate Agent
Berkshire Hathaway Home Services

Pinky Murphy — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Pinky Murphy Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The CEO certification rule has sent dozens of executives to prison for fraud. The SEC is now proposing to require it half as often?? That's two fewer times a year a CEO has to stake their freedom on the truth.
VOTE NO!!

Pinky Murphy

Pinky Murphy

Berkshire Hathaway HomeServices
New England Properties

Pip The Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Pip Delaying the publication of important information will not enhance or in any way improve either the decision making ability or confidence of investors. It will have the opposite effect. This same observation can be applied to many other scenarios. Taking an extreme case, would the U.K. public be ‘well informed’ if there were only monthly updates during the covid-19 pandemic? It belies common sense that this approach could improve anything other than some minor administrative overhead for the organisations involved.

---

pj P — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: pj P Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the CEO's honest. Make them report quarterly. This matters.

Pat Pearson, RN

PJ Pape — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: PJ Pape Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports must absolutely be required. It is the responsibility of the board to keep their investors informed in a timely manner.

They will be keeping the quarterly data in any event because quarterly earnings is directly tied to executive compensation .

Eliminating quarterly reporting will facilitate cooking the books by providing ample opportunity to hide or delay dispersing data to investors.

Patricia J Pape
Flagler Beach, FL

Get Outlook for iOS

PJC — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: PJC Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 You're turning this agency into a communist , information access denied, country. This is not American neither are the 2nd ladies of the present administration. Communism and other terms are on over-generalization when the public citizens of this country are being left in life or death situations from a blackout of information.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

PK Dailey — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: PK Dailey Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 R.N. ....Crime is rampant ...Keep it QUARTERLY !!!!UMUM

PKR Investments LLC — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: PKR Investments LLC Reducing the reporting requirements for public companies is a very bad idea . Many thinly traded public companies are already guilty of not disclosing enough information quarterly to their investors to make informed decisions . I have run and served on the board of several private companies and have access to monthly financial statements which often don't show the full financial picture of a company . Providing financial reports only twice a year would keep investors in the dark for 6 months as to the condition of the underlying business . I would be disinclined to invest in any company that shared so little financial information . The small savings a company might gain would be inconsequential compared to the difficulty it would have in raising debt or equity with such little transparency .

Platinum Computer Products CEO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Platinum Computer Products I believe that changing the reporting requirements from quarterly to semiannual would result in less transparency and visibility into a company’s true financials and make it much more difficult for retail investors to make informed decisions about their investments.

---

plrclinch — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: plrclinch Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Keep the CEOs reporting quarterly with their signatures on these reports! We already have too much corruption with the current government and with billionaire greed!!

Sent from my Galaxy

---

pmcwooly — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: pmcwooly Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To Whom to May Concern,

As an investor with my retirement at stake, I submit to the SEC to continue to demand companies require the quarterly audit report. It's important that publicly traded companies maintain the highest ethical standards and have open book policies when afforded the luxury of benefiting from the investment of other people's money.
Unethical people do unethical things when afforded the opportunity. Don't give it to them.

Very sincerely,

Patricia Woolever
Laguna Niguel, CA

---

pointcanne — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: pointcanne Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 We need accountability, not encouragement to continue cooking the books. Keep the reporting quarterly, signed personally by the CEO's

Cynthia Point

Sent from my Galaxy

Polly James Director of Risk Management — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Polly James I believe that quarterly disclosures not only protect the investor, but also provide more internal rigor around addressing risks before something gets out of hand and more difficult to address.

Polly McCracken — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Polly McCracken Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 The SEC needs to continue quarterly reporting to maintain transparency for investors.

Prentice Crawford — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Prentice Crawford A lot can happen in three months, frankly large publicly traded companies should report monthly. Allowing a half year go by, as fast as today's world moves is ludicrous. You are not solving any problems with this change but you certainly are giving these companies opportunities and time to rip off investors while keeping them in the dark. ~P. C. Crawford Retired

---

Presley Rodecap — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Presley Rodecap Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Hi. My name is Presley, and I'm an independent musician as well as a young investor. Removing transparency from our financial system is a massive hindrance to investors like myself - how are we supposed to make sound investment decisions without proper disclosure? Many like myself will pull their money out of the market if we end quarterly disclosure. It is incredibly unjust to end quarterly reporting and smells suspiciously corrupt. Do not disappoint the American people with this incredibly short sighted decision.

Presley Rodecap, Open World Audio

Preston Kirk — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: Preston Kirk Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 PLEASE do not lower the bar --sentencing terms --for energy company CEOs who knowingly hide the TRUE performance results of their company or collude with auditors to "spin" the results of quarterly financials. In my career as a reporter and investigative journalists, first for United Presss Int'l in Houston, then as Founding Editor of Houston Business Journal, Texas Business Magazine and Dollar Dynamics, and later as a PR/Mktg./Investor Relations consultant to SIXTEEN energy firms, primarily oil and gas giants and service firms like Mallard Well Services and Crutcher Resources (automatic pipeline welder...N. Sea, Alaska Pipeline) the outside firm for which I worked pushed hard for veracity and accountability. MORE surprise or outside audits should be required to confirm accuracy, to root out distortion, discrepancy and devious accounting. I remember the Enron fiasco well with thousands of shareholders left holding NOTHING, with their own reputations at lower and mid-level positions besmirched by the crooks at the top. I dined with the author of one of the Enron books who was almost disbelieving of what he learned and wrote about and how long it had gone on. DO YOUR DUE DILIGENCE JOB, SEC! It's time the common employee, shareholders, and public were protected. The C-suites of America are largely overpaid, rewarded for subordinates' achievements and mere market swings and are already SO AMAZINGLY WEALTHY as to their contribution to company success that they should be ashamed. YES, some truly guide their firms to astounding success, but as the saying goes, "TRUST, BUT VERIFY." That is YOUR RESPONSIBILITY, not making the undeserved reward worth the proposed minimized risk.
I'm 81 and remember when the Dow was around 650 and now the DJIA is around 51k ! -- Preston F. Kirk, APR (ret.), Waco TX

Preston Stell — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Preston Stell I prefer more transparency from companies in order that I may make better decisions. I prefer publicly traded companies report regularly to the public. That they are expected to report to us quarterly seems good accountability for these excellently run companies. Again less transparency is not a recipe for successful and trustworthy businesses. I think it is a mistake to ask public companies for less. Thank you for your time. Preston

---

PRF — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: PRF Please keep quarterly reports quarterly! As an informed investor, I expect and rely on high transparency of regular corporate information, not less. I do not support the proposal to reduce the requirement of quarterly corporate reports to only semiannual. Thank you.

Priscilla Klaas — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Priscilla Klaas Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reports allow accountability and transparency in a timely manner. Please don't allow extensions of reporting time.

Sent from my iPhone

Priscilla Peralta Morrison — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Priscilla Peralta Morrison Na

---

Private Investors CPA CFO — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Private Investors As a CPA and CFO of several companies MONTHLY reporting of Balance Sheets , Income Statements and Cash Flow is the norm for all medium to large size. As the monthly reports will surely continue to be provided to management, changing the Government reporting from QUARTERLY and going to SEMI-ANNUALLY would be giving less information to investors and certainly very unfair to the public. Thank you Patrick McGinnis

---

Pug Fud — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Pug Fud Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
I love you

---

quilt woman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: quilt woman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 I think this is a terrible idea! If anything, the rules should be tightened, or loosened! I want my financial person to report frequently to me so that I know where I stand financially.

Sent from my iPad

Quinn Bartlett — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Quinn Bartlett We need more transparency, not less. Keep reporting as it is, or increase the amount of reporting, not decrease.

Quintin Larson — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Quintin Larson Quarterly reporting should be continued for accuracy and transparency.

Quintin Roohr — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Quintin Roohr Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Corporations must continue to provide quarterly reports to their investors !

R — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: R Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 STOP RIPPING UP THE RULES THAT MADE AMERICA GREAT.
Every major co dies quarterly accounting ANYWAY to keep from wasting billions.

R Bartley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: R Bartley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Do not change the law.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

R Cacoilo — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: R Cacoilo When you own a piece of a business, you deserve regular, transparent communication from that business. Reducing reporting requirements weakens the connection between companies and their owners.

R gregg CEO rig development — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: R gregg I do not support the move to reduce company reporting from quarterly. I suspect it will create greater volatility

---

R Hayes — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: R Hayes Twice a year? How can any company track KRAs, profit or loss with 6 monthly reviews? Four reports should be the minimum.

R Kalyanaraman Motley fool community. — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: R Kalyanaraman I don’t support the proposal

---

R Martin — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: R Martin Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Vote no to this. We need to know.

Sent from my iPhone

R Michael Farnham — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: R Michael Farnham Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is an invitation to fraud and theft by the financial industry. Quarterly reporting allows for correction on a timely basis.

Michael Farnham
(651) 271-1205
Sent from my iPad

R Reed — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: R Reed Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Stop aiding corruption. Opacity is not conducive to good governance, ethical standards, or accountability. Open the books.

Sent from my iPad

R S None — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: R S I am a small investor by comparison to more sophisticated wealthier connected investors. My access to info on companies I have stock ownership is very limited. This regulation would further reduce my access to important company info that control persons and wealthier persons have access to. How does this promote company transparency and level playing fields for investors of all financial levels?

R Wu — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: R Wu Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 As an investor, it is important for me to receive and review quarterly reports to see how my investment is trending and any important events that might affect the investment. We are paying management and other fees that should be used to continue following this requirement. This keeps transparency and accountability for publicly traded companies and securities. Changing this rule does not benefit anyone except people who do not wish to be so accountable and transparent.
Please do not change the frequency on reporting.

Thank you,
Rosalie Wu

Retired

R. Hale Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: R. Hale In today's fast paced and ever changing business environment, having more current and up to date information about publicly traded companies is more important than ever, What with the advent of AI, improved accounting tools, and streamlined reporting methods, no real additional burden is being placed on the reporting companies by keeping quarterly reporting. Moving to twice annually would seriously impair stock holders from getting current financial data and would actually harm the overall stock market.

R. L. Hugins — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: R. L. Hugins The proposal to cut corporate financial reporting from quarterly to semi-annually is wrongheaded. Stockholders deserve as much information as possible. And shouldn’t AI make this even easier for firms in coming years? Its stock performance (and vocal supporters) certainly suggests this will be the case. The Motley Fool Community also holds my opinion as well, if that adds some extra weight here.

R. Mark Laursen, Citizen — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: R. Mark Laursen, I am not in favor the change to semiannual reporting rules. In these times with such market volatility and my as well as others. Lack of confidence in some of our leaders and their history of not being transparent and the likelihood that there actions are self-serving at best and intentionally misleading or not true, at worst.

R. Nieri — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 From: R. Nieri Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting by top executives is the least that they should be required to do to assure the public that these corporations are operating legitimately. We all know that the current federal government is unlikely to enforce this law, but a future administration may. Having these statements on record will be essential to those investigations.

Get Outlook for iOS

R. Oleksuk sole proprietor — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: R. Oleksuk Do NOT allow this to move forward! This proposal is a ridiculous one. Would you want your employees that report to you to only report in twice a year?! This is ludicrous, and simultaneously a waste of the public's time and against public interests.

R. Shaun Anderson — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: R. Shaun Anderson Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Yes there is a cost to publish quarterly, but investors need timely information. Russell Anderson, university Instructor/ professor.

R.T. Eckenrode Design — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: Comment on S7-2026-15 From: R.T. Eckenrode Design Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Robert Eckenrode 3rd. President RTEckenrode Design llc . Quarterly earnings reporting benefits all those involved and keeps the markets and business accountable to their share holders.

"See it before you build it. "

R.T. ECKENRODE DESIGN LLC
Seven Wildcat Road
Newtown, Connecticut 06470
(203) 270-9779
rtedesign@gmail.com

RA Reed — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: RA Reed Please reject the semi-annual reporting rule. As a private investor I should have the right to know quarterly how the companies I invest my money in are doing.

Rachel — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Rachel Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Quarterly reporting must remain. There are too many examples of companies bending and breaking rules to keep information from investors because the business is failing. Without quarterly updates businesses can go too long with issues before the issues are identified, which is a high risk. Do not change the law.

Rachel Aumack

Rachel B — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Rachel B Hello, We need to maintain quarterly reporting/ transparency. Investors should not have to be reduced to twice yearly reporting to understand our companies' health.

Rachel Brownlow Lund — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Rachel Brownlow Lund I'm writing to express concern about the proposal to allow public companies to reduce reporting from quarterly to semiannual. As an individual investor, I view investing as ownership. Regular, consistent disclosure is one of the primary ways companies communicate with their owners. Reducing that cadence would weaken transparency and make it harder for investors to stay informed about the businesses they own.

While some suggest this change could reduce costs or discourage short-term thinking, those benefits are uncertain. What is clear is that less frequent reporting means less visibility into company performance. Businesses continue operating every day, and meaningful developments don’t pause between reporting periods. Receiving fewer updates simply increases the likelihood of larger surprises and sharper market reactions when information is finally released. In my view, reducing the flow of information does not improve long-term thinking — it just leaves investors with less to work with. Maintaining regular quarterly reporting better supports transparency, accountability, and informed decision-making. Thank you for considering my perspective.

Rachel Gonzalez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Rachel Gonzalez It’s important to keep investors updated to make wise financial decisions based on most up to date information. I am strongly in favor of keeping reporting requirements quarterly. Twice annually is not going to be effective when transactions and data are measured in literal seconds with the technology and accessibility we have today at our disposal. This will help keep the American economy as the #1 strongest and best in the world.

Rachel Gordon — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Rachel Gordon Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Rachel Gordon, Supermarket Cashier, I think this is just a way for horrible people to make billions off of CHEATING the GAME. This is because MAGA are EVIL, and, if this is passed then we know there is nothing US Citizens can do about it or anything else. We are just along for the ride.

Rachel Gruber — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Rachel Gruber Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Rachel Gruber and I am an Intervention Specialist. I've had stocks and bonds ever since I was a little girl because that's what my grandma always bought me for my birthday. The quarterly reporting is very necessary for transparency. Investors need information to decide how and where to put their money, and having a 6 month "blackout" period if you will, gives companies an opportunity to something shady that could be misleading (or even fraudulent) with investor's in the dark. This is my money, my future retirement, and it's absolutely wrong to switch to 6 month reporting. Please do the right thing and keep quarterly reporting.

Rachel Murphree — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Rachel Murphree Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 My name is Rachel Murphree. I am a librarian. This is just one more way that rich people can get richer at the expense of the regular people I think if it has been a standard procedure for 5 decades it should continue I am against changing their reporting to every 6 months. Where is the rationale behind this? My assumption is that there is no rationale other than letting the rich get richer at our expense

Get Outlook for Android

Rachel Ramirez — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: My view on Rule S7-2026-15 From: Rachel Ramirez Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 To the Securities and Exchange Commission:
What jobs are being lost behind this move?? To even think that the SEC would consider this is knowing that the more information the "parent company" is withholding is more important than ever. Just like it is to invest. Shedding light in what could be as well as mixing up the history of what has been. Hence putting the lights out on the information needed to make an informed decision. I know that what is wrong will win because that is the direction the world is going into. By no means should quarterly reporting be implemented.

Rachel Weakley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Rachel Weakley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This is Rachel Weakley and I do not approve of cutting the information we are currently receiving. We MUST know what is going on in a timely manner!

Sent from my iPhone

Rachel Wood — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: Rachel Wood Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP IT QUARTERLY! IF ANYTHING, CHANGE IT TO MONTHLY. WE NEED TO BE CURRENT, NOT HALF A YEAR BEHIND. THINGS ARE CHANGING, SPEEDING UP. AS A SENIOR, RETIRED, I NEED SOME ASSURANCE BASED ON REAL FACTS AND NUMBERS, THAT MY ASSETS ARE WELL TENDED AND WILL CONTINUE TO BE IN GOOD SHAPE. RACHEL WOOD, RETIRED TEACHER AND SCHOOL HEAD, CURRENT PARENT AND GRANDPARENT

Rachel-Anne Younger — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Rachel-Anne Younger Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Shareholders must not be stripped of their right to see what’s theirs.I have to report quarterly for my parent’s one home health aide, and companies investing other people’s money don’t? I don’t think so.

Sent from Proton Mail for iOS.

Rachelle Lappinen Educator - MWCC — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Rachelle Lappinen Less transparency doesn’t eliminate uncertainty. It increases it. And when information finally does arrive, the surprises are likely to be bigger, the reactions sharper, and the volatility greater. I am against this change.

Rachelle Nash — Jun 23, 2026

Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Rachelle Nash Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 NO

NO

AND F… NO

Rae Lynn Boyer — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Rae Lynn Boyer They steal enough from working Americans already. Keep them under watch. They've proven they are not to be trusted.

Rae Lynn Skelley — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Rae Lynn Skelley Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 KEEP QUARTERLY REPORTING! Having spent many years working in the financial industry, I believe that less reporting equates to less transparency, honesty, and accountability! Signed: Rae Lynn Skelley Retired Series 7 and 63 Registered Rep.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

Rae Zimmerman — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comment From: Rae Zimmerman Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 This does nothing for the average investor. It's just a way for billionaires to become trillionaires...faster! And to expand the wealth gap (power and control) over those with lesser income.

Rafael Vargas Motley Fool Community — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Rafael Vargas This is unacceptable. Do not place a veil over company information from its investors. It’s our money in the company and we have a right to know what’s going on.

Rafal Styczynski — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: File No. S7-2026-15 From: Rafal Styczynski I find the proposal extremely ill-advised. Less information presented to the shareholders would create more random market rather than more efficient one. All that facing the ascent of AI tools that make reporting easier and cheaper.

---

rafalli — Jun 23, 2026
Subject: S7-2026-15 Comments From: rafalli Affiliation: Jun. 23, 2026 Bad move for investors. Julie Rafalli, retired accountant/manager, business analyst, DuPont/Chemours

Sent from my Galaxy

Rafee Jajou — Jun 23, 2026
